M'EWEN AND FARRELL FAIL TO SECURE REVERSAL OF THE MUNICIPAL ELECTION RESULT

COMMISSION WILL REMAIN UNCHANGED

Supreme Court Upholds the Decisions of the Lower Court.

Two Justices Dissent in the Farrell-Hicken-Murchison Case.

Newly Adopted Preferential System of Voting Is Upheld.

DECISIONS IN A NUTSHELL.

Mayoralty Contest.

Inspectors' count in contest proceedings resulted as follows: Prince, 3,050; McEwen, 3,047. Prince's lead, three votes.

District Judge Cant, after considering disputed ballots found the count to be: Prince, 3,149; McEwen, 3,141. Prince's lead, eight votes.

Attorneys for Prince, O. J. Larson and Neil E. Beaton. For McEwen, Warner Whipple and Walter F. Dacey.

Commissioners' Contest.

Inspectors' count in contest proceedings in which 436 ballots were held out and referred to the court: Hicken, 2,880; Murchison, 2,886; Farrell, 2,826.

Judge Cant, after considering disputed ballots, rejected all but ten, and found count to stand: Hicken, 2,888; Murchison, 2,888; Farrell, 2,831.

Judgment of trial court sustained on appeal.

Judicial interpretation of what is regular and what is not regular in the marking and canvassing of ballots cast under the "preferential" system of voting is furnished by the Minnesota supreme court in decisions which were handed down today in the McEwen-Prince mayoralty and Hicken-Murchison-Farrell commissionership election contests.

In both contests, appeals taken to the supreme court by defeated candidates at the April, 1913 election were lost. The supreme court sustains the position taken by the trial court which found after a recount of the votes that 3,149 had been cast for William I. Prince and 3,141 for William E. McEwen. Mr. Prince, having received the highest number of votes, was declared elected. There were ten candidates for mayor in the race.

Mr. McEwen made a motion for a new trial, which was denied and judgment was rendered in district court to the effect that Mr. Prince had been duly elected and is mayor of the

PROBE DEATH OF STRIKER

Bull Moose Legislator Would Ask Ammons to Retire.

Denver, Colo., May 15.—Testimony concerning the death of Louis Tikas, leader of the Greek coal mine strikers in the Ludlow tent colony, was given today when Capt. T. C. Linderfelt resumed his testimony at the court martial which is trying Maj. Hamrock on charges of arson, murder, manslaughter and larceny.

Tikas was killed late on April 20 after he had been taken prisoner by the militia. According to a report of a military commission, Tikas with two other strikers was killed by gunshot wounds while running toward the tent colony. Testimony was conflicting as to whether they were made to run or tried to escape. The commission report stated that the only bullet found in Tikas' body was of a kind not used by soldiers.

Say Strikers Shot First.

Rifle fire was turned directly upon the tent colony by state troops late on

MELLEN GOES FOR PAPERS

Former President of New Haven Will Testify Again Tuesday.

Examination of Road's Directors Also to Be Pressed.

Washington, May 15.—Former President Charles S. Mellen of the New Haven railroad, after a conference with Chief Counsel Folk of the interstate commerce commission, left today for New Haven, Conn., to obtain documents and papers which the commission desires to have as an elucidation of Mr. Mellen's testimony.

Mr. Mellen told Mr. Folk today that it probably would require at least two days for him and his counsel to go over the mass of papers at his New Haven home and at his summer house in Stockbridge. He is expected to return to Washington next Monday, prepared to continue his testimony Tuesday.

In the opinion of Mr. Folk, Mr. Mellen will be on the witness stand for several days, possibly all of next week. Meantime no other witnesses are expected to be examined.

Others Told to Be Ready.

The subpoenaed directors of the New Haven, William Rockefeller, Lewis Cass Ledyard, George F. Baker and George MacCulloch Miller, have been directed to hold themselves in readiness next Tuesday to be examined. It is regarded as quite unlikely that either Mr. Rockefeller or Mr. Miller will appear. No conclusion has been reached by the commission as to whether depositions shall be taken from them at their present places of residence.

Mr. Rockefeller is at Jekyl Island, Ga., unable, according to the certificate of his physician, to speak above a whisper; Mr. Miller is confined to his home and is said to be wholly unable to transact any business. Mr. Ledyard and Mr. Baker both have signified their willingness to testify whenever they may be called.

Folk Meets Miller.

Chief Counsel Folk conferred today

AUTO HITS TRAIN; THREE ARE KILLED

Marine, Ill., People Are Victims of Crossing Accident.

St. Louis, Mo., May 15.—Three persons were killed at Kaufmann, Ill., eleven miles east of Edwardsville, Ill., today when an automobile in which they were riding was struck by a westbound train on the Toledo, St. Louis & Western railroad. Members of the train crew said the automobile ran into the train.

The dead, all of whom lived in Marine, Ill., were:

JOHN STUCKWISCH.
MRS. JOHN STUCKWISCH.
OSCAR MEIER, brother of Mrs. Stuckwisch.

The grade crossing at Kaufmann is near an embankment. Persons living in the town say they saw the automobile stop near the crossing as if the driver was looking out for a train. Then the automobile started.

Stuckwisch was a bookkeeper in a mill at Marine, Ill. With his wife and brother-in-law he had started for an all-day automobile ride to Jacksonville, Ill., where the father of Mrs. Stuckwisch lived.

Machine Ground to Pieces.

The passenger train, due at St. Louis at 9:30 a. m., does not stop at Kaufmann, and was coming around the embankment at full speed when the automobile reached the track. Harry Root, engineer of the passenger train, said the automobile ran into the rear driveWheel of the engine. The automobile was ground to pieces and the three persons in it were killed instantly.

VALLON BACKS ROSE'S STORY

Denies Rosenthal Was Engaged in War of Gamblers.

Webber Accuses Becker of Urging on Murder Plot.

New York, May 15.—In direct examination today Harry Vallon corroborated the main points of Jack Rose's story, and was then turned over to the defense in the second trial of Charles Becker, former police lieutenant, on charges of having instigated the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler.

He admitted under cross-examination that he had known Rosenthal for fifteen years and that they had had a disagreement six months before Rosenthal was murdered. The witness denied, however, that he had quarreled with the murdered man.

It is a contention of the defense that Rosenthal was a victim of a gamblers' war.

Counsel for the defense fired question after question at the witness in an endeavor to show that his testimony connecting Becker with conspiracy was false. In no important points, however, was the witness' story broken down.

Webber Admits Lies.

Counsel for Becker secured yesterday from "Bridgie" Webber admissions that he had lied to Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty, had said things during his direct examination earlier in the day that he omitted the first

EIGHT BOBBIES TO HANDLE TWO WOMEN

Suffragettes Jeer at Magistrate as He Sentences Them.

London, May 15.—Sentences of a month's imprisonment each were pronounced today on "General" Mrs. Flora Drummond and Mrs. Dacre-Fox, two militant suffragette leaders. They were charged with disturbing the peace by camping on the doorsteps of the residences of Sir Edward Carson and Lord Lansdowne yesterday.

The accused women refused to give bond to keep the peace for six months. They turned the court proceedings into a farce by interrupting the evidence and by jeering the magistrate while he was pronouncing sentence.

When ordered to the cells the women became so violent that it was necessary to call in eight policemen to remove them from the prisoners' enclosure. They were dragged out of court screaming and struggling.

TEN DIE IN EXPLOSION IN DETROIT

Mexican Crude Rubber Company Plant Blown to Pieces.

Three Men Terribly Injured; Victims Are Skilled Mechanics.

Flying Chunks Riddle Nearby Buildings--Many Narrow Escapes.

Detroit, Mich., May 15.—Ten men were killed and three terribly injured in an explosion this afternoon, which blew the plant of the Mexican Crude Rubber company to pieces.

There were about twenty-five employes working in the plant. Eleven survivors have been accounted for. Gasoline is believed to have been responsible for the explosion.

Most of the victims were skilled mechanics. One body was blown through the building. Three other bodies were burned beyond recognition. Three men were removed to a hospital and physicians said they did not expect any of the men would survive.

Officials Are Silent.

There were several reports as to the cause of the explosion, but survivors said a vat, containing a large quantity of molten rubber, exploded. Officials of the company declined to issue a statement until they conducted an investigation.

The plant, a one-story concrete building in West Detroit, was almost obliterated. Flying chunks of substance riddled adjoining buildings and concrete blocks, weighing pounds, were found more than two blocks from the scene of the explosion.

The factory of the Commerce Motor Car company, about 100 feet from the rubber concern, was badly damaged. Nobody in the building, however, was seriously hurt.

The explosion was witnessed by scores of pedestrians, and there were many narrow escapes. One man told the police he heard a roar—the concrete factory seemed to split into three huge pieces, two of which "melted away." The third, he said, shot high into the air, broke into fragments and went whizzing in every direction.

Building Considered Fireproof.

The building was considered fireproof and the firemen soon prevented the possibility of a conflagration. None of the first five bodies removed from the smoking debris was indentified before being taken to the morgue.

MILITANTS WRECK CRICKET GROUNDS.

London, May 15.—Arson squads of militant suffragettes today destroyed the costly grand stands at the county cricket grounds in Birmingham and London.

MEDIATION CONFERENCE AT NIAGARA FALLS POSTPONED

Meetings Will Begin Next Wednesday Instead of on Monday.

Further Delay May Follow Second White House Visit.

LOBOS ISLAND AFFAIR SETTLED.

Washington, May 15.—Secretary of State Bryan announced today that he has learned from the mediators that the explanation of the Lobos Island incident made by the United States is satisfactory and that Mexicans will return there to take care of the lights.

St. Augustine, Fla., May 15.—The Huerta delegates left here at 1:20 p. m. for Jacksonville. They refused to talk to newspaper men.

Washington, May 15.—The opening of the negotiations of the South American mediators in the Mexicon controversy at Niagara Falls, Ont., was today postponed until Wednesday, May 20, the state department announced. The sessions were originally scheduled to begin Monday, May 18.

The delay was arranged at the request of the Brazilian ambassador, Mr. Da Gama, in order that the Mexican delegates to the conference might not be unduly hurried in their trip to Niagara Falls. The Mexican delegation will reach Washington shortly after noon tomorrow and they will be given an opportunity by the postponement to spend some time in Washington, in touch with the situation here, before proceeding to the formal negotiations.

All Delay Departure.

After the postponement was announced it was learned that Brazilian Ambassador Da Gama had decided that he would not leave Washington for Niagara Falls today, as he had planned. The ambassador delayed his departure pending the development of plans following the postponement. Minister Suarez, the Chilean envoy, also altered his program, which originally contemplated his departure from Washington tomorrow.

The Argentine minister, Mr. Naon, cancelled his arrangements for leaving Washington tonight and announced that he could not say definitely when he would start for Niagara Falls.

After the postponement was announced the mediating envoys conferred at the Argentine legation as to necessary changes in their plans incident to the delay, and considered the question of what effect the delay would have on the plans of the Mexican delegates now on their way north.

Preliminary Meetings.

It was thought possible that the Mexican representatives would meet the mediating envoys in Washington and that preliminary conferences would be held before the entire peace party proceeds to Niagara Falls.

The American delegates, Justice La-

ORIENTAL LIMITED HELD UP IN MONTANA

Mail and Baggage Car Is Run Off and Rifled.

Spokane, Wash., May 15.—Great Northern passenger train No. 1, the Oriental Limited, was held up by two masked men early today near Rexford, Mont. The combination mail and baggage car was detached from the train and run four miles west to Rondo, where the car was rifled.

Little valuable loot was obtained by the bandits, as the registered packages had been brought west ten hours earlier by the fast mail.

As soon as the train was stopped the mail clerk and baggage man locked the doors and jumped from the train and hid in the bushes alongside the track. When the bandits could not open the car doors they dynamited the car and put many bullets into it.

Seven years ago the Oriental Limited was held up at Ronda and $4,000 in currency was obtained.

BRITONS ARE ALL SUPPLIED WITH ARMS

Huerta Orders Velasco to Leave Hospital and Take Field.

Federals Abandon Gunboat Vera Cruz Near Tampico.

Both Sides Take Day of Rest in Fight at Mazatlan.

Vera Cruz, May 15.—Credible private advices from Mexico City report that the Federals at Topilejo, eighteen miles south of the capital, were attacked yesterday by the Zapatistas. No details of the fighting were received, but the incident is regarded as an important development by the authorities here.

Word has reached here foreshadowing the approach of a critical moment in the capital. British subjects from the interior, it is stated, have been gathered in the concentration districts in the foreign residential quarters of Mexico City, where it was determined long ago they would protect themselves against whatever arose. More British nationals are reported arriving by every train, while others are hastening toward the coast. They are amply supplied with arms and ammunition.

Expect Revolt in Capital.

Apparently the feeling is general among all foreigners that the next few days will see a tumult of revolt in the capital, since a movement into the district was planned to occur only when the situation became critical and the adoption of a method of self-protection was an absolute necessity.

Gen. Velasco, who was defeated at Torreon with heavy loss and was himself wounded, has been ordered out of the capital to assume the military governorship of San Luis Potosi.

Many here regard the appointment as significant, since rumors have been current that Gen. Velasco is deeply involved in a military plot against Gen. Huerta. Velasco has not yet recovered from his wounds and his friends say he is in no condition to assume command in the field.

Newspaper Men "Traitors."

Mexican newspaper men here have been listed at the capital as traitors. In a semi-official document sent from

WHEELER DECLINES RESERVE BOARD JOB

President Now Has Two Places to Fill, One as Governor.

Washington, May 15. — Harry A. Wheeler of Chicago, vice president of the Continental Trust company, has declined a membership upon the Federal reserve board. President Wilson has received a letter from Mr. Wheeler, expressing his regret that he is unable to accept the appointment recently offered him because of business connections which he cannot sever.

The president now has two places to fill on the board. Dr. Adolph C. Miller of San Francisco, Paul M. Warburg of New York city and W. P. G. Harding of Birmingham, Ala., have all accepted.

Besides selecting two more men, the president must designate one of them as governor and another as vice governor. He is canvassing again the list of 150 names which was before him when he made his first choices. He is anxious now to select some one from the Middle West, either Chicago or St. Louis, and some one from New England, to preserve a geographical balance on the board. One of the two to be selected will be a Republican. The president is not expected to decide finally for another week on the other two. It is unlikely that the first three names will be sent to the senate until the list is completed.

As the president had made no definite decision, names of those under consideration would not be divulged.

SMITH FEARS POWER TRUST

Minneapolis Congressman Opposes Dam Bill in Present Form.

Insists on State Control of Rates and Service.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, May 15.—Congress will be made a party to the possible creation of a great water power trust by the passage of the general dam bill as now drafted, according to Representative Smith of Minneapolis, who spoke today in opposition to certain portions of the bill.

He sharply criticized the provision for permitting different grantees of water power to exchange currents and assist one another in supplementing power, declaring that to make lawful such a combination was in direct violation of the spirit of reform for water power control.

"The General Electric company," said Mr. Smith, quoting from the report of Former Commissioner of Corporations H. K. Smith, "has already extended its influence into practically every section of the United States. In congress, fully conversant with the tidal wave of trust organization which has besieged the nation, now about to pro-

BUTTER AND EGGS HIGHER

Receipts of Eggs Lighter and Large Stocks Are Stored.

The make of butter in this district is steadily increasing and is expected to be larger within the next two weeks when new pastures will be available for cattle, but the Eastern demand for supplies in this territory is said to be proportionately larger. It is now thought by the trade that butter will go into store next month at around its present basis, dealers taking the view that prices are substantially cheaper than a year ago, and that they should be low enough to enable successful competition with the imported product during the winter period. No fears are entertained on the score of possible Canadian importations, it being pointed out that Canada last year imported 7,000,000 pounds of butter from New Zealand, the home supply proving insufficient to cover consumptive requirements.

Butter is up a cent all round, the Bridgeman-Russell company quoting the best creamery at 27@28 cents; first creamery at 26@27 cents, imitation creamery at 20@21 cents and dairy at 19@20 cents a pound.

Egg Receipts Decreasing.

Eggs are also a cent higher, wholesaling at 20@21 cents a dozen. Receipts of eggs have dropped off perceptibly during the last ten days and the surplus remaining to go into storage is comparatively small. An active call is being met with by dealers here from points in New York state and shipments are being made down there.

Strawberries More Abundant.

The headliner in the way of fruits today is strawberries, according to the Fitzsimmons-Palmer company. They are coming freely from Tennessee and in point of quality the berry is thought to be as good as any that will be available this season. It is estimated that higher prices will prevail for a time later in the season, berries coming from Missouri, the next supply district in line, in view of the fact that the yield is likely to be short there.

Oranges quotations are higher as the navel season is nearing its close. Lemons are also up with a gradually increasing demand for them. A good call for grapefruit is reported, and it is expected to continue for some time yet in view of the average good quality of the supplies coming to hand. Apple costs are advancing with the gradual depletion of stocks in warehouses. Illinois rhubarb, is now being received in carlots, and its price is upon a reasonable basis.

Receipts of home grown vegetables, such as lettuce and radishes, have been light so far on this market owing to the unfavorable weather. Mississippi vegetables, including peas, beans, carrots, etc., are being received in liberal quantities, and quotations in them are regarded as low in trade circles. Potatoes are steady, but an easing up in their market is looked for as supplies are thought likely to be heavier shortly with the usual late season efforts of growers to dispose of their remaining stocks.

Marked reductions have come about in the cheese market, with increased offerings of the new season's product. Brick and Wisconsin twins are down 1½ and 2 cents a pound respectively.

Fresh Poultry Scarce.

Poultry quotations are firm, with a continued scarcity of supplies. Receipts of live poultry are still limited to a few scattering coops daily. The market is unchanged in both fresh dressed and frozen stock.

In meats, beef is up one-half cent a pound. Lamb is scarce and is quoted a cent higher for the best quality. The highest price on record, $8.40 a hundred pounds, was paid at Chicago this week for thin cattle for feeding purposes. The scarcity of young and thin cattle is said to be proving a severe handicap upon beef-making operation. It is reported that strenuous efforts are being made to restock the area west of the Missouri river, depopulated in a bovine sense by the drouth of last summer.

STATE SUPREME COURT DECISIONS

St. Paul, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The following decisions were rendered today by the Minnesota supreme court:

Sibley County.

E. W. Webb, appellant, vs. John Lucas, et al, respondents—

1. Private property cannot be taken for ditch purposes unless the ditch will serve some public purpose.

2. Whether the purpose for which private property is to be taken be a public purpose is a judicial question which the owner has the right, at some time and in some manner, to present to and have determined by the courts before his property is actually appropriated.

3. Where a land owner is a party to the proceeding by which a town ditch is established and can bring all matters in controversy before the court by writ of certiorari, he cannot maintain an action to enjoin the construction of such ditch.

Judgment affirmed. TAYLOR, C.

Hennepin County.

Z. H. Austin, appellant, vs. National Casualty company, respondent—

Plaintiff entered a contract with defendant, a casualty insurance company, to bring about the consolidation and reinsurance of another similar insurance company called the Globe company, secure the approval of the insurance commission thereto, under section 3519, general statutes 1913, for a consideration equal to a stated percentage of the amount of the net surplus or assets received from the Globe company by defendant in such consolidation. Plaintiff sues for the stipulated compensation on the ground that defendant wrongfully prevented him from carrying out his contract in that, when he had done all the work, except securing the approval of the insurance commission, he was discharged and also in that defendant proposed to the commission to exchange the greater part of the surplus for free or extended insurance to the Globe company policyholders. It is held:

Conceding that the Globe policyholders had no right to receive a distribution of the surplus it was nevertheless the duty of the insurance commission before it approved the consolidation to direct the disposal thereof in the interest of the policyholders of the two companies concerned and to see that the surplus did not disapear. And since plaintiff could not secure the approval of the commission to the plan he agreed to put through, he cannot recover as for performance.

That defendant, when it understood that the original plan would not be approved, in answer to an inquiry of a member of the commission, indicated a willingness to give eight months' free or extended insurance to the Globe company's policyholders was not a modification of plaintiff's employment contract so as to give a right of recovery, provided the jury found that the commission would have approved the new plan. The jury had a right to find that the free or extended insurance proposed was only tentative on defendant's part, and that in making it there was no wrongful interference with plaintiff's employment. And the court was right in leaving this issue to the jury and in refusing defendant's requested instruction to the contrary.

No reversible error was made in admitting or rejecting evidence.

Order affirmed. HOLT, J.

Blue Earth County.

Frank P. Fairchild, respondent, vs. C. E. Fleming, appellant—

The evidence examined and held to sustain a verdict that defendant's negligence in running his automobile in which plaintiff was a passenger caused the injuries complained of.

Failure of the court to mark requested instructions, as given or refused, is not reversible error where counsel completes final argument to the jury before calling the court's attention to the omission.

If the substance of a requested instruction is given in the general charge error cannot be predicted upon a refusal to repeat the same thought in the language of the requested instruction.

The complaint herein, properly construed, alleged negligence not alone as to speed but as to the management or manipulation of the automobile.

Whether the defective floor of the bridge where the injury occurred was the sole proximate cause thereof or whether such defect merely united or concurred with defendant's negligence to produce the injury were questions for the jury and a requested instruction was properly modified to cover both questions.

Where through evident inadvertence the court in stating the purpose of a statute omits an exception or limitation contained therein it is the duty of counsel then to call attention thereto. In this instance the omission is considered harmless.

The statutory provision relative to speed of motor vehicles, section 16, chapter 365, G. L., 1911, is for the benefit of all who may be injured in person or property from the unreasonable or excessive speed of such vehicles; it is a rule of evidence of general application whenever the question of unreasonable speed of motor vehicles is involved.

Order affirmed. HOLT, J.

Ramsey County.

Charles W. Elsenmenger, et al., respondents, vs. St. Paul City Railway company, appellant—

Evidence in an action to recover damages for injuries received by an automobile truck in a collision with one of defendant's street cars, examined and held not such as to require a finding contrary to that made by the trial court to the effect that contributory negligence on the part of plaintiff's employe in charge of the truck was not established.

Order affirmed.

PHILIP E. BROWN, J.

Ramsey County.

Louis Mark, respondent, vs. David Fink and William Fink, appellants—

1. The evidence sustains the verdict finding defendants liable to plaintiff for an assault committed by them.

2. The damages awarded are excessive.

3. It was not error to deny a new trial asked on the ground of newly discovered evidence.

Affirmed on condition. BUNN, J.

Ramsey County.

Margaret J. Fish, respondent, vs. Chicago, Great Western Railroad company, appellant—

When the Federal government, in the exercise of its authority to control and regulate commerce and navigation, sanctions the erection of a railroad bridge across a navigable river, and subsequently the railroad company, by and according to its direction, proceeds to construct a fender in the river to guide water craft through the draw-span of the bridge, a riparian owner in front of whose property the fender will be located and whose access to the main channel of the river will thereby be interfered with, but none of his fast property taken, is neither entitled to compensation as for a taking of his property nor has any remedy in the premises; and this, whether the fender be regarded as an integral part of the bridge or as an aid to navigation necessitated by the previous erection thereof, the injury in either case being merely consequential upon the exercise of the paramount power of congress over commerce and navigation, subject to which all riparian rights in, to or over navigable waters, or in the lands beneath them, are originally acquired and subsequently held.

Order reversed, with direction to dismiss the action.

Northwestern Printers Cost Congress Wants Casualty Law Change.

St. Paul, Minn., May 15.—The law passed by the last legislature to provide for admission into the state of mutual casualty insurance companies to make available for employers, competitive rates for employers' liability and compensation insurance was attacked in resolutions passed by the Northwestern Printers Cost congress here yesterday.

The resolutions recited that the law was so amended before passage as to defeat its purpose by making prohibitive the operation of such mutual companies and thereby creating a practical monopoly in favor of stock insurance companies.

The resolution demanded that the legislature repeal the present act and pass a law which "will in theory as well as in practice provide for organization and admission of mutual casualty insurance companies." A copy of the resolution was sent to J. A. O. Preus, comomissioner of insurance and his aid solicited. Ten speakers discussed costs and improved business methods before the congress.

Duluth Man Speaks.

Among those who addressed the convention were: Fred Smith and Alfred L. Roper of Minneapolis; E. P. Penniman of St. Paul; E. K. Whiting of Owatonna; J. A. O. Preus, state insurance commissioner; Charles K. McIntosh of Duluth; Albert W. Finley of Boston; F. H. McCulloch of Austin; Harry Livingston of Winona; J. J. Gleason and Harry Willson of St. Paul.

The following officers were elected: M. I. Stewart of Duluth, president; E. C. Bailey, Decorah, Iowa, vice president; W. A. Keller of St. Paul, treasurer and J. D. Scott of St. Paul, secretary.

Railroads Ship Lumber Into Cloquet for New Depot.

St. Paul, Minn., May 15.—To illustrate how Western lumber is coming into competition with the Minnesota product, H. Taylor, sales mangaer of the Northern Lumber company and Cloquet Lumber company at Cloquet, declared yesterday that the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads recently built a union depot of Washington fir at Cloquet, less than eighty feet from his office. Mr. Taylor was testifying at the hearing before Examiner Edgar Watkins of the interstate commerce commission on the petition of the roads for permission to raise interstate rates between the Head of the Lakes and the Twin Cities.

A few years ago the Cloquet lumber mills had a large business in the Dakotas, he testified, but the Western mills have taken it all from them.

The two companies Mr. Taylor represents sold 80,000,000 feet of lumber in the Twin Cities last year, he said, and the proposed increase, which equals about 50 cents per 1,000 feet, would mean an annual loss to the company of $15,000. Competition, he said, makes it impossible to shift the burden to the consumer.

OFFICE MEN HEAR TALKS ON CANAL TOLLS AND EXPORTING

Congressmen Lenroot and Manahan Narrowly Miss a Joint Debate.

What was, perhaps, the most successful meeting that the Duluth Association of Office Men has yet held, took place last evening at the Commercial club following the monthly dinner.

The speakers were, in the order of their participation, Congressman Irving L. Lenroot of Superior, Congressman-at-Large James A. Manahan of Minnesota and Julius H. Barnes of Duluth. Nearly 200 members of the association attended.

An attractive musical program was given on a phonograph furnished by a Duluth music firm and Stanley Lamb gave some character imitations which were very much of a success. The closing chorus, led by Charles Fitzgerald, was also a hit. It was to have been led by Harry Soady, but he did not appear. It was his famous "Boola, Boola, Neeva, Neeva" song and Mr. Fitzgerald proved a good substitute and displayed great familiarity with the technique of the originator.

It was announced by President C. R. Pattinson, who acted as toastmaster, that the next meeting night, which will be on May 28 or 29 at the Duluth Boat club, would be "ladies' night." President Pattinson also appointed Don Harris, A. C. Eggers and C. S. Weaver a committee to assist the Festival and Pageant association in getting return trip rates from Eastern points via the Great Lakes to Duluth as well as Chicago.

Canal Tolls.

Congressman Lenroot spoke on the canal tolls dispute. The congressman, who is against free tolls for American vessels and is therefore a supporter of President Wilson, clearly advocated his side, but his speech was made more with a view to giving his hearers a clear idea of the grounds for the dissension over the matter. He declared, among other things, that the treaty's wording is absurd and that a 10-year-old boy would be inexcusable if he could not do better. He declared, however, that there is a good chance for advocates of either side to make a strong case on such language, which, he declared to be a "botch." Mr. Lenroot asserted that a tolls exemption for American vessels would be in the nature of a ship subsidy, which he is against.

"It is a monopoly now," said he. "Not a vessel can enter the coastwise trade unless she flies the American flag; and that is protection enough. The canal is ours; the ships are not."

The speaker declared that advocates of free tolls claim that it would lessen the railroad rates. This the speaker denied, for, he said, the roads must get a working profit to exist, and while it might cause a lowering of rates a short distance from the coasts, the interior of the country would have to pay higher rates to give the roads the necessary profit. With the tolls charged American vessels there will be only a lowering of railroad rates to the lowest working basis the railroads can stand.

Wanted to Debate.

Congressman Manahan, who takes an opposite view of the tolls question from that held by Mr. Lenroot, said, on arising that it was difficult for him to resist a joint debate on the matter, but that as it was not his plan to discuss the tolls question except in an incidental way, he would refrain. He paid a very hearty tribute to Congressman Lenroot, whom, he said, is "brave, conscientious and able" in congress. He took for his subject the matter of government. Mr. Manahan said that the matter of law-making is a very serious business and that to be a congressman is not an easy job. He declared that the matter of making laws is based on the necessities of life with which the bodies of men are served.

"If this were realized generally," said Mr. Manahan, "and the seriousness of it were appreciated, election day would be a holy day of obligation. Laws are not made in congress but in the voting places."

He replied, in a measure, to the statements made by Mr. Lenroot regarding the effect on railroad rates that the tolls result would have, and declared that the effect on rates in the Middle West mentioned by the Wisconsin congressman is not to be considered for the roads can reduce their rates by first getting rid of the water in their stock. He said that J. J. Hill has declared that the roads need many millions of dollars to improve and extend the terminal facilities at the great centers for they are severely overtaxed.

"Then why?" asked Mr. Manahan, "would not the diverting of trade by the canal relieve the congestion the railroads are now experiencing and really help them out by lessening the necessity of expenditures for more terminal facilities?"

Mr. Manahan urged the young men present never to neglect their duty in lawmaking. Said he:

"It is your right and duty to take an interest in politics. It makes me tired to hear a business man say 'Oh I haven't time to do anything in politics; I have to take care of my business. That is wrong; your best partner in business is the government."

Julius H. Barnes spoke of the success that persistence and the pursuing of a good idea will bring and cited the case of the Ames-Brooks company, of which he is a member.

"I hope you will overlook the personal equation," said Mr. Barnes. "I am speaking to you as young men, and I merely hope that I may say something that will help you in your future. I want to impress upon you also the advantage of being in Duluth."

Export Grain Trade.

He spoke of the growth of the export grain trade from this point and said that twenty years ago he urged the idea but was laughed at and met with discouragement on all sides.

"They told me," he said, "that Duluth was in the wrong position, that it was not the logical point for exporting and that we could not hope to compete with the seaboard. But today Duluth is the greatest export point in the world. Duluth is fundamentally right and we have proved it. Today the macaroni shipped from here hangs on the fences of Italian homes in Rome and Naples. Duluth is known in every little village in Germany; there have been shipped in the last three weeks by Duluth firms 7,000,000 bushels of grain to foreign ports, and during the last year 30,000,000 bushels have been shipped to the ports of the world. Because of transportation advantages fourteen tramp steamers are awaiting grain from our firm at Montreal to take to different foreign ports and there is not a tramp steamer at an Atlantic coast port today for the same purpose."

Deep Waterway.

Mr. Barnes spoke on the probability of a deep waterway to the sea, and declared that it must come. He said that it would probably cost from $100,000,000 to twice that amount, but as compared to the advantages that would be nothing. He cited that the port of London alone in recent years has been improved to the extent of $168,000,000; Liverpool, $125,000,000; and Hamburg, Germany, $100,000,000.

"Had we deep waterways to the sea," he declared, "those fourteen tramp steamers lying at Montreal could be brought to Duluth and the shipments made from here at an additional cost of not more than 2 cents a bushel."

He pointed out the increased profit there would be to the farmers by reason of reducing the cost of raising and shipping their grain. Mr. Barnes also spoke of the high efficiency of the marketing system in vogue in the United States and declared that it is twenty years in advance of other business systems in this country or elsewhere. He says that so perfect is this system that foreign firms, which maintain offices in Argentina, Brazil and other countries, find that they do not need to maintain offices in this country.

In view of the fact that Congressman-at-Large Manahan, who is the father of a bill in congress to have the exchanges at Duluth, Chicago and Minneapolis investigated because, he contends, they arbitrarily make or unmake the market, was sitting only one man away from Mr. Barnes, the latter's remarks were particularly significant.

In closing Mr. Barnes said:

"Some day, to you young men, will come opportunity. I don't know how, nor can any of us foresee; but it will come. I hope that you will be in a position to take advantage of it; but only the man of definite ideas is the man who will profit."

AAD TEMPLE'S CANNON STOLEN

Chicago Shriners Overpower Duluth Men and Take Away Big Gun—Fear for Safety of Drums.

The Shriners of Duluth had scarcely gotten over crowing about the return of Li'l Artha, the official goat of Aad temple, as given in a telegram to The Herald yesterday from Tom P. Bradley, who is at Atlanta, when sad news came and today their cup of bitterness is filled to overflowing.

Aad temple's famous cannon is stolen. It is claimed that the Chicago contingent of Shriners overpowered the Duluth artillerymen yesterday afternoon and took the cannon away. This news came last evening in a telegram to Musical Director A. F. M. Custance.

It is believed here that by this time the cannon is on its way to Chicago and will be displayed in Medinah temple's new mosque as a trophy of the Atlanta trip.

Great fear is now felt that some fezzed miscreants will "swipe" the drums of the newly formed Aad corps; and also that Tom Bradley will never be able to bring back Li'l Artha.

WITHDRAWS IN FAVOR OF WHEELER

Rev. R. E. Hunt Drops Out of the Legislative Race.

Rev. Ray E. Hunt, pastor of the First Christian church, has withdrawn as a candidate for member of the legislature from the Fifty-seventh district. He notified County Auditor Halden yesterday. He would give no reason at this time for his withdrawal, but it is the understanding that his action was taken in favor of Bert N. Wheeler, who has filed and who is a Prohibitionist.

Mr. Wheeler was the choice of that party for the lieutenant governorship but withdrew a few days before the last day for filing and filed for the legislature.

PRIVATE BANK IN IOWA IS CLOSED.

Radcliffe, Iowa, May 15.—The Farmers' bank here, private, capitalized at $50,000, closed its doors yesterday following a voluntary petition in bankruptcy filed at Cedar Rapids Wednesday by Henry D. and John E. Himmell, brothers, president and cashier.

The Himmells gave their liabilities at $254,450 and assets $94,300. The petition stated that about $137,000 is unsecured, the greater part of which consisted of deposits made in the bank by farmers near Radcliffe.

The two brothers left Radcliffe and later were found at Eldora, the county seat. Both refused to make a statement.

JUROR GOES INSANE.

Barnesville Man Suddenly Loses Mind at Moorhead.

Moorhead, Minn., May 15.—W. A. Matthew, a farmer living near Barnesville, who is here on jury duty, suddenly went insane at a local hotel.

Matthew was taken to Northwestern hospital, where he is being cared for, and the hospital authorities state that his mental condition appears to be about the same.

Friends of Matthew state that he had had a great deal of trouble during the past few months. He was overcome by coal gas during the winter and suffered greatly from the effects. Later he underwent an operation in this city, and very soon after a son died very suddenly. These troubles have apparently preyed on his mind and culminated in his breakdown Tuesday evening.

JUST LEARNS OF DEATH.

Isanti Woman Finds Out Brother Was Buried in Duluth.

Isanti, Minn., May 15.—Mrs. George Baker of this place has just returned from Duluth where she learned after investigation that a man named Peterson, who was killed by a train near Brookston, Jan. 21 last and buried in Duluth on the theory he was another Peterson was her brother, Peter Peterson, aged 52, who formerly lived here. No information regarding the death was received here until a few days ago, when a man from the Brookston neighborhood came to Isanti county and in talking with friends mentioned the death of Peterson. The story was repeated until it reached relatives, and after going to Duluth and securing a description from the undertaker Mrs. Baker is certain that the remains were those of her brother.

His wife died at the Baker farm north of this village on March 20, 1910. He leaves one daughter, Mildred, who lives with the Bakers. He is also survived by two sisters and one brother: Mrs. George Baker of Isanti, Mrs. Frank Booth of Lewiston, Mont., and Charles Peterson of East Cambridge.

PLACE FISH FRY AROUND COUDERAY.

Couderay, Wis., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sportsmen have planted about 100,000 trout and pike fry in the streams and rivers in this section during the last few days. The fry was shipped from the state hatchery at Bayfield.

Aitkin Church Progresses.

Aitkin, Minn., May 15.—Work is progressing on the basement of the new M. E. church and everything is expected to be in readiness for laying the cornerstone May 25 by Bishop Quayle. Rev. M. P. Burns, district superintendent, will also participate in the exercises.

SENATOR BRADLEY NOT TO BE CANDIDATE.

Washington, May 15.—Senator Bradley of Kentucky, Republican, last night announced that because of ill-health he will not be a candidate for re-election. "I am totally unable to bear the hardship of a campaign," said the senator, who is serving his first term, which ends next March.

Senator Gallinger, minority leader and oldest senator in point of continuous service, is expected to announce Saturday whether he will be a candidate.

Mill City Ice Drivers Strike.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 15. — The drivers employed by two ice companies struck late yesterday. An advance of $5 a month is demanded. Two hundred and fifty men are affected. The union men claim they will be joined within a day or two by the employes of two other concerns.

DETROIT BOY CAN NOW ENTER "POINT."

Detroit, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Relatives and friends of Henry R. Anderson of this city, appointee of Congressman Steenerson to West Point, are gratified over the announcement from Washington that the boy has passed the examination and can enter the military academy at once.

K. of C. Pick Dickinson.

Bismarck, N. D., May 15.—The state convention of Knights of Columbus just held here voted to meet next year in Dickinson and elected these officers: State deputy, G. F. Thacker, Grand Forks state secretary, T. F. Renwald, Minot; state treasurer, R. B. Boulger, Dickinson; state advocate, John Carmody, Bismarck; state warden, Frank Feeney, Bismarck.

LICENSES ARE SUSPENDED

Captains of Poe and America Exceeded Speed Limit in Fog.

Escape With Light Punishment Owing to Excellent Reputation.

As a result of the wrecking of the steamer America and the steamer Gen. O. M. Poe at Fisherman's Point near Two Harbors during the recent fog, Capt. Edward C. Smith of the America and Capt. George W. McCallum of the Poe have had their licenses suspended for ten days after a hearing held before Capt. John Monaghan, United States inspector of hulls, and M. F. Chalk, boiler inspector, who compose the Federal board of inspectors at Duluth. Both captains were found guilty on two charges—traveling at high speed during a fog and of failing to take soundings of the water depths.

The board found also that Capt. Smith of the America gave an improper signal upon the approach of the Poe, which might have caused the Poe to ground, under the circumstances, however, the captain of the Poe was not held excusable by the inspectors, as they maintain that he was going at too high a rate of speed to be influenced materially by the America's signals. The Poe is said to have been within 1,500 feet of the America when the signal was given and going at a rate of about four and a half miles. Both captains were found guilty of traveling at full speed during the fog, which is contrary to sailing regulations. The America is said to have been traveling at full speed just before she struck.

The penalty pronounced upon the two officers was made very light because of the excellent reputation that both have maintained for skill and character. This is said to have been Capt. McCallum's first accident and Capt. Smith is said to be one of the most careful and skilful masters on the lakes.

The America was beached at the same place several years ago, but Capt. Smith was not in command at that time. The point is very dangerous and has caused the wrecking of several vessels within the last few years.

The damage to the Poe is said to have been about $5,000, and legal action against the United States & Dominion transportation company, owner of the America, may result. The Pittsburg Steamship company, which owns the Poe, carries its own insurance.

DOUBLE CREWS FOR TUG BOATS

Cost of Operations Will Be Increased 20 Per Cent Under New Rules.

Double shifts of men will be necessary in the tug service hereafter pursuant to an agreement made between the officials of the Union Towing & Wrecking company and the grievance committee of the workmen made in Cleveland. Capt. G. H. Vrohman, manager of the Duluth tug office, and Capt. Charles Greene, who attended the conference from Duluth, returned today.

"The cost of towing will be increased at least 20 per cent," said Capt. Vrohman today. "This has been made necessary by the ruling handed down by the department of commerce and labor. According to the ruling the men on the tugs cannot work more than thirteen hours out of twenty-four, and this means that double crews will be put on most of the boats. Double crews have already been installed on vessels in the Duluth-Superior harbor."

The purpose of the meeting was to make arrangements to comply with the new rules. Agreement for the ports of Duluth, Chicago and the Soo were reached the first day, and for the other ports on the second day.

CONTRACT FOR DREDGING LET

Northern Dredge & Dock Co. Gets Job at Mouth of Ontonagon River.

The contract for dredging the lake at the mouth of Octonogan river has been let to the Northern Dredge & Dock company of Duluth by Maj. E. D. Peek, chief of the United States engineers' office here. The tug Goulder and dredge left Duluth last night for the scene of action, and the work will be begun immediately.

The contract calls for the removal of 40,000 yards of dirt, which has been washed down by the Octonogan river. This has made navigation dangerous. The cost of the work will be at the rate of 19½ cents a yard.

CHANGES IN COAST LIGHTING SERVICE.

Capt. Albert Swenson, head of the local division of the hydrographic bureau, announces the following changes in the coast lighting service:

The characteristic of the east breakwater light in the Portage lake ship canal, Lake Superior, has been changed from intermittent to fixed red, pending repairs to the apparatus.

A channel having a width of forty feet and a depth of six feet below standard low water, has been dredged by the department of public works of Canada at the mouth of the Walker river, St. Joseph channel, North channel, Lake Huron. The channel will be marked by six spar buoys, two at each end and two at the bend.

Characteristics of the light marking the wreck of the steamer Charles S. Price in the lowest end of Lake Huron, have been changed from intermittent red to flashing red. This light is about 10¾ miles from Fort Gratiot light and shows twelve feet above water level. The Canadian government has given notice that an intermittent green light will be established directly north of the wreck of the steamer City of London, sunk in Pelee passage, Lake Erie.

HOOD'S PILLS Cure Constipation. 25c.

Purely vegetable. Best family cathartic.

MARINE ENGINEER IS 83 YEARS OF AGE

Probably the oldest chief engineer of a big lake steamer in active service today is Harry Stone of the Joshua W. Rhodes. He is 83 and for more than fifty years has guided engines of lake steamers.

Before that he ran a St. Clair river boat, the River Queen, long since out of use. For years before coming to the Rhodes he ran the Yale, a package freighter running between Buffalo, Duluth, Superior and Chicago. He enjoys good health and is able to do the work of a strong man every day. He has only one noticeable defect, deafness, which compels him to rely on the Chadburne signal system rather than the bells.

MARQUETTE ORE SHIPMENTS LIGHT.

Marquette, Mich., May 15.—The ore shipments from Marquette since the opening of navigation are to date many thousands of tons behind the shipments of last year. Only three ore carriers have loaded at the South Shore dock this season, while fifteen had loaded last year. The total number of tons shipped so far this year is 15,710 against 74,418 last year.

"We do not expect that the ore business will open in earnest before June 1," said J. S. Harland, dock agent for the South Shore, "and we hope that when business does start it will be steady. The expense of loading one boat every few days greatly cuts down the profits."

STRIKERS MOB CARS AT WAKEFIELD, MASS.

More Than 1,000 Take Part in Riot—Militia May Be Called.

Wakefield, Mass., May 15.—A mob of strike sympathizers numbering more than 1,000 men and women, mostly foreigners, made a riotous demonstration today in the vicinity of the rattan factory of the Heywood Bros. & Wakefield company, where a strike has been in progress for several weeks. Factory windows were broken and electric cars were held up and searched for loyal workers and strikebreakers, many of whom were assaulted.

The police had difficulty in handling the crowd, and Chief of Police Pollard said that unless order was restored the militia would be called out.

AMERICAN HELD BY LONDON POLICE.

London, May 15.—Adolph Schmidt, alias Kowalskie, who was arrested at the request of the Chicago police when he arrived at Devonmouth, Bristol, on the liner Royal George from Montreal, was brought up today in the extradition court, charged with forgery.

Schmidt was remanded pending communication with the American embassy and the state department at Washington, as no extradition warrant has been obtained.

The accused is being held temporarily on a "conveyance" warrant in the hands of the London police.

DRAYMAN'S MISTAKE EXPOSES SMUGGLING

He Takes Omaha Man's Baggage to Ellis Island.

New York, May 15.—A mistake in transit made by an expressman who had charge of baggage brought in from Europe on Monday by Isaac Levy, a jeweler of Omaha, Neb., led to Levy's arrest yesterday on a charge that he smuggled about $7,000 worth of gems into the United States.

The baggage, through mistake, was sent to Ellis Island and became mixed with the belongings of immigrants. When Levy went to recover it he was met by a customs inspector.

The jeweler is said to have confessed.

Midway Factory Burns.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 15.—Thirty persons leaped from second-story windows and other exits to escape death by fire in the Reedcraft Furniture company's plant in the Midway district Wednesday night. The plant was destroyed; loss estimated at $12,000.

WATERWAY IS PROMISED

Channel to Commonwealth Avenue Will Come, Says Congressman Miller.

McEwen, Boyle and Others Speak at New Duluth Banquet.

A deep waterway from the St. Louis bay to Commonwealth avenue will be realized within a short time, according to a statement made last night by Congressman Clarence B. Miller at the fourth annual banquet of the New Duluth Commercial club before a crowd that overflowed the Kulaszewicz hall. This bill, providing for the deep channel, will be presented in congress at its next session, no matter who is elected, he said.

The program given by the club was one of the best arranged that has been rendered since its organization. On the program were Mayor W. J. Prince, State Senator James P. Boyle, Charles S. Mitchell, Fred W. Damkroeger, president of the club, and William E. McEwen, who was toastmaster. Those taking part in the musical program were: Misses Winnifred and Lola Tower, Miss Hulda Erickson, Mrs. C. W. Peters, Miss Dorothy Thompson, Mrs. S. B. McIntyre, Miss Anna Brand and Theodore Schuring.

Says Waterways Will Come.

Congressman Miller said that there were two things that had hindered a deep waterway up the St. Louis river. One of these, he said, was the government policy in not favoring the development of feeders. It took him two years to convince members of the rivers and harbors committee that St. Louis river to Commonwealth avenue was not a feeder, he said. The other, he said, had developed after the appropriation had been included in a bill to authorize the work, when one man said that his concern was not in need of such an improvement.

Development Certain.

"The development of the upper part of the river is certain," said the congressman. "Manufacturing enterprises will be seeking locations on the river front. These will demand the deep waterway. They will say that they will come when the waterway is an established fact, and the biggest problem in congress to meet will be the objection that the enterprises are not here yet. This bill will come before congress at the next session, no matter who is your congressman. Industries locate where they have a deep waterway, and it is up to you gentlemen to co-operate with your congressman in indorsing such an improvement. Congress wishes to do what the people demand."

CONGRESSMAN C. B. MILLER, Who Foresees Deep Water Channel to New Duluth.

STATE SENATOR JAMES P. BOYLE, One of the Speakers at the New Duluth Banquet.

F. W. DAMKROEGER, President of New Duluth Commercial Club.

Mr. Miller spoke of the agricultural possibilities of the adjacent country and praised the work of the pioneer in St. Louis and Carlton counties. He spoke of the need of a good public market for the farmer. He led up to the proposed bridge to span the St. Louis river at Fond du Lac and assured the members of the club that the bill providing for this improvement would be passed, although it might be delayed some time owing to the opposition of Superior. He scored non-resident owners of land who were instrumental in holding up propositions similar to that asked by St. Louis county, saying that such men were a detriment to the country.

McEwen Is Toastmaster.

F. W. Damkroeger, president of the club, welcomed the guests and introduced Mr. McEwen. In his address, Mr. McEwen said he had done many different things in his career but that this was his first experience as toastmaster. Mr. McEwen said that a new era was dawning on the settlers of New Duluth, who twenty-five years ago, had arrived expecting to build a second Pittsburg.

Mr. McEwen, who sat between Mr. Mitchell and Mayor Prince, introduced the latter by saying: "I have been a rear newspaper man for several years and for a year I have been 'near mayor.'"

Mayor Prince spoke of the dawning of prosperity for the city and the entire Northwest. He advocated cooperation of the club with the city officials and said that the officials would do all in their power to better living conditions in this end of the city.

The mayor said arrangements were being made for the establishment of a branch of the public library in the proposed new school for the suburb and that it was in this building that a community center should be established along social center lines by the residents. He congratulated the club on its activities.

Mr. Mitchell spoke on city planning. He said that the residents should demand of the city the establishment of a playground for children alongside of the school. Mr. Mitchell also touched on the liquor and vice element, saying that the residents should keep out all the saloons possible and that one saloon to every 1,000 population was one too many. He said that the further they were able to keep the temptation from the young people, the better class of citizenship would be the result.

Boyle on Labor Laws.

Senator Boyle gave an eloquent address on minimum wage laws, and said that such laws were a blessing to any community. This state, he said, would never have to worry with the child labor problems as the laws passed at the last session of the state legislature provided for that. He advocated a minimum wage law which would give a decent living wage. He also touched on the mothers' pension law and said that such a law would reap a harvest of better citizens for the taxpayers. The mother, he said, was the proper person to care for the minor children, and not the orphan asylums.

Mr. Boyle advocated universal peace and disarmament. War, he said, was eating up the prosperity of the nations and that the millions spent for war and its preparation should be used in educating the nation's people. The United States, he said, was big enough and broad enough to take an initiative in this movement.

INDIANS GET MONEY.

Bemidji, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Just $89,214.93 was paid 1,449 Indians on the Red Lake reservation this week and the entire sum was almost immediately put into circulation in Beltrami county. Each Indian this quarter received $61.57, the usual amount paid at the quarterly drawings being about $23 per capita. The majority of the money circulated in the vicinity of Bagley and Brainerd, although some of it came to Bemidji.

Weather Helps Fruit.

Washburn, Wis., May 15.—The cool weather has been a good thing for the fruit district of Bayfield county. As yet the buds on the fruit trees are only beginning to form and by the time the trees are in bloom all danger from frost will be over. The late spring has also been very beneficial for the strawberry crop.

Our Expansion Sale

The expansion of the Gately System so as to include Hibbing, Minn., makes the Gately stores 116 in number.

Twenty years ago the Gately Supply Company was founded in Duluth. Four years ago it branched out into Superior; in 1912 it opened up in Virginia, Minnesota, and now in 1914 finds Hibbing on the list.

The first Gately store was opened up 50 years ago. The newest one opened last week. During the past twelve months ten new Gately stores have been opened in various parts of the country, and it is because of this remarkable increase that our Expansion Sale is announced.

We are determined to show our appreciation to the public whose splendid patronage has made our Expansion possible, by giving them the lowest prices, combined with full credit privileges, that have ever been seen in this territory on new sterling worth merchandise at the height of the season.

The more Gately stores that have been opened for business the larger the Gately clientele must be developed. Nothing can attract new customers so quickly as great bargains and we must always make our advertising and our salesmanship so forceful and earnest that we can hold our old customers and bring in hundreds of new patrons each year.

This Expansion Sale, therefore, has a double purpose. The low prices we give show our appreciation of your patronage in the past, and besides, attract many new customers to our ever Expanding System. Our methods are honorable and our credit terms dignified. It is only fair that you should pay your merchandise bills as you yourself get paid—hence our slogan: "Your credit is good—pay as you get paid."

CARRIED NEEDLE IN HEART FOUR DAYS.

New York, May 15.—Charles Wood had a needle removed from his heart, in the Bushwick hospital, in Brooklyn.

He carried the needle four days. Wood is the instructor in tailoring in the Flushing Parental school, and in the workroom he tripped, falling heavily across a bench. A day or two later he was troubled with sharp pains in the left side.

He went to his family physician, who found a tiny puncture wound in his left breast and sent Wood to the hospital for an X-ray examination. It disclosed the needle dimly. It had penetrated the apex of the heart. There were no bad effects of the withdrawal.

The mean annual temperature of the globe is 50 deg. Fahrenheit.

HIGHEST OF ALL JUMPERS

Watussi Athletes "Clear the Bar" at 8 Feet, 5 Inches.

They Also Show Remarkable Skill in Javelin Throwing.

Washington, May 15.—Inquiry at the offices of the National Geographic society as to what race of people possesses the world's highest jumpers has revealed the fact that this distinction goes to the Watussi, natives of German East Africa, whose athletes "clear the bar" at the remarkable height of eight feet and five inches. This exceeds the world's record by one foot and eleven and three-eighths inches. The society's report is based on the observations of the Duke Adolphus Frederick of Mecklenberg, who spent two years in the German province and who regards Ruana, the home of the Watussi, a race of giants, and of the Batwa, pygmies of the forests, the most interesting country in Central Africa.

Wonderful Jumping.

The duke describes the wonderful jumping of the Watussi, as follows: "A line, which could be raised or lowered at will, was stretched between two slender trees standing on an incline. The athletes had to run up to this and jump from a small termite heap a foot in height. Despite these unfavorable conditions, exhibitions were given which would place all European efforts in the shade. The best jumpers—slender, but splendid figures, with an almost Indian profile—attained the incredible height of eight feet and five inches, and young boys made the relatively no less wonderful performance of five feet. I obtained a few capital pictures of these noteworthy performances, and their reproduction in Germany aroused great interest.

Javelin Throwing.

"A number of young Watussi exhibited their remarkable skill in javelin throwing. Taking a run of ten steps, bending backward almost to the ground, they hurled their javelins up to almost prodigious heights, and with such impetus that two of the spear-shafts broke in the air from the vibration. It was the same with the shooting matches with bow and arrow, in which the trunk of a banana tree was used for the butt. Great strength is required to bend the bow correctly, and to draw it to its fullest extent long years of practice are necessary.

"Ruanda is doubtless, with the exception of Urandi, the last sultanate or 'kingdom' in Central Africa which is governed today, as in centuries gone by, by a prince clothed with absolute and illimitable powers. There is only one ruler, and no rival sultans are allowed. The people hold him in the greatest awe and reverence. It is extremely rare for any one to venture to thwart his will, for the sultan is the owner of the land and all the stock, oxen, calves, goats, pigs, etc. The people enjoy the use of them, but the sultan sustains the power of demanding at his pleasure the return of his property from his subjects.

Tall, Well-Made People.

The population is divided into three classes, the Watussi, the Wahutu and the Batwa. The later arrived yet ruling race, the Watussi, are a tall, well-made people, with an almost ideal physique. Heights of from 5 feet 11½ inches to 7 feet 2½ inches are of quite common occurrence, yet the perfect proportion of their bodies is no wise detracted from. Whilst the shoulders are generally powerfully built, the waist is at all times extrordinarily slender. The hands are elegant and delicate in form, the wrists of an almost feminine grace. Ruana's population has been estimated at 1,500,000."

The pygmies are described as "compact and strong in build, very muscular, with round heads and short, curly hair. Big intelligent eyes gaze out of good-humored faces. Their clothing consists of an apron of gray, woolly beaten bark, which is obtained from the supa tree, fastened round the loins with a belt of grass cord. Their place of residence changes according to their whim or hunting conditions, but is never to be found outside the forest boundary. Their weapons consist of a bow and arrow and a short spear."

MALPRACTICE SUITS.

Six of Such Actions Prosecuted in North Dakota During Year.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—About 150 North Dakota doctors are at the annual meeting of the North Dakota Medical society, which will be adjourned here this evening. The gathering has been exceptionally successful, and several important papers on medical topics have been read.

The report of the committee on malpractice suits shows that six actions were started during the past year, of which four have been disposed of. In only two instances were small damages paid, the other two being dismissed.

Secretary J. H. Rowe reported a membership of eighteen less than a year ago.

The medics yesterday made an inspection trip through the medical college of the University of North Dakota. They also were entertained with an automobile ride, and in the evening were the guests of the Grand Forks District Medical society at a banquet, with Dr. J. D. Taylor as the toastmaster.

The general association sessions today were devoted to the reading of papers, with the house of delegates scheduled to hold a business session late in the afternoon.

GAVE FIRST VAUDEVILLE.

Pioneer in That Art at Hancock, Mich., Is Called.

International Falls, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—John S. Chamberlain, who is said to have played the first act in vaudeville ever seen in the copper country of Michigan at Hancock, at the old Palace theater, now the Savoy, and for several years was organist at Iron Mountain, Mich., died here yesterday, aged 44.

He had been playing the piano in local theaters. A native of Pontiac, Mich., he was reared at Hamline, Minn., where he was also educated at the university bearing that name. For five years he was the organist at St. Mary's Roman Catholic church at Iron Mountain, Mich., and also sang at the cathedral, St. Paul, for a long time. Mr. Chamoerlin had been failing for some time, but it was not till Monday that his condition was regarded as critical. Pneumonia set in and despite the services of two physicians he passed away yesterday morning.

FOR BABY'S CLOTHES.

A deep wooden box will answer the purpose. Line throughout with blue cambric and cover the outside with blue and white cretonne. Tuft the lid and cover tacks or buy white, cloth-headed tacks to ornament the top. A pretty handle for the cover may be made of a small embroidery hoop wound with blue ribbon and attached to the cover.

IS PLUNDERED ON HIGH SEAS

Ship Lost Over $10,000 in Cargo, Valuables and Damages.

Canton, China, May 15.—Ordinary acts of piracy, which occur frequently in the rivers and canals in this section, were completely eclipsed recently when the Norwegian steamship Childar was plundered on the high seas.

It was bold enough to recall to the western world the days of Capt. Kidd, 200 years ago, and it was a rare case even for these waters.

The number of foreign warships constantly cruising up and down the China coast and the fact that many of the merchant ships carry rifles and ammunition generally deter the Chinese from such acts of boldness, for they are given short shrift when caught. In the early days of the British settlement at Hongkong scores of pirate junks were captured and sunk; there are records of forty and fifty being sent to the bottom in a day.

The Childar was captured in a very simple way. About fifty pirates went aboard the ship at Hongkong as ordinary steerage or "deck" passengers, bound for places up the coast. There being altogether 200 Chinese making the journey, no notice was taken of them.

Excited Suspicion.

They were evidently a little nervous over the enterprise, and soon aroused the suspicions of the bona fide Chinese passengers by their restlessness and earnest conversations in little groups. Seeing that they were being watched they put their plans into execution sooner, evidently, than they had intended, but with complete success.

About forty miles out of Hongkong they whipped out their revolvers and rushed the officers. There were six white officers, and none of them were armed or within the reach of weapons. The second officer, who was on the bridge, tried to give the alarm to the others below and was promptly laid senseless with the butt of a pistol. Otherwise no bodily injury was done.

On their arms, so that they should know one another, the pirates wore white bands similar to those worn by the Chinese revolutionists two years ago. There were characters on the bands, the translation of which is said to be "Money comes easy."

Pirate Navigators.

Four of the officers were tightly bound and placed in the auxiliary wheelhouse at the stern of the ship, while the second and third engineers were left free to work the engines under the direction of the pirates. Pirate navigators assumed control of the bridge and gave the proper signals to the engine room. A very careful course through dangerous shoals was steered until the ship put into a little bay known as Bias bay. There, two junks, which had evidently been awaiting the arrival of the Childar, received the collected money and valuables which had been taken from the ship, the officers, and the passengers. Even the uniforms of the officers and the good clothes of the Chinese passengers were taken, and almost all the brass fittings of the ship. In all, the ship lost over $10,000, in cargo, valuables and damages.

The pirates were, no doubt, much dissappointed, for on two previous voyages the Childar had carried about $30,000 worth of treasures of one sort and another, valuables that were negotiable ashore without serious danger of discovery. The pirates seemed to be angered by their failure to make the big haul they expected, for, after looting the ship and passengers, they went through the cabins and engine rooms destroying wilfully doors, fittings, and furniture.

The Humorous Side.

But the exploit was not without its humorous side. An English speaking buccanneer, for instance, sympathizing with the thirsty engineer whom he was controlling revolver in hand, asked the engineer if he would like a whisky and soda; and, leaving a fellow pirate in charge of the engine room, went to the pantry and brought back a whisky bottle and one of beer, explaining that he could not find soda water.

Among the pirates were some who understood the navigation of steamships and others who knew how to run the engines. One, indeed, told the engineers in English that he knew more about a marine engine than they did.

When the ship reached Bias bay and the collections made by the pirates were being put aboard the junks, the English-speaking engineer among the robbers ordered the Norwegians to draw the fires and remove certain necessary valves, thereby making it impossible to restart the ship for several hours. It was some hours after the junks sailed away that the Chinese passengers ventured up on deck and unbound the officers, and some hours more before the vessel was in condition to proceed at slow speed back to Hongkong.

A reward was offered for information leading to arrests, but it seems unlikely, owing to the disordered state of the province, that the robbers will allow themselves to be trapped. Piracy has such a hold in these waters that the Chinese government is powerless to exterminate it.

Paper Money at Discount.

The governor is hard pressed for funds to pay a sufficient number of troops to prevent another rebellion against the authority of the Pekin government. Over $15,000,000 of paper money has been issued, with no reserve of bullion behind it. This paper now stands at less than half its nominal value. As a result, there are serious prospects of trouble on this account. There is also danger to be guarded against in the so-called modern students, most of whom have been turned out of office by Lung Chi-Kwang and Li Kai-Shen, the military and civil governor, who are loyal to Yuan Shi-Kai; for it was found that the Chinese of modern education, who came into office during the anti-Manchu revolution, had other ideas of government than that which President Yuan has put into operation in this and other provinces.

Americans have been involved in two cases of river piracy recently. In the case of the Standard Oil company, misfortunes befell the pirates. They boarded an oil junk bound for an interior town and overpowered the crew; but a Chinese river gunboat happened upon the scene and in turn took the pirates by surprise. As is the custom in such cases, the pirates were put to death without trial on the scene of their exploit.

Less lucky were a party of missionaries who were preceding from Canton, after a holiday, back to their mission in the interior. The native sailboat in which they traveled was boarded one night and everything taken from them but sufficient clothes to cover their bodies. Even the shoes of the ladies were taken, though old Chinese shoes were given one who asked for a pair.

HONEY HUNTS STILL POPULAR DIVERSION.

Derby, Pa., May 15.—Honey hunts are popular means of diversion throughout all sections of Delaware county just now. Many a newcomer has been initiated into the mysteries of the honey hunt, but kept quiet about it and obtained his revenge in guiding another newcomer into the mysteries of the hunt.

The scheme is to get a victim who knows nothing about honey hunts and arrange a party at night. An expedition into the country district is arranged, and the victim is boosted up a tree where it is said honey is to be found.

While he is up the tree with a tin pail on his arm, some of his companions on the ground yell, and the next moment a shotgun is fired. The men in the joke run away, leaving the victim to make his way back alone.

The joke is to hear the story the victim has to tell when he gets back. Sometimes he tells how the enraged farmer shot a half-dozen times at him; how he engaged in a desperate struggle with half a dozen men and bulldogs, and how he managed to break away from all. Several days later he finds out that the whole job was prearranged.

ANOTHER HOSPITAL.

Reported International Falls Will Have New Concern.

International Falls, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is reported that another hospital is to be built here by fall, to be built and operated by parties who have a number of others in the iron ore regions. A representative of the organization recently looked over the field and stated that he considered the opening for an additional hospital as very promising and that he would so report. Word has since been received that the preliminary work would be started at an early date.

The trees set out on the court house lawn last year failed to stand the winter's frost and are being dug up preparatory to replanting. The trees were guaranteed to grow, therefore the work is being done by the nursery from which they were purchased.

The work of completing the steeple of the Catholic church is drawing to a close and when it is finally finished the cross which will surmount it will occupy a high position.

Miss Frances Earhart, librarian of the Duluth public library, will leave the latter part of next week for Washington, D. C., where she will attend the annual conference of the American Library association, which will meet at the national capitol the entire week beginning Monday, May 25.

The conference at Washington promises to be the largest ever held by the association. The program, a copy of which Miss Earhart received this morning, includes addresses by the most prominent librarians and educators of the country. Following the conference Miss Earhart will take her annual vacation with relatives in the East, returning to Duluth the latter part of June.

It is expected that there will be about 1,000 librarians from all parts of America in attendance at the conference. The gathering will be officially opened Monday evening, May 25, by Herbert Putnam, LL. D., librarian of congress, and the address of welcome will be made by Edwin H. Anderson, director of the New York public library, who is president of the association. He will talk on "The Tax on Ideas." An illustrated lecture on "The Libraries of Washington" will be delivered by H. H. B. Meyer, chief of the division of bibliography, library of congress, Washington.

During the opening days of the conference reports will be made by the many committees, with addresses on important problems of libraries throughout the country. These include John Foster Carr, director of the Immigrant Education society, New York, who will talk on "The Library and the Immigrant;" P. P. Claxton, Litt. D., United States commissioner of education, "Libraries for Rural Communities;" Katharine H. Wooten, librarian Atlanta, Ga., "Recent Library Development in the South;" W. N. C. Carlton, Chicago, "Prestige," and Agnes Van Valkenburg, instructor library school, New York, "Readings From Recent Fiction."

The annual election will be held Friday afternoon, May 29, with the conference closing the following day.

RECITAL.

Miss Margaret Linehan Assisted By Nordron Chorus.

Miss Margaret Linehan, a pupil of Mrs. Donna Riblette Flaaten, gave a recital last evening at the cathedral auditorium. Miss Linehan's numbers were "Lullaby from Jocelyn," Godard; "Wenn Ich in Deine Augen Seh," Schumann; aria from "Der Freischutz"; "O Soli Mia," Capua; "Banjo Song," Sidney Homer, and a group of Irish songs—"The Harp That Once Through Tara's Halls," "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms" and "Eyes That Come From Ireland," with "The Wearing of Green" for an encore. The accompanists were Mrs. D. R. Flaaten and Miss Lecarda Eliason.

Miss Linehan was assisted by Miss Laura Frankenfield who read "An Easter With Parepa" and gave for an encore a humorous selection.

The Nordron chorus of Superior, directed by Mrs. Donna Riblette Flaaten, sang "Brudefaerden" by Kjerulf and "Den Store Hvide Flok" arranged by Grieg. David A. Soderquist was the soloist in the Nordron numbers.

Rt. Rev. James McGolrick made a few remarks commending Miss Linehan's work in music that he characterized as the language of the emotions, understood and appreciated by all nations. He praised the work done by the Flaaten family and spoke of Duluth's need of an orchestra, the ambition of Jens Flaaten. The members of the Nordron chorus received high praise from the bishop who said they were worthy to take the great trip they have planned.

Y. W. C. A. Campaign.

Those who will take active parts next week in the Y. W. C. A. membership campaign had luncheon together at 1 o'clock this afternoon at the association building. They were:

Mrs. C. A. Smith, Mrs. John MacLeod, Mrs. L. W. Kline, Mrs. R. E. Denfeld, Miss Jennie Moody, Mrs. George H. Claypool, Mrs. F. H. White, Miss Myra Germond, Mrs. T. L. Chapman, Mrs. Rene Hugo, Mrs. T. W. Hoopes, Mrs. F. H. Rogers, Mrs. W. C. Agnew, Mrs. J. A. Watterworth, Miss Helen Congdon, Miss Helen Porter, Mrs. W. W. Sanford, Mrs. F. W. De Vey, Mrs. F. C. Bowman, Mrs. E. D. Field, Mrs. E. T. Hughes, Mrs. Watson S. Moore and Mrs. Z. D. Scott.

Sodality Entertains.

The Young Ladies' sodality entertained in the clubroom of cathedral hall last evening in honor of Miss Eva McNamara. Miss Jane Davis, Miss Rosalia Mannheim and Miss Gertrude Reilly, each of whom received a picture of the Madonna. There were eighty guests. Spring flowers and pink candles were the decorations used. Those on the committee in charge were Miss Octavia Forgette, Miss Mary Garvey and Miss Clara Stark.

For June Bride.

The members of the L. A. A. O. H., division No. 1, entertained informally Wednesday evening at cathedral hall in honor of Miss Eva McNamara, a June bride. The hall was decorated in pink and white and a color scheme of pink was carried out in the dining room. Covers were laid for fifty-two. Miss McNamara was presented with a set of aluminium cooking utensils by the president, Miss Mary Garvey.

Dinner for Bride.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Mills of the Wahldorf apartments entertained at 7 o'clock dinner yesterday evening in honor of Miss Ella Gamble whose wedding to Rudolph C. Schiller will take place next Wednesday. The table was decorated with pink roses and pink candles tied with tulle. In addition to the bride and bridegroom-elect the guests were Miss Ruth Carr, Miss Lucy Nightingale, Palmer Harrison and Allen Trux.

Re-Elect Officers.

The annual meeting of the Woman's auxiliary of Trinity pro-cathedral was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. T. Fitzsimmons, 1431 East First street. The officers were re-elected; they are: Mrs. W. E. Jones, president; Mrs. H. L. Gage, vice president; Mrs. Walker Jamar, secretary; Mrs. W. E. Le Quesne, treasurer.

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read. The balance in the treasury will be devoted to domestic and foreign missions and several special activities in which the organization is interested. Arrangements were made for the birthday party to be held May 20 for the purpose of carrying out the plan of raising the united offering. The program committee has arranged several surprises. There will be musical numbers and an address on "Missionary Work in India" by Mrs. T. D. Merrill.

Cecilian Society.

At a meeting held yesterday at the home of Mrs. Archibald McDonald, 1930 Jefferson street, Mrs. McDonald announced her withdrawal as president of the Cecilian society to which office she was re-elected at the meeting last week. Mrs. H. C. Strong was elected president; Miss Ciara Stocker, vice president, and Mrs. Stella Prince Stocker, chairman of the program committee.

Tea for Visitor.

Mrs. Bruce Ter Bush of East Fourth street entertained ten guests at a tea yesterday afternoon in honor of her sister, Miss Adele Lawson, who has been here for a short visit. Miss Gretchen Cox gave several violin selections and there were trio numbers by Miss Cox, Miss Lawson and Mrs. Ter Bush. Miss Lawson will leave Sunday night for Chicago.

Dinner at Kitchi Gammi.

There was a large attendance at the monthly table d'hote dinner at the Kitchi Gammi club last evening. During the evening Louis Gomberg, pupil of Mrs. D. H. Day played "Theme and Variations," Beethoven; "Happy Day," Atherton; "Caprice," Schnoll; "Sonatina," Kuhlau; "Folk Song," Schumann; "Skylark," Tschaikowsky; "Evening Bells," Kullak; "Villanelle", Scholl, and the first movement of a sonata by Mozart. The fine tone and phrasing of the "little Mozart" were appreciated. He directed four members of the Esther Gomberg orchestra that played for the informal dancing after dinner.

Woman's Relief Corps.

At the regular meeting of J. B. Culver corps, No. 69, W. R. C., held yesterday arrangements were completed for the ceremonies to be conducted with the local G. A. R. post Memorial day. Flags will be presented to the Sunday school of Endion M. E. church where Memorial day services will be held Sunday, May 24, and to the Tischer school. Delegates to the state convention at Minneapolis, June 9, 10 and 11, will be Mrs. T. J. Hyde, Mrs. Viletta Rankin, Mrs. M. J. McMillan, Mrs. Lydia Brown, Mrs. W. W. Nott, Mrs. B. M. Sampson. The alternates will be Mrs. Rachel Ross, Mrs. Clara Kintz, Mrs. Flora Mahoney, Mrs. Gertrude Norlin, Mrs. Caroline Coppes, Mrs. Anna Young, Mrs. Ella F. Gearhart, past department president and secretary. Mrs. Nella Williams, department counselor, will accompany the delegates.

Temperance Society Organized.

At a meeting held yesterday afternoon Miss Laura Davies organized a branch of the Loyal Temperance legion. Those elected to office are: Dorothy Shaw, president; Theresa Neuman, vice president; Helen Bemis, secretary; Alice Balenger, treasurer.

The members of the society are: Dorothy Shaw, Helen Bemis, Pearl Dumoe, Grace Thayer, Frank Smith, Floyd Arnold, Phillip Patterson, Isabel Arnold, Clara Linnander, Edell Nicolaysen, Ruth Gibson, Alice Belanger, Evelyn Belanger, Mildred Gladso, Ruth Hanson, Alfhild Carr, Ethel Hanson and Theresa Neuman.

Thimble Bee.

Mrs. M. N. Willis of 1526 East Third street will entertain the members of the Thimble Bee of J. B. Culver corps, No. 69, W. R. C., Thursday afternoon. A basket lunch will be served.

Bundle Shower.

Miss Clara Wold and Miss Elsie Jasper entertained at a bundle shower last evening at the home of Miss Wold, 4727 Pitt street, in honor of Miss Marie Wold. The evening was spent in music and games. A luncheon was served to twelve guests. Daffodils and roses were used for decorations.

Housewives' League.

A regular monthly meeting of the Housewives' league will be held Monday afternoon at 2:30 in the library club room. Plans for the summer will be discussed.

Reader at High School.

Ira Ellsworth Schuler, reader and lecturer of the Mutual Entertainment bureau, and formerly professor of oratory and elocution at Hamline university, will give a program of miscellaneous readings at the Central high school this evening at 8:15 o'clock. The entertainment will be given under the auspices of the Agricultural club of the high school and the proceeds will be used to buy more books for the high school agricultural library, a feature recently established but very popular among the pupils.

Mr. Schuler is a graduate of the Northwestern School of Oratory and Expression and is known as a reader and lecturer of strong personality and splendid ability whose portrayals of characters range from humor to deep pathos.

During the evening two groups of songs will be given by Miss Esther M. Larsen, contralto, with Miss Fern Brookes as accompanist.

Suffrage Debate.

At Glen Avon church this evening there will be a debate on women's suffrage with Mrs. W. W. Lawrence and Dr. Mary McCoy on the suffrage side and Mrs. J. C. H. Engel and Mrs. R. Spiegel on the "anti" side. The question will be decided by five judges and after their decision has been given a vote of the audience will be taken. Discussions from the floor will be invited. Mrs. W. A. Kaake will give a reading. The proceeds of the evening will be divided between Glen Avon church and the Duluth drama study class.

Linneae Tag Day.

Tomorrow will be Linnaea tag day. Members of the Linnaea society will be stationed on the street corners downtown with tags for sale and every person will have an opportunity to contribute to the worthy cause for which the Linnaea society stands, the prevention and stamping out of tuberculosis and the helping of those who are sufferers of the disease.

This will be the organization's first tag day but it plans to make it an annual affair on May 16, the birthday of Karl von Linne, the eminent Swedish botanist for whom was named the pink flower that is the emblem of the society. Following the colors of the flowers and its foliage, the tags tomorrow will be pink and green, the Linnaea society colors. The members of the committee in charge of tag day are Mrs. Charles Ehling, Mrs. William Carlson, Mrs. David Cone, Mrs. Otto Johnson, Mrs. Hugo Swenson and Mrs. Albert Nelson.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

ORPHEUM—Indian war pictures.
EMPRESS—"The Colonial Minstrel Maids."

Amusement Notes.

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw will be the attraction at the Lyceum tomorrow afternoon and evening, appearing in the musical divertissement, "Mariette." She will be assisted by a big company presenting American and European novelties. Among them will be Bernard and Weston, Arnoud Brothers and Abe Atell, the former featherweight champion.

Next week's feature film at the Duluth Orpheum will be "The Spenders," a dramatization of Rex Beach's famous novel of the same name. It is said to be one of the most thrilling stories ever told by the motion picture films, and comprises an entire evening's entertainment.

The Indian war pictures, which are the attraction this week, will be shown three more times, tonight, tomorrow afternoon and tomorrow night. One of the most thrilling scenes in the pictures is the battle of Wounded Knee which shows Dewey Beard, who saw his eight brothers fall one by one in the real battle, again fighting against the onslaught of the seventh cavalry with Short Bull, special emissary to the Messiah again on the battlefield with Phillip Wells, the scout whose nose was shot off, then sewn on again in the battle of Wounded Knee once more before the camera, with Col. H. G. Sickle, Jack Red Cloud, No Neck, Big Bat, Woman's Dress, Flat Iron, Thick Bread and other Indians of warlike reputations all taking part.

Then comes the section in which Lieut. Gen. Nelson A. Miles and his staff went before the motion picture camera that history might be faithfully repeated. Following the battle of Wounded Knee and the battle on the mission, Gen. Miles threw a cordon around the Bad Lands and forced the Indians into the Pine Ridge agency to surrender. And when the pictures were taken for history, soldiers, generals and Indians, traveled across country, seventy-five miles from a railroad, and once again lived in tents that they might bring history to date with the accuracy with which it happened.

The Indians made their offer of surrender, and in the motion pictures the review of the troops, the surrender of the Indians, the swearing of pence is shown exactly as it happened, and upon the exact spot where it happened in '91. Lieut. Gen. Nelson A. Miles, Maj. Gen. Jesse M. Lee, Maj. Gen. Charles King, Brig. Gen. Frank D. Baldwin, Brig. Gen. Marion P. Maus, Col. H. G. Sickel and Col. Cody (Buffalo Bill) all take part in this section of the six miles of films. The scenarios for the historically correct pictures, were written by Maj. Gen. Charles King, after conferences with Gen. Miles and Col. Cody.

"The Colonial Minstrel Maids" are the attraction at the Empress for the last half of the week, opening their engagement yesterday.

They have a unique offering—a minstrel show staged by eighteen young women. They open with a regular minstrel first part, which is followed by an olio, as with the old-time minstrel shows, and the closing scene is a cabaret feature.

Minstrel shows have never lost their popularity, but they are now a rarity in the amusement field. The novelty of having young women take the place of men have proven attractive and the performance given yesterday by the "Colonial Maids" was a creditable one. The show is clean, lively and entertaining.

Frankie Sigel and Blanche Bishop do the principal ends. Their songs and stories keep the audience interested. After the first part there is an olio. Hero "Aline," the girl with the hoops, juggles and performs all kinds of different feats with hoops. Miss "Aline's" style is different from ordinary hoop rolling acts and is pretty and interesting. Katherine Selsor is billed as "the girl who talks." "Marie Genoro," the flexible Venus, adds some feats on the rings to the beauty and skill of her act, and the Loletta Sisters appear in acrobatic dances and songs. The performance closes with a scene at a cabaret show in which are introduced harp solo, violin selections, trios and a quartet.

VICE PRESIDENT AT DEAD SEAMAN'S HOME

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 15.—After the funeral yesterday of Francis Patrick de Lowry, the Pittsburg sailor killed at Vera Cruz, Vice President Marshall, who had participated in the ceremonies, visited the parents of the dead seaman in their little home. Grasping the hand of the mother the vice president said:

"I have dared to intrude upon your grief that I might voice the sympathy of the republic with you in your lonely hour. I congratulate you upon being the mother of such a son.

"There are only three things worth while to die for—the glory of God; the preservation of the home and the honor of the flag. If he knew he was to die, I doubt if he would have chosen another death."

ONE SMALL BOY KEPT FIVE POLICEMEN BUSY

It took Sergt. Roberg, Jailor Johnson, two patrolmen and Secretary John Connelly to keep a 4-year-old youngster from breaking out of police headquarters this morning.

The youngster was found wandering about Superior street shortly after 11 o'clock and was brought to the police station by Sergt. Roberg. The child was placed behind the sergeant's desk, but he refused to remain there and attempted to get out.

The lost boy is being held until word is heard from his parents.

WILL MOVE NORTH.

Brother of Governor Will Buy Land in Minnesota.

Warroad, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—John A. Olson of Obert, Neb., brother of Governor A. O. Eberhart, spent a few days looking over land in this vicinity. He was very well pleased with the outlook and returned to Nebraska to dispose of his property there and will then return and locate on the place he has purchased near Warroad.

Jake Streiff has opened up a cheese factory near America postoffice, ten miles south of Warroad.

Harland Dunn, pioneer settler of this section, returned with his family from Staples, where he has resided for the last six years. He will move to his farm south of town.

Michail Stoskopf of Kandiyohi company arrived the first of the week with a carload of settlers' effects and moved on a farm south of town, which he recently purchased.

ALLEGED ROBBERS TO HAVE HEARING.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—James Shea and John Ryan, arrested at Crookston several days ago, in connection with one of the recent series of robberies in Grand Forks, will be given preliminary examination here tomorrow. They waived fighting extradition proceedings, and were brought here yesterday afternoon.

When arrested, they had several articles in their possession which were identified as having been stolen in one of the local robberies.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Licensing of Cats Will Prevent Suffering.

Inconsequential as licensing the cat may seem, it presents several sides which deserve the consideration of all persons concerned with bettering conditions and framing laws which will bring them about. Perhaps the most important phase of a cat-licensing law is its humane one. The suffering among stray cats at all seasons of the year is something that nobody with a kind heart likes to contemplate for a single second.

I cannot be accused of exaggeration or of too much tenderness for animals when I say that it is a great and unnecessary evil of every city, town and village. Scarcely a day passes that I do not see a gaunt cat, as often as not afflicted with some animal distemper or disease.

Very important, and what should be placed first by those attempting to make the licensing of cats a law is the destruction of the bird life traced directly to the cat. The prime offender, of course, is the homeless prowler forced to exert its efforts to live. I have no doubt that the maruadings of the cat family are extremely disastrous to bird life and a menace that calls for some means of prevention.

While the house cat is a domestic animal, the instinct to hunt its natural prey, the bird, scarcely ever dies, no matter how carefully protected and well-fed the animal may be. A cat left to provide for itself for even a few days quickly reverts to its first state and becomes a hunter of its own sustenance. Given half a chance, it will obtain its living in the fields and woods, with the bird as its chief prey.

There is another thing about the homeless or the too-numerous cat that fills me with loathing as well as pity. It is their tendency to disease and the ease with which they carry it from place to place and spread it among people. I like a cat—like to see a healthy, well-kept cat in the home where there are proper accommodations for it and where it is treated sanely. However, I don't like it in limited quarters, nor do I like to see a child fondling one without regard to the dangers it involves.

The cat is a nice little animal to have about under proper restraint, and I think that licensing it will avail to bring this about. I hardly think the state will benefit much from its cat-license revenue. If a law compelling the licensing of cats is ever enacted universally throughout the Union by the legislatures of the different states, it will accomplish a great good, especially for homeless cats. Personally I am in favor of licensing every cat, homeless or otherwise.

RUBBISH IS VANISHING

Excellent Results Are Being Obtained in Clean-Up Campaign.

Should Continue All Year, Says Health Department Bulletin.

Duluth is getting cleaner every day. The ten days' clean-up campaign is proving a pronounced success.

Much still remains to be accomplished but at the present rate of progress most of this will have been done before the time is up next week. The garbage and ash men are working overtime and the incinerator is experiencing the biggest rush of the year.

Old Sol is doing his full share with his bright, drying rays of sunshine and J. Pluvious is helping the good work along by keeping the tap shut off on the sprinkler. Hundreds of yards have been put in first-class shape and a good start has been made towards planting most of the vegetable and flower gardens in the city.

In discussing spring clean-up campaigns, the Chicago health department bulletin, states that every week should be clean-up week, saying in part:

"Clean-up week has become a civic institution; nearly every town and city in the land now has it, and the results in the aggregate are certainly commensurate with the time and labor expended.

"It is a fine thing for a city, as it is for a home, to be clean. It is a fine thing, too, for a city to begin the summer season with a thorough cleaning up and removed of the filth and rubbish that have accumulated during the long winter months. Spring is the natural cleaning up time and always marks the beginning of better things.

"But too often it happens that it also marks the end of a short season of good work that should be kept up all the time, if lasting and permanent results are to be obtained.

"There is one good feature about these clean-up weeks, however, and it is this: It inculcates not only the clean-up spirit, but the keep clean spirit. It impels people to say, 'Now that we have cleaned up and have everything spick and span and in apple pie order, let's keep it that way all the time.'

"And this latter spirit is the spirit that counts. No one needs to be told that while dirt and filth accumulate cleanliness does not. Every housewife knows that in her home it is a constant battle with dirt. And so we, as citizens, should learn that the short season of activity in a single week of clean-up work will not keep our city clean. So let this week and all the weeks be clean-up week. Then we shall have a city so clean, tidy and attractive that with all pardonable pride, we may rightly call it the city clean and beautiful."

CHARITY WORK SHOWS INCREASE

Secretary Makes Report of All Activities for April.

Miss Edna G. Meeker, secretary of the Associated Charities, has completed the monthly report of the organization showing the activities of the charities during April, 1914, as compared with the corresponding month a year ago. A synopsis of the report follows:

	1914.	1913.
New cases	139	55
Individuals involved	221	123
Men involved	133	49
Women involved	32	26
Children involved	56	48
Personal applications	111	24
Cases referred by other societies	28	30
Transient men	106	28
Visits to homes	91	...
Reference calls	126	...
Business calls	41	...
Calls at office	781	...
Total number of calls of visitors	258	...
Telephone calls	652	...

The report also shows that during the month employment was furnished seventy men and six women. Miss Meeker, secretary, expresses her appreciation in the report of contributions of clothing and furniture to the cause of charity and of the co-operation of other societies and individuals in the work.

Miss Meeker has received a request from Dr. James Ford of the Social Ethics committee of Harvard university for two copies of the Duluth housing code. The copies are wanted for the use of students at the university.

TWO MORE BRITISH AVIATORS KILLED.

North Allerton, Eng., May 15.—Two more British army aviators were killed today near here during a combined flight by a squadron of military aeroplanes from Scotland to Salisbury plain.

The victims were Lieut. J. Empson of the Royal Fusileers and Sergeant Dudmore, acting as mechanic.

The accident occurred while the aviators were trying to land in a dense fog. The machine struck the ground sharply and overturned. The occupants were killed by the motor falling on them.

TO THE PATRONS OF THE WOODLAND DAIRY:

Owing to the publicity that has been given to the testing of our milking herd and the reactions shown by thirty-eight of our 176 head, we feel that it is due to our patrons to make a clear statement covering all features of the case.

We have had annual tests of our herd made by competent veterinarians, using standard tuberculin furnished by the state authorities, such tests being carried on strictly, according to the state law, both with a view to the protection of our patrons and for our own protection. The last test, previous to the present one, was made by Dr. John McKay, state veterinarian, in June, 1913, less than a year ago, and the result of that test was that two animals in our herd showed rise in temperature. These animals were both removed from our herd immediately, killed; and autopsies held showed that one of them was entirely free from tuberculosis and the other showed some suspicious indications. The balance of our herd, by competent authorities, was shown to be entirely free.

The annual test of the city authorities was made this week and to our great surprise thirty-eight animals of our herd showed rise in temperature under the injection of tuberculin, eight of these never having been included in our milking herd. As soon as tests were concluded, we removed these animals from our herd and upon final positive determination of their being infected with tuberculosis, they will be killed as prescribed by the state law and city ordinances.

We believe it only fair to state that the tuberculin test is far from infallible. The best proof of this being the entire discontinuance of this test by the state of Illinois, for several years, because of its uncertainty. It is the only means known, however, for detecting POSSIBLE presence of tuberculosis in cattle, but the instances under which the so-called "reaction" is had without any tuberculosis being present are many. All dairyman have had animals showing suspicious reactions; have isolated such animals; had them retested; and in countless cases the retest showed them to be absolutely normal and free from tuberculosis. Within the last ninety days one of the largest dairy farms in this district had a pure bred registered bull of large value showing reaction, and condemned to be killed. He was killed in the city in the presence of the United States and state inspectors, every possible test and examination of the carcass made and he was declared by the United States and state representatives to be absolutely free from tuberculosis and the state paid for him his full value as a registered pure bred. This is only one of numberless instances, and because it recognizes the uncertainty of these determinations, the state plainly prescribes that where an animal is killed, after showing reaction and found free from tuberculosis, the state pays the owner of the animal its full value.

We are more anxious than the state to have our herd entirely free from disease, as we have always been, and our patrons may be sure we use every known precaution to protect them. We are glad to co-operate with both state and city officials and welcome their assistance if for no other reason than because we have a large herd of valuable animals, including a large number of pure bred animals, whose protection from infectious troubles, which would ultimately destroy them, is a necessary business precaution.

WILL ATTEND FIRST BALL GAME

Members of Commission Will Welcome White Sox Home.

The members of the city council will attend the ball game Monday, the opening of the local season.

The regular council meeting comes on that afternoon, but the session will either be held Monday morning or postponed until Tuesday, according to the present understanding.

Mayor Prince will make a short speech immediately preceding the game and will pitch the first ball. The mayor is the hottest fan on the commission and will not only be there the first day, but on as many other days as he can when the team is playing at home.

ADMIT THEIR GUILT.

Two Beltrami County People Confess to Crimes.

Bemidji, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Edward Davis, a Beltrami county man, has pleaded guilty to having sold to Patrice and Alexis Jourdain, who are Indians on the Red Lake reservation, liquor that intoxicated them to such an extent that the latter committed patricide on the former. He has been sentenced by Judge Simons.

Admits Being White Slaver.

William Short, confessed keeper of several houses of prostitution along the Minnesota & International, has pleaded guilty to white slavery when he brought Mamie Burns of Dubuque, Iowa, here for immoral purposes. He is out on a $12,000 bond and has appealed his case to the Federal court of appeals. He was on bond here for improper use of the mails, when arrested on the white slavery charge.

WOULD BE UNLAWFUL.

To Ship Liquor Into "Dry" Towns In Wisconsin.

Madison, Wis., May 15.—It is unlawful, says Attorney General Owen, for an agent to ship liquor orders into "dry" territory in Wisconsin. District Attorney Bogue of Columbia county asked him whether a person at Milwaukee or in Minneapolis could ship liquor into "dry" towns in Columbia county and whether breweries at either place could establish a distributing point or warehouse in "dry" territory. Both the agent and the brewery are held to be criminally liable for such shipments.

OREGON HOLDING PRIMARY ELECTION

Portland, Ore., May 15.—Candidates for Democratic, Republican and Progressive party nominations are being voted for in Oregon's primary election today. Nominations are to be made for United States senator, three representatives in congress and complete state and county tickets.

Fishing at Bemidji.

Bemidji, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fishing that has made Bemidji almost famous has started in earnest and with results. Near the Red Lake railroad bridge and the wagon bridge are the principal places of catching the fish. T. E. Henderson of Crookston brought a party over to Bemidji this week and in the first thirty minutes they fished they caught enough fish to have fed the party for the three days they remained here.

Supreme Court Decides Sholund License Was Properly Revoked.

In Appearing, Sholund Waived Any Insufficiency of Notice.

The action of the city council in revoking the saloon license of Charles Sholund, 103 East Michigan street, is upheld in every material particular by the state supreme court in an opinion handed down today by Judge Hallam.

The decision is in the appeal taken by Sholund through a writ of certiorari issued by the supreme court. The court denies the motion to amend the original return and quashes the writ.

The opinion states that by appearing before the council in person as well as by his attorney, C. V. McCoy, Sholund waived any insufficiency of the notice served upon him to appear to show cause why his license should not be revoked. It is further pointed out that McCoy's contention that the ordinance is void is not well taken as Sholund's own statement practically amounts to an admission of violation of the statute governing the sale and disposal of intoxicating liquor, for which reason the validity of the ordinance is held not to be an issue in the case. The court adds that the council is expressly authorized by statute to revoke a liquor license upon proof of violation of any law or ordinance relative to the sale of liquor or the keeping of public drinking places.

The substance of the decision, which includes a brief review of the case, handed down, is as follows:

St. Louis County.

State of Minnesota, ex rel; Charles Sholund, relator, vs. Mayor and Common Council City of Duluth, respondent—

1. Certiorari is a proper method of obtaining a review of the action of a city council in revoking a liquor license.

2. In certiorari it is proper to return the record, proceedings in the nature of a record, the rulings of the tribunal and the evidence received.

3. The certiorari proceeding is in the nature of an appeal. The record considered is that made and certified by the tribunal whose proceedings are under review. The return, in so far as it is responsive to the writ, is conclusive, and the court of review will not inquire into charges of its falsity or require the respondents to state contrary to what they have certified.

4. In proceedings to revoke a liquor license under G. S. 1913, Sec. 3152, the person proceeded against is entitled to notice and an opportunity to be heard and to be advised of the nature of the charges against him, but he waives all question as to the sufficiency of the notice and to the sufficiency of the form of the charges made against him if, without objection, he appears and contests on the merits.

Motion to amend return denied and writ quashed. HALLAM, J.

WHAT OTHER CITIES ARE DOING

A LITTLE town in Kansas has decided to cure its "knockers" in a very unique way. A systematic scheme has been put in vogue which has converted all the "knockers" into "boosters" of the town.

Here's the way it was done. An energetic business man secured the appointment of a grievance committee to which each one that was inclined to "knock" the community reported. This committee made a list of the names of the "knockers" and put opposite each name the particular grievance he had.

On an appointed day, the "knockers" were kindly asked to assemble, as well as the other citizens of the town, for a "love feast" and each grievance and its respective author were up for general discussion, with a result that the "knockers" all became "boosters" of the little town and the community has improved somewhat in several different ways.

Every community, large or small, could benefit from love feasts of that kind. Duluth probably has "knockers" and the airing of their grievances might show them where they are wrong or it might develop something which ought to be remedied.

M. E. UNION PLANS ANNUAL PICNIC

Rev. C. B. Mitchell of Chicago Will Be the Chief Speaker.

The Methodist Union of Duluth will hold its first annual dinner next Tuesday evening at the First M. E. church.

The feature of the gathering will be an address to be given by Rev. Charles Bayard Mitchell of Chicago, one of the most popular speakers in the West. He addressed a large gathering here two years ago and has many friends in Duluth. Rev. Mr. Mitchell will speak on "The Art of Human Approach."

The dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock, after which a program of music and toasts will be rendered. Dr. M. P. Burns, district superintendent of the Methodist church, will act as toastmaster, and among those who will respond to toasts are Watson S. Moore, "Our Progress;" Charles E. Dice, "Methodism and Civics;" and I. K. Lewis, "Co-Operation."

During the evening the orchestra of the First M. E. Sunday school will render a program of music.

CALL LIGHTHOUSE INCIDENT CLOSED.

Washington, May 15. — The Lobo island lighthouse incident is regarded as closed by the state department. Secretary Bryan has acquitted of blame in the matter of the light Lieut. Com. Jeffers of the destroyer Fanning, who gave the lightkeeper a certificate that he had taken possession of the light by force. The secretary intimated that the only criticism might lie against the construction that might have been placed upon that formality.

REPORT OUTRAGES UPON AMERICANS

Refugees From Saltillo and Guadalajara at Eagle Pass.

Eagle Pass, Texas, May 15—Refugees arriving from Saltillo and Guadalajara brought reports of outrages on Americans. Wholesale destruction of American property was reported in Guaydalajara. It was said that stores had been looted and homes stripped of furniture. Several Americans were reported beaten. One American, who arrived from Guadalajara, where for years he had been in business, said all Americans were herded together and ordered to leave the city at once.

The small colony, including some women and children, left the city in buggies and wagons. They are supposed to be trying to make their way through a hostile country to the border.

A party of 150 Spaniards left here yesterday en route to Havana, where they will be cared for by the Spanish government. Most of these Spaniards were expelled from Torreon by Gen. Villa.

FOREIGNERS PRESS DEMANDS ON REBELS

Benton's Death Must Be Paid for, Says Great Britain.

Washington, May 15.—Success is bringing embarrassment to the Constitutionalists in the form of demands for compensation for losses to foreigners within their sphere of influence, which foreign governments are pressing with increasing force the further the Constitutionalists establish themselves as responsible masters of Northern Mexico.

Spain takes a particular interest in this question of compensation, many Spanish subjects having submitted complaints against Carranza and his subordinates for confiscation or destruction of their property, forced loans, imprisonment or ejection from the country. The Spanish ambassador called at the state department to see what could be done for 800 Spaniards ejected by the Constitutionalists from Torreon.

The case of William S. Benton, the British subject killed at Juarez, also looms threateningly on the Constitutionalist horizon. Great Britain has announced that it will exact adequate reparation for Benton's death.

DETAILS OF THE CAPTURE OF TAMPICO

Washington, May 15.—The first details of the fall of Tampico late Wednesday have been received here in dispatches to the navy department and to the Constitutionalist agents. The total killed is placed at 300.

The final assault on the city, according to official advices, began Monday night when ten cannon and fourteen machine guns were wheeled into position on the northern outskirts of the stronghold.

From that time until 2,000 men in the Federal garrison under Gen. Zaragosa fled under cover of a downpour of rain, the roar of the cannon was almost continuous.

The Constitutionalists' big guns, it is said, played havoc with the entire Federal entrenchment, finally forcing two of Huerta's gunboats to retreat down the Panuco river.

Fought Under Cannon Fire.

With the danger of the warships' guns removed, Generals Gonzales and Luis Caballero hurled their entire force of 7,000 Constitutionalists against the Federal entrenchments while their cannon poured a deadly fire into the city itself.

Under the combined attack, the Federal lines broke and Gen. Zaragosa, after blowing up the barracks, ordered the retreat during a lull in the fighting, many of his officers and men taking refuge on the gunboats that then steamed out and anchored under the protection of the guns of the American fleet.

Last night the streets of Tampico were patrolled by Constitutionalist constabulary. Invitations were issued to foreigners to return to their business affairs, under guarantee of protection. All saloons were ordered closed.

U. S. Warships Return.

In a dispatch to the navy department, Admiral Mayo said the American warships had again steamed up the river from the outer harbor, and that all was quiet in the city.

SNIPERS NOT ON NORWEGIAN SHIP.

Washington, May 15.—It was a Mexican and not a Norwegian vessel from which shots were fired against Americans at Vera Cruz, for which incident five South Americans were arrested, according to a report from Gen. Funston to Secretary Garrison. The case is still under advisement.

Several Bandits Killed.

Juarez, Mexico, May 15.—Several of Gen. Quevedo's band of guerrillas, who have been cutting telegraph lines and burning railroad bridges near Santa Sofia, Chihuahua, have been killed in a skirmish with Constitutionalist troops under Capt. Leopoldo Rodriguez, according to a report to military headquarters here.

A. A. Neil Safe in Mexico.

San Francisco, Cal., May 15.—A. A. Neil, president of the National Cracker company of Mexico City, is safe in that city, according to information received in Washington by Secretary Bryan from the Brazilian minister to Mexico. Refugees recently reported that Neil and John Burt, vice president of his firm, were dragged from a refugee train at Colima by Mexican Federals.

OVER $600,000 FOR PRESBYTERIANISM.

New York, May 15.—John Calvin Martin, coal operator, who died Sept. 3, 1912, left a net estate of $740,627, according to a transfer tax appraisal just filed. Litigation concerning the distribution of Mr. Martin's estate continued for more than a year in the surrogate's court.

By the will, which eventually was admitted to probate, three departments of the Presbyterian Church of the United States received $201,873 each. They are the board of missions for freedman, the board of home missions and the college board. The money in each case is to be used in the "Bible training department of the John C. Martin foundation."

ARTILLERY READY FOR QUICK SERVICE.

Newport News, Va., May 15.—Orders directing eight companies of coast artillery at Fort Monroe to get in readiness for active service and to be prepared to entrain on short notice, have reached Col. Ira Haynes, the commanding officer.

TWO MICHIGAN WOMEN KILLED.

Albion, Mich., May 15.—Two women were killed and three persons injured when an east-bound Kalamazoo-Jackson interurban car struck an automobile east of here yesterday: The dead are:

MRS. POLLY LINDSAY, 40 years old.
MRS. AMBROSE F. LANTMAN, aged 50, both of Quincy, Mich.

BOYS' FIELD MEET WILL BE HELD ON MAY 23 INSTEAD OF JUNE 6

Complete Program for Big Annual Event Has Been Arranged—Open to All City Schools.

The annual interscholastic field meet, which was scheduled to take place June 6, will be held Saturday, May 23, at the baseball grounds, West Superior street. Change of date was made necessary because of the inability of the management to get the grounds on the former date.

As this is the big athletic event of the season and one in which Duluth school boys are always interested, practice has been going on steadily during the afternoon, and it is expected that the meet this year will bring out a large crowd. Each school will have a good representation of players and rooters.

The boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. is conducting the meet and will be ably assisted by a committee of boys from the various schools and a committee of men, who will act as officials. The meet is open to all school boys in Duluth, and they will be divided in four divisions: Midgets—Boys 70 to 90 pounds, with the following events: Potato race, eight potatoes; 50-yard dash, three standing broad jumps, ¼-mile run, 800-yard relay race.

Middleweight—105 pounds; 120 and 100-yard dash, running high jump, three standing broad jumps, ¼-mile run, 800-yard relay race.

Heavyweight—More than 120 pounds; 10-pound shot put, 100-yard dash, running high jump, running broad jump, ½-mile run, 1-mile relay.

A change has been made in the awards. Instead of one school being the champion in all divisions, there will be a champion school in each division. This will give every school an equal opportunity even if their boys are smaller than in the big schools. The champion school in the midget, lightweight and middleweight divisions will receive a felt banner in the colors of the school, and the winner in the heavyweight class will hold the beautiful silver loving cup presented by The Herald. This cup has to be won three times before it becomes the permanent property of any school. The winners of first, second and third prizes in each event will receive the official badge of the Interscholastic Athletic league; First, a silver badge; second, silver and bronze; third, bronze. Only winners in the interscholastic meets are ever entitled to wear this badge.

J. R. BATCHELOR,
Who Is in Charge of the Meet.

A meeting of the boys' committee of the interscholastic committee will meet at the boys' department, Y. M. C. A., at 7:30. Every member of that committee is urged to be present, as important business will be transacted.

J. R. Batchelor, physical director of the boys' department, is in direct charge of the meet, and will be glad to give any further information.

PET ENEMIES BREAK BREAD

Miller and Boyle, Prince and McEwen, Barnes and Manahan Appear Together on Banquet Programs.

Two banquets last night furnished several anomalous situations, where pet enemies not only sat at the same more or less festive board and broke bread together, but where they were on the program to air their views.

Congressman Clarence Miller was on the toast list and so was Senator James P. Boyle, who is straining every political muscle to throw the congressman out of his job and land there himself.

William E. McEwen was toastmaster. On the toast list was his successful opponent in the mayoralty fight, W. I. Prince, and today the supreme court handed down its decision in their legal conflict.

At the banquet of the Duluth Association of Office Men, Congressman-at-Large James A. Manahan was one of the speakers. Seated a couple of places away was Julius H. Barnes, a leading member of the Duluth board of trade and who has been fighting Mr. Manahan's charges that the Duluth, Chicago and Minneapolis grain exchanges are not properly conducted. Mr. Barnes was also a speaker.

And yet there were no clashes.

LODGES HOLD A TEMPERANCE RALLY

Addresses Given By Representatives of Duluth and Superior Societies.

A rally of the temperance lodges of Duluth and Superior was held last night at Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street. Representatives were present from eleven Good Templar lodges.

The program consisted of addresses on temperance from many of the representatives present. A campaign for state-wide prohibition was advocated, and it is planned to have good speakers secured for the district who will speak during the campaign.

Gust Hjerpe, past chief templar of the North Star lodge, presided. In addition to the speaking program several musical numbers were given. On this part of the program the North Star quartet and other singing organizations appeared.

Ohlie-Anderson.

Miss Anna Ohlie and Charles Anderson were married at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Hultquist, 2826 Huron street. Rev. W. E. Harmann, pastor of the St. Peter's Episcopal church, read the ceremony. Miss Elsie Strandberg was bridesmaid and John A. Anderson, a brother of the bridegroom, was groomsan. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will reside at 2712 West Helm street.

MILLER TALKS ON PHILIPPINES

Orpheus Singing Society Gives Very Successful Entertainment.

Congressman Clarence B. Miller gave an interesting account of the life and habits of the people of the Philippine islands at an entertainment given last night by the Orpheus Singing society at the Woodmen hall, Twenty-first avenue west and Third street. Illustrations showing the work accomplished by the government since it took over the islands were shown as well as pictures from various parts of the possessions.

The congressman enlarged upon the work of educating the people. Modern schools, of which he showed pictures, have been established, he said, where every vocation was being taught. These schools include grade and high schools, as well as a university. Vocational employment is being taught, he said, through manual training departments.

Since taking possession of the islands the congressman said that everything possible had been done to teach sanitation among the natives. Better water was now being provided through artesian wells and since the establishment of these the death rate among infants had fallen off 50 per cent.

The government of the islands, he said, was being run on an efficient and economical basis by Americans. He said that the removal of these men in charge of the government and turning it over to the natives would be a mistake as the people of the Islands were not yet ready to assume charge.

The program included a number of well rendered selections by the singing society, as well as vocal solos by members. A capacity crowd attended the lecture.

Confirmation Class.

A class of eleven members will be confirmed at the First Swedish Methodist church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street, Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Communion and baptismal services and a reception for new members will also be held. Rev. C. W. R. Wermine will conduct the services.

Parish Meeting.

The annual parish meeting of the St. Peter's Episcopal church, Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street, will be held Monday evening at 7:45 o'clock in the guild rooms. Following the business meeting, at which the officers for the church will be elected and reports of societies read, a program will be given.

Dr. T. W. McLean of the Trinity procathedral will be the principal speaker on the program. Several musical numbers and other short addresses will be given.

West End Briefs.

Ladies of the Merritt Memorial M. E. church will present their "Low Holler Choral Singing Society" at the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street, this evening. The playlet was recently presented successfully at the Merritt church.

The choir of the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue and Second street, will hold rehearsals this evening.

Duluth lodge No. 3131, Brotherhood of American Yeomen will hold a "Ladies Night" Monday evening at the Woodmen hall. The women will have charge of the various offices.

Mrs. S. J. McCloskey and son, James, who have been visiting at the home of Mrs. E. S. Lamb, 2714 West Third street, left yesterday for their home at Green Bay.

The Rosary Society of St. Clements' church was entertained in the clubrooms of the church yesterday afternoon. Mrs. A. Hedlund and Mrs. J. J. Hughes were hostesses.

BISMARCK NEXT.

North Dakota Doctors Also Elect Lakota Physician President.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bismarck was selected by the North Dakota Medical society as the place for the next annual meeting. The convention here was ended last night.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

Besides passing upon a large variety of candidates for office, the voters of Minnesota at the November election will be asked to decide eleven proposals to amend the Constitution.

As a majority of those voting at the election must vote affirmatively to ratify these amendments, and as many voters do not bother with such proposals at all, it is a hard task to pass them, and usually only the one at the top of the ballot, and possibly one more, gets through.

As some of these amendments are of the highest importance, and as only one of them can get the favored position at the top of the ballot, there is extraordinary need of arousing public interest in these proposals. Therefore The Herald will run the list now, will follow it up by a brief review of each amendment in the order in which it appears in the session laws, and later will return from time to time to the discussion of the more important amendments. In the meantime, it will always be glad to answer any questions put to it concerning these proposals.

The proposed amendments, stated as briefly as possible, are as follows:

1. Providing the initiative and referendum.
2. Increasing the number of supreme court justices from five to seven, and requiring that no statute be held unconstitutional except by the votes of at least five of the seven justices.
3. Creating a revolving fund out of the state's permanent funds to be used in building roads and firebreaks in, through and around state lands.
4. Repealing the constitutional requirement of the publication of the state treasurer's annual statement in a St. Paul newspaper.
5. Authorizing the loaning of state school funds on improved farm lands.
6. Extending the term of judges of probate from two to four years.
7. The so-called "seven-senators" amendment.
8. Authorizing a state bounty for timber-planting.
9. Authorizing the setting aside for forestry purposes of state land more fitted for timber-raising than agriculture.
10. The recall.
11. Taxing dogs to reimburse owners of farm animals injured by dogs.

Some of these amendments are of a trifling nature, comparatively. Some, as we have said, are of the highest importance. One is distinctly and outrageously bad, and should be overwhelmingly defeated. All of them should be studied by every voter, and ratified or rejected according to their merits or lack of merits.

A brief review of the eleven amendments in the above order—which is not necessarily the order in which they will appear on the ballot—will follow in these columns from day to day.

Anna Pavlowa, the Russian dancer, told the kaiser that his ban on the tango in Germany had killed that dance in America. Anna is something of a hot air artist herself.

A QUESTION OF STATE FINANCES.

A suit is to be brought against the state auditor to compel him to turn over to the state game and fish commission a considerable sum of money collected by the commission in license fees.

Heretofore, a good many state bureaus and departments have subsisted by their fees, handling them much as they pleased.

The legislature last year passed a law stopping this practice, and requiring that all fees be turned into the state treasury and that all state expenses be met by direct appropriations.

But it seems the legislature did not couple with this action an adequate appropriation for the fish and game commission. At any rate, its money has about run out, and it is said that unless it can get these fees it can employ no wardens from June 1 to August 1, when a new appropriation comes due.

Since this particular question is to be passed upon by the courts, it is not proper for a newspaper to judge it.

However, it is proper to judge the general question involved, and fair enough to say that the legislature, when it provided that all fees should go into the state treasury and that no public moneys should be drawn out except by direct appropriation, did exactly the right thing. It abolished a practice susceptible to gross abuses, and substituted a system that is business-like and sensible.

And this system ought to stand.

If, by inadvertence, the legislature failed properly to provide for fish and game protection, then it is a condition and not a theory that confronts the state, and the court is the proper place to apply to for a remedy.

Hinky Dink and Bathhouse John have lost a lot of election officials in Chicago's First ward. Which is an indication that no matter how the court decides as to the constitutionality of the woman suffrage law, its passage resulted in some clear gain for Chicago.

PENSIONS FOR CITY EMPLOYES.

There is a pension system now for policemen and firemen, and just as soon as the city can arrange it—or afford it—there should be a pension system for civil employes also.

Therefore the city commission did the proper thing in refusing to create a pension system for water and light department employes only.

It would have been manifestly unfair to single out the employes of a single department for this favor, and to omit the rest; and it might not be legal.

In whatever pension system is adopted, the employes benefited should contribute to the pension fund. The city should make provision to stand its share of the expense, but at least a part of the fund should be raised by assessments upon the salaries of employes.

It would be worth while to plan now the system that is to be adopted, even if it is not put into effect immediately.

At least, the preparedness of the navy for Mexican service will make other nations think a couple of times before starting anything.

AN ANTI-TUBERCULOSIS TAG DAY.

The local Linnaea society is to have a tag day Saturday. The money is to be devoted to the fight against consumption.

That's a pretty idea all around, and deserving of success.

In the first place, the success of the fight against tuberculosis is in large degree a question of money—of money enough to spread education on the subject and to fight conditions that foster the disease. So every dollar that can be turned to the support of this winning fight is a dollar spent for humanity.

In the second place, Saturday is the birthday of the man for whom this society is named—Karl von Linne (Carolus Linnaeus as it is Latinized), the great Swedish botanist who with our own Asa Gray led the world in the classification of plants. He was a great man and a good man, and it is peculiarly fine to have his birthday thus observed.

A little later, out in the shady woods, trailing over moss-covered fallen tree trunks and carpeting the woodland, you will find a dainty flower—two bell-shaped corollas, pink, delicately veined and exquisitely scented. Sweeter even than the rarer arbutus, it is the fairest and sweetest flower of this zone. It is the twin-flower, native of the north from which Linnaeus sprang and which he loved. Its botanical name is Linnaeus Borealis, and it is said to be significant of his character that among all the world's floral beauty which he knew, von Linne chose this modest woodland beauty to bear his name.

So that makes it fitting that an errand of mercy and humanity should be performed on his birthday, in his name, by a society named in his honor.

Success to the Linnaea society's tag-day!

Charge O'Shaughnessy says that Huerta sees his finish. If it's a new experience Huerta must be remarkably shortsighted.

A SPLENDID APPOINTMENT.

President Wilson has appointed Alfred Jaques of Duluth to be United States district attorney for the district of Minnesota.

The president has done exceedingly well.

There isn't a squarer man in Minnesota than Alfred Jaques. There isn't a man with a sturdier character, a firmer backbone, or a more relentless hostility to wrong. With these qualities go abilities of the highest order, and a loyalty to the common good and the public weal that knows no compromise.

With Alfred Jaques as district attorney, the nation's legal business in this state will be in dependable hands. The appointment is a credit to the president and to the state.

Senator Thomas of Colorado doubts the efficacy of the arguments in favor of repealing the Panama tolls bill. He's not the first of that name to let himself go down in history as a doubter.

BRIDAL WREATH.

The Kansas City Star in an editorial pays this tribute to the bridal wreath (spirea Van Houteii), a shrub which is thoroughly dependable in this climate:

It's the same way every May. You think you are prepared for the display of bridal wreath, and then when you take a walk or ride about the shrubbery districts, you find you have no notion of its beauty.

The bridal wreath bush is fine all through the summer, with its mass of vivid green leaves. But just at this time it even makes the gorgeous lilac inconsequential. Its white waves billow and foam over the landscape and give it a freshness and charm that make a perfect harmony with the incomparable month of May.

No solitary is this sturdy shrub. A single bush looks lonely and incomplete. It is a social plant, and needs its fellows to produce the best results. It accomplishes most in battalions against a house, or along a wall or border.

What is true of Kansas City—save for the fact that there is a difference of several weeks in the blooming period, which has not begun here when it is finished there—is true of Duluth, or would be if more people knew and took advantage of the inimitable bridal wreath spirea for home adornment. Its solid masses of blossom are not only billows, but cataracts and cascades of purest white, gracefully draped in arches and curves. In clumps, in borders or as a hedge it is unsurpassed even by the lilac, though both do exceptionally well in this climate.

Government flour mills are being advocated in Australia. Wonder if some of the politicians there are only chaffing?

REAL HEROISM.

To which the Toledo Blade responds: "If a king is a hero for being a king, how big a medal should Huerta have for being a Mexican president?" Which is merely flippant.

In these days of the world-wide rise of democracy, a man who holds the job of king anywhere, and who really works at it and attempts to wield its ancient powers instead of being content as most of them are with being a bedizened figurehead, surely deserves a hero medal as much as many of those who get them.

Now the Japanese are threatening to become a serious menace to the shrimp industry in this country. There are some kinds of shrimps whose increase could be stopped without Uncle Sam's suffering severely except in the growth of population.

SINCE BABY CAME

Since Baby came in last mid-May
I have not seen a single play.
The newer books remain unread—
A little life I've conned instead,
So full of heavenly lines, and sweet
From silken head to rose-pink feet.

Since Baby came, with needs so great,
My hats and frocks are out of date;
Her carriage, cot and garments small
Have swallowed up our little all;
But other things I gladly miss
My baby's blossom face to kiss.

Since Baby came a look of home
Upon our tiny house has come:
Her toys are scattered here and there,
Her little touch is everywhere;
And Love is dearer, holier flame,
And brighter burns—since Baby came.

Advertisers and the Evening Newspaper

Editorial in the Louisville Post.

Will Irwin, the well-known magazine writer and essayist, who has given up much of his time in recent years to a study of American newspapers, makes these remarks in the current number of Harper's Weekly as an illustration of another point he had been discussing:

For reasons too complex to enumerate here, the evening newspaper appears to be the better advertising medium with women than the morning newspaper. At least, the department stores say they find it so.

The department stores find it so, and everybody else who will investigate the subject will find it so. The morning newspaper comes at the beginning of the day's work for both men and women. Of those who subscribe to the morning newspaper at their homes or buy it on the street corner to read on the trip downtown not one in ten has time to do much more than glance over the headlines.

This is a fact that can be demonstrated with mathematical certainty by any observer. The morning newspaper that is delivered at the home is, in a large majority of cases, taken downtown by the man of the family shortly after breakfast. Obviously, that paper is not read by the women of the family. Nor is it returned to the home in the late afternoon, for, by that time, the afternoon newspapers are on the street, or in the homes, filled with news of interest that has happened since the morning papers were published.

It is, of course, even more obvious that the morning newspaper that is purchased on the street corner to be perused on the way downtown goes away from the home, and cannot be of much value as an advertising medium. Such a newspaper is rarely read by more than one person, while the afternoon newspaper, which is purchased on the street, is taken back to the home that same afternoon and is read, in many cases, by the whole family at a period of the day when the whole family has time to devote to that purpose.

Mr. Irwin's testimony, as given above, is valuable because he is not connected with any newspaper, and has not the slightest motive to misstate facts. He states facts which are not only true today, but are certain to become more obvious as time passes. The function of the morning newspaper is that of a bulletin board; the afternoon newspaper is prepared to be read carefully and only by insertion in newspapers that are read carefully can advertising matter bring its proper rewards.

Huerta and Villa

From Maj. J. C. Hemphill's Washington Letter to Philadelphia Public Ledger: A recent important visitor to Mexico has talked in a very interesting way about Huerta and Villa and other high lights on the Mexican stage. Huerta is neither a great soldier nor a great statesman. He never fought a great battle or conducted a great campaign. His success has been due largely to treacherous acts. He does not understand politics as the science of government, but only as a means of securing passing political advantage. He is at his best when he is under the influence of ardent spirits. He is an Indian, or a half-breed, perhaps, and endowed with all the stoicism of his Indian blood. He does not fear death and he knows very little about life as the more highly civilized people of this country know life. He was educated at the national military academy of Mexico. He does not speak English. He says that there are two American names that he knows very well, and one of which he is very fond —O'Shaughnessy and Hennessy. The latter, in liquid form, is his almost constant companion. He is a married man. He mixes with the crowd in the streets and in the cafes without ceremony. He has a sense of humor and some at least of the human qualities. He is not, however, in any sense qualified to administer the affairs of a great people, and his power has been surely and steadily slipping out of his hands. His treasury is empty, his people are rising against him, his army has been reduced until now he has only two battalions of the Twenty-seventh infantry, or about 2,700 men, and the garrison at Guaymas upon which he can rely.

On the other hand, Villa, cut-throat and brute though he be, may be fairly regarded as the most powerful figure in Mexico today. His ability as a soldier has been proved in the field and he possesses many of the qualities of leadership. In American eyes neither of these men would be regarded as fit to direct the affairs of orderly government; but they ought to be considered in their own environment and be judged by Mexican and not by American standards.

The Flag.

It floats above the dreadnoughts' spars
As if the angel of the tars
Had cut a strip from God's own stars!

But I hate when I go
To a musical show
To remain the finale to view.
For a girl from whose jaw
Comes a voice like a saw
Makes a grab for the Red, White and Blue
And she wraps round her tights
That dear banner of rights
And she asks you to cheer her, too!

It is the glorious robe that I Believe the messengers on high
Wear as they wing across the sky.

But I freely admit
That it doesn't seem fit
That the banner that's made for the van
Should be hung in the place
Of a frankfurter case
Round a very low comedy man,
Or be tied to the gamp
Of the vaudeville tramp,
With his whiskers, his limp and his can!

The stars and sun were at its birth,
Shall it be partner now on earth
To some cheap mummer in his mirth!

Oh, you needn't have much
Of the patriot touch
To believe that the Flag we adore is a little too fine
To be used as a sign
By the curveting coryphee corps,
Or be flaunted in air
By a song-and-dance pair
Or a knock-about comedy four!

O actors with the iron jaws,
Take off your desecrating paws!
The Flag's not looking for applause!

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—If one had been standing at a good vantage point in one of the Washington parks on a certain afternoon, one might have witnessed the odd spectacle of a large, dignified cabinet officer pausing to swap confidences with a group of street urchins.

The boys and the cabinet officer chatted back and forth as man to man, without the slightest element of patronizing from either side, and the talk was all about experience in learning to smoke.

One lad in the group was endeavoring to light and smoke a small piece of an old rattan buggy whip. This little enterprise attracted the attention of Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the interior, who was passing.

"That's exactly the way I learned to smoke," exclaimed Lane in introducing himself.

"It doesn't draw very good," observed the boy who was lighting up.

"He's just learning to smoke," explained a slightly larger boy.

"Aw, I've smoked before. I've smoked corn silk," declared the first boy.

"Corn silk!" repeated Lane, with enthusiasm. "I'd plumb forgot about corn silk cigarettes. I reckon I smoked a hundred or so of them. And did you ever try making cigarettes of dried grape leaves?"

Only one of the boys had ever tried that and so he and Lane became particularly intimate.

"Say, mister, WON'T smokin' corn silk give you the yeller janders?" asked another boy, by way of obtaining authority for a previous assertion.

"Well, I have understood so," earnestly replied Lane, "though in my own case I recall that I smoked a great many without any noticeable ill effects."

Thus the talk ran on for some minutes, and the perfect democracy of the conversation was something worth going to see. Only once did the cabinet officer forsake his attitude of being one of the bunch. As he started away he remarked:

"I'll tell you boys, now that you've had the fun of learning to smoke, I believe you'll be better off if you cut it out."

A day or so after that some one entered Lane's office and offered him a cigarette. Lane smokes a cigarette about once a year, but he took it, lighted up, and reverted to his reminiscences about learning to smoke. Then Secretary Wilson of the department of labor dropped in and Lane inquired as to the way he had learned to smoke. Wilson, too, had acquired his first smoking experience with corn silk.

"Well," said Lane, with the air of one who has finally disposed of a grave question, "I guess it is fairly safe to say that fully twice as many men learned on corn silk as on grape leaves and rattan combined."

When the late William van Benthuysen was managing editor of the Chicago Tribune, two of his younger reporters were William E. Lewis, now editor of the New York Telegraph, and E. B. Clark, Washington correspondent for the Chicago Evening Post. These two reporters were sent out together on a big story that took them out of the city. They covered the story satisfactorily, but having disposed of the task at hand, they felt that they had earned a few days' recreation and did not return to the office until the end of the week. When they paused then to reflect over the situation they knew they would be fired, for the managing editor was a strict disciplinarian.

"Let's go in and be fired together," suggested Lewis.

Clark thought that would be a splendid idea, and so they approached the boss as a duet and stood before him expectantly.

The boss looked at them with no other thought than to fire them, but they were saved by the merest bit of luck. Just as he had it on his tongue's end to discharge them, the boss thought of a good joke—a joke based on his knowledge of American history—and it is not easy to discharge men immediately after they have laughed heartily at one's joke.

The bon mot that saved the reporters was simply this:

"After many days we hail the safe return of the Lewis and Clark expedition."

Henry J. Allen is running for governor of Kansas on the Progressive ticket. In a way, he is a clandestine candidate. Henry owns one of the papers in his home town of Wichita and the other paper belongs to the family of Victor Murdock. As there is a bit of political as well as newspaper rivalry between Allen and Murdock, the Murdock paper says little about Henry's race for governor. And Henry declares that he will not annoy his subscribers with articles about his candidacy.

"Thus you see," says Henry, "the home folks have had no chance to find out that I'm running for anything."

Oberammergau and Money.

London Daily News: The decision of the Oberammergau villagers not to produce their Passion play next year indicates that the victories of commercialism are not always as secure or as profitable as they seem. The villagers have been driven to this course by the loss on last year's performances and the big drop in the number of visitors. There was a time when Oberammergau produced its play for its own pleasure and the pleasure of its immediate neighbors. Then the wandering eye of the traveler detected the play and he announced it to all the world. He was followed by the speculator, and then Oberammergau came to produce its play not for the expression of its own spiritual emotions but to provide, at a price, a sensation for a cosmopolitan crowd. It was profitable enough for a time, and Oberammergau won notoriety as well as money; but as was bound to happen it lost its play. Nowadays the life of any one appeal to the curiosity of the sensation-loving is brief. Oberammergau after some years ceased to "draw;" but, having made extensive arrangements in the expectation of even more considerable returns, it found itself embarrassed. The price of having converted a village fete into an entertainment speculation is the loss for the time being even of the village fete. One may hope that Oberammergau will learn the lesson and return to its old ways, and once more play its play for its own satisfaction alone. It is only when it is played in that way that the play has the sincerity without which it is of very little value to Oberammergau or to the world at large.

Keeping Up With Minnesota Editors

Press Comments on Current Events.

Oh, Get Over It, Frank!

Fairmont Sentinel: With four Republican candidates scrapping for a nomination, W. S. Hammond's re-election to congress would be nothing short of a rollicking summer picnic.

Something Equally Foolish.

Greenbush Tribune: Eberhart's chief concern seems to be that the dear primary law might be repealed if Lee is elected governor instead of himself. Well, Lee has promised not to do away with the primary law if elected, so what is Eberhart's next issue?

Where to Find Them.

East Grand Forks Record: Editorially The Duluth Herald wants to know what makes heroes. We cannot say what is responsible for their being, but they can all be found at the corner grocery, spitting on the stove, and pointing out President Wilson's mismanagement of the Mexican situation.

Then Help Check It.

Anoka Union: A suspicion is gaining ground that some interests are working to precipitate a financial crisis in this country.

The Cost of Friendship.

Princeton Union: One of Governor Eberhart's friends writes: "Preus' candidacy for state auditor will cost the governor a whole lot of votes." Right you are, Mr. J——. Mr. Preus should have been satisfied with his $4,500 office.

It Seems Not Unlikely.

Brown's Valley Tribune: The Luverne Journal says that it believes the nomination of W. E. Lee is almost an assured fact. And it does look it, from the way he is being received wherever he goes on his speaking tour throughout the state.

Doing Good Work.

Morris Sun: Contrary to the expectations of some, perhaps, the efficiency commission has been hard at work since its appointment, and is gradually getting the plans for systematizing the state government whipped into shape. When one considers that there are upwards of seventy boards, societies and institutions to be brought under control of the eight or ten departments contemplated by the commission, it will be realized that the work laid out for this body of men is no child's play. Naturally the commission will meet with many obstacles before the work is completed, and their plans may never be adopted, but their work will not be in vain, for the results of their efforts will be a guidance to future legislation.

To the Dandelion.

Dear common flower, that grow'st beside the way,
Fringing the dusty road with harmless gold,
First pledge of blithesome May,
Which children pluck, and full of pride uphold,
High-hearted buccaneers, o'erjoyed that they
An Eldorado in the grass have found,
Which not the rich earth's ample round
May match in wealth—thou art more dear to me
Than all the prouder summer blooms may be.

Gold such as thine ne'er drew the Spanish prow
Through the primeval hush of Indian seas,
Nor wrinkled the lean brow
Of age, to rob the lover's heart of ease;
'Tis the spring's largess, which she scatters now
To rich and poor alike, with lavish hand,
Though most hearts never understand.
To take it at God's value, but pass by
The offered wealth with unrewarded eye.

Thou art my tropics and mine Italy;
To look at thee unlocks a warmer clime;
The eyes thou givest me
Are in the heart, and heed not space or time;
Not in mid-June the golden-cuirassed bee
Feels a more summerlike warm ravishment
In the white lily's breezy tent,
His fragrant Sybaris, than I, when first
From the dark green thy yellow circlet burst.

Then think I of deep shadows on the grass,
Of meadows where in sun the cattle graze,
Where, as the breezes pass
The gleaming rushes lean a thousand ways;
Of leaves that slumber in a cloudy mass,
Or whiten in the wind; of waters blue
That from the distance sparkle through
Some woodland gap; and of a sky above
Where one white cloud like a stray lamb doth move.

My childhood's earliest thoughts are linked with thee;
The sight of thee calls back the robin's song,
Who from the dark old tree
Beside the door sang clearly all day long,
And I, secure in childish piety,
Listened as if I heard an angel sing
With news from heaven, which he could bring
Fresh every day to my untainted ears
When birds and flowers and I were happy peers.

How like a prodigal doth Nature seem,
When thou, for all thy gold, so common art!
Thou teachest me to deem
More sacredly of every human heart
Since each reflects in joy its scanty gleam
Of heaven and could some wondrous secret show
Did we but pay the love we owe,
And with a child's undoubting wisdom look
On all these living pages of God's book.

—James Russell Lowell.

A Sure Cure.

New York Globe: Dr. Blank was much annoyed by an old lady who was always seen to accost him with great pertinacity in the street and entertain him with a long story of her ailments, real or imaginary. On one occasion she met him in the street when he was in an exceedingly great hurry and began to go over the old story.

"Oh, aye, I see you are quite feeble," said the doctor. "Now, if you please, shut your eyes and show me your tongue." The old lady followed the doctor's directions while he, moving quietly off, left her standing in that ridiculous position.

American Conquistadores

Chicago Record-Herald: The advocates of the grabbing of Mexico are evincing the fine spirit of the Spanish conquistadores. They would put an "inferior" race in leading strings after they had consigned many of its members to the grave by way of preliminary instruction. Their Monroe doctrine is a conqueror's warrant.

They array a continent against us. They sneer at A, B, C mediation and adopt a course that would invite mediation from A to Z.

They trample on American principles and American traditions.

They forget that the fathers who announced the Monroe doctrine were the champions of those countries to the south that were struggling for independence.

They forget that the Monroe doctrine was a declaration of independence for them, a declaration with a guarantee against a government by foreign powers.

Their attitude is that of certain European monarchies toward this country during the Civil war. Liberty has been tried and found wanting. The Republican experiment is a failure. Drunk with a little imperialism, they are wild to extend the system. They conveniently slight the fact that the people of South American states have solved or are solving their problems. They are infatuated with old and discredited notions of arbitrary power that they once condemned as medieval survivals in Europe, and they have taken over these notions second-hand as if they were a great original discovery.

The trash that is being written by these fire alarm publicists, their belated militarism, their amazing ignorance of the teachings of history, their impudent reversal of sound American doctrines, is an offense to the intelligence and the conscience of a nation whose own story is a complete and crushing refutation of their borrowed opinions. They cannot affect the policies of this government and this people. They must not be allowed to make bitter enemies where we want only friends.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of genera. interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

ACTION NEEDED.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Permit me to express my thanks to the author of the poem to the men of the Benjamin Noble. It voices a feeling that is persistent if repressed. It also suggests the investigation now pending. There is little use in finding a cause unless we are in a position to apply an immediate remedy. There are many people who have confidence in the committee in charge and feel assured that all that can be done is being done. But investigations are necessarily slow. In the meantime the next storm is on its way and may come at any moment. Would it be feasible to raise a fund to provision the lighthouse? It was a matter of enough food to keep a man a day or two that seems now to have cost twenty lives.

A lighthouse keeper should be protected in the discharge of his duties. His work is often perilous and its accomplishment heroic.

Shall we again be put in the position of answering in effect to the pleading "S. O. S."—"The light is dark, the fog horn dumb—but be comforted. If you die, we will inquire into it"? Respectfully,

AN OPEN COURTIER.

Duluth, May 13.

JUST BAD MANNERS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

When at a moving picture show have you ever sat in close proximity to the talking fiend, who reads every line in a loud voice and between times keeps up an incessant chatter with a companion who unfortunately had seen the play before, and proclaimed it by anticipating every turn of the reel? Of course, being egged on by his neighbor with such inane questions as "Who is he?" "Who is she?" "What are they doing now?" "Was he in it before?" And again—"There she goes now;" "See them dance;" "See the fire department;" "Oh, see; Oh, look; Oh, my," etc. If you have, Mr. Editor, you will sympathize with a half dozen or more people who had their evening spoiled while endeavoring to profit by the "Message From Mars."

Why be so thoughtless of others' enjoyment? A beautiful play or view or any other beauty renders many people speechless. Here's hoping the talking fiends may acquire better manners. Thanking you in advance for inserting this in your Open Court, we remain, yours truly,

SEXTETTE.

COMBING WON'T RID HAIR OF DANDRUFF

The Easiest and Best Way Is To Dissolve It.

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy, every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you want to preserve your hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for nothing destroys the hair more quickly. It not only starves the hair and make it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and evedyone notices it. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

PRAIRIE DOG CAUSE OF SENATE RUMPUS

Ashurst Yells "Falsifier" at Bristow—Other Pleasantries Pass.

Washington, May 15.—Prairie dogs stirred up more trouble in the senate yesterday than tariff, currency, tolls or woman suffrage had done in the entire session. Before the flurry was over, one senator had denounced another as "falsifier," and Democrats had been accused of converting the party's economic pledge into a satire.

It all came about by Senator Ashurst's being absent from the senate when it agreed to a $125,000 item in the agricultural appropriation bill for investigating noxious farm animals. Yesterday he asked for a reconsideration so he might insert a $5,000 increase for an investigation for the methods of exterminating the prairie dog, which he said had uprooted whole townships in Arizona.

Called It Asinine.

Senator Bristow remarked that an appropriation for the extermination of the prairie dogs was asinine because every farmer knew how to get rid of them.

"Everything I do seems asinine to the senator from Kansas," retorted Senator Ashurst.

For a minute the storm promised to pass over, but Senator Gronna, answering a remark of Senator Bristow, started it anew by declaring, with some heat, that certain senators tried to be facetious about everything.

"I am not in favor of calling out the army and navy to exterminate the prairie dog," Senator Bristow replied. "This thing looks to me like a strained effort to get an appropriation to give somebody some jobs."

"No one would make that statement whose brains were not at the base of his tongue instead of in his head," shouted Senator Ashurst as he advanced across the chamber toward the Kansas senator. "Any senator who says I am seeking to get some jobs by this item knows he is a falsifier."

Ashurst Defiant.

"The senator from Arizona is out of order, and if he continues to be so I must compel him to take his seat," declared Senator Hitchcock, presiding.

"The senator knows he was out of order, but he repeats the statement," was Senator Ashurst's reply.

The roll call on reconsideration cut short the debate. Reconsideration was defeated by a tie vote of 26 to 26.

During the debate Senator Sutherland inquired why an appropriation had been made to protect sugar cane from insects, adding, "you had better provide for an investigation as to how to protect sugar cane from the Democratic party."

IMPORTED MEN ARE TURNED BACK

The Federal Troops Act Promptly in Colorado Coal Fields.

Trinidad, Colo., May 15.—United States army regulars yesterday stopped twenty-five imported miners from going to work for the Oakdale Coal company near Laveta, and took into custody five men employed by the Colorado Fuel & Iron company on the ground that the companies were violating the order of Col. James Lockett against the importation of strike breakers. None of the men was arrested or deported.

Later the military authorities issued a statement of policy to prevail unless further orders are received from Washington, as follows:

"Men brought into the district by the coal companies will not be allowed to work in the mines.

"Men who come voluntarily seeking employment will be permitted to work.

"Skilled workmen whose services are needed to prevent the deterioration of property will be permitted to go from one to another mine owned by the same corporation."

At the same time the military authorities announced that picketing of railroad stations by strikers will not be tolerated.

YOUNG DURYEA IS INDICTED.

New York, May 15.—Chester Duryea, who shot and killed his father, Gen. Hiram Duryea, on May 6, has been indicted for murder in the first degree. The district attorney moved that two physicians be appointed to examine into young Duryea's insanity. He still is in the hospital, where for days he was violent.

MILL CITY BANK FIRST

Expected to Open in July, Says Head of Federal Reserve Committee.

Plan Is to Have Institutions Ready to Handle Crop Movement.

Joseph Chapman, chairman of the Ninth District Federal Reserve bank organization committee, is of the opinion that the Minneapolis bank will be the first in the United States to be ready for business. He is hopeful that arrangements can be pushed along so that the institution may be in a position to open its doors early in July.

A letter compiled by the organization committee has gone out to all the national banks in the district, giving the names of the six men nominated by the bankers at their recent conference. While the nominations are tentative, they are considered practically certain to be voted in. Governor Hanna of North Dakota is the choice of that state for representation on the board of directors. As had been foreshadowed, Minneapolis will get the banker representative for Minnesota, and St. Paul, the business man.

Representatives of the five banks recently named by the Federal Reserve bank organization committee are expected to meet in a few days at Minneapolis for the purpose of completing the various initial details, so that the certificate of organization of the new bank may be executed and filed with the comptroller of the currency at Washington.

Minnesota—Capital National bank, St. Paul.

Montana—Merchants' National bank, Billings.

North Dakota—First National bank, Grand Forks.

South Dakota—First National bank, Lead.

Wisconsin — Commercial National bank, Oshkosh.

The reserve bank organization committee hopes to have the Federal reserve banks established at an early date in the various districts in order that they may be ready for business in ample time to take care of the fall crop movement. It is said by bankers that conditions could not be better than they are at present for getting the new banking system under way. Money is easy and is piling up in the bank vaults, so that the payments on capital account and for reserve deposits are not expected to cause any financial strain.

Why not buy a home? Many are offered on easy payments in The Saturday Herald.

HYOMEI RELIEVES

Catarrh, Head Colds, Snuffles Almost Instantly—You Breathe It.

Why delay and continue to needlessly suffer the ravages of catarrh? It is not only unnecessary, but dangerous. Try now—today—the Hyomei treatment for any catarrh ills, head colds, hoarseness or bronchitis.

The Hyomei process of banishing catarrh, relieving head colds and healing the raw and inflamed mucous membrane is not only most effective, but is quick, entirely harmless and pleasant to use—it's nature's way—you breathe it—no bad tasting drugs to upset the stomach.

You cannot successfully reach the organs where the catarrh germs thrive except with antiseptic and germicidal air. The commonsense method is to breathe a few times daily health-restoring Hyomei. Being medicated air it goes right to the spot and immediately reaches all the diseased tissues. Its antiseptic healing begins at once.

If suffering from frequent colds, headaches, raising of mucus, spasmodic coughing, difficult breathing, or that weak and run-down feeling, surely try Hyomei. Its your duty to yourself, friends and family, for no catarrh victim ever enjoys good health.

Get from your druggist at once a complete Hyomei outfit, $1.00 size. Boyce drug store sells it on money back if not benefited plan.

COLORADO LABOR LEADERS INDICTED

First Degree Murder Is Charged for Mine Attack.

Boulder, Colo., May 15.—Indictments charging first-degree murder were returned by the grand jury here against William T. Hickey, secretary of the State Federation of Labor; John O'Connor, president of the Louisville, Colo., local union of the United Mine Workers of America, and Jerry Carter and Joe Potesto, union leaders.

Indictments charging conspiracy to murder were returned against Edward L. Doyle, treasurer of District No. 15, United Mine Workers of America; John R. Lawson, international board member of the American Federation of Labor, and forty-eight others, including the four men named in the indictments charging first-degree murder.

The action of the grand jury followed the return of fourteen true bills against strikers and sympathizers alleged to have been active in the attack April 23 on the Hecla mine near Louisville in which one man, Peter Steinhoff, was killed and others injured.

Gus Brack and William Knowles, strikers of Erie, among those indicted for conspiracy to murder, were arrested yesterday.

WATER POWER BILL REPORTED TO HOUSE

Washington, May 15.—The administration water power bill was reported favorably by the house public lands committee. It would authorize the secretary of the interior to grant leases for water power rights on the public domain, fixing royalties and imposing restrictions to prevent monopoly.

In states which have no public utility commissions, the secretary would be empowered to make regulations to insure fair rates to consumers.

Chairman Ferris of the public lands committee had a letter from President Wilson saying that he favored action at this session, if possible, on the water power bill, Alaskan coal lands bill and the measure providing for the leasing of mining rights on the public domain.

LEHIGH DENIES IT IS IN ANY TRUST.

New York, May 15.—Denial that it had entered into any combination to restrain or monopolize the production, transportation and sale in interstate commerce of anthracite located along the lines of the company, set forth in the Leigh Valley railroad's answer to the government's suit under the Sherman anti-trust law, filed here yesterday.

Another defendant company, the Delaware, Susequehanna & Schuylkill railroad, filed a similar answer. This road was acquired by the Lehigh Valley Railroad company to serve collieries in the anthracite region.

Denial of similar character was filed on behalf of various officials and directors of the companies.

WHEELOCK NAMED FOR FERGUS FALLS.

Washington, May 15.—President Wilson sent to the senate the following nominations to be postmasters in Minnesota: H. M. Wheelock at Fergus Falls, and F. J. Reimers at Stewart.

BRONSON WORTHY PATRON.

Duluthian Elected By Grand Chapter of Eastern Star.

St. Paul, Minn., May 15.—For the first time in six years, a St. Cloud woman has been elected worthy grand matron of the grand chapter, Order of the Eastern Star of Minnesota.

Mrs. Lillian Bell will fill that office during the ensuing year. Balloting at the annual election prolonged the session until late last night.

Following her election, Mrs. Bell was presented with a gold watch by members of St. Paul chapter No. 24, of which she is a member. Mrs. Anna C. Vanderbie presented her with a gold chain.

Other officers were elected as follows:

AERIAL SERVICE OVER FRISCO BAY.

San Francisco, Cal., May 15.—Aeroplane passenger service across San Francisco bay from this city to Oakland was instituted yesterday with a regular schedule of trips. Mayor James Rolph, Jr., was the first passenger carried. He made the round trip. Mayor Frank Mott of Oakland was to have returned with him, but at the last moment pleaded a pressing business engagement. The distance between the terminals is 6.7 miles.

MacMillan Party Safe.

Copenhagen, May 15.—Knud Rasmussen, the Danish explorer, has brought back here word from Donald B. MacMillan, leader of the Crocker Land exposition, that all the members were well on March 17. MacMillan was then at Cape York.

Another shipment of Bon Tons, and yet another is to follow as soon as the factory can send it. The women here certainly have shown their appreciation of the fine points peculiar to the new Bon Ton Corsets. We have never known a corset to make such a quick leap into wide-spread favor, but Miss Shaull and her living models certainly demonstrated the charms of Bon Ton Corseting.

Come in tomorrow—talk with our Corset Experts—they will tell you whether your size is here in the model you should have, for not everybody can get the proper Bon Ton Corset tomorrow.

Some must wait until the next shipment, for we will not allow the good name of Bon Ton Corsets to be spoiled by selling you the model that is not best for your figure.

STATE LAW IS ATTACKED

Inheritance Tax Is Claimed to Be Unconstitutional.

Widow of E. D. Graff Protests Payment of $13,565 to State.

The constitutionality of the Minnesota inheritance tax law is attacked in a case which came on for hearing in the probate court this morning, in which Melvina W. Graff, widow of Edmund D. Graff, who died at Pittsburg, June 3, 1913, is contesting the payment of $13,566.82 tax on her inheritance which was determined by the court several weeks ago.

The case involves a number of fine legal points and according to the attorneys who are represented in the litigation, it may be carried through the courts of the state and to the United States supreme court before it is dropped. Francis W. Sullivan, a Duluth attorney, appeared in court to object to the tax levied by the court and William J. Stephenson, assistant attorney general, was on hand to represent the interests of the state of Minnesota.

The widow objects to the tax on several grounds. First it is claimed that it is not within the power of the probate court to levy a tax of any kind and the law is attacked as unconstitutional on that score. Another objection is raised on the grounds that the state seeks to place a tax on personal property owned by the decedent, a resident of the state of Pennsylvania. The state proceeds on the theory that the site of the personal property was in this state by reason of the fact that the Scott-Graff Lumber company, a debtor of the decedent is a resident corporation.

The Graff estate inventoried at $489,007.46. He left a will naming his widow as sole heir. The court fixed the tax on her inheritance as $13,565.83. She objects to the payment of all of the tax except the sum of $1,520.63.

"Drowned" Man Appears.
The report circulated late last evening that Charles Erickson, 27 years old, an employe on the light house boat, Aramanth, had fallen in the water off the Northwestern coal dock No. 1, was later found to be untrue, when Erickson himself appeared on his boat. Some drunken man thought he saw Erickson fall in the water and he immediately notified the police, an employe at the life saving station said this morning. A short search was made by the life savers before they learned that Erickson was safe on board his vessel.

Gets $175 for Injuries.
I. Kirchenbaum, aged 30, who was injured while in the employ of the Duluth Iron & Metal company March 31, last, has accepted $175 in full settlement of his claim. Notice of the approval of the settlement by a district court judge was filed with the clerk of the court today. Kirchenbaum's injuries consisted of a rupture.

Do Not Want Pavement.
A protest against the paving of the short stretch of highway which connects Vernon street with First street at Thirtieth avenue west has been filed with City Clerk C. S. Palmer and will be presented to the council at its next meeting. The improvement was ordered, without petition but the protest will prevent the work being done.

Have Run to Grass Fire.
The fire department was called to extinguish a grass fire at the corner of Woodland and St. Paul avenues shortly before 1 o'clock this afternoon. There was no damage.

OBITUARY

William Wainwright, first vice president of the Grand Trunk railway, died at Atlantic City, N. J., May 14, from a complication of diseases. He had been ill for about two months and went to Atlantic City last Monday from his home at Montreal, accompanied by his son, W. A. Wainwright. The body will be shipped to Montreal and interment will be made there on Monday. Mr. Wainwright was born in England 74 years ago. He came to America in 1862 as secretary to the treasurer of the Grand Trunk system, from which position he was gradually promoted to the first vice presidency.

Henry A. Perear, well-known philanthropist and once the largest manufacturer of Morocco leather in the United States, died at Lynn, Mass., May 14. He was 85 years old.

Paul Louis Toussaint Heroult, the scientist whose research work reduced the cost of producing aluminum to such an extent that it became commercially valuable and whose electric furnace is in common use in great metal industries, is dead in Paris. Mr. Heroult was 51 years old. He reduced the cost of producing aluminum from $20 to 50 cents a pound.

SICKNESS ON THE LUSITANIA.

New York, May 15.—The steamer Lusitania which arrived today from Liverpool was held at quarantine for a short time on account of the illness of one of the steerage passengers. The patient was removed to Swinburne island hospital and fifty-five of the passengers from the same compartment were removed to Hoffman island.

Tuition Apportionment.
Bismarck, N. D., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state tuition fund apportionment for May to the public schools of the state aggregates $530,459.60, being one of the biggest distributions ever made.

With a school enrollment of 172,227 in the state, the fund is apportioned to the various districts on that basis.

Most of the money is derived from the school lands of the state, while a small portion of it is derived from fines.

JURY GIVES HIM $5,500

Joseph E. Wickman, Crippled for Life, Awarded Damages in Court.

Pittsburg Coal Company Must Pay Man Who Was Whirled in Shaft.

For injuries which left him crippled and deformed for life, Joseph E. Wickman, dock laborer, will receive $5,500 compensation from his employers, the Pittsburg Coal company, if a verdict which was opened and read in Judge Ensign's division of the district court this morning stands.

Wickman sued for $25,000 damages. While at work on a hoisting rig on one of the Pittsburg Coal company's docks in this city last July, his clothing became caught in a set screw on a revolving shaft. As a result he was whirled around at the speed of 100 revolutions per minute. Miraculously escaping death, he came out of the accident with a dislocated neck and several broken ribs.

The cause of action against the coal company was brought to trial before Judge Ensign Monday and the case went to the jury at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The jury reached an agreement at 11 o'clock last evening and its sealed verdict was opened and read when court convened at 9:30 o'clock this morning.

The court granted the coal company a stay of forty days in order that a motion for a new trial might be made if desired.

PROBE DEATH OF STRIKERS

the afternoon of April 20 after the battle had been in progress for several hours, and after strikers in the colony had fired upon the soldiers, Capt. T. C. Linderfelt and Lieut. M. C. Bigelow testified yesterday. Immediately following, both Linderfelt and Bigelow declared, fire broke out at the extreme southwest corner of the colony, and fanned by a high west wind and scattered by numerous explosions, spread to every quarter of the tent city. Both swore positively that no soldiers entered the colony until after the fire started, and that there was no looting.

Thought Women Away.

The witness declared no women or children had been seen about the colony at any time during the day, and that they believed all had been removed by the strikers early in the morning.

"There was a general rush across the tracks when we saw women and children among the burning tents," said Lieut. Bigelow. "A large number of women and children were rescued."

No strikers or representatives of the United Mine Workers of America will testify before the court martial, according to a statement issued by the district policy committee of the union, and no reply will be sent to the invitation of Capt. E. A. Smith, judge advocate, to produce witnesses.

Ammons Asked to Retire.

Denver, Col., May 15.—The refusal of the Colorado house of representatives yesterday to concur in the senate's amendment to the military expense bond issue, and the failure of the joint conference committee last night to agree on the proposition in the measure to refuse payment as militiamen to mine guards and detectives who enlisted in the strike zone after the strike was called, today necessitated the appointment of a second joint conference committee.

Second in interest, perhaps, to the military maintenance bond issue bill, is the resolution introduced yesterday in the senate by William C. Robinson, Progressive, asking Governor E. M. Ammons to retire "in the interest of the state." The measure when introduced went over for a day under the rules.

Representatives Thomas E. Thomas introduced a memorial addressed to President Wilson, declaring that the scope of the present special session was not broad enough to permit of any action which would definitely terminate the coal strike and urged federal intervention and the appointment of a board of arbitration.

with President Miller of the New York, Westchester & Boston railroad, the electric line acquired by the New Haven through the methods recited yesterday by Mr. Mellen. It is the desire of the commission to obtain a list of the stockholders of the Westchester road at the time of its acquisition by the New Haven with a view to obtaining testimony directly from at least some of them concerning their dealings with Mr. Mellen and with the late police inspector, Thomas F. Byrnes of New York.

Mr. Folk and his assistants were engaged today in an examination of papers and documents submitted by Mr. Mellen. This examination will require two or three days.

It is the present purpose of the commission, notwithstanding the pronounced opposition of Attorney-General McReynolds and other officials of the department of justice to not only press the examination Mr. Mellen on all phases of the financial operations of the New Haven and its subsidiaries, but also other witnesses, including New Haven directors, who are assumed to have knowledge of any of the transactions.

time Becker was on trial for his life, and had made affidavits that he swore yesterday were false.

Mention of the death of the four gunmen in the electric chair affected the witness almost to the point of tears, but he gripped the arms of the witness chair and regained control of himself. In its essential parts the story he told of the murder conspiracy remained unchanged by cross-examination.

Says Becker Inspired Crime.

Webber said he collected graft from gambling houses for Jack Rose, and had met Becker through Rose. Webber said:

"Becker told me of Rosenthal's threat to squeal to the district attorney, then called me aside and told me he wanted me to get the boys to 'croak that Rosenthal.' I said there would be a lot of trouble if that was done, and Becker replied, 'I'll fix everything. There will be no trouble. I'll see to that.' So I agreed to have Rosenthal croaked."

MEDIATION CONFERENCE IS POSTPONED

mar and Frederick W. Lehmann, also found their plans nullified by the postponement. They immediately arranged to confer later in the day to rearrange their program, which contemplated their departure from Washington tomorrow.

It was expected that word would be received from the American representative sent to meet the Mexican peace delegate, which would simplify the formation of all of the peace plans.

Cabinet Confident.

Confidence that the mediation would be ultimately successful in bringing about peace in Mexico, despite the temporary delay, was expressed by cabinet officers after today's meeting.

One of the cabinet members said confidence in mediation was growing stronger each day, and that the possibility of war was diminishing rapidly. He spoke of the Tampico victory by the Constitutionalists as likely to have an indirect effect on the mediation, in that it reduced the Huerta government's strength to oppose plans which might be suggested for the pacification of Mexico.

Mediators at White House.

The South American envoys today paid a formal visit of farewell to President Wilson before their departure for Niagara Falls, Ont., to begin their peace negotiations.

All the ceremonial of formal diplomatic intercourse marked the call of the three envoys. Ambassador Da Gama of Brazil, Minister Naon of Argentina and Minister Suarez of Chile, attired in the conventional frock coat and silk hat of formal dress, and accompanied by Secretary of State Bryan, went to the White House in an automobile.

Received in Blue Room.

In the Blue room, the president, with his military and naval aides attired in full dress uniform, greeted the envoys. He wished them success on their mission of peace, and expressed the hope that when they returned to Washington they will have found the solution of the Mexican problem, which has confronted the United States government for three years.

Although it is customary for ambassadors and ministers, on leaving the United States for long absences, to say goodbye to the president, there was more than the usual farewell in the little Blue room today. Three envoys accredited to the United States purposely are leaving American territory to disclose themselves of their official connection with the American government so that they may act in impartial and intermediary capacity on a neutral soil.

Bear the Real Burden.

Upon the three mediators devolves the real burden of the conference at Niagara Falls. They are to make all suggestions and initiate all moves. The American representatives have no plenary powers. They bear no credentials in a formal sense, but merely an autograph letter from the president instructing them to act as a channel of communication between the Washington government and mediators.

Frederick W. Lehmann, former solicitor-general of the United States, and Justice Lamar of the supreme court of the United States, who comprise the American representatives, and H. Percival Dodge, their secretary, were at the state department today going over official reports and familiarizing themselves generally with the work ahead of them. They were expected to have a final conference with the president and Secretary Bryan today, as the American delegation will leave early tomorrow for a daylight ride to Niagara Falls, N. Y. Their quarters will be on the American side of the line, to facilitate communication with Washington by telephone and telegraph.

See Wilson Again.

The mediating envoys, it was learned later, will return to the White House this afternoon for a conference with the president. It also was stated that the American delegates, Justice Lamar and Mr. Lehmann, would be present. The purpose of the conference was not disclosed, but it was believed possible that some further postponement of the Niagara Falls conference might have prompted the meeting.

Watch Rebels' Progress.

Washington, May 15.—While two of the South American envoys were on their way today to Niagara Falls, where they will complete arrangements for peace negotiations, and with the third mediator and the American mission preparing to leave here tomorrow, immediate interests in the Mexican situation centered in the Constitutionalists' administration of their prize—the port of Tampico—and plans for their campaign against Saltillo and San Luis Potosi.

Reports to the navy department early today from Rear Admiral Mayo stated that Gen. Gonzales, the Carranza commander at Tampico, had assured United States Consul Miller that complete protection would be given to American and other foreign property about the seaport, including the immense oil interests there.

No Blockade Attempted.

News that Huerta's gunboats off Tampico had put out to sea temporarily relieved the possibility of a complex situation growing out of a blockade of the port. While officials here declined to discuss what might result from an attempt by Huerta to halt supplies and ammunition for the Constitutionalists out of Tampico, naval experts agreed that if the Federal commanders were able to establish a fairly effective blockade, it would have to be respected by foreign shipping.

The fate of the Federals who fled from Tampico was in doubt today. In some quarters belief was expressed that they would be cut to pieces by intercepting Constitutionalists long before they could hope to reach their own lines south of San Luis Potosi. Fears that they might attempt reprisals by setting fire to the huge tanks of oil inland from the port were not realized. Evidently they were moving hurriedly in the hope of reaching a haven from pursuit.

Order in Tampico.

Order rapidly is being restored in Tampico, reports today indicate, and Rear Admiral Mayo, with the Des Moines and Dolphin, has resumed a position in the river in front of the town.

It was known that practically all foreigners had left Tampico before its evacuation by the Federals, and no reports of damage to foreign property in the final fighting have been received.

With practically all Northern Mexico in control of the Constitutionalists, plans for their next movement excited much interest today. Villa was preparing to lead the assault against Saltillo. His army had been provisioned for a thirty-day campaign and it was said that apparently there were plenty of arms and ammunition for the siege. Constitutionalist strategists were believed to have figured that if they took Saltillo the Federal garrison there would concentrate at San Luis Potosi, leaving that city as one of the points where Huerta would make a final stand against the Constitutionalist campaign aimed at Mexico City.

nounce this inter-relationship as above described lawful? Are we going to make this vast, hydro-electric combination immune from the operations of our anti-trust laws? I cannot believe it."

Attacked Control Plan.

Mr. Smith also attacked that provision in the bill which takes away from the states and congress the right to control prices for public service from water power and lodges it in the secretary of war.

"My own state operates the state rule plan," said Mr. Smith. "The state has legal machinery by which the people regulate and control their public service corporations. But this bill makes it possible for the companies to evade and escape such state and local control.

"If the power at the dam on the Mississippi between Minneapolis and St. Paul were owned by a public service corporation, and if it were tied in with the hydro-electric dam at St. Croix Falls, the current would then become interstate and the secretary of war would have the right to fix prices as well as regulate service for the people of St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth."

Wants No Hasty Act.

He insisted that the states ought to control water power development in a logical way and not be deprived of a voice altogether.

"I trust," said Mr. Smith, "that no hasty act for the regulation of our public domain shall pass, if in any manner it can be used to jeopardize the safe and progressive administration and control of the state of Minnesota over her great resources."

ZAPATA FIGHTING EIGHTEEN MILES FROM MEXICO CITY

Mexico City all those who remained after the occupation are accused of "selling their pens to Fletcher, the invader," and intimation is made that the Federal government will deal drastically with them when it regains control of Vera Cruz.

Gunboat Abandoned.

Washington, May 15.—Admiral Badger reported that the Mexican Federal gunboats Zaragosa and Bravo and the tug Tampico, which left Tampico yesterday, followed by an American gunboat and two destroyers, were expected to reach Puerto Mexico early tomorrow. He reported the gunboat Vera Cruz abandoned in the Panuco river.

Clearance Papers Refused.

On Board U. S. S. California, Mazatlan, Mex., May 14, via wireless to San Diego, May 15.—In spite of Gen. Huerta's revocation of his order closing the ports of Mexico to American shipping, the port officials of Mazatlan refused today to clear the Pacific Mail liner Newport for San Francisco. Rear Admiral Doyle issued papers to the Newport, which will serve as clearance papers and explain to the customs collector at San Francisco the absence of an official clearance sheet.

The insurgent and Federal forces which have been battling incessantly for a fortnight over the possession of Mazatlan rested today. Gen. Obregon, commanding the Constitutionalists, has made no final move to follow up the advantage gained in the last two weeks of siege.

Carranza's Nephew Aviator.

Durango, Mex., May 15.—The Federal gunboat Guerrero was disabled by bombs dropped by an aeroplane piloted by Capt. Salinas Carranza, a nephew of Gen. Venustiano Carranza, according to a report to Gen. Carranza received from Col. Alvera Obregon, commanding the Constitutionalist forces at Mazatlan.

Gen. Obregon said the aeroplanes had caused the abandonment of several strong Federal entrenchments. He declared his artillery was pouring a deadly fire into Mazatlan, under the protection of which his infantry was closing in on the town.

Mrs. Preston in New York.

New York, May 15.—Mrs. Thomas J. Preston, formerly Mrs. Grover Cleveland, who has been living for some time abroad, arrived in New York today on the Lusitania. She said that she had come only for a short stay in this country.

EASY WAY TO STOP HAIR FROM COMING OUT

A harmless home remedy, compounded principally from the powerful juice of the Pernambuco shrub of Peru, has been found highly effective in promptly checking the falling of hair from the scalp. Men and women whose hair is growing alarming thin and falling out badly every day should try it without fail, as the ingredients are perfectly harmless and very inexpensive and the whole thing can be prepared at home or by any druggist. Merely mix together in an 8 oz. bottle 2 oz. Lavona de Composee, 6 oz. Bay Rum and ½ drachm of Menthol Crystals. Shake well and allow to stand for an hour, when it is ready for use. The Lavona in the above is the pharmaceutical name of the Pernambuco juice as diluted and scientifically prepared for medical purposes. To stop the hair from coming out and to quickly start a fine growth of new hair all over the scalp, rub this lotion briskly into the scalp with the finger tips or a medium stiff brush for about five minutes each night and morning. After three or four days' use in this way you cannot find a single loose or straggling hair. Dandruff will disappear and itching cease and in about ten days you will find your scalp covered with a thick growth of fine downy new hairs, which will grow with amazing rapidity. —Advertisement.

SAYS MAAS ACTED AGAINST ORDERS

Mexican Claims Huerta Forbade Resisting American Landing.

San Francisco, May 15.—That Provisional President Huerta had issued specific orders to Gen. Gustav Maas, commanding the Mexican forces at Vera Cruz, to offer no opposition to the landing of the Americans there, and that those orders were disobeyed by Gen. Maas on his own responsibility, is a statement vouched for today by E. De Morelos, a Mexican architect, on his arrival here from Vera Cruz via New Orleans.

"I had confidential information," said De Morelos, "that Huerta and Gen. Blanquet, minister of war, had ordered Gen. Maas not to resist the American occupation, but to retreat with men to the hills.

"I talked with Maas on the evening of April 20. He told me he had received such orders and that they had not been countermanded. 'But,' he said, 'I am going to resist, notwithstanding.'

Fled at the Landing.

"On receiving news of the landing of Admiral Fletcher's marines, Maas precipitately fled, at 9 o'clock on the morning of April 21, leaving his sword, flag, decorations and personal effects in his residence."

De Morelos is accompanied by his wife, formerly Mlle. Laure Prevet of Paris, a portrait painter. They remained in Vera Cruz during the fighting, leaving there May 3 on the Norwegian steamer Haakon for New Orleans, arriving here last night.

After Maas' flight, his daughter, Senora Rodriguez, wife of a Spanish resident of Vera Cruz went, Morelos said, to the French consul and begged him to recover her father's swords, flag and decorations. This the consul did.

DECIPHER HISTORY OF ABRAHAM'S TIME

Yale Experts Report on Study of Ancient Inscriptions.

New Haven, Conn., May 15.—The Babylonian department at Yale university announced today several new discoveries, made in deciphering some of the inscriptions of the recently acquired collections which were found by Arabs at Larsa, a city known in the Old Testament as Ellasar, and Erech, one of the cities of Nimrod's kingdom, mentioned in Genesis.

One of the tablets proves to be an important list of kings who ruled over Larsa in the third millennium, B. C. Among other results obtained from it is the fact that Rim-Aku is not a variant reading of the name known as Arioch, but that it is the name of a brother who was the last king of the Larsa dynasty.

Kings Routed By Abraham.

Eri-Aku is Arioch, a contemporary of Abraham and one of the four kings routed by the patriarch with some kind of "strategy in the night." His rule preceded that of Rim-Aku, his brother.

Another important inscription, written upon a terra cotta cone in the shape of a large nail with a huge head, is a votive inscription dedicated to the goddess Ishtar by this king, Arioch. In it the king recounts his pious deeds in temple building and city improvements, for which he asks in return "abundance of years, a well established throne, and a putting down of uprisings."

INTERNATIONAL COUNTERFEIT GANG

Secret Service Men Seize Seattle Plant Worth $3,000.

Seattle, Wash., May 15.—Discovery of a gang of international counterfeiters became known today when it was made public that the United States secret service operators seized a counterfeiting plant at Seattle valued at $3,000. Detectives are working on clews concerning the identity of the counterfeiters, who have been operating in Western Washington and British Columbia and eastward throughout Canada as far as Ottawa.

The counterfeiters having been turning out $20 Canadian bank notes and Canadian $5 bills and secret service men estimate that at least $10,000 of this money has been passed on the Pacific coast in the last six months.

MASTER OF MEXICAN MASONS IS MISSING

W. A. White, Who Started for St. Louis Meeting, Does Not Arrive.

St. Louis, Mo., May 15.—Thirty-one states and Canada are represented at the second annual conference of grand masters of the Masonic order of the North American continent which opened here yesterday.

Some anxiety was felt by the delegates for the safety of W. A. White, grand master of Mexico. He left that country a week ago to attend the conference and has not been heard from during the last three days.

The duke of Connaught, grand master of Masons of Great Britain and governor general of Canada, asked to attend, has been sent no definite reply.

Plans for a parade in which approximately 10,000 Masons will participate tomorrow afternoon, were worked out today. Delegates from all the Masonic lodges in Missouri, including 200 from Bonne Terre, will be in the parade, according to Leon W. Quick, deputy grand master of the St. Louis district of the A. F. and A. M. Thirty-one other states and Canada and Mexico will be represented. The line of march will be through the business section of the city, and it is expected the uniformed delegations of the various orders will afford one of the most elaborate spectacles ever witnessed here. Capt. Robert McCullough, a Civil war veteran, has been selected grand marshal. The Knights Templar will head the column.

VATERLAND IS ON MAIDEN VOYAGE.

Cuxhaven, Germany, May 15.—The new Hamburg-American liner Vaterland sailed from here yesterday afternoon on her maiden voyage for New York. The Vaterland carried 900 cabin passengers and about 1,000 in the third cabin and steerage. A wireless received from the Vaterland last evening said she was speeding along easily at about twenty-two knots an hour.

The best answer to the young man's clothes question.

A Ten Dollar Bill Given With Every Suit

This Offer Is Made to Every Man Who Has Decided to Pay $25 for His Spring Suit!

That's some offer fellows! And it's absolutely on the square. I'll make a suit to your measure—from regular $25-$30 pure all wool fabrics in the latest Spring and Summer weaves and colorings—and it will cost you just $15. And if you have been in the habit of paying $25 for your made-to-order clothes—if you think I can't make a suit to equal it at my price, pay me $25. Match the suit I make with those you have been wearing—and when you are satisfied, take the $10 bill from the right hand trousers pocket, and the suit costs you just $15. That's my offer.

Most of you fellows have been buying your clothes like your father bought his. You've looked at a $15 price as a "jinx"—a black eye. You've been following a custom like a bunch of sheep.

But listen to me. I'm a part of the great Glasgow Woolen Mills. My material comes direct from the looms. We figure in car load lots. I sell direct to you—cut out all the middle men—save you these profits which you pay ordinarily—and save you $10. Now that's the reason I can give you real $25 and $30 fabrics for $15. It's plain business. And anybody can see it. However, it's up to you. If you want to throw away $10 it's your funeral. Come in and see me and I'll make you the swellest Spring suit you ever wore for $15. Come in anyway and see the pants I'm making this week for $2.75. They're regular $5, $6 and $7 value. George H. Mills, manager Glasgow Woolen Mills Store, 333 West Superior street. Be sure you get the "Glasgow Woolen Mills."

Something About Government Ownership

No. 5

The Bell Company has created the entire art of telephony.

Almost without exception, none of the important contributions to the art have been made by any government-owned telephone administration, or by any other telephone company, either in this country or abroad.

Type after type of instruments, of cable and switchboards have been invented, built and discarded for something better.

All Europe, with 405 million people, has less than three million telephones, or less than one-tenth the number per population used in the United States.

During the last eight years Bell telephone wires have been erected at the rate of two miles a minute—or a million miles a year.

In modern facilities, quality of service, and reasonableness of rates, no telephone system in the world approaches the Bell organization.

Bell Telephone Service Has Set the Standard for the Rest of the World.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

NORTH DAKOTA SCHOOL MEET

Interscholastic Gathering Is Being Held at Grand Forks.

Many of the High Schools of the State Are Represented.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Over 400 high school representatives of North Dakota are here today for the state conference, conducted under the direction of the State High School league, which continues until tomorrow evening.

This morning's general session of the school superintendents, principals and instructors was given over to the receiving of the reports of the state high school officers.

H. L. Miller, superintendent of the university high school, Madison, Wis., is the principal out-of-the-state speaker participating in the conference, while other speakers include P. S. Berg of Dickinson, Y. G. Barnell of Devils Lake, E. R. Edwards of Jamestown, F. L. Whitney of Grafton, Herbert P. Ide of Cando, A. D. Hall of Anamoose, Richard Heyward of Grand Forks, Supt. E. J. Taylor of Bismarck and N. C. Macdonald of Valley City.

Start Preliminaries.

This afternoon the preliminaries in the state interscholastic field and track meet were started, while the preliminaries in the state declamation contest also were begun.

Tonight the final debate in the state high school debating league will be held, with the Rolla and Hatton high schools opposing each other.

Tomorrow will be the big day. The general conference continues, the finals in the track and field meet will be held, and the finals in the declamation contest will take place.

All sessions are being held at the state university, which is host to the visitors.

BURY GONVICK WOMAN.

Rites Held at Aitkin for a Former Resident.

Aitkin, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Mrs. Hazel Haugen Reimer, wife of Leslie Reimer of Gonvick, Minn., who died last week at the home of her mother, Mrs. Paul Engquist in Aitkin, was held Monday from the Congregational church, Rev. A. L. Richardson conducting the service assisted by Rev. W. E. Hammond. Mrs. Reimer was born in Aitkin, Nov. 22, 1891, and educated in the local schools; she was a favorite with the young people and highly esteemed by all who knew her. On Dec. 24, 1912, she married Mr. Reimer and within a few weeks was stricken with tuberculosis from which she never rallied.

USES LEAD PIPE ON FATHER-IN-LAW.

Baudette, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.) — George Howard of International Falls is charged with striking his father-in-law, Mr. Michaul, on the head with a lead pipe. Family troubles of some standing caused the trouble. Mr. Michaul, it was thought at first, was seriously injured, but he is recovering. Howard was arraigned before Judge Hoschied on Thursday morning and was bound over to the grand jury. Sheriff Johnson took him to Bemidji.

6,000 ACRE DEAL.

Big Lumber Concern Tract in Aitkin County Sold.

Aitkin, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—A large real estate transaction, made a few days ago, was the sale of a tract of 6,000 acres from the Birchwood Lumber company to R. J. Bolen of Palisade. The tract is in Aitkin county, north of the Tamarack and Grayling stations in the town of Haugen and is the last of the large holdings of the company.

W. J. Gleason company of Aitkin have been awarded the contract for the construction of Aitkin county ditch, No. 20, for eleven cents per yard and will approximately amount to $90,000.

REALTY MOVEMENT.

Several Deals Are Reported at Baudette, Minn.

Baudette, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Real estate has been on the move here this week. W. L. Hicks has purchased a lot on First street and will erect a residence. C. J. Olson has purchased two lots on Main street. J. L. Williams sold a lot on Lewis avenue to Mr. Boyd, who will build this spring. Rulien Land company sold a farm to David Campbell near Baudette and John Trovs bought a farm from the same firm consisting of 160 acres south of town.

DITCH HEARINGS.

Important Beltrami County Proceedings to Be Held.

Baudette, Minn., May 15:—(Special to The Herald.)—Notice of the final hearing on judicial ditches No. 22, 23 and 24 of Beltrami county have been set for June 6 at Bemidji. These three ditches with their branches will furnish more than 100 miles in good roads in northern Beltrami county. It is expected that the contract for the construction of these will be let the latter part of June.

On judicial ditches 26, 27 and 28 the reports of the viewers are now ready to be filed at the clerk of court's office and final hearing on these ditches will be had at the term of district court to be held at Baudette, July 16. These are all in northern Beltrami county and their construction will mean an additional 100 miles of new roads.

IVERSON DECLINES TO PAY OVER COIN

State Auditor Tells Game Commission Why He Holds $30,000.

St. Paul, Minn., May 15.—The demand of the state game and fish commission that Samuel G. Iverson, state auditor, credit the commission with $30,000 obtained last year from hunting license fees, is based on a technicality, according to Mr. Iverson's formal reply to the request. The authority quoted by the commission is not sufficient, Mr. Iverson declares, and he will not turn over the fees on those grounds.

The controlling enactment, according to Mr. Iverson, is chapter 140 of the general laws of 1913, which makes specific appropriations for the protection of game and fish.

The Law's Intent.

"It is apparent," says Mr. Iverson, "that the use of the word 'fund' or 'funds' in the laws did not intend to create a separate and distinct cash fund, such as the permanent school, permanent university or other division of public money, but intended that the money so collected should be paid into the state treasury and used for the general expenses of maintaining the department.

"By chapter 140 of the general laws of 1913 the legislature aimed to do away with the reapportionment of miscellaneous receipts, such as licenses, fees, fines, etc., which theretofore had been credited and added to the appropriations for departmental support. The clear intent being that each legislature should in specific amounts provide for the needs of the various departments of government for the ensuing two years, and that all receipts from miscellaneous sources should go to the general revenue fund.

"I must respectfully advise that my construction of the law does not authorize me to comply with the request."

GET ROAD CONTRACTS.

Two Floodwood Men Will Build Some Roads for County.

Floodwood, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two contracts for road construction in the Floodwood district were awarded to local men, W. A. Baune's bid for constructing one and one-half miles of the Lake road being accepted on the following basis: For clearing and grubbing, $600 per mile; for grading firm ground, 75 cents per rod; swamp ground, 32 cents cubic yard; culverts, $3 each; corduroy, $2 per rod, and covering muskeag with firm earth, 50 cents per cubic yard.

Victor Rantila was awarded the contract for constructing two miles of the Blackwood road, northwest from Gowan for a lump sum of $2,530.

E. A. Dahl of the firm of E. A. Dahl & Co., was here Tuesday, having walked over the route of the St. Vincent road from Culver, accompanied by his partner, E. A. Sickles. Mr. Dahl stated that the purpose of his trip over the swamp portion of the road was to ascertain if it would be practical to put in machinery to dig the outlet ditches.

"DEAD" LAND SALE.

Crow Indian Reservation Parcels Being Disposed of.

Billings, Mont., May 15.—Forty-five thousand acres on the Crow reservation, divided into tracts of from 40 to 240 acres, is being offered at a sale held on the reservation.

The land has been appraised at prices running from $3 to $50 an acre, depending on its location. Bids are being received at the Crow agency, Lodge Grass and other points.

"Paints Her Face," "Pretty," "Horse on the Other Side," "Sits Down Far Away," "Rides a Spotted Horse," "Barney One Goose" and many others will be made richer by the sale.

The land is what is popularly known as "dead Indian land." Under the rules of the Indian department, the Crows are not allowed to sell the allotments given them by the government but they may sell the land which they inherit from dead relatives or which belongs to relatives incompetent to care for and make use of it.

BATTLE LAKE TRAGEDY.

Otter Tail County Girl Is Burned to Death.

Fergus Falls, Minn., May 15.—Esther Morrau was burned to death, her sister, Emma, was probably fatally burned and the residence of their father, Nels P. Morrau, was destroyed Wednesday as a result of a gasoline explosion. The family resides six miles south of Battle Lake, Ottertail county, and the girls had been cleaning coats with gasoline when the oil took fire and the explosion followed.

INDIAN WARFARE WILL BE STAGED

Historic Custer-Sitting Bull Conflict Worked Into Drama.

Fargo, N. D., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the Smithsonian institute and the Federal department of education cooperating with the dramatic department of the North Dakota agricultural college in the presentation of the dramatized version of the Sitting Bull and Custer conflict commencement week the production is attracting nation-wide attention. The original story was written by Dr. A. McG. Beede, Episcopalian missionary on the Standing Rock reservation. It is folk-lore drama of Indian war time days and is tragic and historic. The Smithsonian institute has agreed to assist in staging the play by furnishing appropriate costumes.

Government Encourages Play.

The Federal department of education is encouraging the production which is under the auspices of the Little Country theater, the idea of which originated at the agricultural college. The government educational officials will recommend a similar plan to every school superintendent in the entire United States and are so enthusiastic over the idea that a small model of the Little Country theater will be prepared for the Federal educational exhibit at the Panama exposition.

FOUR BLOODED COWS.

Aristocratic Milk Producers for North Dakota Fair.

Fargo, N. D., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—There will be a quartet of aristocratic milk producers at the North Dakota state fair here July 20-25. Four cows now occupying national attention in dairy circles which will be exhibited are Pear, the famous Red Polled cow of the Jean DuLuth herd of Duluth; the great young Holstein cow, Bess Pietege Ormsby Merdedes, owned by E. C. Schroeder of Clay county, Minnesota. Two others are Glen Canary De Kol and Queen Piebe Merdedes. As dairying has attracted so much attention in North Dakota this year there will be thousands of fair visitors interested in this great quartet.

INTERESTED IN MERIDIAN ROAD.

Fargo, N. D., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Meridian road in the southern part of the state is to be greatly boosted as a result of the establishment here of the headquarters for this part of the state. The road runs the entire length of the Red River valley and the residents are greatly interested in its development and improvement. The highway is being graded up, better drained and dragged oftener each year.

Westbrook Banker Sentenced.

Windom, Minn., May 15.—Judge Nelson has sentenced C. A. Zieske, the Westbrook bank cashier who was found to be short in his accounts some months ago, to an indefinite period in the prison at Stillwater. Mr. Zieske has made such restitution as his personal funds permit in order to help make up the deficit.

FARGO HEADQUARTERS.

Bull Moose Campaign to Be Managed From That City.

Fargo, N. D., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fargo will be Bull Moose campaign headquarters as a result of the choice of H. R. Turner as state chairman, Dorr H. Carroll, the first state chairman, being a candidate for attorney general, having resigned.

This is expected to mean the selection of C. E. Boise of this city as secretary. Mr. Boise was formerly editor of the Tribune at Sherbrooke and a publication in this city.

Helping Kidneys By Clearing Blood

A Function Greatly Assisted By a Well-Known Remedy.

Most readers will be interested to more clearly understand why analysis of urine is so important. In the use of S. S. S. to purify the blood, its action is a stimulant to the myriad of fine blood vessels that make up the constructive tissues of the kidneys. All the blood from all over the body must pass through the kidneys. They act as testers and assayers. And according to what they allow to pass out in the urine, both as to quantity and materials, the health of the kidneys and the quality of the blood is determined. The catalytic energy forced by S. S. S. is shown in the urine. It is also demonstrated in the skin. And as the blood continues to sweep through the kidneys the dominating nature of S. S. S., acting as it does through all the avenues of elimination, shows a marked decrease of disease manifestations as demonstrated by urine analysis. This assistance is a great relief to the kidneys. The body wastes are more evenly distributed to the emunctories; their elimination is stimulated by the tonic action afforded the liver, lungs, skin and kidneys. Thus, in cases of rheumatism, cystitis, chronic sore throat, huskiness of voice, bronchitis, asthma and the myriad of other reflex indications of weak kidney action, first purify your blood with S. S. S., so it will enable the tissues to rebuild the cellular strength and regain the normal health.

S. S. S. is prepared by The Swift Specific Co., 527 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., and if you have any deep-seated or obstinate blood trouble, write to their Medical Dept. for free advice.

Just Between You and Me

By BRUCE

AGITATION has started regarding the closing of the places of business where various of our young, middle-aged and graying gentlemen of more mature years of age are employed, upon the glorious and long awaited day when our team opens the baseball season on the domestic lot.

There are many of the home rooters who would fain be on hand upon that glad and festive occasion. The band will be present and in grand playing form, there will be several speeches, the throwing of the first ball—and there will be the first look at the new players.

The fact that Superior opens the season with us is expected to add much eclat to the occasion. The business men of this great and constantly growing metropolis should be willing, nay, anxious, to close their places of business and permit many of their employes the pleasure of witnessing the first game.

The officers of the local association is striving to make a success of the Duluth club. Baseball is sure one of the talking points of a city, and in the upbuilding of baseball surely the business interests should stand ready to lend the helping hand.

The Dear Old Joplin.

OLD Joplin, Mo., one of the passing places of press notice because of the famous strange and weird crimes that have been pulled there, is ready once more to bask in the light of local publicity. You can't guess—there's no use to try.

Carl Morris is about to start the climb to the pugilistic peaks. There is a stain on his escutcheon that the mammoth Morris would like to have erased. Who placed this stain on the shield of the house of Morris? Speak up, Carl. Why Jim Flynn, you must recall it. Aye, boy, it comes back!

Yearning thirstily for information of the doings out in the broader circles of activity, we consulted one of the Cutlers as to the class of this Morris. Lots of it, they came back with. And it is said that Morris had the Gunboat Smith one licked in New York when the flukey foul was allowed. One thing is more certain than several other things we know of—and this is that the time is propitious for a grand licking for Flynn—one more licking, perhaps it would be better to say.

Please Don't Jar Him.

MARK FREER, now playing in the outfield of the Sox, or recently in such capacity, has made about one hit since the start of the season. Mark's forte is not hitting. His longest suit is speeding around the bases. But you have to get on before you can speed up a bit. But Mark may hit his stride later on.

Little Eva Leber Heard From.

WORD comes that Ted Leber has left Dayton. Following this more word comes that the angelic countenanced youth would like to come back to this town. Suggesting an idea of our own, we would hold that many of the town would like to have Ted come back to us. Like the contracts of organized baseball, this hope does not lack mutuality.

Come, Ted, figuratively speaking, the arms of dear Duluth are outstretched in supplication and the latch string is out and the lamp lit awaiting your return.

Poor Pay at Dear Old K. C.

UNPOPULAR as stout George Tebeau seems to be at Kansas City, or seems to was, it is beginning to be an open secret that the Federals are not getting the coin at their gate in large and liberal quantities. Here is one of the first points where an opening has been shown in the lines of the stalwart enemies of organized baseball. When dear old K. C. was suggested as the home of one of the Federal league teams the idea was liberally applauded.

"Tebeau," said one of the Federal league magnates, which one we are not prepared at this time to state, "is very unpopular in that town. The Federal league team will draw like a beautiful young lady on trial for the murder of her husband."

But looking is convincing, and those who have "once-overed" for some time are becoming convinced of the fact that the Federals have not been so fortunate as pre-season dreams of gilt augured. Boys, this is hard luck. Curses on the Hydra-headed creature of organized baseball.

New York, they do say, will be invaded by the Federals next season. The lot has even been selected. Lots of lots, including our own, have been selected. It is a comparatively easy task to select a lot—wait, George, until the payments begin to string along with the high cost of living.

Back to New York. The Federals have selected their lot; all that remains is the purchase of it, the erection of grand stands and a few other details. Bring on the contractors, like J. D. Rockefeller, they love to work for nothing.

Nothing Strange at All.

IT is said that J. Griffith of Akron, Ohio, cannot longer make the lightweight poundage. This places him in the distinguished company of Willie Ritchie, Tommy Murphy, Leach Cross, and a few of the other leaders in the subtle art of fighting and financiering.

ENGLISH POLO MANAGER

Distinguished Army Captain Named for San Francisco Contest.

London, May 15.—Capt. Edward Darley Miller, formerly of the Seventeenth lancers, was today appointed manager of the International Polo tournament to be played during the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco in 1915.

Capt. Miller is the captain of the Rugby Polo club and the author of "Modern Polo." He was decorated with the distinguished service order during the Boer war.

TY COBB TALKS AT BOOK SELLERS' DINNER

New York, May 15.—"Ty" Cobb, after a bit of spectacular work on the diamond yesterday that virtually won the game for Detroit against New York at the Polo grounds, turned his attention temporarily to literature last night and made a speech at the annual dinner of the American Book Sellers' convention.

Introduced by the toastmaster, who evidently was familiar with Cobb's work on the bases, as "the biggest thief in his business—baseball," Cobb said that being called to speak made him feel so uncomfortable that his evening was spoiled.

"I feel," he explained, "like a young pitcher Jennings put in once. He told him to do his best. When the smoke cleared away there were five runs in and three men on the bases. Jennings asked the young pitcher if he was nervous. 'No,' he answered, 'But I can't keep my limbs from shaking.'"

Cobb said he hoped book selling was not as strenuous as baseball.

Just a word with you on the hat question—

NORTHERN LEAGUE

DOOKS STOP FLICKERTAILS

The White Sox Win Final Game of the Series, 15 to 5.

Cunningham Is Wild But Keeps Opposing Hits Scattered.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 15.—The winning streak of the locals was broken yesterday when the Duluth White Sox defeated Boss Wheeler's braves by the count of 15 to 5. The mound offerings of Wilson were hit freely and Manager Wheeler, tiring of the watchful waiting policy of Wilson, chucked him and motioned Peterson from the shelter of the dog house. The curves of the recruit were slammed to most of the sections of the lot and the merry Dooks ran away with the game.

George Cunningham, the Sturgeon Lake recruit was on the mound for the visitors and kept the hits of the locals well scattered. The youngster was wild and this fact, coupled with some erratic playing behind him, accounted for the runs of the Flickers.

In the initial round Mark Freer broke into the hitting class by slamming the pill for three sacks with the bases populated by two. Three blows in the fifth added two more to the count and then Peterson, mounting the mound, was swatted to all corners of the lot.

The seventh round yielded the visitors five runs on one hit, two bases on balls and three glaring errors.

Following the game the Dooks left for Winnipeg, where the Peggers will be played today and will battle the Sox a double-header tomorrow.

O'Brien declares that his team is the best fielding aggregation in the league and that the acquisition of a hitter will mean that the Dooks will rush to the top.

FORT WILLIAM WINS FROM THE FARGO TRIBE

Fargo, N. D., May 15.—Fort William took the final game of the Fargo series by the score of 5 to 4. The visitors hit both Carroll and Schmirler freely, two home-runs figuring in the fusillade. From the fielding standpoint the game was ragged. The score:

	R.	H.	E.
Fort William	2	5	12
Fargo-Moor-d	1	4	7

Batteries—Kienholz, Furcher and Chapman; Carroll, Schmirler and Murphy.

VIRGINIA TAKES FINAL GAME FROM WINONA.

Winona, Minn., May 15.—Virginia continued its winning streak by defeating the champions yesterday by the score of 3 to 2 in another well played game. Three hits and an error gave the locals their two runs. In the first part of the games, Snow was hit rather freely, a long home-run by Griesch was the hitting feature of the game. The score:

	R.	H.	E.
Virginia	3	9	3
Winona	2	6	2

Batteries—Lampman and Rains; Snow and McGovern.

WINNIPEG EASILY WINS FROM THE RED SOX.

Winnipeg, Man., May 15.—Superior lost the final game of the series here yesterday by the score of 10 to 3. The Peggers simply outclassed the Red Sox and won in a walk. Cummings, the former hoodoo of the Peggers proved easy, while Doughan kept the hits of the visitors well scattered. Altermot and Swalm lead the hitting for the home brigade, each getting a home run. The score:

	R.	H.	E.
Superior	3	5	6
Winnipeg	10	9	2

Batteries—Cummings and Moore; Doughan and Kurke.

Pittsburg and New York started one of the really great clashes of the season yesterday. McGraw's team drew first blood. The result of this series is highly important from its psychological effect. A clean sweep or the winning of the majority of the games will mean much to either team.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

White Sox 5; Dodgers 0.

Chicago, May 15.—Big Jim Vaughn pitched invincible ball yesterday and held Brooklyn to one hit, Chicago winning, 5 to 0. His teammates ran wild on the bases in the seventh and eighth innings, when the visitors commenced erring behind a fusillade of hits, and scored five runs, four of them in the eighth.

The only hit Brooklyn made came in the sixth inning, McCarty, the first man up, shot a swift bounder to Sweeney, which almost took the second baseman off his feet. Five Brooklynites got on base but only two of these reached second. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Brooklyn	0	1	4
Chicago	5	9	0

Batteries—Ragan and McCarty; Vaughn and Bresnahan. Umpires—Rigler and Emslie.

Reds Shut Out Braves.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 15.—Cincinnati outhit and outplayed Boston yesterday and captured the second game of the series, 6 to 0. Tyler pitched fairly well for Boston, errors being responsible for several of the runs scored by Cincinnati. Benton pitched good ball before he and Manager Herzog were ordered out of the game in the fifth inning for disputing a decision at first. Davenport, who succeeded Benton, did not allow a hit during the time he was in the pitcher's box. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Cincinnati	2	8	2

Batteries—Tyler and Whaling; Benton, Davenport and Clark. Umpires—Quigley and Eason.

Phillies Beat Cardinals.

St. Louis, Mo., May 15.—Cravath's triple followed by Becker's single, an out by Byrne and Killifer's one-base hit in the fourteenth inning, won for Philadelphia, 5 to 3 over St. Louis in an exciting contest. Score:

Phil.	5	10	5
St. L.	3	9	1

Batteries—Mayer, Oeschger, Alexander and Killifer; Perritt, Robinson and Snyder. Umpires—Orth and Byron.

Giants Win Wild Game.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 15.—New York defeated Pittsburg yesterday in their first game of the season, 4 to 3. Pittsburg hit Demaree hard and outhit New York, 2 to 1, but a wild pitch in the first inning by Adams, coupled with errors by Kelly and Gibson gave the Giants three runs on one infield hit. Bescher led off with an infield hit, Kelly made a muff of Burns' fly, Fletcher sacrificed, Grant hit to Adams and the throw to the plate got away from Gibson, Grant moving to second and Burns to third. Both men scored when Adams let go a wild pitch. Meyers' double, Demaree's infield hit and Bescher's fly game New York the winning run in the fifth. Vlox's walk, Mitchell's triple and McCarthy's single gave Pittsburg two in the fourth. Gibson's triple and Grant's wild throw gave them their other run in the third. Vice President Thomas R. Marshall saw the game. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Pittsburg	3	10	2

Batteries—Demaree and Meyers; Adams and Gibson. Umpires—Klem and Hart.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Great Pitching Duel.

Washington, May 15. — Washington beat out Chicago yesterday in the tenth inning of a magnificent pitching duel between Ayers and Scott. In the last of the tenth, Gandil, first up, singled and scored the winning run on Shanks' double.

For nine innings Scott held the locals hitless. Not a Washington player got as far as third in that time. In the first inning Chase tripled but was left. Bodie singled in the second, went to second on an error, but was left. In the sixth Milan made a great one-handed stop of Demett's single and threw him out at second. In the tenth inning Collins reached first on an error, stole second, while Alcock took first on a base on balls, but Blackburn fanned for the third out. Score:

Washington	1	2	2

Batteries—Scott and Schalk; Ayers and Henry. Umpires—Dineen and Connolly.

Tigers Beat Yankees.

New York, May 15.—Detroit defeated New York yesterday 3 to 1. Dubuc pitched sensational ball, holding the Yankees to two hits, both made by Pecklupaugh. Keating also twirled a great game, but faltered in the eighth after the Yankees secured a one-run lead in the seventh. A sensational one-handed catch by Hartzell off Crawford, and the infield work of Bush and Kavanaugh featured the game. Score:

New York	1	2	0

Batteries—Dubuc and Stanage; Keating, Caldwell and Sweeney. Umpires—Chill and Sheridan.

St. Louis Shut Out.

Boston, Mass., May 15.—Leonard held St. Louis to four scattered hits yesterday and Boston won a shut-out victory, 1 to 0. Gardner's three-base hit followed by Engle's infield out in the second inning gave the Red Sox the run which decided the game. Manager Branch Rickey and Catcher Agnew of the St. Louis team were put off the field for objecting to a decision by Umpire Egan. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
St. Louis	0	4	1
Boston	1	7	1

Batteries — Hamilton, Baumgardner and Agnew, Jenkins; Leonard and Carrigan. Umpires—Egan and Evans.

Athletics Win Great Game.

Philadelphia, May 15:—The greatest pitching duel of the season here, between Plank and Hagerman, was won yesterday by Philadelphia from Cleveland in thirteen innings, 1 to 0. The sole tally was scored by Schang on a base on balls and Hagerman's wild throw when Plank bunted. Both teams gave a grand exhibition of fielding, with Oldring robbing Lajoie of a home run by a leaping catch and Lajoie, Strunk, Olson and others making clever plays. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Cleveland	0	6	2
Phila	1	6	2

Batteries — Hagerman and Carisch; Plank and Lapp, Schang. Umpires—O'Loughlin and Hildebrand.

AMERICAN ASSN.

Milwaukee 3; Colonels 2.

Louisville, Ky., May 15.—Milwaukee regained first place yesterday by beating Louisville in the first game of the series. Both Loudermilk and Dougherty pitched effectively in the pinches, the latter being aided by two fast double plays with one out in each instance and the bases full. Felch's batting was timely, while Dodge drove in both of the locals' runs. Tom Jones was spiked in the foot in the sixth inning and was forced to retire. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Louisville	2	6	0
Milwaukee	3	6	1

Batteries—Loudermilk and Severoid; Dougherty and Hughes. Umpires—Owens and Connolly.

Saints 5; Hoosiers 3.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 15.—Indianapolis tied the score in the eighth inning here yesterday when Reilley singled, stole second and scored on Bronkie's hit, but St. Paul came back in the ninth and scored three runs, winning 5 to 3. Walker, for St. Paul, managed to keep his hits scattered, although Gardner was called upon to check a rally in the ninth. After the game Pitcher Harrington was ordered to report to the Denver club of the Western league. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Indianapolis	3	10	1
St. Paul	5	10	0

Batteries—Harrington, Laroy, Willis, O'Brien and Livingstone; Walker, Gardner and Glenn. Umpires—Westervelt and O'Brien.

Cleveland 6; Millers 4.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 15.—Cold weather held down the American association inaugural crowd yesterday. Cleveland won 6 to 4, despite the fact that the visitors from Minneapolis outbatted the home team. Major league fans showed as much enthusiasm for the class A baseball as they usually do for major league games. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Minneapolis	4	10	0
Cleveland	6	9	2

Kaws 4; Senators 2.

Columbus, Ohio, May 15.—Ritchie was steadier than Scheneberg in yesterday's game which Kansas City won 4 to 2. Two passes, Moore's single and Dehll's triple in the second inning gave the winners a safe lead. Shortstop Pfeffer was injured trying to steal second in the first inning and was carried off the field. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Columbus	2	4	0

Batteries—Ritchie and Moore; Scheneberg and Smith. Umpires—Murray and Johnston.

FEDERAL LEAGUE

Pittsburg 6; Kawfeds 2.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 15.—Pittsburg celebrated its return to the home grounds yesterday by defeating Kansas City 6 to 2. Although Walker did not allow a hit while he pitched he was taken out in the fifth inning after he had walked four men. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Pittsburg	6	9	2

Batteries — Henning, Harris and Easterly; Walker, Adams and Berry.

Orioles 9; Hoofeds 6.

Baltimore, Md., May 15.—Baltimore and Indianapolis batted hard yesterday, but the home team won 9 to 6. Quinn and Walsh hit over the left field fence for home runs for Baltimore. Quinn was taken out for the first time this season. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Baltimore	9	13	5
Indianapolis	6	13	1

Brooklyn 4; St. Louis 1.

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 15.—Brooklyn won the opening game with St. Louis yesterday, 4 to 1. Brooklyn got all its runs in the fourth inning on singles by Evans, Gagnier and Seaton, Westerall's double, a pass to Myers, Evans' sacrifice fly and errors by Bridwell and Boucher. St. Louis saved itself from a shutout in the fifth when Hartley walked, went to third on singles by Willett and Bridwell and scored when Boucher forced Bridwell at second base. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
St. Louis	1	7	5
Brooklyn	4	9	1

Batteries—Willett and Hartley; Seaton and Land.

Buffalo 5; Chicago 4.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 15.—Buffalo won from Chicago yesterday, 5 to 4. With the score a tie at the beginning of the ninth inning, Fisk, who had been sent in to relieve Lange, filled the bases and forced in the winning run with a base on balls. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Buffalo	5	6	4
Chicago	4	7	3

Batteries — Krapp, Anderson and Blair; Lange, Fisk and Wilson.

NORTHERN TEAM WILL PLAY PROCTOR

The strong Northerns of this city will go to Proctor Sunday for what is expected to be one of the best baseball game of the season. Proctor has a very strong team this season, according to the accounts that have reached here, and the Northerns are rated as at least 25 per cent better than the team of last year.

Mayor Erickson of Proctor will pitch the first ball, a brass band will lead the parade to the park and a real opening day program will be carried out.

Alder and Anderson will be in the battery points for the Northerns, and as the star local beaver has shown rare form in his workouts, the Northerns are confident of copping the contest.

KELLEYS WANT GAME WITH STRONG LAKES.

The Kelleys are out for the hardware championship of the city and as the first step in the attempt to accomplish this object, issue a challenge to the Lake Hardware baseball team. The Lakes had a very strong team in the field last year and it is expected that in the event of the two teams meeting the game will be both close and interesting.

IGNORES MYSTIC EIGHT LETTERS FOR YACHT.

Boston, Mass., May 15.—The cup defender sloop Vanitie, built for Alexander S. Cochrane of Yonkers, N. Y., was launched from the yards of the builders at 2:45 p. m. yesterday. The word Vanitie painted on the stern of the sloop dispelled all doubt as to what the name of the craft would be.

RESERVE RULE AVOIDED.

Chicago, May 15.—In arguing for dissolution of the injunction restraining Pitcher Johnson from playing with the Kansas City Federals, counsel for the latter yesterday made no mention of the "reserve" rule. This omission, according to representatives of the old league, is a virtual admission of equity in the "reserve rule" as it is worded in the new contracts.

The American league stood shoulder to shoulder with the National in the hearing of the injunction case. While President Herrmann of the Cincinnati club was the only one who gave verbal testimony, affidavits of President Johnson of the American league and President Comiskey of the Chicago Americans were read. These men declared no complaints concerning the "ten-day" clause ever had been heard by them. President Herrmann was questioned by Judge Foell regarding the "waiver rules," and gave a history of them.

The Federal side depended primarily on Pitcher Johnson's affidavit made out some time ago. More arguments will be heard today.

Murphy Talked Too Much.

Chicago, May 15.—Charles W. Murphy, former owner of the Cubs, will be invited to explain an apparent discrepancy between his personal property schedule filed with the tax assessor, listing personal property to the value of $6,650 and newspaper clippings which quoted him as saying, "I ran a shoe string into a million dollars," and as stating that he sold his stock in the ball club for half a million.

CENTRAL TO HOLD SHOOT

A special prize shoot of the Central Gun club will be held at the Minnesota point grounds of the club tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. It is desired that every member of the club be out for the first prize shoot of the season.

Officials of the club are working on the tentative program for the season and a number of special events will be placed on the program.

Plans are being made for the enlarging of the clubhouse and also the engaging of a helper to make his home on the grounds during the shooting season.

Officials of the Central Gun club declare that never before in the history of the club has the interest in the game been as great as now. One of the best seasons in the Northwest is looked for, and it is expected that some of the best clay pigeon shots of the country will be here later.

AMERICUS BEATS BIG BOHEMIAN.

Baltimore, Md., May 15.—In a wrestling match here last night Gus Schoenlein (Americus) of this city won in straight falls from Gustav Fristensky, the Bohemian. The first fall was gained with a bar-lock in 50 minutes and 10 seconds; the second with a crotch hold, shifted to a full nelson, in 26½ minutes.

AMERICANS SHOW DISAPPOINTINGLY

Sandwich, Eng., May 15.—The form displayed by the American entrants in the first round of the competition for the St. George's cup here yesterday was hardly up to what had been expected. Francis Ouimet, the open champion of the United States, in whose play great interest centered, only succeeded in turning in a card of 80.

Jerome D. Travers of Upper Montclair, N. J., returned a score of 77, which tied him with two others for eighth place. He is now regarded by observers here as the only one among the Americans who stands a chance of winning the coveted trophy. In practice the other day, he covered the same course in 69, and if he repeats that performance tomorrow he may still come out on top.

D. Ransom, the English player who heads the list with 72, was favored with extraordinary luck. He is not recorded in the first flight of golfers and it will be a great surprise if he does as well today.

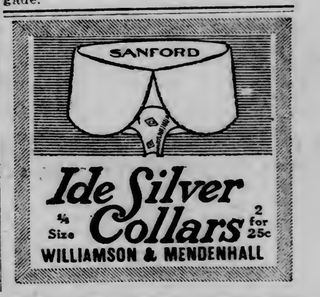
Harold H. Hilton, the British amateur champion, gave a brilliant display of golf in the first half, reaching the turn in 33, but he took ten more than that coming in, making a total of 76 for the round.

H. E. Gillies of London, the holder of the trophy, covered the course in 77, tying Travers.

FORD SIGNS WITH DOOKS.

President Harry A. Blume announced today that Dad Ford is a member of the White Sox, the contract having been signed yesterday. The newest member of the domestic honor defenders will work out at Athletic park with Montieth Woods, the choir leader of Bottineau, N. D., and will take his place in the lineup Monday against his old side kicks, the Superior team.

The injury to Wolfe may necessitate the sending of Ford to one of the infield positions. As the former Red Sox member can play all places nearly equally well he will fit into the breach in nice fashion. Woods has been under the weather and will do some rounding to before the joyful homecoming event of the White Sox brigade.



A NEW VERSION.

Cincinnati Enquirer: The boss got a good disappointment for once in his life. Taking up the morning newspaper, he gave his attention to the baseball score. As he was reading it the door opened and in popped the head of the office boy. The boss knew, of course, what was coming, and settled himself firmly in his chair with a not-to-be-fooled air.

"My grandmother"— began the boy.

"Thought so," snarled the boss.

"Has just died"—

"Knew it," growled the boss.

"And left me a fortune—so I resign. See?"

And he left the boss on the verge of a fit of apoplexy!

MONEY LEFT IN TWO FUNDS

Cash Available in Revolving and Permanent Improvement Funds.

The city's permanent improvement fund and the revolving fund still show cash balances available for the coming year, according to statements which have been prepared by City Auditor B. J. Campbell for Commissioner R. Murchison, head of the works division.

The revolving fund has an unappropriated balance of $29,638, but this will be increased by the payment of various assessments for special improvements. The permanent improvement fund has $36,287.89 available for the rest of the year.

The auditor's statement shows that the revolving fund had a balance of $277,164.02 May 10. The obligations incurred against the fund include: Due contractors, $34,510.06; grading Twenty-ninth avenue west, $1,453.79; sewer in West First street, $2,563.45; improving West Superior street between Fifteenth and Twenty-fifth avenues, $65,643; improving West Superior street between Twenty-fifth and Thirtieth avenues, $39,952.66; improving Lake avenue south, $19,942.62; Duluth Heights sewer, $41,432.80; improving Vernon street, $22,027.65.

Under the city attorney's opinion, the city had approximately $80,000 available for this year. The obligations against it include: Culvert at Oneota street and Forty-third avenue west, $1,760; one-half cost of bridge over Keene's creek, $1,800; one-half cost of culvert at Ninety-third avenue west, $500; estimated city's share of West Superior street between Fifteenth and Twenty-fifth avenues, $20,303; estimated city's share of improving West Superior street between Twenty-fifth and Thirtieth avenues, $6,352.80; estimated city's share of Lake avenue improvement, $1,556.31; estimated city's share of Vernon street improvement, $5,507; city's share of Kenwood road improvement, $3,900.

McEWEN AND FARRELL FAIL TO SECURE REVERSAL OF THE ELECTION RESULT

city. The contestant appealed from the judgment and also from the order denying a new trial.

An appeal was taken from the judgment of the trial court that W. A. Hicken and R. Murchison had been elected short term commissioners over James A. Farrell. A dissenting opinion was rendered by Chief Justice Brown in the Hicken-Murchison-Farrell case.

Both decisions are interesting in view of the fact that many points in connection with the use of the preferential system of voting, which have been in doubt, are now cleared up. The supreme court holds that certain slight irregularities which occurred at the election in which there was no taint of fraud or bad faith did not disfranchise the voter although he did not strictly comply with the letter of the law.

SYLLABI OF THE TWO DECISIONS

William E. McEwen, appellant, vs. William I. Prince, respondent—

1. Under the Duluth charter unregistered voters may vote at the municipal election upon presenting corroborated affidavits showing that they are qualified voters. Where a duly qualified voter presented such affidavit and was permitted to vote, and no taint of fraud or bad faith appears, his vote is not invalid because one of his corroborating witnesses, who believed and testified that he was a freeholder, in point of law was not such, nor because the judge of election, who in fact administered the oath and received and retained the affidavit, neglected to sign the jurat thereto.

2. Where the voter signs such affidavit in a blank space left for the insertion of his name, it is sufficient, although he fails to sign at the end thereof.

3. If a voter, without making oath that he is unable to mark his ballot himself, procures another to mark it for him, such ballot is void.

4. The ballot, in accordance with a charter requirement, provided for preferential voting and for three classes of votes, arranged in separate columns, and designated "first choice," "second choice" and "additional choices." The charter requires the votes of each class to be counted and canvassed separately, and no votes in one class can be counted in another class.

Judgment and order denying a new trial are affirmed. TAYLOR, C.

The charter of the City of Duluth adopted by the electors Dec. 3, 1912, provides for a preferential ballot, with the right of the voter to indicate first, second and additional choices. It contains the provision that no vote shall be counted on the election of commissioners unless the voter marks as many first choices as there are commissioners to be elected. This provision is not in conflict with the section of the state Constitution, which gives to every male person belonging to certain classes the right to vote "for all officers that now are or hereafter may be elected by the people."

2. The Duluth charter does not abrogate the provision of the general election law, which confers upon the voter the right to vote for persons other than the regularly nominated candidates whose names are printed thereon. HALLAM, J.

McEwen-Prince Decision.

The decision in the McEwen-Prince contest for the office of mayor, written by Supreme Court Commissioner Taylor, is as follows:

"In December, 1912, the city of Duluth adopted a home rule charter which established a commission form of government for that city and provided for the election of a mayor and four commissioners on the first Tuesday in April, 1913. The charter provided for 'preferential' voting for the following form of ballot:

For Commissioners—Vote for first choices or ballot will be void
For other officers—

"For each office to be filled, the voter is allowed to designate, in the first column at the right of the names, one and only one 'first choice,' in the second column one and only one 'second choice,' bu the third column he may designate as many 'additional choices' as he sees fit. Only one choice can be counted for any one candidate. If a candidate for any office has received more than one-half of all the 'first choice' votes for that office he is elected. If no candidate has received more than one-half of such 'first choice' votes, the 'second choice' votes are added to the 'first choice' votes, and, if any candidate has received more than one-half of the combined first and second choice votes he is elected. If no candidate has received more than one-half of such combined first and second choice votes, the 'additional choice' votes are added to the first and second choice votes, and the candidate then having the highest number of votes is elected. If two or more officers are to be elected, as in the case of commissioners, the same rule is followed with such modifications as are necessary to make it applicable.

No Majority.

"At the election there were ten candidates for mayor. No candidate received a majority of the first choice votes, nor of the combined first and second choice votes; and, after adding together all three classes of votes, the canvassing board found that William I. Prince had the highest number and declared him elected. A contest was duly instituted by William E. McEwen, and, as a result thereof, the trial court found that the total number of votes of all three classes cast for McEwen was 3,141, and the total number of such votes cast for Prince was 3,149, and that Prince had received the highest number of votes and had been elected. The contestant made a motion for a new trial which was denied; and judgment was rendered to the effect that Prince had been duly elected as, and is, mayor of said city. The contestant appealed from the judgment and also from the order denying a new trial.

"Section 38 of the city charter provides for registering the names of voters and further provides: 'No person shall be allowed to vote at any municipal election unless his name be registered as herein provided, except that any qualified voter of the city, whose name does not appear among the registered voters, may, at the time he offers his ballot on election day, deliver to the judges of election his affidavit in which he shall state,' (certain prescribed facts showing his qualifications to vote), 'which said affidavit shall be substantiated by the affidavit of two freeholders and electors in such district, corroborating all of material statements therein, and in case any person offering to vote at such election shall submit such affidavit so corroborated, the judges of election shall receive his vote, although his name does not appear upon the registration rolls.'

Unregistered Votes.

"At the election a large number of voters who were not registered presented affidavits under the above provision and were allowed to vote. Blank forms of affidavit had been provided and were furnished by the election officers, and no question is raised as to the sufficiency of the form. Contestant, however, points out three persons who executed affidavits as corroborating witnesses and did not possess the legal title to any real estate within the precinct, and insists that for that reason the affidavits were void and the votes of the persons presenting them illegal. One of these witnesses, together with his family, had resided for more than thirty years upon a lot conveyed to his wife by her father as the consideration for an agreement between the witness and his wife on the one part, and the old gentleman on the other part, to support the latter and his wife during their declining years. Another of these witnesses had purchased and paid for a parcel of real estate with his own funds, but had taken the deed in the name of his wife. This land was, in fact, in an adjoining precinct a few feet from the line between the two precincts, but the witness supposed that it was in the same precinct in which he resided. The other of these witnesses had been the administrator of the estate of his mother and, under license of the probate court, had sold two lots belonging to the estate. They were purchased at the sale in the name of his sister under a verbal agreement that he and his sister should own them jointly. Both he and his sister resided upon the lots, and both recognized the joint ownership, but no conveyance had been executed to him by the sister. At the time of making the affidavits in controversy, all three stated they were freeholders, and apparently believed in good faith that such was the fact. Indeed when testifying at the trial, they still insisted that the land belonged to them in whole or in part. Nothing appears to impugn the good faith of the voters who relied upon such affidavits.

Defective Affidavits.

"Contestant also points out five affidavits as defective for the reason that no official signature is attached to the jurat thereto. This is true, but it affirmatively appears that each of these affidavits was presented to a judge of election at the time the voter received his ballot, and was in fact sworn to before such judge, who took and thereafter retained the affidavit, but, in the press of business, neglected to affix his signature thereto.

"Contestant also points out two affidavits as defective because not subscribed by the voter at the bottom thereof. The affidavit begins with the word, 'I,' followed by a blank space in which to insert the name of the voter, and in each of these cases the voter himself wrote his name in this space, as and for his signature, instead of writing it at the bottom of the affidavit. The signature was sufficient.

"Contestant also points out one affidavit as defective because, in the blank space left for the insertion of the number of the ward, the wrong number had been inserted, and, in the blank space left for the insertion of the name of the city, the name of the county had been inserted. The affidavit further stated that the voter resided in the precinct in which he offered to vote, at 1107 East Third street. As it showed exactly where the voter resided and this was within the precinct, the affidavit was properly received notwithstanding the above errors.

"Contestant urges with much force and ability that the charter provisions in respect to these affidavits are mandatory, and, the affidavits are not complete and perfect in form and substance, and executed by those technically qualified to execute them, that the votes of those who presented them were illegal and void. This is the position taken by the courts of some states, although under statutes perhaps somewhat different from our own. State v. Trask, 125 Wis. 333; 115 N. W. 823; Fitzmaurice v. Willis, 20 N. D. 129, 127 N. W. 95. But this court has not adopted the strict technical construction of election laws contended for by contestant.

Right to Vote.

"The Constitution secures to every person possessing the qualifications prescribed therein the right to vote, for all officers that now are, or hereafter may be, elective by the people. Article 7, section 1. The legislature may, unquestionably, prescribe such safeguards and such rules and regulations in respect to the exercise of this right as are reasonably necessary to prevent fraud, to limit it to those possessing the requisite qualifications, and to insure a free and explicit expression of the will of the voter; but when it has appeared that an election was fairly and honestly conducted, and that the persons voting thereat in fact possessed the qualifications prescribed by the Constitution and had cast their votes in a good faith attempt to exercise the right secured to them by the Constitution, and no taint of fraud or bad faith has appeared, this court has never held such votes illegal and void for failure to comply with some statutory regulation, unless required to do so by the unequivocal mandate of the law-making power. See, among others, the following cases: Taylor v. Taylor, 10 Minn., 107 (Gil. 81); Edson v. Child, 18 Minn., 64 (Gil. 43), and on re-argument, 18 Minn., 351 (Gil. 323); Stemper v. Higgins, 38 Minn., 222; State v. Gay, 59 Minn., 67; Pennington v. Hare, 60 Minn., 146; Hankey v. Bowman, 82 Minn., 328; Truelson v. Hugo, 87 Minn., 139; State v. Falk, 89 Minn., 269.

Registration List.

"The election law of 1861 provided for making a registration list of the names of voters and further provided that, 'no person shall vote whose name is not upon the said list at the time of opening the polls. * * * Provided, if any person offers to vote at such election whose name is not upon said list as aforesaid, and who is by all the judges of said election personally known to have all the qualifications of an elector in said precinct, and entitled to vote at such election, but whose name has been accidentally omitted from the said list, then the name of such person shall be added to the said list, and the said person shall be allowed to vote, but in all such cases an entry shall be made opposite the name of such person of the fact that the said name was inserted in such list after the opening of the polls.' Ch. 15 Sec. 5 Laws of 1861. The act further provided that the canvassing board should not, 'refuse to include any returns in their estimate of votes for any informality in holding any election, or making returns thereof, but all returns shall be received and the votes canvassed by such canvassing board and included in the abstracts provided for in this act.' Ch. 15 Sec. 43 Laws of 1861. In contests brought under this statute in which it appeared that, in certain precincts, no registration list whatever had been prepared, and that no voters had been registered at the election, the court held that such registration was not essential to the validity of the votes or of the election. Taylor vs. Taylor, 10 Minn. 107 (Gil. 81); Edson vs. Child, 18 Minn. 64 (Gil. 43), and 351 (Gil. 323). In the Taylor case Justice Berry dissented. In the Edson case he wrote the opinion and took occasion to say that his views were unchanged, but that the rule announced in the Taylor case had been acquiesced in so long that the court would not be justified in departing therefrom in the absence of legislation changing the rule.

Informalities.

"The Duluth charter, in addition to the provisions already cited, provides in section 45 that: 'No informalities in conducting municipal elections shall invalidate the same, if they be conducted fairly and in substantial conformity with the requirements of this charter.' The charter discloses no legislative intent to change the rule, followed consistently since the decision of the Taylor case in 1865, that, where an election has been conducted fairly without taint of fraud or bad faith and only qualified voters have voted thereat, failure to comply with the regulations for conducting the election will not invalidate the votes so cast, unless the ballots were prepared or voted in a manner which the law declared should invalidate them. It is not claimed that, at the election in controversy, any person voted who, in fact, lacked the requisite qualifications to entitle him to do so; neither is it claimed that any taint of fraud or bad faith is imputable either to the voters, the election officers, the candidates, or to others. Under the charter provisions and the rule established in the Taylor and Edson cases, the irregularities in the affidavits, pointed out by contestant, were not sufficient to invalidate the votes of the persons presenting them and such votes were properly counted.

Aid in Marking Ballots.

"Contestant also asserts that in three instances a voter had another person mark his ballot without making oath that he was unable to mark it himself, and that he permitted such person to select the candidates voted for thereon. As a matter of necessity, a voter unable to read English or physically unable to mark his ballot, may have another mark it for him; but if a voter who is capable of marking his own ballot, not only violates the rule of secrecy which is an essential element of an election by ballot, but also permits another to make out his ballot for him, the transaction bears an appearance of bad faith or dishonesty, which justifies the exclusion of the vote. Hence the election law properly requires a voter to make oath as to his disability, before he can cast a ballot prepared by another. If he cast a ballot so prepared without making such oath, his vote is illegal. State v. Gay, 59 Minn. 6. Neither can the one who marks the ballot be allowed to influence the vote; he must merely give expression to the will of the voter. Had either charge made by contestant been established, the votes in question should have been excluded, but the trial court found that neither charge had been proven and the evidence sufficiently sustains such conclusion.

Third Choice Votes.

"There are sixty-eight ballots in which the voting cross mark is placed opposite the names of two or more of the candidates for mayor in either the 'first choice' column or the 'second choice' column. It is conceded that these votes cannot be counted as either first or second choice votes, for the reason that the voter attempted to vote for two or more when he could vote for only one; but the contestant contends that, although they cannot be counted in the column in which they are placed, yet as the voter could indicate in the third column as many additional choices as he wished, they should be counted the same as if they had been placed in the third column. He argued that by placing the marks in the first or second column the voter indicated that he preferred the candidates so designated over the candidates whom he designated by marks placed in the third column; and, as they cannot be given effect in the column in which they were placed, they should at least be given the same effect as if they had been placed in the third column. In the section providing how votes shall be counted and canvassed the charter says: 'If a ballot contain either first or second choice votes in excess of the number of offices to be filled no vote in the column showing such excess shall be counted.' The charter also provides that there shall be printed at the head of the ballot, 'Vote only one first choice and only one second choice for any one office,' and this notice was printed as so required. The trial court counted as additional choice votes all votes placed in the additional choice column, but declined to count as additional choice votes those placed in the first or second choice columns. The court followed the correct rule. The charter draws a sharp line of distinction between the three classes of votes, and requires them to be counted and canvassed separately, and to be considered separately. They differ in importance, and the second and third classes respectively are to be given no effect unless there be a failure to elect by the preceding class or classes. The charter indicates unequivocally that neither class is to be counted in any other class, and, if there be an excess of votes in the first or second columns, that such votes shall not be counted at all.

"Two ballots, which contestant claims should have been counted for him but were not so counted, remain for consideration. One of these clearly should be counted for contestant. The first choice upon the other should probably be rejected, for the reason that it cannot be determined with sufficient certainty for whom the voter intended it; the second and additional choices were not for contestant. But if this vote be counted for contestant, it would not affect the result.

"Both the judgment and the order denying a new trial are affirmed."

The Farrell Case.

The opinion handed down by the supreme court in the Hicken-Murchison-Farrell contest, in which the court decides that William A. Hicken and R. Murchison are rightfully exercising the duties and privilege of their offices has not yet been received by The Herald. It is expected, however, that many of the same points which are involved in the mayoralty contest are embodied in this contest. The dissenting opinion of Chief Justice Brown and Philip E. Brown has been received and is published herewith.

In the Hicken-Murchison-Farrell contest, the supreme court holds that the section of the charter which provides that no vote shall be counted on the election of commissioners unless the voter marks as many first choices as there are commissioners to be elected, is not in conflict with the section of the state constitution which gives to every male person belonging to certain classes the right to vote "for all officers that are now or hereafter may be elected by the people." The supreme court also finds that that the Duluth charter does not abrogate the provision of general election law which confers upon the voter the right to vote for persons other than the regularly nominated candidates whose names are printed on the ballots.

Dissenting Opinion.

"I am unable to concur in the views of the court in this case and therefore respectfully dissent. The question involved is of far greater and more serious importance than whether the contestant or contestee shall hold and discharge the duties of the office of commissioner of public safety of the city of Duluth. The constitutional right of the electors of the state freely and without restraint to cast their ballots for candidates of their choice, and to have them counted as cast, is the fundamental issue presented, is of far reaching importance for future guidance of legislation along the line of the Duluth charter, and entirely overshadows all other considerations.

"The facts are fully stated in the opinion and need not be repeated. That the provisions of the Duluth charter violate the constitutional rights of the electors of that city seems clear and beyond serious discussion. The constitution (Sec. 1, Art. 7) provides that every citizen meeting the requirements there prescribed "shall be entitled to vote * * * for all officers that now are, or hereafter may be, elective by the people." This is an express guaranty of a right or privilege which cannot be denied, or substantially impaired or abridged by legislation. It is a civil privilege protected by the fundamental law, to be exercised by the elector, or not, at his option, and in no sense a legal duty imposed by law. It is a duty in the sense that it is a personal obligation the citizen owes to the state and to society, but it has never been declared by court or legislature an imposed legal duty which the elector must perform either in whole or in part. And it may safely be said that prior to the adoption of the Duluth charter no legislative authority has ever attempted to declare that an elector must cast his ballot for a particular number of candidates or not vote at all. Under the constitution the right of franchise must be free and untrammeled to the end that the elector may freely cast his ballot for such candidates as he deems worthy of election, and that he is here deprived of the right is clear. If the decision in this case affirming the validity of this requirement is followed and applied in the future there is no limit to which the legislature may not go in restricting and substantially embarrassing the right of franchise. It may say, as does the Duluth charter, that if the elector casts his ballot for a less number of candidates than are to be elected to a particular office, the ballot shall be void. It may command the elector to vote the entire ballot, or be deprived of the right to voie for any of the candidates appearing thereon, and if he fails to do so that the ballot cast by him for some of the candidates shall be void. The legislature may also say and declare that if several constitutional amendments are to be voted upon each elector shall cast his ballot upon all, one way or the other, or not at all. In my opinion the legislature has no such power, and any statute so providing would be a nullity. As I understand the facts in Bott vs. Wurts, 62 N. J. L. 107, cited in the opinion of the court, the decision there rendered does not uphold any such legislative power. In the case at bar two commissioners were to be elected. There were eight or ten candidates whose names appeared upon the official ballot. Several ballots were cast for contestant only, and by force of the Duluth charter, the validity of which is affirmed by this court, the ballots so cast are thrown out, resulting in a declaration that a candidate who received the minority vote at the election is declared elected to the office. If this does not deny the right of the elector to vote for candidates of his choice, ignoring those to whom he is opposed, it is difficult to imagine a statute that would have that effect. While it is true, as remarked in the opinion of the court, that statutes are not to be lightly set aside, it is equally true that the right of franchise, standing as it does at the foundation of our institutions, is just as sacred as the right of the legislature to enact laws. Its protection is safe-guarded by the Constitution, and is beyond legislative impairment. The suggestion in the opinion that one of the purposes of this provision of the Duluth charter was to prevent combinations of voters in favor of one candidate is without force. If combinations of this kind are formed the purposes thereof can readily be carried out by voting for the preferred candidate alone, and then writing into the ballot the name of some person, not a candidate at all, and marking the cross opposite his name, thus wholly circumventing the intention of the charter, by the exercise of a right the opinion concedes to each elector. The result intended to be guarded against may be accomplished by this idle ceremony.

"In my opinion the charter of Duluth upon this subject arbitrarily violates the rights of the electors and should be declared void.

"Mr. Justice Philip E. Brown concurs in this dissent.

GOING IT ALONE.

Burdick Not Aligned With Any Candidates for Senator.

Williston, N. D., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—U. L. Burdick, progressive Republican candidate for governor, says that he is not aligned with any of the candidates for the United States senate. The statement was brought forth as a result of the report, current during the last two or three weeks, that he had tendered his support to A. J. Gronna.

Burdick maintains that he, personally, does not want to make an alignment with a senatorial candidate and he also voices the opinion that he doesn't believe any of the candidates would want to make an alignment with him.

CASHEL OUT OF RACE.

Grafton, N. D., Democrat Not Senatorial Candidate.

Grafton, N. D., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. L. Cashel of Grafton, former state chairman of the Democratic party, will not be a candidate for United States senator.

Mr. Cashel makes definite announcement to that effect in a statement just issued:

"Owing to my many business demands, I feel, should I enter the contest, that I would be unable to give proper attention to my own candidacy and to those of my associates on the ticket; therefore, I have concluded not to become a candidate," he says.

This leaves the field clear to George P. Jones of Edgeley and W. F. Purcell of Wahpeton for the Democratic nomination.

NORTHERN STUDENTS DO NOT SMOKE

Rule Against Use of Tobacco Now in Effect in Methodist Colleges.

The action that may be taken today by the conference of the Methodist Episcopal church south at Oklahoma City regarding the proposal to refuse young men who smoke admission into the Methodist ministry, will not affect the north church, as this rule is already observed in all the Methodist schools and colleges.

A local minister said this morning that students entering these colleges in the northern part of the United States must sign a statement that they will refrain from smoking while at the institution. This rule is closely adhered to by the students, he said.

Asked if any Methodist ministers smoke, this pastor said that there are a very few who enjoy the weed and that in his opinion there is no Methodist pastor in Duluth who is a heavy smoker.

MISSING FATHER RETURNS WEALTHY

Provides for Family and Off Again for South America.

Birmingham, Ala., May 15.—Returning unannounced and unknown as a forlorn wanderer after twenty-one years of absence in remote parts of Brazil from his wife and children, whom he left in 1893 and from whom he had never since heard, W. T. Blackmon hunted up his wife, sons and daughters in Calhoun county, in this state, found them all in pinched financial circumstances, provided handsomely for the entire family for the rest of their lives and returned as suddenly to his coffee plantations in Brazil after a brief interview with his wife, who parted with him as a coldly courteous friend.

Blackmon's departure, wanderings and astonishing financial success in a foreign land read like a romance. Twenty-one years ago he disappeared leaving his wife and four children in reduced circumstances. In all the interim no word was received from him, and they knew not whether he was dead or alive. The story leaked out through deposits made by his family in a local bank.

The four children grew up and drifted out into the world. One daughter married. Another held a place as a cashier in a small town store. One son, Forney Blackmon, took to roving like his father. No one knows where he is. A fortune awaits him when he is found. The youngest son went to farm work and modestly supported his mother. He is a tenant on a farm near the old home town.

A few days ago a stranger drove up where the young man was ploughing, and after a few questions, threw his arms around the youth's neck, hugged him and made himself known as the long lost father, who had left Alabama with $40 and drifted until he landed in Brazil. There he went to work on a coffee plantation at 50 cents a day. He was steadily advanced in pay and responsibility until the owner, an Englishman, took him in as a partner. The plantation prospered, and when the original owner died was worth $9,000,000. The benefactor of Blackmon was without relatives and left all his property to the man who came to him as a day laborer.

Then Blackmon began to think of his wife and children struggling for an existence for twenty-one years. He returned to Calhoun county in Alabama, and after finding his youngest son, located his wife. They met coolly. There was no evidence of affection from the deserted woman. They parted as friendly acquaintances. Blackmon hung his head and quietly left. But he provided for all the members of his family so as to make them comfortable for life, arranged to divide his vast fortune among them at his death and, heavy of heart, with tears in his eyes, at 69 years of age, went back to his coffee plantations in Brazil.

Members of the family have made large deposits in a local bank, and are seeking investments. The youngest boy, who supported his mother many years and never had any schooling, is preparing to take a complete education. Over $50,000 in cash was distributed to members of Blackmon's family, and each was provided with an annual income for life of $5,000 besides other gifts of lands and other properties.

DEMOCRATS FILL SLATE

Jones and Purcell Seek Senatorship--Hellstrom for Governor.

Fargo, N. D., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.) — The "exploring committee" of the Democratic party met in an adjourned session here today to fill vacancies on state and congressional tickets. A slate was arranged at a meeting held here some weeks ago, but some of the candidates suggested at that time, found that they could not make the race. The ticket will undoubtedly be completed before adjournment.

This afternoon it was announced that the following men had agreed to accept places on the ticket:

For U. S. senator, George P. Jones of Lamoure, and W. E. Purcell of Wahpiton; for congress, First district, John S. Gogin of Osnabrock, and Bartholomew of Grand Forks; Second district, Weeks of Bottineau; Third district, Halverson of Minot.

For governor, Hellstrom of Bismarck; for lieutenant governor, Lamb of Michigan City; for secretary of state, Byerly of Velva; for auditor, Shannon of Cando; for treasurer, Hegge of Hatton; for attorney general, Cameron of Litton; for commissioner of agriculture, Lillibridge of Dickinson; for insurance commissioner, C. S. Whithalsey of Fargo; for railroad commissioners, Laughlin of Nelsen, Hall of Valley City and Willson of Bathgate.

Candidates may not be named for justice of the supreme court and superintendent of public instruction.

COUNCIL RESUMES TRIPS ABOUT CITY

Members Inspect Pumping Station and Attend to Other Matters.

With the coming of pleasant weather the city commissioners are resuming their trips about the city to look over various situations pertaining to the administration.

This morning the council went to the eastern end of Duluth. They looked over the easement for the duplicate 36-inch force main in the east one-half of section 34-51-13. The Norton estate is willing to dedicate it, provided the council will pass a resolution agreeing to vacate the present road when a new road is improved a short distance above it. The commissioners felt that the proposition would be mutually beneficial and will probably adopt it.

From there they proceeded to the Lakewood pumping station, which they inspected, and returned to the city at noon.

Yesterday afternoon Commissioner Hicken and Fire Chief Randall went to Proctor and gave a demonstration of the new combination chemical hose and pumper. The Proctor people agreed to give fire protection to the settlement lying inside the city limits of Duluth and in exchange the city will send the machine to Proctor to assist in fighting any serious fires.

The question of the city paying for street lighting in that vicinity is still in abeyance. Commissioner Hicken said he would take it up with Commissioner Merritt and the other members of the council to determine upon some course of procedure. The power can be secured at Proctor and it is asserted that the price will be reasonable.

MISS RAVENSCROFT BEATEN IN ENGLAND

American Woman Golf Champion Defeated By Miss Leitch.

Hunstanton, Eng., May 15.—Miss Cecil Leitch won the British women's golf championship today, defeating Miss Gladys Ravenscroft, woman champion of the United States, by two holes up and one to play.

Miss Cecil Leitch, the new British woman's champion, is only 23 years old. She is the best of a famous quintet of sisters who have figured in championship matches during the last few years.

When she was only 17 years old she reached the semi-finals in the championship tournament. When she was 19 she scored a sensational victory over Harold H. Hilton, the present amateur champion, defeating him by two holes up and one to play in a match of seventy-two holes over various courses. She won the title of woman's golf champion of France in 1912.

POLO PONIES COMING.

String Leaves England on Liner Minneapolis for Meadowbrook.

London, May 15.—A string of thirty-six ponies to be used by the British team in the matches for the international polo trophy at Meadowbrook were taken on board the liner Minneapolis today. They are valued at $60,000. Most of the ponies belong to Baron Wimborne, but the most famous among them is Energy, lent by the duke of Westminster.

Baron Wimborne's head groom and twenty-five assistants accompanied the ponies.

SCOTSMAN WINS CUP.

St. George's Championship Contest Is Decided.

Sandwich, Eng., May 15.—John Graham, Jr., a Scottish member of the Royal Liverpool Golf club, today won the St. George's champion grand challenge cup with an aggregate score for the 36 holes of 146 strokes.

Two English golfers in the finals made low scores today. They were Robert Harris of Harwood Downs and E. Martin Smith of the Royal St George's club, whose total for the two rounds was 153 strokes.

D. Ransom of Crowborough, Eng., who was the leader of yesterday's play, with a score of 72 strokes for the first round, made the second in 82 strokes, thus bringing his aggregate up to 154.

Among the American competitors, Fraser Hale of Chicago did the second round in 84 strokes, which made his total 166. Herold Webber of Toledo also took 84 for today's round, making his aggregate 167. C. W. Inslee of the Oneida Community club, New York, did today's round in 81 for a total of 169.

MAKES NEW MOTOR CYCLE TIME RECORD

New York, May 15.—Irwin G. Baker arrived here today, having traveled 3,362 miles from San Diego, Cal., on a motorcycle in 11 days, 11 hours and 10 minutes.

Baker's route carried him through Arizona, New Mexico, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York states. His longest day's run was from Greensburg, Pa., to New York city, 418 miles. The best previous record was 20 days, 9 hours and 1 minute, made by Volney Davis in 1912.

Norgren Coaches Utah.

Salt Lake City, Utah, May 15.—Nelson H. Norgren, captain of last year's football team of the University of Chicago, was today selected as athletic coach of the University of Utah by the board of regents. Norgren was recommended for the position by Coach A. A. Stagg of Chicago. Norgren, in addition to being a clever football player, is declared a star basketball and track man.

Win in Semi-Finals.

Hunstanton, Eng., May 15.—Miss Gladys Ravenscroft, woman champion of the United States, and Miss Cecile Leitch, won their matches yesterday in the semi-final round of the British women's golf championship played here. Miss Ravenscroft's opponent was Miss Muriel Dodd, holder of the British and Canadian woman's championship, while Miss Leitch met Miss E. Grant-Suttie. Each of the winners defeated her opponent by one up.

Willing But Not Induced.

St. Louis, Mo., May 15.—Ivy Wingo, catcher on the St. Louis Nationals, said today that he is willing to jump to the Kansas City Federals if he gets his price, but that as far as he knows negotiations with President Madison of the Kansas City club are ended.

Princeton Beats Notre Dame.

Princeton, N. J., May 15.—Princeton won from Notre Dame yesterday afternoon by a score of 4 to 1. Bunched hits gave the Tigers the victory. The score:

	R.	H.	E.
Notre Dame	1	8	2
Princeton	4	6	4

The Battler Ready.

Battling Larson of Duluth wishes to have it stated that he will fight any boy in the world at 122 pounds. According to the defi, Mr. Larson can be found most any evening at 624 First avenue east, at which place he will be glad to receive all aspirants for a match and will deal courteously with them during the negotiations. While unknown in the world of fistiana, Mr. Larson is ambitious and eager.

IF YOU ARE A DRINKING MAN

You had better stop at once or you'll lose your job. Every line of business is closing its doors to "Drinking" men. It may be your turn next. By the aid of ORRINE thousands of men have been restored to lives of sobriety and industry.

We are so sure that ORRINE will benefit you that we say to you that if after a trial you fail to get any benefit from its use, your money will be refunded.

When you stop "Drinking," think of the money you'll save; besides, sober men are worth more to their employers and get higher wages.

Costs only $1.00 a box. We have an interesting booklet about ORRINE that we are giving away free on request. Call at our store and talk it over.

THINKS CHARITY BEGINS AT HOME

Chief Troyer Warns Duluthians Against Solicitors for Hospital in New Mexico.

In a statement given out this morning, Chief Troyer warns Duluthians against giving donations for foreign hospitals or sanitariums, and especially the Children's National Tuberculosis society, for which organization a field nurse is now soliciting in Duluth and collecting subscriptions to the fund for the sanitarium and the publication of "Our Tubercular Children," the official organ of the society.

Chief Troyer has received several reports on the operation of these field nurses in this vicinity and, after careful inquiry and investigation, said this morning that he learned that there is no such sanitarium now in operation.

"The society," said Chief Troyer this morning, "both on its letter heads and in its monthly magazine, claims to have a national home at Alamogordo. It has been impossible to find any direct statement that this home is now in operation, although the literature would give one the impression that it is already in existence.

"On the other hand, the avowed purpose of the organization, namely, that of establishing a home for children in other states, seems to be visionary and impracticable. It is extremely doubtful, for example, even if a well equipped home were established in New Mexico, whether a sufficient number of parents could ever be induced to send children so far away from home. The society does not cooperate with the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis and this latter organization is also sending out warnings to this effect.

"If Duluthians wish to help those afflicted with tuberculosis, they can easily find institutions right here in Duluth or throughout the state of Minnesota."

CANDIDATES BEWARE!

Are Forbidden to Tack Pictures on Telephone Poles.

The ordinance prohibiting the placing of posters and bills on telephone poles, fences and the sides of buildings is to be enforced. Orders have been issued to the police department to tear down those which are now in evidence. Most of these bear the likenesses of candidates for various public offices. The officials propose to enable the public to pass along the highways without having the pleasure of gazing upon the faces of the numerous men who are making an appeal for their votes.

TWO HANGED FOR CANADIAN MURDER

New Westminster, B. C., May 15.—Herman Behrens of San Bernardino, Cal., and Frank Davis of New Westminster, were hanged here today for the murder of James Archibald, a policeman in Vancouver, May 23, 1913. Archibald came on the two men while they were dividing the spoils of a burglary, and was shot dead.

SOCIAL WORKER AND STUDENT ARE FINED.

New York, May 15.—Miss Elizabeth Dutcher, a social worker, and Paul Howard Douglas, Columbia university student, found guilty of disorderly conduct, were fined in police court yesterday $10 each. They were arrested in front of a department store Tuesday while conducting an open-air meeting in an attempt to unionize shop girls.

MEXICO FULL OF CONTRASTS

With Old University, Masses of People Hopelessly Ignorant.

With Great Natural Riches, Its People Are Very Poor.

Washington, May 15.—"Perhaps nowhere else in the world is there a country so full of contrasts as Mexico," writes William Joseph Showalter to the National Geographic society. "With a university established before John Harvard, Elihu Yale, or William and Mary were born, the masses of its people are hopelessly ignorant. With a hospital founded before Jamestown was even dreamed of, it is one of the most backward regions of the earth in a medical way. With natural riches greater than those of a thousand Midas, its masses are just as poor as the proverbial church mouse. With a constitution as perfect as any organic law in the civilized world, it is a nation whose rulers always have been a law unto themselves.

Barefooted, But $10 Sombrero.

"Here you will see a Mexican half-breed, barefooted, wearing a dollar pair of trousers, a fifty-cent shirt, and a $10-sombrero. There, at a single glance and within the length of a single city block, you may see an Indian cargador, a donkey, an ox-cart, a carriage, a railroad train, a street car and an automobile—almost every type of locomotion since Adam. You may tread the burning sands of a tropical desert with the wet of the perpetual snow of towering mountains still upon your shoes. You may take a single railway journey of thirty-six hours in which the people you see at the railroad station will be dressed in four different weights of clothing. Everywhere you turn there is contrast, high lights and deep shadows.

Remarkable Vegetation.

"Mexico probably has a greater range of remarkable vegetation than any other country in the world. The parrot fruit tree produces an odd-shaped fruit, bearing close resemblance to green parakeets. When the parakeet is frightened it makes a dash for the parrot tree, where it assumes a position which makes it look like the fruit itself. So close is the resemblance that their enemies, the hawks, occasionally fly by a tree on which a dozen or more of these birds are sitting, apparently unaware of their presence. Another remarkable tree is the 'Arbol de Dinamite'—dynamite tree—whose fruit, if kept in a warm place, bursts with considerable force and a loud report, scattering its flat seeds to a surprising distance. One of the most interesting fruits in Mexico is known as the melon zapote, or papaya. It contains considerable pepsin, which reacts against both acid and alkaline conditions of the stomach, and it is said that a diet which includes papaya precludes dyspepsia. Both the fruit and the leaves possess the singular property of rendering tough meat tender. When the pulp of the fruit is rubbed over a piece of tough meat the juice attacks the fiber and softens it.

Well Supplied With Railroads.

"No other country south of the Rio Grande is so well supplied with railroads. Prior to the Madero revolution it had 20,000 miles of up-to-date American railroad, which carried 11,000,000 passengers annually and handled about 11,000,000 tons of freight. Their total revenues amounted to about $40,000,000. The government owns a controlling interest in the major portion of the mileage of the railroads.

"Mexico produces one-third of the world's silver, a considerable percentage of its gold, one-ninth of its lead, and one-twentieth of its copper. The country's mineral production, exclusive of iron, coal and petroleum, amounted to $158,000,000 in 1910. The famous iron mountain at Durango is estimated to contain 600,000,000 tons of iron ore, which is worth seven times the value of all the gold and silver mined in Mexico in two centuries. The Santa Maria graphite mines are the largest and most important in the Western world. The region around the Gulf of Mexico is very rich in petroleum. One company at Poteri del Llano struck a gusher which flowed 100,000 barrels of oil a day.

Indians' Drawn-Work.

"The drawn-work of the Mexican Indian is justly famed throughout the world, and deserves to rank with the finest of Spanish and Italian laces. The Indians make all sorts of small objects to attract the centavos of the tourist. The little dolls of Cuernavaca, a half-inch tall and dressed in finely embroidered raiment, are the admiration of every one who sees them. The small clay animals, perfectly fashioned and ranging from the peaceful dog to the charging bull and the bucking mule, would do credit to the genius of many a sculptor whose name figures in the art publications of the world. But perhaps the most wonderful of all are the tiny dressed fleas, which may be bought in Mexico City. Another wonderful work of the Indians is the making of feather pictures from the plumage of humming-birds, now almost a lost art.

Many Curious Foods.

"The Indians of Mexico eat many curious foods. One of the most remarkable of these is made of the eggs of a species of marsh fly. This fly deposits its eggs in incredible quantities upon flags and rushes. The eggs are gathered and made into cakes which are sold in the markets. The Indians call the eggs water-wheat. They resemble fine fish roe, and when mixed with corn meal and fowl eggs form a staple article of diet, particularly during Lent. The insects themselves, which are about the size of the house-fly, are captured, pounded into a paste, boiled in corn husks in much the same fashion as tamales, and in this form are eaten."

DOCTORS AND LAW COURTS

Judge and County Attorney Address Medical Association Members.

Greene Predicts That Judges Will Pass Upon Insanity Questions.

That the time is not far distant when questions of insanity arising in criminal court procedure will be disposed of by the court without being passed upon by a jury is the forecast which was made by County Attorney Warren E. Greene, who was one of the speakers at the monthly meeting of the St. Louis county medical association last evening at the Commercial club. Judge W. A. Cant of the district court and Dr. S. H. Boyer were the other speakers.

Mr. Greene in taking up the topic of the legal phase of relation of the medical profession to the courts of the country declared among other things that he did not believe that it would be long before the system of jurisprudence would be changed so that judges instead of juries might pass upon the question of insanity whenever it arose in criminal procedure. "Under our present system, it is within the province of the courts," he said, "to adjudge a man insane, if he is found to be such at the time the examination and adjudication is made, but the question of whether or not a man was insane at the time he committed a crime although he might have subsequently recovered are questions of fact upon which juries only may pass."

Judge Cant touched upon the judicial side of the relation between the medical profession and the courts, pointing out that the expert testimony given by physicians at the trial of cases was one phase of opinion evidence which was important. He stated that all that was expected of a medical man on the witness stand was to give his honest opinion on a certain state of facts. Judge Cant also discussed the European system of handling insane cases in the courts.

Dr. Boyer handled the question from the standpoint of a physician and during the course of his talk gave a number of interesting anecdotes. He urged the necessity for physicians to be accurate and thorough and impartial in their testimony on the witness stand.

FILES ACTION TO COLLECT $11,893

Suit to collect $11,893.55 under a contract to cut, haul and deliver certain forest products was this morning instituted in district court against R. T. Williams by Katie Trader.

She alleges that prior to March 28, 1914, she together with Peter Trader entered into a contract with Williams, whereby the Traders agreed to cut, haul and deliver saw logs, pulpwood and railroad ties at the following schedule of prices, $6.50 per thousand feet for the logs, $5 per cord for the pulpwood and 22½ cents apiece for the railroad ties. The logs and timber were cut from sections 4 and 9, 52-14, the plaintiff says. Under the contract payment was demanded for 1,250,000 feet of lumber in the saw logs and for 575 cords of pulpwood and 1,118 ties.

With the exception of $100 nothing has been paid. The plaintiff alleges that on March 28 last, Peter Trader for a valuable consideration assigned his claim against the defendant to her that she is now subrogated to all of his rights in the matter. She is suing for the unpaid amount under the terms of the contract.

WILL PRAY FOR PEACE SUNDAY

Prayers for a peaceful and satisfactory ending of the Mexican situation and for universal peace will be offered up from practically all the Duluth pulpits next Sunday. The action of the Duluth churches will be in co-operation with those throughout the United States and Great Britian.

The Mexican situation has been emphasized by Earl Cranston of Washington, bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church. The bishop's object is to have prayers and all services arranged upon this subject to strengthen the desire for peace and the continuation of friendly relations between the United States and Mexico.

Dr. John W. Huffman, pastor of the First M. E. church of Duluth, said that he had received a communication to this effect and that he thought the churches would follow instructions as far as possible. Bishop Cranston's letter addressed to the churches follows:

"In view of the fact that the representatives of the mediating powers and of the two governments concerned, are to open their negotiations at Niagara Falls, Ont., on Monday, May 18, Bishop Earl Cranston of Washington, as senior bishop of the Methodist-Episcopal church, earnestly desires all district superintendents and pastors of the church to pray publicly in the congregations on Sunday, the 17th, and to exhort all the people to continue to pray in private for the divine blessing upon the efforts of the mediators. This is the Master's way."

JURY DRAWN TO TRY $20,000 DAMAGE SUIT

In Judge Ensign's division of the district court yesterday afternoon, a jury was drawn to try the $20,000 personal injury case which Cecil H. Montee, aged 17, through his father, Cecil H. Montee, has against the Great Northern Railway company. The taking of testimony was finished this afternoon after which the case was given to the jury.

On June 24, 1913, it is claimed Monte while employed by the railroad company as a boiler washer, was run down by a switch engine in the Allouez yards and his left leg amputated. The company denies the liability and charges contributory negligence.

ARE DRINKING LESS IN COPPER COUNTRY

Calumet, Mich., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Drinking among Copper country residents is on the decrease and not nearly the amount of heavy spirituous liquors are consumed by the 100,000 residents of this district as was consumed by the 70,000 residents of the same district ten years ago, it is claimed. The reform wave and anti-saloon campaigns which have swept the country the past ten to fifteen years are blamed by liquor dealers for the decrease in drinking in this district, which years ago was noted as one of the best markets in all the Northwest, comparing populations, for intoxicating liquors. The number of saloons has been decreased in every town in the district by state law and it would naturally be expected that those remaining in business would enjoy a larger business than years ago. Without exception, however, both retail and wholesale dealers report a big falling off in their trade, particularly during the last four years.

RESIDENT OF CITY THIRTY-ONE YEARS

Judge Alfred Jaques, New Federal Attorney, Is Duluth Pioneer.

Alfred Jaques, whose appointment as United States district attorney of Minnesota was sent to the United States senate yesterday and who will succeed C. C. Haupt of St. Paul as soon as the appointment is confirmed, has been a resident of Duluth and one of the leading citizens for almost thirty-one years, coming here from Geneseo, Ill., one year after his admission to the bar there. From the time he took up his residence in Duluth he has taken a prominent part in public affairs and has been one of the leading lawyers of the state for many years. At present he is, and has been for a long time, engaged in the practice of law in partnership with T. T. Hudson.

It is seldom that the appointment of a man to any office is received with more expressions of pleasure and satisfaction regardless of party affiliations than those that greeted the news of Judge Jaques' nomination to the Federal attorneyship.

The judge was born in the township of Geneseo, Ill., of Huguenot and Hollander parents, and received his education, both common and legal in that town. He has served as a farm laborer and as a school teacher. Four years after his arrival in Duluth, in 1887, he was recommended by the city bar for the office of special judge of the municipal court and was elected without opposition. This office he held until March, 1889.

Shortly after that the city bar recommended him for appointment to the position of judge of the district court, but he was not appointed owing to the fact that the act by which it was hoped to establish the office failed of passage. Since then Judge Jaques has twice been recommended for appointment to district judgeships but has not held the position. He has served a term as a member of the board of governors of the bar association of the state and in 1910 was Democratic candidate for congress, carrying the city of Duluth and making gains in other portions of the district but failing of election.

In the latest Democratic national convention he was a delegate from this state and on behalf of the Democrats of Minnesota seconded the nomination of Woodrow Wilson for president. Judge and Mrs. Jaques have four sons, all natives of Duluth, which place the judge will continue to call home, he says, until the end of the chapter.

He received the warmest indorsements for the position, not only from Duluth but from all parts of the state.

SUCCESSOR TO JOHN TISCHER

An interesting meeting of the appointing board which will name a successor to the late John Tischer, county commissioner from the Second district, will be held tomorrow.

The board will be composed of Mayor W. I. Prince of Duluth and chairmen of the several towns of the district. The meeting will be held in the county board room at the courthouse at 11 o'clock.

Among the candidates who are believed to be in the running for the appointment are: Wayland W. Sanford, Thomas H. Little, A. G. Osman, Andrew J. Anderson and Robert H. Mcquade. Several others, including many of the candidates for the office at the June primaries, are after the job. The appointment is for the unexpired term of the late Commissioner Tischer. His term ends Dec. 31, 1913.

ASKS $50,000 FOR ARMY RELIEF WORK

Washington, May 15.—A supplemental appropriation of $50,000 for army medical and hospital supplies, "to meet emergency conditions now existing or likely to arise in the near future," was asked in an estimate sent to the house today by the war department. Secretary Garrison said the money was needed to cover extraordinary expenditures incidental to the occupation of Vera Cruz, and to the mobilization of troops for services abroad.

Surgeon Gen. Gorgas said that the current year appropriation of $750,000 for the medical and hospital department was barely sufficient for ordinary conditions, and all had been expended or obligated, though not yet exceeded.

"Additional funds of $50,000," he said, "are now needed to meet other eventualities of medical relief under extraordinary conditions which actually exist or are imminent."

YOUTH CONFESSES TO THREE MURDERS

Chicago, May 15.—Harley Beard, 18 years old, arrested here this afternoon, confessed to the murder of three persons on a farm near Ironton, Ohio, last Thursday afternoon.

Beard, with perfect calmness, in the presence of several detectives said that he first beat his victims on the head with a stick of wood and completed the work with a razor.

Those he killed were Robert Massie, 45 years old; his sister, Mary, aged 46, and their mother, Mrs. Nancy Massie, 80 years old.

Beard was arrested at the home of his sister, Mrs. D. E. Day, 1331 West Madison street.

LEGISLATIVE BILL RAISED BY SENATORS

Washington, May 15.—Carrying a total of $37,238,279, an increase over the house provisions of $706,169, the senate appropriations committee today reported the legislative, executive and judiciary appropriation bill. The bill is $914,551 over the act of 1913, but nearly $2,500,000 under the estimates.

The Indian appropriation bill, carrying $12,049,576, an increase over the house of $2,403,839, also was reported.

STEAMER AND CREW OF 35 MISSING

Montreal, May 15.—Anxiety was expressed here today for the safety of the freighter Boldwell of the Roth line, twenty-five days out on a voyage from Antwerp to Montreal. The voyage should have taken only fifteen days. The Boldwell carried a crew of thirty-five.

ACCUSED PAIR ARE RELEASED

Calumet, Mich., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Basing his ruling on an old Michigan statute, passed in 1875 and amended in 1879, Judge Patrick H. O'Brien of the Houghton circuit court has dismissed James P. Kelly and William Grimes of Chicago, former Waddell-Mahon Detective Corporation employes during the copper strike, who were held in jail as witnesses in the Painesdale murder case, involving the mysterious killing, by rifle shots fired through their boarding house while they slept the night of Nov. 8, last, of three English miners.

The deed was laid to strikers of the Western Federation of Miners, one of whom later confessed and implicated three others. John Melvin, a former Waddell man, who was discharged from service, however, made the claim that Waddell men, including Kelly and Grimes, committed the deed.

Returned to Houghton.

They were brought back to Houghton by orders of Prosecutor Lucas as witnesses and then arrested for murder, despite the confession of the striker, John Huhta. The murder charge was dismissed on examination, evidence being introduced which proved certain alibis for each of the Waddell men, but Kelly and Grimes were still held in jail as witnesses.

Under the old statute, which has never before been called into use in Northern Michigan, witnesses who can furnish bonds cannot be held in jail. The trial of Huhta and his alleged confederates in the triple murder will be called in Baraga county circuit court next week, it is anticipated.

INSANITY PLEA OF TEACHER'S SLAYER

Herkimer, N. Y., May 15.—Fancied grievances, the growth of a disordered mind, according to the contention of council for the defense in opening its case, was the motive that led Jean Gianini to kill Lida Beecher, his school teacher. Attorney Hane, in opening for the defense, declared that the evidence introduced would show hereditary insanity.

Baptists Vote "Dry."

Nashville, Tenn., May 15.—The Southern Baptist convention today went on record for national prohibition and authorized the employment of an agent to do educational work in the interest of the movement. Action on the question was taken by the adoption of a report of the temperance committee.

ALLEN PAIR AND DEAVERS ARE HELD

Must Answer to Grand Jury for Grand Rapids Fire.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—After the defense had spent over a day putting in testimony tending to counteract the evidence of incendiarism connecting them with the fire in the Allen store on the night of May 6, J. C. Allen, his wife, and Herman Deavers, her cousin, were held to the grand jury on a charge of second degree arson at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen and Deavers testified in their own behalf, and witnesses were put on to show the whereabouts of Mrs. Allen and Deavers and their movements on the night of the fire.

State Fire Marshal Charles E. Keller and Deputy Fire Marshal Robert E. Martin, who investigated the fire and who were present during the hearing, left last night for St. Paul.

MACHINE SHOP WILL BE BUILT

Wisconsin Steel Company to Erect $50,000 Plant at Nashwauk.

Nashwauk, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is understood that the Wisconsin Steel company here has perfected plans for the erection of modern machine shops to be constructed of concrete and equipped with the most modern machinery available. The appropriation made for these improvements is $50,000. The new shops will be located on the dump east of the present shops and the clubhouse will be located opposite the B. W. Batchelder home. The site of the present office and machine shops will be stripped in the near future which necessitated the finding of another site.

A new office will also be erected which will be a most modern and fireproof structure, the present office being inadequate for the force employed. Work of clearing was commenced Tuesday and it is understood that work on the new shops and office will be started at once with a view of having the work completed by fall.

Let Painting Contract.

At a meeting of the school board Wednesday evening the contract for the painting of the interior of the new additions to the high school was let to Michael Gleason of Hibbing, who was the lowest responsible bidder by $400. Mr. Gleason will commence work as soon as school is closed for the summer months.

Jerry Hicks, who is captain of the team will again be seen behind the bat this season for Nashwauk. The members of the team are out daily for practice and are fast getting in shape. The first games of the season will be played on the local grounds on Sunday, May 24.

MOUNTAIN IRON CLUB'S ELECTION

Mountain Iron, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a regular meeting of the Commercial club in the city hall Tuesday evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, A. A. Mitchell; first vice president, Charles Walker; second vice president, J. F. Muench; secretary, W. T. Caddy; treasurer, Charles Doredo. The retiring president, Dr. F. L. Parsons, would not stand for re-election.

The club is very active and during the past year has brought forward and secured action on many matters of general interest.

The contractors who are to lay several blocks of concrete walks in the village during the coming season are already on the ground and at work.

"Brownatone" Tints Your Hair In a Minute

WILL AGAIN PILOT HIBBING BALL TEAM

JUDGE T. F. BRADY.

Hibbing, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Thomas F. Brady was re-elected manager and secretary of the Hibbing baseball team last night, and R. J. Burrows was selected as treasurer. H. Z. Mitchell was chairman with Percy Webster, secretary. The manager and treasurer were elected without opposition.

Judge Brady announced that a game had been secured with Chisholm for next Sunday and with the Woodlands for the Sunday following. An effort is to be made to get games with International Falls for May 30 and 31.

It is not expected that the baseball park will be ready for use for several weeks. A crew of men is busy cleaning off the wood and leveling the ground and the park board will have the grandstand and fence built as rapidly as possible.

SCHOOL BOARD MAY BUY LAND

Hibbing Desires Quarter Section to Get State Aid.

Hibbing, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—So that Hibbing may be entitled to receive state aid for agricultural instruction, the board of education contemplates bidding in at the state land sale to be held in Duluth next Monday, a quarter section of land near the Little Swan school. The school answers the requirements demanded by the state and with the acquisition of the necessary land the district will be in a position to receive $1,000 a year from the state. An agricultural expert will be employed who will devote half his time to the school and the other half to the farmers living in the community. A representative of the board, it is expected, will be at the sale to secure the land on Monday.

Bread for Board Members.

So that the school board may receive first hand information as to the practicability of the domestic science work in the local schools, each member is to receive some time during the coming few days a loaf of bread baked by the students.

NOT COMING BACK.

Nine Tower Teachers Will Seek Work Elsewhere.

Tower, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Several of the teachers of the public schools will not be numbered among the members of the faculty next year. Planting Many Trees.

The state forestry service has twenty men planting trees in the addition that was made a few years ago to the Burntside forest. Several thousand trees will be planted in this initiatory step in reforestation in Northern Minnesota. Camps have been built through the district, and provisions have been taken to the different camps. In all about a ton of food has been taken out, and all was packed about three miles.

SCHOOL VALUE FIXED.

Central School at Virginia Estimated Worth Is $32,000.

Virginia, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Central school building desired by local Catholics to be converted into a parochial school, is valued by the appraisers appointed to value it at $32,000.

A special meeting of the local board of education has been called for Monday evening to consider the figures. There is some difference of opinion concerning the sale of the property by the school board and a petition has been signed by 200 voters of the district asking that the meeting to be held Monday night be called off.

The board of appraisers consists of A. D. Heritage, appointed by the school board in the place of Mark Elliot, who declined to serve. Carl C. Butler, appointed by the Catholic church officials, and J. D. Lamont, who was appointed by the other two members of the board of appraisers.

TWO HARBORS GIRL DIES

Recovers From Scarlet Fever, But Succumbs to Bright's Disease.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ethel Sullivan, aged 11 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sullivan, died yesterday afternoon. Death was due to Bright's disease, from which she had been suffering but three days. The funeral was held today, interment being in the Calvary cemetery.

The girl had just recovered from scarlet fever and the quarantine was lifted from the residence only a few days ago. She was apparently well and the end that was so near was not expected. She attended the public schools of the city and was in the fifth grade.

To add to the unfortunate plight of the family their residence was again quarantined yesterday on account of another member of the family coming down with the scarlet fever.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

Observations taken at 8 a. m. seventy-fifth meridian time. Air pressure reduced to sea level. Isobars (continuous lines) pass through points of equal air pressure. Isotherms (dotted lines) pass through points of equal temperature; drawn only for zero, freezing, 90°, and 100°. ○ clear; ◑ partly cloudy; ● cloudy; R rain; S snow; M report missing. Arrows fly with the wind. First figures, temperature; second, precipitation of .01 inch or more for past 24 hours; third, maximum wind velocity.

That new weather man is certainly a fine worker. Every since he has been on the job, except the first day, it has been fair and warm, and today he says that the same dope will be dished out tonight. Tomorrow, however, there will be increased cloudiness.

It was rainy and cold a year ago today. The sun rose this morning at 4:31 and will set this evening at 7:36, giving fifteen hours and five minutes sunshine, two minutes more than yesterday.

Mr. Eshleman makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The temperatures have risen decidedly in the Western Canadian provinces and the Missouri valley. Cool weather and frosts are again reported in the Upper Mississippi valley and the upper lake region. Fair weather has continued everywhere except along the South Atlantic coast and a few other widely scattered districts."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, May 15.—Forecasts for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Saturday:

Wisconsin—Fair tonight and probably Saturday; slowly rising temperature.

Minnesota—Fair and warmer tonight; Saturday probably increasing cloudiness with warmer in south and west portions.

Iowa—Fair and warmer tonight; Saturday increasing cloudiness and warmer with probably showers in west portion.

North Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Saturday; warmer tonight. South Dakota—Increasing cloudiness and warmer tonight, probably becoming unsettled Saturday.

Montana—Generally fair tonight and Saturday; cooler Saturday.

Upper and Lower Michigan—Fair tonight and Saturday; frost in exposed places tonight.

PIONEER MINERS ARE LAID OFF

Ely, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Yesterday about one-half the men employed at the Pioneer mine were laid off owing to the general slackness in the ore business. Ely has been fortunate in not having been affected previously by the dull times. About 150 men were laid off.

SUES FOR $2,900 FOR BROKEN LIMB

Virginia, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Emil Wilhunen of Hibbing, through his attorneys, Larson & Louisell of Duluth, has filed suit in the district court here against the Morton Mining company for $2,900 for injuries sustained in an accident at the Morton mine at Hibbing on Sept. 10, 1913.

He claims his right leg was broken when an ore track collapsed and one of the cars struck him. The case will be tried at the June term of court at Hibbing.

BURY DROWNED BOY.

Forbes, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Otto, the 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hoivunen, who was drowned when he fell off a foot bridge over East river here, was held yesterday afternoon.

The youngster was accompanied by a 5-year-old boy, who could do nothing to help him, but was the only eye witness of the accident. The deceased is survived by his parents and two brothers and two sisters.

The Hoivunen family came to Forbes from Virginia last week to settle on a farm.

Hibbing Reception.

Hibbing, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—A reception will be given this evening at 8 o'clock at the Mahoning Street Methodist church in honor of Rev. R. W. Adair. Rev. F. C. Coolbaugh and Rev. Sears Thomson will deliver addresses. Following the program delicious refreshments will be served by the ladies of the congregation. All members and their friends are cordially invited to attend.

Mrs. William Webb and daughter, Fay, and sisters-in-law, Mrs. W. H. Bayne and Mrs. R. V. Mack of the Mahoning location, left for an extended visit with relatives and friends in Guelph, Ont., Can., and Syracuse, N. Y.

NEW HIBBING TEACHERS

School Board Has Engaged Number for Village Schools.

Hibbing Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many new teachers have been hired by the board of education for the local schools next year. Among those passed on at the last meeting of the board were: Abigail Donovan, Minneapolis, graduate of the Oshkosh normal, for the seventh grade at a salary of $850; Florence Root, Oberlin, Ohio, secured training at Kalb normal and Oberlin, for the seventh grade, $850; Lois Spraker, Ann Arbor, Mich., student of the University of Michigan, fourth grade, $850; Theodora Thurber, Ann Arbor, Mich., student at Hope college, Grand Rapids Kindergarten college and University of Michigan, for kindergarten work, $800; Charlotte Hunter, Monmouth, Ill., student at Monmouth college, for primary work, $1,000; Elizabeth Graham, Monmouth, Ill., student of Monmouth college, for upper immediate, $800; Margaret Godfrey, Madison, Wis., student at Whitewater normal and University of Wisconsin, for lower intermediate work, $800; Maude Cottingham, Madison, Wis., student at Charleston, Ill., normal and University of Wisconsin, for lower intermediate, $800; Florence Ankeney, Oberlin, Ohio, four years at Heidelberg university and Oberlin, for kindergarten, $850; G. Lee Fleming, Minneapolis, student at LaCrosse normal and University of Minnesota, principal Glenn school, $1,000.

BUYS FINE LAWN MOWER

Hibbing Park Board Purchases From Duluth Concern.

Hibbing, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a special meeting yesterday afternoon the park board gave C. Henneke the contract for 360 park benches at his price of $811. The benches are the same as those that are now in use in the park. It is the plan of the board to move these next year to different parts of Bennett park and on the main driveways to build cement benches with wooden seats. It is believed that the scheme will work out well.

Kelly-How-Thomson secured the contract for a lawn mower with extra unit at a price of $124.50. The mower is horsedrawn.

A. J. McGuire to Testify.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Supt. A. J. McGuire of the Northeast experiment station here, has been called and will go to Washington to testify before the interstate commerce committee of congress on rate matters.

Hibbing Riders Interested.

Hibbing, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hibbing motorcyclists are interested in the plans being made by the Virginia riders for the organization of a club and the possibility of a joint meet between the two towns. The action that is taken this evening will be communicated to the local club in time for their meeting on Sunday.

Bury Two Harbors Pioneer.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Victor Peterson, aged 55 years, who died here Sunday afternoon, was held yesterday afternoon, Rev. J. D. Nelsonious officiating. Interment was in the Two Harbors cemetery.

Mr. Peterson was an old resident of the city, having come here in 1887, when he entered the services of the Iron Range railroad. He worked in various capacities of the road continually for nearly a quarter of a century.

PUT SULPHUR ON AN ITCHING SKIN AND END ECZEMA

Says This Old-Time Eczema Remedy Is Applied Like Cold Cream.

Any irritation or breaking out on the face, arms, legs or body when accompanied by itching, or when the skin is dry and feverish, can be readily overcome by applying a little bold-sulphur cream, says a noted dermatologist.

He states that bold-sulphur instantly allays the angry itching and irritation and soothes and heals the Eczema right up leaving the skin clear and smooth. Bold-sulphur has occupied a secure position for many years in the treatment of cutaneous disorders because of its parasite-destroying property. Nothing has ever been found to take its place in treating the irritable and inflammatory skin affections. While not always establishing a permanent cure it never fails to subdue the itching irritation and drive the Eczema away and it is often years later before any eruption again appears on the skin.

Those troubled should obtain at any pharmacy an ounce of bold-sulphur cream which is applied to the affected parts in the same manner as an ordinary cold cream.

ALL VIRGINIA TO WITNESS OPENING

Even Schools Will Close for First Northern League Game.

Virginia, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The opening game in the Northern league here next Monday afternoon, when Virginia will play Fort William, will be witnessed by the banner ball crowd of this section, if the weather permits, as the whole city will practically close up shop for the afternoon.

Mayor Boylan today issued a proclamation calling upon the people to turn out and make the day a memorable one in openers. Even the schools will be closed for the afternoon that the children may join the throng at the ball park. There will be the usual opening ceremonies with Mayor Boylan tossing the first ball.

CHISHOLM'S NEW LIBRARY OPENED

Notable Exercises Being Held Commemorating Big Event.

Chisholm, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The splendid new public library erected and furnished at a cost of about $40,000, on a site costing the village $8,000, by the people of this village, and not by any gift, is thronged with people this afternoon on the opening day. The high school orchestra is furnishing music and the day is a memorable one in Chisholm. Congressman C. B. Miller at 3 p. m. gave an illustrated address on the Philippines and will speak again tonight when the following program will be rendered in the auditorium:

The Night Program.

Music, orchestra; vocal solo, "God Remembers When the World Forgets," (Bond), Winifred Hayes; presentation of library to village, Dr. A. B. Kirk, president of library board; acceptance by village, J. E. Austin, president of village; violin solo, "Cavatina," (Raff), Edward Hagen; address, C. B. Miller; music, orchestra; address, "Architect," G. H. Chapman; music, orchestra.

Park Superintendent A. A. Bischjold has furnished the committee with flowers, plants, etc., for decorating the interior of the library, which presents a very pretty appearance.

The architects of the building were Bell, Tyrie & Chapman; the general contractors, the Johnson Construction company.

The library board consists of Dr. A. B. Kirk, J. P. Vaughn, Mrs. O. R. Woods, Miss Nell Z. Peterson, Mrs. A. Tancig, Harry Austin, James J. Hayes, A. J. Sullivan and Willard Bayliss. Dr. A. B. Kirk is president and Miss Peterson secretary.

GIVEN VERDICT AGAINST BREWERY

Father of Aurora Child Injured By Beer Keg Wins Case.

Virginia, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The district court jury that heard the evidence in the $5,000 damage suit of John Zupontic of Aurora against the Val Blatz Brewing company of Milwaukee returned a verdict for the plaintiff about 5 p. m. yesterday and awarded him $750 for injuries to his little girl.

The parent sued to recover the damages because of an injury to his daughter sustained in Aurora a year ago when a keg of beer from a delivery wagon of the brewery rolled from the wagon and struck the child, breaking one of her legs. It was established that the driver of the wagon was not in sight when the injury was sustained.

VIRGINIA PROGRAM.

Norwegian Quarter Club to Entertain Sunday Evening.

Virginia, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Norwegian Quarter club, under the direction of N. O. Foosness, will be in charge of an excellent Norwegian day program to be given in North Pole hall Sunday evening in celebration of the centenary anniversary of the independence of Norway.

An excellent program of national Norwegian musical numbers and specialties has been arranged as follows:

"Norge, Norge!" (Kristian Wendelborg); tale af Pastor J. I. Fadum; piano solo, selected, Miss Agnes Hovland; kor, "I Gud's Fri Natur" (F. A. Reisiger); deklamation, Mrs. J. S. Swanson; kor, "Vikingsonner" (Rudolph Moller); "17de Mai," tale af Pastor K. Winberg; "Ja, vi elsker" (Nordraak), klub og forsamling; "Naar Fjordene Blaaner," Alfred Paulsen; piano solo, selected, Miss Agnes Hovland; kor, "O mod de hoie fjeld" (N. Tjernagel); "Amerika" (B. Lilly), klub og forsamling.

A TONIC FOR DYSPEPTICS

When food lies undigested in the stomach it ferments and gas forms. This gas distends the stomach and presses on the heart, causing a pain that sometimes arouses fear of heart trouble. The condition in which gas forms is caused by a low tone of the digestive organs and a lack of rich red blood resulting in deficient nerve force. It is a condition that calls for a tonic.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a tonic for the blood and nerves, have been used with great success in the treatment of this form of stomach trouble. Cold baths in the morning followed by brisk friction with a rough towel will help as they stimulate the circulation but a tonic treatment with Dr. Williams Pink Pills by building up the blood, restoring the nerve force and making the stomach able to do its work gives the most lasting benefit. With their use the appetite increases, digestion becomes normal and improvement in the general health follows with certainty.

You are trying no experiment when you take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They cannot harm the most delicate system.

VIRGINIA HAS MANY IDLE MEN

Virginia, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—This city with other range communities has an unusual number of idle men because the mines of the Mesaba range are not working full blast. The park board and the street commissioner get as many as 100 applications daily for work and the situation is becoming serious. While the city later will be able to employ many men when it starts its extensive sewer and other work it cannot begin to hire the men now seeking work.

CHISHOLM COUNCIL.

Chisholm, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village engineering department will issue a call for bids for various sizes of sewer pipe which is to be used the coming season in extending the sewer lines where necessary. A small stock will be kept on hand to be used in emergencies.

The health department will keep a small crew and one team at work continuously until every alley, street and other public place in the village presents a presentable appearance. Supplies for the detention hospital will be invited in the near future also.

The village engineer notified the water and light board that he had vacated the office formerly occupied by him and he is now located in the offices made by cutting up the council chamber.

The council will meet Saturday night to clean up the unfinished business of Wednesday evening.

Gilbert Band Concert.

Gilbert, Minn., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The recently organized Gilbert Commercial club will give a dance tonight at Dowling's hall and a general good time is promised. The band has been practicing regularly under the direction of a competent leader and as nearly all the members are old heads they are progressing very rapidly.

AUCTION SALE.

Horses and Milch Cows, Saturday, May 16.

Carlton, Minn.

LONG MOTORBOAT TRIP.

Mariner to Run Craft From New York to Madeline Island.

Bayfield, Wis., May 15.—Russel Angus of La Pointe, Madeline island, has left for New York city at the request of Dr. A. C. Hull of Kansas City, and will return immediately with the new power boat purchased by the doctor.

The trip will be made up the Hudson river, through the Erie canal, and will include the entire length of Lakes, Huron and Superior.

The new boat is 65 feet in length, with a 13-foot beam and draws four and a half feet of water.

Russell Angus is considered one of the most expert sailors on Lake Superior, especially with a sailboat. His father, Capt. John D. Angus, sailed Superior as early as 1836 and Russell Angus has been on the lakes with sailboats for years. The new boat will carry a crew of four men.

CHICAGO HAS COURT JUST FOR GUN TOTERS.

Chicago, May 15.—A special "gun court" to hear cases against men arrested for carrying concealed weapons was established yesterday by Judge Charles A. MacDonald, acting chief justice of the criminal court.

Two murders by gunmen were reported yesterday. Leonardo Ins France, standing in an alley on the West side, was shot by a man carrying a sawed-off shotgun under his raincoat, France died last night.

Joseph Silk returned to his home from work last night and found a merry making celebrating the wedding of a neighbor. Silk was displeased and quarreled with his wife. Later he was found dead in the kitchen, shot through the head.

BULLS ARE IN CONTROL

Wheat Advances on Strong Demand and More Damage Reports.

Flaxseed Opens Higher But Early Gains Are Largely Lost.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 15.—The market was firm up to the close. May wheat closed ⅝c up, at 94c; July, ⅝c up, and September ⅝c up. May durum closed ¾c up and July ½c up.

Oats closed ¼c up at 38⅝c for on the track, and 38½c for to arrive. Rye closed unchanged at 58@60c and barley unchanged at 54@59c for choice stuff.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed at 38½c and July at 38⅜c.

Substantial advances in the wheat market were brought about today through the development of a number of bullish influences. Liverpool was higher on good consumptive demand; firmer American and Manitoba offers, and small Argentine receipts. Continued sharp export inquiry was reported by a Duluth house, and considerable business was worked. There were also more reports of Hessian fly damage from sections of Missouri, and a tendency was noted to pare down original crop estimates somewhat in a few sections of Kansas.

The congestion in the May option at Chicago was another factor. The spread between the May and July options on that market is now nearly 9c, and a scouring of the country on the part of belated shorts is reported. The result is seen in the large daily receipts of wheat down there during the past ten days.

Supplies of wheat at Duluth are being rapidly worked down. Stocks today were reported at 7,093,000 bu, and it is estimated that a reduction of 850,000 bu of spring wheat will be shown for the week. Total supplies of grain in the elevators here are now 12,279,000 bu. From that is to be deducted 230,000 bu of wheat and 1,650,000 bu of bonded oats loaded on steamers but not yet reported out of store. Three boats are at the elevators today for loads of spring wheat that will aggregate 850,000 bu.

Inspections here today were 67 cars of wheat against 70 last year, and receipts at Minneapolis came to 82 cars against 115 a year ago. Stocks down there showed a decrease of 1,375,000 bu in the week.

May wheat opened ¾c up at 94c and held there. July opened unchanged at 91⅝c and advanced ⅝c up to the final hour. The September option opened ⅛c up at 89c and gained ⅜c more.

A good demand turned up for durum, resulting in fair advances. May sold ¾c up at 89⅜c. The July option opened ¼c up at 89¾c and gained ¼c more.

Flaxseed Irregular.

The market in flaxseed was strong at the opening and gains of up to ⅜c were scored. Steady buying from crushers were reported and holders did not show a disposition to let go to any extent. It is commented upon by operators that with the light current receipts and supplies in strong hands, the market is easily controlled. Some selling developed later and early gains were mostly lost.

Foreign markets all showed good bulges today. Buenos Aires closed 1¾c up; London, 2⅛c up, and Antwerp, 1½c up.

May flax opened ¼c up at $1.56⅞, and closed ⅞c off at $1.56½ asked; July opened unchanged at $1.57½ and closed ⅛c up at $1.54⅜ asked; September opened ¼c up at $1.60 and closed unchanged at $1.59⅝ asked, and the October opened ¼c up at $1.57½ and closed unchanged at $1.57⅜ asked.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed at $1.36⅜ bid, and July at $1.39⅜.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Shipments of wheat from Buenos Aires since May 8 have aggregated 915,437 bu. Over 200,000 bu of corn have been shipped from there direct to New York since May 13.

At the elevators today are the steamer Upson loading 180,000 bu spring wheat, J. E. Davidson for 330,000 bu spring wheat and the Ashley for 340,000 bu spring wheat.

Minneapolis cash demand was a little slow. The mills are getting considerable wheat out of the elevators. Spot No. 1 northern blue stem sold at 2½@4c over July and velvet chaff at 2c over July. There was no change in the flour demand. It was moderate. Cash No. 1 northern wheat sold there at from 93¾c to 95¾c and No. 2 northern at from 91¾c to 93¾c.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat opened steady. American cables yesterday stimulated shorts to cover, and at the opening values were ¼@⅝d higher. Following this opening, prominent support became evidenced, and with light offers prices were further advanced ¾d with the undertone very firm. Fewer and dearer Manitoba offers, strength in spot, and less favorable American crop reports and the strength in corn assisted in the firmness. Offers of good wheat were scarce everywhere, and this firmness is leading to apprehension. At 1:30 p. m. the undertone was firm, ⅝d higher.

Corn opened excited with heavy covering of shorts, and initial values were ¾@1⅝d higher, with July leading. Following the opening there was a further advance of ½d. Strength in America and firmness in Buenos Aires at the close, strength in Plate spot here, Argentine shipments made at the expense of stocks, damage reports from Argentina and strength in cargoes led to the advance. At 1:30 p. m. the undertone was strong and excited, 1¼@2½d higher.

Rain continues, with much flooding, in Argentina, and a large proportion of the crop is sprouting. A conservative estimate of the damage will allow a reduction of 20 per cent in the exportable surplus, according to Broomhall.

Broomhall estimates the world's shipments, exclusive of North America, at 7,600,000 bu, against 9,944,000 bu last week. Of this, Europe will take about 6,800,000 bu. Total shipments last week were 13,632,000 bu and last year 15,096,000 bu. Arrivals into the United Kingdom were about 2,500,000 bu. He predicts there will be only a moderate change on passage. Australian wheat shipments this week were 1,016,000 bu; Indian wheat shipments, 216,000 bu, and estimates for next week are 232,000 bu. Russian and Danubian shipments this week are estimated at 5,500,000 bu.

The Chicago Daily Trade Bulletin estimates that on July 1 there will be 121,000,000 bu to carry over into the next crop, less what will be exported between May 1 and July 1. The exports in these two months last year were about 20,000,000 bu. This would leave a carry-over of about 100,000,000 bu, allowing for similar export clearances this year.

The following cable was received from Liverpool: "Wheat is very firm with the market affected by strength of the cargo market. There is good consumptive demand and a scarcity of first-hand offers. Maize is strong and the corn market is affected by the scarcity of first-hand offers and unfavorable crop reports. Prospects of the new crop are very bad and the shorts are covering."

Argentine wheat shipments, 904,000 bu, against 1,344,000 bu last week and 2,480,000 bu last year; corn, 2,193,000 bu, against 2,057,000 bu last week and 4,157,000 bu last year; oats, 720,000 bu, against 430,000 bu last week and 1,850,000 bu last year.

John Inglis wired from Enid, Okla.: "El Reno and Kingfisher to Enid, some fields are heading. Most are in broad leaf. It is too early to forecast yields. The bunchy stools have largely withered off, and are more uneven. It is not so thick, but is still promising. The large anticipated yield may have to be moderated. Oats are attacked by brown leaf and are deteriorating rapidly."

C. E. Lewis of Minneapolis wired Baker: "The feature of the grain trade is the lack of selling orders and the difficulty in executing buying orders of any size without advancing the price. It is very evident the market is heavily oversold. Options are holding very firm at the top price of the day, and the shorts have not all covered yet."

Parker Paine had the following from Chicago: "We should say that the tracks are now clear for bull markets in wheat, corn and oats. The trade for some time has been unable to make any headway on the bear side of wheat even with the very bearish crop reports, the fine private reports coming from the Southwest and especially the claims of enlarged acreage and record-breaking harvest for Kansas. Now that the trade is getting bad fly reports from a couple of big wheat states, and stocks in all quarters are decreasing very fast, and the condition in corn such as to be a bull instead of a bear help, there is but one consistent position, and that is to take the buying side on every depression caused by local 'bear selling.'"

Modern Miller says: "Dry weather and Hessian fly in the South, Central Illinois and Central Missouri have caused the wheat crop in those districts to go backward. In some sections, the loss is material. In Southern Illinois some fields are spotted. In Missouri similar conditions exist with damage reports from central districts and favorable reports from Southwest Missouri. The area so far affected by fly damage is small. There are scattered reports of fly in Indiana. In the other principal sections of the winter wheat belt, the outlook indicates a large yield."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Corn Takes the Lead, Both in Activity and Strength.

Chicago, May 15.—Corn today took the lead on change, both in activity and strength. The broadening out was the result of a big advance at Liverpool, where stocks are decreasing rapidly, owing to delay in shipments from Argentina. Dispatches from Buenos Aires told of continued extraordinary rains and heavily increasing damage. The market here opened ½c to ⅞c higher and made a material additional upturn.

Expert information of severe damage by Hessian fly in Missouri brought about a further hardening of prices, but profit-taking eased the market afterward. There was a steady close at ⅛c to ¾c net advance.

Wheat ascended with corn. Besides, there were advices at hand that injury from Hessian fly was becoming more extensive, especially in Illinois. Opening prices ranged from the same as last night to ⅝c up and some further gain was scored before any reaction set in.

In later trading the swell became more pronounced but then receded somewhat. The close was steady, ¼c to ½@⅝c higher.

Oats went upgrade, influenced by other grain. Several prominent houses were large buyers.

Bulging cereals carried provisions along. First sales were 2½@5c to 10c higher and the advance was well maintained.

Wheat—No. 2 red, 97@97½c; No. 2 hard, 96⅝@97¼c; No. 3 northern, 97½@98½c; No. 2 spring, 98@98½c.

CROP CONDITIONS ARE EXCELLENT

Early Outlook Is More Promising Than in Several Years.

Generally favorable weather conditions are noted by the Van Dusen-Harrington company in its weekly crop letter, issued today.

With the turn towards warmer weather, rapid progress is being made in seeding operations in districts where the work had been delayed, and the general outlook is now regarded as more promising than in several years at this time.

Touching upon the situation in the three Northwest states, the report says:

"Minnesota—Seeding is practically completed, except in the Red River valley, where there has been an excessive amount of moisture. In other localities there is still some barley to be sown. Small grains are stooling well, and conditions are excellent. Farmers are busy preparing the ground for corn.

"South Dakota—Eastern South Dakota small grain is starting in fine shape. With warm weather conditions corn planting will be completed about May 20. Central South Dakota (the drouth center last year) is in excellent condition, as the ground is now thoroughly soaked to a depth of from three to four feet. Small grain in this locality is stooling in fine shape, due to the cool weather, which has been of great benefit. The corn acreage is being materially increased in many localities. The hay crop now promises to be the best in several years.

"North Dakota—In the extreme eastern part of North Dakota, in the Red River valley, only a small percentage of seeding has been done, as the country has had too much moisture to allow the farmers to get into the fields, but in the northwestern section conditions are ideal and seeding about 80 per cent completed. In the southern part of the state seeding is practically finished."

EARLY RISE CANCELLED

Good Buying of Stocks Is Followed By Profit-Taking.

Day's Small Gains Are Wiped Out and Close Is Easy.

New York, May 15.—Stocks were supplied more freely at the higher levels established in the early trading in Wall Street today, and the advance was checked. The market held firm through the forenoon, but little further progress was made toward higher prices.

With quotations 1 to 3 points higher on the week, speculators hesitated to take on more stock and at times trading was at a standstill. Steel was again the leader, although there was a demand for other popular shares, especially Union Pacific.

Foreign exchange rates again were strong. Demand bills sold at 4.85⅝, or about 25 points below the figure at which exports of gold coin are exchanged.

Bonds were steady.

The upward swing in the stock market continued early today. Bullish leaders, taking advantage of the scarcity of stocks shown during yesterday's advance, continued to drive in the shorts. There was a good demand, embracing a wide variety of stocks, with keen bidding for steel and Reading, which were taken in large amounts.

Prices in almost every case were higher, and while the average advance in the first half hour was not large a few shares rose a point or more.

A few low-priced railroad shares and specialties developed independent strength on concerted buying which pushed them up sharply. London reversed its attitude of the last few days and sold 5,000 shares here.

The market closed easy today. Exhaustion of the early buying movement prompted profit-taking sales, and the day's small gains were generally cancelled. The slow decline in the afternoon encouraged short selling, on which Canadian Pacific and Amalgamated reacted a point.

OPPORTUNITY TO EXPLAIN

Commissioner Will Defend Attitude on Subway at Smithville.

Commissioner Roderuck Murchison of the public works department is expected to speak this evening before the West Duluth Commercial club, and explain why it is that the city officials prefer that the proposed subway under the Northern Pacific railroad tracks at Smithville be placed under the tracks at Cogebic street instead of on the county road.

It is expected that a large crowd will be present to hear the explanation. The subway has been one of the burning questions in this end of the city for some time. The subway is necessary for the early building of a street car line to the steel plant, New Duluth and other suburbs.

The need of the street car line is growing more urgent every day. At present the decision to build the line is hinging on a decision of the courts as to the validity of the company's franchise. An opinion of the court is expected in the near future.

There is said to be sufficient traffic now to the western suburb to warrant the operation of a half-hour or twenty-minute service on such a line. The building of the car line would take but a few weeks, according to a statement made some time ago by officials of the company. It is on this account that members of the Commercial club are eager that such matters as the proposed disposal of the subway question and routing be definitely settled ahead of time.

The West Duluth Commercial club, New Duluth Commercial club and Gary Improvement club have gone on record as favoring the subway under the tracks where the old county highway now crosses the railroad. The dirt that will have to be removed from this place for the subway can, they say, be readily disposed of in filling in the low spots on Commercial avenue in Smithville. Considerable filling will be necessary before the street car tracks can be laid.

WEST DULUTH ASKS BALL GROUNDS

Residents Say That City Should Take Action at Once.

The problem of baseball grounds for school boys of West Duluth is pressing. The only available spot is said to be the Fifty-second avenue grounds, and these are reported to be in very bad condition.

Baseball enthusiasts say that Mayor Prince has promised to let them have a corner at Forty-sixth avenue and Third street, but that this is in no condition for ball playing. Stumps and shrubbery must be removed and the ground leveled.

He suggested that the department of public works might lend its assistance in this matter. A suggestion that P. H. McGraw, street commissioner for this end of the city, be authorized to put his men on the ground for one day, has been made.

"The city has to pay for the work and it makes little difference to the average taxpayer whether the money is paid out of the street fund or the park fund," said the merchant. "The idea is that we want this cleared for a baseball ground for the boys and the sooner the city does it the better we would like it."

IS KILLED BY ENGINE

Superintendent of Bridges Fatally Injured in Proctor Yards.

A. A. Sinclair, 50 years old, superintendent of bridges and buildings for the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad, was struck by an engine and had his leg cut off near the thigh shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Proctor railroad yards. He died less than an hour later at St. Mary's hospital.

Mr. Sinclair had just left his office, intending to take the bus for the Bay View Heights incline in order to go home, when the accident happened. He stepped onto the track and evidently right in front of the engine. The engineer on the locomotive failed to see him and continued on, but the acident was seen by the crew on a train going in the opposite direction.

He was immediately picked up and a special car detailed to take him to the city. A clear track was given and in less than half an hour he was in the hospital. The loss of blood during the trip was believed to have been too great and he died shortly afterward.

Mr. Sinclair had been employed by the railroad for the last three years. He resided at 1815 Hughitt avenue, Superior, and leaves a widow, a daughter and three sons. He had resided in Superior for twenty years. He was a member of the Masonic lodge and also of the Modern Woodmen.

NEW CLUB ROOMS OPENED.

Farewell Reception for Pastor Who Is Leaving for Jamaica.

The new club and guild rooms of the Holy Apostles' Episcopal church, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Elinor street, were officially opened last evening with a reception by the members of the congregation. The reception was in the nature of a farewell for Rev. Wilfred Clarke, rector of the church, who will leave in a few days for Kingston, Jamaica.

A program of several numbers was given during the evening. Among those taking part in the program were Mrs. Stanley Butchart, Miss Margaret Clark. Reynold Briggs, Miss Fern Butchart and Miss Bertha Coburn.

ONE HURT WHEN ENGINE HITS AUTO

Car of R. C. Buck Is Demolished and Louis Branca Is Injured.

An automobile belonging to Roland C. Buck was demolished and Louis Branca, 1218 Tower avenue, was slightly injured when the car was run down by a Soo line switch engine at Tower avenue last night. Mr. Buck was driving the car and attempted to cross the railroad in front of the oncoming engine. The car might have cleared the track, but as it struck the rails the wheels skidded. Branca was taken to St. Mary's hospital, where it was found that his injuries were slight. Mr. Buck escaped without injury.

SUPERIOR HAS A $15,000 BLAZE

A fire which damaged the Pease Hardware company, 1206 Tower avenue, Superior, to the extent of about $15,000, drove about twenty families out of the Empire block apartments at 3 o'clock this morning. Nobody was injured.

The fire started in the rear of the hardware store. Its cause is as yet unknown. Considerable oil and grease in motorcycles added to the flames and these spread rapidly throughout the store.

On the upper two floors of the building lived twenty families. At the first smell of smoke these were aroused and, clad only in night clothes, were hustled out of the building.

The entire downtown fire-fighting equipment was on the scene shortly after the fire was discovered. The inflammable material in the building made it hard work for the fire fighters to get the blaze under control. The damage was confined principally to the first floor, the apartments above being damaged principally by smoke.

TWO DRAW FIVE-YEAR SENTENCE

Adam Sherr and Ganislaw Kosykoski were sentenced to serve five years each at the state penitentiary at Waupun by Judge Charles Smith of the superior court yesterday. The men were convicted of stealing $4,000 in certificates of deposit, $300 in cash and a diamond ring valued at $100 from Dan McDougall of Wausau while he was sleeping at the Commercial hotel. The men were arrested early the following day by the police and had a part of the loot in their possession. The men have not yet divulged what they did with the certificates.

Salesman Draws Fine.

George West, a traveling salesman who considered the efforts of Mike Maghan, traffic policeman at Tower avenue and Belknap street, a joke, paid $5 and costs in police court yesterday afternoon. West paid no heed to the policeman when told to "cut square corners" in crossing the street, and as a result was arrested.

JAPAN TO INCREASE NATIONAL DEFENSES

Policy Is Announced By New Cabinet Under Okuma.

Tokio, May 15.—An increase of the Japanese national defenses is promised in the declaration of policy issued today by the new cabinet under the premiership of Count Shigenobu Okuma. The necessity is emphasized of overcoming by national economy the financial burdens resulting from the war with Russia. Reduction of the national loans and concentration of effort on the development of commerce and industry are also part of the government program.

BUTTE TO FRISCO RAILROAD PLANNED.

Boise, Idaho, May 15.—Articles of incorporation were filed here yesterday by L. O. Leonard for the Boise, Butte & San Francisco Railroad company, which proposes to build a railroad from Butte to San Francisco, via Boise. The capital stock is put at $125,000,000. The articles do not disclose the financial interests back of the proposed road.

LIQUOR DEALERS APPEAL TO PEOPLE

Say Prohibition Would Interfere With People's Rights.

Washington, May 15.—A statement addressed to "the people of the United States," opposing national prohibition, was adopted at the closing session here of the National Wholesale Liquor Dealers' association. The statement declared the proposed prohibition constitutional amendment would interfere with the rights and liberties of the people and "outlaw a recognized and lawful business." Samuel Woolner, Jr., of Peoria, Ill., was elected president.

PANAMA CANAL HAS COST 2,190 LIVES

Death List Greater Than in 1812 and Mexican War Together

Washington, May 15.—Nearly 2,200 workers on the Panama canal died from accidents and fevers between May 1, 1904, and March 31, 1914, according to statistics read by Representative Young of North Dakota in the house. The total of 2,190 victims, Mr. Young asserted, was greater than the mortality from wounds and on the battlefield in the war of 1812 and the Mexican war combined; the Revolution, or the Spanish American war.

WEBER REFUSES TO HEAD MUSICIANS.

Des Moines, Iowa, May 15.—Final efforts to induce Joseph N. Weber of New York to accept the presidency of the American Federation of Musicians for the fifteenth time, failed. The following were then nominated: William J. Kerngood, New York; Frank Carr, Kansas City; Joseph F. Kinkler, Chicago, and C. A. Weaver, Des Moines.

Complaints that a number of theatrical managers are back of a movement to abolish the orchestra from the theater of the country, led to the introduction of a resolution which had as its object the formation of a theatrical syndicate by the musicians. The resolution provided for the appointment of a committee to take up the matter, but was lost after considerable debate. The members considered the proposition too important to be taken up just now.

Secretary Daniels "a Fan."

Port Deposit, Md., May 15.—Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, delivering an address at the Founders' day exercises at the Jacob Tome Institute here, where his son, Josephus, Jr., is a student, elicited vigorous applause from the students when he confessed he was a baseball "fan." He said that throughout his youth he would far preferred having been a baseball player than a secretary of the navy.

LEGAL NOTICES.

CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION —OF— PRINCETON LAND COMPANY.

For the purpose of forming and being a corporation, under and by virtue of the provisions of Chapter 58 of the Revised Laws of the State of Minnesota for the year 1905, and all laws amendatory thereof, we, the undersigned, have adopted, signed, sealed and acknowledged the following certificate of incorporation:

ARTICLE I.

The name of this corporation shall be Princeton Land Company, and its principal place of business shall be Duluth, Minnesota.

The general nature of its business shall be to buy, sell, rent, lease, mortgage and improve all kinds of lands and tenements, and to construct, improve, lease, rent and sell houses and buildings of every description; to loan money, either for itself or as agent for others upon mortgages or other securities; to buy and sell mineral leases and timber and money obligations secured upon real or personal property; to write all kinds of insurance and surety bonds, and to act as agent for insurance companies and for owners of real estate, with power to execute all contracts, encumbrances, transfers, releases and other documents, and to do all such things as are usual, necessary, expedient or convenient to the transaction of such business in any of its branches, and such other enterprises or things as are incident thereto.

ARTICLE II.

The period of duration of this corporation shall be thirty (30) years.

ARTICLE III.

The names and places of residence of the incorporators are A. T. Banning, Jr., Duluth, Minnesota; J. E. Gardner, Jr., Duluth, Minnesota, and M. M. Quinn, Duluth, Minnesota.

ARTICLE IV.

The government of this corporation and the conduct of its affairs shall be vested in a Board of three Directors. Said Directors shall all be stockholders of this corporation, and shall be elected by the Stockholders at their annual meeting, which shall be held on the third Tuesday in May of each year, at such hour and place as shall be fixed by the By-Laws of this corporation. They shall hold office for the term of one year after their election, or until their successors are elected and qualify, but vacancies occurring in their membership may be filled by the Board of Directors until their successors shall be elected at the next ensuing annual meeting or at a special meeting of the Stockholders called for that purpose. Until the Directors elected at the first annual meeting shall qualify, the following persons shall constitute the Board of Directors of this corporation, to-wit: A. T. Banning, Jr., J. E. Gardner, Jr., and M. M. Quinn, all residing in Duluth, Minnesota.

The officers of this corporation shall be a President, a Vice-President, a Secretary and a Treasurer, and such other officers as may be provided for in the By-Laws. Any two of such offices may be held by the same person, with the exception of the offices of President and Vice President. Said officers shall be chosen by the Board of Directors in such manner and for such terms as may be prescribed in the By-Laws. Until said officers are so chosen by the Board of Directors, the following persons shall be the officers of this corporation, to-wit: A. T. Banning, Jr., President; J. E. Gardner, Jr., Vice President, and M. M. Quinn, Secretary and Treasurer.

ARTICLE V.

The amount of the capital stock of this corporation shall be Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000), and the same shall be divided into five hundred (500) shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars ($100) each. Said stock shall be paid for in either property, money or services, as the Board of Directors may elect, and shall be subscribed for at such times and in such amounts as may be prescribed by the Board of Directors.

The By-Laws of this corporation may from time to time contain such lawful provisions as are deemed advisable restricting the sale, transfer and assignment of the shares of its capital stock, either by requiring that such stock before being sold, transferred or assigned shall be first offered to the corporation or to the other Stockholders, or otherwise; and may prescribe the terms and manner in which such restrictions shall be enforced. All of such provisions when embodied in the By-Laws shall bind absolutely the stock of the corporation and all persons dealing with the same, their heirs, successors, legal representatives and assigns, and no stock issued to any Stockholder shall be sold, transferred or assigned, nor shall any right therein accrue to any purchaser, transferee or assignee thereof, except upon compliance with such provisions of the By-Laws.

The corporation shall have the right to purchase any of its capital stock and to carry out any of the provisions of the By-Laws regulating or restricting its sale, transfer or assignment.

At all elections of directors each Stockholder shall be entitled to as many votes as shall equal the number of his shares of stock multiplied by the number of directors to be elected, and he may cast all of such votes for a single director, or may distribute them among the number to be voted for, or for any two or more of them, as he may see fit.

ARTICLE VI.

The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which this corporation shall at any time be subject shall be One Hundred Thousand Dollars ($100,000).

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, We have hereunto set our hands and affixed our seals this seventh day of May, 1914.

NOTICE—
To Will Gustafson:

You are hereby notified: That default has been made in the terms and conditions of that certain land contract entered into on the 13th day of May, 1913, by and between Watson S. Moore as party of the first part, the said Will Gustafson as party of the second part, and G. A. Tomlinson as party of the third part, wherein and whereby the said party of the first part agreed to sell, the said Will Gustafson agreed to buy, and said party of the third part agreed to release from the lien and effect of a certain mortgage therein referred to, according to those certain terms and conditions which are fully set forth in said contract, the following described premises situate in the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, namely:

Lot twelve (12) in block forty-five (45), in Gary, First division, according to the plat thereof on file and of record in the office of the registrar of titles in and for said St. Louis county.

You, the said Will Gustafson, are further notified that said default consists in the failure of yourself, or anyone in your behalf, to pay those certain installments on said contract, each amounting to ten dollars ($10.00), which became due and payable to the party of the first part on the 13th day of each of the months of December in the year 1913 and January, February, March and April in the year 1914, which installments aggregate the sum of Fifty Dollars ($50.00), and in the further failure of yourself, or anyone in your behalf, to pay the semi-annual interest, amounting to thirteen and 61-100 dollars ($13.61), due upon said contract, which became due and payable on the 13th day of November, 1913; on account of which said default, the said party of the first part, Watson S. Moore, has a right and does now elect to terminate said contract.

Now therefore, you, the said Will Gustafson, will please take notice that the said contract hereinabove referred to will terminate thirty (30) days after the service of this notice upon you, unless prior thereto you shall comply with the terms and conditions of said contract hereinbefore mentioned, and pay the costs of this service.

The amount claimed to be due upon said contract at the date hereof is the sum of sixty-three and 61-100 dollars ($63.61).

This notice is given according to the provisions of section 8081 of the General Statutes of Minnesota for the year 1913.

Dated this 24th day of April, 1914.
WATSON S. MOORE.

OUR METHOD OF SELLING FURNITURE, RUGS, ETC.,
for the home 35 to 40 per cent less than retail shop prices has brought huge success to the promoters of this business. We have knocked clean off the map the old idea that it is necessary to make 100 per cent profit on every piece of furniture sold in order to show a reasonable return on the dealer's investment. No concern in the furniture world has equaled our record the past year. We claim it is possible to furnish "good furniture" for the home at a much lower price than has been asked heretofore in Duluth by retail shops and yet win success galore. Our method of doing business with its wonderful price saving to purchasers has been the means of creating a much greater demand for "good furniture," rugs, etc., for the home because the average homemaker found he could buy much more for less money at our salesrooms. Therefore, we are trade stimulators and important factors in reducing the high cost of living.

VILLA IS ALL READY TO OPEN HIS ATTACK ON SALTILLO ARMY

Soldiers Are in Excellent Spirits in Face of Hard Battle.

None But Leaders Know Details of General's Plans.

Federal Gunboat Vera Cruz Is Sunk Near Tampico.

Hopolito, Mex., May 16.—The army of Gen. Villa was early astir today in preparation for its advance against the Federal garrison of Saltillo. The men, seemingly always cheerful, were in excellent spirits.

News that a Constitutionalist party of 300 men had surprised and routed 400 Federals near Paredon yesterday filtered through the ranks, putting the men in good humor and serving to start the improvised folk songs in which the Mexican soldier delights.

Troops in Position.

By last night most of the brigades had taken the positions assigned them for the advance toward Saltillo. The careless life of the camp has given way to the businesslike bearing that shows the men expect a hardfought campaign.

Gen. Villa's army never has been burdened with strict military trappings and observances, but the steady pound of hoofs from the mounted outposts beyond the twinkling campfires, the sharp "quien vive" of the sentries which corresponds to the "who goes there" of the American soldier, accompanied by the snick of a breach bolt, give ample evidence that Villa's men realize they are at last in the enemy's country.

Only Gen. Villa and his most trusted brigade commanders know his plan of campaign. Others can only surmise his plans by the strategical disposition of his troops.

Paredon Evacuated.

An unconfirmed rumor has been received of the evacuation of Paredon,

BAD TRAIN SERVICE DELAYING SILLIMAN

That Is Mexican Explanation of Consul's Failure to Appear.

Washington, May 16.—Further assurances reached the state department today from the Brazilian minister in Mexico City that American Consul John R. Silliman, who was imprisoned at Saltillo, is en route to Mexico City, but that his arrival has been delayed by interrupted railroad conditions. Latest reports state that he should have reached the Mexican capital last night or early today, but that transportation operations were very uncertain.

STATE RIGHTS ISSUE RAISED

Governors Will Discuss the Subject at Madison Meeting.

East and West Are Divided as to Proper Policy.

Madison, Wis., May 16.—What promises to be one of the most interesting debates at the governor's conference which will convene here June 9 will be over the subject of state control of natural resources. The governors of Eastern states are in favor of national control. The issue over this subject has become so pronounced that the governors of the Western states held a conference at Denver last month and passed strong resolutions in favor of state control of natural resources.

The subject will be presented to the conference by Governor William Spry of Utah, who has notified Secretary Miles Riley of the conference that he desires to present this subject to the meeting.

Western Men's Attitude.

In a statement issued by the Western governors which has just been received here, they declare that "it is the duty of each state and every state to adopt such laws as will make for true conservation of our resources, prevent monopoly and render the greatest good to the greatest number; and that as rapidly as the states prepare themselves to carry out such a policy of conservation, the Federal government should withdraw its supervision and turn the work over to the states."

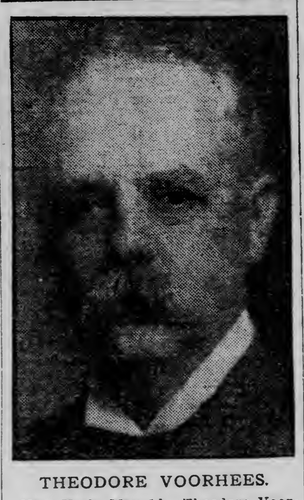
One of the plans that will be urged by the Western governors in connection with the policy of conservation is that 5 per cent of the public lands in the several states should be granted to the states individually to aid in the construction of permanent roads.

For Public Land Lease.

In view of the provisions of the water power law passed at the last session of the legislature, another proposal of the Western governors that the Federal government release its control over the water of a state through ownership of public lands will be of interest.

Most of the governors of the Eastern states are opposed to the views advanced by Western governors on this subject.

SUCCEEDS BAER AS HEAD OF READING ROAD



THEODORE VOORHEES.

New York, May 16.—Theodore Voorhees has been elected president of the Philadelphia & Reading railroad to take the place of George F. Baer, deceased. He was for a long time vice president of the road.

WILL SEEK "VANISHED MILLIONS"

The Commerce Commission Bluntly Announces New Haven Probe Plans.

"Who Got Money That Belonged to the Stockholders?"

Amazing Financial Jugglery Will Be Shown, Folk Says.

Washington, May 16.—"Just who got the vanished millions belonging to the stockholders of the New Haven railroad, and just how the deals were carried out by which these millions were diverted from the road's treasury to the pockets of favored financiers, are questions which the interstate commerce commission expects to answer through the pending investigation into the New Haven's financial affairs."

Thus was stated authoritatively today the purpose of the commission in forcing the examination of Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New Haven, and of other witnesses who have been or will be called upon to testify.

Practice of Unloading.

Examination of papers and documents now in possession of the commission indicate clearly, Chief Counsel Joseph W. Folk pointed out, that it became a regular practice of certain financial interests to buy up properties which they had been led to believe the New Haven wanted, and then unload them onto the New Haven at from two to four times what they paid for them.

In the view of the commission and of Mr. Folk, suit would lie against these interests by which they could be forced to restore money so obtained to the New Haven stockholders.

Amazing Financial Jugglery.

Already some of the methods employed in financing the deals have been shown by Mr. Mellen, but in the opinion of Chief Counsel Folk, after an

FOREIGNERS SAFE NOW AT TAMPICO

City Is Orderly Under Control of the Rebels.

Washington, May 16.—Mexican Constitutionalists under Gen. Gonzales, now occupying Tampico, have assured United States Consul Miller there that Americans and other foreigners may return to the city and that every consideration will be shown them. Consul Miller reports everything quiet and that the city has been in perfect order since its occupation by Gen. Gonzales.

A report from Consul Bonney, now on his way home from San Luis Potosi, states that no Americans were killed, so far as he could learn, in his district before the time he left, but that all the railroads were paralyzed, chiefly from lack of fuel. He left the consulate in charge of the British vice consul.

Admiral Badger has reported the arrival today from Puerto Mexico, from Tampico of the Mexican gunboats Bravo, Zaragosa and the tug Tampico. The cruiser Tacoma and two destroyers are with them.

MEDIATION MEETING IS PREPARED FOR BY MEN AT WASHINGTON

South Americans Will Have Left Capital By Monday.

Mexican Delegation Is Pleased at Courtesies Extended to Them.

Washington, May 16.—Plans for the assembling of the mediators, delegates and other officials at Niagara Falls, Ont., for the peace negotiations went forward rapidly today after the delays and postponements of yesterday.

Minister Naon of Argentina will leave at 7 o'clock tomorrow night to begin preliminary arrangements at Niagara Falls Monday. Ambassador Da Gama of Brazil and Minister Suarez will follow, probably Monday. The ambassador will first go to New York to join Mme. Da Gama, who will proceed with him to Niagara Falls.

The departure of Justice Lamar, Mr. Lehmann and the American officials is dependent somewhat on the plans of the Mexican delegates, who were to arrive from the South this afternoon, but it is probable the various groups will get away Sunday night or Monday.

Pleased at Courtesy.

Stedman Hanks, representing the state department, who met the Mexican delegates to the peace conference, today telegraphed the department that he was with the delegates on the train and that he expected to arrive in Washington this afternoon. The party, Mr. Hanks said, consists of seven officials, six ladies and three servants.

The Mexican delegates, Mr. Hanks reported, expressed warm appreciation of the courtesy shown them in postponing the opening of the conference, but they announced no plans to

"MEXICANS THINK THEY CAN WHIP U. S."

Statement Is Made By Grand Master of Mexican Masons.

St. Louis, Mo., May 16.—American intervention is the only solution of the Mexican trouble, according to Wayne A. White, grand master of the Grand Masonic lodge of Mexico, who arrived here yesterday to attend a conference of Masonic grand masters.

"Many of the Mexicans who are allied with Huerta for protection," he said, "are praying that the United States take control of affairs in Mexico so they will be sure they and their business are safe. The Mexicans are cowards. They think they can whip the United States, and have the impression we are cowards because we have been so lenient with them, but one big fight with modern artillery will be enough to run all the Mexican fighters out of the country."

The conference of grand masters which has been in session here since Thursday morning, closed today. The principal event of the day was a parade of Masons to the Masonic home, where the cornerstone of a new administration building was laid by the visiting dignitaries.

WANTS DR. HEISER FOR BAY STATE.

Boston, Mass., May 16.—Governor Walsh allowed it to become known today that if the legislature should adopt his recommendation for the substitution of a state health commissioner for the present state board of health, he would name as commissioner Dr. Victor Heiser, now chief United States medical director in the Philippines.

CORONER PROBING DETROIT EXPLOSION

Only One of Six Injured Men Is in Critical Condition.

Detroit, Mich., May 16.—Coroner Rothacher, assisted by several expert investigators, today continued his efforts to learn the origin of the explosion which caused the deaths of ten men and the serious injury of six others at the plant of the Mexican Crude Rubber company in this city yesterday. Several dangerous explosives were used by the company in the manufacture of an imitation leather, but what combination led up to the disaster could only be guessed at today. Every man in the room where the explosion occurred was killed instantly.

Five of the six injured were reported by physicians as almost certain to recover. The sixth, John McDonald, 26 years old, who was terribly burned and lacerated about the hips, back and arms, is in a critical condition.

NORWEGIANS MEET IN THE TWIN CITIES

Hold Monster Celebration in Honor of Norway's Centenary.

St. Paul, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Norwegians from all over the Northwest began a three days' celebration in honor of the 100th anniversary of Norway's independence today. The exercises were held on the Minnesota State Fair grounds in St. Paul, and the visitors are entertained jointly by the Twin Cities. It is estimated that the largest gathering of Norsemen ever congregated in America has assembled for the occasion.

H. H. Bryn, Norwegian minister to the United States, and Senator Knute Nelson arrived from Washington this morning to participate in the celebration. Mr. Bryn will be one of the speakers on Monday; both he and Senator Nelson were guests of honor of the Bygdelags today.

Today's program consisted of meeting of Bygdelags, veterans' reunion and an areoplane flight in the forenoon, and a parade of Norwegian societies in each city, to meet at the fair grounds, and a baseball game were planned for later in the day.

Munis Peruvian Premier.

Lima, Peru, May 16.—Gen. Pedro Muniz, the new Peruvian minister of war, will also act as premier in the cabinet formed by President Oscar Benavides, who was yesterday elected to office to succeed the exiled president, Billinghurst.

HONOR IRISH HERO OF 1776

Bronze Statue at Capital to "Father of American Navy."

Washington, May 16.—Simultaneously with the firing of a salute of eleven guns by the field battery of the District of Columbia National guard and the playing of the "Star Spangled Banner" by the Marine band, a statue of Commodore John Barry was unveiled here today in Franklin park. The cord that released the large American flag surrounding the figure was pulled by Miss Elsie H. Hepburn of Philadelphia, great-great-grandniece of the distinguished son of Erin who served so conspicuously in the United States navy. Over 20,000 attended the ceremonies.

President Wilson participated in the ceremonies and made a brief address.

"Father of American Navy."

In Franklin park a bronze statue was dedicated and unveiled as the nation's tribute to the heroic Irish patriot, by many called "The Father of the American Navy."

To Miss Elise H. Hepburn of Philadelphia, great great grandniece of Commodore Barry, fell the honor of pulling the cord which uncovered the features of the statue and President Wilson, James J. Regan, the national president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, and other prominent men were on the program to deliver dedicatory addresses. William C. Clarke, son of J. I. C. Clarke, president-general of the American-Irish Historical

NOTIFIED OF WASHINGTON'S DISPLEASURE

Spanish Ambassador Is Notified of Promise of Dictator.

Parks Is Reported "Executed" and His Body Burned.

Affair Probably Will Figure Largely in Final Settlement.

Washington, May 16.—Spanish Ambassador Riano today received a dispatch from the Mexican minister of foreign affairs, stating that vigorous investigation of the disappearance of Orderly Samuel Parks immediately would be made by the Huerta authorities.

The dispatch was in reply to a note sent by Mr. Riano, calling attention to the anxiety of the United States government as to Parks.

Report Says Body Was Burned.

While Huerta's delegates to the Niagara Falls conference were hurrying northward to the capital today, President Wilson and his advisers awaited an answer to the demand on Federal officials at Mexico City for news of the fate of Parks, the American soldier who in full uniform strayed into Huerta's lines while probably temporarily insane. Some reports stated Parks had been "executed" and others declared his body had been burned.

The note for Huerta, declaring that unless information of the fate of Parks immediately was given, the American government would consider it "an unfriendly and hostile act," followed in the wake of two other communications. The last message, drafted by President Wilson and Secretary Bryan, was sent to the Brazilian minister in Mexico City. He was requested to take it up with Huerta, to explain the strong feelings of the Washington government over the incident, and to make vigorous representations for a definite reply.

Will Figure in Settlement.

What course the president would pursue in the Parks case was not indicated. It was believed it would be one of the big items considered when an attempt is made to cast a balance of accounts between Huerta and the United States government.

TUXPAM IN HANDS OF THE REBEL ARMY

Constitutionalists, Under Gen. Aguilla, Occupy the City.

Washington, May 16.—Tuxpam, on the east coast of Mexico, between Vera Cruz and Tampico, is in the hands of the Constitutionalists, according to a report to the state department today from Consul Canada at Vera Cruz. Consul Canada said a party of Spanish refugees arriving in Vera Cruz from Tuxpam in a launch, informed him that Constitutionalists under Gen. Aguilla had occupied the city.

Walsh of Montana Opposes Repeal of Tolls Exemption.

Declares Building of Canal Was Itself a Subsidy.

Washington, May 16.—The statement that William Jennings Bryan deliberately approved the tolls exemption plank of the Democratic platform, as a member of the subcommittee on resolutions which prepared the platform, was made in the senate today by Senator Walsh of Montana, secretary of the subcommittee.

Senator Walsh declared that an open repudiation of a solemn covenant by a political party would cause all to recoil from it with horror, were it proposed by any other man than the president of the United States.

"For myself, its moral aspect assumes no different hue because he commends it," added the senator.

Says, "Ask Supreme Court."

As a substitute for the repeal bill, Senator Walsh urged the adoption of Former President Taft's proposal to submit the controversy to the supreme court.

The Montanan took up at length the

OLD DREAM IS COMING TRUE

Another Big Step Toward Making Duluth an Ocean Port.

Boat Line Organized to Operate on the Erie Canal.

Duluth's long cherished dream of being an ocean port is brought a little nearer realization by the organization of a new canal boat line, known as the New York & Buffalo Steamship company, and capitalized at $2,500,000.

To ship from Duluth to any ocean port in the world without breaking bulk, is the vision that many far-seeing Duluthians have held for years. They are hoping for the day when there will be a deep waterway from the head of Lake Superior, the farthest inland port, to the Atlantic ocean. The Erie canal is looked upon as a very good substitute for this, for it will give an all water route to New York city, even though breaking bulk is necessary.

Men who have studied Duluth's transportation problems believe that the Erie canal is going to prove one of Duluth's best "talking points" ranking with the steel plant and the recent rate victories. The organization of the new canal boat line is therefore of special interest. The New York Sun of May 12, contains the following account of it:

"The Sun was authorized yesterday to announce the plans for the incorporation at Albany of the New York & Buffalo Steamship company, which has been organized with a capital of $3,500,000 to operate the first line of freight vessels on the new $101,000,000 state barge canal.

"The idea of the barge canal line originated with Charles W. Morse and the details have been worked out by his son, Harry F. Morse, who was graduated from Yale in 1910, and Capt. M. L. Gilbert, now president of the Southern Steamship company, the Morse line from Wilmington, N. C., to Baltimore.

Thirty Vessels.

"The new line will have a fleet of thirty vessels, all driven by electricity and operated from the pilot house instead of from the engine room. They will be the first electrically driven vessels to be run here, with the exception of the United States collier Jupiter.

"The new barge canal company will have a bond issue of $2,000,000 and $1,500,000 of stock. Only about $250,000 of the entire issue of stock and boads will be offered to the public, the rest having been disposed of already by the Morse Securities company of 43 Exchange place, which was organized by Charles W. Morse about two years ago when he started out to recoup his wealth and reinstate himself as a power in the steamship world. The control of the new company will remain with Mr. Morse.

Daily Boats to Buffalo.

"Mr. Morse said that he prefers not to discuss the new company because his time is taken up with the affairs of the Hudson Navigation company, of which he is the president. He referred The Sun reporter to Capt. Gilbert, who will be the managing director of the new company. Capt. Gilbert said that the company will run a daily line of package freight ships between New York and Buffalo, using thirty vessels when the canal is fully opened in 1915.

"Ten of the ships will be built on the Atlantic coast, probably by a New York concern, and will be delivered this fall. They will be used on the Hudson river and Long Island Sound until next spring, when they will inaugurate traffic on the barge canal as far west as Fonda. Ten more of the vessels will be delivered next spring and the last ten the following spring, when it is expected the entire canal will be opened to navigation.

"Owing to the fact that there will be 330 bridges over the barge canal, the majority of them only fifteen and a half feet above the surface of the water, each of the thirty vessels of the New York and Buffalo line will resemble an enclosed car float. They will be 275 feet long, 40 feet wide and 8½ feet deep, covered by an 8-foot house. The house and hull will be of steel and all boats will be operated with three propellers driven by power furnished from electric dynamos. The dynamo will be driven by a stationary engine in the ship's hold.

"By operating the vessels from the pilot house instead of from the engine room the company will save the pay of a number of engineers, it being necessary only to employ firemen to run the stationary engine. Before deciding on electric power for the boats the organizers of the company found that the estimated profits with steam power would be $737,835 and by gas producing engines $917,835, while with electric power the estimated profit would be $935,835 a year.

Will Touch at Thirty Cities.

"'Our boats will have a capacity of 1,500 tons each and will touch thirty New York cities, with a total population of 7,450,746, which is 81.2 per cent of the population of New York state,' said Capt. Gilbert. Of this 5,578,063 is figured as the population of New York and the cities at the lower end of the route.

"'The distance from New York to Buffalo by the canal is 494 miles, which will be covered by our boats in 108 hours. This includes thirty-five hours for stops and twelve hours of delay in the locks. Our rates will go about 20 per cent lower than the rail rates.

"'The cost of the boats will be about $6,500 each. We will have two classes of boats, one of which will do express work and stop only at Albany, Troy, Schenectady, Utica, Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo. These boats will make the trip in three days. The other boats, stopping at all the thirty cities along the way will make the distance in 119 hours.'"

FEW WOMEN VOTE IN OREGON PRIMARY.

Portland, Ore., May 16.—United States Senator George E. Chamberlain, Democrat, was renominated at a general state primary election yesterday. The Republicans picked Robert A. Booth, and the Progressives, William Hanley. Women did not largely avail themselves of their first opportunity to vote at an Oregon state primary.

PLUNGES TWENTY-ONE STORIES TO DEATH.

Chicago, May 16.—A. N. McGregor stood on the ledge of a lavatory window in the twenty-first floor of the Insurance Exchange building here and then plunged to his death on the pavement below, according to horrified witnesses in the street.

The young man's father, an insurance man with an office on the thirteenth floor of the building, expressed the opinion that death was accidental.

Dinner for All Parties.

All participants in the mediation conference will meet for the first time at the dinner given tonight by the Spanish ambassador in honor of the arriving Mexican delegates. Invitations to the dinner have been accepted by the three South American envoys, by the two American delegates, Justice Lamar and Mr. Lehmann, and H. Percival Dodge, secretary to the American mission. Other guests will be the secretaries and other attaches accompanying the Mexican delegates, the second and third secretaries and the military attaches of the Mexican embassy, who remained in Washington after the departure of Mr. Algara, and the staff of the Spanish embassy: Walls Y. Merino, counsellor of the embassy; Conde de San Esteban, second secretary, and Col. Urcullu y Cerejo, the military attache.

Riano to Meet Mexicans.

Senor Riano, the Spanish ambassador, planned to meet the Mexican delegation at the railroad station and later to take the three Huerta representatives to call upon the South American mediators.

Mr. Riano at the request of the Mexican minister for foreign affairs today thanked the government of the United States for attention shown the representatives of the Huerta government upon their arrival upon American soil.

Secretary Bryan said today that the question of permitting the shipment of arms from the United States to Mexican ports was not before the state department for consideration. In view of Secretary Garrison's explanation that prohibition of further shipment of arms across the Mexican border was done at his direction, and applied only to the border, it was assumed that no attempt would be made to interfere with any shipment consigned to Tampico or Tuxpan.

Mr. Mellen and other officials of the New Haven.

Names of stockholders of the Westchester—that is, of the holders of the minority of stock in the road—have not been disclosed. Mr. Mellen said the stock was widely scattered but that he was able to "reach" it through the late Police Inspector Thomas F. Byrnes. He did not say that it was held by "politicians," although that question was asked him; but he did add that it was held "by persons of influence," who could be reached by Inspector Byrnes.

Studying Documents.

Chief Counsel Folk of the commission and his assistants have not yet completed the analysis of the documentary evidence submitted, and scarcely will be able to complete it before next Tuesday.

It is evident that the examination of Mr. Mellen will take a wide range and may occupy all of next week. It is the present purpose of the commission and of Mr. Folk to develop every particle of evidence obtainable, quite irrespective of that which may have been developed in previous inquiries.

NOMINATES NEW HAITIEN MINISTER.

Washington, May 16.—The president nominated Arthur Bailly-Blanchard of Louisiana, now secretary of the embassy at Tokio, to be envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Haiti.

Farmers Benefited.

Oakes, N. D., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The establishment of a cold storage and creamery plant here has delighted a large number of the farmers in this vicinity, many of whom have increased their dairy herds as a result of the assurance the plant would be operated all the year.

PAID POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT.

Inserted by Charles G. Miller, in behalf of himself, candidate for sheriff. Amount to be paid, $37.50.

FOR SHERIFF

CHARLES G. MILLER

To the People of St. Louis County, Minn.:

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the nomination at the forthcoming primary election on Tuesday, June 16, 1914, for the position of Sheriff. I have been a resident of the county for the past forty years. I was one of the original promoters of the Duluth Paper & Stationery company and am still connected with it, as its treasurer, and as its traveling salesman on the Mesaba and Vermilion iron ranges. In 1892 I was elected a member of the Board of County Commissioners, which position I held for the full term of four years. During that period I brought up the question of building a wagon road to connect Duluth with the iron range towns, and there was considerable opposition to the proposition. I took the stand that there should be a through trunk road, starting at Duluth and running to the northern boundary of the county in as near a direct northerly route as possible and from that branch roads could be built, as the adjacent country was settled up, and the interests of the inhabitants required. The idea being that the trunk road should be built in sections, and extended from time to time as the county became settled. This proposition was finally adopted and what is now known as the Miller trunk road is the result. The succeeding Board of Commissioners to the one of which I was a member having complimented me, by giving the new road my name.

If nominated and elected sheriff, I shall at all times give my whole personal attention to the duties of the office and shall endeavor to discharge those duties in a manner consistent with the law and justice; and where discretion is given me will exercise a reasonable, consistent and humane policy.

May 2nd, 1914. CHARLES G. MILLER.

Baltimore platform, because he said it had been intimated that the tolls plank had been inserted surreptitiously, and he declared his belief that the sub-committee of eleven elected to draft the platform received the proposed tolls plank from Senator O'Gorman.

"There was no debate upon it, simply because it was generally approved or acquiesced in," said Senator Walsh.

He said Mr. Bryan and Senator O'Gorman were asked to put the platform in appropriate language, and that they invited Senator Pomerene and himself to assist.

"Approved by Bryan."

"When the tolls plank was presented," said Senator Walsh, "Mr. Bryan expressed his approval, but said that it should be accompanied by another plank declaring against the admission of railroad owned ships to the canal. And so the platform reads, after the declaration concerning tolls: 'We also' —note the also—'favor legislation forbidding the use of the Panama canal by ships owned or controlled by railroad carriers engaged in transportation competitive with the canal.'"

Senator Walsh said he had no temptation to escape from the trammels of the platform upon the puerile suggestion that the plank was contradicted by another against subsidies.

"Why, in that view the canal itself is a subsidy to the shipping interests," he declared. "Why did we spend $400,000,000 to build it except to aid the shipping interests?"

forty-five miles from Saltillo, by the Federals, and it is supposed that it was the retreating garrison encountered by the Constitutionalist advance guard. Paredon is regarded as of undoubted strategic importance, as it commands the entrance to the valley through which Saltillo may be reached from Hipolito.

Rumors also were current that the Federals were evacuating Saltillo, but little credence was given them here, as the Constitutionalist army is convinced that the Federals will make a strong resistance.

Gunboat Is Sunk.

Washington, May 16.—Rear Admiral Mayo reported to the navy department today that the Mexican Federal gunboat Vera Cruz previously reported to have been abandoned, was sunk in the Panuco river at Tamos.

Admiral Cradock, commander of the British naval forces at Tampico, called yesterday with his entire staff and two captains, upon Gen. Gonzales, commander of the Constitutionalist troops. Admiral Mayo said he had arranged to call today, but with the understanding that the visit would be informal.

The American admiral added that business of the port of Tampico is being resumed slowly. Two oil ships cleared yesterday. Perfect order is being maintained by the Constitutionalists in the town and the surrounding country. No banks are open and money is extremely scarce.

Rear Admiral Badger reported from Vera Cruz that the cruiser Chester had sailed for Puerto Mexico to join the three other American war vessels there.

examination of the documentary evidence now in hand, the story yet to be told will be one of amazing financial jugglery and manipulation.

Examination of papers already submitted to the commission by Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New Haven railroad, in the commission's investigation of the New Haven's operations in acquiring its subsidiaries, discloses the demands made by Mr. Mellen before the Westchester deal was put through.

Mr. Mellen testified that he had made demand for thirteen changes in the Westchester franchise as a condition of the exchange of $1,200,000—3,000 shares—of New Haven stock for 24,000 shares of the Westchester stock. These thirteen changes have been grouped into four: An extension of the time of construction of the Westchester; changes in the route; a relief from the then existing blockade in condemnation proceedings; and assurance of the validity of the Westchester franchise.

The monument is a gift of congress through the appropriation in 1906 of $50,000 and the ceremonies today were under the joint auspices of the government and an executive committee representing Irish-American societies throughout the country. They followed a parade of soldiers, sailors, marines and members of many Irish organizations.

Irish-American Sculptor.

The statue is the work of an Irish-American sculptor, John J. Boyle of New York, and shows the commodore in the naval uniform of the day, when as commander of Black Prince and director of American naval operations he wreaked havoc on British commerce. The right hand rests on the hilt of a sheathed sword and the left hangs amid the folds of a great cloak draped from the shoulders. The head is turned a little to the right and slightly upward and the poise and whole attitude is one of dashing gallantry. The statue stands ten feet high on a marble pedestal of sixteen and one-half feet on the front of which in high relief is sculptured a figure of victory on the prow of a ship. On the base is this inscription:

JOHN BARRY,
Commodore of the United States Navy
Born County Wexford, Ireland, 1745.
Died Philadelphia, 1803.

The likeness is based on the only portrait of Commodore Barry in existence, the work of Gilbert Stuart, now in the state house in Philadelphia, painted just before Barry's death at the age of 58. From this portrait the sculptor sought to produce a younger likeness representing the naval hero at the age of 40, when he was in the zenith of his career.

Two Days' Celebration.

Although the chief reason for the gathering of Irish-Americans in the national capital, the ceremonies today were but a part of a two-days' celebration intended to emphasize the achievements of men of Irish lineage in this country. Yesterday there was a pilgrimage to the tomb of Washington at Mount Vernon, where in paying respect to the father of his country prominent orators also lauded the deeds of Irish patriots in American history. Last night there was an Irish song concert rendered by the Glee club of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick of New York city and a number of eminent individual singers of Irish descent. Tonight the celebration closes with a banquet to be addressed by Governor O'Neill of Alabama and Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy.

One of the interesting features of the celebration was the assembling in Washington of members of the Barry family from all over the country and the formation of a National Barry association. Each member wore a special identification badge. Another feature was the gathering under one roof of the descendants of Irishmen born in county Wexford, the native heath of Commodore Barry.

NO MISTAKE IN THE GUNMEN'S EXECUTION

Lefty Louie's Widow Testifies at Becker's Second Trial.

New York, May 16.—A recess today in the trial of Charles E. Becker, former police lieutenant, accused as the instigator of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, halted until Monday the second presentation of the case.

District Attorney Whitman announced yesterday that he expected to finish the presentation of the state's case on Monday, and the defense probably will complete its rebuttal by the middle of the week. From this a verdict may be expected by a week from today.

Until yesterday the story of the alleged plot for the murder of Rosenthal had been given but few new touches, and the testimony of Rose, corroborated by Vallon and Webber, remained as the chief evidence upon which District Attorney Whitman based his case against Becker. Then, however, Mr. Whitman sprang a surprise by calling Mrs. Lillian Rosenberg, widow of "Lefty Louie," one of the four gunmen executed on April 13 last for his part in the killing of Rosenthal.

Mrs. Rosenberg admitted that her testimony at the trial of the gunmen had little or no basis of truth, but declared that she had so testified to save her husband from the electric chair. In making this admission, and in telling under oath of the meeting in her flat between her husband, the other gunmen and Rose, when the murder of Rosenthal was planned, she made it appear certain that no mistake had been made in the conviction of the gunmen, of whom her husband was one.

ART COMMISSION PLAN FOR ST. LOUIS

Would Have Authority Over Plans for Public Buildings.

St. Louis, Mo., May 16.—A municipal art commission is planned in a bill introduced in the council, the upper branch of the local municipal assembly, last night. If the bill passes, the indorsement of the commission, which will be composed of nine members, will be necessary to erect, alter or relocate public structures or monuments. The commission's approval or disapproval of any plans will, however, have to be submitted to the municipal assembly and the board of public improvements within sixty days after a question is submitted, or the commission will be powerless to interfere.

Women Resist Efforts to Keep Order at Strike Scene.

Wakefield, Mass., May 16.—A large crowd which had gathered today near the furniture factory of the Heywood Bros. & Wakefield company, the scene of rioting yesterday and last night, was driven from the streets by the police. In the crowd were many women, some of whom resisted the order to move away from the factory.

A small number of workmen reported for work when the gates were opened for the day. They were escorted by police and were not molested.

FARM SPECIAL WILL LEAVE DULUTH MONDAY

Everything is in readiness for the fourth agricultural special train which will cover the Duluth & Iron Range railroad lines next week, and the week following. The trip is under the joint auspices of the agricultural department of the university of Minnesota and the railroad company. The train will leave Duluth Monday and return Saturday, May 30.

Among the instructors in agricultural work who will accompany the train will be: K. D. Van Wagenen, St. Louis county agricultural agent; Prof. N. E. Chapman of the university agricultural department; Miss Mary L. Bull, Miss. S. M. Rowe, A. B. Hostetter, A. J. McGuire, R. I. Griffin, Fred Ward, Mark Thompson, W. A. Dickinson and N. A. Young.

The itinerary of the trip is announced as follows: Palmers, Monday, May 18; Two Harbors, Tuesday, May 19; Fairbanks, Wednesday, May 20; Embarrass, Thursday, May 21; Biwabik, Friday, May 22; Iron Junction, Saturday, May 23; Sunday at Meadowlands, May 24; Forbes, Monday, May 25; Kelsey, Tuesday, May 26; Alborn, Wadnesday, May 27; Saginaw, Thursday, May 28; Munger, Friday, May 29; Proctor, Saturday, May 30.

JURY IS DRAWN IN MALPRACTICE CASE

A jury was drawn in Judge Dancer's division of the district court yesterday afternoon to try the $10,000 suit brought by Mathew Alexander against Drs. H. E. Wunder and William Goldsworthy for alleged malpractice. Alexander testified that he was not given proper treatment when he went to the office of the defendants during the month of January, 1913, while suffering from septic poisoning in his arm. Alexander claims that he had a woodsman's hospital ticket, which entitled him to receive proper treatment at their hands. He alleges that Dr. Wunder, who attended him, made only a superficial examination when he should have operated on his arm. Later another surgeon operated on his arm, but not in time to prevent a permanent impairment of the member, he claims. The trial will be resumed Monday morning.

FOUGHT TWO RATE BATTLES

Duluthians Opposed Cashman Law Rates on Twin City Business.

Hopeful That Tariffs Now Suspended Will Not Be Restored.

G. Roy Hall, traffic commissioner of the Commercial club, together with W. E. Magner of the D. G. Cutler company, and A. J. Levy, representing the Duluth Produce Exchange, returned this morning from St. Paul where hearings were held in two railroad cases in both of which Duluth is interested. The more important one was the application of the Cashman law on freight tariffs between Duluth and the Twin Cities and other parts of the state. This ore was heard before an examiner of the interstate commerce commission.

The other case was that before the state railroad and warehouse commission on the matter of the application of the various roads to be permitted to make joint rates. This was of minor interest to Duluth, the first mentioned being the chief one.

In the former case, the application of the Cashman distance tariff law to rates between Duluth and other parts of the state would mean an enormous increase, one that would discriminate against Duluth to a vital extent. The Duluthians present at the hearing fought it vigorously. The Twin Cities kept out of it, having had enough of Duluth's fighting ability demonstrated during the recent hearing on the rail-and-lake rate case.

"I do not attempt to forecast the action of the interstate commerce commission," said Mr. Hall this morning, "but it is my opinion that the suspended rates will not be restored. It is too clear a case of unfairness and discrimination to be permitted to go. We had some interesting sessions with W. G. Baird of the Northern Pacific and his testimony in the rail-and-lake case somewhat interfered with his effectiveness in the one at issue now. It was found that the rates from Duluth would be so much higher even with the short haul, that we could not compete with Chicago, which is a long haul. It is no use going into detail further than to illustrate with the matter of iron and steel products. The rate from Chicago to St. Paul, a distance of 400 miles, would be 14 cents; on the same products the rate from Duluth to St. Paul, a distance of 150 miles, would be 16 6-10 cents. That is a fair illustration of the condition all down the line. The result is too obviously unfair to let one believe that the interstate commerce commission is going to permit it."

The case was hard fought. It was expected that it would take only one day—last Monday—to dispose of it. The case was heard throughout Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, Wednesday being an adjournment day in order that the other hearing might be attended.

SHE "LIFTED" MR. EATON'S WATCH

But Eminently Respectable Matron Was Not a Pickpocket.

Guy Eaton came rushing down the steps of the Lyceum building shorily before noon today.

Mr. Eaton was in a hurry. His coat was flying, and his watch fob swung in the air.

Walking along the street was an elderly woman, of eminently respectable appearance, and wearing a long string of beads.

Mr. Eaton barely escaped a collision with her, and brushed her with his coat as he dodged past. A moment later he looked for his watch. It was gone, fob and all.

Mr. Eaton had a sudden "hunch."

He ran back and accosted the woman he had jjust passed.

"Madame you have my watch," said the gentlemanly commander of the nava lmilitia.

"Sir!" said the outraged matron.

"But you have, madame," persisted Mr. Eaton, and pointed to his timepiece hanging from the string of beads.

Apologies on both sides.

WOULD CONFINE AID TO DULUTH

Dr. Murphy Says Sanitariums of This State Need All Subscriptions.

Police Surgeon I. J. Murphy this morning gave out a statement similar to that of Chief Troyer, in which he warns Duluthians against aiding tuberculosis sanitariums in other parts of the country. There are enough in Duluth and Minnesota that need public aid, he said, without going out of the state with the subscriptions.

"I have also received warnings against certain institutions that are claiming to be operating in all parts of the country," said Dr. Murphy this morning. "I also understand a field nurse is now working in Duluth for a children's sanitarium in New Mexico.

"It would be a good plan, in my opinion, to arrest these field workers on a charge of operating without licenses and see what can be done to them with our laws. Maybe we will be able to create a law covering such a condition, if an arrest proves we have no ordinance regulating the collecting of funds or selling of magazines."

Suicide at Brainerd.

RAPID PROGRESS ON PAVING JOB

City Will Lay Concrete on Superior Street Next Week.

James Preston, who is superintending the paving of West Superior street between Fifteenth and Thirtieth avenues, expects to begin laying the concrete foundation on the lower side of the thoroughfare Tuesday or Wednesday of next week.

He is pushing the job ahead rapidly. In order to keep ahead of him with its share of the work the street car company's crew is working day and night. Preston has about 100 men under him.

The city will use most of the material which is being removed. Part of the excavation will be placed in the gulch at Forty-third avenue west where the bridge will be replaced by a concrete culvert and fill. At Fortieth avenue west, which was filled last year, the tar macadam has been placed on the surface. It is stated that the pieces amalgamate and form a serviceable surface. Some of the macadam will be stored away for future use of the street maintenance division.

Under the macadam is a large amount of coarse crushed rock, which is being used by the maintenance division. Part of it has been placed on West Third street for surfacing and will be covered by finer crushed rock. The rest will be piled in a convenient place and utilized later. It is too coarse to be used in the concrete foundation.

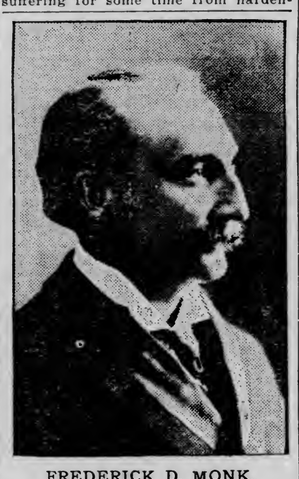
ASK RAILROADS FOR STEAMSHIP DATA

Senate Passes Resolution Extending Commerce Commission Power.

Washington, May 16.—The senate today passed a resolution empowering the interstate commerce commission to call upon the railway lines for data regarding their interests, direct or indirect, in steamship lines. The resolution was proposed by Senator Sheppard.

OBITUARY

F. D. Monk, former minister of public works in the Dominion cabinet, died in Montreal, May 15. He had been suffering for some time from hardening of the arteries. Mr. Monk had been for thirty years prominent in the political history of Canada.



FREDERICK D. MONK.

Matthew M. Riley, formerly a leading Wisconsin Democrat, later prominent Prohibitionist, died at the county hospital in Milwaukee, Wis., May 15. Mr. Riley is well known throughout Wisconsin and Upper Michigan.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bonnemort, known throughout the West as the cattle and sheep queen of Utah, died at her home in Salt Lake City, Utah, May 15. Mrs. Bonnemort went to Utah from Scotland in 1865 at the age of 20 years and immediately engaged in the cattle and sheep business with great success. Later she became identified with the real estate business in Salt Lake, which with her cattle ventures netted her a fortune computed at $2,000,000.

A. B. Easton, one of the pioneer newspaper men of Minnesota, died in Stillwater May 15 of old age. He was 86 and came to Stillwater fifty-seven years ago. Up to two weeks ago he enjoyed good health. The surviving children are W. E. Easton, editor of the Stillwater Gazette, Mrs. W. C. Masterman, Mrs. Gertrude Doe and Charles L. Easton of Milwaukee.

Michael Nugent, 91 years old, is dead at the home of his son, M. J. Nugent, in Milwaukee. He went to Minnesota in 1853 as a contractor and helped to erect some of the buildings at Fort Snelling. He was active in scouting for twelve years during the Indian outbreak. At one time he owned the largest farm in Minnesota, near Sauk Center. Before going to Milwaukee his home was at Anoka, Minn., and his body will be sent there for interment.

Capt. Lovilo N. Holmes, a distinguished officer of the Civil war, is dead at Mankato, Minn. He was born in New York state in 1822 and moved to Minnesota in 1858, and to Mankato the following year and resided there ever since. At the beginning of the Civil war he enlisted as a private in Company H, Second Minnesota volunteers, and after serving four years was discharged with the rank of captain. He was in several skirmishes and battles and received praise from his commanding officer for a heroic defense made by himself and fourteen noncommissioned officers and privates of Company H, near Nolinsville, Tenn., on Feb. 15, 1863. This little body of troops withstood an attack of two companies of Confederate cavalry, numbering 125, without loss. Several of these had enlisted from Mankato. After the close of war Capt. Holmes returned to Mankato and was engaged in different lines of business until his health failed several years ago. His wife and one daughter, Mrs. Myrtle Campbell of Spokane, survive him.

CONSTANCE HALL AS ST. GEORGE, AND THE DRAGON.

Bryn Mawr college held its annual May day performance May 9. This was the fourth May day festival. The first was in 1900, the second in 1906 and the third in 1910. Each time the spectacle was elaborated. The rehearsals begin early in March, every student having some part in the performance. The producer is Elizabeth Daly of the class of 1901. This year's performance included a pageant, a sword play, "Robin Hood," "The Old Wives' Tale," "Campaspe" and "Noah's Flood," a mystery. Lucile Davidson appeared as Alexander.

One of the features of the festival was the play of St. George and the dragon. Constance Hall took the part of St. George and made a very manly-looking knight.

GOETHALS SUPREME IN THE CANAL ZONE

Can Pardon and Reprieve, Commute Sentences and Remit Fines.

Washington, May 16.—The widest authority in the enforcement of and punishment of offenses against the law in the canal zone has been conferred upon Col. Goethals by President Wilson. In an executive order, the governor of the Panama canal zone is empowered to grant pardons and reprieves for offenses against the laws and regulations, commute sentences and remit fines.

NEARLY HALF OF FUND RAISED

Around the Country Flight From Duluth Likely To Be Made.

The sum of $2,200 has been raised to apply on the $5,000 fund needed to assure the hydro-aeroplane flight from Duluth to San Francisco, by way of the Panama canal.

Committees from the Rotary club and the Midsummer Festival committee have been working on the project this week, and they have secured subscriptions for the above amount, with prospects of another $1,000 or $1,500. It is believed that all of the money needed will be subscribed next week, and the aviator, Murrell Ellis, is expected to leave about the middle of the week for Los Angeles to get the machine. The trip is to be made to advertise Duluth industries and to urge the people in every city visited to go to the San Francisco exposition by way of Duluth and attend the midsummer festival here next year.

E. J. Filiatrault, C. H. Dunning and A. C. Klenly comprise the Rotary club committee which has been active in raising the fund.

ROYAL PRIEST HAS BEEN PREACHING IN PARIS

PRINCE MAX OF SAXONY.

Prince Max of Saxony is the only royal priest. Recently he has been preaching in Paris. Various sensational reports concerning Prince Max have been in circulation. One attributed his withdrawal from the world to a love disappointment. The fact is, that Prince Max entered the priesthood because he found it was his vocation. He was for several years curate in a modest church in the East end of London. He is connected at present with St. Julien le Pauvre, a Greek Catholic church in Paris.

Blind-Pigger Caught.

Pearl Hacey, 508 Tower avenue was the first victim of the new "blind pig" ordinance. She was arrested Thursday evening on a charge of selling liquor without a license by Detective Galvin. In police court yesterday afternoon she was given the minimum sentence and fine, amounting to $100. The maximum for the first offense is $500. In case of a second offense she is liable to a fine of from $500 to $1,000.

Injured While Wrestling.

A broken hand and a wrenched knee were sustained by Martin Suradel during a wrestling match with a friend at the Allouez ore dock yesterday noon. The men were spending the noon hour in a friendly bout when Suradel lost his footing and fell off the dock. He was taken to St. Mary's hospital for treatment.

Sidewalk Contracts.

At a meeting of the city commission this morning contracts were awarded for the laying of about four miles of concrete sidewalks. Most of the improvement will be made in the East End.

Sealed Verdict.

A sealed verdict in the law suit brought by William M. Trichtler, doing business under the name of the Trichtler Electric company, against the Gogebic Steam Boiler Works was reached by a jury in Judge Fesler's division of the district court last evening. It will be opened and read in court Monday morning.

Trichtler sued for $843.91, claimed to be due him as a balance on his account with the company for his services under a contract to equip the Duluth Boiler Works plant with electrical apparatus. The defendant concern denies the liability and counterclaims $746.41 damages for alleged defective installation.

COMING WEDDING OF HEIRESS EXCITES INTEREST OF GOTHAM

MISS HAMERSLEY AND SAMUEL HINKLEY.

The approaching wedding of Miss Katherine Livingstone Hamersley to Samuel Hinkley is the most interesting event on society's calendar. Miss Hamersley came of age not long ago and came into a great fortune of whose existence she had been kept in ignorance. Her father and mother died when she was a little girl, leaving her many millions. Her guardian determined to keep her in ignorance of the fact that she was a great heiress, and it was only when she came into her majority that she was informed that she was one of the richest women in New York city. This snapshot of Miss Hamersley was made at the society race meet at Hewlett's.

FIRST CARGO OF CUYUNA ORE

Northern Pacific Docks at Superior Will Load Boat Monday.

The first cargo of ore from the Cuyuna range to be loaded for eastern points at the Northern Pacific docks in Superior will be put aboard ship next Monday. It has not yet been decided what vessel will receive the first cargo.

Both the Northern Pacific and Soo docks are receiving the Cuyuna product in fair volume. The Northern Pacific is receiving about fifty cars daily and has already taken in about 200 carloads this spring.

Only the product from the Barrows mine near Brainerd is being received by the Northern Pacific. Ore is expected to be coming in from new mines at Deerwood and Ironton in a short time.

MORE WRECKAGE FROM THE NOBLE

Two Hatches of the Lost Steamer Float in at Allouez Docks.

Two hatches from the steamer Benjamin Noble, which was lost during the recent gale over the upper lakes, floated into shore near the Allouez docks yesterday afternoon. They were discovered by a switchman on one of the ore trains unloading at the docks.

No message was discovered among the debris, but the name of the lost steamer could be distinctly seen upon both hatches. This additional wreckage floating into the Duluth-Superior harbor strengthens the opinion of many that the wreck occurred near the Head of the Lakes.

LOWER LAKE TRAFFIC LIGHT

Supply of Cargoes Does Not Show the Expected Improvement.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 16.—Unless there is a decided change in the freight market on the lakes within the next ten days or two weeks a number of independent ships will be forced to lay up.

Ore shippers are not selling ore and a canvass of the market reveals little hope for the immediate future. The furnaces that have only small reserve stocks report very little business booked for future delivery and are not inclined to buy ore merely because it is cheap. The outlook for ore contract is poorer now than it was the day ore prices were announced.

Before the market crystalized and a reduction of price was being considered, it was believed furnace interests were about ready to contract. Reservations have been made liberally, but a reservation is merely an option which means nothing if the prospective purchaser does not place an order.

Unless there is a big improvement in the ore business it is not likely much contract chartering will be done for several weeks at least. It would not be surprising if some of the shippers did not make any vessel contracts, but depended upon wild tonnage. Some of the shippers are inclined to believe they will be forced to do this until the middle of the season if not all season.

Grain brokers were not in position to make firm offers yesterday. Figuring was done on the basis of 1 cent from Lake Superior to Buffalo and ⅞ of a cent from Duluth to Georgian bay. A charter was reported at the later rate.

The fleet that is now in commission has caught up with the coal on the docks and tonnage is more plentiful than cargoes. The shipments from the districts that are operating have been heavy and will probably not be any heavier for some time to come. With surplus out of the way, boats will not be able to run light for coal and keep going steadily henceforth. There are a number of coal cargoes in vessels that were scheduled to sail early in the month that have not left Lake Erie. Some of these vessels will not go out before June 1.

It is evident that there are too many boats in commission and some of them will be idle too much of the time for the owners to operate them.

BOTTSFORD LIGHTERED AND CONTINUES TRIP.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—It was necessary to lighter 285,000 feet of lumber from the schooner Bottsford here today. Repairs were finished this morning and the boat proceeded to Cleveland at noon with the remainder of her cargo in tow of the steamer George King. The lumber left here will be called for on a later trip.

Will Raise the Price.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 16.—Bids have been opened in the office of the Salvage association in the Rockefeller building for the raising and delivering into port of the steamer Charles S. Price, which turned turtle and sank eleven miles north of Port Huron in the big gale of Nov. 9-10 last fall.

The Price lies with her decks down in about seventy-five feet of water. To raise her will require not only lifting her off the bottom, but also righting her.

The bids were based on a no-cure-no-pay proposition, with the underwriters retaining the option of paying a lump sum or a percentage of the value of the property saved.

WHAT OTHER CITIES ARE DOING

SOME cities are abolishing cemeteries. Last December the board of supervisors of San Francisco passed an ordinance removing all the cemeteries within the city. The ordinance required all lot owners to make removals within six months from the time it became effective. Written notices were served upon them to this effect and the lot owners who failed to make their removals within a certain length of time had to pay the city for making the removals. The expense in this instance was borne by the lands as they were cleared. Any surplus that was left was divided among the lot owners according to the number of feet they owned in the cemeteries.

One cemetery was removed from Duluth some years ago. Parts of caskets and some human bones were later uncovered by men digging a sewer in Fifth street. The present cemeteries, it is believed, will not be moved for several generations, if at all. With one exception they are located on the outskirts of the city.

LITTLE IS APPOINTED

Named to Succeed to Tischer on the County Board.

Eleven Candidates Now in Field in the Second District.

Thomas H. Little, former deputy collector of United States customs for the Duluth district, was today chosen to fill the unexpired term of the late John Tischer, as member of the county board from the Second commissioner's district.

Mr. Little was elected at a meeting of the various town chairmen of the Second district with Mayor William I. Prince this morning at the courthouse. He was chosen on the first ballot by a vote of 4 to 2. Robert H. McQuade and Frank Mox each received one vote.

The board of appointment consisted of Mayor Prince of the city of Duluth; A. J. Pfautz, chairman of the town of Duluth; Albert Olson, chairman of the town of Lakewood; Ignace Jazdzewski, chairman of the town of Gnesen; Edward Arntsen, chairman of the town of Normanna and R. A. Mannheim, chairman of the town of Rice Lake.

One Member Absent.

The board was called to order at 11 o'clock this morning but no business was transacted until 11:55 owing to the absence of Edward Arntsen, chairman of the town board of the town of Normanna, from the meeting. He was present at the courthouse shortly before the meeting was called but could not be found at 11 o'clock. The sheriff and the county attorney were called in and consulted on the proposition of going ahead without the representative from Normanna or causing him to be brought in under a bench warrant or other legal process.

Arntsen solved the question when he walked into the county board room at 11:55. The meeting which followed was a short one. Mayor Prince was elected chairman of the appointing board and R. A. Mannheim was selected as secretary. An informal ballot was taken which resulted in four votes for Mr. Little and one vote each for Frank Mox and Robert McQuade. A motion prevailed to make the informal ballot a formal one and Mr. Little was declared appointed.

The term of the late John Tischer, whose death occurred a few days ago, will expire Dec. 31, when a successor to be chosen at the November general election will take office. Mr. Little is one of the candidates to succeed himself.

The other candidates who made application to the appointing board for the position were: W. W. Sanford, Thomas Holder, Robert H. McQuade, Edward Totman, Martin Dillon, John H. LaVaque, J. E. Cooley, A. G. Osman, Dan McDonald, Martin Martinson, Henry Gujer, John Christenson, Edward Barnhardt, A. A. Fider, O. G. Larson, Frank Cox, Andrew J. Anderson, and Frank Mox.

Eleven Candidates.

A new candidate for the nomination for the office at the June primaries appeared this afternoon when Bert Krisback, 823 East Seventh street, filed with County Auditor Odin Halden. Eleven candidates are now in the race.

Mr. Little, who was appointed to the county board today, has lived in Duluth many years and has a wide acquaintance in his district. He was candidate for the office several years ago but was defeated.

SAYS ACCUSED HAVE TOO MANY RIGHTS

Wisconsin Chief Justice Would Amend Constitutional Provision.

La Crosse, Wis., May 16.—Repeal of the constitutional right which forbids compelling an accused person to testify against himself, was advocated by Chief Justice John B. Winslow of the Wisconsin supreme court, in a speech here last night.

"Why shouldn't a criminal be compelled to incriminate himself, if guilty?" he asked. "If he is innocent it can do him no harm to take the witness stand. We are giving the criminal artificial protection. We give him a good long start and then see if we can catch him."

The chief justice described the system of courts in Wisconsin as "a mess," with the jurisdiction of one overlapping the others, and urged the establishment of a uniform system.

Men's Diseases

The more medical science advances, the more apparent becomes the folly of employing harsh and dangerous measures in attempting to cure the ailments of men. Drastic dosing and useless cutting have done irreparable injury in thousands of cases. We cure all special diseases of men promptly and permanently by painless methods that cannot possibly produce undesirable results.

OUR TREATMENT.

Functional derangement is not a disease. To stimulate activity by the use of powerful tonics is an easy matter, and such results are merely temporary drug effects. We have in our service a powerful X-Ray and High-Potential-frequency machine. We will build up your broken down system quicker than gallons of medicines and a surgeon's knife could do. Our treatment is local and constitutional, and corrects abnormal conditions of that vital center. Our cures are real cures and permanent.

Many years of successful practice as Doctors in Men's Diseases justifies every claim we make. We promise our patients a complete cure in every instance, and in cases where we cannot safely make this promise, we positively refuse to treat.

DEPENDABLE TREATMENT.

Our treatment is absolutely painless, and perfect results can be depended upon in every instance. We do no cutting, burning or dilating, like is usually done in piles and wormlike veins.

VARICOSE VEINS.

Absolutely painless treatment that cures completely. Investigate our method. It is the only thoroughly scientific treatment for this disease being employed. Instead of cutting the worm-like masses, we dissolve them and remove the cause forever.

BLOOD POISON.

No dangerous minerals to drive the virus to the interior, but remedies that remove the last poisonous taint and clean out and clear up the system. "606" is given after the system is thoroughly cleansed of the poisons that circulate in the blood. No cure is perfect, no matter if a patient had ten injections of "606."

STOMACH TROUBLES

have the least attention from patient and doctor. Last week a man came in our office who thought he had a little dyspepsia, and it proved to be a cancer. Come in, we will cure you.

"Down on the levee," runs the song, "see them shufflin' along."

"Down on the local levee there is little shuffling along—it is the penultimate in repose; the very anthithesis of action.

At the end of Sixth avenue west is a jutty of land that runs out and mingles freely with the bay. Originally this land was intended for building purposes. Later the original purpose was amended or rescinded, and it became a dumping place. During the last few days its purpose has been further amplified by making the strip of land into an eating and sleeping place.

On the east side of the levee are sand piles. On the piles of sand are sleeping men. The sun smiles down upon the sand piles at a benign and friendly angle of about 45 degrees, and sleeping on the sand, warmed by the huge radiator of mother nature, sleep during the somewhere busy day, the idle men of the city.

The noises of the marts of trade disturb not the sleepers.

Fires smoulder and flame at various spots upon the levee. Hung over some of the fires are kettles and in the kettles are many things. As charity covers a multitude of sins, so likewise does food cover a multitude of condiments.

Card Games in Progress.

There were several card games in progress. This place is the clearing houses of industry. As the totals of the industrial clearing house indicate the pulse of trade, so does the human total of this clearing house of the idle in inverse order indicate the pulse of the market for human labor.

There were about fifty men in the camp today. Of that number half were sleeping. On the piles of sands, on old rafters, on piles of lumber and upon garments converted into couches, slept the sons of toil.

On clothes lines hung clothes that had been washed in the water of the bay, drying in the first warm rays of our belated spring sun. The profound peace of inactivity hung like a pall over the camp; a bustler would have seemed as incongruous as a Mexican general fired by real patriotism.

From the out of the way places come the wanderers. The searcher for work reports of the conditions outside. The news from the world of labor is conveyed by word of mouth.

"It's tough," said one of the campers. "It is hard to get work. I've been around and there's nothing doin'. I beat it down here to meet some of the boys."

The camp is within call of the docks It is near the employment offices. In some mysterious way the news of the local labor situation is known in the levee camp. Men drowsily look up, yawn, stretch, remark that the jobs are filled for today, and turn over and sleep.

Men Come and Go.

Men come and depart. The road claims them. The men of today may be gone tomorrow, and in their place will be new comers. It is the brake and rod depot of our city; those who travel on the cushions of the trains alight at the depot; those who walk or ride brake beams or brake rod, prefer to flight in the vicinity of the camp upon the levee.

Some of the men bring food to the camp and contribute to the commissary department. The kettle concoction is like the Arab horse, its ancestry being difficult to describe.

The sun is the Big Ben of the camp; when it goes down and its rays become less warm, the men awake and bestir themselves. Like the people of the Latin countries, the middle of the day is the popular time for the siesta.

Some of the nerve specialists and psychologists make the claim that the American people don't get sufficient rest; that we have forgotten how to repose. They should visit the camp on the levee—and yet the men in the camp say that they are looking for work, and that it is no fault of theirs that idleness is their present role in the eternal order of things.

RUMOR OF BREAK WAS UNFOUNDED

Retail Merchants of Superior Meet Duluth Jobbers on Friendly Terms.

The jobbers of Duluth take decided exception to the article appearing in this morning's paper to the effect that the Superior merchants, at a meeting held at the Hotel Superior last evening, gave any intimation that they would quit Duluth jobbers, unless the latter urged the building of an approach to the bridge at New Duluth.

A prominent wholesaler when interviewed this morning, made the following statement:

"The conference of the Duluth jobbers with the Superior retail merchants, held last evening at the Hotel Superior, was one of the most friendly ever enjoyed by the two associations. The invitation was extended to the Duluth concerns for the purpose of talking over matters of mutuel interest and to discuss freely several problems for both sides of the bay.

"The mater of the bridge approach was discussed and the whole situation placed before the Duluth jobbers for their consideration in a very frank, friendly manner. There is the best of feeling prevailing between the retail merchants of Superior and the wholesale men of Duluth, and the latter are big enough and broad enough to realize fully that the merchants of Superior will not present any proposition which is not at least entitled to the greatest possible consideration. As a matter of fact the interests of Duluth and Superior are very largely identical; there is lots of room for each to grow and expand and there is every reason that in the development which will naturally come to the Head of the Lakes, that each side should pull together and work together for that which will be to the greatest good of the greatest number. Any other position would be narrow and not in keeping with the broad-minded principles characteristic of our people."

FIRE IN STREET CAR.

Blaze Ties Up Traffic for Nearly Half an Hour.

Fire starting from a short circuit in a street car on Superior street about 6 o'clock last evening tied up traffic for nearly half an hour and attracted a large crowd of people on their way home from work.

The street car caught fire just as it passed Lake avenue, bound west. The blaze scorched the side of the car and slightly damaged the flooring.

"ASK MR. HANNA" ON THE JOB AGAIN

The information bureau, conducted by M. M. Hanna last year, will be opened to the public for this season on June 1 on the ground floor of the Manhattan building, 410 West Superior street. Mr. Hanna has just issued his booklet containing information of every description relating to Duluth and nearby points.

The book is primarily for the enlightenment of summer tourists, and gives a synopsis of practically everything of interest to tourists as is shown by the slogan "See Duluth with Mr. Hanna" and "Ask Mr. Hanna."

M. M. HANNA.

Among the features of the book are lists of all the water and rail routes coming into Duluth, all the principal summer resorts, excursion schedules, principal buildings, hotels, places of amusement, and information concerning the various city organizations, officials, etc.

Mr. Hanna is well pleased with the interest shown in the bureau last year. More than 5,000 persons called last summer, he says. The new booklet will be sent to the hotels of all the principal cities of the country and also to all lake vessels.

PROMINENT YOUTHS KILL EACH OTHER

Kentuckians Meet While One Is Escorting Woman Friend.

Lexington, Ky., May 16.—Word reached here today that Hubbard Miniard, aged 17, son of County Attorney J. B. Miniard of Leslie county, and Joseph Hensley, a member of a prominent Leslie county family, had killed each other in a duel near Hyden.

According to the report, Miniard was escorting Mrs. Daisy Adams to a social function. They met Hensley and a quarrel arose. Both men drew pistols and each killed the other. Mrs. Adams was slightly wounded.

ITALIAN FLAG GIVEN INSULT BY SEAMEN

Secretary Bryan Called on By Ambassador Confalonieri.

Washington, May 16.—Mr. Confalonieri, the Italian ambassador, called on Secretary of State Bryan today in regard to a reported insult to the Italian flag by two American seamen in Philadelphia, May 14. The flag was displayed in front of a barber shop at the time of memorial exercises over American Vera Cruz victims, and it is thought the seamen mistook it for a Mexican flag. The flag was pulled to the ground and trampled upon. Mr. Bryan assured the ambassador that the seamen, if found guilty, probably would be punished. The answer was accepted as satisfactory.

OPPOSES NEW TRIAL OF DYNAMITE CASES

Federal Attorney Argues Against Tveitmoe and Two Others.

Chicago, May 16.—Charles W. Miller, former United States district attorney for Indiana, who prosecuted the dynamite conspiracy case against a number of labor leaders in 1912, appeared again for the government today in the United States circuit court of appeals, when the rehearing on the granting of new trials of Olaf A. Tveitmoe of San Francisco, Richard H. Houlihan of Chicago and William Bernhardt of Cincinnati, came up for oral argument.

Originally thirty of the convicted men filed appeals for new trials. The United States circuit court of appeals upheld the convictions of twenty-four, and granted new trials for six. As to three of the latter—Tveitmoe, Houlihan and Bernhardt—the government requested a rehearing, which was granted.

Conspiracy Established.

Miller said the court had properly held that the general conspiracy had been established and that twenty-four of the defendants were directly connected with the conspiracy to transport dynamite and nitro-glycerine upon passenger trains. The evidence, he said, must be largely circumstantial, but that "every link in the chain of circumstances is present," and that the verdict of the jury "is sustained by substantial evidence on every material point;" that a clear prima facie case was established against Tveitmoe, Houlihan and Bernhardt.

The government lawyer next took the case of the three defendants individually, touching on the evidence brought out in the trial of the case, and argued that the testimony was such that the defendants were not entitled to new trials.

Elijah Zolline for the defense replied that the three men had not been convincingly connected with the conspiracy at the trial, and were entitled to a new hearing.

SHOOTS HIS WIFE THEN KILLS SELF

Farmer South of Iron River, Wis., Ends Family Troubles.

Iron River, Wis., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ben Roe, aged 50, a farmer living in Barnes township, about fifteen miles south of here, shot his wife twice this morning about 7:30, then going to the barn turned the weapon, a pistol, upon himself, and died instantly. The woman, at last accounts, is alive and may recover. The sheriff and deputy coroner have gone to the scene of the tragedy.

Attacked Wife Before.

The couple have had some trouble for several months and a few months ago Roe is said to have attacked her with a knife, but she escaped and left him. She had recently returned and the trouble was renewed. It is said that Roe was intoxicated when he entered the house this morning and, pulling the pistol, began firing at his wife. She fell and then he fled to the barn, killing himself. They have several children.

PESTILENCE FEARED IN MAZATLAN, MEX.

Police Are Disarmed, Possibly to Prevent Revolt in City.

On Board U. S. S. California, Mazatlan, Mex., May 15, by wireless to San Diego, Cal., May 16.—An outbreak of pestilence was feared today because Mazatlan's water supply still is cut off by the besieging rebels, and sickness is increasing with alarming rapidity.

The governor of Mazatlan disarmed the police today on the plea of lack of ammunition for the defense of the city. His real motive, it is believed, was fear of internal revolt.

Gen. Obregon, commander of the Constitutionalists, is apparently working southward for the purpose of cutting the railroad which connects Manzanillo and Mexico City, before attempting other operations. If he succeeds in shutting off munitions of war, it is thought the west coast cities will fall without further fighting.

Obregon has given full assurance that American and foreign-owned property in the territory of Tepic will be protected.

KOREAN TO DIE FOR STRYKER MURDER

Appeals From Life Sentence and Is Sentenced to Hang.

Tokio, May 16.—Tomitaro Watanabe, a Korean, was sentenced to death today for the murder two months ago of Dr. Edgar De Mott Stryker, formerly of Raritan, N. J., who was head of the hospital near Holkol, Korea.

The murderer was condemned by the criminal court on May 10 to life imprisonment. He appealed and the superior court not only upheld the decision, but also changed the sentence.

On the delivery of the judgment, Watanabe recited a poem of his own composition, entitled "Farewell to the World."

AMMUNITION FOR TROOPS EN ROUTE.

New York, May 16.—The steamship Panaman, recently chartered by the war department, sailed today from her pier in South Brooklyn for Galveston.

The Panaman carried ammunition consisting chiefly of shells for field pieces, and small arms and foodstuffs for the troops. Fourteen ordnance experts from the Springfield arsenal under command of Capt. Maish were passengers on the steamer. They will join Gen. Funston's brigade.

HEARS ABOUT TENT COLONY

Court Martial in Colorado Continues Inquiry Into Deaths.

Million-Dollar Bond Issue Is Passed By Legislature.

Denver, Colo., May 16.—Further testimony concerning the manner in which the Ludlow tent colony was destroyed and a number of strikers, women and children, met death, was expected today at the trial of Maj. Patrick J. Hamrock at the general court-martial.

Lieut. K. E. Linderfelt and Capt. Carson were expected to testify when the court convened at the state rifle range. Lieut. Linderfelt is charged with having broken a rifle over the head of Louis Tikas, a Greek strike leader who was killed during the fighting.

Capt. Carson commanded Troop A, which, strikers declare, was composed chiefly of former mine guards and employes of the coal operators.

Tell of Shooting.

Tikas (Louis the Greek), James Fyler and Frank Rebino, Ludlow strikers, were shot and killed on the night of April 20 while running from the military lines toward the burning tent colony, directly in the line of fire between the militia and strikers, according to testimony of Sergeant F. N. Cullom and Private Frank M. Mason yesterday.

The strikers had been taken prisoners, said the witnesses. Cullom and Privates Mason and Pacheco were taking them to the station. The prisoners escaped when the soldiers sought cover under fire.

Ran Between Lines.

"Three figures ran out in front of the lines when the strikers opened fire on us," said Cullom. "Our men fell down behind the tracks and returned the fire. In the light of the burning colony, I saw one man fall about sixty yards from the tracks; another fell a little farther down the road and the third threw up his hands and fell forward just as he reached the southwestern corner of the colony.

"I was about twenty feet ahead keeping away a crowd of civilians. They were yelling at Tikas and he was talking back. Some were saying 'Kill him' and others said 'lynch him.'

"When the shooting started I couldn't get back to Tikas without going in front of the rifles of the men. I got down behind the tracks. Later I heard Tikas was dead."

Mason verified Cullom's testimony. The identity of the custodians of Fyler and Rebino was not brought out.

Bond Issue Adopted.

The Colorado house and senate have agreed on the report of the third conference committee on the military bond issue bill, and the measure as amended by the conference was finally adopted by both houses. The measure carries the emergency clause which guarantees its going into immediate effect and prevents its being referred.

It provides for a million-dollar bond issue to pay expenses that have been and may be incurred. The expenditure is left in the hands of a state auditing board composed of Governor Ammons, M. A. Leddy, state treasurer; Roady Kenehan, state auditor, and James B. Pearce, secretary of state.

The matter of determining whether detectives and mine guards under the pay of corporations who enlisted in the militia shall also receive military pay is left to this board.

No Compulsory Arbitration.

The senate killed the compulsory arbitration measure.

The Robinson resolution asking the governor to retire was defeated, securing only four votes.

The senate adopted a memorial addressed to President Wilson, requesting the president to intervene further in the strike situation by such methods as he considers best, and asking that the troops be retained in Colorado until a settlement of the strike has been effected.

CINCINNATI PLANING MILLS ARE CLOSED

Lack of Material Owing to Strike is Given as Cause.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 16.—Eleven hundred men were thrown out of employment here today when twenty planing mills closed their plants and it is estimated that between 5,000 and 6,000 more, including carpenters, teamsters, painters and members of various other trades affiliated with the building trades will be forced to stop work by next Tuesday as the result of being unable to obtain building material.

The mill owners say the plants were closed on account of a recent strike of carpenters which had so tied up work that they had very few orders and that they were in sympathy with the Master Builders' association, which is opposing the carpenters' strike.

The master builders, while agreeing to salary demands, refusing to agree to a provision which allows the carpenters to "reserve the right to reject all non-union made mill work."

EVELYN THAW HOPES TO BECOME A DANCER

Says She Realizes Audiences Are Attracted by Her Notoriety, But Hopes to Become Real Artist.

"It has required bottles and bottles of horse liniment and other kinds of liniment to make a stage dancer of me," said Evelyn Nesbit Thaw in her private car today. Mrs. Thaw was finishing a piece of apple pie as she uttered these remarks.

"I thought I could dance very easily on the stage. I had conceived the airy notion that it was no more difficult than ballroom dancing.

"Over in Paris we saw an American dance team doing the Turkey trot.

"'That's what I'll do,' I declared. "Right there it was decided that I would be a dancer.

"Of course I am serious. I realize that people—this goes for the women especially—come to see me because of certain events that have happened. I am not blind to this fact. Why lots of women cry, 'I thought she was a blonde.' I can hear them from the stage. They gape at me; they don't care in the least what I do—it's simply that I am Evelyn Thaw, once the wife of Harry Kendall Thaw.

"But really, you know, despite the aches and pains—muscular aches, you know; despite the fact that the horse liniment is a painful necessary; despite the fact that you really have to work, I like it and really desire to become a real dancer in the accepted sense of stage standards."

Mrs. Thaw was asked several questions regarding Harry Thaw.

She declared that her success in New York, in her belief, inspired Thaw to walk out of Matteawan; that he had many previous opportunities—and that he dearly loved the role of a martyr.

"Thaw would injure me," Mrs. Thaw declared, and when she made the declaration her expressive eyes widened as if she were gravely contemplating the consequence of the release of one of the most celebrated criminals in the world.

"I don't want to say whether in my opinion Thaw is insane. The family has had enough trouble. But—you know the state of New York is not spending immense sums of money for a mere whim."

Mrs. Thaw declares that she is serious—that stage dancing is considered by her as an art—that perfection can only be attended by hard work. Mrs. Thaw also says that she intends remaining on the stage, and that some day, with study and painstaking effort, she hopes to become a famous dancer —famous for her dancing alone.

Serious eyes, large and expressive are the dominant marks of distinction of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw. She is not a beautiful woman. She looks somewhat tired and her face occasionally reflects the tragic events that have marked her life since early girlhood.

A recent pension office report states that there were at the close of the last fiscal year 860,294 pensioners on the rolls, of whom 238 were widows of soldiers of the war of 1812. The last actual survivor of that war died in 1905, at the age of 105; the last surviving soldier of the Revolutionary war, died in 1869, aged 109 years.

DULUTHIANS ARE TAGGED

Estimated That 10,000 Citizens Subscribed to Tuberculosis Fund.

"Mamma Died of That," Says Little Chap and Buys Tag.

Almost 10,000 people were "tagged" today, and a fund, which has not yet been footed up is added to the amount that will be used to fight the dread white plague.

The campaign, which was made by scores of women, young, and not so young, was under the auspices of the Linnaea society, an organization formed for the purpose of furnishing funds to fight consumption.

The campaign today was more successful than was expected. It is claimed that 4,000 tags were printed and were sold before noon. When it was seen that they were diminishing rapidly another lot of 5,000 was ordered and they went like hot cakes. Many "good fellows," who could afford it but who disliked to "make a splurge," fearing that it might be thought that they were seeking to make too great a display of their resources, would find a group of the girls selling the tags and purchase one, giving liberally toward it, and then would shove the tag in their pockets and go through the same form with the next group, and so on down the line.

The girls showed themselves to be good saleswomen. They resorted to every means of disposing of their tickets, and the man who escaped was either a confirmed tight-wad or a good dodger.

At one of the corners three young women were congregated, looking for victims and they looked for the adult kind. A boy about 5 years of age—he could not have been more than 10 at the outside—came up and asked for a tag, digging into his pocket the while. One of the young women, noticing that the boy was none too well clothed offered to give him a tag and pay for it herself if necessary. He shook his head.

Mamma Died of That.

"No," he said, "I want to pay for it. Mamma died of that."

He indicated "that" by pointing out the word "tuberculosis" on the tag. He paid with five pennies and the young woman to whom he handed them swallowed hard a couple of times and then gave up the attempt to speak. All she could do was nod her head and pat his.

One man, evidently a stranger in the city, judging by the questions he asked, "stung" himself liberally and willingly. He was a "find" for the group of young women who got him. He had with him his wife, two little boys of about 4 years old, who looked like twins, were dressed alike and who were so "cute" as to attract attention by all passersby, and he was pushing in a carriage a baby who could not be more than a year old. When accosted the husband and father asked what it was about, and when he was explained he said, sure, he would buy. One of the young women handed him a tag.

He bought tags for all five and the baby crowed with delight when the tag began waving, blown by the wind, about its cherubic face. He paid 25 cents for each one.

"Jacks" Good Buyers.

Down in the district patronized by the noted lumber-jack character, sales were good, the "jacks" evidently feeling it an honor to buy from the pretty women who condescended to talk to them. Some of the boys were slightly tipsy, but they were uniformly polite and agreed to the purchase with heartiness.

One candidate for legislative honors was accosted by a woman who knew him by sight. She minced no words. Said she:

"Mr. So-and-so, I want a dollar for this tag; my husband has a vote in your district."

The candidate paid without a murmur and now wonders if the corrupt practices act applies.

One man found himself suddenly throttled in a metaphorical way. He was not dodging anybody; in fact was looking for some of the girls selling the tags so that he could be decorated and save further trouble. Two right pretty ones came along and he, being a bachelor and an admirer of feminine beauty, thought he had better purchase from them. They espied his lack of a badge about the same time and approached him, offering a badge. Suddenly one of them espied a Shrine button in his lapel. She pointed it out to the other and both produced from under their waists, attached to small neck chains, Shrine pendants. He had to pay what he had in his hand, which was more than he had intended. They were daughters of Shriners and are also members of the Shrine girls organization.

NEWSPAPER MEN OUSTED BY HUERTA

London Writer Is Branded as "Notorious American Spy."

International News Service Man Has Disappeared.

Vera Cruz, May 16.—Oliver Madox Hueffer, correspondent of the London Daily Express, has been expelled from Mexico City, although he was the bearer of a British passport.

Three times he was arrested in the capital on the allegation that he was a "notorious American spy." After his last release he received the order of expulsion, and arrived here on a refugee train today. He says no change has taken place in conditions in the capital so far as is apparent on the surface.

The refugee train brought in twenty Americans and a number of Mexicans. Among them was Andre Tridon, correspondent of the United Press, who had received warning that he had better leave the capital.

Doster Has Disappeared.

Edward D. Doster, correspondent of the International News Service, who had been arrested on several occasions and after his release ordered to report daily to the police—which he failed to do—could not be located in the capital.

The commission of naval officers which has been engaged in separating the prisoners confined in the fortress of San Juan de Ulua completed its work today. It released seventy-five Federal army recruits, as well as a number of prisoners guilty of minor offenses who, the commissioners thought, had been sufficiently punished. The liberated men, however, remained about the prison, where they were employed at light labor by the authorities, who in return gave them food and shelter.

To Aid Destitute.

Prof. Carlos V. Cusache of the naval academy at Annapolis, who is attached to Rear Admiral Badger's staff, today summoned a meeting of army and navy chaplains, the local clergy and prominent business men of the city, to determine some way of aiding the recruits who are destitute and have been cut off from their homes in the interior by the Federal lines.

It is regarded as certain that they will be picked up and forced into the army if they attempt to reach home. The remaining prisoners, who are charged with serious crimes, have been held in prison and are employed at hard labor in the drydock.

Friends said he had been suffering from neurasthenia and had recently threatened to end his life. Jacott was 34 years old. His father lives at Oakland, Cal.

IRONWOOD OFFICER IS SHOT BY NEGRO

Black Running Amuck Also Wounds Woman Before Being Taken.

Ironwood, Mich., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sam Lott, a negro from North Carolina, who was employed at Rusbolt's barber shop here, caused a panic on Main street at noon today. He became enraged when put out of a saloon and when Swan Hult, policeman, tried to arrest him he shot Hult through the neck. He then opened fire on the crowd and one bullet entered the hip of Mrs. Frieberg of Montreal, Wis., as she was getting off a street car. Nick Frank, chief of police, opened fire on Lott and wounded him in the hip. Lott was caught by W. H. Nancarrow and was finally lodged in jail. He was taken to Bessemer at once.

LOST MILLIONAIRE FOUND IN WINNIPEG.

Winnipeg, Man., May 16.—Thomas Ryan, a millionaire land owner who disappeared five years ago from his home in Marion, Ariz., has been located in a local hospital. For many months search for him has been conducted by detective agencies along the Pacific coast, in the Rockies and finally across the prairies. He is 60 years old and made a fortune in the sale of oil lands in Oklahoma in the late '80's. His physical condition is serious. He collapsed in a bank here while drawing money.

BRITISH TEAM IN VERY HARD LUCK

One of Players Decided On Dislocates Shoulder in Practice.

London, May 16.—Capt. H. A. Tomkinson, No. 1 of the British polo team selected to play at Meadowbrook for the international polo trophy, dislocated a shoulder while playing at Hurlingham this afternoon.

The challenging team was playing a four captained by Walter S. Buckmaster, and had a lead of four goals to two, when early in the fourth chukker, during an attack on Buckmaster's goal, Capt. Tomkinson collided with Lieut. Lord Wodehouse and met with his mishap.

Lord Wodehouse was thrown from his pony, but escaped with a severe shaking.

Whether the injury sustained by Capt. Tomkinson would prevent him from going to the United States was not immediately determined by the surgeon in attendance.

OUIMET ON GOLF

Advice From Champion to Beginners in the Game.

"The average school boy golfer becomes ambitious to join a golf or country club from the time that he takes part in an interscholastic tournament. He sees the members come in, go to their regularly assigned locker, sit down to a luncheon for which they merely sign a slip of paper, and do other things with an air of proprietorship that has a certain fascination. The school boy golfer, too, would be a member and enjoy all these privileges. He would like to rub elbows with men of prominence in the community—for in the golf and country clubs are to be found 'big' men, men of influence in the city, the state, or the country at large.

"Any youth who joins a golf or country club and who lays too much stress upon the privilege of merely signing checks for luncheons and such things, is apt to get a bit of a shock when those checks, like chickens, 'come home to roost.' They all have to be paid, sooner or later, so, if he is a golfer in moderate financial circumstances, he had better not be overgenerous with either himself or his friends in the early stages of his club life. This may sound a little like preaching, yet it is a fact that club life sometimes has an unfortunate influence upon a young man, especially if he gets started in the wrong way.

"On the other hand, for the young golfer who is willing to hold a modest place in the club, there are a host of advantages. There is no denying that in golf he does have the opportunity to mingle with the finest class of people, intellectually and socially, and, if he is properly observing and discreetly curious, he can learn a great deal in several directions, and in particular many things which will improve his game of golf.

"We know that on the other side of the Atlantic it is nothing unusual for even such great professionals as Vardon, Ray, Braid and Taylor to spend some of their time watching each other play. George Duncan, perhaps the most brilliant golfer in the world, says unrestrictedly that his game is a composite of the styles of such players as those named above. Therein is his own confession that what he is as a golfer is largely the result of watching the play of the masters.

"I can advance no stronger argument for driving home the idea that it pays to study the strokes of good players as well as to practice to perfect our own. And I think I am absolutely correct in saying that any young golfer who is ambitious to learn will always find good golfers ready to give him the benefit of their experience and observations. Right here is one of the greatest features of the game. The finest players, professionals or amateurs, are forever trying to learn new points, and they rarely hesitate to divulge any point in connection with their own game. In other words, while there may be keen individual rivalries among the golfers, the greatest rivals may frequently be seen comparing notes on the best method for playing different shots.

Cultivating Good Judgment.

"The more one studies his own game, too, the more discerning he becomes in noting the good and bad points of some one else's play. As I have said before, there can be a great deal learned from watching good golfers. A person may note the stance taken by the proficient golfer; how much he bends his knees; how he holds his head; how far back he carries his club; how he finishes the stroke; how he grips his club. It should be borne in mind, though, in watching a first-class golfer to pick up pointers, that what the first-class golfer may do is not always a good method to follow. It might be impossible for the rank and file. Edward Ray is a mighty driver, but there probably are not a great many others who could drive exactly as he does and get good results. The more a player observes, the more readily he will pick up the point which is going to help his game, and cast aside the peculiarity which is not safe to follow.

"In suggesting that the young golfer would be wise in spending some of his time watching others, rather than playing himself, I know I am counseling something which hardly will appeal to many who delight in playing. They want the fun of playing. That is what they are in the game for; that is why they are members of a club. Yet I can truthfully say that one of the keenest pleasures that I can have personally is in following a couple of good golfers playing a round. It is almost as good as playing an exceptionally fine shot yourself to see some one else get up and hit the ball exactly as you would wish to see it hit or to do it yourself. You know just how you would feel after making such a shot, and you are mentally exhilarated by seeing some one else do it."

TRACK MEETS ON.

Several Schools and Colleges in Annual Contests.

Ithaca, N. Y., May 16.—The Cornell and Pennsylvania track teams met here today in a dual meet. Both were crippled by the loss of several regular men, Cornell having five on the sick list, and Pennsylvania three. Weather conditions were ideal.

Lafayette, Ind., May 16.—Purdue and Indiana will struggle for track and baseball honors on Stuart field this afternoon. The Indiana teams were accompanied here by a large delegation of rooters who came on a special train. Purdue expected to win the track meet, while the baseball game was expected to be hard fought, with Schultz opposing Partland in the box.

Champaign, Ill., May 16.—The twenty-second annual state inter-track and field meet was held on Illinois field today. A field of 540 athletes, representing ninety high schools, competed for honors. The contestants were divided into two classes on the basis of the registration in the high schools.

All the strong Cook county teams were in class A and it was expected that the championship in this division would fall to one of them.

CORBETT WITH FORKS.

Let Out By Winnipeg, He Returns to Eddie Wheeler.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ted Corbett, one of the best known pitchers in Northern league service in other years, last night signed a contract with the Grand Forks club, and the contract puts him on his old team mate's organization, he having had previous experience playing with Manager Eddie Wheeler.

Corbett was let out early this week by the Winnipeg Maroons, and he maintains he wasn't given a chance there. Corbett is one sweet pitcher when he is in shape—and Corbett says he's good right now.

Pitcher Peterson was released yesterday by Wheeler.

YACHT VANITIE IS FAR FROM FINISHED.

Boston, Mass., May 16.—So much work remains to be done on the intended cup defender Vanitie that some of the officials at the yard of the builders were doubtful today whether the yacht would leave for Long Island sound before the last of the month. The first of the preliminary races is scheduled for June 2.

The deck of the yacht has not been completed, the winches for handling the halyards and sheets are yet to be installed and the mast will not be ready for stepping before the middle of next week.

BOYLE ROOTERS WILL ROOT FOR WHITE SOX.

Members of the Duluth "Boyle for Congress" club are planning to attend the opening game of the Northern league schedule in Duluth Monday afternoon.

A large block of seats for the game has been arranged for by the club, and if vigorous shouting counts for anything, the White Sox will have all the support they need in the Boyle section of the grandstand. The Boyle men also plan to participate in the automobile parade which will precede the game.

Defiance Is Registered.

Bath, Me., May 16.—The racing sloop Defiance, candidate for America's cup defense honors, was registered at the customs house today. Georfge M. Pynchon of Greenwich, Conn., was named as managing owner and New York as the hailing port. It is planned to have the yacht sail for Marble Head on Tuesday.

KINDERGARTENS MAKE PROGRESS

In ten years kindergartens in the United States have grown from 3,244 kindergartens with 205,000 children to 7,557 kindergartens enrolling 364,189 children, according to a bulletin issued by the United States bureau of education.

Notwithstanding this encouraging increase in schools and pupils, the great majority of children are still without the advantages of kindergarten training. Only 9 per cent of the children of kindergarten age—4 to 6—were in kindergartens.

"Much constructive work must be done," declares Miss Myra Winchester of the kindergarten division of the bureau, reviewing the figures. "The child of kindergarten age is so young, so impressionable, so incapable of defending himself against the faulty words and actions and mental attitudes of the teacher, that means must be devised to eliminate, or at least diminish, the number of faulty teachers. Standards of requirements as to personality and academic and professional training must be raised and maintained, for the surest guarantee of the extension of kindergartens is good work done by good teachers."

Miss Winchester traces the path of progress in kindergartens from private philanthropy to public support. "First there were private kindergartens, regarded as more or less of a luxury for the well-to-do. Next, good men and women began to provide 'charity' kindergartens for the poor and neglected children; churches, settlements, kindergarten associations and mill owners gave and continue to give glad and generous support to such kindergartens. Then, as a direct outgrowth of the work of the kindergarten associations, there have evolved training schools for kindergarten teachers; the state legislature has been induced to pass a bill making it legal to institute public school kindergartens; local boards of education have partially, then entirely, taken over the care and education of little children, and finally state and city normal schools have incorporated the kindergarten training schools, making them into a regularly integrated department."

The bureau's bulletin of kindergartens gives complete statistics for private and public kindergartens throughout the United States, so far as these were reported, together with opinions of superintendents, supervisors and teachers, as to the results of kindergarten training in their communities. The bulletin is illustrated with photographs of real kindergarten children in real kindergarten activities.

SOCIABLE SCENERY.

Everybody's Magazine: The new summer boarder gazed over the picturesque New Hampshire landscape then slowly fading out of sight, and noted the absence of houses.

"It's beautiful! Grand!" said he to the boss farmer, who was standing close by. "But aren't you lonesome—so far from the village and no neighbors?"

"Lonesome?" echoed the farmer, in genuine astonishment. "Why, on a clear day we can see Mt. Washington."

PRIMARY LAW IS BIG ISSUE, SAYS GOVERNOR EBERHART

Claims Opponents Are Trying to Destroy Direct Primary.

Reiterates Stand for State Regulation of Public Utilities.

St. Cloud, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The primary law is the big issue in the present campaign, Governor Eberhart declared in his keynote address here last night. The governor also advocated greater care and economy in making appropriations so as to reduce taxation, reorganization of the state departments in the interest of economy and efficiency, told of his work for state development and publicity,—repeated his promise that he would sign a county option bill of one is passed, favored for state civil service, and reiterated his stand for state regulation of public utilities with local control of all municipally-owned plants.

The opera house in which the governor spoke was crowded, and a party of Twin City men who came on a special train with the governor were unable to gain admitance.

Why He Is Candidate.

Governor Eberhart, who was given an enthusiastic reception, said:

"After two strong indorsements of my administration by the people of this state at the general elections and after extensive consultation with the people from every section of the state, I have again decided to become a candidate for governor. I am prompted to such action by a general demand to continue the present policies of state development which have secured for Minnesota the recognized leadership in agricultural, industrial and educational activity and which have brought unparalleled prosperity to the state.

"The most important issue in this campaign is whether or not the people of the state shall be permitted to nominate their own candidates for public office.

"My candidacy is not the polished product of cunning manipulators assuming to act for the people in cut and dried mass conventions, but is based on the belief that my service in public office has met with the approval of the people of this state. I base by claim for consideration upon my record of service in the past and upon my ability to do things in the future.

The Direct Primary Law.

"No one will dispute the fact that I am largely responsible for the direct primary law in Minnesota. It was reluctantly passed by a legislature openly hostile to me, and in the law itself were inserted provisions with the declared purpose of defeating me. All this is recent and familiar history, but I call your attention to the primary law at this time because it is the settled purpose of certain politicians in this state to repeal it. The first step in the program to repeal is to discredit the law. Hence we have the conference and mass conventions called by a few disappointed politicians, ostensibly in the interest of the people, but in fact to advance the selfish interests of a few.

"If unsuccessful in the repeal of the primary law itself, the plan is to amend it so that the people shall not be permitted to act on nominations until some self-constituted convention has determined whom the people shall have a right to support.

"The people of this state have emphatically approved the state-wide primary law and they will not vote for men who are secretly scheming to repeal it. Few of these conspirators have the courage to openly advocate the repeal of the primary law, but actions speak louder than words. They have pledged themselves to amend the law in various ways, and if the people are not alert, it will be amended to death.

Expenditures Not Restricted.

"A man with a long purse can get up a mass convention for any purpose. There is no law restricting the use of funds therefor. He can spend $100,000 in framing up county and state mass conventions and in paying hotel and traveling expenses of delegates.

"There is no law controlling the expenditures for such purposes. A man can spend $100,000 in entertaining and persuading the delegates to such a gathering without subjecting himself to any legal penalty. Such a candidate, bearing the indorsement of such a convention, is therefore unworthy of support.

"I hold the office of governor today, not because I am the choice of a hand-picked convention of defeated office-seekers, but by the direct vote of the people at the primary and regular elections. Our system of government guarantees to the people the right to elect their own officials. The right to nominate is just as important as the right to elect and as long as I am governor I shall oppose every effort to destroy the direct primary law.

Appropriating Funds.

"Another very important issue in the coming campaign is an intelligent method of appropriating public funds. The present grab-bag, log-rolling method whereby all appropriations are thrown into the leislative hopper and ground out during the last week of the session is absolutely indefensible.

"Under the Constitution of the state, the governor is authorized to strike out or veto items in the appropriation bills, but he has no authority to reduce them in amount. Under that authority I vetoed in the last appropriation bills, $225,000 unnecessary expenditure and had I been permitted to reduce items, I should have saved at least $500,000 more to the taxpayers of the state.

"Instead of the old method, I propose the adoption of a budget system under which every appropriation must be carefully itemized and presented to the taxpayers of the state at least one month in advance of every legislative session. This is the only way in which the state will secure economy in making appropriations and I submit that no other practical and effective plan has been suggested.

Distribution of State Funds.

"In the collection and distribution of school and road funds, the country sections are favored as compared with the large cities. This is a just provision because the rural sections in return contribute to the wealth of the cities. Hennepin, Ramsey and St. Louis counties paid into the state treasury in all forms of taxes during the year 1913, $2,430,338.69 and received as their share of the state allotment for school and road purposes in the aggregate only $788,895.85. This is less than one-third of the amount paid. The other two-thirds was distributed as school and road aid among the other eighty-three counties. As a result, eighty of the eighty-six counties in the state receive back from the state nearly twice as much money as they pay in all forms of taxes, while Hennepin, Ramsey and St. Louis counties including the large and prosperous cities, receive less than one-third of the amount paid.

"The greatest increase in state taxes this year is caused by the one-mill road tax which was passed in accordance with the constitutional amendment adopted by the people at the last general election. In the distribution of this fund the country shares exceptionally well. Hennepin, Ramsey and St. Louis counties pay into the state road and bridge fund $694,277 and receive as their share of the allotment only $150,000. These large counties pay nearly $7 for every dollar they receive in return, and the $589,227 surplus paid by them is distributed throughout the state so that the rural counties receive on an average nearly three times as much money from the road and bridge fund as they contribute."

Efficiency Commission.

Governor Eberhart then touched upon the reorganization of the state departments in the interest of economy and efficiency, which he recommended in his messages to the legislatures of 1911 and 1913, and told of the appointment of the efficiency commission, the report of which is now practically completed.

"Now," he added, "it is pertinent to ask this question: What has the opposition ever suggested except criticism and denunciation? 'Sticking the feet under the mahogany table eight hours of the day and seven days of the week' is a very pleasant and easy task, but it will not solve the problem. Through this efficiency commission I offer a definite and practical remedy. My opponents make promises but offer nothing except criticism and denunciation."

State development and publicity, the campaign for betterment of rural schools and country life in general, transportation and water power, dairying and stock raising, hog cholera, protection of labor, prevention of crime and disease, were other subjects discussed by the governor. He declared himself in favor of strict law enforcement and reiterated a former statement that if the legislature passed a county option law he would approve it and would see that it was strictly and impartially enforced. Declaring himself in favor of civil service regulations and defended his appointment of newspapermen to offices.

Public Service Legislation.

Governor Eberhart discussed state regulation of public service corporations, saying: "Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, Justice Hughes of New York and President Wilson of New Jersey succeeded while governors in securing for their respective states such a law as I am trying to secure for Minnesota. If all these states that have adopted state regulation were in error, and if Senator La Follette, Justice Hughes and President Wilson were the tools of public service corporations in securing the enactment of these laws for their respective states, I am willing to concede that state regulation is wrong. With them I contend that state regulation is the only kind of regulation which has been found successful.

"Municipal ownership is not inconsistent with state regulation, and I will not approve any law which does not specifically authorize any municipality to purchase, own and operate any public utility, and when so owned and operated, the municipality should be given absolute control thereof, submitting only to a uniform system of reports and accounting to the state so that the real cost of the service may be easily ascertained.

ABOUT THE COMPANIONSHIP OF A DOG

I read a fine tribute about a dog the other day, and I want to pass this beautiful story along to the readers of this paper. I have owned five thoroughbred Scotch collie dogs myself.

"There is something very serious the matter with people who don't like dogs. A man cannot sink so low but that his dog is not glad to see him when he comes home at night. His master may be hateful to women and to men, but his four-footed comrade still is faithful and believing. There is no question of wages or privileges. A word or a pat wins gratitude that has no speech even though it has a tongue. If the owner goes away or should die what a pathetic sight is it to see how the dog looks behind, repines and finds no pleasure any more in his customary pursuits. He will wait until he dies and be mute and uncomplaining. A dog does not criticize. If he has any pain, and he generally has, he hides it and neither cowers or whimpers.

"He is patient for hours and if he has moods or misunderstandings, the dog inflicts them upon no one but himself. Is there a man that could succeed, who could not write nor speak, who did not own a single thing, who never received one cent's worth of pay, who never got anything except a pat or a kick or a word that was sometimes a kind one and at other times a most savage one? Is it not a tribute to the dog that he is so admirable an animal with so much to enjoy in his mute dog life besides merely biting other dogs."

There is much that appeals to us all in the above sentiment and it would be well for many nervous individuals who suffer various physical and mental ailments, to take unto themselves the companionship of a good faithful dog comrade. It is good medicine.

YOUR URINE, BOWEL MOVEMENTS AND BLOOD SHOULD BE STUDIED.

A Wisconsin inquirer writes that his doctors do not seem to understand his case. He says: "My trouble is in my back; it lies directly below the ribs, both on the right and left side and pains me principally at night when it gives me the impression that it is my heart. My knees pain me a great deal which leads me to believe that it may be rheumatism."

Answer.

Read the advice in the above title. Follow it. Without this information it is useless for me to attempt to counsel you further through the agency of these articles.

ELECTRICAL STIMULATION AND MASSAGE NECESSARY.

A father writes me about his little 4-year-old girl who can neither walk nor creep. "Since she was one year of age her legs have been so frail they would not support her. She has a good appetite and enjoys fun like any other child and even attempts to say mamma and papa but without success. I had her before the greatest doctors in the country. They examined her and put the X-ray upon her and told me that there was nothing wrong with her, only nervousness. They advised that I bathe her with salt water and rub her with pure olive oil. I have done this bathing every night, and I think she is rather weakening. I have consulted my local physician and he prohibited the use of any mechanical stays or supports on her legs, while to my mind I believe they would help strengthen the legs, yet I have not used them. What is your opinion in this matter?"

Answer.

It looks to me as though there has been some organic nervous disease back of your child's trouble. Very often the delicate nerve structures of the spinal cord become affected and certain bundles of nerves degenerate, bringing about an organic disease which is identical to that condition in a tree when the inner part of the trunk decays. Salt water bathing is fine. Keep it up, although I would prefer the oil, if your little girl would thrive upon it, to be administered internally rather than to have such a preparation continually becoming rancid on the child's skin. By all means adopt the course of electric massage and stimulation, about which you have been advised. If you do not have individual means you should take your child to the local hospital. Here you should explain your circumstances and ask them and have them afford you every facility that their institution has to offer you. Every hospital will gladly do all within its power. All they expect from patients who are unable to pay is that they be perfectly honest about the matter.

PROGRAM FOR MAY 17 READY

Duluth Norwegians Will Celebrate Independence of Fatherland.

Big Crowd Is Expected to Attend Meeting at High School.

"Hostan stór det til, Ola?"
"Tak, bra. En me del, Lars!"
"Bra. Flat Vaer for den Syttende Mai."
"Ja. Mange Norsker I byen."

The centenary of Norwegian independence, the "Syttende Mai," May 17, will be celebrated tomorrow afternoon at the Central high school. The committee has arranged a complete program, which is announced by Chairman O. A. Klovstad as follows:

Prelude, Flaaten's orchestra; introductory remarks, Rev. H. A. Ofstie, chairman; (a) "Ja Vi Elsker" (Nordraak), Normanna chorus and audience, accompanied by Flaaten's orchestra; (b) "Barndoms Minder Fra Nordland," (O. Thompson), Normanna chorus; speech, Mayor Prince; "Ekkos Fra Norge," (Borg), Flaaten's orchestra; "Fest Tale," Sanotor Ole O. Sageng; (a) "Norge! Norge!" (Solmos), (b) "Jotunheimen," (O. Olsen), Normanna chorus; declamation, selected, Mr. Grabe; "Temple Dans Fra Olaf Trygvason," (Greig), Flaaten's orchestra; (a) "Nordhavet," (Reisiger), Normanna chorus; (b) "America," Normanna chorus and audience, accompanied by Flaaten's orchestra.

Why They Celebrate.

The event that the Norwegians are to celebrate is the adoption of the Norwegian constitution by a diet or national assembly at Eidsvold, May 17, 1814. Norway had been united with Denmark for about 400 years and by the treaty of Kiel after the fall of Napoleon had been given to Sweden as compensation for the services of Sweden and Marshal Bernadotte, then crown prince of Sweden in the European alliance against Napoleon.

The Norwegian people rebelled against this provision and in their assembly at Eidsvold adopted a constitution declaring Norway a free and sovereign state. Later, in the fall of 1814, at a convention at Moss, Norway, they consented to a union with Sweden under the Swedish king, each country to retain its own government. The union did not prove entirely acceptable and Norway withdrew in 1905.

May 17, "Syttende Mai," as it is called in Norway, is the country's holiday, corresponding identically with the Fourth of July in the United States. It is observed annually not only in Norway, but wherever a score of sons and daughters of the country may be located in all the regions of the world.

READS ESSAY ON DULUTH BREAKWATER

A very creditable paper on the necessity of a breakwater for the harbor of Duluth was delivered this week before a section of the Freshman Engineering class at the Michigan university by A. Nathan Cook, son of Moses S. Cook of this city.

Mr. Cook dealt at some length with the danger with which a boat is confronted upon entering the Duluth ship canal during stormy weather and recited the instance of the wreck of the Mataafa on the north pier during the disastrous storm of November, 1905.

Among other things he said: "A point of rocks, located in the center of Duluth on its main thoroughfare, can be made use of. The stone can be had for nothing and I am sure that the city will partly defray the expense of blasting it out of the hill."

He also declared that the "building of this breakwater would give Duluth a lake view park, which it has long desired. This park would extend from the canal, around the shore and out over the breakwater."

NOTICE

JACOB ROSEK will discontinue his delivery trade and continue in a strictly CASH business after June 1st.

WILL ACCEPT RECRUITS AGAIN.

Sergeant Buck, who is in charge of the local marine recruiting station in the Manhattan building, this morning received an order to the effect that all applicants should be considered and accepted, if they pass the required tests.

About two weeks ago Sergeant Buck received an order directing him to stop accepting applicants and consider only those who have served with the marines and who have been honorably discharged. With the new order yesterday, any applicant will be accepted who will pass the mental and physical tests.

From now on Sergeant Buck expects to enlist a large number of Duluth young men, who are anxious to see active service in Mexico.

ANTI-MILITANT TALK CAUSE OF DISORDER

English Woman Creates Disturbance in Meeting at Rome.

Rome, May 16.—At a woman suffrage meeting here yesterday which was attended by about 3,000 women and a few men, Dr. Anna Howard Shaw was warmly applauded during a speech in which she outlined the basis of the demand of woman for enfranchisement.

Dr. Shaw said suffrage for woman was opposed by Italian and other Latin men because they believed that in giving her the vote it would make her less attractive. This idea was ridiculed by the speaker, who argued that the request of woman for the ballot was based on justice and equity.

Mrs. Creighton, an English woman, deplored the militant tactics of suffragettes, saying they injured the cause of woman. She was interrupted by protests, but continued to repeat her statements. This caused a more violent demonstration. The president of the meeting brought about order by telling Mrs. Creighton her time was up, and forcing her to be seated.

The meeting passed unanimously a resolution asking that women be given the vote.

BENAVIDES NEW PRESIDENT OF PERU

Leader of Revolt Against Billinghurst Is Elected.

Lima, Peru, May 16.—The new congress was installed yesterday and elected as president of the republic Col. Oscar Benavides, who headed the rebels in attacking the palace in February and taking prisoner President Billinghurst, who later was exiled. Quiet is reported throughout the republic.

$8.50 IS TOO LOW WAGE FOR WOMEN.

Olympia, Wash., May 16.—By unanimous vote, the state industrial welfare commission rejected last night the recommendation of the laundry and dye workers conference that $8.50 be established as a minimum weekly wage for women in such occupations. The resolution making the rejection declares that investigation has shown $8.50 a week is inadequate to maintain a woman in health and comfort.

CHARGE MOVING VAN TRUST IN ST. LOUIS.

St. Louis, Mo., May 16.—Complaint has been made to Circuit Attorney Harvey here that some of the large moving companies of the city have united in a conspiracy to restrain trade and suppress competition.

Complaint was made by Taylor R. Young, an attorney, who claimed to represent thirty-six smaller moving companies, that refused to go into the plan. Mr. Young sought to obtain grand jury action against the alleged trust. His complaint was directed chiefly against nine firms that are leading members of the Van Owners and Expressmen's association, and also against representatives of the Teamsters council and of the Van Drivers' union, with which the firms in the association have signed contracts.

TELLS NEGROES TO TRUST WHITE MAN

Booker T. Washington So Advises the Negro Students.

Atlanta, Ga., May 16.—"Have faith in the white man. He is your friend."

Booker T. Washington, the negro educator, offered this advice to members of his race in an address here before the annual Negro Christian Students' conference. He declared that notable progress in co-operation between the races had been made in the last decade.

The speaker pleaded for the education of his race.

"By right living, obeying the laws and showing due deference to every man you will demonstrate to the world what education makes out of the negro," said Dr. Washington.

LOSES JOB BECAUSE HE IS NO CANADIAN

American Is Reduced in Rank By Montreal Mayor.

Montreal, May 16.—Because he is an American citizen, T. McG. Black of Pittsburg, park superintendent of this city, was reduced in office yesterday to be temporary assistant park superintendent by Mayor Meaderic Martin. Dr. Gadbois, a French Canadian, was appointed in his place.

"I will not have a foreigner drawing a salary of $2,500 a year in Montreal," said the mayor.

AGRICULTURAL BILL HELD UP BY DEBATE.

Washington, May 16.—Final action on the agricultural appropriation bill was delayed in the senate again yesterday by continued objections to various items in the measure.

An appropriation of $50,000 for the study of co-operation among farmers in matters of rural credits and sanitation was the chief object of attack. Senator Overman said if such appropriations continue the government would face a deficit.

"The money is coming out of the pockets of the farmers," replied Senator Gore, chairman of the agriculture committee. "It is the farming class, the authors of wealth, that bear the brunt of the $130,000,000 appropriation for a navy to send men to their death; of the $95,000,000 for the army to butcher and kill. You will pass those bills in half an hour, yet you debate for two weeks the bill to appropriate $19,000,000 to benefit the farmers."

NORDICA'S JEWELS WORTH A MILLION.

New York, May 16.—A notable collection of jewels, valued at $1,000,000, including the famous Nordica pearl and other gems almost priceless because of their flawlessness and beauty was distributed by Mme. Lillian Nordica, the singer, in her will, some details of which became known today.

In addition to the jewels Mme. Nordica disposed of other property valued at several thousand dollars. Her husband, George W. Young, New York banker, and her three sisters, it is understood, are her chief legatees.

Although Alva Adams, former governor of Colorado, to whom Mme. Nordica dictated the bequests of her will Jan. 1 while both were passengers aboard the steamer Tasman in the Gulf of Papua, refused to divulge the amount of the estate, it is understood to be smaller than was supposed.

MRS. WILSON MAY WIN IN LAND SUIT

Decision Drafted By U. S. Register Is in Her Favor.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 16.—A victory for Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of President Wilson, in her contest to retain possession of sixty acres of date land in the Coachella valley, near Indio, Cal., is forecasted in a decision drafted by Frank Buren, register of the United States land office in Los Angeles.

Buren sustained Mrs. Wilson's claim to the property, which was originally government land, basing his findings primarily upon the showing of good faith upon the part of herself and her predecessors in ownership, who included her sister, Mrs. Margaret Axson Elliott of Berkeley, Cal.

Controversy over the ownership of the property developed in the latter part of 1913 when John T. King, in behalf of Mrs. Wilson, his successor in interest, instituted a contest against Maude E. Compton, who homesteaded the land after King had disposed of it. The contest was heard in the local land office last January.

Register Buren's decision awaits the concurrence of O. R. W. Robinson, receiver, now in the East, to clear Mrs. Wilson's title to the property, which is valued at $6,000.

SOLVENT BANK IS CLOSED BY RUN.

Corning, Iowa, May 16.—The First National bank of Corning failed to open its doors yesterday, following a run in which about $50,000 in deposits was withdrawn. The institution was closed on the order of the comptroller of the currency and W. W. Smith of St. Louis, a bank examiner, is in charge.

C. R. Newcomb is the president and R. Newcomb the cashier. The latter said that all claims would be paid.

ASK OHIO TO TAKE OVER PRIVATE BANK.

Columbus, Ohio, May 16.—At the request of its owners, the private bank of Freeport at Freeport, Ohio, was taken over yesterday by the state banking department for liquidation, according to an announcement by State Bank Supt. Lattanner. Whether the depositors will be paid in full has not been determined, Mr. Lattanner said.

State examiners' reports show that the bank has deposits amounting to nearly $160,000 and loans aggregating $135,000. The bank's overdrafts, according to the examiner, amounted to $40,000. The examiners found $4,000 in cash on hand.

Revolt in Venezuela.

New York, May 16.—The revolutionary forces fighting in Venezuela against President Gomez are more numerous than has been supposed, according to cable advices received here by revolutionary agents. Dispatches received from the island of Curaco say the Constitutionalists have scored against the Gomez forces in several engagements.

Hood's Sarsaparilla, as a Spring Medicine, Is the Best.

Spring sickness comes in some degree to every man, woman and child in our climate. It is that run-down condition of the system that results from impure, impoverished, devitalized blood. It is marked by loss of appetite and that tired feeling, and in many cases by some form of eruption.

The best way to treat spring sickness is to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. Ask your druggist for this old reliable family medicine. It purifies, enriches and revitalizes the blood. It is an all-the-year-round alterative and tonic, and is absolutely the best Spring medicine.

Get your blood in good condition at once—now. Delay may be dangerous. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, nothing else can take its place.

NEWLYWED HOUSE NO. 1 TO COST $2500.

We introduce to our readers this week the first of the Newlywed series, a home that is attractive in appearance and yet economical in cost. It is a house intended for young married couples and can be so arranged that it would cost no more to handle than to rent. The interior is well arranged and the whole building when completed will attract a great deal of attention and give its owners great satisfaction. The house would cost to build in Duluth about $2,500 complete.

GARBACE MEN NOT JANITORS

Not Expected to Clean Basements, Says Health Officer.

Tin Cans and Bottles Must Not Be Mixed With Garbage.

Your garbage man may be "just perfectly lovely" but do not expect him to do your janitor work, say the health department officials in a new set of rules which have been adopted to govern collections.

This means that you should not ask him to clean your basement for you, or to sweep up loose litter about your garbage or ash cans, or empty the furnace, or any of the other things that you should do yourself in order to expedite the collections.

The rules have been prepared with a view to improving the collections, enabling the garbage men to cover more ground and render more satisfactory service. They are also intended to better conditions at the incinerator by requiring all combustible and non-combustible substance to be separated. In the past considerable trouble has been experienced because tin cans, bottles and other rubbish have been mixed with the garbage and dumped into the incinerator. Dr. H. E. Webster, director of public health, has issued orders to allow no more such loads to be dumped into the furnaces. If the housekeepers will take care to separate them they will not only be assisting the garbage man but the men in charge at the incinerator as well.

The New Rules.

The rules which have been drawn up will be sent to as many residences as possible. They will be printed on neat cards which can be posted where they will serve as a constant reminder of the regulations. They are as follows:

"All garbage wagons shall be approved by the health department.

"Any person, firm or corporation entering into the business of scavengering shall first secure a license from the health department.

"The owner or occupant of each house is required by law to provide metallic cans, with close fitting covers, and with handles upon the sides. Garbage cans shall be of twenty-gallon size and ash cans of thirty-gallon size. Cans must be placed on the ground floor, easily accessible to the collector, and when filthy, leaky or in any way defective, shall be replaced by new cans.

"Drain garbage of all liquids and wrap in paper before putting it in can. Then it will neither smell badly in hot weather nor freeze and stick to the can in cold weather.

"Put into the garbage can all animal and vegetable refuse from the kitchen, including rags, waste paper, rubbers, floor sweepings and all miscellaneous refuse that will burn. Put only clean ashes in the ash can.

"Crockery, bottles or refuse glass, tin cans and other metallic and non-combustible substances should be placed in a separate receptacle from the garbage and ashes.

"Do not mix combustible and non-combustible substances. Mixed garbage, ashes, cans, bottles, etc. cannot be emptied by your collector unless he makes a special trip for it, which is expensive.

"Do not ask the collector to do your janitor work.

"Report all dead animals to this department, giving exact location of same and owner's name if possible.

"After you have complied with the above rules, report all complaints pertaining to garbage and ash collections to the health department."

Child Scalded to Death.

Larimore, N. D., May 16.—Parker Birden, aged 2 years, was scalded to death in a tub of boiling water into which he was thrown by a storm door which blew against him as he was standing on a porch directly in front of the tub. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Birden, who reside near here.

FAREWELL TO FIRE HORSES

All Animals Removed From the East End Station.

No more will the stamping of horses' hoofs be heard at No. 4 fire hall, Fourteenth avenue east and First street. No more will the slumbers of citizens in that locality be disturbed by the clatter of the practice cart racing up and down the thoroughfare when the horses are taken out for exercise at 6 a. m.

All horse-drawn equipment was removed from the Fire hall yesteraday afternoon when the new combination pumper, chemical and hose outfit was installed. Five horses, three of which hauled the steamer, and two the hose cart, were taken away and the force reduced by two men.

The motor is expected to materially increase the efficiency of the fire department as well as reduce maintenance expenses. Capable of high speed it can cover a much wider range of territory in less time then the horses. The same engine which drives the car furnishes power for the pumps. Because of its speed it will eliminate the necessity of building a fire hall at Woodland. The other rig will be placed at No. 8 hall, West Duluth and will make it unnecessary to erect another station in the Hazelwood district.

Among the horses which were taken away was one that has not lain down since he was placed in the station several years ago. He rested standing up and was in as good condition as the others.

GERMAN "FRIEND OF WILSON" TORTURED

Refugee Tells of Treatment at Hands of Mexicans.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 16.—Charles Bema, a German recently released from the Federal prison at Manzanillo, said on his arrival here that while a captive he was tortured so that he lost the power of speech for some days.

Bema says he was aboard a steamship in Manzanillo harbor as a refugee, when two Mexican soldiers boarded the vessel and told him there was a money order awaiting him on shore. He went with the soldiers and was thrown into jail on the charge that he was "a personal friend of President Wilson."

Later he was accused of being a spy and sentenced to be shot, but the German consul interfered.

MONCLOVA TAKEN BY REBEL FORCES.

Juarez, Mex., May 16.—Monclova, the last town held by the Federals on the International Railways of Mexico between Pedras Negras, opposite Eagle Pass, Tex., and Saltillo, has been occupied by Constitutionalists under Gen. Francisco Murgia, according to a message from Gen. Murgia. The message stated that the Federal garrison fled as soon as the advance guard of the Constitutionalists came in sight.

The capture of Monclova, it is believed, will permit the opening of through communication between the American border and Monterey.

PHOTOGRAPHER FOR NEWSPAPER IS FREED

About 1,000 Americans Refuse to Leave Mexican Capital.

Vera Cruz, May 16.—A. J. Sutton, a Washington newspaper photographer, has been released by the Mexicans after three days' imprisonment at Cordoba, during which he was subjected to a severe cross-examination in order to make him confess that he was a spy. The release of Mr. Sutton, who was first taken into custody with other newspaper men in Mexico City on May 9, was effected by agents of the British consulate here, who induced Mr. Sutton to promise that he would leave the country immediately.

Despite efforts of the American authorities to get all Americans out of Mexico, there are still about 1,000 in the capital who appear determined to remain. Consul Canada has received information that 700 Americans have registered their names at the Brazilian legation, but express their intention of staying. In addition there are known to be 300 others who have not even registered.

300,000 HORSES KILLED IN WARS.

Chihuahua, Mex., May 16.—Chihuahua, the state of big ranches, where the horse was supreme, where no one walked, virtually has been stripped of its equine inhabitants. It is estimated that 300,000 horses have been killed during the Mexican wars.

Gen. Villa has 15,000 horses with his army before Saltillo and eagerly would seek a chance to double that number. All his soldiers are horsemen, but he can secure mounts only for a part of them.

Ranchmen say that the shortage of horses will be a serious question when the soldiers turn again to peaceful pursuits.

SNIPERS TURN OUT TO BE MEXICANS

"South Americans" Are Released By U. S. Authorities.

Washington, May 16.—Announcement was made at the war department that the five alleged South American snipers under arrest at Vera Cruz for firing upon Americans had turned out to be Mexicans and had been discharged. This had threatened for a time to involve the South American governments.

Secretary Garrison said investigation by Gen. Funston and Rear Admiral Badger had developed that one of the prisoners, who claimed to be a Chilean, was a Mexican, and the other four probably were Mexicans.

It was assumed that the snipers, upon being arrested by an American naval official, set up the claim that they were South Americans, thinking this would save them from the wrath of the Americans. As a matter of fact, it was pointed out, their positions as citizens of Mexico, acting under patriotic enthusiasm, gave them a defense more powerful than any aid that might have been obtained had they been foreigners.

FAMOUS YACHT IS GOING TO FRISCO.

Southampton, Eng., May 16.—The famous yacht, Princess Alice, formerly owned by the Prince of Monaco and used by him in his deep sea researches, has been purchased by Lord Inverclyde, who will take a party of friends on her to San Francisco for the opening of the Panama-Pacific international exposition.

GRONDIN PLEADS "NOT GUILTY."

Portland, Me., May 16.—John H. Grondin of Waterville, Me., pleaded not guilty and waived examination when arraigned charged with attempting to murder his wife in this city Jan. 1, 1913. Mrs. Grondin was asphyxiated by gas at Los Angeles, Cal., last October. Grondin will be placed on trial next week.

Falls From Aeroplane.

THE SEVENTEENTH OF MAY.

What the Fourth of July is to every patriotic American, tomorrow, the Seventeenth of May, is to every patriotic Norwegian.

Americans of Norwegian birth and descent celebrate our common Fourth of July with all the zeal and patriotic spirit possible to those whose ancestors came over with the Mayflower or the less known vessels that followed it closely. They enter into its spirit as they have entered into the spirit of our traditions and our institutions—eagerly, loyally and to such good purpose that they are among our most treasured acquisitions by immigration.

And yet there is a peculiar heart-warming, soul-inspiring influence from their own national birthday of freedom which brings warm memories of their motherland of fjords and mountain peaks, of fertile valleys and rich plains, of forests and fields, and with their love of the land of their adoption mingles the inspiration of their love of native land.

Nor is there inconsistency or disloyalty in this, either. Our Norwegian neighbors are better and truer Americans for their loyal memories of the land that gave them birth, and we can all join with them in spirit during their solemn observations of tomorrow with the fullest confidence that as their loyal citizenship is made stronger and truer by their patriotic memories of the motherland, so our patriotism will be made stronger and truer by having mingled with it some of the spirit of this day so dear to every son and daughter of old Norge.

One more peculiarity of our wonderful language: If you knock a waiter over you get jugged, while if you only tip him you get anything in the place.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

1.—The Initiative and the Referendum.

The system of so-called "direct legislation" proposed in Minnesota is not in any sense a substitute for representative government. It is intended as a check upon representative government, and it will be working best when it is not used at all because it is not needed—as the case will be when the legislature is performing its duties properly.

As President Wilson put it, direct legislation is "a gun behind the door." If the legislature fails to pass needed legislation, the state needs the initiative to set that legislation going. If it passes wrong legislation, we need the referendum so the people may veto it.

The 1913 legislation submitted to the people what The Herald believes to be the best system of direct legislation yet devisd.

Its chief advantage is that it gives the legislature a first chance at every legislative proposal, and that the initiative is to be used only if the legislature refuses to take this chance, which it will seldom do with legislation that is needed or demanded by the people.

Either a proposed statute or a proposed constitutional amendment can be initiated by a petition signed by two per cent of the voters. Then it goes to the legislature. If the legislature enacts the statute or submits the constitutional amendment, then no further proceedings are necessary. But if the legislature refuses to act, or if it amends the proposed measure in a hostile manner, then the people have their chance.

Six per cent of the voters in the case of a proposed statute, or eight per cent in the case of a constitutional amendment, can then submit the original proposal to popular vote, and if it is ratified it is law.

The advantages of this plan are twofold. First, it does away with the needless cluttering up of the ballots that happens where all initiated proposals go direct to the voters. Second, many initiated measures are half-baked in form, even though their purpose is good; and this gives the legislature a chance to whip any proposed measure into shape. If the legislature's changes are made in good faith and improve the bill, no further initiatory proceedings are necessary. If by chance the legislature amends the measure practically to death, a further petition will bring the original measure, unamended, before the voters.

Under the referendum provisions, six per cent of the voters can refer to the people any measure enacted by the legislature except those relating to tax levies and appropriations. A petition of fifteen per cent operates to suspend the operation of the law until it is passed upon by the people. All measures with these exceptions go into effect ninety days after the legislative session is over; except that if two-thirds of each house declare any measure to be an emergency measure, then it goes into effect at once, subject to the referendum.

Initiated statutes are to be adopted by a majority of those voting on the proposition. Initiated constitutional amendments are to be ratified by a majority of those voting at the election, or by four-sevenths of those voting on the proposition if three-sevenths of those voting at the election vote on the proposition. This, manifestly, is a compromise between ratification merely by a majority of those voting on the proposition, and the much stricter requirement of a majority of all those voting at the election.

Minnesota needs this amendment as an insurance of legislative loyalty to the public interest, and it should be ratified by the voters.

Indications are that there are some similarities between being chosen to the reserve board and being nominated as an ambassador.

PEACE SUNDAY.

Tomorrow is Peace Sunday, so declared and dedicated by the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America in honor of the anniversary of the first Hague Conference.

Every pastor of every church affiliated with this council—and that means thirty denominations with seventeen million communicants—has been asked to preach on peace tomorrow, and to give out to be sung the peace hymn which The Herald publishes on its church page tonight.

Nothing could be more fitting than the discussion of peace in a Christian pulpit except to have it occur much oftener than on an anniversary.

Though war has been waged and human blood spilt in the name of Jesus Christ, it was always a hideous travesty to take life in the name of the Prince of Peace.

The Christian church, the world over, ought to be a militant and relentless enemy of war, an indomitable and tireless advocate of peace and disarmament.

To deserve its name, it MUST BECOME just that.

The message of peace on earth, good will toward men, should be uttered from every Christian pulpit tomorrow. In no finer way can the church or any soldier of the Cross fulfil the mission of Christianity.

Hereafter the stay-at-homers can't plead disbelief in the validity of the preferential ballot as an excuse for their civic laziness.

LOSING THE SENSE OF PROPORTION.

Last Sunday the Rev. Bouck White, preacher, author and Socialist, disturbed the regular morning services at the New York Baptist church which the Rockefellers attend when it is safe for them to be out in public.

That's bad business, and no good can come of it; though after reading all the reports of the incident in the New York papers it is pretty clear that the fight to eject Mr. White disturbed the service much more than he would have disturbed it if he had been allowed to speak.

Mr. White and his followers went to this church to talk about the relation of the Rockefellers to the terrible conditions that have prevailed in Colorado, where the Rockefellers are interested in mining coal. The church people had detectives and policemen planted there, and the officers and ushers threw the visitors out, beat them severely, and arrested them. The court has sentenced the leaders to six months in the workhouse.

The sentence is proper. Its imposition is timely and ought to be wholesome.

Mr. White and his friends meant well, we are sure. It is easy to say that they did it to gain notoriety; and when they say this of such gentry as Upton Sinclair we can readily believe it. We do not believe that Bouck White did it for any such purpose. He is too earnest, too sincere, for that. He has written several beautiful books, and has impressed a good many people who cannot follow him with his sincerity.

There are two things the matter with this man, giving him full credit for unselfishness. You must grant that tribute to one who is willing to suffer ignominy and arrest and physical assault for the cause he holds holy. But, even though he is unselfish and sincere, there are two things the matter with him.

First, he is taking his Christianity literally, and trying to get it applied to industrial conditions. He ought to know that that won't do. If he had been able to have a quiet heart-to-heart talk with either of the Rockefellers, this would have been patiently explained to him, and doubtless trouble would have been saved, and all would be well. If he had remembered his history, too, he could have saved himself useless trouble. In all history, those who have taken fine principles too literally, and tried to get them applied to actual living conditions, have had sore trouble. The founder of Christianity Himself was crucified for no other reason.

The other thing that is the matter with Bouck White is that, like a great many other well-meaning and unselfish people, he has though so long and so deeply on one subject that he has lost his sense of proportion. In that frame of mind, people are likely to do foolish things. And in that frame of mind Bouck White did a foolish thing, and now must pay for it.

Few of us can sympathize with such methods as these, even though all of us must realize that the evils these wrong methods are aimed at are very bad and are making a great deal of unnecessary and burdensome suffering and trouble.

It was wrong, very wrong, of Bouck White to disturb the services at Mr. Rockefeller's church, and it is right and timely and wholesome that he should go to jail for it.

Perhaps meditation there will restore his lost sense of proportion, and thus make it possible for him to redirect his good fight along saner and more practical lines.

THE COST OF WAR.

One of the most amazing things to see these days is the light-hearted and off-hand way some people talk war. They trill millions of men and money off their tongues as lightly as though they were autumn leaves and mosquitoes. They consign them to the furnace of war as carelessly as any Roman tyrant ever threw his victims to the lions or squandered taxes on his pleasures.

Two or three newspapers—big newspapers, too—blithely invite the country to a march not on Mexico City only, but straight through to the canal. They insist that we conquer everything in sight, that we immediately have and maintain an army of half a million men, that we spend money like water in ships and armament.

It is a sign of growing civilization and common sense that that funeral ship with its sad burden of dead soldiers was a million times more impressive to the average citizen than all these fantasies of militarism.

These merry war-mongers do not count the cost of war—nor do they care for cost. Why should they reck expenses which others must bear?

The librarian of the war department lately made for the Baltimore Sun a calculation of the cost of war to this country from the Revolution to the war with Spain.

He could not calculate the cost of war in the woe of widows and orphans, in human efficiency wasted in sickness and deprivation, in careers rendered useless for productive purposes by the glamor of war. Neither the full toll of the money cost of war, nor the totals of killed and wounded, begin to tell the story.

Even the figures compiled by the war department librarian, impressive as they are, do not cover the greater cost of preparedness for war between wars, and of the pension list.

The total cost of war to this country from the Revolution to and including the Spanish-American war and its aftermath is $11,296,385,406. But if tears and moans and ruined lives could be counted in dollars, that tremendous aggregation of billions would not be a drop in the bucket.

Governor Eberhart says the primary law is the salient issue. Now that is a brand new way to pronounce "E-d S-m-i-t-h."

MUST THE THEATERS REDUCE PRICES?

The Billboard, the able and interesting organ of the amusement world, declares that the prices of seats in theaters will have to come down "if the theater is ever to re-enter its own."

"This impression," says the Billboard, "has long existed among our leading theatrical managers, and it is rapidly deepening into conviction. Furthermore, the ranks of those who opposed the idea are dwindling steadily. 'Back to a sane scale' is the slogan of the advocates of reduction. 'Put them down and get them to coming, and put them down, down, down, until we do get them to coming,' they urge. Every other expedient has failed. Why not?

"No matter what may have been the case in years gone by, prices are too high now. The moment that the price of an orchestra seat in a first class house went above that of a good novel, it was too high in the estimation of a great many astute laymen—and showmen, too.

"You can buy a good book for $1.50. No general reduction which contemplates a higher top price than that is worth trying. The Billboard would like to see it started at 25 cents, 50 cents, 75 cents and a dollar."

To get a starting point for judgment of this point, take note of the fact that it seems to be accepted that "they are not coming" now. Also, that the theater, since it seeks to "re-enter its own," must have lost its former place in popular patronage.

If patronage of the theater isn't what it used to be, something manifestly is wrong. The Billboard thinks it is the prices; and if things are as bad as they seem, the theatrical world will do well to consider the theory.

Prices of first class seats for first class attractions vary with the locality, but in Duluth they rarely get under two dollars. Dollar and a half shows sometimes are first class, but rarely.

This scale of price was fixed, largely, at a time when there was no vaudeville at fifty and seventy-five cents, and no moving pictures at five, ten and twenty-five cents. Theatrical attractions are no worse than they were; and if patronage has fallen off it must be due to the competition of cheaper entertainments.

The Billboard makes a good point when it says that first class theater seats ought not to be higher than the price of a good novel. But that price is no longer a dollar and a half. Very seldom, now, is a novel put on at that price. In this day of "net" and "fixed" prices, the best novels sell, largely according to size, at $1.25, $1.30, $1.35 and rarely $1.40, with the general run of novels at $1.30 or $1.35. So even good novels have come down—perhaps because of the competition of magazine fiction.

It is a condition, and not a theory, that confronts the theaters if, as the Billboard declares, they have lost their old place in public patronage. It may be that their clientage has dwindled because the cheaper forms of amusement meet the needs of most. It may be that it is the high cost of theatrical amusements that has done the business, and that the theaters would make more money at lower prices. It ought to be worth their while to study these questions carefully.

Also it will be generally considered that the American who stays in Mexico "to take his chances" won't find there's much worth taking.

SOCIETY AND THE UNIONS.

Though the points of difference between strikers and employers in the Colorado battle are numerous, really there is but one: Unionism.

In Colorado, as in Michigan, the main issue that caused a bitter and bloody civil war was the right of the workers to organize and bargain collectively.

In Michigan the employers had as an excuse for fighting the union the fact that it was the Western Federation of Miners, which gained a bad name a few years ago and never lost it, though its worst element has split off to form the Industrial Workers of the World.

But in Colorado it was the United Mine Workers, the organization of which John Mitchell used to be president, and which works on terms of harmony with the public and the employers in the Pennsylvania fields.

The issue is ugly, awkward, menacing. It is not yet decided by any means.

The union has three angles. To the worker, it is a mechanism for joint action to better his condition.

To the employer, it is an organization which seeks to wring more money from him, and which he declares tries to run his business.

To the public the union presents still another angle, merging in both of the others. But there is a facet to this aspect that is of the highest social importance. The purpose of the union is to see that the workers are well paid and not overworked, and that their working conditions are clean, safe and wholesome. THESE THINGS SOCIETY DEMANDS, AND ITS INTEREST IN THEM IS HIGHER THAN THE INTERESTS OF EITHER EMPLOYER OR EMPLOYE.

Mr. Rockefeller, who controls the Colorado coal fields, declares that he is fighting for the right of the worker to labor for whomsoever he pleases. What he really means is put thus by the Montreal Star: "What Mr. Rockefeller really means is that he and his associates are contending for the right of every American citizen or foreigner 'to work in terms satisfactory' to his employer, or get out or be thrown out. That is not the way they put it, but that is what they mean."

The Star adds: "That kind of thing will not do in these times. The terms on which men work govern the conditions in which they and their families live. If hardships and poverty produce vice and crime, society at large suffers. The state knows this, and governments are compelled to act on the knowledge. We have factory acts and factory inspection, acts relating to working in mines, and all kinds of legislation affecting the relations of employer and employed. BUT BEHIND AND UNDER, ACTUALLY MAKING, ALL THESE LAWS, IS ORGANIZED LABOR."

When organized labor, working selfishly if you please, betters wages, betters working conditions, betters the family life and method of living of the workers, it is laboring for the good of society.

The power of organized labor has been abused, and doubtless will be abused again. It is on debatable ground when it demands the closed shop, for instance, and denies the right of employment to men who do not belong to the union. But the employer is on ground fully as debatable when he, in his turn, demands the closed shop, but a shop closed against union men, and affirms his right to refuse to hire men because they belong to a union.

Only by collective bargaining can the workers approach a plane of equality with the employers; and collective bargaining, which by benefiting the worker benefits society, can only be done through organized labor.

Therefore the union, when its power is not abused, is a necessary factor in a civilized society, and the employer who seeks to crush the union seeks to preserve an anti-social state of industrial feudalism.

Next thing we know those militant suffragists will begin to knock the tea-drinking habit.

THE MENACE OF THE DEMAGOGUE.

Popular government has no worse enemy, and really constructive reform no greater handicap, than the demagogue.

Whether his demagoguery is an unprincipled appeal for popular support without any real care for the public interest, or the unbridled excesses of the fanatic, the evil is the same and the harm as great.

Barratt O'Hara, the lieutenant-governor of Illinois, attracted a good deal of attention to himself a year ago by his "vice commission," which proceeded on the monstrous doctrine that low wages are the cause of vice, with the logical deductions that the vicious have no personal responsibility and that every person working on small wages is a potential criminal. This "research" accomplished nothing but sensationalism, which has died out.

Lately O'Hara broke out in a new place.

On the theory that he was investigating the conditions of labor, he got a job as porter in a Connecticut factory at four dollars a week. Such experiments are common, and never prove anything because it is impossible for a person who is not dependent on his job to put himself in the place of one who is.

After working four days, O'Hara was fired for incompetency. In other words, he wasn't able to earn even four dollars a week as a porter.

Yet, with the sublime confidence of the sensational reformer, he feels fully competent to tell society how to handle its most complex and difficult problems!

Now Mr. O'Hara announces that he is going to draft a bill to be introduced in the Illinois legislature forbidding employers to discharge their workers without notice.

Doubtless there is a case to be made for the worker who is discharged for a trivial cause or no cause at all. He deserves sympathy, if not help; for the world owes every man a living who is willing and competent to earn it.

But it is very doubtful if such a bill as O'Hara proposes would help the humbler workers any. It is still more doubtful if Mr. O'Hara is up to the job of reforming society and righting all its wrongs.

His judgment that because he was discharged summarily from a job that he could not fill, the whole industrial organization is wrong, is probably not correct—at least in sequence.

The whole industrial organization may be wrong. Certainly it has a number of things obviously the matter with it. But it is not wrong because O'Hara lost his four-dollar job as porter, and O'Hara has as yet developed no evidence that he is the right man to fix it.

Now that the militants have taken to wrecking the grandstands on the cricket grounds, we may expect England to take some drastic action to stop them.

In an Old Garden Forgotten.

Here even sunbeams stumble as they thread
The tangled aisles where weed and thicket twine
In clasps unriven by the years; here vine
With vine weaves shrouds to hide the ghostly dead
Of vanished springs. Here dying roses shed
Their petals drifting memories that shrine
With fleeting glory of a glaring fine.
A haunt whence one might think all beauty fled.

Yet here among this riot wild of bloom
And leaf, where summer heaps the refuse of
Her toil, and shadow close to shadow clings,
A vesper thrush amid the thickets' gloom
Makes sweet the night—a symbol of the love
That dwells among the heart's forgotten things!

Only One Argument Against Feminism

From Life.

"I suppose you've made up your mind about suffrage," said my dinner partner, a rather tall, noncommittal person, in a splendid gown.

"Well, no," I admitted frankly. "I can't say I have. Perhaps it doesn't make so much difference either way," I added warily. But at this moment some one broke in and I was saved.

After dinner I was presented to an ethereal girl, with spangles, who plunged into eugenics at once.

"Wasn't it dreadful about Wisconsin going back on its own law?" she gasped. "Of course, you must believe in certificates. Think of one's getting married without one. How do you stand?"

"Can't say I've made up my mind yet," I replied, noting that the woman back of us was eyeing me suspiciously. "I agree with both sides," I continued, with a weak smile.

She was borne away. My next was a woman whose personality you could feel jutting out of her in crags.

"Yes," I said, "of course, the judiciary ought to be reformed. But the danger lies in being too revolutionary. Not that I am reactionary," I protested, "only that—well, I haven't quite made up my mind yet. There are two sides. It's really a very important question."

I managed to get away from her.

"What is your opinion about creative evolution?" said an old, slim girl, with a tortoise shell face extension, as she grabbed me in passing.

"I have none," I stammered. "I mean, of course, that both sides have merit; that is, the arguments either way are highly impressive."

Making my escape, I met the husband of my hostess, quietly smoking in an alcove of the piazza.

"Why home so soon?" he asked.

"To be candid, old man, I am getting away from all these highbrow women your wife is so fond of. I'm afraid if I venture an opinion I may guess wrong and get mobbed."

"Not quite so bad as that," he said. "At the very worst it amounts to this: if you disagree with one she insists upon trying to convert you. If you agree with her then she enlists your services to help the cause."

"Isn't that enough?" I groaned. "What's the use of knowing such people, anyway?"

"There's no choice among women nowadays. They're all the same. But I've found a remedy."

He looked around carefully, then lowered his voice:

"You mustn't let it get out," he whispered, "but I owe you something for having passed such an evening, and I don't want you to go home disgusted. My wife says it's too hard to get men to come to these things, anyway. Keep it quiet, then, but go back and do as I do."

"And that is?"

"When a woman begins to ask you where you stand, make love to her—married or single, it makes no difference. My boy, every highbrow female in this country wants affection and she doesn't know it. You see, they have become so deucedly intellectual that the men are all afraid of 'em. They'll bite like a school of bluefish. Go back and try your luck."

I ran up against him a couple of hours or so later to say good night.

"How did it work?"

"Work!" I whispered. "Wonderful! I'm engaged to three or four of 'em, and I kissed the whole bunch."

He winked solemnly.

"So did I," he whispered back. "I was only three laps behind."

Just "A-Fishin'"

Seattle Post-Intelligencer: Lonely figures in the landscape are reclining on grassy banks and wading streams today, obsessed with the one thought of luring the elusive trout from its cool retreat. Men who have been bending their energies to gigantic plans; men who have been laying out world-wide commercial campaigns; men who have been worrying about grocery bills, and meat bills, and interest and taxes; many of these have laid aside their troubles for a time like outworn garments, and are bending their mental processes to the battle of wits with the agile trout. And, for a time, the pushing business world is far away, and the fisher is absorbing the soothing silence of the forest, the drowsy chatter of the brook, the leaping glitter of the fish as it battles with the hook. Nature, long latent under the veneer of civilization, has for the time reclaimed her children, and they are reposing contentedly in her enfolding arms.

"While march the soldiers, rank on rank,
An' folks fer war air wishin',
I'm down here on a river bank
Fishin'.
"A life from care an' trouble free,
What joy that life is givin'!
It's half of heaven jes' to be
A-livin'!"

So sings the Georgia poet, Stanton, and so sings the heart of man everywhere under the touch of nature that makes us all akin, with fishing rod in hand.

It would be better for all of us if our fishing days came oftener. Some of us are too serious about our little business affairs. Getting ahead in a material way is not the only concern in life. One must have life as a prerequisite to ambition. We are but fit for the scrap-heap when the spark of nature within us is too long neglected.

Life, after all, is but an elementary problem once we are rid of our obsessions, the worry of our complex superstructure of civilization. The bread and wine of life stand openly in our sight, and one needs but to stoop to pick them up from the hand of nature.

And long ago the fisherman pointed the way to a great peace and the abiding calm and satisfaction that go with it.

The Next Best Thing.

Philadelphia Telegraph: Senator Theodore E. Burton of Ohio remarked at a banquet the other night that there is more than one way to surmount an obstacle, and told this story to prove it:

Some time since Jones married a sweet girl, who could lambaste a piano and sing charmingly, but when it came to baking bread and doing other trifles she didn't have a chance on earth of reaching first base.

One day Jones burst a button from his serge coat, and on leaving for the office on the following morning he asked little bridie if she wouldn't repair the damage during the day. Little bridie, of course, sweetly promised.

"Where are you, Harry?" called the young wife on hearing hubby rambling around the house that evening. "What are you looking for?"

"I am looking for my blue serge coat," answered Harry. "Did you sew on that button?"

"No, dear," came the startling rejoinder of wifey. "I couldn't find the button, so I sewed up the buttonhole."

Wilson No Exception.

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1894.

Edward Kringle, a workman at Merrill & Ring's sawmill at West Duluth, was fatally injured yesterday afternoon. He was struck by a sawdust scraper which became entangled in some machinery and received a terrific blow behind the left ear. He is a singleman, 24 years old, and came here from Saginaw, Mich. A brother, Herman Krinkle, is an engineer in the same mill.

W. M. Prindle has closed the sale for Boyle Bros. of twenty-five feet on Superior street where Avery & Co.'s candy store is located to Mrs. Humphrey of Minneapolis. The price is $1,200 a foot, or $30,000, and spot cash was paid for the property. Boyle Bros. retain the building and have a 50-year lease of the land.

The Women's Christian Temperance union held its annual meeting yesterday at the First M. E. church and elected the following officers: President, Mrs. C. E. Battles; vice-president, Miss Christie Williams; recording secretary, Miss May Telford; corresponding secretary, Miss Victoria Ericson; treasurer, Miss Mate Maxwell.

The loan firm of Mondschine & Album at 417 West Superior street has dissolved partnership. D. Mondschine will continue the business.

A. H. Olmsted has resigned his position as engineer for the Minnesota Canal company and returned to his home in Bloomfield N. J., where he has been appointed city engineer.

Charles E. Marsden may not return to Duluth, it being reported that he has gone into business with F. Greene at Virginia City, Wash.

Duluth temperature at 7 a. m. today, 38 degs.; maximum yesterday, 43 degs.; minimum yesterday, 38 degs. The weather is foggy, with a fresh northeast wind.

Fearful storms have been raging in the territory south of Duluth and the railroad service is demoralized by bad washouts on the Omaha, St. Paul & Duluth and Wisconsin Central roads. Rain fell in solid sheets at Stillwater and the damage will reach $100,000. The electrical storm at St. Paul was one of the worst ever seen there. Much damage was done by the rain. Floods swept down the Black River and Chippewa valleys in Wisconsin and destroyed dams and bridges. The flood loss in the Chippewa valley alone is estimated at $2,000,000.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

The Peacemakers.

It is surely a wise impulse that leads the churches to set aside May 17 as Peace Sunday. If any institution is qualified to exercise leadership in such a matter it should surely be the representatives of Him at whose advent the angels sang their "Peace on earth, good will to men" and whose own beatitude for His people was "Blessed are the peacemakers." That the Christian church is not disloyal to the teachings of its mighty Founder there are many signs. Mr. Carnegie, as canny in philanthropy as in business, recognized the fact when a few months since he placed $2,000,000 in the hands of a board of churchmen chosen from every sect to advance the common cause.

Historically it has not been easy to see that peacemakers are blessed. For countless weary ages it was the warmakers on whom the blessing seemed to rest. History is largely a story of conflict. Man is by nature a fighting animal, prone to settle his quarrels by blows. Calling over the great names of the past we can probably think of more men of the fighting than of any other profession. The most splendid mausoleums, from the pyramids of Egypt to the magnificent tomb beside our own Hudson have been erected to warriors.

A change of mood, however, has been coming over the civilized world. There is slow but steady progress toward ideals of peace. Armed conflict is not to be abolished at once. There will be wars and rumors of wars. Nations will go on building dreadnoughts and drilling armies—but for police duty rather than for conquest.

The peacemaker is coming into his own. His transcendent service to humanity is being recognized. Upon University Heights in New York city there stands a Hall of Fame to commemorate great Americans. Few names of warriors are found on the panels thus far inscribed. Instead the visitor is reminded of Webster, Franklin, Peter Cooper, Jonathan Edwards and others who drew no sword and led no armed battalions.

It is blessed to be a peacemaker, a creator of harmony rather than of strife in all the relations of life. Peacemakers are more needed than strifemakers in the home, on the playground, in the business office. It often requires more heroism to be a peacemaker than to be a strifemaker. Even the Apostle Paul recognized the difficulty of many a situation when he said, "If it be possible, as much as lieth in you, live peaceably with all men." It is not always possible so to live no matter how much we may desire it. Occasions of discord are many. People about us are cantankerous, unreasonable. Disagreements and misunderstandings seem to spring out of the air.

That is not alone courage which is able and willing to fire guns. It is courage of the finest sort that is willing to bridge chasms and steadfastly to bring peace and quietness into the disorders of life. They are earth's noblemen and noblewomen who go about the delicate and important business. By their example they are hastening the day when peace shall prevail on the earth as a great mood of man and as a principle of his action, when the nations now bristling like armed camps shall beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks and learn the arts of war no more.

THE PARSON.

The Better Thing.

Robert L. Stevenson: O toiling bands of mortals! O unwearied feet, traveling ye know not whither! Soon, soon, it seems to you, you must come forth on some conspicuous hilltop, and but a little way further, against the setting sun, descry the spires of El Dorado. Little do ye know your own blessedness; for to travel hopefully is a better thing than to arrive and the true success is to labor.

A LITTLE HISTORY

By SAVOYARD

Washington, May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the Washington Post there is an interview with Former Senator Bailey of Texas in which that gentleman is made to say as follows:

"In every Democratic national convention except two the candidate once receiving a majority of the votes was given the nomination. Both of these exceptional conventions were held in Baltimore, the one, in 1844, nominating James K. Polk, after Martin Van Buren had received a majority, and the other in 1912, when Mr. Clark, after having received a majority of the votes on nine successive ballots, was beaten by the president. Both of the nominees were elected at the subsequent elections and within fifteen months after inauguration each found a Mexican war on his hands."

Mr. Bailey is too able a lawyer to advance the legal proposition that Mr. Champ Clark had a vested right to the nomination at Baltimore, but it is possible that if the thing were thrown into chancery he would accept and argue a brief in that behalf.

As there are no quotation marks I presume that Mr. Bailey was too shrewd to father the following that the average reader would take to be a part of the interview, but which must be charged to the Washington Post itself:

"In this connection it is notable that in 1844 the delegates to the convention were more concerned about the Mexican trouble than they were with the nomination of a presidential candidate. Texas had seceded from the Mexican union in 1836, and, defeating the Mexican troops under Santa Ana, established the independent republic of Texas, which, in December, 1845, was admitted to the United States. This led to the war with Mexico in April, 1846, which was finally settled by the treaty of Guadelupe on Feb. 2, 1848, whereby the United States acquired all the territory belonging to Mexico north and east of the Rio Grande for $15,000,000.

"Republicans now point to the fact that they won the election following that war and are prophesying that history will repeat itself."

The last paragraph is ridiculous, for the Republican party was not born until the Mexican war had been over about seven years, and that party did not enter national politics until 1856, or nine years after the war.

And so the "history" of that last paragraph, as my old friend Martin Alonso Walker, the matchless police court lawyer of Louisville, Ky., used to say, "bears on its face the persuasive odor of its own improbability," and hence I ascribe it to the youthful editor of the Post and not to the veteran ex-stateman of Texas.

But there is suggestion in the first paragraph from Bailey, I quote in the foregoing, and doubtless that is what prompted the second paragraph, by the editor, in which the wish is so manifestly father to the thought that no action for bastardy could possibly be successfully defended if it arose in this transaction.

Now let us see about it. Martin Van Buren in 1844, like Champ Clark in 1912, got the majority in the Democratic national convention. Four years later he headed a ticket opposed to the Democratic party and his action defeated Gen. Cass, the candidate of the Democratic party for president. Is that the way "history" is going to "repeat itself?" What does Champ think about that? What sort of reflection is here cast on him? The day was when the name Van Buren was the most odious in our political history in Democratic circles, and here is the Washington Post apparently trying to make Champ Clark Van Buren's fellow.

But let us get back to "the history" of the thing. I doubt not the Hon. Bailey has read Thurlow Weed. Mr. Weed, in a book that is, regarding our politics as frank as the reminiscences of Jean Jacques Rousseau are as to his personal conduct, tells how the Whigs carried the election in 1848. They had the hero of the war—Gen. Taylor—and they had the co-operation of Martin Van Buren.

The great heart of the Whig party beat for Henry Clay. Had it been a fair and full Whig primary he would have beaten Taylor in every state in the Union. Weed knew that if Clay was nominated Van Buren would do all he could to elect the Democratic nominee, and that if any other Whig, even Webster, were nominated, Van Buren would do all he could to defeat the Democratic ticket, and so Weed, who could have taught Tom Platt and Matt Quay and Arthur Gorman a thousand tricks of politics they never dreamed of, brought about the nomination of Gen. Taylor by a convention that wanted to nominate Henry Clay.

He had Benjamin F. Butler with him—not that old scoundrel from Massachusetts, but that great old lawyer from Buffalo, N. Y., a Democrat, who had been attorney-general in Van Buren's cabinet. They put their heads together and brought about the nomination of Van Buren as the Anti-Slavery candidate for president. See how insidious it was. The Anti-Slavery Whigs of New York hated Van Buren so intensely that they voted for the slave-holder, Gen. Taylor, but the Free-Soil Democrats rallied to Van Buren, and he got more votes in New York—that decided the thing—than Cass, the regular Democratic nominee, got.

I don't believe my friend Champ is very willing to be the Van Buren of 1916. I am sure he would scorn it. And then, the hero of the present war may turn up a Democrat and a Woodrow Wilson man.

GUIDANCE FOR CITY GROWTH

City Planning Movement World Wide.

By Charles Mulford Robinson, Author of "The Width and Arrangement of Streets: A Study in Town Planning."

(Exclusive Service The Survey Press Bureau.)

A famous English landscape architect has just been summoned to Greece to make a city plan for Athens. The explanation is that Athens has been experiencing that growth which in recent years has been so marked a feature of city life throughout the world. She finds it necessary to provide ampler facilities for her crowding traffic, new and shorter avenues to the suburban residence districts that are growing up around her, more and larger parks for a larger population from whom the growing city has been pushing the country further and further away.

Athen's Modern Problem.

Athens has been brought face to face with the common, world-wide problem. She could be no more exempt from it than is the railroad junction on the prairie, the mining town of Wales, the clean industrial city of Germany. She has had to send for the city planner, as Topeka lately did; as Calgary, Can., as Houston, Texas, and as staid New Haven did.

Everywhere, the growing city has to meet the problem of readjustment. The boy, putting on long trousers takes thought as to his future and is better for doing so. It is equally well, and normal, for the city to do these things, and all kinds of cities all over the world are doing it.

So it has come about that what is called city planning has developed into one of those rare and epoch-marking world movements that are the great milestones of history and that influence civilization.

For hundreds and hundreds of years, cities had been cramped inside of encompassing walls. The people were huddled together for defense, and growth of population meant an ever-closer crowding. There were no cleared spaces then for playgrounds and parks. The very streets were narrowed to the limit, many becoming no more than mere slits between the walls. This was possible because the towns, being of such restricted area and doing almost no manufacturing, had very little vehicle traffic. If a person rode anywhere, he went on horseback; but it was not too far to walk wherever one wanted to go, and there was little freight to be transported.

City Expansion.

Then, very suddenly, there came a series of events that were dramatic in their cumulative effect upon the city. The engirdling walls were taken down, and the city could expand. At the same moment there was a development of manufacturing and a building of railroads, that brought into the cities a rush of population, that forced expansion and choked their streets with freight.

The cities had to expand, and the more area they covered, the greater, of course, became the use of vehicular transportation, necessitating new street adjustments. The city boundaries were pushed further and further outward and as fast as they went the means of transportation improved. The slow and lumbering old stage or bus was followed by the horsecar, drawn more swiftly and smoothly upon rails. Then came the cable car and then the trolley. A point four miles from the center of town became as near by street car as a point only one mile out had been. As the streets were extended mile upon mile, they created a need for parks and open spaces, and these in their turn, absorbing city land, hastened the town's expansion. Now the telephone and automobile have been developed, and are facilitating the outward march of the town. It has been well said that there has been more change in urban conditions in the last fifty years than in the two thousand years preceding.

What wonder that such new and strange demands have swamped the facilities of cities built on the old plan; what wonder that the new and now seriously studied science of city planning is suddenly finding a broad field of usefulness; what wonder that cities everywhere are calling for readjustment, and calling the more loudly as they are the more progressive? It is a proof of vidility, not of weakness, when a community takes up town planning. In Massachusetts, indeed, the legislature has enacted a law requiring every community of 10,000 or more population to have a planning board.

Today's Pioneers City Planners.

To the present generation there has been thus given the working out of a problem that is brand new: The planning of towns for demands that were undreamed of twenty years ago, the building of cities on a scale that must have seemed impossible a generation since. The pioneers of the last century were the tamers of the wilderness; the pioneers of the present are the builders of cities. In London, said John Burns, speaking late in 1913, upward of 300,000 acres had been absorbed in the urban area in the preceding six years and more than 1,100 streets had been constructed.

From twenty-five to forty per cent of all the land in modern cities is accounted for by streets. In New York City, it was stated last summer, there were 2,677 miles of public streets. The value of the land they occupied was estimated, with its improvements, at $9,469,000,000—"one-fourth as great as the value of all the farm land in the United States."

If the city planners should find some way of platting streets that would effect a saving of as little as one per cent in their area, think of the high finance that it would spell. One per cent for New York alone would have meant $94,690,000—and New York is only one city. The wise planning of towns is evidently a big and vital problem, even aside from its efficiency and social benefits—which are the aspects of it of which one hears the most.

"To make cities," said Henry Drummond, "that is what we are here for. For the city is strategic. It makes the towns; the towns make the villages; the villages make the country. He who makes the city makes the world. After all, though men make cities, it is cities which make men. Whether our national life is great or mean, whether our social virtues are mature or stunted, whether our sons are moral or vicious, whether religion is possible or impossible, depends upon the city." That is the justification of city planning.

Norway's National Hymn

By BJORNSTJERNE BJORNSON.

(Translated by Arthur Hubbell Palmer in the American-Scandinavian Review.)

Yes, we love this land that towers
Where the ocean foams;
Rugged, storm-swept, it embowers
Many thousand homes.
Love it, love it, of you thinking,
Father, mother dear;
And that night of saga sinking
Dreamful to us here.

This the land that Harald guarded
With his hero-throng;
This the land that Haakon warded,
Hailed by Eyvind's song.
Olaf here the cross erected,
While his blood he shed;
Sverre's word this land protected
'Gainst the Roman dread.

Peasants whetted axes carried
Where the foe was known;
Tordenskjold flashed forth and harried,
So it homeward shown.
Women oft to arms were leaping,
Manlike in their deed;
Others' lot was nought but weeping—
Tears that brought their meed.

Many truly were we never,
But we did suffice,
When in times of testing ever
Worthy was the prize.
For we would the land see burning,
Rather than its fall;
Memory our thoughts is turning
Down to Fredrikshald!

Harder times we bore that tried us,
Were cast off in scorn;
In that crisis was beside us
Blue-eyed freedom born.
That gave father-strength for bearing
Famine-need and sword,
Honor death itself outwearing,
And it gave accord.

Far our foe his weapons flinging
Up his visor raised;
We in wonder to him springing
On our brother gazed.
Both by wholesome shame incited
Southward made our way;
Brother three, in heart united,
We shall stand for aye!

Men of Norway, high or lowly,
Give to God the praise!
He our land's Defender Holy
In its darkest days!
All our fathers here have striven
And our mothers wept;
Hath the Lord His guidance given,
So our right we kept.

Yes, we love this land that towers
Where the ocean foams;
Rugged, storm-swept, it embowers
Many thousand homes.
As our fathers fought, acquiring
Vict'ry at the end,
We shall heed the call inspiring
And its peace defend.

QUEEN MARY VICTIM OF RUSE

Great Dressmakers of Paris Failed to Show Her Any of the Dancing Skirts Now in Vogue—Special Designs Prepared.

Paris, May 16.—Queen Mary unwittingly was the victim of a little conspiracy during her recent visit to France.

Much had been heard here of the English queen's aversion to extremes in fashions. The order was whispered about among the ladies invited to the state dinners that during Queen Mary's visit they should avoid all modern eccentricities of the mode.

Some of the women complained that it hardly was consistent with deep respect for royalty to wear one's old clothes, but the idea of conservative dress was carried out generally.

Some of the great dressmakers of Paris, at the queen's command, brought their models to the foreign office where her majesty was lodged. The queen selected several costumes. The gownmakers were warned beforehand not to show any of the daring and bizarre skirts now in vogue. The creators hastily prepared special designs which were shown to her majesty as absolutely the newest things, which, indeed they were, since no one else had seen them before. The queen is understood to have been well pleased with the good taste and discretion shown.

All Doubts Removed.

King George was much moved on several occasions during the visit here by the extraordinary enthusiasm of the Parisian crowds. His emotion on one occasion in passing through the Place de la Concorde was very evident. His toast to Paris as a city which his father had loved was an expression which pleased every one.

The visit appears to have fulfilled every political expectation. The close understanding between the English and French governments which had never been interrupted since it was arranged in 1904 had become a little vague and misunderstood by the French public. Doubts had arisen as to whether England was really in earnest in her friendship for France. These doubts have been removed, and the "entente cordiale" seems to be warmer than ever.

Cleanliness Lacking.

Students of the manners and customs of past times are well aware that the ladies and gentlemen of the court of Louis XIV were more remarkable for the magnificence of their attire than for the cleanliness of their persons. An interesting document has just been found which once more proves this historical fact. It is a copy of the regulations of the celebrated school for the daughters of the nobility founded at Saint Cyr by Madame de Maintenon.

"Pupils are entitled to have one set of underclothing, one pair of stockings and two handkerchiefs per month. Towels—Pupils, one every week; nuns, one every two weeks. Foot-bath—Pupils, one a month; nuns, only by special authorization of the superior. Complete bath—Thrice a year (May, June, July). Pupils unable to take their bath on the appointed day must wait until the following month."

New Postage Stamps.

The French postal authorities are considering the issue of a series of stamps with a new designs. Instead of Roty's familiar "Sower," the new stamps will have a picture of the Eiffel tower with an aeroplane flying over it. The reason for this change is that the present stamp is very easily copied by forgers. The proposed new design is meeting with much criticism. It is said that if the government must supersede Roty's graceful figure it might be something more pleasing than the Eiffel tower.

Not Much Appreciated.

With the object of facilitating the task of the telegraph operators who will have to transmit large numbers of telegrams in Esperanto during the approaching Esperanto congress, the chief of the postal department arranged a course of instruction for them. His initiative, however, does not seem to have met with much appreciation, as out of 147 employes whose names were put down on the list for the lessons, only six were present on the first day and only five on the second.

INCREASE LINES OF COMMUNICATION.

Panama, May 16,—Telephone and telegraph facilities are being rapidly extended in the republic of Panama in anticipation of a greatly increased demand for lines of communication when the canal is opened. The department of public works recently has ordered 1,800 miles of telephone and telegraph wire, the larger part of the order being placed in the United States. The first new line to be constructed will be to David, the most important town in the republic outside of Panama City and Colon. The whole expenditure will amount to some $500,000.

Monday Brings Home the White Sox for the First Home Series of the Season With the Red Sox As Opponents---Current Gossip Gathered From Afar.

BY BRUCE.

CIRCUS day, the glorious and effervescent Fourth of July, barring rain—and the opening baseball game of the season are three pristine events that in the point of poignant interest have decided and distinct personalities. Outside of moving day and the meat bills, events or institutions that involve some entire families, there is no single event that we know of that compares in general interest with the opening of the baseball season.

On Monday the White Sox return from the road and start the domestic doings. Superior is the guest of the management for the first three games of the 1914 season on the home lot. Following the opening overture we journey across the bay on the next three successive days and battle in the bandbox. Then the Dooks go to Virginia for three more games, and then to Fort William for a hoped for trio of triumphs. The Sox do not return home until May 30, the day we decorate ourselves and the graves of others, when the other teams of the league each play a series here.

There will be but a peep at the new team and then it will be off to complete its swing around the circuit. The Sox make the first half of the Burmeister wheel, return for three games and clean laundry, and then are off for the completion of the tour.

There will be a band, the mayor and the first ball, an address of welcome and prophecy and other elaborate details in harmonious keeping with the spirit of the day. It is expected that the largest crowd that has ever witnessed an opening game will be on hand. Ample preparations have been made by the officers of the association for the handling of the fans, and with a new team and the promise of perfect weather for the grand opening, Duluth should take a half holiday and welcome home the tourists.

The Northern Leaguer.

WHILE Schauer is still in the experimental stage with the Giants news comes and knocks for recognition regarding the making good of George Zabel of the Cubs.

Last season, or the latter part of last season, George was with the Winnipeg Maroons. He won ten games and lost one. All of the players of the league were loud in their declarations and declamations that George had nothing but a horse shoe and a rather commanding presence. However, at the end of the season George went up.

Now we hear of the valorous pitching feats of George. Ball players are perverse and argumentative; some of the same children of fancy will no doubt stoutly declare that George is the child of fortunate or fortuitous circumstances. But George should worry so long as he sticks and draws the large pay envelope.

KID WILLIAMS is to fight Johnny Coulon for the world's bantamweight championship at Los Angeles on the ninth of June. Part of Williams' training stunt is to dive from a 40-foot tower. This Liberal Minded State.

ACCORDING to a law on the statute books of this state a man can be prosecuted for going out of the state to attend a boxing contest. Two disappointed seekers for a license at the hands of the Wisconsin state boxing commissioners threaten to have the law enforced. This makes it great for the moving picture shows and ice cream parlors.

It Would Be Salacious.

IN 1909 Detroit and Pittsburg were the winners in their respective leagues. The passing of time crippled the two machines and left them stranded on the baseball beach. This season Detroit has benefited by the acquisition of Martin Kavanagh and George Burns, two of the best looking youngsters who have broken into baseball for some time.

Through trades Fred Clifford Clarke has apparently strengthened the power and attack of the Pirates. Would it not be strange should Detroit come back in the Ban Johnson circuit and Pittsburg cop in the older if not more dignified league? Give your answer. It would.

And in the further event of the series for the world's championship and the big kale going to the length of seven games there would doubtless be those who would wisely croak that the whole thing was fixed.

The Always Aftermath.

NO wrestling contest ever held in the history of Duluth created the amount of talk that fell in the wake of the Cutler-Westergaard affair. It has the wisest followers of the game mystified.

The writer has sought out opinions from some of those who have followed the sport, and the verdict has been as a rule that they were guessing.

Some hold that Cutler was in and sought an excuse for ending the contest; others hold that the Chicagoan is the better man and simply permitted his temper to ruin his chances of winning.

OPENING OF TRAP SEASON

Northwestern Gun Club Will Hold Open House Event.

The seventh annual grand opening shoot of the Northwestern Gun club will be held tomorrow at the Rice Lake road grounds. The opening of the regular season will start competition in the various trophy events.

The Gonska trophy, which was donated to the club by John Gonska after a return from Germany, is the first on the list. This trophy was won in 1912 by John Wold, and in the following year by John Peterson, and under the terms of the rules governing its competition must be won twice in succession by the same contestant before it becomes his property.

The People's Brewing company of Duluth has donated another handsome cup. This is a beautiful trophy. Under the rules of competition each contestant must shoot at 100 clay pigeons on four different shooting days, and the cup must be won three consecutive times before it becomes the permanent property of any contestant.

Shooters in the four different classes may enter the competition for the cup, the A class shooters to shoot from the 20-yard lines, B class from the 18-yard, C class from the 16, and D class competitors from the 14-yard lines.

Any contestant winning the cup, no matter in what class, must defend the cup the following season from the 20-yard mark line. The trophy will not be engraved with the winner's name until it has become his permanent property.

Officials and members of the Northwestern Gun club are extremely anxious to make the opening event of tomorrow the most successful in the history of the club. It is expected that 6,000 birds will be trapped during the day.

Automobiles will be run during the day from the corner of Fifth avenue east and Fourth street to the grounds of the club.

FORD TALKED HIS WAY OUT

A story is told in the Head of the Lakes baseball circles to the effect that shortly after the release of Dad Ford by Superior came an offer from the Winona team to trade Pitcher Snow for the utility man.

It is also stated that Dad talked one lone official of the club across the bay into giving him his release and that after this fact became generally known there was the proverbial wailing and gnashing of teeth.

Following further the trail of gossip and rumor it is said that Winona stands ready at the present time to trade Snow for Ford.

President Blume of the local team announced yesterday that he did not know the state of mind of O'Brien upon this proposition. The Peerless laundry leader further announced that the Sox were more in need of hitters than pitchers as the club stood at present.

It must be that Snow is not satisfied with his surroundings at the city beautiful down at the other end of the state. It is known that the Ashland recruit asked for an increase in the amount of mazuma that was coming his way, or was to come his way and if he failed to grab off the fattened envelope there may be dissatisfaction lurking around the corners of Bill's mobile mouth.

DULUTH TEAM WILL MEET SUPERIOR NINE.

Manager Larson of the Twin Ports Clothing company has scheduled a game with the fast Tower Clothing company team of Superior for Sunday, to be played at Hislop park at 3 o'clock. The Tower team is composed of the last year's Golden Rule and the players are considered one of the fastest semi-pro teams in the Northwest. Manager Larson of the Twin Ports Clothing company has signed up some of the fastest players in and around Duluth and a good game is expected. Larson's men have been practicing hard for the last two weeks and will be in the best of condition for the game. The Twin Ports lineup will be as follows: Adam Graines, catcher; Herb Hansen, Spike Farell and Joe Graines pitchers; Dave Wested, 1st basc; Jim Campbell and A. McDonald, 2nd base; Jack Connell, short; Hutchins, Rissitti and Berry, third; Joe Benda, Bill Doig, Ed Ellen and Mike McGraw in the out field.

CHALLENGE ENGLAND TO PLAY RUGBY GAME.

Stanford, University, Cal., May 16.—Dr. Frank Angell, chairman of the faculty athletics committee of Leland Stanford, Jr., university has announced that the winner of the Oxford-Cambridge rugby classic in England probably will be invited to visit the United States in 1915 and participate in a series of rugby games against Western universities at the Panama-Pacific exposition.

Dr. Angell characterized as "tommy rot" recent rumors that Stanford and the University of California might soon return to American football, after eight years' experience with rugby.

WISCONSIN CREWS IN SHAPE FOR POUGHKEEPSIE

Big Squad of Oarsmen Preparing Under Coach Vail for the Classic Sweep Event That Will Be Decided on the Historic Hudson.

Madison, Wis., May 16.—With twenty-four seasoned oarsmen daily at work, Badger chances at the Poughkeepsie regatta are more encouraging than they have been since Pollock's crew all but won in 1912.

Six of the boatful that represented Wisconsin in last year's eight-oar event are holding down their berths and the other two are filled by the veterans Tasker and Kennedy, who have seen two years of varsity service, and who last season helped man the four-oared craft.

The make up of the so-called first varsity is: Stroke, Bohstead; 7, Wittich; 6, Tasker; 5, Casberg; 4, Kennedy; 2, Evert; bow, Clayton, and Brown, coxswain. Students and followers of the situation believe that this group will start for Wisconsin at the big eastern festival. Coach Dad Vail, however, declares that positions are still undecided and will be until just before the beginning of the eastern invasion.

Prominent close runners for places in the varsity shell are the 1916 freshmen who are available.

After a season of ups and downs, the freshmen squad has begun to assume definite form and the yearlings, according to critics will give good accounts of themselves. Vail has reduced the squad to two boats and from now on he will try to determine the most finished eight from an available sixteen.

At the present clip at which they are shooting along, nothing can keep the freshman crew from tearing down the Hudson in the front rank at the regatta in June. The first year men have developed a wonderful finish and their shell glides through the water with an even, steady motion. Capt. John L. Mitchell of Milwaukee, although he only tips the scales at 162 pounds and is the lightest man on the yearling crew, bids fair to develop into the best oarsman in his boat. Mitchell is an experienced crew man, having rowed for two years under Coach Courtney of Cornell while attending Cascadilla preparatory school at Ithaca, N. Y.

In a recent practice the yearlings skipped away from the varsity veterans and beat them by three full boat lengths, showing old "Dad" Vail that he need not worry over the fortunes of the freshman boat. Vail takes great pride in his first year oarsmen and if all the men remain eligible and keep developing at the present rate, Wisconsin will have a wonderful varsity crew to send to Poughkeepsie in 1915.

Of the men working in the varsity shell, Wittich, Kennedy and Evert are holdovers from the last year's varsity. Tasker and Kennedy are veterans of last year's four-oared and of the varsity eight that went to Poughkeepsie in 1912. Casberg is a contribution from last year's freshman boat. Schroeder and Clayton have had long careers as substitutes.

MINNESOTA WINS.

Beats Iowa in First of Series of Ball Games.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 16.—Effective pitching by Roen, gave the first game of the series between the Universities of Minnesota and Iowa to the home team 8 to 2. Roen was credited with striking out eight men, while Ingham of the visitors struck out five.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Minnesota 00003005 0	8	9	5
Iowa 11000000 0	2	2	4

Batteries—Roen and Tagland; Ingham and Foster.

THE NORTHERNS WILL PLAY PROCTOR TEAM.

The Northerns of this city will open the baseball season at Proctor tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. Anderson, the veteran of years, will do the receiving in tomorrow's game. Pitcher Alder is in excellent condition and with a little luck ought to get away with the opening game. The rest of the team are in fine shape. The Proctor team consists of home players with the exception of Catcher Goff, who is from this city. The lineup for the opening game as follows:

Northerns—		Proctor—
Anderson	c	Goff
Alder	p	Renaud
Grenner	1b	Murray
McLaughlin	2b	McCabe
Du Moe	ss	Ward
Nelson	3b	Wiles
Norsted	lf	Nelson and Graham
Gilliland	cf	Brayden

Fight Fast Draw.

Kansas City, Mo., May 16.—"Bob" Moha of Milwaukee and Al Norton of California, heavyweights, fought ten rounds here last night. No decision was given and local followers of the ring were almost unanimous in declaring the bout a draw. The fighting was fast.

GOPHERS WIN ON DIAMOND

Roen, the Varsity Star Hurler, Proves Great Asset to Team.

Miss Eleanor Olds Is Declared Champion Woman Swimmer.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The University of Minnesota won its first conference game of baseball by defeating Northwestern 3 to 2. The game was nip and tuck, with good work by both hurlers and fair support from the infield. Roen, on the mound for the Gophers, struck out twelve men, and in in one inning retired Northwestern by the strike-out method when the bases were full. The visitors took violent exception to the work of Umpire Anderson on several occasions. The Northwestern team appeared with four of its former players and coach missing. They were relieved of affiliation with the school because of professionalism.

Minnesota repeated the procedure by defeating Wisconsin at Northrop Field on Tuesday afternoon by a score of 6 to 1. Roen, the overworked Gopher hurler, continued his stellar work by striking out thirteen men. Every Badger batsman in the first and ninth innings whiffed. Though the Cardinal team was outplayed at every stage of the game, the burden of the defeat rests on Hoppert, the Cardinal third baseman, who made five costly errors.

In the annual dual freshman-sophomore track meet, held on Northrop Field, the freshmen won over the second year men by a score of 39 to 24. The freshmen took six first places out of the seven events, four of which were annexed by Hamilton, a freshman engineer, who has been the university track star all season. No exceptional time was registered in any event, but the contestants performed with enough "pep" to indicate that a few of them at least have an athletic future ahead.

Great rejoicing was evidenced in track circles this week when it was learned that John Martin, star hurdler, had been declared eligible by the "Ag" faculty. Martin is good in both hurdle events, and according to Coach Frank will round out the team in good shape.

The inter-fraternity baseball games are now being played off, and almost every morning at 6 o'clock teams representing the various fraternities gather on Northrop Field or the river flats to prove their proficiency in the sport. The fraternities have been divided into four sections. In section 1, Beta Theta Pi is leading with a percentage of 1.000, while Sigma Alpha Epsilon heads the column in the second section, while in the fourth section the Phi Delts and Delta Taus are fighting for supremacy. All the teams are displaying unusually good form.

Thursday in a meet featured by the breaking of many local swimming records, Miss Eleanor Olds was declared champion woman swimmer by the Women's Athletic association. Miss Olds won a total of 87.8 points. Her next competitor, Miss Jeanne Macgilvra won 81.2 points, while Miss Alma Haupt finished third with 67.2 points. A silver cup was awarded to the winner in chapel on the following day, and a bronze medal was presented to the runner-up. Last year's record of 19.9 for twenty years, any stroke, was lowered to 18.4. The 20-yard side stroke record was lowered from 20.2 to 19.4. Plunge for distance record was increased from 34 feet 8 inches to 35 feet 2 inches. A record of three strokes for the length of the tank was also established.

CLOSE GAME LOST AT PEG

Stolen Bases and Errors Figure in Scoring Runs.

Winnipeg, Man., May 16.—Winnipeg and Duluth fought out a 10-inning game here yesterday, the locals winning the first of the series by the score of 5 to 4. It was a light hitting game, errors figuring in the majority of runs scored by both teams.

Neither catcher seemed to be able to stop the base pilfering. The runners ran wild on the paths, and the free passage of the base lines coupled with the errors accounted for most of the runs.

Both Blancke and House pitched effective ball. A great spear of a liner in right field robbed Brackett of a three-base clout, Swaln going back and getting the ball over his shoulder.

FLICKERS WIN FIRST GAME FROM TWINS

Grand Forks, N. D., May 16.—The Flickers had a picnic yesterday with the Fort Williams Twins, winning the game by the score of 10 to 2. Kramer and Keinholtz were hit hard, while Morse kept the hits of the visitors well scattered. Some clever fielding was performed by the home players.

WINONA WINS FIRST GAME FROM RED SOX

Winona, Minn., May 16.—Superior lost the opening game of the series to Winona yesterday by the score of 4 to 2. Cardinals Trounce Phillies.

St. Louis, Mo., May 16.—St. Louis won from Philadelphia yesterday through the wildness of Jacobs, by bunching hits and taking advantage of the visitors' errors. St. Louis scored two runs in the third inning when Cruise singled after twelve successive balls had filled the bases. In the seventh inning, Byrne hurt his finger and retired. Score: R. H. E.

THE SECRETARY OF THE DULUTH TEAM

JOHN MEINING.

Giants 5; Pirates 3.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 16.—New York hit McQuillan hard in the first five innings yesterday and took the second game of the series, 5 to 3. Harmon relieved McQuillan in the sixth and finished the game for Pittsburg in good style. Mathewson kept nine hits scattered and held the Pirates to infield taps with men on bases. Larry Doyle is still out of the game with tonsilitis, and Marquard was reported a victim of the same ailment yesterday. Score: R. H. E.

Detroit Takes Series.

New York, May 16.—Detroit broke Caldwell's winning streak and made a clean sweep of the series by winning yesterday, 4 to 2. Cobb injured his knee in the first inning sliding to second, but his hitting and base-running featured Detroit's victory. An attempt by a section of the crowd to mob Umpire Chill after the game, was defeated by special policemen, who escorted him from the field. Chill displeased the fans by refusing to let Walsh take his base after he was hit by a pitched ball in the eighth inning. Several drinking glasses were thrown at him. President Johnson of the American league witnessed the affair. Score: R. H. E.

Browns 9; Red Sox 3.

Boston, Mass., May 16.—The St. Louis players found Bedlent's delivery easy yesterday and they won, 9 to 3. The feature of the day was the return to the game of Pitcher Joe Wood, who was operated on for appendicitis last February. He had all his old-time speed and much of his former cunning during the one inning in which he figured. A home run by Walker of St. Louis over the left field fence was one of the longest hits ever made on the local grounds. Score: R. H. E.

AMERICAN ASSN.

Wins Farcical Game.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 16.—Minneapolis won a farcical game from Cleveland yesterday, 7 to 5. Manager Sheckard used four pitchers in an effort to prevent defeat, Kahler, former Cleveland American leaguer, made his first appearance on the mound for the AA team and in two innings fanned two and passed two. Lake's hitting was a feature. Score: R. H. E.

Shut Out for Pittfeds.

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 16.—Poor work on the bases by Pittsburg and opportune hitting by Kansas City, gave the latter team the game here yesterday by a score of 1 to 0. Two of the five hits made off Dickson and Henderson came in the fifth and these, coupled with a force-out and a sacrifice, gave the visitors the only run of the game. Score: R. H. E.

Brooklyn 12; St. Louis 6.

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 16.—Brooklyn defeated St. Louis 12 to 6, yesterday in a ragged game. The pitchers were liberal with passes, hits were frequent, batteries were hit, and each team was guilty of errors. "Bob" Groom, for the visitors, was hit hard and gave way to Herbert, who in turn was relieved after exhibiting wildness. Brooklyn tried out a young collegian, Vernon, who lasted less than four innings. Score: R. H. E.

ZBYSZKO DEFEATS ORDEMAN ON FOUL.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 16.—Stanislaus Zbyszko, the Polish heavyweight wrestler, won his match with Henry Ordeman of Minneapolis here last night, winning the second and third falls after forfeiting $500 by removing his shoes following defeat in the first fall in 26 minutes. Zbyszko, who usually wrestles in bare feet, had put up the money to bind his agreement to wear shoes. The second fall went to Zbyszko by a crotch and scissors hold in 13 minutes 14 seconds, and the third was given him on a foul after 33 minutes of wrestling.

THE NEW SHOOTING TROPHY AND THE MAN WHO GAVE IT

JOHN WOLD.

BOBBY WALLACE GREATEST VETERAN IN BIG SHOW

The St. Louis Shortstop Was in the Game Three Years Before Hans Wagner Broke Into Baseball and Two Years Before Lajoie Started.

New York, May 16.—What player has been playing the longest in the big leagues? What is the answer, Mr. Fan? You probably will think good and hard and say, "Well, since old Cy Young is gone I can't recollect whether Nap Lajoie started in before Hans Wagner, or the Flying Dutchman started ahead of King Larry." Well, in either case, you are decidly wrong.

The real old man of baseball performs on the St. Louis Browns, which is no doubt a very appropriate place for an ancient athlete to hang up his hat. The old fellow is no other than Rhoderick Wallace, the veteran shortstop of the St. Louis Americans.

Rhody was in the big leagues three years before our old Pittsburg ruln, Hans Wagner, broke in with Louisville and two years before Nap Lajoie made his debut with the Phillies. Rhody broke into the big leagues in the latter part of the season of 1894 with the Cleveland Nationals as a pitcher. Lajoie went to the Phillies late in 1896, and Wagner to Louisville in the latter part of the 1897 campaign.

Wallace is therefore starting his twenty-first campaign as a big leaguer. Wallace is still able to play short with the best of them, and he started the present campaign with the Browns at short, though Walsh has been playing the position for the last few days. Age has never affected the Scot's throwing arm, and he can still whip the ball across the diamond with the speed of a youngster just breaking in.

Hitting Counted.

Had Wallace remained a pitcher he probably would have faded from the big league map long ago, though that great arm might have kept him in the game much longer than the average hurler. Wallace was a pretty fair pitcher, but he was too good a hitter to remain a pitcher. Not long after Rhody went to Cleveland the third baseman was laid up and Wallace was placed at the bag because Tebeau had no one else.

Wallace's third base playing was a revelation. He could do everything required of a third baseman and showed remarkable ability as a batter. Wallace remained with Cleveland until 1898, when the Robinsons shifted their baseball affections to St. Louis. He started playing short for the Cardinals in 1899 and has been playing that position ever since.

In the winter of 1901-1902 Wallace jumped to the Browns for a salary said to be one of the greatest paid during the big National-American war. Rhody was said to be drawing $10,000 a year when the war came to an end.

The Browns only had one real year of prosperity since Wallace has been a member of the club, which was in 1902, when they finished second. In 1908 the club also was in the race, but finished fourth. Most players would have grown old playing with the Browns ever since they have been in the league, but Wallace does not seem to mind it.

It looked as if the old fellow would be counted out last season when Joey Bush of the Athletics sent one of his bullet balls at the Scot, and broke his wrist. However, the injury healed and Wallace is out to give Father Time a battle for the next few years.

In the early days of his career Wallace knew what it meant to be up there fighting for the pennant. In 1895 and 1896 the Naps finished second in the old 12-club league. However, since leaving Cleveland in 1898, Wallace has spent thirteen seasons with a second-division team.

Though Wallace has been playing major league baseball three years longer than Hans Wagner, he is ten months younger than the Flying Dutchman. Wagner was born in Carnegie, Pa., on Feb. 24, 1874, and Wallace first saw the light of day in Pittsburg on Nov. 4, 1874. Nap Lajoie brought joy to the Lajoies nearly a year later, as he was born in Woonsocket, R. I., on Sept. 5, 1875.

Like Wallace, Larry Lajoie will most likely end his wonderful career without ever being a member of a champion team. Larry was with great teams in his days. The Phillies of the late nineties were one of the greatest hitting ball clubs of all time, though they could never do better than finish second. Lajoie also was with some wonderful teams in Cleveland but injuries always knocked the club out of the race.

Wagner has had it on both Wallace and Lajoie, as he has been a member of four champion teams, and has shared in the spoils of two world's series. Honus, however, has never led a ball club, though neither Lajoie nor Wallace was a great success as manager.

Lajoie took command of the Naps in the fall of 1904, and held the reins of the club until he threw up the sponge in disgust in 1909. Lajoie came his closest to winning a pennant in 1908, when he lost the flag by two points, the Browns knocking his team out of the championship by defeating the Naps on the day before the close of the season.

Wallace ran the Browns in 1911, and during half of 1912, when he was succeeded by George Stovall. The Browns remained in last place under Rhody's managerial experience. However, this is no knock on Wallace, as it would take the combined genuis of McGraw, Mack and Chance to make a winner out of the Browns.

If any one should care to rig up an old man's infield, Harry Davis could be used at first, Lajoie at second, Wagner at short and Wallace at third. Davis is the real old man of the lot, as he was born in 1873. Harry's first big league experience was with the Giants in 1896.

DULUTH FISHERMEN TO COMPETE IN EXHIBITION.

Many of the best known fishermen of Duluth are practicing daily for the casting exhibition that will be held a week from Sunday.

"Smiling Bill" Vogt, the world's champion caster, who is for the present making his home here, is arranging the details of the exhibition, together with Arthur L. Ryberg of the Lake Hardware company. A number of prizes will be donated to the winners of the various events.

During the exhibition Mr. Vogt will perform some of the most difficult feats in his repertoire. This will be the first sporting event of its kind ever held in Duluth and it promises to attract an unusual amount of interest. There are many expert amateur casters here.

BIG DULUTHS WILL MEET SUPERIOR TEAM.

The Big Duluths will play the Ideal baseball team of Superior Sunday afternoon at the Fifty-second avenue west grounds. A fast game is looked for as both teams have shown up strong in their practice games. Kozak or Clark will do the twirling for the Clothiers, and both are showing mid-season form. The lineup will be: Lindeberg, catcher; Kozak or Clark, pitcher; Stahl, first base; McLaughlin, second base; Baker, shortstop; Blasach, third base; Ludvig, left field; McCormick, right field; Harvey, center field.

ILLINI WIN THE CONFERENCE TITLE

Champaign, Ill., May 16.—Illinois won the dual meet championship of the Western conference yesterday, defeating the University of Chicago athletes, 70½ to 55½. All of the runs and dashes were fast and exceptional marks in the field events were made. Several conference records were approached.

Hohman of Illinois won the 100-yard dash in 10 flat and Chicago received another setback in the mile run, Wright defeating Campbell in a sensational finish. Campbell, who was the favorite, set the pace, but Wright clung to him all the way and passed him in an unexpected spurt at the finish. The time of 4:30 is a new Illinois record.

Capt. Sanders of Illinois was not pushed in the quarter mile, but his time of 49 3-5 equals the university record.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 16.—Eighteen members of the University of Minnesota track team left last night for Lincoln, Neb. They will engage in the annual meet with the University of Nebraska team this afternoon.

Columbia, Mo., May 16.—The University of Kansas met the U. of Missouri in their annual track meet here today. It was expected that the Kansas men would be strong in dashes, and that Missouri would score most in weight events.

FORMER CHAMPION ATTELL IS IN DULUTH TODAY.

Abe Attell, former featherweight champion boxer of the world, is in Duluth today with a theatrical organization. Since losing his title to Johnny Kilbane in the 20-round battle at Los Angeles the former champion has engaged in several battles, but for the most part has been engaged in theatrical work.

Attell was one of the greatest of all the boxers of his weight. Dixon and McGovern are the two celebrities compared with him. Ring critics often disagreeing as to the relative greatness of the three little wonders.

CONDITIONS GOOD FOR BIG REGATTA

Philadelphia, May 16.—Weather conditions were fine today for the annual regatta of the American rowing association, known as the "American Henley." The course, one mile and 550 yards, is marked out on the Schuylkill river in Fairmount park. This regatta is the one opportunity of the rowing year when the highly trained 'varsity crews have a chance to show what they can do against the hardy scullers and sweep oarsmen of the rowing clubs.

The college entries include Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Syracuse, Pennsylvania and the Annapolis naval academy, while Boston, New York, Baltimore and Philadelphia are represented among the clubs.

One of the best events on the program was that for the first eight-oared shells for the Stewards' cup. The entries in this race included Syracuse, Navy, Yale, Harvard and Union Boat club, Boston. The Syracuse crew was the favorite.

In the junior collegiate eight-oared shell race Pennsylvania, Harvard, Navy, Princeton and Yale were entered, while the Navy, Harvard, Pennsylvania, Undine club, Philadelphia, University Barge, Philadelphia and Ariels, Baltimore, were in the special four-oared shell event.

HERE'S A LAD WITH LOTS OF STUFF ON BALL.

Clinton, N. Y., May 16.—When Hamilton college defeated Rochester university's baseball team, 7 to 0, here yesterday, Pitcher Royce of Hamilton equaled the college strike-out record. He retired twenty-one batsmen, a feat not equaled in college baseball since 1911. Two weeks ago at Rochester Royce struck out twenty-two men.

AMERICANS ARE BADLY OUTCLASSED

Sandwich, Eng., May 16.—American golfers yesterday were outclassed by Scots and English players over the Sandwich links in the final round for the St. George's champion grand challenge cup and the fear of Britishers that the amateur championship again will cross the Atlantic were greatly diminished.

With an aggregate of 146 strokes, nine better than his nearest American competitor, Jerome D. Travers, the American amateur champion, John Graham, Jr., Scotland, for the second time won the coveted trophy. In doing so, Graham also lowered by two strokes the play for the cup.

Travers turned in a card of 155 for the 36 holes. Francis Ouimet, the American open champion, required 158 strokes to cover the course; Charles W. Evans, Chicago, 159 strokes; Fraser Hale, Chicago, 166; Harold Weber, Toledo, 167, and C. N. Inslee, Oneida Community club, New York, 169.

Travers proved a disappointment. It was the expectation that he would improve his first round score of 77, but he required 78 to get around. Ouimet cut two strokes off his score of 80 Thursday.

In the general competition Ouimet finished in thirteenth place while Evans was tied with 14 other players for fourteenth place.

D. Ransom, Crowborough, Eng., who led the first round Thursday with 72, required 10 more strokes, which brought his aggregate score up to 154. Harold H. Hilton, the British amateur champion, finished up the round with 158.

YALE FAVORITE IN MEET WITH HARVARD.

Cambridge, Mass., May 16.—Yale was a pronounced favorite for the twenty-third annual track meet with Harvard today. Of the previous meets Harvard has won twelve and Yale ten.

WILD CELT A CONTESTANT

Ray Gilhooley Will Drive Yachtsman's Car in 500-Mile Race.

More Foreign Drivers Sail to Make Ready for the Contest.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 16.—Ray Gilhooley, the wild Irishman of the racing game, has been nominated to drive the eleventh hour Isotta entry of G. M. Hecksher, the New York yachtsman, in the next Indianapolis 500-mile race. This is the pilot whom De Palma once acclaimed the only man he ever feared, stating he could never tell what he was going to do next.

On two different occasions, says Ralph, he saw the mad Celt tear through a wooden fence at full tilt, taking the chance of getting killed just for the joy of passing him at a risky curve. Nor do his smashups seem to have affected his speed lust, as his hankering for the steering wheel and throttle today is greater than ever.

Racing drivers, when they see Gilhooley coming, usually get out from under, for fear that in his eagerness to get ahead he will drive right over them. Step on it is all he knows, they say. Ordinarily he punishes his mount to the limit. If his Isotta stands up under him, predict the wiseacres, Gilhooley will be heard from.

In preparation for the coming conflict Gil has been putting his machine through a course of sprouts for almost a full year, carefully working it over piece by piece until he thinks it is perfect. Last year, together with his mate, that raced later at the Elgin and Vanderbilt, it arrived on the speedway too late to do any good. This time, however, says Gilhooley, everything will be right for a killing.

The announcement of the Harp as driver definitely eliminates the name of Marquis from the possible list of 500-mile contestants, unless, perhaps, he should be able to find a berth with some other make of car. Marquis is not yet right as the result of his recent injury at Santa Monica, it is stated, and the selection of Gilhooley, therefore, does not come entirely unexpected.

Paris, France, April 16. — Rene Thomas, Albert Guyot, Jean Chassagne, Ernst Friedrich, Josef Christiaens, and Arthur Duray, contestants in the next Indianapolis 500-mile race, sailed from Havre Friday with their mechanicians, twelve in all. They are being chaperoned by W. F. Bradley, the foreign speedway representative. Their arrival in New York is scheduled for next week, which will get them to the track about twelve days before the race. Despite the short practise period remaining them, none of the foreigners are apprehensive concerning the contest, having sufficient confidence in themselves and their machines to believe they will be able to finish in front with minimum preparation. Guyot is the only man of the crowd ever to compete on the speedway before.

Indianapolis, May 16.—Jules Goux and Georges Boillot, premier racing drivers of continental Europe, arrived in Indianapolis yesterday for the next international 500-mile race, about twenty-four hours ahead of schedule. Plans for their reception were greatly curtailed by the unexpectedness of their action, only a few of the select being on hand to greet them, including, however, such notables as Barney Oldfield and Gil Anderson.

How to Ruin an Auto Tire

A sarcastic newspaper man offers the following suggestions to motorists:

"Speed up to 45 per. Then clamp the brake on tight and slide wheels as far as possible. This does wonders to the tread.

"Keep your tires underinflated at all times. It helps break the fabric.

"Always overload at least once a day. That insures frequent blow-outs.

"If you can't overload car, be careful to keep in ruts. The noise of the blow-out will be music to your ears.

"Never repair cuts and gashes. Leave them alone, so that water and dirt can work in. You'll get a fine 'mud blister'—may even be lucky enough to get a loose tread.

"If your wheels get out of alignment, leave them that way. (Guaranteed to shorten the life of any tire by 2,000 miles.)

"Never go near a tire dealer's place of business. He might suggest how to take care of your tires.

"Never buy a Goodyear No-Rim-Cut tire, for it won't rim-cut worth a darn. Neither will it pinch your inner tube. Comes off the rim pretty easily, too—and that spoils all the fun of wrestling it and calling it hard names.

"When your tires are satisfactorily ruined, tell all your friends and neighbors what robbers those tire makers are. That makes everyone happy."

AMERICAN CARS USED IN MEXICO

Chalmers Machines Have Been Popular There Since 1909.

In addition to the American fighting forces, American made automobiles are playing a very important part in the present trouble in Mexico. From time to time brief dispatches from the trouble zone state that some general directed a battle from his car or that an automobile figured conspicuously in relief work. But these scant reports, censored in Mexico, do not tell that most of these cars are of American make.

Chalmers cars, for instance, have figured largely in all of the Mexican troubles. The popularity of the Chalmers in the warring republic dates back to the summer of 1909 when a pathfinding trip from Denver to Mexico City was made by the first Chalmers "30," known as the "Old Reliable." This car made a record-breaking trip from Denver to the Mexican capital, visiting all the points that have figured so largely in the war news of late.

A few days ago a dispatch from Vera cruz stated that the negotiations with Huerta, which led to Nelson O'Shaughnessy, American charge d'affaires, leaving the Mexican capital, were carried on in his Chalmers "Six." O'Shaughnessy and President Huerta are owners of Chalmers "Sixes." The Mexican dictator owns several Chalmers models, while a number of Chalmers cars are used by the different departments of the Huerta government.

President Huerta, his chief of staff, the military commander of Mexico City, the chief of police, Rr. Collantes, the city medical service, Gov. Victor de la Fuente, minister of communications; Jose L. Garcia, ex-governor of Zacatecas; Manuel Calero, ex-ambassador to the United States, and presidential candidate at the last election, and Jose Lluis Requena, vice presidential candidate at the last election, are all owners of the Detroit-made cars.

The Chalmers has long been the official automobile of the changing Mexican government. Ex-President Porfirio Diaz owned a Chalmers car, while in office as also did President Madero. Members of their cabinets also owned Chalmers cars.

Mohler & Degress, dealers in Mexico City, report that there are six Chalmers cars seeing active service with the Federal army at present. During the many disturbances in Mexico City, the Mohler & Degress have turned all the available cars over to the government for use in relief or army work. One car in particular did notable service for the American embassy during the last bombardment of Mexico City. This car was used by Dr. Ryan, aide to Henry Lane Wilson, then ambassador to Mexico. Huerta, when he was commander-in-chief of the army for Maderero, used a Chalmers car while directing the fighting in the state of Chihuahua.

When the rebels took the city of Durango some time ago they put out of commission all the automobiles in town, with the idea of not letting any of the wealthy families escape. Their object was to arrest all people of wealth and hold them for ransom. Every automobile in the city was disabled except one Chalmers "Six," which appealed to the rebel commanders so strongly that they appropriated it for their own use. This car is still running about the streets of Durango, and is the only automobile in the city.

MOTORISTS READY FOR BIG CONTEST

Three of World's Most Famous Riders Are Now in Mill City.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 16.—With the b-r-r-r of motorcyclists humming about the Twin City motordrome and three of the world's foremost riders already here practice spins on the fast four-lap saucer track have already shown the course to be the fastest in the country. This is the belief of Harry T. Koeln, the designer, who declared that he will be surprised if track records are not broken on the night of May 30.

Jimmie Cox, who with Bert Bruggerman and Glen Stokes, are daily training on the board path, are reported to have each ridden better than eighty-five miles an hour.

One notable feature of the 'drome as compared to others was found to be its freedom from bumps. According to these riders there are slight bumps in most board tracks that are not discernible to the naked eye.

Glen Stokes is holder of three world's records. These three riders have medals that would reach around the track. They won them in road and track races in America and abroad.

Among the other riders who are entered for the season's races that will begin on Memorial night are Ed Hasmer, Roy Shaw, "Daddy" Bowen, the veteran of them all, and F. A. McNeil. These constitute the "blue ribbon" riders of the country.

Manager William A. Koenig announces that every afternoon during the next two weeks the 'drome will be opened to the public for inspection. Everything except completing the final details has been done and the fast board course will be the scene of daily speed tests with the contesting riders at the handle-bars.

Unique fireworks have been arranged for the opening night to precede the main program. Band music, vaudeville stunts and addresses by Governor Eberhart and Mayors Powers and Nye will be other features to fittingly inaugurate the use of the new track.

In all, three events, run in three heats, will be staged on the opening night with probably two or three attempts made to shatter world's records.

VIBRATION AFFECTS CAR.

Auto Must Be Built to Prevent Shock, Says Turner.

"Vibration plays a very important part in the design and durability of the motor car," said M. W. Turner, distributer for the Haynes, America's first car, in this territory. "The automobile has to withstand conditions which the average piece of machinery never encounters. The locomotive, for instance, travels upon a carefully constructed steel track which is essentially a part of the machine itself. The automobile, however, is subjected to constantly carrying road conditions which necessitates the use of pneumatic tires and various shock-absorbing devices. Aside from the shocks that are received from outside sources, there are also internal vibrations caused by the motor which, however, are less pronounced now than they were in the earlier days.

"Every precaution should be taken by the manufacturer to design and build a car that is practically free from any internal vibrations and that will withstand the most severe road conditions. It isn't the place of the buyer to do the experimenting. What he wants and must receive is satisfaction and services at minimum upkeep.

"Each and every unit of the car, in fact, even the most minute part, should be carefully designed, checked and thoroughly tested before being used, durability, power, accessibility and appearance being the prime considerations.

"That is the policy of the Haynes company, which builds sincerity and experience right into the car itself. And then, after the car is sold, to give the owner the full benefit of its experience in the form of service."

50-PIECE BAND TO TOUR CONTINENT

Willys-Overland Musicians Are Taken From All Departments.

Thirty-seven departments of a big automobile factory, from the office of the vice president to the iron foundry, are represented in the fifty-piece concert band of the Willys-Overland company of Toledo, Ohio, which, on June 18, will start on its second transcontinental tour of the United States. The men who make up this unique musical organization are recruited from widely distributed departments of the plant, but in spite of the dissimilarity of their every-day occupations, there is no lack of teamwork in their concert performance.

The boast of President John N. Willys, as whose guests the players will make the trip, is that, if necessary, the band could "build an entire automobile to music," and the list of departments represented would seem to bear out his statement. The manager of the band is vice president of the Willys-Overland company; the president and business director is an assistant in the office of the general superintendent, and the players come from paint, machine, trim, blacksmith and drop-forge shops, from accounting, road-test, upholstering, drafting, assembling and various other departments. The youngest member of the band, a youth of 18, is an electrician; the oldest, who has 58 years to his credit, is from the paint department, and a like interesting variety is shown throughout the whole band membership.

The Southern trip planned for the players for this summer is being made in connection with the annual convention of the International Association of Rotary Clubs, which is to be held in Houston, Tex., during the week of June 22. The band is to accompany the rotary clubs representing Toledo, Detroit and Cleveland on a special train. On the way to Houston, stops will be made in Chicago, Kansas City, Wichita and Oklahoma City, with free concerts in downtown parks of each city. At the close of the convention, the 2,000 delegates who are expected to attend will board special trains, and, escorted by the Overland band, will visit several Texas cities, including San Antonio, Austin, Waco, Fort Worth, Dallas and Beaumont. Local rotary clubs and the band will furnish entertainment in each of these cities, with concerts, banquets and sight-seeing trips.

On the return journey the band will detour, in order to give concerts in New Orleans, Birmingham, Atlanta, Chattanooga, Lexington and Cincinnati. The auto-making musicians will be away from home twenty-one days and will travel approximately 6,000 miles on the trip.

TWO OF THE MAXWELL ENTRIES AT INDIANAPOLIS

At the wheel of the Maxwell racer is Teddy Tetzlaff, winner of two Santa Monica road races and holder of the world's road race record. The insert shows Billy Carlson, another Californian, who will also pilot a Maxwell. Victor Hemery, winner of the second Vanderbilt race, will probably drive the third car.

INCREASE OF 93 PER CENT SHOWN.

Franklin business for the first three months of 1914 shows an increase over the corresponding months of 1913 of 93 per cent.

Conditions with the Franklin have been unusual for the past six months. The factory has been running under high pressure and has been unable to get within a couple of weeks of its schedule for shipping cars. The capacity of the factory has been steadily increased and more cars are being turned out than ever before and still the sales department is unable to supply all of the dealers.

Actual money has been sent back to dealers in large sums for cars that the factory has been unable to supply. Usually to meet the rush of the spring selling season automobile manufacturers and dealers have plenty of cars in storage. But not a single Franklin was put in storage this year and as fast as the cars were completed they were shipped to dealers.

LAWS IN CONSTANT FLUX

Legislatures Are Active, Creating and Changing Statutes.

Automobile laws are in a constant flux in the United States due to constant activity in state legislatures and lack of uniform effort for traffic regulation.

In some of the legislatures road laws have been changed or new ones have been created.

In Maryland the only important new law prohibits speed exceeding thirty-five miles an hour; limits trucks weighing four to eight tons, with load, to fifteen miles an hour; weighing more than eight tons to twelve miles, and traction engines to six miles; limits widths to ninety inches, gross weight to fourteen tons and weight per inch of tire to 800 pounds.

New laws in Massachusetts prohibit use of muffler cut-outs and grant privileges to non-resident motorists.

New York passed a bill making it a misdemeanor to violate traffic rules in New York city, but a bill to include motorcycles in the motor vehicle law was vetoed.

A bill in New Jersey authorizes park boards to limit the speed of motor vehicles and even exclude them from park drives.

The Ohio legislature passed a general license bill which provides a fee of $2 for motorcycles, $3 for electric vehicles, $5 for all other motor vehicles and $20 for dealer's licenses; chauffeurs must be examined and pay $1 for registration.

Mississippi enacted a law for a "privilege tax" and fixes the rates at which motor vehicles are permitted to use the roads as follows: Motorcycles, $2.40; electric vehicles, $4.80; commercial vehicles up to 4,400 pounds capacity, $8.40; and exceeding this capacity, $16.80; all other motor vehicles, 36 cents per horse power, funds to go for road improvement and repair; flat fee of $2 is required for registration and number tag.

Bills in Virginia prohibit driving a truck, tractor or traction engine fitted with cleats or lugs that will cause injury to the road over any turnpike that has been treated with bitumen or other binder; permit local authorities in Accomac, King William in Spottsylvania counties to levy special license taxes to provide funds for construction and maintenance of roads in these mountainous regions; prohibit speeding of motor cars between Big Stone Gap and Appalachia in Wise county.

BUT 13 CARS AT FINISH.

Buicks Have Clean Scores in 3,000-Mile Tour.

Out of the 134 cars to start, only 13 were at the finish of the season's 3,000-mile tour of France. The run included half a dozen hill-climbs, speed trials and a road race. Two Buicks, the only American cars to finish, went through with clean scores. The Buick was the only team which did not lose a member.

Half way around the course one Buick bumped into a cow. The left frame member was bent and the front

A Shipment of Brand-New Overlands

Just arrived. Yours is here. Act today.

WE want to publicly apologize to the thousands of patient people who have been unable to get their Overland on the specified delivery date.

The situation has simply been beyond our control. Never before, during the entire history of our ever-expanding business, have orders exceeded our production program to such an astonishing extent as they have this season.

Shipping orders have poured into the factory on the average of from 500 to 600 cars a day—often running as high as 1000 cars a day.

However, this congestion is now relieved for we have been able to increase our factory production—and Overlands are now being shipped at the rate of 50 to 60 carloads a day.

Therefore, if you act promptly—by getting in touch with our dealer without further loss of time—you can be assured of an immediate delivery. Your Overland is ready to deliver to you right now.

We earnestly advise you not to wait until the demand again gets ahead of our increased production. Quick action means that tomorrow you can be enjoying your new Overland. And, what is more, you will know that you have secured the most economical and efficient popular priced car ever manufactured.

Make your arrangements today for a demonstration.

Remember, this is America's greatest motor car value. The Overland is a big, powerful, snappy, beautiful, comfortable, large, roomy car. And it is priced at 30% less than any other similar car made.

axle was thrown back several inches, but it didn't prevent D'Avarny from keeping on his way and reporting with a perfect score. The other Buick, which had the Delco starting and ignition set, was the only entry with a mechanical starter.

The 1914 tour called for thirteen stages, varying from 190 to 297 miles, to be covered at an average speed of not less than nineteen miles an hour. Alternating with these were the speed events in which all competitors were obliged to start, and just before the last stages was a 67-mile race on a fast course near LeMans.

There was no night driving and everybody drove as fast as consistent with road conditions. Most of the manufacturers entered their speediest types, the restrictions being a cylinder maximum of 183 cubic inches in the larger class and 61 inches maximum in the smaller class. The cars were on the road for twenty-three days, and it rained every one. Mountain roads were followed wherever possible. The cars that finished were the Buick (two), Pier-ron, Gregoire, Phoenix, Parre (two), Bugatti, Zedel, Hispaae-Suiza, Georges Roy, Aquila Italiana (two).

HANDLING CAR IMPORTANT.

Car Should Be Good for 75,000 to 150,000 Miles.

The life of a motor car depends wholly upon the use and abuse to which it is put, and more particularly the abuse. It is true that old cars are traded in for new ones, which naturally have many up to date refinements and little comfort giving devices, to say nothing of style, yet it is also true that it is not because the old car has failed to perform its full duty to the owner.

A good car, well handled, can easily travel from 75,000 to 150,000 miles before it need be sent to the scrap pile; and even after this service it can be made to do some sort of duty, such as commercial work or even farm work. The average owner forgets himself while on the road and thrilled with the enjoyment of bowling along at a good pace hesitates not for culverts that stick up several inches, railroad crossings that are bumpy, deep ruts that tear tires, or any one of the thousand little things that go far toward tearing a car to pieces bit by bit.

The speed permitted calls frequently for quick action on the brakes and there is always a desire to get away in as much haste as the power of the motor will permit—all of which add to the car racking destruction that brings an otherwise splendid piece of machinery to an early death so far as practical use is concerned.

The man who starts easily, who begins to slow down some distance in advance of the spot at which he intends stopping, who slows for bad roads and rough crossings, who saves his car and his motor in every conceivable manner is the one who has little trouble and who does not feel the need of having a new car every year.

Hints to Ford Owners

With the approach of warm weather many Ford owners are considering the conditioning of their car for the road. Every owner will undoubtedly find that some repairs are necessary before his car is ready for another season's use. He may, however, fail to realize that his car is in need of repairs that do not require the services of an experienced mechanic but repairs that have a great bearing upon the life of his car.

The Ford car as a rule is put to a more severe test than others cars. It is used for all purposes, in every kind of weather and on all kinds of roads. It is reasonable to assume that after one season's use some attention is necessary to points such as where a bolt and nuts is the means of connection, although lock nuts are used throughout.

The tires, too, are undoubtedly bruised or cut and proper care should be given them before it is too late for repairs. The smallest cut will allow water to enter and rot the fabric, and if the cut is into the fabric, sand will work under the rubber and loosen the thread.

The edges of small cuts should be smoothed with a sharp knife then roughed with sand-paper, after which the cut should be thoroughly cleaned out with gasoline and a patching cement applied. After the cement has dried the hole should be filled with some compound put out by the the tire companies for this purpose. In case of a large cut or a blow-out the casing should be vulcanized.

Rust should not be allowed to accumulate on the rims and the painting with a rim preserver, such as ordinary stove polish, will prevent this condition.

The front axle and steering assembly, the control of the car, should receive a careful inspection. If play has developed in any of the sockets or connections the turning of the steering wheel will not have immediate effect, and if the radius rod is allowed a play it is certain to crystallize and weaken the metal of that part. If inspection shows that the bushings which constitute the bearing surface in the steering post bracket, spindle arm, spindle body and spring perches are worn to such an extent that play has developed it is advisable to replace the bushings. It is well to pry the spring leaves apart near the ends with a screwdriver and force lubricating oil or grease between them. This has a tendency to make the springs more flexible. The nuts on the spring clips, spring perches, spring tie bolt, spindle arms and spindle bolts should be tightened and the cotter pins placed so that the nuts cannot work loose.

MOTORCYCLE NOTES

American-made motorcycles were for the second time proven superior to those of foreign manufacture in the recent trial of the Motorcycle club of London, Eng. E. A. Colliver, on an American motorcycle, won the famous Jarrott cup against a field of 138 riders, representing the best cyclists of Great Britain. The course was from London to Land's End and return, a total distance of 568 miles. There were two very difficult hills to be negotiated on the course. This is the second time that the Jarrott cup has been won by a machine built in this country, it having been won in 1911 by the late Arthur Moorhouse over a field of sixty-nine contestants.

May 30 is to be known in Philadelphia, Pa., as "Motorcycle day." On that day riders of the Quaker City are planning a huge street parade, in which 2,000 motorcycles and 500 bicycles are expected to participate. Riders from many towns outside of Philadelphia are asked to take part in the parade, and suitable awards will be offered for the best decorated machine and also for the most novel and comic display. In addition to the street parade, promoters of the event promise one of the greatest motorcycle and bicycle carnivals ever held in Philadelphia.

Perhaps the largest single order ever given for motorcycles was the recent order of the Ford Automobile company for fifty two-wheelers which are to be used as service machines at a number of the agencies of the Ford concern. Mr. Ford already has a motorcycle on his farm, which has been found very convenient and economical, and he believes they can be used with great success at the Ford branch houses. A number of automobile concerns now employ one or more motorcyclists in their service departments.

The following new motorcycle clubs were affiliated with the Federation of American Motorcyclists during the last week of April:

Keokuk, Iowa, Motorcycle club, twenty-two members.

Wellington, Ohio, Motorcycle club, twelve members.

Hibbing, Minn., Motorcycle club, seventeen members.

Thirty-two members of the Zanesville, Ohio, Motorcycle club are planning an eight-day vacation tour, to start July 1. The run will be to Atlantic City, where the riders expect to spend July 4 and 5. The route as scheduled contemplates passing through Wheeling, Pittsburg, Gettysburg, New York, Lancaster and Philadelphia.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE AUTOMOBILE WORLD

"The development of the automobile in the immediate future will consist principally of improvements and refinements in design," says President George A. Kissel of the Kissel Kar. "We have reached a stage where there is little room for vital change in the principles of mechanical construction, so that the ingenuity of the manufacturer is now directed to giving the car better looks, more comfort and additional conveniences. There is opportunity for work along these lines and much that will attract attention and favor is likely to appear."

"There is one thing that any manufacturer, either in the automobile industry or another, may consider reasonably certain, and that is the success of any change that improves style without sacrificing utility. The average American buyer lays great store on the looks of his automobile and he is quite right, for a man's car is an expression of his individuality, more pronounced than anything else that he owns."

A great test than a trip around the world is what might be said of the recent Franklin National Economy test. Ninety-four cars showed an average of 32.8 miles on a gallon of gasoline, which is the same as one car going 30,832 miles, which is greater than around the world.

As the records were all made on the same day, May 1, in all parts of the country, different weather conditions were met. For instance, in lower California and Texas there was rain and it was fairly warm. In the Upper Peninsula of Michigan there was twelve inches of snow, while the evening before the test it had snowed all evening in Maine. Throughout the country the day was windy and in many places quite cold.

The highest record of the test was made in Milwaukee, 51.2 miles on one gallon of gasoline. This was nearly reached in Cumberland, Maryland, where the Franklin on went 50.9 miles. Eleven cars went over forty miles, while forty-eight made greater than the average of 32.8 miles. The lowest record of 17.2 miles was made in Georgetown, Texas, in deep mud and rain.

Many of the dealers measured the oil consumption on the test. For instance, in Baltimore where the gasoline mileage was 36 the oil consumption figured out 1,100 miles to the gallon.

The old omnibus which plied between the centennial exposition and the city hall, Philadelphia, in '76, drawn by ten horses and carrying loads of from sixty to a hundred passengers, has been doing service in Brooklyn thirty-five years with picnic parties and holiday excursionists. It has just been "motorized" with a Knox-Martin tractor. In spite of its age this vehicle has been well kept and is in well preserved condition. It is still so serviceable that its owner, George Schlitz, purposes sending it overland along the Lincoln highway route to the Pacific coast to run between San Francisco and the Panama exposition.

"The spring season of automobile buying has sufficiently advanced so that a good line can be drawn on the probabilities," says J. T. Peacha, Jr., agent of the Kissel Kar. "It looks to me as if the July 1 would see a shortage of cars of the more desirable makes, and that a great many people who are delaying selection will regret it. This applies, of course, to the better grade of cars, as there seems to be an ample production of the low-priced vehicles, despite the wide market that exists for them. The volume of Kissel Kar sales, has been so nearly divided between our 40-Four and 48-Six as to clearly emphasize that there are many adherents of both types not yet convinced by the somewhat frantic partisanship of the opposing advocates."

"SAFETY FIRST" NOTES

It is interesting to note, at this time, since the automobile department of The Herald has started a campaign in behalf of the "Safety First" movement, that the motor vehicle is, in reality, said to be less dangerous than horse-drawn vehicles or trolley cars. Records recently prepared show that automobiles are the least dangerous form of highway traffic.

Peter M. Hoffman, coroner of Cook county, Ill., in a recent letter, gives official records of the city of Chicago and adjoining suburban villages which show that the motor vehicle has caused only one-half as many accidents there during the last four years as horses and wagons per mile traveled by each. Put in more condensed form, the data contained in the letter is as follows:

Number of Vehicles and Their Average Mileage.

	Number	Average Mileage.	Total Daily Mileage.
Horse vehicles	65,118	12	781,416
Power vehicles	37,406	42	1,571,052

Average of Accidents in Four Years.

	Total Accidents 1910 to '14.	Acci-dents Per Day.	Av. Per 5,000,000 Miles.
Horse vehicles	6,047	4.16	26.56
Power vehicles	5,784	3.96	12.6

WHEELER EXPLAINS REFUSAL TO SERVE

Chicagoan Says It Is Not Due to Distrust of Law.

Chicago, May 16.—In connection with his declination to serve on the Federal reserve board, Harry A. Wheeler of this city has issued a statement in the course of which he said:

"I am not at liberty to disclose the nature of the correspondence between the president and myself, all of which has been of a most frank and confidential character. It is only fair, however, to say that my declination of the president's offer is not to be construed in any sense as indicating distrust in the working ability of the Federal reserve act, and the decision was made with the sincerest regret that I could not make my plans square with the requirements of the law.

Obligation as to Future.

"The Federal reserve act imposes an obligation upon members of the board not to associate themselves with any member bank for two years after the completion of their term of office. This provision has no adverse bearing upon the business man, the economist, or even the private banker, each being able to return to his business or profession as soon as he retires from the board, while the banker who comes out of the field of incorporated banking (organizations eligible to membership in the Federal Reserve association), finds himself adrift for two years, making it only possible to devote himself to commercial pursuits, private banking, or associate himself with some non-member bank.

"It is this provision that developed a combination of circumstances which I could not consistently meet."

PLEAD GUILTY TO SMUGGLING CHINESE.

San Francisco, Cal., May 16.—Fred Fox and Maurice Pettinger, who were arrested at Monterey last January while trying to smuggle Chinese from Mexico into the United States, pleaded guilty in the United States district court. Judge Dowling set May 27 as the date of sentence.

OWNERS OF BANK ACCUSED OF FORGERY.

Eldora, Iowa, May 16.—Henry D. Himmell, president, and John E. Himmell, cashier of the Farmers' bank at Radcliffe, were arrested yesterday, charged with forgery. The Farmers' bank, a private institution, closed Wednesday.

The warrant was sworn out at Radcliffe by John Sampson, a farmer, who alleged that the Himmells, who are brothers, deposited with a Webster City bank as a collateral a forged note for $2,000.

WIDOW INDICTED FOR HUSBAND'S MURDER.

Louis, Va., May 16.—Mrs. Victor Hall, widow of a young merchant who was shot to death in his home at Green Springs on April 15, was indicted yesterday for murder, by a special grand jury which has been investigating the crime for five days. She was released on $5,000 bail to appear for trial in July.

The indictment charges Mrs. Hall shot her husband while he was in bed on the morning of April 15.

Why the Northeastern Minnesota Game and Fish Protective Association Was Formed

To the Editor of The Herald:

A few years ago the sportsmen of this city, realizing the necessity for better protection of the natural, but rapidly passing game and fish supply of this part of the state, started a movement looking toward a permanent organization of effort along the desired lines. About 150 of these men subscribed to a fund for organization which was carried for some time without being made effective. Subsequently a public meeting of many of the original subscribers and others was held at the Commercial club, when the permanent organization was perfected and an active crusade auspiciously begun. During the first year considerable good was accomplished in assisting the game wardens in their work, distributing trout fry and stimulating interest in the movement generally, among the sporting fraternity and thereby building up the membership.

Some further effective work has been accomplished in the direction of securing for this district the location of a state fish hatchery in the neighborhood of this city; in formulating for legislation some measures for better game and fish protection and in providing grain which was placed for the sustenance of prairie chickens in this district. So much, in fact has been done in the right direction that our sportsmen, realizing fully the necessity for the work, and the ability of the association to accomplish so much of it, have taken up the work with increased zeal which assures to the association results largely exceeding those anticipated by the originators of the movement.

While the primary object of all game protection is to provide a reasonable supply for all who desire to enjoy the pleasures of hunting or fishing, like many organizations devoted to this object, this association also includes the protection and preservation of song and insectivorous birds and the smaller fur-bearing or food supplying animals, game and food fishes, as well as efforts to avoid unreasonable devastation of forested lands and streams. With this comprehensive scope of action there is an opportunity given every bird lover or nature lover as well as the sportsman of casting his influence on the right side.

Educational Work.

Recognizing that man's desire rather than his necessity, manifested selfishly, is the underlying cause for united action against his immoderation, the association's work very naturally lies along educational lines rather than the severer resort to legal punishment of the violator and only where the former course fails and the latter becomes necessary is it to be employed, and while suitably protective laws are urgently required, it is desired that the influence of the law-abiding members and others not members, shall be used to instruct and restrain those not fully in accord with the principles of moderation.

In the field of its activities, the association would give to the boys their full share of credit in the accomplishment of good, both by their individual self-restraint, their influence over their companions and their ability to provide and place bird shelters where they will be most used and appreciated by the birds.

It has been suggested that the boys might not respond to the association's invitation if they were classed as boys, preferring to be called men, but if we are to believe, as we sometimes must, that "Men are but boys grown tall" we will have to concede to the boys their right to be and be called boys. As such, the association wants them, for the boys of today become the men tomorrow and it is for these boys and all future boys that all of the game, bird and animal societies are now laboring.

If the boys of thirty or twenty years ago had been as strongly committed to this work as are those of this period, there would not be the same pressing necessity for strenuous effort as now exists.

For such cause, in its broadest application, distinctly non-partisan in operation not organized for personal or public pecuniary profit, but for the general good of all interested in its work is the Northwestern Minnesota Game and Fish Protective association, upon whose behalf we thank you for the space given this communication.

ONE OF GREATEST ADVERTISERS DEAD

T. J. Barratt Spent $630,000 for Publicity in One Year.

London, May 15.—With the death of T. J. Barratt there passes away one of the greatest advertisers of the age.

Mr. Barratt was one of the very first men on either side of the Atlantic to realize the value of advertising on a really large scale. The firm of A. & F. Pears, with which his name is identified, was an old-established undertaking at the time he joined, when it was only spending about $400 a year in advertising. How Mr. Barratt revolutionized the business may be gauged from the fact that in a single year he spent as much as $630,000.

When Mr. Barratt wished to familiarize Americans with the name of the famous soap, he realized that he must make the name familiar through the mouth of some great leader in their own country. He finally resolved that the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher had the greatest hold upon the imagination of the United States. On a cold winter's night he arrived at the famous preacher's house at Brooklyn and was received with courtesy. Mr. Barratt summoned up all his pluck and, revealing his purpose, begged the favor of a testimonial for Pears' Soap. Henry Ward Beecher was rather taken aback, but laughed very heartily, confessed that he had used the soap and liked it beyond all others, and there and then wrote an enthusiastic tribute.

Mr. Barratt buttoned the precious document in his coat pocket, hurried back to New York, bought up the front pages of the great American papers, and on the following morning the United States read the Beecher testimonial and was adequately impressed.

Come See This Season's Most Popular Car

—the year-ahead car, with feature after feature that appeals to purchaser and dealer alike.

Our twenty-one years' experience in motor car construction is your assurance of quality and permanency. We do not know of a Haynes car ever having worn out. To the best of our knowledge, every Haynes car built is still running and giving good service, with the exception, of course, of the original which is a Government exhibit at the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C. Even today we are called upon to furnish minor repair parts for Haynes cars built fifteen years ago.

HAYNES
America's First Car

The Haynes is the most popular car this season because it represents the height of refinement, convenience and reliability in motor car design.

It is electrically-controlled throughout. Starting, lighting, ignition and gear-shifting are accomplished by electricity. You can shift gears without removing your hands from the steering wheel.

It has motor-driven tire pump; demountable rims; twenty-one gallon seamless steel gasoline tank on rear of chassis; gasoline strainer; running boards clear—and electrically lighted; storage battery under front seats; convenient cowl arrangement, all instruments within arm's reach.

The reserve power and flexibility of the Haynes motor, the long, graceful lines of the car, the deep upholstery, easy-riding qualities and simplicity of operation are features in themselves that prompt the prospective purchaser to select the Haynes, America's First Car.

Ride in it and judge for yourself.

STAGELAND

Lyceum

The Baldwin players will inaugurate their season of summer stock at the Lyceum theater this week commencing with a matinee tomorrow and continuing with week day matinees Wednesday and Saturday they will give the first of their high-class stock productions.

The management announces for this their first week, a production of Porter Emerson Browne's masterpiece of dramatic literature, his famously successful play, "The Spendthrift." This powerful modern society drama has achieved one of the greatest successes of any play upon the stage in recent years. It ran for one whole year at the Hudson theater, New York, and in all large cities it has beaten records for attendance. It will be staged in a sumptuous manner, the stage settings and accessories equaling in magnificence, the original New York production. This play affords an excellent opportunity for the display of beautiful gowns which will be taken advantage of by the women of the company. Special attention is called to the creation in dress with colored wig to match which will be worn by Miss Lola May, the leading lady of the Baldwin players when she appears in Act II. of "The Spendthrift." This is the latest fad in dress of society's ultra fashionable and has been seen at numerous recent social gatherings in Europe and America.

"The Spendthrift" is a play that appeals because it hits home in a wholehearted, humorous and healthy way. It tells the story of the wreck of a family's happiness, brought about by the divergence of thought and the different paths followed in the pursuit of happiness by a husband and wife. It is a story of not one home, but of many. Richart Ward is a man of working, saving and home-loving instincts. His wife longs for luxuries and in his love for her and his efforts to provide her with them he is kept grinding and toiling under a mountain of debt which topples over on him and he is a bankrupt. One of the most appealing points in the play is while the wife's extravagance is dominant, it is brought about in a great measure through her sincere endeavor to provide her husband with a home befitting the position in life she believes him big enough to occupy. When she realizes that he is bankrupt she borrows money in an effort to save him. This move on her part leads to dramatic situations, the unraveling of which has made "The Spendthrift" not only a problem play of real life of today, with its motive an arraignment of puerile society life, but a drama which thousands who have seen it have declared "strikes home in a most impressive and interesting way."

The Baldwin players comprise many whose names have been prominent in theatrical history. Charles W. Dingle, Walter S. Baldwin, Jr., Joseph De Stefani, A. Romaine Callender, Royal Tracey, William Delmar, Lola May, Dolle Gray, Pearl Melville, Helen Keers and others go to make up a cast that will undoubtedly win success during their engagement here this summer. There will be matinees on Sunday, Wednesday and Saturday of each week. Seats for any performance will be on sale at the Lyceum box office one week in advance.

Orpheum

Rex Beach's famous play, "The Spoilers," will be the offering at the Orpheum for the second week of moving pictures. It is in three acts and a prologue with William Farnum and Kathlyn Williams in the principal roles. It is produced by Colin Campbell and is said to be one of the finest motion pictures ever taken. Every detail is perfect and the scenes are laid in the city of Nome. Studied care and unusual liberality were exercised to give the actual atmosphere and the real environment so that the action should retain its integrity at all times. The theater-goers of Duluth have never seen "The Spoilers" but a great many have read the book with much interest and will see here an exclusive production of this wonderful play.

The story follows:

Glenister and Dextra, co-owners of the "Midas," the richest mine in Alaska, after celebrating their good fortune, leave Nome to spend the winter in the "states," but before leaving, Glenister arrives at an understanding with and bids goodbye to Cherry Malotte, a dance hall girl who has become interested in him. Before their return to Alasko on the following spring a plot is hatched in Washington, D. C., to juggle the Alaskan land laws in such a manner as to rob all the rich miners of their property and to that end a corrupt judge is appointed with instrucion to obey the orders of Alex. McNamara, the genius of the entire conspiracy.

The judge is dispatched to Nome at once but on the eve of sailing from Seattle he is taken ill and is forced to entrust certain important documents to his niece, Helen Chester, who thus becomes the innocent agent of the conspirators. Helen sails, but enroute to Nome smallpox breaks out on the ship and she is threatened with thirty days' quarantine. She manages to escape, with the assistance of Glenister and Dextry, who have taken passage on another ship. The two men are ignorant of the nature of Helen's errand and gallantly fight and defeat her pursuers, then smuggle her on board their own ship and protect her until she arrives at Nome, where she delivers to Struve, McNamara's agent, the secret papers entrusted to her. Glenister, who has fallen in love with the girl, saves her life in a street brawl at risk of his own, then secures living quarters for her with the wife of his mine superintendent.

In due time Judge Stillman and McNamara arrive in Nome and, with the help of Struve's rascally firm, begin their machinations.

The new faction shortly assumes control of all the mines, including the "Midas," and Glenister, because of his love for Helen, prevents the miners from using violence against Judge Stillman and prevails upon them to let the law take its course. Cherry Malotte, the beautiful dance hall girl, returns from Dawson City, discovers Glenister's love for Helen and determines to combat it. In this she is assisted by the Broncho Kid, a gambler and an outcast, who has recognized in Helen Chester his own sister, whom he has not seen since boyhood, and who misinterprets Glenister's feelings for Helen. Glenister and Dextry find that the Nome court will grant them no relief and decide to send their lawyer, Bill Wheaton, back to San Francisco with an appeal to the Federal courts. To secure money for their purpose they arrange to rob the sluices of their own mine, which they succeed in doing, but are saved from capture by Helen, who recognizes Glenister in time to send McNamara's men on a false trail. Later the Broncho Kid suspects Glenister of the robbery and advises McNamara to search his cabin before there is time to conceal the gold, but Cherry learns the plan and with her quick wit foils McNamara's efforts.

Wheaton returns from San Francisco with a writ from the Federal court, which Stillman refuses to recognize, thus making plain the nature of the conspiracy. Becoming fearful of outright violence McNamara undertakes to remove the gold dust taken from the Midas and other mines to a place of greater safety, but Glenister and his friends storm the bank and are prevented from taking forcible possession of the gold only by the timely arrival of troops summoned from the nearby post. For a second time Wheaton is despatched to the states for aid from the superior courts.

Meanwhile Glenister becomes convinced that Helen has been a conscious accomplice of "The Spoilers" and intends to marry McNamara, so in a reckless mood he spends a desperate night in the Northern gambling hall, playing faro. The Broncho Kid, who is dealer, plots to ruin Glenister with the assistance of Cherry as "case-keeper." At the crisis of the game when his money is gone, Glenister wagers his interest in the Midas and is prevented from losing only by Cherry's declaration that "the cases are wrong."

Cherry saves Helen from a drunken miner and learning her identity prompts her to suspect the truth of the situation in which her uncle figures. Realizing the great wrong that she has helped to do, Helen undertakes to remedy it, and overhearing the judge and McNamara arranging for Glenister's arrest, she finds him and enables him to escape with a posse at his heels. With the aid of Cherry Malotte, Glenister makes good his flight, summons his friends, and decides to make an end to the looting of the mines by destroying them with dynamite, thus checking McNamara's activities until Wheaton can invoke further aid from the Federal courts.

Wrapped in a woof of mystery and uncertainty, Helen appeals to McNamara's accomplice, Struve, who offers to put her in possession of the truth, if she will go with him that night to a distant road house for supper. Conscious of her peril, Helen agrees.

The miners, under Glenister's leadership, dynamite the "Midas" and defeat their enemies in an exciting battle, in the midst of which Glenister hears of Helen's danger and rides headlong to her rescue. He arrives only to find Struve badly wounded and that Helen has gone away with the Broncho Kid. Headless now of all save Helen's safety, Glenister rides into town and there encounters McNamara at Struve's office, where the latter has gone to destroy the documentary evidence of the conspiracy. The two men fight a terrible hand battle in which Glenister triumphs.

Wheaton arrives in time to affect the arrest of the conspirators on instructions from the Federal court and Helen produces the proofs of guilt which she has had secured from Struve. Justice is done and Helen confesses her love for the man she has helped to wrong.

AT EMPRESS

"The Colonial Minstrel Maids," consisting of eighteen girls, is the attraction at the Empress.

The performance opens with a minstrel first part. Ethlyn Grayce and Edith Kline are the first edition of ends. Frankie Siegel and Blanch Bishop are the premiers, and they are about the cleverest pair of comediennes who have ever covered up their beauty with burnt cork. After the first part there is an olio introducing Katherine Selsor, the girl who talks, "Aline," the girl with the hoops, changing a childhood pastime into a science, and "Marie Genaro," the flexible Venus, introducing seemingly impossible feats of contortion, also the Loletta Sisters in songs and dances. After the olio the scene shifts to a cafe with a cabaret show in full swing. There is not a man in the show. Here violin selections, the tango, and the latest songs to please all tastes are introduced. A few of the costumes in this cabaret scene alone are worth the price of admission.

A new show of four big acts will open a three-day engagement at the Empress on Monday matinee, May 18. The bill promises to be one of the best yet offered to Duluth patrons. The headline feature is the Great Gerard and company. They do many feats in comedy juggling, with heavy weights and cannon balls. The feats are all hazardous and require remarkable strength and skill to perform. Gerard is a well built man and will give an exhibition of strength and show to what uses well trained muscles can be put.

The Greys are vocalists and will offer a goodly number of popular songs and selections. They have a score of rags, opera pieces and ballads which they will render.

Billy Davis is a colored comedian. His songs are mostly parodies on the well known and popular pieces now being sung while his patter is said to be new, bright and highly entertaining.

Swain's Rats and Cats go to show to what limits animals can be trained. Few have ever seen or heard of rats and cats working in unison, as they do in Mr. Swain's act.

A two-reel feature film and a single comedy reel of motion pictures will complete an excellent arrangement of acts put together for entertaining purposes.

Many Duluthians have seen that matinee idol, "Billy—Single Clifford," but not at the prices at which he will appear at the Empress for an engagement of four days beginning with the matinee Thursday, May 21. Billy Single Clifford himself and his company will appear in the musical farce "Believe Me." This comedy has been expressly written for Billy Clifford and show him at his best. Besides Billy Clifford other artists to appear with him are, Miss Mae Collins, the Scotch Lassie, Joe Waldron, direct from the Fatherland; Miss Ida May, the Irish delineator; George Cable, the Three Weston Sisters, and Ed C. Clifford, baritone.

"Hen Pecked Henry," Halton Powell's successful tabloid, will be seen at the Empress soon. This will make a return engagement. The attraction made a very decided hit when seen here last. It still contains Jack Trainor and the same cast of people.

* * *

Menlo Moore's big vaudeville act, "The Rah Rah Boys," will soon be seen at the Empress." This is a big feature act of songs and much frivolity.

AT THE REX

The Motion Picture Weekly's reporters showed their ability when gathering news for No. 113 Animated Weekly to be shown at the Rex Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Battleships and transports are shown leaving their different harbors and great crowds eager to enlist at New York.

From Berlin, Germany, the Weekly's reporter catches a picture of the "big balloon" that burst in a terrific gale. Notables come to New York on special trains to attend the Astor-Huntington society wedding. California adds her bit of news in the shape of spectacular oil wells when thousands of barrels of oil go up in smoke. The biggest Marathon ever held in the world in which more than 2,000 take part and run thirteen miles is shown. Puck's famous caricaturist, Hy Myer, puts the finish on a newsy Weekly.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Rex will be the usual red-letter days for "The Perils of Pauline" and "The Girl of Mystery, Lucille Love," will furnish the wonders and hair-breadth escapes as usual. As a thrilling climax, Lucille, when trapped by her enemy, takes a long chance when she rides over a deep pit and falls with her horse to the bottom. Pauline as sweet and wayward as ever, continues to court all sorts of danger in the effort to see the world. The brave Harry, through his love, must follow where she leads.

Within the next two or three weeks some very stirring events are promised for our "Mutual Girl." Chapter 17, to be played at the Rex Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, shows Margaret back to the old farm home and she meets again the country sweetheart. Margaret romps all over the farm, pets the horse, cows, chickens, kittens and pigs, but she looks the prettiest in the blossom-laden apple orchard.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday Actor Breeze will play the big feature, "The Master Mind." Edmund Breeze has scored some wonderful successes during the last season on the stage, but it can be truthfully said that none of them allowed the unlimited scope obtained by the camera in his production of "The Master Mind." A number of clever disguises are made up close to the camera and the spectator can then appreciate how Mr. Breeze won the title of "King of the Makeup Artists."

AT THE DIAMOND

A very interesting and suitable Sunday program will be shown at the Diamond theater tomorrow. The main feature is a beautiful romance from the Old Testament, in three parts, entitled "Joseph's Trials in Egypt." This is followed by a classy Lubin feature drama, "Above the Law;" an Essanay feature comedy, "A Hot Time in Snakeville," and a Biograph drama, "An Hour of Terror." In view of the approaching warm weather proper arrangements have been made to keep the patrons of this popular little theater cool and comfortable at all times. The public is invited to come early on account of the unusual length of the program. Next Friday and Saturday Mary Fuller in "Dolly of the Dailie," will be shown, this being the fourth installment of this picture that is produced by the Edison company.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

It is announced that Hazel Dawn, who won renown for herself in the title role of "The Pink Lady," and more recently appeared in "The Little Cafe," has signed a contract with John C. Fisher, whereby she will be under his management next season and will be presented in a new musical comedy, now being written especially for her use. The new musical play, which is nearing completion, but is as yet unnamed, is by Harry B. Smith and Robert B. Smith, who will provide the libretto, and Victor Herbert, who has written the music. An elaborate production is planned and an exceptional cast will be engaged. Miss Dawn's first starring tour will begin in September and after a few preliminary weeks on the road she will appear in New York with the new play.

Helen Bertram will make her reappearance upon the stage next season after an absence of five years. She will be starred in a new one-act operetta by Edgar Allen Woolfe, entitled "Coppelia's Dress." Miss Bertram has been in France studying with Jean De Reszke.

* * *

Among the new productions announced for next season is a drama by Arnold Bennett and Edward Knobloch, which is called "Just a Dress." It is the history of a garment from its first wearing to its final relegation to the ash heap.

The American rights of the English production, "After the Girl," have been secured by Lee Schubert.

* * *

"The Girl From Rector's" will be produced in London by A. H. Woods next December. Ethel Levey will assume the title role.

"Hanged," a sensational vaudeville sketch, which created a furore in San Francisco, will be shown in New York. The act, which is a dramatic argument against capital punishment, presents an actual hanging upon the stage.

Nat Goodwin threatens to publish an autobiography. One of the features of the work is said to be the fact that he refers to the different victims of his matrimonial tendencies by number instead of using their names.

* * *

"Auction Pinochle," the much advertised production which was recently put on at Los Angeles by Adolph Philipp, seems not to have struck a popular chord, according to reports received. Philipp has left the Pacific coast, where he had intended to remain for some time.

* * *

Rose Stahl has closed her season in "Maggie Pepper." She will have a new play next season. The name is not given out as yet.

Joseph Santley has the assistance of Ruth Randall and Galdys Zell, two rather well-known dancers, in his vaudeville act. The special features of his turn are the Santley tango and the aviation waltz. His appearances are to be confined to six of the leading cities.

* * *

Montgomery and Stone have finished their present season in "The Lady of the Slipper." They will be together again next fall in the same attraction, which has been quite successful.

Julia Dean is to appear in a new play by George Broadhurst next season. Outside of the momentary appearance of a maid Miss Dean will have the only feminine role in the piece.

Eugene Walter's newest offering in the dramatic line, "A Plain Woman," met with divided opinions on the part of the critics upon its first presentation, which took place in the Quaker City.

* * *

Blossom Seeley is back upon the stage again. She was with the New York Giants on their Southern training trip, accompanying her husband, Rube Marquard.

Frazee has been denied the injunction he asked for against Robert Edeson in the New York supreme court. The suit was brought about by Edeson's jumping away from the Fine Feathers company in order to appear in his big success of past seasons, "Strongheart." The court held that the contract with Frazee was not binding.

* * *

John Philip Sousa has composed a special march for this year's All-Star Gambol of the Lambs. A new overture of his will open the program at each performance, the march being used in the minstrel parade, which will be a feature of the gambol in each city visited.

* * *

During the past week David Belasco has been trying out a new play at Washington, D. C. The title is "What's Wrong," and the author, Frederick Ballard, who is also responsible for "Believe Me, Xantippe." Should the tryout prove to have been successful in Mr. Belasco's judgment the play will be one of his regular attractions next season.

* * *

De Wolfe Hopper has withdrawn from the cast of "The Yeoman of the Guard." Reasons are not given.

The Schuberts are said to be hot after Grace La Rue to take the place of Gaby Deslys in "The Belle of Bond Street." Contrary to previous reports it is given out that Bernard will stick with the show.

After 427 performances at the Haymarket Theater, London, "Within the Law" has closed its season. There are, however, still two companies touring the provinces with the play.

* * *

"By-Products," by Joseph Medill Patterson, has been rechristened. Under the name of "Why Girls Go Wrong," this playlet is being put on at William Hammerstein's Victoria theater, New York, during the present week. Nance Gwyn has the leading role.

George Arliss has completely recovered from a severe illness that interrupted his season in "Disraeli," and, in spite of the lateness of the season, he has resumed his tour and will play several weeks longer. If possible, he will return to some of the cities where he was forced to cancel engagements during his illness.

* * *

Selwyn & Co.'s production of "Under Cover," the play by Roi Cooper Megrue, which is to be seen in New York and Chicago early next season, celebrated its one hundred and fiftieth performance last night at the Plymouth theater, Boston.

Margaret Illington, who has been having splendid success this season as Mary Turner in "Within the Law," has been reengaged to play the same part next season.

* * *

Julie Herne has been engaged to take the place of May Buckley with Holbrook's Princess Players. As previously stated Miss Buckley is to head a summer stock company at Cleveland.

REX BEACH,
Whose Novel "The Spoilers" Will Be as a Motion Picture Drama at the Orpheum Next Week.

ENGLISH AND CELTIC GROUP IS LARGEST

Mother Tongues of Foreign White Stock of United States.

Washington, May 16.—The English and Celtic (including Irish, Scotch, or Welsh) group was the largest among the 32,243,382 persons of foreign white stock in the United States in 1910, who represented 39.5 per cent of the total white population of this country, according to the mother tongue bulletin which has been issued recently by Director William J. Harris of the bureau of the census. By mother tongue is meant the native language, or that spoken before immigration, and the report covers all white persons of foreign stock, including the foreign born and also the natives, one or both of whose parents were foreign born.

As thus reported, the total foreign white stock whose mother tongue was English and Celtic (including Irish, Scotch, or Welsh) numbered 10,037,420. This number represented 12.3 per cent of the total white population of the United States in 1910, which was 81,731,957. The German group numbered 8,817,271, or 10.8 per cent; Italian, 2,151,422, or 2.6 per cent; Polish, 1,707,640, or 2.1 per cent; Yiddish and Hebrew, 1,676,762, or 2.1 per cent; Swedish, 1,445,869, or 1.8 per cent; French, 1,357,169, or 1.7 per cent; and Norwegian, 1,009,854, or 1.2 per cent.

The number of persons in the United States of foreign white stock reporting other principal mother tongues were: Bohemian and Moravian, 539,352; Spanish, 448,198; Danish, 446,473; Dutch and Frisian, 324,930; Magyar, 320,893; Slovak, 284,444; Lithuanian and Lettish, 211,235; Finnish, 200,688; Slovenian, 183,431; Portuguese, 141,268; Greek, 130,379; Serbo-Croatian, 129,254, (including Croatian, 83,036; Serbian, 26,752; Dalmatian, 5,505; and Montenegrin, 3,961); Russian, 95,137; Roumanian, 51,124; Syrian and Arabic, 46,727; Flemish, 44,806; Ruthenian, 35,359; Slavic (not specified) 35,195; Armenian, 30,621; Bulgarian, 19,380; Turkish, 5,441; Albanian, 2,366; all other, and those whose mother tongue was unknown, 313,834.

ON THE IRON RANGES

CONSIDERING BIDS FOR EVELETH SCHOOL

Duluthians Figure Prominently on Tenders for Work.

Eveleth, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The board of education is considering bids for the erection of a new manual training building, to be ready for occupancy by Sept. 1, this year.

The bids were opened yesterday afternoon. The board heard from all firms represented and after narrowing the field down to three bids for each of the contracts adjourned until today to give them final consideration.

Duluthian Bidders.

On the general contract the bids of Theo. Nauffts of Duluth for $36,800 and $37,750, Dauplaise and company of Superior, Wis., for $36,212 and $39,012, and Tomlinson and Egan of Ashland, Wis., for $36,800 and $40,057, are still being considered. The figures were all close, Fawcett & Bergstrom of Duluth bidding $38,585 and $41,785, John Donlin of Superior, Wis., $39,886 and $43,852, and Cheney & Co. of Minneapolis, $38,812 and $41,312.

For the heating and ventilating contracts the bids of the Northern Plumbing & Heating company of Eveleth for $8,218 and $7,469, D. R. Black of Duluth for $8,795 and $7,721, and F. S. Spencer of Minneapolis for $8,356 and $7,500, are being considered. Other bids were: Star Heating & Contracting company of Virginia, $9,160; A. C. Schirmer of Hibbing, $8,191 and $7,815.25, and American Heating company of Duluth, $8,654 and $7,804. For the ventilating alone the Hackney Ventilating company of Minneapolis submitted a bid of $2,373.75 and W. Joerns of Duluth $2,835.

Duluth Bidder Lowest.

On the plumbing contract the following bids were received: Star Heating & Contracting company of Virginia, $2,430; Northern Plumbing & Heating company of this city, $2,118; American Heating company of Duluth, $2,458; D. R. Black of Duluth, $2,000, and A. C. Schirmer of Hibbing, $2,383.65.

A brick offered by S. L. Stroud of the Standard Salt and Cement company of Duluth was selected for the building. The new structure is to be near the high school and the gray face "Hytox" brick of the Hydraulic Brick company was selected to match the material in the high school.

BUHL PLANS FOR FIREMEN'S MEET

Range Firemen's Tournament There Aug. 20, 21 and 22.

Buhl, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The chiefs of the fire departments of Grand Rapids, Coleraine, Proctor, Bovey, Keewatin, Kinney and Virginia and Rainy Lake Lumber company attended a meeting here to discuss plans for the tournament to be held by the Range Firemen's association. It was decided to have the meet on Aug. 20, 21 and 22 and more than $1,100 will be distributed in prizes. The visitors were all enthusiastic over the coming meeting and promised large delegations from their respective towns.

BOYLE WILL PITCH.

Congressional Candidate to Toss Ball for Benedicts.

Eveleth, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The married and the single Elks will meet tomorrow in their annual struggle for the baseball supremacy. The bachelors took the game last year.

Senator Jim Boyle, candidate for congress, will pitch for the benedicts, and his brother, Pat Boyle, assistant city engineer, play third base for the opposing team.

Mayor J. J. Gleason and ex-Mayor Jake Saari appear in the married men's lineup, the former as shortstop and the latter at first base. Postmaster Edward Hatch, a prospective candidate for county auditor, plays in the outfield for the benedicts and Assistant City Attorney Abe Feldman holds a similar position with the bachelors. The managers have not yet been able to decide on an umpire who is willing to officiate.

BOOKS FOR EVELETH.

Volumes Secured From the Minnesota Library Commission.

Eveleth, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. P. A. Schwarz, director of the Boys' Study and Recreation club, has received a library of fifty-five boys' books from the Minnesota public library commission for the use of the members of his club and others. He has already had one such library and although all of the books were loaned many times not one was lost or defaced.

Proprietors of billiard halls in this city have been supplied by Chief of Police Flinnegan with lists of all boys enrolled in the high school so that ignorance cannot be advanced as an excuse if a student is found playing or frequenting a billiard room.

GRAND RAPIDS TWIRLER JOINS NORTHERN LEAGUE

WILL WHALING.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 16.—Will Whaling, one of the standbys of the Grand Rapids baseball team for several seasons past, has signed a contract to play with the Virginia Northern league team on the pitching staff. Whaling is very young for league company, being barely 20, and being a graduate of the Grand Rapids high school only at the present year.

He will join the Ore Diggers at Virginia on May 24 to play one game with them and then will then go to Virginia at the close of the school year.

BUHL FAVORS CONCRETE PAVING.

Buhl, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a special council meeting held Wednesday evening, attended by a large number of the taxpayers and citizens, it was practically unanimously decided to use concrete for the paving this year. The various kinds of paving material were thoroughly discussed and the moving pictures shown by Mr. McGowan of Minneapolis of the roads in other parts of the country were watched with interest. The council plans to do a large amount of work this year and called the meeting for the purpose of securing the sentiment of the residents.

H. C. Newton, general manager of the Mesaba Electric Railway company, was at the meeting. Mr. Newton, on behalf of the road, expressed a desire to see the best possible paving installed and was entirely satisfied with the decision favoring concrete work.

The village will pave between the tracks of the railway and send in the bill to the company for payment.

RECLUSE NEARLY 90 KILLS HIMSELF

John Jacobson, Living Near Cook, Dies After Trying Drowning.

Virginia, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Jacobson, aged 87, a recluse living about six miles from Cook, died yesterday afternoon, following an attempt to drown himself in the Little Fork river. He tied a rope around his arm then, jumped into the river. Neighbors pulled him out and worked on him for some time, finally restoring him, but the exposure proved too much and he died about 2 p. m. yesterday. After being revived, he said to his neighbors who bent over him, "Why didn't you let me die."

Jacobson has lived in the vicinity of Cook and on the Vermilion range many years and always acted eccentrically. It is believed his life has a mystery back of it. He has two children living at 652 Carroll street, Brooklyn, N. Y., who have been notified. The body will be brought here for interment.

VIRGINIA BASEBALL FEVER STILL HIGH

Predicted Opening Game Monday Will See Banner Crowd of Fans.

Virginia, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The baseball fever here grows hourly in anticipation of the opening of the Northern league games here next Monday afternoon. It is predicted, if the weather permits, the crowd will be a record-breaker. The mayor has proclaimed the afternoon a holiday.

BUHL NEWS NOTES.

Rats Are Also Bothering People of That Range Village.

Buhl, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Along with other villages on the range Buhl is troubled with rats. Citizens report that in many of the alleys they are quite numerous and it is not at all unlikely that some action will be taken at an early meeting of the council.

The village has planted 100 poplars on Jones avenue.

The village and citizens are cooperating this week in improving the appearance of the streets, alleys and lawn.

Large attendance is expected at the presentation of the senior class play of the Buhl high school next Friday, when "Dan Cupid, Head Coach," is to be the offering, under the direction of Miss Cora Dorsey.

Samuel C. Scott, village attorney at Hibbing, and a candidate for the legislature from the Sixtieth district was here this week.

The Misses Mayme and Katherine Demel have returned from Duluth.

Fred Bordleau of Hibbing was in the village Saturday.

G. W. Durbahn and son, Wilbur, of Sleepy Eye, visited here over Sunday with Prof. Arthur Durbahn.

Village Attorney Thad Bean, was a visitor at Hibbing Sunday.

PARLOR CARS ON THE TROLLEY LINE.

Hibbing, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The proposed parlor car service in the Mesaba Electric road will start within three weeks according to Manager H. S. Newton. The cars will make four trips each way and reservations for a day ahead may be made with any agent so that accommodations for theater parties or special trips may be assured.

Each parlor car will have a special conductor.

CITY EMPLOYES TO EMPLOY PHYSICIAN.

Eveleth, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—A plan is being worked out in this city for the municipal employes to obtain the services of a physician and surgeon for themselves and families for a regular monthly payment.

If arrangements can be made with a physician for the services the city employes will petition the council to arrange for the withholding of the fees each month and the payment to the physician.

ITCHED SO, HE TORE HIS FLESH RESINOL CURED

Tortured For Three Weeks, But Two Applications Did the Work.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 3, 1913: "All over my body were small pimples which itched me so that I could just grab my flesh and tear it apart. For three weeks I could not sleep at night until I was simply exhausted. I tried most everything that was supposed to give relief, and I can truthfully say that not until I used Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment did I begin to feel like the man I was. After only two applications there were no more symptoms of my ailment." (Signed) A. Jackson, care of Water Registrar's Office, District Building.

Physicians have prescribed Resinol for nineteen years, for all sorts of skin troubles, pimples, dandruff, sores, ulcers, burns, wounds, and piles. Every druggist sells Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap, but for trial size, free, write to Dept. 15-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md. Do not be deceived by imitations.

FARMERS' CLUB MEET SUCCESS

Gathering at Grand Rapids Discusses Potato Culture.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The meeting of the Grand Rapids Farmers' club, held last evening at the high school, was even better attended than the last meeting, and much enthusiasm was displayed.

The program opened with a talk by Miss Norton, supervisor of domestic science of the Grand Rapids high school, on "The Uses of Potatoes in the Home."

A. M. Sisler, secretary of the Itasca County Agricultural association, talked on what can be done by the farmers' club in the way of preparing for the county fair and for the Itasca county exhibit at the state fair.

Austin Speaks.

C. M. Austin spoke on "Fungus Diseases of Potatoes." Mr. Austin, who is assistant agricultural instructor in the local schools, is recently from the potato district of New York state, and he told of the ravages of blight, scab and brown rot in potatoes in that state and advised the local farmers to take precautions against these potato diseases by taking means to prevent their spread in this country.

Refreshments were served, during which a general discussion of farm topics was enjoyed. George W. Sawyer was appointed to look after the getting up of a program, and Mrs. B. S. Booth to look after providing refreshments for the next meeting which will be held on some date in the middle of June to be announced later.

HALBERT TO SPEAK.

Other Bull Moosers to Participate in Coleraine Rally.

Coleraine, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hugh T. Halbert of St. Paul, Progressive candidate for governor, will address the "Bull Moosers" of Itasca county at the village hall auditorium tonight. Other Progressive candidates who will also speak are: O. H. Higbee, candidate for congress; J. C. Lewis, candidate for secretary of state and C. R. Woods, the candidate for the legislature. Several vocal and instrumental numbers will also be on the program including the Coleraine City band. It is expected that large delegations of voters from Grand Rapids, Deer River, Nashwauk and Marble will be present. The program will be in charge of Alex King, a local Progressive leader.

Rapids Beats Hibbing.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Grand Rapids high school baseball team won easily yesterday afternoon from the Hibbing high school in a loosely played game, by a score of 10 to 2. The batteries were Kleffman and Smith for Hibbing and Whaling and Lee for Grand Rapids.

Today the local high school team went to Coleraine to play against the team representing the Coleraine high school.

CREAMERY SITE AT DEER RIVER CHOSEN

Itasca County Town Reports Quite a Boom in Real Estate.

Deer River, Minn., May 16.—A site for the new creamery was selected Wednesday by the committee. It is on what is known as Sullivan's Hill at the junction of the Minneapolis & Rainy River railway and the Great Northern, and consists of four lots facing both the roads. The site affords an ideal opportunity for drainage into the Deer River. It is expected work of constructing the building will soon start.

Some Realty Activity.

Real estate dealing have been numerous for the past two weeks with the starting up of sawmills and factories here. A. D. Ingersoll has sold to Paul Krause a cottage on First street north for $200, which Mr. Krause with his wife will occupy about June 1.

Harry M. Johnson bought of H. C. Seaman a lot and cottage on Hazel avenue in the north part of town and a lot beside this from A. D. Ingersoll, making him a frontage of 100 feet. Mr. Johnson will at once improve the property and move in from Fawn Lake.

Mert Parmeter has purchased from A. D. Ingersoll a cottage in the north part of their village on Hazel avenue and with his wife is moving into it from Wright county, Minnesota.

H. M. Kelley, who vacates the Parmeter place, has purchased the lot at the corner of Hazel avenue and Division street.

There is not a vacant house in the village and it is expected that the season will see many new homes erected. In the south part of town in the manufacturing district many new homes are being erected.

PIMPLES ON CHEEKS BACK AND ARMS

Also Chest. Grew Larger. Festered and Came to Head. Itched Badly. Ashamed to Go Anywhere. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

7115 Madison Ave., Chicago, Ill.—"The trouble began by having little pimples on my head and then on one cheek. It spread on the other cheek, my chin, back, arms and chest. The pimples looked like little red spots at first and then they grew larger and festered and came to a head. They itched so badly that I would scratch and pick them and make them about ten times worse. My clothing irritated the breaking out on my body. I was ashamed to go anywhere.

"I procured a ——— Soap, Salve, several creams, ——— and ——— but none of them helped me. I was just about discouraged as to what to do when I tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I was overjoyed at the results. I gently smeared the Cuticura Ointment on the affected parts, let it remain for a while and washed it off with hot water and Cuticura Soap. I used three cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and they cured me entirely in a little less than a month and a half." (Signed) Miss Doris Witzeman, Sept. 30, 1913.

A single hot bath with Cuticura Soap and a gentle anointing with Cuticura Ointment are often sufficient to afford immediate relief in the most distressing cases of skin and scalp diseases when all else fails. Sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

BOYLE AT TWO HARBORS

Advises Soft Pedal in Matter of Attacking Business.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—State Senator J. P. Boyle of Eveleth, candidate for congress, speaking here last night before the Commercial club to a large audience, advocated the soft pedal in the matter of attacking public business. In advising against attacks on business he said:

"There should not be any attack on business. All of our industries, whether big or little, semi-public corporations such as railroads and telephone companies or private business should be adequately compensated for the services they render to society.

"If the railroads are not making decent profits, conditions should be changed so that they will do so. The American people do not object to that. They do object, however, to excessive profits and excessive incomes which are not earned honestly, because such profits and incomes are taking money out of the pockets of the men who are earning the money."

Senator Boyle will speak at the Norwegian celebration in Eveleth tonight.

NEW CHISHOLM CHURCH.

Scandinavian Lutherans Figure on Erecting New Building.

Chisholm, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—A very well attended and enthusiastic meeting of the Scandinavian Lutherans was held Thursday evening at the Methodist church, at which plans were put under way for the building of a new church for that denomination. Rev. Carl Swan of Duluth and Rev. J. B. A Idstrom of Hibbing were present and lent their assistance in furthering the plan. A committee was appointed to look into the financial possibilities, and if certain terms on real estate can be made, the building will be started at once.

Gust Anderson, Osman Abby, John Olst and Henry Thompson were made a special committee to figure out a way of financing the project. The site which is owned by the Scandinavian Lutherans is located at the corner of Spruce street and First avenue, and is valued as about $2,000.

CANNOT GET GROUNDS.

Two Harbors Baseball Park Plans Prove Futile.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Complications have arisen in the matter of securing the ground at the southeast corner of the intersection of Seventh avenue and Willow street for a baseball park, and there is considerable doubt if the baseball promoters of the city will be able to secure this very desirable location for a ball park.

The managers have practically given up hope of securing grounds any closer to the city than the old one now is, and are now making arrangements to fix up the old park. The fence at the old park is in bad condition as well as the grounds. A number of the boys have been working at the old grounds this week in order to get it in shape for the game tomorrow between the local team and the Big Duluth team of Duluth.

BIWABIK NEWS.

New Time Card on Iron Range Road Beginning Next Sunday.

Biwabik, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Iron Range road will put a new time table into effect on Sunday, and all south bound trains through here will be five minutes earlier.

Mrs. W. L. Hill went to Duluth the first of the week for a few days' visit and returned Thursday evening.

Nurse Gets First Land.

Lewistown, Mont., May 16.—An all-night vigil was maintained by about 200 landseekers in front of the United States land office here, awaiting a chance to file upon tracts in a section of county which will be thrown open near the town of Fiften, embracing about 8,000 acres. Miss Helene Richbaum, a trained nurse, was first in line and to her was given Ticket No. 1 by Register Kelly, when the office opened.

"TIZ" FOR TIRED, HOT, SORE FEET

"TIZ" for Puffed-Up, Chafed, Sweaty, Calloused Feet and Corns.

Why go limping around with aching, puffed-up feet—feet so tired, chafed, sweaty and swollen you can hardly get your shoes on or off? Why don't you get a 25-cent box of "TIZ" from the drug store now and gladden your tortured feet?

"TIZ" makes your feet glow with comfort; takes down swellings and draws the soreness and misery right right out of feet that chafe, smart and burn. "TIZ" instantly stops pain in corns, callouses and bunions. "TIZ" is glorious for tired, sweaty, smelly feet. No more shoe tightness—no more foot torture.

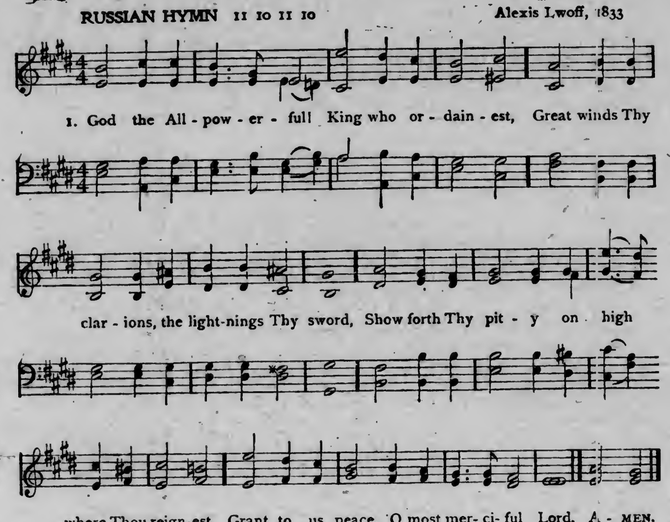
A Peace-Sunday Meditation

"Glory to God in the Highest, and on Earth Peace, Good Will Toward Men."

The Nation

RUSSIAN HYMN 11 10 11 10 Alexis Lwoff, 1833



1. God the All - pow - er - full King who or - dain - est, Great winds Thy clar - ions, the light-nings Thy sword, Show forth Thy pit - y on high where Thou reign-est, Grant to us peace, O most mer- ci- ful Lord. A - MEN.

2 God the All-righteous One! man hath defied Thee,
Yet to eternity standeth Thy word;
Falsehood and wrong shall not tarry beside Thee;
Grant to us peace, O most merciful Lord.

3 God the All-wise! by the fire of Thy chast'ning,
Earth shall to freedom and truth be restored;
Through the thick darkness Thy kingdom is hastening;
Thou wilt give peace in Thy time, O Lord.

4 So shall Thy children, in thankful devotion,
Praise Him who saved them from peril and sword,
Singing in chorus from ocean to ocean,
"Peace to the nations, and praise to the Lord."

Henry F. Chorley, 1842 Arr. by John Ellerton, 1870

From THE AMERICAN HYMNAL, published by The Century Co., New York

"And the Lord will judge between the nations; and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." Isaiah 2:4.

"Let us pray for the peace of the whole world; for the welfare of God's holy churches, and for the union of them all; for healthful seasons; for abundance of the fruits of the earth, and for peaceful times."

PEACE DAY IN CHURCHES

Special Exercises in the Schools Monday; Pastors War on War.

Peace day will be observed in nearly every church in the country tomorrow, with special sermons and musical programs. In Duluth the pastors have prepared subjects on the question of international peace, while next Monday Peace day will be observed by the school children of the city, a special order having been issued yesterday by Supt. of Schools Denfeld.

At Temple Emanuel, where services are held only on Friday evening, Dr. Lefkovits last evening preached on "War on War." He declared that war is unbiblical and un-Christian, while from a modern and advanced point of view, it is immoral.

"A splendid change is slowly coming over the world in the estimate of human service," said Dr. Lefkovits. "This change marks a great advance and points out the fact that we regard the rise of man, rather than the fall, as a correct interpretation of history.

"War is not only unbiblical and un-Christian, but from an advanced point of view, it is likewise immoral. War is not an appeal to right but to might. It is a mighty force that usually conquers and when we have browbeaten a man and killed him or turned him down we have not made him wrong.

"The cause that succeeds by might is not necessarily a righteous cause. The real issue continues after the war is over. Therefore, it is the duty of this civilized age to find an equivalent, a moral equivalent of war, an equivalent that will decide an issue by virtue of right and not by might."

IS MUCH DEVOTED TO SKI JUMPING

Little Crown Prince Olav of Norway Is Enthusiastic Skier.

Christiania, May 16.—The little Crown Prince Olav, like every Norwegian boy, is striving to become the champion ski jumper of the world. He was given his first skis at the age of 3 years and during the past winter, at the age of 11, he has been jumping from forty to fifty feet. He is as clever as any boy of his age at the sport and is so enthusiastic about it that he attends all the big contests.

When King Haakon and Queen Maud came to Norway in 1905, they knew nothing about winter sports, but before their first winter was over the royal pair became fascinated with skiing and, under the tutelage of Capt. Ill, the king's aide, who is one of the most expert ski runners in Norway, they became so proficient that they could compete with any native born of their age.

In the winter the royal family live for several weeks in a small house near the scene of the world's greatest ski derby. This house, which was a gift from the people, is built in the Norwegian peasant style and is furnished in true sportsman fashion. Neither the king nor queen cares much for royal ceremony and etiquette, so their vacation days at the ski grounds constitute the most enjoyable season of their year.

They found particular pleasure recently in entertaining the Prince of Wales, their nephew, who tried skiing for the first time. The prince took to the Norwegian sports so readily that during the last day of his visit he made a trip to the high mountains and glaciers, a feat that is not considered lightly even by experienced mountain climbers. When he left for home he expressed the intention of coming back next winter, if possible.

PAPAL VILLA AT CASTELGANDOLFO

Will Be Occupied By Elder of the Pope's Sisters.

Rome, May 16.—The elder of the pope's sisters, who is ailing, is to try the air of Castelgandolfo, where the pontiff has a summer villa, which he has never seen.

When Pius X made this disposition for his sister he remarked, "I wish I could come too," which, however, is not to be taken too literally, as he has become so fond of the vatican that he probably would not leave it if he could.

The papal villa at Castelgandolfo was for years the favorite summer residence of numerous pontiffs, but has not been visited by a pope since 1869 when Pius IX went there. There is nothing magnificent about it, with the exception of the view, but the garden is beautiful and the air is salubrious. The most important room in the house is the bedroom of Pius IX, which is preserved just as it was when he was last there.

From the balconies of the villa the pope's sister will look down on the beautiful lake of Albano, perched above which is the monastery built by the last of the Stuarts, or, in the other direction, the cupola of St. Peter's across the plain crowning the Eternal City.

UNVEILING OF THE RISTORI MONUMENT.

Rome, May 16.—It has been decided that the monument to Adelaide Ristori, Italy's greatest actress, the funds for which were raised by international subscriptions, shall be unveiled at Cividale del Friuli either on Aug. 30 or Sept. 6.

Adelaide Ristori's name may be remembered in the United States, where she appeared with Booth during the season of 1884-85. Her last real appearance on the stage in New York was in "Marie Stuart," played at the Bowery theater, with a German company.

She was called the most beautiful Italian woman of her time.

SCANDINAVIAN ALLIANCE LIKELY

Occupies the Attention of Statesmen in Norway, Sweden and Denmark.

Copenhagen, May 16.—The possibility of a defensive alliance between Norway, Sweden and Denmark is occupying the serious attention of statesmen in all three of these Scandinavian countries.

Up to a few months ago such a combination was considered out of the question because of the friction between Norway and Sweden, whose union was dissolved in 1905.

If Sweden joins such an alliance it will be because of the so-called Russian peril. On most question since the dissolution of the union with Norway, Sweden has not been on very cordial terms with the other Scandinavian countries and it will take some great common danger to bring her into closer relations with her immediate neighbors.

The feeling that such an alliance will come is very strong in Norway. One of its strongest prophets is the Arctic explorer, Dr. Fridthjof Nansen, who believes that the undertaking will come as soon as the necessity for it grows a little stronger. With Norway and Sweden seeking such an alliance, it is certain that Denmark would make no objection to joining.

CIVILIZING THE TURKISH SOLDIER

Must Eat With Knife and Fork, Says War Secretary.

Constantinople, May 16.—Not since its supposedly invincible battalions were rolled back by the Bulgarian advance at Lule Burgas has the Turkish army experienced a greater shock than the order issued by the new secretary of war, Envers Bey, that hereafter all Turkish soldiers must eat with a knife and fork. The enlisted men are not only alarmed at the prospect of handling the strange implements, but are hurt by the intimation that faithful hands, which have always served the primary purpose of conveying food to their mouths, should be deemed no longer fit for that useful service. The Turkish private is not proving an apt pupil. When his superiors are absent he squats upon the floor and devours his food in the good old fashioned way, but at the approach of an officer he scrambles to a seat at the table and falls to wielding his new weapons with all the skill he can command.

The civilizing process is not to stop with teaching the Turkish soldier table manners. The edict has also gone forth that he must learn to read and write.

Women's suffrage has received an unusual amount of attention in Duluth this week. Wednesday there was the suffrage luncheon given at the Glass Block tea room in honor of Mrs. A. H. Bright, president of the State Suffrage association. It was well attended and gave the guests an opportunity to hear of suffrage activities in all parts of the country. Last night both sides of the suffrage question were heard at the debate given at Glen Avon church.

Early in the week a large audience heard Dr. George Vincent of Minneapolis speak at the annual reception given by the Association of Collegiate Alumnae. Miss Margaret Linehan's recital and recitals given by piano pupils were the musical events of the week. The wedding of Miss Eunice Saxton and Charles E. Kuehnow at St. Paul's church Thursday morning and that of Miss Eva Zalk and Jacob Wilk at the bride's home in the evening ushered in the long list of early summer weddings.

The benefit given at the Rex theater Wednesday afternoon and evening for St. Janes' orphanage and Linnaea tag day held today for the benefit of tubercular patients, were the leading charitable events of the past week.

Monday morning the women on the Y. W. C. A. campaign committee will begin work to raise money for the budget of the association. They hope to complete the campaign by Saturday night. Wednesday evening Miss Ella Gamble and Rudolph Schiller will be married at the home of the bride's parents. Thursday evening the young people of St. Clement's church will present a play and Friday evening a spring concert will be given at Glen Avon church.

Among Duluthians who will go abroad this summer is W. H. Schilling of the high school. Mr. Schilling will conduct a party of twelve, among them being Miss Grace Wright, Miss Edith Scovell and Miss Florence Williams, all of this city. They will sail from Boston June 6, on the Canopic, and will visit Naples, Rome, Venice, Munich, Berlin, Cologne, Brussels, London and points in Switzerland, sailing for home from Glasgow, Aug. 22.

Events of Interest

A minstrel show for Masons and their families will be given at the Masonic temple Wednesday evening, May 20, under the auspices of Keystone Chapter, No. 20, Royal Arch Masons.

YOUNG PEOPLE OF ST. CLEMENT'S CHURCH WILL PRESENT PLAY

MISS MAE MONAGHAN
As "Elizabeth."

JAMES WADE
As "Wandering Tom."

CLARENCE THOMAS
As "Jerry."

LAWRENCE DROHAN
As "Mose."

MISS GRACE FLOOD
As "Arabella."

"The Dust of Earth," a four-act play by Katherine Kavanaugh, will be presented at St. Clement's hall Thursday evening by the young people of St. Clement's Catholic church, under the direction of Miss Mary Shesgreen. The cast is:

David Moore of Maple farm cottage.....William Cahill
Susan Moore, his wife.....Alice Kennedy
Elizabeth, their daughter.....Mae Monaghan
Jerry, their son.....Clarence Thomas
Dr. Templeton.....C. F. Kremer
Miss Arabella, the village newspaper.....Grace Flood
John Ryder, master of the Maples.....Walter Emerson
Wandering Tom, a mystery.....James Wade
Old Mose, his companion.....Lawrence Drohan
Nell, the dust of the earth".....Louise Emerson

The play is full of romance, mystery and comedy. It tells the story of Nell, a little girl who lives on her uncle's farm. Elizabeth, the cousin, has set her heart upon being mistress of the Maples estate and when it is learned that John Ryder, the master of Maples, Maples, loves Nell, both aunt and cousin taunt the child until she goes to the cabin of her old friend, Wandering Tom. Tom is always trying to remember something that happened. The sight of Nell in her mother's wedding gown brings back his memory and it is discovered he is the owner of the Maples and the father of Nell.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Keep Knowledge of Crimes Away From Children.

While we may read with morbid curiosity, or avoid with healthy horror, the details of sickening murders, there seems as yet no method by which we can wholly keep the facts from filtering through to the children. Be one ever so careful a parent or counselor, "the murder will out"—and in no metaphorical sense, the moment the children gather with their mates, for some one or many are bound to be primed with information and all the grewsome details of these ever recurrent disturbers of our serenity.

It struck me with a horror equal to that which I felt when I first read of a recent brutal murder to hear a boy of 8 and a girl of 10 discussing it in interested, if childish, detail. I have no remedy to prescribe for this evil. Only I do not recognize it as being one to tax one's resources of wit and invoke prayerful concern.

We have always hoped, I think, not to have the bloom rubbed off the peach too early in either our boys or girls. The world is so full of a number of things that are true, and pure, and beautiful, that it seems that with all our striving and good intentions we ought to keep every hour and every minute filled with the good and leave no room for even a whisper to reach childish ears of those horrid chronicles of evil.

We cannot turn back the hand on the dial of time, cannot abolish the publicity of the press, cannot compel other parents to do their manifest duty by their children and the community in these matters. All that we can do is to weave a little more strongly the bands of parental confidence and control; and as the need arises, drive the lesson of these awful affairs home with a telling clinch.

The old system of adolescent ignorance and innocence, beautiful as it was in theory and its appeal to our sentiment, will no longer work out in this new century. Intelligent grasp of the facts of life, intelligent instruction as to the frightful results of defying the simple rules of upright, clean living—these are the desirable factors in the armor of the young folk of today.

Forbidding children to read or discuss the awful affairs is not enough. The main thing is to encourage them to make you their confident. Instill in them the principles of self-respect and common sense. It is but a link in the chain of untoward circumstances and indiscretions that weaken the moral fiber, lead to lower associations, and in this way, to ruin and tragedies that strike us like a blow between the eyes with their revelations of parental incompetency and youthful depravity.

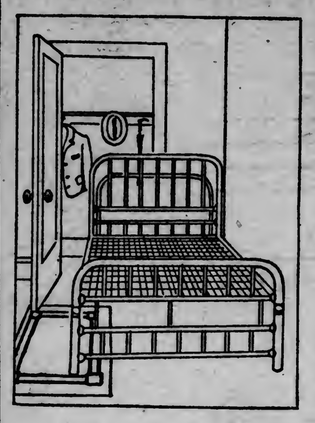
Announcement of Particular Interest to Architects and Builders



WE CONSIDER ourselves fortunate in securing the local agency for the Murphy In-a-Dor Bed—the last word in disappearing wall beds. These beds are rapidly coming into favor with builders in general, being equally adaptable to hotels, apartments or private dwellings where economy of space is a factor.

We have installed a sample bed for demonstration purposes and invite your inspection. Briefly the bed is all metal, extremely easy of operation, fits into a closet when not in use and at the same time allows the use of the closet.

WILL BE HEARD HERE AGAIN IN RECITALS

WALLY HEYMAR GEORGE.

WALLY HEYMAR GEORGE of Chicago, formerly of Duluth, will be heard in recitals to be given under the auspices of the Sunday school and the Philathea class of the First Presbyterian church at the church on the evenings of May 26 and 27. Mrs. George will be assisted by Mrs. Bruce Ter Bush, cellist; Miss Ruth Alta Rogers, director of the chorus choir of the church, and Miss Agnes Mae Johnson, reader. The program will include numbers by the First Presbyterian orchestra, directed by Mrs. Ter Bush.

Wally Heymar George lived in Duluth about two years. Since her marriage last fall she has made her home in Chicago. She was a member of the original Spalding trio and was prominent in the music of the First Presbyterian church. She took an active part in the Matinee Musicale and was in great demand for programs.

LAST Y. W. C. A. VESPER SERVICE WILL BE HELD ON SUNDAY

MISS PERLINA ALLEN.

MISS AGNES MAE JOHNSON.

The last Y. W. C. A. vesper services of the season will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Miss Perlina Allen will sing and Miss Agnes Mae Johnson will read Van Dyke's "The Mansions." Those on the entertainment committee for the social hour are Misses Carrie Mitchel, Anna Rudolph, Ella Schandler, Grace Stevenson, Mabel Train and Jessie McGhie.

NORMANNA CHORUS WILL GIVE A FAREWELL CONCERT

THE NORMANNA CHORUS, under the direction of Jens H. Flaaten, will give a farewell concert Friday evening, May 29, at the First Methodist church. They will be assisted by Miss Isabel Pearson, organist; Mrs. Donna Riblette Flaaten, soprano; Miss Laura Frankenfield, reader; David A. Soderquist, baritone; Miss Violet Flaaten, accompanist, and the Scottish Rite quartet.

About forty-five members of the Normanna chorus and twenty members of the Nordon chorus of Superior will go to Chicago the first week in June to take part in the Norwegian national saengerfest to be held in that city. From there they will go to Washington where they will sing for President Wilson and to Brooklyn where they will give several concerts. June 12 is the date set for sailing to Norway.

SUFFRAGISTS WIN DEBATE HELD AT GLEN AVON CHURCH

Representative Duluth Women Discuss Both Sides of the "Votes for Women" Question—"Antis" Lose the Decison.

THE decision was in favor of the affirmative side of the debate, "Resolved, That Equal Suffrage Should Be Given to Women," held at Glen Avon church last night. The judges were Mrs. John McLeod, Mrs. W. A. McConagle, A. P. Neal, Judge W. A. Cant and H. C. Ash. The affirmative side was supported by Dr. Mary McCoy and Mrs. W. W. Lawrence, the negative by Mrs. J. C. H. Engel and Mrs. R. Spiegel.

Dr. McCoy opened the debate. She made points with citiations from the Bible, the Constitution of the United States and Webster's dictionary; showed that women favor peace instead of war and that twenty-two counties in Illinois went dry as the result of women's votes. She answered her question, "Are women human beings?" by saying the present mode of voting in many states makes it appear they are not human. "Man alone is as unfit to legislate for woman as woman alone is unfit to legislate for man," she said. As a remedy to indirect influence by which women cajole politicians, Dr. McCoy advised the men to give women the right to vote. She concluded by quoting laws in various states militating against the rights of women over their children.

On the Negative.

The first speaker on the negative side was Mrs. Engel, who thought women's votes would overthrow the whole social system, the experience of the race being at its back. She characterized suffrage as a duty and a responsibility conferred by the government and not as a natural inherent right. As another point Mrs. Engle mentioned the biological law by which woman is different from the man and more delicate, physically, one being complementary to the other. Mrs. Engel spoke of John Fiske, who devoted a book to the discussion of the time required for the young of the human specie to mature. She maintained that women have enough to do to take care of the children. "The advocates of woman suffrage are making an attack on that sacred institution, the home," the speaker said. "The average woman would rather tango or play bridge. Woman's suffrage would only add to the ignorant vote."

Mrs. Lawrence was the second speaker on the affirmative side. She said, "The Christian tells the people of other religions that in Christianity woman is acknowledged to have a mind and a soul, independent of her husband." Admitting women are perhaps not equal to men in physical force and mechanical genius, Mrs. Lawrence said they could discern character and decide moral issues as the equals of men. "Is not the bearing and rearing of children for the state as great a service as the carrying of arms?" she asked. The speaker said women have sometimes been called "hen-minded" because they have been expected to confine their attentions to a narrow circle. American women are asking for a wider field that will take away this stigma. "For the future good of the state," Mrs. Lawrence said, "anything that develops women, gives them larger vision, will make them better mothers."

Mrs. Spiegel's Speech.

Mrs. Spiegel spoke next on the "anti" side, in part as follows:

Mrs. Spiegel's arguments against women's suffrage were as follows:

"I have never heard a single argument advanced for the cause of suffrage that seemed to me convincing.

"There is, and always will be, a natural division between the spheres of men and women. Is there any reasonableness in denying that men have built up the modern state and must maintain it? The modern state depends ultimately on force. If it were not the case, mankind would not be spending vast sums all over the earth on armies and navies. The whole present state of the civilized world shows force armed with the most deadly inventions known to the brain of man. Force is what each modern state in the long run and in the last resort depends on for its national existence.

"Then there is finance, commerce and transportation. All have for their ultimatum force, physical strength. Women are concerned in all those things, and their power and influence will be felt according to their education.

"But women are asking privileges where they never could take responsibilities. Now women have power and influence; add to this authority without responsibility, which would be a thousand times more dangerous.

"In Idaho and Utah the women voters under the leader of Mormorism have voted in favor of polygamists and lawbreakers. Colorado, the most civilized of suffrage states, does not give an interesting account of how successful suffrage for women is. The much-discussed Judge Lindsay of the juvenile court of Denver expressed himself in an interview presented in the New York Times for Feb. 7, 1909: 'I can't say that the woman's vote has helped things much in Colorado. I have found that women in politics are no better and no worse than men. Don't forget both sexes follow the same line of action; they look out for number one.'

"In the states where women's suffrage is in practice, divorce laws are lax. Women and men from other states flock there to take advantage of them.

Not a Right, But Privilege.

"Voting is not a right, but a privilege. Every voter shall be able to execute the law. In the United States there are no privileged classes. Women's suffrage means privileged classes.

"In the state of Washington women are exempt from serving on the jury.

"The entire execution of the law is in the hands of men. Women want to legislate for men upon subjects of which no woman ever had any practical knowledge. Men legislate now for women, but there is no profession of which women have a monopoly except the home and the raising of children. No woman has practical knowledge of shipping, navigation and railroads. Her laws could be objectionable to the very persons they affect.

"If obedience should be refused, who shall enforce it? Of course the men.

"Great benefit can be secured by simply putting a piece of paper in the ballot box. The ballot box is not only a registering machine of number, but also of the force that can be brought to bear upon it.

"'Taxation without representation.' This phrase has won more converts for suffrage than anything else. Taxation in its inception means protection. Property owners pay in order to have their property protected. The property is taxed and not the individual. The property of minors is taxed. The entire army and navy of the United States, including officers, the best educated body of men in the United States, are practically disfranchised through difficulty in establishing domiciles, yet army and navy men are required to pay taxes."

ALUMNI OF NORMAL SCHOOL WILL HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

MISS ADELINE BUCKLEY.

MISS JESSIE TODD.

The annual meeting of the Duluth state normal school alumni will be held Saturday, May 30 at 6:30 o'clock at Torrance hall, one of the school dormitories. It is expected a large number will be present as many of the former graduates have already expressed their intention of attending. The annual election of officers will be held at this meeting. A novel and interesting entertainment has been planned for the occasion, in honor of the graduating class that is unusually large this year. The present officers of the Alumni association are: Miss Adaline M. Buckley, president; Miss Jessie Todd, secretary, and Miss Elizabeth Wasley, treasurer.

SOCIAL CENTERS.

List of Meetings Planned for the Coming Week.

MONDAY evening at the Bryant social center the Junior Woman's club will entertain at a social dance and supper. The hostesses will be Misses Mabel Thorstad, Etta Peterson, Hepsinah Hagberg, Edith Elmquist and Hazel Moir.

Tuesday evening the Junior Debating club of Irving social center will have a debate on woman suffrage. The affirmative will be upheld by Allen Forsberg and Edward Briggs, the negative by Page Cashin and James Bothwell. All other clubs will meet as usual.

Wednesday evening there will be an open meeting at the Lakeside social center with music and dancing. Watson S. Moore and E. J. Kenny will discuss the questions of initiative and referendum and the other constitutional amendments.

Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Bryant social center there will be the final meeting of the dancing class with Miss Schmied.

The Little Mothers' club of Irving school will meet Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. There will be an open meeting that evening at Irving social center. Senator James P. Boyle and Edward Armstrong will discuss the question of state constitutional amendments, with special emphasis on initiative and referendum. That same evening a supper will be given by the Irving Dramatic club; the chairman is Miss Pearl Ayotte.

The regular meeting will be held Friday evening at the Whittier school.

Musical Directors.

THE final meeting of the Mothers' club of Merritt school was held yesterday afternoon. Pupils of Miss Hayden, teacher of the A-7 and B-8 grades, read a scene from "The Merchant of Venice," and gave a program of songs and readings. Miss Bessie Merritt and Ray Nichols gave piano numbers. The following officers were elected for next year: Mrs. W. A. Nichols, president; Mrs. Joseph Gibson, vice president; Miss Hayden, secretary, and Mrs. John Smalley, treasurer.

Pupil's Recital.

The piano pupils of Mrs. D. H. Day gave the second and last of their recitals before a large audience at the Y. W. C. A. hall last night. They were assisted by Miss Laura Frankenfield, reader, who gave two selections that won much applause.

The work of the pupils themselves deserves much commendation. Their playing showed the results of hard work and conscientious application on their part and careful instruction on the part of their teacher. In particular their pedal usage, phrasing and tone production were excellent, and best of all they were none of them given compositions to play that were beyond their technical ability to perform.

PROGRAM AT CENTRAL HIGH

MISS ESTHER LARSON.

THE Agricultural club of Central high school gave an entertainment at the high school building last night to raise money to buy additional books for the agricultural library. Ira Ellsworth Schuler of the Mutual Entertainment bureau, formerly professor of oratory and elocution at Hamline university was the reader of the evening. Miss Esther Larson sang two groups of songs. Her selections were "Mother o' Mine," Tours; "Absent," Metcalf; "A Dream," Bartlett, and "De Last Long Rest," Bond. Miss Fern Brookes was the accompanist.

Y. W. C. A. NEEDS $8,000

Duluth Women Will Begin Campaign Next Week to Raise Funds Needed for Year's Work.

Next week a campaign will be carried on to raise money necessary to defray the expenses of the Y. W. C. A. for the coming year.

The lunch room, the dormitory, membership department and the classes in china painting, French conversation and basketry are the only self-supporting divisions of the work of the association. These departments are more than self-supporting, but as a great deal of the other work of the association is done without compensation, or with only partial compensation, and as there is a heavy mortgage on the building it is necessary to raise $8,000 by subscriptions to carry on the work the coming year.

The annual interest on the $40,000 mortgage is $2,000. As many persons doubled their subscriptions the last year the association was able to apply $3,000 on the mortgage. As the five-year mortgage has run out it will be necessary to renew it for $37,000. The interest for the year and the commission for the renewal will amount to $3,000. It is planned to have an annual sinking fund of $1,500 in order to pay off gradually the indebtedness on the building.

There is no income from the extension department. The secretary of this department holds meetings five days a week at the various factories, bringing about 150 girls in touch with the Y. W. C. A. Membership in the association is not required for the girls in these classes.

Educational Work.

Twelve teachers are engaged in the educational department. There is no revenue from the classes in English for foreigners, cooking and sewing.

One man defrays the expenses of the travelers' aid. Two women are engaged in this work and meet all incoming trains. This year 7,297 trains were met and 3,810 persons were assisted.

Following are a few statistics of the cafeteria and dormitory for the past year:

Shelter—
Permanent girls	100
Transients	1,472
Cafeteria—
Total meals served	125,958
Meals served daily	375
Meals worked for	1,947
Meals served to needy women	382

Average cost of meal 15 cents.

The gymnasium enrollment was 242, and the lessons given in swimming 524. In the department of girls' work 225 girls were enrolled in clubs and 158 children in sewing classes. There have been fifteen Sunday afternoon meetings and fourteen special events.

The 1914 Budget.

The budget for 1914 and all the contributions to national supervisory work are:

	Disburse-ments	Receipts	Deficit	Surplus

	$32,555	$40,518	$15,628	$7,375
Amount to be raised by subscription				$8,265

The work of the local association is done by five officers and a board of fifteen members. There are 158 committee members and ten persons employed as secretaries, teachers and department specialists. From year to year 1,318 members and friends contribute financial support.

The women who will take an active part in the campaign next week will call upon the men to whom notices have been sent of the amount it is desired to obtain. The members of the committee are:

Mesdames—
W. C. Agnew, E. D. Field,
W. A. McGonagle, E. T. Hughes,
T. L. Chapman, Watson S. Moore,
George H. Claypool, F. H. Rogers,
Z. D. Scott,

BOYS HOSTS AT BANQUET

Annual Dinner of Y. M. C. A. Attended By 150 Members.

Prizes Awarded for the Best "Hustlers;" Talk of New Building.

The twelfth annual boys' department Y. M. C. A. banquet was held last evening at the boys' department gymnasium, which had been beautiful decorated for the occasion by Warren Moore, Douglas Walker and Russell Duncan.

At 6:30 to the strains of the orchestra, about 150 boys marched down and stood by the table until D. R. Hoffman asked the blessing. The banquet was prepared by a committee of Duluth women and served by a group of high school girls. E. W. Peck of Minneapolis and members of the board of directors were guests and sat at a special table.

At 7:30, Richard Cullum, who acted as toastmaster opened the program. This was the first time that a member of the club has acted as toastmaster at this big social event and Mr. Cullum showed his ability along this line. Every speaker was appropriately introduced with stories that kept every one in a happy state of mind.

RAY M. LARSEN,
The Prize "Hustler."

The first toast was given by Edwin Scriven, president of the cabinet. He spoke on "The Best Boys' Club in Minnesota." He referred to the work the boys' department had done during the year.

"Eleven Years Ago," was the toast that Charles McLennan, the first cabinet president, gave. Mr. McLennan reviewed the boys' department work of eleven years ago, telling the present members many interesting things that happened in the history of the club.

Douglas Walker in a very able manner spoke of "The Interests of a Boy." The thing that interests most boys, he said, was athletics. He then pointed out the value of athletics, and described what clean sport was. To be a good athlete, he said, a fellow must have a clear brain, and must not smoke or drink. He backed up his statements with the testimony of men like Connie Mack, Eddie Collins, McInnis, Baker, Barry and Strunk, famous baseball players.

Mr. Peck, state secretary of Minnesota, gave an interesting and helpful talk on the topic of "Boys Wanted." He described the kind of boys that were in demand in business, in the home, and the church. Interesting illustrations of men and boys that Mr. Peck knew impressed on every member present the kind of boys that were wanted in the world today.

Camp Miller.

The many Camp Miller streamers that decorated the walls of the gymnasium showed that Camp Miller, the boys' department camp was a very popular place. Warren Moore, vice president of the cabinet, gave a very enthusiastic talk on Camp Miller, telling of the many activities that are carried on. Before he got through with his talk, many had made up their minds that their vacation this year would be spent at camp.

Rollin Hawkes spoke on the Duluth Central high school. While the high school was a place of learning, he said it was also a place where many good times could be had.

Watson S. Moore, president of the Y. M. C. A., spoke on the topic "A New Boys' Building." "We have been hoping for a new boys' building for a long time," he said, "and felt confident that when the time came to get it, it would be sure to come, no investment could be made that would bring bigger returns than an investment that helped build the character of the boy. The best way to get the new building is to have every member so conduct himself that he would be an argument for one."

Chas. Le Richeaux gave a very snappy talk on the summer activities. There will be no closed shop in the boys' department. The banquet does not close the season. It simply opens the summer work. Hikes, camps, auto rides, launch trips, all night trips, swimming and every kind of an outdoor activity will be held during the summer, and the gymnasium and club rooms will be kept open all the time.

Willard Thorp gave the closing speech on the topic "The Ladies." In very appropriate remarks he expressed his appreciation of the splendid assistance they had given in making the banquet a success.

Ray Larsen won the loving cup presented by J. L. Washburn for having received the largest number of points, 500. Rudolph Swensen won second place with 457. He received the gold fob. Donaldson Annand was third, with 388 and he received the silver medal. Gordon Clark had 377; Charles Anderson, 56; Charles Kerr, 360. These six boys are the 1914 hustlers. They sat at the table of honor and received the official emblem. During the evening, telegrams were received from Ralph Dunning, Dartmouth; Charles Little and Ledru Bevis, Illinois; Ely Salyards, Kimball Finkensteadt, Duncan Frick, Palmer Bevis, Hotchkiss; Irving Moore, Andover; John Neimeyer, Pasadena, Cal.; Julius Nolte, Yale; and Stephen McGiffert, Virginia.

PINCH OF SALT FOR THE TROUBLESOME DANDELION

Department of Agriculture Gives Practical Methods for Killing Dandelions and Plantains That Ruin the Appearance of Lawns.

Washington, May 16.—The best way to kill individual dandelion plants is to cut off their tops and put a pinch of salt (about a thimbleful) on the surface of each exposed root. This will kill most of them. As salt if generally applied ruins soil, the salt should be used sparingly and applied only to the root-tops of the dandelion. The United States department of agriculture has for some time been testing various poisons to discover the most efficient means of eradicating this troublesome weed from lawns, but although others have been found satisfactory, the common salt is best for general use as there is no danger accompanying its application.

The department's specialists say that much effort is wasted in merely cutting off the dandelion top without applying some poison to the root that remains. The dandelion has a tap root that grows deep into the soil and cutting off the plant merely encourages the dandelion to come up in a thicker growth.

Remove Dandelion Before It Goes to Seed.

The time to eradicate dandelions is in the spring before the plant has had time to form seed. The seed spreads rapidly, blown by the wind. The blossoms should be close mown before they have gone to seed and salt should then be applied to each rootlet. A man may be very diligent in caring for his own lawn and yet have seeds blown in from neighboring lawns. This is of such importance to those desiring fine lawns, that it might be made a matter for community action.

If the lawn is very full of this weed it is too tedious a process to treat each plant by the salt process. In this case two possible methods of eradication may be recommended. The first method is to thicken the stand of grass to tend to crowd out the dandelion. The grass should be put into a vigorous condition by top dressing with well-rotted manure or fertilizer in the fall, and by reseeding in thin places. The second method, advised in extreme instances, is to start all over again. Plow up the lawn first (or spade it up if the area is small.) A generous amount of well-rotted manure should then be worked into the soil, but not fresh manure for that is full of weed seeds ready to germinate. In case manure is not available, commercial fertilizers may be used. Many lawn soils are in need of lime and it is often a wise plan to use it, especially if white clover is to be sown. After plowing, the land should be harrowed or raked frequently to reduce it to a good seed bed condition. This will encourage the early germination of weed seeds with the subsequent extermination of the seedlings. Thorough cultivation at this period will destroy the dandelion plants, both those that come from roots and seeds. After following either of the two plans sketched here, the lawn should be maintained in good condition by careful mowing, rolling and watering.

Spraying with iron sulphate solution to kill dandelions without killing the grass is not recommended by the department, although it has been tried by some who consider it successful. Experiments do not seem to establish it as a practical method.

This Weed Not a Native of America.

The dandelion is not a native American plant, having been introduced from Europe several centuries ago. It was first introduced in the East and has spread westward with our emigration. The weed is common all over Europe and has gone into other lands with settlers from the older country, always being found near the communities of man.

The name "dandelion" is said to come from the French, "Dent de Lion," which means tooth of lion and refers to the tooth shaped edges of the leaf of the plant.

The Dandelion as a Truck Crop.

The dandelion is widely used throughout Europe as a truck crop. Certain foreigners recently arrived in America have continued to use the plant as a vegetable, and Italians in the neighborhood of large cities have made considerable profit by gathering and taking it to market.

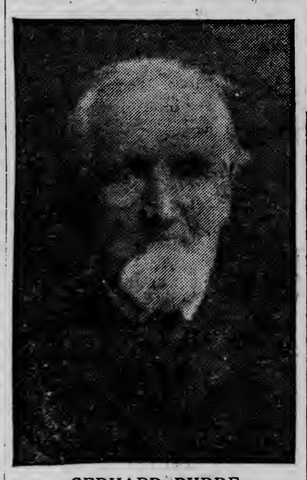
Several places around Boston now grow the danedlion as a truck crop. The seeds are sown in July or August in rows 12 inches apart, and although the plants are of good size in the fall they are not generally gathered for the market until early in the spring. As soon as the snow is off the ground the crops are gathered and for a time the farmers receive from $1 to $1.25 a bushel for these greens. By May the price has fallen to about 50 cents a bushel and then the ground is plowed up to make room for other vegetables, as the dandelion is no longer profitable.

How to Get Rid of Plantains.

Another weed that injures the beauty of many lawns is the plantain, of which there are two varieties; the buckhorn, or rib grass; and the common, or broad leaf.

The same methods that apply to eradicating the dandelion apply to the plantain except the method of poisoning the individual plant. Instead of cutting off the top and sprinkling the root with salt as is done in the case of the dandelion, the individual plantain may best be removed by pulling up by the root after a heavy rain when the ground is wet. The plantain does not offer a difficult problem as the roots are pulled up readily, even from clay soil, after a heavy rain.

DULUTH WOMAN'S AGED FATHER DIES



GERHARD BUDDE.

Wabasha, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the real pioneers of Minnesota was laid to rest here Tuesday when the last rites were said by Rev. Msgr. Wurst for Gerhard Budde, aged 83, who came here in 1859 and staked a claim on Wabasha Hill, returning next year with his bride. Below them in the valley were Indian tepees while their nearest neighbor lived miles away.

Gerhard Budde was born in Bethen, Oldenburg, Germany, July 25, 1831. He came to America in 1846 and worked in St. Louis and other places until 1853, when he went to California and superintended several gold mining crews. Then he worked his way eastward and halted for a while in Wabasha county, looking up a location.

In 1860, on July 17, he was married at Sinsinawa Mound, Grant county, Wis., to Elizabeth Vosberg.

Mr. and Mrs. Budde retired in 1905 and took up their residence here. They observed their fiftieth wedding anniversary in 1910.

Mr. Budde is survived by his wife and the following sons and daughters: George Budde of Greenfield; Mrs. T. J. Toben of Duluth; Mrs. H. B. Kennebeck of Belen, New Mexico; Mrs. Clem Welp, Plainview; Mrs. Philip Connors of Saskatoon, Can.; Frank Budde of Pepin township; Tony, Clara, Dora and Joseph Budde of Clearfield, S. D., also survives, as does a half-brother, Theodore Budde of South Dakota. There are twenty-three grandchildren and one great-grandchild living.

PIONEER BURIED.

Last Rites at Spooner for Neri Bostness of Hackett.

Spooner, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Neri K. Bostness, father of Mrs. Ole Johnson and Mrs. Gust Anderson of Hackett, who has made his home in this district for a number of years, died Saturday. He was born in Norway 72 years ago, and came to Minnesota in 1881, where he has since made his home.

The funeral services took place Monday afternoon at the Wabanica Lutheran church, Rev. C. W. Aanestad of Baudette officiating.

The local candidates for the ball team had their first tryout last Wednesday evening.

Two large busts of Washington and Lincoln, mounted on pedestals were received this week at the schoolhouse and have been placed on the upper landing.

The supper given by the ladies of the Royal Neighbor camp last Monday evening and the one given by the Lutheran ladies' aid Wednesday evening were well attended.

The shipment of lilac, snowball, spireas and rose bushes for the grounds around the Auditorium came there this week and will be planted as soon as the ground is properly prepared.

Arnt Pederson has left to attend the Syttende Mai celebration at Minneapolis on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Arnold returned this week from Washburn, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. M. N. Dalseg came in from their home on the Big Grassy on Tuesday and visited Mrs. Dalseg's sister, Mrs. O. G. Rued.

ASK FOR BETTER ROADS AND MARKETS

Hermantown Farmers and Producers Will Meet Monday Night.

Better roads and better market facilities will be the principal subjects discussed Monday evening at the meeting of the Farmers & Producers' Club of Hermantown at the Hermantown Woodman hall. A well attended meeting is expected.

The market question is the principal subject to be taken up. While members say that the present markets in the West end and West Duluth are in good locations and convenient they intend asking that the commercial bodies of these two districts take some action to provide more shelter for the farmers and their families from the weather while they are at the market. While the open market is said to be good during fine weather they would like to have the ends boarded up so that in case of storm the wind and rain would not blow in.

Improvements to some stretches of the principal roads leading into the city will be asked for. In several places these roads are said to be in bad condition and require repairs. The Getchell road is to be gravelled and improved at a cost of $1,800, according to a statement recently made by County Commissioner Charles Kauppi, and it is proposed to ask that this improvement start as early as possible.

SAYS PLAYGROUNDS NEED IMPROVEMENT

Miss Culkin Would Have Organized Games and Instructor.

Organized games under the direction of a competent instructor will be played at the playground at Thirtieth avenue west and Third street this summer if the efforts of Miss Margaret Culkin, social center director for Duluth, are successful. Several important improvements will be necessary to the grounds and new apparatus must be installed before this can be accomplished.

The ground is said to be in bad shape for any kind of play at present. It is the intention to ask the city to spend a small amount of money for improving the ground. Equipment for playing volley ball, outdoor basket ball as well as a baseball diamond will be asked for. A sand bank for small children also is needed.

This playground is situated near the heart of the residence district near the Bryant school and has for several years been one of the most popular places for the children during the summer. If the plans being prepared by Miss Culkin are carried out, special hours will be set aside for boys and girls so that neither will interfere with the other.

A little work in leveling some of the bad places and filling in others is said to be necessary. The cost of the work will be very small, it is said.

WOMEN'S CLUB WILL GIVE FINAL SOCIAL.

The Junior Women's Club of the Bryant social center will give its final social Monday evening at the Bryant school. Invitations have been sent to young people of the West end and West Duluth who are interested in social center work, to attend.

A supper will be followed by a musical program. A general good time is being planned and the affair will end with a dance.

The Junior Women's club was organized early last fall. The club has held meetings every Monday evening since its organization. Every phase of woman's work has been discussed by the members during these meetings and sixteen different speakers have addressed the young women.

While this will be the final official session of the club this season, the members will continue social sessions throughout the summer. The club's basket ball team will continue its games on the playground at Thirtieth avenue west instead of in the school building. Other lines of activities, such as volley ball, tennis and field games, will be taken up.

LAST PARTY WILL SAIL FOR NORWAY.

The last summer party from Duluth for points in Norway and Sweden, will leave on a private car over the Northwestern road on June 1, sailing from New York on the steamer Baltic on June 4.

It is expected that about forty Duluthians will join the party and sail together.

During the last two months several large parties left Duluth for Norway, where the centennial celebration of independence is now being celebrated and which will continue throughout the summer months. In Sweden the Baltic celebration will be held the latter part of this month to continue for several weeks.

SUCCUMBS TO OLD AGE.

Mrs. F. O. Lovell, Old Resident, Dies at Age of 86.

Mrs. F. O. Lovell, 86 years old, a pioneer resident of the city, died yesterday afternoon at the home of her son-in-law, Joseph Chinord, 1032½ Garfield avenue. Old age was the cause of death.

Two sons and two daughters survive Mrs. Lovell. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from the home of her son-in-law, and the body will be taken to Munger for interment.

THOMAS E. WATSON IS INDICTED AGAIN.

Augusta, Ga., May 16.—Thomas E. Watson, Georgia editor, historian and politician, late yesterday was indicted by the Federal grand jury here on a charge of sending obscene matter through the mails. Watson recently was indicted on a similar charge, the indictment being dismissed at a hearing before United States Judge Foster. The indictment against Mr. Watson was returned in connection with the publication in his paper at Thomason, Ga., of attacks on the Roman Catholic church. It is charged that the articles were "obscene, lewd and lascivious."

CRIME TAUGHT BY MAIL, SAY SLEUTHS.

Chicago, May 16.—When George Pattee and Daniel McNeil, believed to be originators of a correspondence school for teaching crime, were held to the federal grand jury by United States Commissioner Mason, a pamphlet, instructing lawbreakers how to elude the authorities, was a part of the evidence against them.

Secret service men found a number of plates for counterfeiting in the room occupied by the men. They also produced human hair for use in making spurious bank notes, which they believe was cut from the head of a woman confederate who escaped.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Freshmen Plan Closed Party; Several Athletic Challenges Are Issued and Accepted; Arrangements Are Under Way for Junior-Senior Ball; Interclass Track Meet Will Occur Next Friday.

During the regular chapel period on Monday morning a special meeting of the freshman class was called for the purpose of talking over the probability of holding the freshman class closed party. As the undertaking will necessitate a certain amount of financing, it was thought best to get a definite expression from the members as to the approximate number that would wish to attend. Speeches were made by V. B. Ging, class adviser, and others, and the class finally supported the proposition of holding the party on Friday evening, May 29.

The seniors who are making plans to attend college next fall were again urged to come to definite conclusions as to the particular institution they wish to enter, as the making out of the student's entrance papers takes much time.

* * *

Wednesday seemed to be a day of challenges during the chapel exercises. President Oliver Vivian of the "Commercial club" proposed a champion baseball game to the Agricultural club of the high school, which was accepted by President Chauncey Larson. The combat will occur next week. George Lawson, president of the freshman class, issued a challenge to the sophomores for a swimming tournament to be held next Tuesday afternoon at the Central Y. M. C. A. President Robert Walsh of the second year students replied by stating that the freshment had tried most everything in the hope of a victory, and that he was glad to accept another opportunity to humble the first year men.

Plans are going forward for the holding of the last important social affair of the year, the junior-senior ball. A committee, consisting of Miss Esther Hoar, Miss Margaret Taylor and Floyd Lawson, chairman, has been appointed to look after the preliminary arrangements.

* * *

Senior essays were due all Friday and the upper classmen were making strenuous efforts throughout the week to complete their masterpieces.

* * *

As the annual inter-class track meet will occur one week from Friday, candidates for the class and school teams have been taking advantage of the spring-like weather of the past few days, and the chances are good for a first-class track team. What the boys need most, is a number of meets, and efforts are under way to secure several contests.

* * *

Mr. Stenberg met with the students interested in public speaking and debate on Thursday afternoon and talked over plans for the organization of work on a more systematic basis. Arrangements will be made whereby the association will award uniform emblems. The design for the girls will be somewhat smaller than the one for the boys.

* * *

The high school girls' basket ball team closed the season with a decisive defeat over the Lakeside Social Center girls by a score of 5 to 1. The Lakeside Social Center team had previously laid claim to the city championship.

During the Friday morning chapel exercises, the attention of the students was again directed to the make-up examinations, which are to be given in spelling on May 19, 22 and 27.

Zenith slips will be placed on sale for the last time next week at 75 cents. This will be the last opportunity students will have to make sure of getting a copy of the 1914 Zenith.

* * *

Capt. Joe Du Moe has called a senior baseball practice for this morning at Thirty-second avenue west and Superior street. It is possible that the first games of the inter-class series will be played during the coming week.

* * *

The Agricultural club gave an entertainment on last Friday evening in the assembly hall, the purpose of which was to raise funds to be used by the club in carrying out some new policies of the organization. Prof. Ira Ellsworth Schuler, a well known entertainer of St. Paul, was secured for the occasion and Miss Esther Larson, contralto of Duluth furnished the musical numbers, with Miss Fern Brooks at the piano.

MILLION ACRES OE LAND BEING RECLAIMED BY BUILDING DITCHES IN BELTRAMI COUNTY

Twenty-six Ditches Being Built in Northern Part of County — Great Increase in Land Value as Result of Reclamation.

Bemidji, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—A million acres of land are being reclaimed by building twenty-six ditches aggregating 1,500 miles of ditching in Beltrami county. The ditching is half under contract and half in the courts. The reclamation will take in much of the northern part of Beltrami county, ditches often running through thickets and frequently unpeopled lands.

The twenty-six ditches are accompanied by twenty-six roads, which in many cases will be the only roads for miles and the only means of travel through these lands. The ditches are largely north of Red Lake, a district that has never been organized or habitated.

One of the first steps in the preparation of these roads and ditches is surveying a right-of-way, that will vary in width in accordance with the locality through which it passes. The ditches will be on either side of the road, the plan being to so arrange them that they will drain these semi-swamp lands for miles on either side of the ditch.

Thence the ditch will be started, if possible, from some common outlet so that the water gathered may be set free as soon as gathered. The ditch will be forced through forest land, often passing through tall pines that will line either side for miles. The ditches will have many tributaries, finally opening into Red lake or some other stream.

Effect of Drainage.

It was three years ago that two commissioners, in answer to the petition of Frank Lyon and James Newell and others who had settled on the high lands of Shotley, Eland and Kelliher townships, investigated the drainage situation. They reported on their return that reclamation was impossible, and that these lands were absolutely worthless.

Nevertheless, the ditches were built in much the same manner that the ditches north of the lake are being built this year. Now that land is peopled by prosperous farmers, who have sold their lands in Illinois and Iowa at $200 and $300 an acre, have come to Beltrami county and are erecting substantial farm buildings on the land. Some of this same land that was once held worthless is being held at $100 an acre.

J. L. George, county auditor, is one of the consistent promoters of the reclamation scheme. He recalls that men, among whom were Frank Lyon and James Newell, moved to the recently reclaimed land eight and ten years ago and that they have prospered on it. They are still there.

Corn Can Be Raised.

With the reclamation process completed, land that is now uninhabitable may raise corn, alfalfa, wheat—in fact, every line of agriculture, excepting cotton and rice, may be followed. Raising corn had been considered impossible in this section a few years ago. Agriculturists declare, however, that the sunlight from 2 a. m. to 9 p. m. in summer makes this sort of agriculture possible.

Hardships suffered in connection with the lands being reclaimed have formed a sad paragraph in the history of Beltrami county. Many settlers have attempted to homestead the lands, but, before being drained, they were not fit for cultivation. After perils which only pioneers can appreciate, they left.

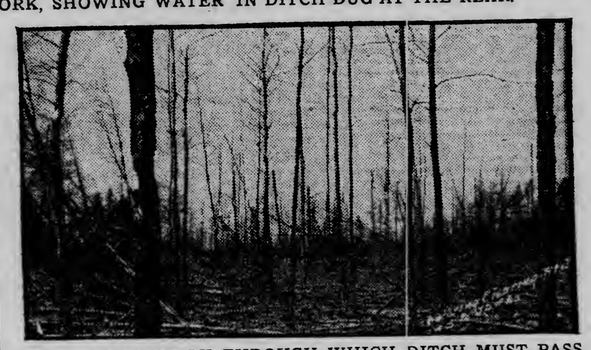
County Engineer in Charge of Reclamation Work.



VIEW OF COUNTRY THROUGH WHICH DITCH MUST PASS.

Judge Stanton is hearing a few complaints about the ditches, but these are all from persons who would slightly change the course of the streams. There has not been a single protest against building the ditches.

Beltrami's Object.

The big ditch proposition is one of many leading improvements in a land that is rapidly becoming agricultural. Pioneered by the lumberman, invaded by the miner, the whole state of Minnesota is now witnessing an era of agricultural development in which Beltrami county does not take a secondary place. The object in Beltrami county is to show the mining counties of the state that more money can be made from the land than ever has been taken from above or below its surface.

Soil robbers—men who take all from the soil and put nothing back—and the speculators are not invited or encouraged to come to Minnesota in general or Beltrami county in particular. In their stead, the low price of lands is attracting skilled farmers from Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, and other states of highly developed agriculture. These have enough money to rapidly develop and clear the lands of Northern Minnesota, and these men soon have farms at low prices that compare favorably with the high-priced farms of the state whence they came.

Square dealing with immigrants is the policy of Minnesota, for the state wants independent home owners—men who will make good on the land and men who will look upon agriculture with the seriousness that it deserves. Such a spirit has permeated Beltrami county. Down in Iowa, 40 per cent of the farms are rented, tenants paying from $5 to $25 an acre for the lands in rents. It is these honest renters that the state of Minnesota and the county of Beltrami seek to attract, for these men would be glad to develop farms of their own.

Seven Sound Reasons.

The phenomenal development of Beltrami county and the state of Minnesota is assigned to seven reasons.

The giving to every man who needs a change the opportunity to become independent.

Getting farmers from states that have recently experienced drouths.

Settlers who have studied conditions in several states have been impressed with Minnesota's and Beltrami county's equitable climate, and with the fact that there has never been a crop failure in the state.

The cheapness of Beltrami county lands, this fact being evidenced when tillable, drained lands sold this week for $4.04 an acre.

That Minnesota leads in the production of corn per acre, this being the crop to which most immigrants are used.

General prosperity of Minnesota.

Wonderful educational advantages offered.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Hatton high school won the annual state debate here last night.

Hatton upheld the affirmative and Rolla the negative of the question, "Resolved, That North Dakota Should Own and Operate Terminal Elevators in Minnesota and Wisconsin."

Agnes Kjporlie, Ben Efelson and Ralph Peterson represented the Hatton school, and Gladys Earle, Milton Thompson and Orpha Williams represented Rolla. The judges were H. L. Miller of Madison, Wis.; A. J. Ladd of Grand Forks, and F. T. Cuthbert of Devils Lake.

The contesting schools were successful in reaching the finals in a series of debates held throughout the state during the past winter.

Adopt Stringent Rules.

Stringent rules governing high school athletic contests were laid down by the State High School Athletic league, at its annual meeting here yesterday, when P. S. Berg of Dickinson was re-elected president; S. H. Wolfe of Minot, vice president, and Nelson Sauvin of Casselton, secretary.

The league adopted eligibility rules that are unusually strict, the most striking of which bars from competition any high school student using tobacco or liquor in any form.

Pupils leaving school before the close of the first semester, or who fail to gain passing marks in at least three-fourths unit of the work in the last previous semester, are barred from participation. Professionalism is also frowned upon. The league limits basket ball squads, participating in state or district tournaments, to seven members.

Track Meet Finals.

Today the finals in the state interscholastic field and track meet are being held in this city. The preliminaries were run off yesterday afternoon, and out of the total of ninety-eight athletes, the final entrants in the various events were chosen.

Grand Forks, Cavalier and Fargo are looked upon as being possible winners, each being represented by strong teams, and each obtaining about an equal number of places in the finals.

FARGO TO ENTERTAIN NORTH DAKOTA G. A. R.

National Commander of Organization Is to Attend Meeting.

Fargo, N. D., May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The North Dakota encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic will be held here May 19 and 20, and will no doubt be the last meeting held in Fargo, as other towns of the state are clamoring for the annual sessions.

A big feature will be the presence of Washington Gardner, the national commander of the organization, who will make an address Tuesday.

The state organization of the W. R. C., will also be held at the same time.

The G. A. R. will assemble Tuesday morning in the Masonic temple and will be welcomed by President Emery of the city commission.

On Wednesday there will be a parade of the G. A. R., the local militia organization, the Sons of Veterans, and cadets from the A. C., possibly the school children and local patriotic organizations.

PLOW FOLLOWS BINDER.

Montana Genius Invents Scheme for Doing Double Work.

Fargo, N. D., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—A machine that will harvest grain and plow at the same time has been invented by John M. Will, formerly a farmer near Oakes, and now a resident of Sidney, Mont. The first model of the machine is now in Oakes, where it will be given its initial trial on winter rye that will soon be ready for harvest.

The idea is to push a binder in advance of the traction engine which furnishes the motor power, and pull the plows behind. The plows will turn over the same width the binder cuts and the grain will be set up in shocks on the plowed land.

KILLS HOMESTEADER.

Young North Dakotan Slays Him With Shepherd's Crook.

New England, N. D., May 16.—Following a quarrel over sheep which were trespassing on his land, Leslie Austin, a rancher, 19 years old, hit Anton Gyolai, a homesteader, over the head with a shepherd's crook and killed him instantly, Tuesday afternoon, eight miles west of Amidon.

Gyolai was a middle aged man, and just been married about a year ago. There had been bad blood between the men for sometime. Tuesday some sheep of Gyolai's got into Austin's land and he went after them. The two and a dispute and Austin hit Gyolai over the head.

J. K. Wihart, state's attorney, held an inquest and two witnesses were examined. Mrs. Gyolai and Fred Enger. They testified that bad blood has existed between the two men for some time. The jury decided that Gyolai met his death as the result of an assault by Austin.

BISHOP VISITS POPE.

Head of Crookston Diocese Has Returned From Rome.

Crookston, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bishop Corbett of the diocese of Crookston, returned from a trip abroad Wednesday afternoon. With two priests Father Lemire, a brother of Father Lemire of this parish and Father Klinkenhammer of East Grand Forks, he has spent the past two and one-half months touring the foreign countries and Rome. They were received by the pope during their stay in Rome.

GOVERNOR AT BRAINERD.

Will Speak at Opening of Remodeled Opera House.

Brainerd, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—On invitation of F. E. Nemec and E. A. Adams, Governor A. O. Eberhart has been asked to speak at the opening of the newly remodeled Park opera house on Monday evening, May 18. He may be accompanied by A. E. Fritz, state public examiner, the latter having in former years been a resident of Brainerd. F. E. Nemec of St. Cloud, has a five-year lease of the opera house and has made great improvements in the same. E. A. Adams of Little Falls, is his resident manager.

UP TO SUPREME COURT

To Decide Whether Pine City Layman Can Be District Judge.

St. Paul, Minn., May 16.—The supreme court will be called upon to determine whether a layman can be sufficiently "learned in the law to permit his being elected a judge of a district court."

J. T. Mider of Pine City recently filed with the secretary of state as a candidate for judge of the district court in the Nineteenth district. He is not a lawyer, and holds himself out, it is said, as a "lay" candidate, asserting that should need arise in case of his election he has the right to ask a lawyer to sit with him.

Charles B. Jack of Stillwater, through his attorneys, filed a petition with the supreme court asking that Secretary of State Schmahl be restrained from certifying the name of Mider to the auditors of the various counties in the Nineteenth district as a candidate for judge. The hearing was set for May 21.

Section 6 of article VI, of the Constitution, says that "judges of the supreme and district courts shall be men learned in the law."

INSURGENTS WIN OUT.

Can Proceed With Organization of Plainsmen in Minnesota.

St. Paul, Minn., May 16.—As a result of the ruling made by Insurance Commissioner Preus March 3, the head officials of the Modern Woodmen of America have withdrawn their opposition to the organization of the Northwestern Plainsmen in Minnesota by the so-called insurgent faction, according to this announcement made yesterday at the capitol by John L. Sundean, organizer of the Plainsmen and head of the insurgent forces. He says the result will be to end the war between the regular Woodmen and those who have opposed the rate increase.

Mr. Preus' ruling was to the effect that those who sign the incorporation papers of the Plainsmen need not drop out of the Modern Woodmen but may keep insurance in both orders, if they so desire.

JOINT CELEBRATION.

Fargo and Moorhead Norwegians to Observe National Day.

Fargo, N. D., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—While hundreds of local Norwegians are planning to attend the big Norwegian centenary celebration in Minneapolis the stay-at-homes will celebrate here under the auspices of the Sons of Norway. Fargo and Moorhead will unite and the speaking exercises will be held in the hall at Concordia college, Moorhead. There will be unique services by the Jews of Fargo around the Wergeland statue in Island park, also by the students of the Agricultural college around the Bjornstjerne Bjornson bautau sten erected on the campus there some years ago, and by the students at the Norwegian Lutheran Ladies' seminary in this city.

PLAN HURLEY WORK.

Courthouse in Northern Wisconsin City to Be Remodeled.

Hurley, Wis., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Henry Wildhagen, the architect, was here from Ashland on Wednesday conferring with members of the county board committee on building relative to plans for the remodeling and repairing of the courthouse. Plans have already been prepared for the charges on the first floor which provides for offices of the county clerk, treasurer, register of deeds, superintendent of schools and income assessor. The municipal courtroom will be located on the second floor and in order to get more room it is expected the circuit courtroom will be made narrower and the additional space on the east side of the building will be used for the jury room and a room for the attorney.

BEMIDJI NOTES.

Mill Official Resigns to Move to Chippewa Falls, Wis.

Bemidji, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. P. Riddell, assistant superintendent of the milling department of the Crookston Lumber company, has resigned to enter business at Chippewa Falls, Wis., after June 1. Gregg Malone, stenographer in the Bemidji office of the company, has been given the place.

Because he tore the hats from the heads of several citizens, and then riddled them with a large jack knife, Guy Simpson, a lumberjack was yesterday put in jail for ten days. Simpson pleaded that he was intoxicated, but the judges could not see that he was justified in his mad act.

Going to International Falls.

Members of the Loyal Order of Moose plan to attend the district convention of the lodge at International Falls next week. The Bemidji Moose will have a special car on the Minnesota & International.

Miss Margarite Howard of the Minneapolis schools has been appointed a member of the faculty of the summer school to be held for Beltrami county teachers in June. Other members of the faculty: John E. Palmer, Wheaton high school; Mrs. E. K. Jacques, Robinsdale. A lecturer and a special teacher of domestic science will be hired.

McINTOSH HAS FIRE.

Building Adjoining Talle Store Burned and Latter Damaged.

McIntosh, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—About 11:50 Thursday night fire broke out in the building adjoining the J. L. Talle general store. The fire department responded promptly. The goods in the Talle building were partly saved except those damaged by water. The Talle building caught fire and the firemen had a hard time to save it, and were compelled to keep three steams of water on it for over three hours. Upstairs the King & Kelly Land company had their office and some of the rooms were occupied for living purposes. All were compelled to vacate the building which was almost a total loss. The building where the fire originated is badly damaged. There was no insurance on the store building and very little on the goods.

PAINFUL CURIOSITY.

Pembina, N. D., Man Throws Fluid on Fire, Causing Explosion.

Pembina, N. D., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—T. J. Cockburn is in serious condition here as the result of an explosion of a fluid which he found while cleaning out the basement of a local drug store.

Not knowing what was in the jug, Cockburn threw it onto a bonfire. There was an explosion, and a portion of the jug, with the flaming fluid, struck him in the face and chest. He was badly burned.

JOB TO SAVE BOY.

If He Can Get Work, Need Not Go to Penitentiary.

Valley City, N. D., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—If there is a Barnes county farmer willing to give Albert Eckert, aged 18, employment during the summer months, that young man will not have to serve a year's sentence in the state penitentiary, which he faces as a result of pleading guilty to the charge of robbing a boxcar.

Young Eckert's record has been investigated and it has been found that his present police experience is his first. Judge Coffey, in passing sentence, made the provision for suspension in the event that the lad could get a farm job.

PINNED UNDER DISK; FARMER'S CLOSE CALL.

Valley City, N. D., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pinned for nearly an hour under an overturned disk, not daring to call for help, fearing that he might startle the horses attached to the machine, Fales Rogers was finally rescued by a farm laborer whose attention he attracted.

CAN GET LICENSE.

Badger Drug Stores Can Legally Sell Liquor.

Madison, Wis., May 16.—That there is no law forbidding the village board of any village to issue a license to a pharmacist to dispense liquor for medical, scientific or mechanical purposes what the voters have determined that no saloon licenses shall be issued, is held in an opinion by Attorney General Owen to District Attorney H. R. Munson of Crawford county.

PLANS ANOTHER MILL CITY MILL.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 16.—James C. Andrews, general manager of the Fillsbury Flour Mills company has applied for a building permit for a six-story flour mill to be erected at Thirty-fifth street and Hiawatha avenue. James Leck has the contract. The mill complete will cost between $200,000 and $250,000, and it will be an important addition to the industry in Minneapolis and will be operating by fall.

MILL CITY STRIKE HITS ICE USERS.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 16.—Minneapolis Friday experienced the first of its ice famine, owing to the strike of more than 250 drivers, employed by two companies, called Thursday. Ice was delivered to some of the hospitals under guard, the latter of which, however, proved unnecessary. Mayor Wallace G. Nye attempted to act as mediator for the warring factions and called a conference of the companies and leaders of the ice wagon union. Mayor Nye expressed hope that an arbitration agreement might be reached soon.

ESCAPED CONVICT CAUGHT ON COAST.

St. Cloud, Minn., May 16.—George M. Webb, an inmate of the state reformatory, who escaped from the greenhouse on Dec. 7, 1913, has been arrested by the police in Portland, Or.

Agent Knickerbocker left Thursday for Portland to return Webb to the institution. Webb was committed to the institution from Ramsey county for an attempt at robbery in the first degree.

Alleged Robbers Held.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—James Shea and John Ryan, arrested at Crookston charged with complicity in a local burglary, yesterday were bound over to the district court, waiving preliminary examination.

Taylor May Be Unopposed.

Bismarck, N. D., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Insurance Commissioner W. C. Taylor may receive the Republican nomination for re-election for a third term without opposition. With but a short time remaining within which candidates may file petitions, none have yet appeared in the field against Mr. Taylor.

Grand Forks, N. D.—The establishment of a public playground will be asked of the Grand Forks city council by the W. C. T. U., of the city, which is preparing a memorial covering the question.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

La Crosse—Alfred W. Langenbach of the William Doerflinger company has been named as the chairman of the committee of the Retail Merchants' association to go into the financial side of the public market plan by Henry N. Bochm, the president. With him on the committee are Charles B. Gesell and Alphons Hussa.

Ashland—At least six saloonkeepers in Ashland will go out of business permanently after June 1, according to the present outlook. While they are not pursuing a crusade, the commissioners are quietly weeding out a few undesirables, and those who for any reason have not satisfied the commissioners or the police force that they are proper persons to conduct saloons.

Eau Claire—Mr. and Mrs. Fitch Gilbert of Cambridge, Mass., have announced the engagement of their son, Fitch, to Mrs. Marie Bostwick of Cooperstown, N. Y. Fitch Gilbert, Jr., was born in Eau Claire and received his early education in the Third Ward school.

Bayfield—Joe Cook, aged 69, who had been stopping at the Hotel in Cornucopia during the past winter, died of heart trouble Monday. The funeral was held at the Holy Family Catholic church Wednesday. Rev. Father Wilhelm Norbet officiating and interment was given at the Calvary cemetery in this city.

Madison — Hereafter University of Wisconsin student publications will be forbidden to accept trade advertising and all business managers will be put under bond if present plans of the boards of control of the various publications are carried into effect.

Iron Mountain—Dykes & Hickman have received another carload of cattle for their ranch on the Fence river, west of Witch lake, and expect to make other additions at once. The firm has made many improvements at the ranch during the last year and now has facilities to feed several hundred head of cattle.

Hancock—Secretary W. Frank James of the Hancock fire department has received a letter of thanks from the Houghton fire department for the assistance rendered by the Hancock firemen at the two recent fires to which they responded.

Cheboygan — Joseph Moscoe, employed at the Hansen & Son's camp, was killed at Afton in a free-for-all drunken fight. His skull was crushed. The melee occurred at the home of Mike Kierczak in Afton and the latter is now lodged in the county jail. Moscoe was beaten with clubs and was left lying in the roadside to die.

Iron Mountain—Not in many years have idle men been so numerous in this district as now. Capt. John Powers, surface foreman at the local mines of the Oliver Iron Mining company, states that he is over-run with applicants for work. This condition is not due to any curtailment in this district, but the influx is from the copper district and other iron mining districts.

Marquette—Members of Marquette chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, presented Mrs. C. A. Shelton with a silver sugar and creamer, as a token of appreciation of her services as secretary for the last year.

Ishpeming—Walter Thorson and Emil Johnson were injured Wednesday when they fell from the roof of the Ropes residence, Euclid street, which they were repairing. Mr. Thorson fell a distance of forty feet and landed on the cement walk. He was taken to the Ishpeming hospital, where it was found that he had suffered injuries to his hip and knee.

Laurium—The Alumni Association of the Sacred Heart High school elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, J. A. Thomann; vice president, Miss Ella Crowley; secretary and treasurer, F. Rochm.

HOW WOMEN AVOID OPERATIONS

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Cleveland, Ohio—"My left side pained me so for several years that I expected to have to undergo an operation, but the first bottle I took of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound relieved me of the pains in my side and I continued its use until I became regular and free from pains. I had asked several doctors if there was anything I could take to help me and they said there was nothing that they knew of. I am thankful for such a good medicine and will always give it the highest praise."—Mrs. C. H. GRIFFITH, 7305 Madison Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

Hanover, Pa.—"I suffered from female trouble and the pains were so bad at times that I could not sit down. The doctor advised a severe operation but my husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I experienced great relief in a short time. Now I feel like a new person and can do a hard day's work and not mind it. What joy and happiness it is to be well once more. I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for the Compound."—Mrs. ADA WILT, 196 Stock St., Hanover, Pa.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

MARKET IS STILL STRONG

Wheat Advances on Damage Reports From Over the Southwest.

Flaxseed Gains Fractionally With Good Buying By Crusher Interests.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 16.—After showing some hesitancy at the opening, the wheat market developed strength today on more definite reports of Hessian fly damage in Missouri and Illinois, and rumors of its appearance at a few points in Kansas. The cash position of the market is growing increasingly strong, with stocks of old wheat being depleted through the export demand and buying by millers to cover current and future requirements.

May wheat opened unchanged at 94c and closed ¾c up at 94¾c bid. The July option opened unchanged at 91⅝c and closed ⅛c up at 94⅞c and September opened ¼c off at 89c and closed with an advance of ⅜c in the days at 89⅝c bid.

There was no trading in May durum. It closed ¼c up at 90c asked. The July option closed unchanged at 90c bid.

Oats were strong on good Eastern demand, closing ½c up at 39¼c for on the track and at 38⅝c for to arrive. Rye closed unchanged at 58@60c and barley 1c up at 55@59c for choice stuff.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed at 38⅞@38¾c bid, and July at 58⅝c bid.

Puts on Minneapolis July wheat closed at 91⅝c asked, and calls at 92⅝c bid.

Liverpool cables were fractionally off on easier Winnipeg prices yesterday, and expectations of larger world's shipments next week.

The remaining heavy outstanding short interest in the May option at Chicago, and strength in coarse grains, were other bullish factors. Continued export inquiry was in evidence and business was reported to have been worked by a Duluth house both here and at Winnipeg. Receipts at this point are being well maintained as a result of this foreign business, 68 cars being inspected today, compared with 84 on the heavier crop last year. Marketings are surprisingly heavier at Winnipeg, showing that country supplies up there were larger than had been estimated. Receipts there today amounted to 25 cars against 340 last year.

Stocks of wheat in Duluth elevators showed a decrease of 1,220,000 bu in the six days, and they now stand at 6,672,000 bu.

Flaxseed Turns Strong.

Flaxseed turned strong in the late trading after selling off fractionally at the start. Strength developed through buying on this market from Winnipeg, where there is said to be a substantial short interest in the May option. There was also fair buying by crushers on the weak spots.

The foreign markets were again irregular. Buenos Aires closed unchanged; Antwerp ⅝c and London ½c up.

May flax opened unchanged at $1.56½ and closed ½c up at $1.57. July opened unchanged at $1.57⅜ and closed ¼c up at $1.57¾ asked. September opened unchanged at $1.59⅝ and closed unchanged and the October option opened ⅛c off at $1.57¼ and closed ⅜c up at $1.57⅜ asked.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed at $1.37⅛ bid and July at $1.39⅝ bid.

Lecount wired Baker: "The area of infection in Missouri is not large and unless it becomes more general, the damage will be small. It is the opinion of the best posted people that too much weight should not be given to the fly as a factor for permanent higher prices untitl reports become more general from other states besides that."

The following cable has been received from Antwerp: "The consumptive demand has improved all around and our stocks are getting very small. There is not much pressure from the exporting countries and especially the Danube is hardly offering anything to our port, as there is a brisk demand from Hungary, and the greater part of the wheat being shipped up the river. As to the new crop, the situation is unchanged in France where there are still some complaints from the north. In Roumania and Hungary rains are wanted, but so far damage is not reported. Under the circumstances, traders are showing confidence which seems warranted, for all old crop positions, and will continue to be for the new campaign with the prospects of the American wheat crop."

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat—There was some pressure in evidence at the immediate opening and as a result of profit-taking over the week-end, prices declined ⅛d to ¼d. This was stimulated by the easier Winnipeg closing and better weather reports from America. Following the opening and during the remainder of the session, there was an undercurrent of steadiness helped by the rally in corn, decreasing stocks here, and firmness of Manitoba offers. Interior markets throughout the United Kingdom were firm, and on light American shipments as indicated by Bradstreet's, and expectations of light world's shipments, shorts covered. At the close the undertone was steady, ¼d higher.

"Corn opened under realizing ⅜d to ½d lower on the easier closing at Buenos Aires and reports of clearing weather in Argentina. Following the opening there was some covering by shorts and June advanced on the scarcity of Plate offers and unfavorable crop advices with stocks here decreasing rapidly and Plate stocks at the ports light. Later there was some recession from the extreme high, with the markets nervous on week-end realizing. At the close prices were ⅛d lower to ¼d higher."

A semi-official Russian report covering up to May 8, sets out that the crops generally show a good average. Rain is wanted over an extended area.

* * *

At Buenos Aires wheat closed firm with higher foreign bids. Arrivals are light and stocks small. Corn was easier with better weather.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Turns Easier Owing to Rain in the Southwest.

Chicago, May 16.—Rain in the Southwest tended today to make the wheat market easy. Continued dry weather was regarded as likely to cause greater danger of crop injury from Hessian fly. It took but little buying, however, to hold prices close to the previous day's finish. The opening which was ⅛c off to ⅛c up, was followed by a slight sag all around.

Subsequently congestion became very apparent in May wheat and speculators began to take to the buying side of deferred futures. There were reports that Hessian fly had spread into Kansas, notably Salina and Ottawa counties. The close was unsettled at ¾c net advance.

Corn showed firmness on account of unfavorable conditions in Argentina. Auspicious weather for domestic planting served as an offset in part. Quotations started ⅛@¼c down to ¼c higher and then hardened, especially for May.

The bears suffered worse after Buenos Aires dispatches came indicating that rain damage was being increased by excessive heat. The close was steady, ¼@⅜ to ¾c above last night.

Oats followed corn. Trade, though, was small.

Notwithstanding lack of demand, provisions moved up with corn and hogs. Most of the business was in lard.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Weakness in Wheat Is Overcome By Influence From Chicago.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 16.—Wheat weakened shortly after the opening here today on local selling orders, but strengthened later on the influence of higher prices in the Chicago market. A better cash demand also contributed to the added strength in Minneapolis. Weather in the northwest continued exceptionally favorable to the newly planted crop.

Wheat—May opened 90¾c; high, 91½c, low, 90¾c; closed 90¾c. July, opened, 91¾c; high, 92c; low, 91c; closed, 91¾c. Cash: No. 1 hard, 99⅞c; No. 1 northern, 93⅞@95⅞c; to arrive, 93⅞c@94⅞c; choice to arrive, 95⅞c; No. 2 northern, 91⅞@93⅞c; to arrive, 91⅞@92⅞c; No. 3 wheat, 89⅞@91⅞c.

Flax, $1.53⅞@1.56⅞.

Flour continued firm. Prices unchanged. Shipments, 55,500 barrels.

Barley, 43@56c; rye, 59@61c; bran, unchanged.

MOVEMENT IS NARROW

Undertone in Stocks Heavy and the Close Is Easy.

Few Sharp Advances Due to Absorption of Special Issues.

New York, May 16.—A sharp setback in American stocks at London registered its effect on prices here at the opening of the market today. Most of the international shares were lower. Steel, Amalgamated, Union Pacific and Reading, the speculative leaders, all lost large fractions. Although the undertone was heavy the movement was not uniformly downward as a few shares including St. Paul and Canadian Pacific showed improvement. Trading was slow and no attempt was made to extend the opening losses. The list stiffened slightly after the first few minutes.

The market closed easy. Absorption of special issues, based on good trade prospects and dividend rumors, caused a few sharp advances but the general movement was narrow.

Bonds were irregular.

COPPER STOCKS IN GOOD DEMAND

Butte & Superior Most Active Issue in East and Closes Strong.

The market in mining stocks was fairly strong today, with a good volume of trading put through during the short session. Butte & Superior was again the most active issue. There were good buying orders for it in brokers' hands and the heavy realizing sales were readily absorbed. The stock closed a shade up at $39.50. Greene-Cananea closed 25 cents up at $33.25; North Butte a fraction up at $26.63; Granby .25 cents up at $82; Shattuck 25 cents off at $24.25; Alaska Gold a fraction up at $28.25; Butte & Ballaklava unchanged at $3, and Amalgamated Copper 37 cents up at $72.75.

In the Duluth curb list, there was good buying in Calumet & Corbin and it sold at from 32 to 34 cents. Calumet & Sonora sold at 71 cents; Denn at $8.25; Florence at 1.55 cents; Keating at $1.63, and Savanna at $1.75.

Paine, Webber & Co. had the following from Boston: "The report is current in Butte that an agreement has practically been reached in the controversy between Butte & Superior and W. A. Clark, and that announcement of the same will soon be made."

The Keating Gold Mining company is reported to be making satisfactory progress in its development operations. The shaft at the mine is now down 1,000 feet, and the showing at the lower depth is very gratifying to the management. The floor of the drift on the 800-level is reported to be in solid ore for a distance of more than 700 feet from the shaft. A winze was sunk at a point 800 feet north of the shaft, and at a depth of six feet it was advised to be bottomed in ore running $30 a ton in gold.

The company is reported to have wiped out all floating indebtedness. Its outstanding bonds have been paid in part and the balance extended for three years. The company has a substantial balance in the bank and is said to be showing a profit on each month's operations.

There is nothing new concerning the construction of a railroad into the Radersburg district, where the Keating property is situated.

It is probable that the Keating company will take some steps looking to the construction of a concentrator, for it has a very large tonnage of ore which does not run high enough in gold to warrant hauling with teams, but which would yield excellent profits under anything like favorable conditions for delivering the ore to concentrator.

The Alex-Scott mine, it is officially stated, has more ore in sight now than at any previous time in its history. New ore is constantly being developed, and the present production of about 200 tons per day comes from the development work. At any moment that the price of the metal warrants it the company will at once jump the production to 300 tons per day. N. F. Hugo president and general manager of the company, will visit the mine soon.

TRADE REVIEW

New York, May 16.—Dun's Review today says: Further strengthening of confidence is manifest as a result of the betterment in some branches of business. Improvement is still slow in developing and progress is not uniform, yet rather more cheerful reports are received from the leading centers.

Conditions as a whole are not satisfactory but most advices indicate that the trend is in the right direction. The best feature is the more hopeful feeling in iron and steel, and the signs of reviving activity apparent both in finished lines and in pig iron. There is also a better sentiment in the dry-goods trade.

The commodity markets displayed more activity this week, with the tendency, however, still towards a lower level.

Failures this week are 336 against 290 last year. In Canada 40 against 45.

SPECIAL CUYUNA RANGE

One of our firm, accompanied by mining engineers and officials of the various independent companies operating on the new range, has just returned from a thorough tour of inspection, and we will issue a special CUYUNA RANGE MARKET LETTER on the 15th, mailed free on request, giving facts, figures and truths about the new range and its possibilities.

St. Paul, Minn., May 16th, 1914.

The past week has certainly shown a reversal of form in the way of public sentiment towards the stock markets. Prices show a very substantial advance and the feeling is very much better. The real gratifying news was the initial dividend on Butte & Superior declared this week. This is the culmination of about eight years hard work, overcoming all obstacles and finally achieving that which all companies strive hardest for—A COMMERCIAL SUCCCESS.

The only thing to be regretted in this Butte & Superior deal is that the ones who first were interested in this issue have for the most part sold out and the big gain is now to be reaped by the Eastern people who never fail to back their opinion with their money when they know the company is in position to deliver the goods.

Calumet-Corbin is proving not only to be a market success but a COMMERCIAL SUCCESS and are you going to take this opportunity and be in on the big things on this issue. Eastern capital is fast becoming interested and the possibilities of this property will be heralded broadcast over the country beginning today. To prove this we are going to give you a copy of the telegrams which have passed between us and Mr. Noon, who has charge of these matters in the East. Mr. Noon's word can absolutely be relied upon and is conservative at all times in preference to being exaggerating:

New York, May 14th, 1914.

Everything fixed satisfactorily. Publicity begins tomorrow in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Pittsburg, St. Louis and Chicago. Papers for opening New York transfer office mailed tonight. Upon return these will see the biggest campaign in five years. This is the best lineup of anything out in years. Money for our big mill will be in treasury inside 30 days. They figure stock worth $2.50 right now. Next week should see some sensations in Calumet-Corbin. (Signed)

BERNARD NOON.

There is very little to add. I want your business and I know I will get it if you will buy Calumet-Corbin now, for the reason that you will make money by so doing and money-making clients are the greatest asset any firm can have.

$400,000 OIL FIRE AT UNIONVILLE, N. Y.

Four Large Storage Tanks Are Destroyed by Flames.

Unionville, N. Y., May 16.—Four large storage tanks of oil at the Standard Oil plant here were burned today with a loss of about $400,000. The fire was not under control at noon.

Father of Teacher's Murderer Testifies at Boy's Trial.

Herkimer, N. Y., May 16.—Charles A. Glanini, father of Jean Glanini, charged with killing his school teacher, Lida Beecher, was on the witness stand here today. He testified that his son was a victim of vicious habits. He then identified the clothing worn by the boy on the night of the murder. The knife with which it is alleged Jean committed the murder, the father identified as one he had given his son four or five months ago.

LITTLE DAMAGE TO TAMPICO OIL TANKS

Early Resumption of All Operations There is Predicted.

New York, May 16.—Local representatives of the various oil companies operating in and around Tampico were still without definite advices today regarding conditions at that port. They were of the opinion, however, that the situation is gradually taking such shape as to permit of an early resumption of operations at all the wells and refineries.

So far as is known here, little damage has been sustained by any of the companies, and that chiefly through overflowing wells or wastage. The Pierce oil corporation some days ago reported that one of its tanks along the Panuco river had been damaged by a shell from one of the Mexican gunboats, but the loss was said to be comparatively small.

The Mexican Petroleum company, whose refineries are along the south bank of the Panuco river, reported that one of its steamers has returned to the scene of recent hostilities with a large complement of laborers. It was added that the Constitutionalists showed every disposition to permit the oil interests to resume work.

HEARS ARGUMENTS FOR A NEW TRIAL.

After listening to arguments for and against, Judge Cant of the district court this morning took under advisement a motion for a new trial in the malpractice suit brought by Albert J. Burgess against Dr. James C. Anderson. The action was tried before Judge Cant last December and a $1,000 verdict awarded the plaintiff at that time. The jury found that a mistake made by the local surgeon cost the life of Grace L. Burgess, wife of the plaintiff. An operation was performed on Mrs. Burgess on March 27, 1913, and her death followed on April 12. Burgess sued for $7,500 damages.

IS AWARDED $750 FOR BROTHER'S DEATH.

Alexander E. Peterson of Spooner, Wis., will receive $750 from the Duluth-Edison Electric company on a claim for the alleged wrongful death of his brother, Charles J. Peterson, who was electrocuted Aug 19, 1913, while in the company's employ. The brother is the only heir of the estate.

In district court today, E. F. Wharton, administrator of the estate, petitioned for the court's approval of the settlement made with the company. The court was also asked to fix a day for a hearing on the distribution of the fund. All will go to the brother after certain claims are allowed.

WANT SUBWAY ON COUNTY ROAD

Commissioner Murchison Hears Sentiments of West Duluth Club.

Members of the West Duluth Commercial club, at their meeting last night, impressed on Commissioner R. Murchison that they did not want a subway under the Northern Pacific railroad at any other place in Smithville than where the county road now intersects the tracks.

Mr. Murchison said that neither he nor the commissioner favored the Gogebic street route, but intimated that the city should have to pay damages to property above Grand avenue if the thoroughfare was excavated for the cut.

Mr. Murchison showed members of the club a blue print of the proposed route in case the Gogebic subway was decided on. This would provide for starting the depression under the railroad at the eastern end of the bridge just before coming to Smithville and require the condemnation of parts of more than fifty lots on the lower side of the tracks in order to get to Commonwealth avenue. This property the commissioner said could be acquired by the city for about $5,000. He said that the subway under the tracks at Gogebic street would cost the railroad about $10,000, while on the county road it would cost the railroad $29,000.

Sentiment to the effect that the city had no occasion to save the railroad any money and that the damages to the property above Grand avenue would be no way as much as it would cost the city to condemn and build the new street, was expressed by the members. Among those who strongly opposed the Gogebic route in no uncertain language were L. A. Barnes, Thomas Jefferson, W. Lovell Getchell, David Sang, A. G. Macaulay, Andrew Myles, L. B. Blechl, C. M. Brooks, John A. Eklund and others.

WAS NOT DEAD, BUT "DEAD DRUNK"

Arrest Is Followed By Wife Making a Charge of Non-Support.

A man reported to the police to be dead, lying near the Tremont house on Central avenue, caused the West Duluth station's patrol wagon to be given a short run yesterday afternoon. Instead of being "dead," the man was found to be "dead drunk."

Two hours later Mrs. John McLaughlin brought in a complaint of non-support, and after looking over the papers, it was found that the man picked up shortly before was the man wanted. Mrs. McLaughlin stated in her complaint that her husband had not contributed a cent to the support of herself or two small children since early in December. Mrs. McLaughlin told the police that for several months she had to work at the match factory in order to earn money to purchase necessities of life for the family.

McLaughlin pleaded guilty to being drunk and also to the non-support charge when arraigned in police court this morning. Sentence was deferred until the case was further investigated by the court.

WILL HEAR NEW PASTOR.

Rev. Herbert Ford of Chicago Will Preach Sunday.

Rev. Herbert Ford of Chicago will occupy the pulpit of the West Duluth Baptist church, Fifty-ninth and Grand avenues, at both services tomorrow. In the forenoon Rev. Mr. Ford will speak on "The Challenge of the Unattainable."

Rev. Mr. Ford comes to the city in response to an invitation to accept the local pulpit. Whether the call will be officially extended to him or not will be decided at a meeting of the congregation to be held next week.

SECOND "CLEAN UP" DAY AT PROCTOR.

Tuesday will be the second "clean-up" day at Proctor. In order to get everybody to assist in making the village clean, a half holiday has been declared and children from the schools will lend their assistance.

The first clean-up day was held last Tuesday. Much has been done already to make the village one of the cleanest in this part of the state. The clean up is expected to be fully completed Tuesday evening.

NEARLY LOST HIS PANTALOONS

Little 4-Year-Old Boy Convulses Audience at Proctor Entertainment.

One badly frightened 4-year-old boy, who was wearing his first pair of pantaloons, and whose suspenders had not been properly attended to, nearly disrupted an entertainment at Odd Fellows' hall at Proctor last evening, and convulsed an audience of about 200 members of the Forbes M. E. church.

The little fellow was taking part in a mock wedding, acting as one of the ushers. The "wedding" was that of little Ruth Taaffey, aged 4, and William Asher, aged 4. It was part of a playlet called "The Tom Thumb Wedding." When the youthful performers made their entrance, the little chap who was acting as usher was seen to be having trouble with his new garments, suddenly they slipped and the little chap was hastily snatched into the wings, where experienced hands adjusted matters.

Seventy-five other tots took part, the oldest probably being the "pastor," who was 9-year-old Charles Brayden. Every detail of a society wedding, several bridesmaids, and groomsmen, ushers, flower girls, singers, bachelor friends and former sweethearts of the bride, and others were included. The principal bridesmaid was little 4-year-old Ethel Green and John Quick, also 4 years, was groomsman.

"O Promise Me" was sung by Gudrun Sherwin just before the ceremony, and "I Love to Be in Love" and "Cleveland" was sung at the close, by Greg Beckett and Carol Gilbert, the chorus being sung by the entire company.

CITY WILL HELP.

Will Co-operate in Improving Playground in Suburbs.

Assurances that the public works department would co-operate with the public affairs department in fixing up the playground at Fifty-second avenue west, were given last night by Commissioner Murchison at the meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club. David Sang introduced a resolution asking that if the public affairs department could not fix up these grounds at once that the department of public works be given authority to do the work. It was contended that two days' work by Street Commissioner P. H. McGray and his crew of men would be sufficient.

The club also arranged to give a banquet to members and their ladies within a short time. The committee which had charge of the recent public banquet, will have charge of this affair.

WILL DISCUSS POLITICS.

Boyle and Others Will Speak at Social Center.

State Senator James P. Boyle and Edward Armstrong will speak on the initiative, referendum and recall at the social center meeting at the Irving school, Thursday evening. The meeting will be one of a series at which similar political questions will be discussed.

On Thursday evening the Dramatic club of the social center will also hold its banquet. About thirty guests are expected. A musical program has been arranged for the banquet as well as for the other meeting.

LADIES' AID WILL ENTERTAIN MONDAY.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Westminster Presbyterian church will entertain Monday evening at another of its series of "get-together" socials at the home of Mrs. P. A. Lund, 631 North Fifty-seventh avenue west. The following program will be given:

Vocal solo ..... Miss Minnie Nelson, Accompanied by Miss Marie Nelson.
Recitation ..... Mary Alverson.
Violin solo ..... Freda Holterud, Mabel Holterud, Accompanist.
Vocal duet ..... Gudborg Dahl and Marie Nelson.
Piano solo ..... Bernice Olsen.
Violin solo ..... Lester Whalen, Accompanied by Miss Maud Gilbert.
Vocal solo ..... Joe Erickson, Accompanied by Marie Nelson.

WILL OPEN BASEBALL SEASON AT PROCTOR.

The baseball season in Proctor will officially open tomorrow when the locals will play the Northern Hardware team. The Proctor aggregation has been reorganized and under the management of new officials. The new officers of the baseball association are: C. W. Seddon, president; C. J. Buell, secretary; Dr. J. T. Speck, treasurer, and Ed. Downs, manager. The lineup for tomorrow's game will be as follows: Goff, catcher; Reneaud, pitcher; Murray, first base; McCabe, second; Wiles, third; Ward, shortstop; Nelson, Braydon, Donovan and Graham, outfielders.

SOCIALISTS WILL BOOST CANDIDATES.

At a meeting of the West Duluth Socialist club to be held tomorrow afternoon at Victor's hall, 5528 Grand avenue, plans will be made for carrying out an active campaign for its candidates for offices. Among the speakers will be P. G. Phillips, the party's candidate for the state senate, and James E. Foubister and Leo Lukkl, its candidates for the state legislature.

Will Vote on School Bonds.

Residents of Proctor will vote Sunday afternoon, between the hour of 4 and 8 o'clock, on the question of issuing $50,000 bonds for school purposes. It is proposed if the bonds carry to erect a new school building in the village.

Fire Starts in Trunk.

A fire in a trunk at 6 North Central avenue gave department No. 8 a short run at 9 o'clock this morning. It is believed that matches in pockets of the clothes became ignited and caused the fire. The damage was slight.

Widow Petitions Court.

Lavisa Lindgren, 3907 West Fifth street, today petitioned the probate court for letters of administration on the estate of her late husband, Louis Lindgren, who died, aged 50, on May 9 last. Lindgren left an estate consisting of real and personal property valued at $5,000. It will be divided among a widow, four daughters and two sons.

Child Succumbs.

Sylvia, the 4-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Sankary, 23 South Fifty-eighth avenue west, died last night. The funeral will be held 9 o'clock Monday morning from the family residence with interment in Oneota cemetery.

Parents Lose Son.

Harry Sidney Howard, the 7-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Howard, 435 North Fifty-ninth avenue west, died this morning. The funeral will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence with burial in Oneota cemetery.

Will Debate Suffrage.

"Why Women Should Be Granted Suffrage" will be the subject of debate Tuesday evening at the social center meeting in the Irving school. The affirmative will be supported by Edward Briggs and Allen Forsberg, while the negative side will be championed by Page Cashin and James Bothwell.

VESUVIUS AND ETNA BOTH IN ERUPTION

Earthquake Shocks Are Alarmingly Frequent in Sicily.

Naples, May 16.—Mount Vesuvius is again active. Last night a high column of vapor and tongues of flame came out of the crater.

Mount Etna Active.

Catania, Sicily, May 15.—Earthquake shocks continue with alarming frequency. Mount Etna is extremely active. A number of the houses weakened by previous shocks have fallen. Fortunately, however, there have been no fatalities as the populace of the city and country side is camped in the open.

SIX REPUBLICANS ELIMINATED IN VOTE

The Returns From Oregon's Primary Election Are Being Counted.

Portland, Ore., May 16.—Six of the eight aspirants for the Republicans nomination for governor were eliminated by the returns of the first day's count of yesterday's primary vote in Oregon. The race reduced itself today to Dr. James Withycombe of Corvallis and Gus C. Moser of Portland, with chances seemingly favoring Withycombe.

Of five aspirants for the Democratic nomination for governor, two were eliminated, leaving the contest between A. S. Bennett of The Dalles; John Manning of Portland, and Dr. C. J. Smith of Portland.

Candidates whose nominations were made certain by the partial returns received included:

United States senator—Republican, Robert A. Booth of Eugene; Democrat, George E. Chamberlain of Portland; Progressive, William Hanley of Burns.

Governor—Progressive, L. H. McMahan of Salem.

The Young Men's Musical association, which was organized recently, presented a special program last evening at the First Norwegian church.

The members of the association are all musicians and they have organized an orchestra, consisting of Harry Segal, George Casmir and Earling Sodahl, first violin; Elburt Johnson and Sam Segal, second violin, and Edol Sodahl, piano.

Harry Segal is president of the association, George Casmir is secretary, and Edward Copland, treasurer.

DIES AFTER BEING BEATEN

H. Nordquist, a Fisherman, Succumbs at County Poor Farm.

Was Attacked and Robbed in Duluth on Thursday Night.

That Henry Nordquist, 44 years old, was attacked and robbed last Thursday night either in or near the Schlitz hotel, 525 West Michigan street, and that he died of the injuries last evening at the county poor farm, is the belief of the attendants at the county hospital. A post mortem examination will be held by Coroner McComb at the Crawford undertaking rooms this afternoon.

Nordquist was found at the Schlitz hotel Thursday night in a dazed condition and later brought to police headquarters where his injuries were dressed by the jailor. He was later taken to the county hospital for treatment, dying there at 11 o'clock last evening.

It is the belief of the authorities that Nordquist was beaten and robbed of a large sum of money, and the post mortem also robbed of a large sum of money this afternoon is to be held for the purpose of further investigating the case. It was known that Nordquist had $150 when he came to Duluth a few days ago and all the authorities can now find is $50 in one of the local banks. He had been drinking heavily the last week, and it is believed that some companions of Nordquist attacked him near the Union station and after taking his money, took him to the Schlitz hotel, where he was later found by the proprietor. The police first believed that Nordquist had fallen down the stairs and injured himself in the fall.

Nordquist was a fisherman and had lived in Minnesota the past twenty-nine years. He was a widower and formerly made his home on Park Point. The body will be buried next week.

LEAVES $10,000 ESTATE HERE

Will of A. B. McDonnell, Rich Lumberman, Is Filed in Probate.

Alexander B. McDonnell, wealthy lumberman, whose death occurred Dec. 17, 1913, at his home in Chippewa Falls, Wis., left holdings in St. Louis county valued at $10,000, according to a petition to admit his will to probate here, which was filed today with the probate court.

The petition asks that William Irvine, S. B. Nimmons and F. E. Weyerhaeuser, who are named as executors under the will, be appointed by the court to wind up the affairs of the estate in this county. A hearing on the petition will be had by the court June 15.

In his will, the late Mr. McDonnell made $5,000 and $10,000 bequests to his nephews and nieces residing in Canada, and left legacies ranging from $1,000 to $10,000 to each of the following: S. B. Nimmons, Chippewa Falls; Florence O'Neill, St. Paul; Ottilia Ruff, Chippewa Falls; Mrs. Estella M. Granger, Kankakee, Ill.; Mrs. Katherine McKay, Altoona, Wis., and Mrs. Amgus J. McDougall, Minneapolis.

The residuary estate is left to Alexander A. McDonnell, an only son residing at Chippewa Falls. The will also provides that the following institutions be endowed: Hotel Dieu hospital, and the St. Paul's Home for the Aged at Cornwall, Ont.; the Catholic Church Extension society at Chicago and the St. Joseph's hospital and the McDonnell Memorial high school at Chippewa Falls.

The McDonnell Memorial high school was endowed with the income from $25,000. The school was built in memory of two of the deceased's children, Emily and Donald McDonnell, who were drowned together in Long Lake, Chippewa county, Wis., June 25, 1900.

LITERATURE AND DRAMA ARE SCORED

Dr. Lansing Burrows Denounces Those of the Present Day.

Nashville, Tenn., May 16.—Present day literature and drama were denounced today by Dr. Lansing Burrows of Americus, Ga., in an address before the Southern Baptist convention, of which he is president.

"Having a delirious interest in reading, we are easy prey to the designing," said Dr. Burrows. "Thus are all the hateful dogmas of religious, social and political heresy propagated.

"As one of our own cherished leaders has expressed it, the weakest place in our denominational life is that occasioned by our lack of making adequate provisions for the supplying of the masses of the people with the right kind of literature."

The address was delivered in connection with exercises attending the presentation of Sunday school board building by the building committee to the convention. The edifice cost $160,001.72.

WILL FACE CHARGE OF TRIPLE MURDER

Harley Beard Has Confessed to Killing Family in Ohio.

Chicago, May 16.—Harley Beard, confessed slayer of three members of the Massie family, farmers living near Ironton, Ohio, said today that he would return for trial without extradition papers.

"I went to work for the Massies last September," recited the prisoner, whose words were carefully written down by a detective. "I worked for them all winter, and we got along all right, although on the whole they treated me pretty rough, particularly Bob. Last Monday morning at 3:30 or 4 o'clock Mary and I got up and hitched up the rig for Bob. He said he was going to Ironton or Covington to buy some furniture.

Followed Him to His Room.

"Mary followed me to my room, and when I ordered her out we quarreled. Then her mother came and scolded me, and when I tried to answer back that I was not at fault she wouldn't listen.

"Bob got home at about 11 o'clock that night and then Mary's story was told to him. He didn't say much to me Tuesday, but Wednesday afternoon, while he was nailing a board on a fence, he tried to hit me with the hatchet. I warded this blow off, but the next one landed and he said he would cut off my head."

The confession recites that after this Bob started for the house, Beard following. The fight was renewed and Beard picked up a stake and pursued Bob, who by this time had reached the stairway of the house, and hit Bob over the head. He fell down the stairs. Mary came running up and was felled with another blow, and the same fate was dealt out to the aged mother. He then cut their throats with the razor.

The arrest was made on information telephoned from the sheriff of Ironton county.

NOT CERTAIN.

Judge: The two men had been observing the antics of a strange man in silence and finally broke into speech.

Crawford: What's the matter with that fellow who is holding on to the lamp post and shuffling his feet.

Crabshaw: There was a time when I'd have said he was drunk, but now perhaps he's practicing a new dance.

CITY BRIEFS

IRON MOUNTAIN MINE MAY BE SOLD TO EASTERN MEN

Believed That Furnace People Will Secure Cuyuna Range Property.

Several Mines Preparing to Start Shipments at Early Date.

Brainerd, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Officials of the Iron Mountain Mining company have announced that they are in receipt of two propositions for the taking over of the Iron Mountain mine on an advance royalty basis. Negotiations have been carried on for the last four months and it is believed that they will come to some arrangements with some Eastern furnace people as the price now offered is in excess of what was offered four months ago.

A special meeting of the board of directors was held to discuss the offers received and it was decided to notify the Eastern parties that they were prepared to deal with them, if a few small changes are made, and to advise them to come to Duluth with their engineering staff and make arrangements to visit the property to further check it and see what will be necessary to further explore the property.

It is the intention of one of the companies to prosecute the work in the shaft and also strip the property so as to make it one of the heaviest producers of manganiferous ores on the Cuyuna range. At present this property has close to 4,000 feet of drilling, the deepest hole being 501 feet and still in ore. There are two shafts on the property. One shaft, 6 feet by 8 feet, is fifty feet in the ore with an over-burden of sixty-nine feet. This shaft will be used as an air and timber shaft. The No. 2 shaft is a standard three-compartment mining shaft and is down 117 feet and has penetrated the solid manganese formation for forty-nine feet. With the installation of the boilers which are now ready at the Ames Boiler works of Oswego, N. Y., the mine is ready to ship to the lower lake ports. The Soo line has completed a branch line direct to the property. Samples taken from the stockpile show a very high grade of manganiferous ore.

Recent samples of ore from the shaft give very gratifying results. It is stated that the manganese content is uniformly high. The average of nine samples representing forty-five feet of the shaft was 21.49 per cent manganese. The lowest recorded was 15.10 per cent and the highest was 31.50 per cent.

Will Begin Shipments.

The Cuyuna-Mille Lacs mine and the Cuyuna-Duluth mine, now subsidiaries of the American Manganese Manufacturing company, will soon commence shipments. The Cuyuna-Mille Lacs mine, it is reported, will put on an increased force some time this month. The stockpile will soon be shipped via Cuyuna Northern and Northern Pacific railways. New machinery has been installed which will be amply able to take care of the water situation. The Cuyuna-Duluth mine has accumulated a stockpile of high grade ore which will soon be shipped. Both mines, it is reported, will also soon hoist from shaft and load into cars.

The shaft of the Duluth-Brainerd Iron company is down about 140 feet, having been sunk through rock all the way from ledge, which was reached at fifty-seven feet. Bearing timbers at the top of the station are being put in. Drifting will commence at the 150-foot level as soon as the station and pump room are opened up.

The Wilcox mine of the Canadian-Cuyuna Ore company has forty-eight men at work. The shaft is now down fifty-eight feet and ledge will be reached at ninety-two feet. Steam has been turned on in the new boiler, thus superseding the temporary arrangements made. The Cuyuna Range Power company has built a pole line to the mine. The electric pump is on the ground and will be used as an auxiliary to the steam pumping equipment. The Wilcox mine has sold its entire product before a ton of ore has been hoisted and thus faces the future wihtot uany misgivings as to the ore market. Eastern Canadian steel interests, it is said, will buy considerable of the ore mined.

Adams to Ship From Stockpile.

The Adams mine at Oreland has worked steadily all winter and to date has accumulated a stockpile which will soon be shipped. On the average, ore of a high grade has been mined. The Barrows mine of the Virginia Ore Mining company, a subsidiary of the M. A. Hanna company of Cleveland, Ohio, is now shipping forty cars a day over the Northern Pacific railway. The Brainerd-Cuyuna mine is sinking its second shaft and so far has encountered no trouble in penetrating the quicksand area revealed in the first shaft. Forty-foot steel piling driven through this section has helped Capt. John O. Martin solve many of his obstacles.

The Kennedy mine of the Rogers, Brown Ore company, is hoisting from shaft to cars, as is also the Armour No. 2 mine of the same company. President Chester D. Tripp of Chicago has been on the range this week inspecting the work done. He has a beautiful summer home on Serpent lake in Crosby and with his family spends the summer there. It is reported that the Kennedy mine will soon put on a steam shovel and that shipping from the stockpile will commence shortly.

Pit Mines Preparing to Ship.

None of the pit mines has shipped to date. All are preparing for early shipping. The Thompson mine of the Inland Steel company has a shovel at work preparing the pit for shipments which, it is expected, will be made within four or six weeks at the utmost. The Rowe pit mine of the Pittsburg Steel Ore company has a shovel at work. The hydraulic plant operated by electric pumps will soon start up and continue removing the shallow overburden. The Cuyuna Range Power company is putting in a new station at Riverton. The Rowe mine, it is said, will use 900 horsepower in the hydraulic work, which to date has been the cheapest method ever tried out on the Cuyuna range for removing overburden. Very few boulders are encountered, the soil generally being of a sandy nature. About 125 men are reported to be working at the Rowe pit mine. Another engine will be put on next Sunday. The Pennington pit mine has a steam shovel working in the pit. A power house is being built on the bank of the pit.

The Seafield Exploration company has drills working for the Cuyuna-Suitana company in section 3, township 46, range 29, and in section 20, township 47, range 28 for the Iron Valley Mining company. The Potts Exploration company is drilling north of Big Rabbit lake, where four drills are wresting the secrets of Riverton. The Longyear Exploration company, P. W. Donovan of Brainerd being its range superintendent, is putting down its second hole at the county poor farm where 52 per cent ore was struck at 245 feet depth. The first hole struck no ore, and may have been just outside the ore body which the second hole is revealing.

Option Given to Explore.

Joe Raymond of Deerwood who owns much realty in and near Crosby, has given an option to explore eighty acres near Crosby to J. W. Forsberg of Michigan. Ostenberg & Johnson have two drills working in section 22, township 47, range 29. Osterberg & Bros., a Tower drilling firm, is also drilling for the Crow Wing Mining company on its lands in the southeast quarter of section 6, township 46, range 29, where a fair quality of ore has been uncovered by the two drills.

William Bamberg has moved a drill on section 34, township 47, range 29. The Crosby Exploration company has two drills in the south half of the northeast quarter of section 3, township 46, range 29 and is also drilling in section 18, township 46, range 29, near Riverton. C. J. O'Connell of Crosby, the pioneer assayer of the range, is putting in a branch laboratory at Riverton.

J. D. Campbell and B. J. Madden of Duluth, interested in the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs mine, were at Brainerd this week. Both have been in Cass and Morrison counties looking up land. At Brainerd they met their old friend, J. G. Dawes, former mayor of Pine River. McCullough & Cherry, railway contractors of Minneapolis, have their bridge fill job in Brainerd well under way. They completed grading the Cuyuna Northern railway extension from the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs mine to the Duluth-Brainerd mine and then moved their equipment of steam shovel, two dinkey locomotives, thirty-six cars and other machinery and their crew to Brainerd. The steam shovel is cutting into the hill of the Holland land given to the city, and the dirt excavated is being used for the bridge fill at the ravine in Northeast Brainerd. A maximum of 2,000 yards a day can be handled.

Interests Transferred.

E. A. Lamb of Deerwood has sold to John H. Hill an undivided one-eighth interest in the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter, the southwest quarter of the southeast quarter of section 2, township 45, range 29. Byron L. Cole has sold to Homer R. Corey an undivided nine-tenth of lots 2 and 3 in section 2, township 46, range 30. The Meadow Land company has sold to Ferdinand A. Hallett an undivided one-eighth interest in the west half of the northwest quarter of section 25, township 137, range 26. Harry H. Dorgeloh has sold to Leo A. Sander the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter, the north half of the southeast quarter, the southeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 2, township 137, range 25, and the north half of the northeast quarter of section 11, township 137, range 25.

Byron L. Cole has sold to Alexander McKenzie an undivided one-twentieth, E. Hawarden an undivided one-fifth, Archibald McKay an undivided one-twentieth and J. Emerson Greenfield an undivided one-fifth interest in lots 2 and 3 in section 2, township 46, range 30. James H. Miller of Brainerd has sold to Charles Coleman of the same place an undivided one-half interest in lots 1 and 2, part of north half of southeast quarter of section 24, township 45, range 31. C. J. Evensta of Brainerd has quitclaimed to Sam A. Walstad an undivided one twenty-fourth-fourth in and to the northeast quarter of section 6, township 133, range 28. James Kenser has sold to Anna Held the east half of the northwest quarter of section 6, township 138, range 25, the consideration being $1,600.

The Onondaga Iron company has sold to the Cuyuna Northern railway company a strip 100 feet in width across the southeast quarter of the northwest quarter and lot 5 of section 4, township 46, range 29, for a right-of-way deed, the consideration being $113.50. Michael A. Keely has sold to Fred A. Lindgren an undivided thirty-second interest in lot 2, the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter, the north half of the southwest quarter of section 9, township 136, range 25. Caroline Sundberg has quitclaimed to Jennie F. Hughes an undivided one-ninth interest in and to the west half of the northwest quarter of the southwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 20, township 47, range 29.

SHEEHAN IN CHARGE AT THE MAIN RANGE

Former Superintendent of the Tuolumne to Direct Work.

Butte, Mont., May 16.—Work has started at the Butte Main Range properties under the direction of Patrick Sheehan, former superintendent of the Toulumne, who will have active charge of the development work planned by the Butte Main Range directors.

Instead of starting the sinking of the new shaft which will be sunk eventually near the center of the claims owned by the company, Mr. Sheehan plans lowering the Sinbad shaft from the present depth of 700 feet to the 1,200-foot level and crosscutting there. At the same time work will begin in taking out ore from the 700 level.

It is the belief of the management that from the proceeds of the ore that will be secured through these operations sufficient money can be realized to pay the cost of further development and the sinking of the new shaft.

The necessary machinery, including a part of the old equipment of the Tuolumne, has been secured and work will be pushed vigorously.

SNOWSTORM FINDS EXPECTED COPPER

Ore Body Has Been Encountered After Years of Searching.

The most important news coming from the Coeur d'Alene district within the past week is of a big strike of copper ore in the Snowstorm, and the Hercules by the tunnel which has been over two years in driving. Neither accomplishment comes as a surprise, since in each case the companies have found just what was expected, and where they expected to find it.

The Snowstorm's strike is of greatest importance to the district, since the discovery of the continuation of the big Snowstorm ore body on the No. 4 level—the principal working level of the mine—proves the permanency of the great copper bearing beds to the west and north of Wallace.

A few days ago the long expected strike in the No. 4 level was made, and from the ore body encountered a good grade of commercial ore is being taken. For the present it is being piled on the dump, as the company has no tramway connections with the level.

When the ore body was encountered, work in that district was discontinued and raising was started, with good results. Most of the find is milling ore, similar to that in the upper workings, but the new shoot also shows several streaks of high-grade shipping ore. The main heading in the west drift has not advanced far enough to encounter the best ore quantity, but is is good enough to demonstrate without doubt that the ore has been found after years of searching.

FRANKLIN FOR WEEK IN LONG STRETCH OF SOLID COPPER

Mass Increasing Production and Substantial Profits Expected Soon.

Calumet & Hecla's Tonnage in April Established New Record.

Houghton, Mich., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Franklin has been for about a week in what would appear to be quite a long stretch of "copper brick" from two to three feet thick, which is almost wholly solid copper. This formation is a sandstone in which the grains of sand, each retaining its form, have been by chemical replacement changed to copper. Sometimes it occurs as streaks in the sandstone, sometimes in a portion of the grains uniformly throughout the mass, and sometimes it is complete, resulting in solid copper. Considerable has been found in this district in the past, but little recently and usually on the two mineralized conglomerates, the Calumet & Allouez, the greater part at the former on the Calumet & Hecla and Tamarack. Here the replacement is almost complete, so that when the formation is struck by the heaviest blows of a large sledge it does not break, but simply bends, it has so far appeared in the "back" or roof of the northern drift, which is being enlarged from a drift seven feet high to a drift stope sixteen feet high, and it is extending laterally both ways and also upwards. Copper brick usually is disclosed in slabs a few inches in thickness and therefore its unusual width here would seem to indicate that it may be of quite a large extent. None of this formation was included in the shipment of 1,200 to 1,300 tons which was sent to the Centennial Allouez mill last week and which was treated the first of this week. The daily production is 120 tons and the rock will be forwarded to this mill whenever the bins are full until the shipments increase to a sufficient degree to permit of the opening of the Franklin mill.

Mass.

Mass is steadily increasing its production, having now reached the figure of over 800 tons per day. Towards the last of the month the average output should be 900 and then there will be a gradual rise to 1,000. There it should probably rest for a while, and subsequently when all conditions are ripe a maximum of between 1,100 and 1,200 should be attained and maintained. This is as high as the present stamping equipment will permit, as although theoretically the stamps should have a capacity of 1,250 tons daily and probably will take care of that amount for individual days or for short periods, it is practically impossible to keep up to that quantity day out and day in. The question now before the management is that of organizing the mine. Money had not been abundant and the mine has passed through two strikes in rapid succession, so that supplies have had to be kept down to the lowest figure possible, but now with the money from the assessment payable April 4, the required equipment is being gradually secured. This equipping of the force has been and is now taking time, and much more still will be necessary to break in men who have never worked in any mine, and many experienced miners and trammers who have never worked in this district and to get that "team work" that gives the high grade of efficiency. There is plenty of rock already for stoping, the Butler lode being opened up for two or three years' supply, to say nothing of the Evergreen. The mine has paid a profit for periods during the year before the strike on a daily shipment of 500 to 700 tons notwithstanding construction costs, the great difficulty of hoisting while building a rockhouse, and a lack of trammers and with the sole advantage of 1 to 2 cents a pound for the copper. Consequently it will be readily seen, with the costs of opening up the ground and construction paid and only those of keeping up the necessary reserves to be taken into consideration, that on account of the very greatly increased production, the much greater degree of efficiency resulting from the mine and mill improvements, the use of more single man drills and a full and thoroughly trained force, together with the probable maintenance of the yield per ton at from 15 to 18 pounds, the profits will soon be of a substantial amount.

Keweenaw.

Keweenaw Copper has moved the drill from No. 13 hole, the last of a series of eight bored for a distance of about 7,000 feet along the strike of the Ashbed lode, so as to cut the lode approximately at the depth of 400 feet, to a point 1,000 feet east of the six holes drilled in 1910 and covering a length of 3,600 feet. The object of this new work is to connect by two holes in the gap of 2,000 feet the series of 1910 and that of the present year. The holes will then have covered a stretch of two and one-third miles across the property on the strike of the Ashbed lode.

Two holes have just passed through the same lode about two miles to the southeast on the same strike at the North Cliff property, of which the Keweenaw Copper now holds an option. One hole encountered a fair showing of the metal and the other none. President T. F. Cole, after a two days' stay here, returned to Duluth Tuesday night.

Isle Royale.

Isle Royale began the work of reopening No. 1 shaft on May 8 with a force of four men. A two and one-half inch compressed air line has been laid from No. 2 and a small hoisting engine of the "puffer" type installed. It is going to take quite a long time to timber up the shaft, at least five months. It is, of course, the great showing that has been made on the Portage lode, lying 150 to 220 feet westward, that has brought about the reopening of this shaft. It is understood that it seemed more promising than the new shaft. No. 7, which had been carried down forty feet or so by means of an open cut, prior to the strike, and that further work at the latter will be deferred until next year. No. 1 commands at depth the Montezuma property, comprising about sixty acres, purchased last year for its territory on the Portage lode. This mine is now producing the normal tonnage of last July just preceding the strike.

Calumet & Hecla.

Calumet & Hecla in its tonnage during April surpassed its record of March, thereby establishing again a new record. So far this month the average has not been quite so high, but the tonnage for each of two days, 10,209, is the highest for quite a long period.

Ahmeek Nos. 3 and 4 shafts will resume mining operations in a few days. These two shafts have some openings from the sixth to the tenth levels inclusive, and plats, or loading stations, have been cut through the twentieth level, so that ten levels can be opened up one after the other by drifts. This will be done right away so as to get rock for the two fine new Nordberg hoists. The levels already cut by drifts will be rapidly extended and stoping on the drifts already driven will be begun.

ANACONDA IN GOOD SHAPE

Heavy Permanent Improvements Lessened Net Earnings Last Year.

Will Be Felt in Greater Economies in the Future.

Butte, Mont., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fact that the Anaconda Copper Mining company did not earn all the dividends it paid last year, as shown by the annual report of President B. B. Thayer, gives no concern to persons familiar with conditions in Butte. An unusual amount of money was spent in permanent improvements, and due to several causes the output of refined copper was lessened. The smelter at Anaconda was shut down for repairs for nearly two weeks, and an unusually large amount of low grade ore was treated, having been taken out of some of the mines during the course of sill floor development work in low grade sections of the mines. For the same reasons the cost per pound of copper produced during the year was higher. The extensive improvements that have been made will be felt in greater economies in this and succeeding years, whereas they merely show in a general increase of expenditures last year.

During 1913 the Anaconda company extended its underground workings 35.3 miles. A large tonnage of ore in excess of the amount extracted was added to the reserves. A number of shafts were sunk to additional depths aggregating 3,841 feet. With a few exceptions the developments were satisfactory. Especially gratifying have been the deevlopments in the Tramway mine, the Original, Gagnon, Steward, West Colusa, West Gray Rock, Anaconda, Badger State and Leonard mines, the improvement on the lowest level of the Anaconda mine, at a depth of 2,400 feet, being especially marked. The Original mine, which was purchased from W. A. Clark a few years ago, has been developed into a wonderful property, a level at a depth of 3,000 feet having been opened, disclosing a large vein of high grade ore, this being the lowest point, with the exception of the High Ore mine, at which ore has been opened in the Butte district. The High Ore shaft has been sunk to a depth of 3,400 feet at which point a level will be opened this year.

Eight Air Compressors.

The Anaconda company installed two additional compressors having a capacity of 7,500 cubic feet of free air per minute, making a total of eight compressors having a combined capacity of 60,000 cubic feet of air per minute, the greater portion of which is used for hoisting purposes. At present ten hoists are operated by compressed air; they are the Diamond, High Ore, Original, Tramway, West Gray Rock, Mountain View, Pennsylvania, Leonard, West Colusa and Berkeley. There are also seven compressed air auxiliary engines in operation. The Steward mine is now being equipped with compressed air power and auxiliaries are being put in at the Anaconda and Pennsylvania mines. Seventy-five electric motors are employed in the Anaconda mines for tramming, and twenty-five are used on the surface. The great economies that have resulted from electric haulage is decided and the system will be extended to all the mines of the company. Two mines of the Anaconda company produced 4,644,201 tons of ore last year, and that will be greatly exceeded this year. The reduction works at Anaconda treated for all companies last year 4,016,689 tons of ore and other cupriferous material, while the Great Falls plant treated 1,170,150 tons. The Anaconda smelter produced last year 205,730,594 pounds of fine copper, 9,026,690 ounces of silver and 53,935 ounces of gold. The Great Falls plant produced 270,301,644 pounds of copper, 10,321,296 ounces of silver and 64,898 ounces of gold. The profits of the company last year, after deducting all development expenditure and depletion of coal and timber lands, were $11,323,498.48, and the four dividends declared aggregated $12,997,500.

Kelley Quits as Counsel.

C. F. Kelley, for some years chief counsel, vice president and managing director of the Anaconda Copper Mining company, has retired as chief counsel to devote his entire time and energies to the affairs of the executive department of the company. L. O. Evans, who has for years been chief assistant in the legal department, becomes its head.

Placer Patent Sustained.

The United States circuit court of appeals has affirmed a decision of the United States district court in an important litigation between quartz and placer claimants, involving twenty acres of mineral ground on what is known as the Butte & Boston placer, adjoining the Pittsmont mine of the East Butte Copper Mining company. The court sustains the placer patent and thereby gives to the Washington Butte Mining company title to some rich copper deposits, in extensions of the Pittsmont ore bodies. The quartz claimants had contended that the placer patent was obtained by fraud and that the known quartz leads were excluded from the patent. The district court had held otherwise, holding that the quartz deposits were not known at the time the placer patent was issued. The ground is valued at $300,000.

APRIL PRODUCTION RECORD-BREAKER

Showing at Butte-Duluth Plant Continues to Improve.

Butte, Mont., May 16.—Within two weeks Supt. C. F. Sherwood of the Butte-Duluth plant expects to have the new crusher and leaching plant in operation. The crusher is ready now for starting. The machine is all in place and the belting in position. Some connections that will require but three or four days to make are all that are necessary to have it in readiness for the ore.

Three of the five leaching machines are in position and the other two in the battery will be put in place in the next week.

Supt. Sherwood is confident that when the entire new plant is in operation the saving in the cost of producing copper by the electrolytic process will be an eye-opener.

The company had expected to make a contract with an outside firm to handle the mining of the ore and its delivery to the crusher, but when it was found that the arrangement was not satisfactory to the miners' union of Butte the contract was passed up. However, the company will go ahead and do its own mining and for the purpose of reducing the expense of getting out the ore, the trapping system will be installed. Two electric locomotives have been purchased and the compressor and air drills will be put into operation. By coming under the ore body and breaking the ore body down to the tunnel level a great saving in expenses for this item will be made.

The April showing at the Butte-Duluth broke all previous records. The total number of tons of ore mined and milled was 3,464. From this 78,380 pounds of electrolytic copper and approximately 22,000 pounds of cement copper was secured. This surpassed all previous months' productions.

The acid consumption per ton during April was 15 per cent less than any former month.

These figures have an important bearing on the prospects for the enlarged plant.

REPORT OF CHIEF CONSOLIDATED

Had $202,257 Surplus After Paying the February Dividend.

The following is a statement of the Chief Consolidated Mining company as of Dec. 31, 1913, including the dividend payable in February:

Debit—
Capital	$ 876,764
Ore sales	1,171,194
Total	$2,047,958
Credit—
Property (500 acres)	$ 871,523
Development	667,051
Equipment $125,771, less $37,649 depreciation	88,122
Dividends	219,000
Surplus	202,257
Total	$2,047,958

The preceding financial statement of the Chief Consolidated company covers its operations to the end of last year, except that the dividend paid Feb. 4, 1914, is included.

It shows that with an issued capital of $876,764 the company has mined and sold $1,171,194 worth of ore, purchased claims and secured mining rights to about 500 acres of ground, expended $125,771 on machinery and equipment, which has been reduced to $88,122 by depreciation charges, and that it has paid $219,000 in dividends and had a balance of cash and cash assets of $202,257 on hand at the end of 1913.

Chief Consolidated is now shipping between 3,500 and 4,000 tons of ore monthly to the custom smelters and recent earnings have been at the rate of something more than $14,000 per month. Net earnings of a little less than $8,000 per month are required to pay semi-annual dividends of 5 cents per share on the stock.

REMARKABLE CAVE IN SHATTUCK MINE

One of the Queerest Natural Caverns Yet Discovered.

What is perhaps the most remarkable natural cavern in this country, if not in the world, was discoveerd the other day in the course of development work in the mine of the Shattuck Arizona Copper company at Bisbee, Ariz., writes a geologist in the Engineering and Mining Journal.

Other caverns somewhat similar have been opened in the Bisbee district. A cavern in one of the older portions of the Copper Queen mine has become famous locally as the auditorium in which a large fraternal organization met in solemn conclave in the earlier days of the camp, and another cavern brought to light more recently in another part of the same mine has been transported almost in its entirety to the museum of natural history in New York. But both of these and others of less renown are insignificant before the one more recently opened.

It was first discovered by a drift on the 300-foot level, which fortuitously struck it at its lowest and in a central point. A drift a few feet on either side would have passed beneath it and have left it perhaps unknown for years.

One's first impression of this great cavern, now electrically lighted, with its stalactite studded dome, is that of the shadowy interior of a Gothic cathedral. Close examination reveals myriad forms of calcite, crystalline and amarphous, with all its vagaries of structure and color. It is apparent from the structure that a lime-impregnated solution has filled portions of the cavern subsequent to the original formation of the stalactites and stalagmites; left its quota of mineral as arborescent, cord-like deposits on the stalagmites, and afterward drained away.

Several conjectures have been advanced to explain the origin of this cavern. It is probable that the shrinkage contingent upon the solidification and cooling of the intrusive mass shattered and opened the rock mass for a great distance above it. The contemporaneous induration of the brecciated material by the siliceous magmatic emanations from the porphyry enabled a further loss in volume. This left a large open space easily accessible to acid meteoric waters which enlarged the cavity to its present size and left it ready for the calcium carbonate.

MINING IN MOST PROFITABLE STAGE

Forty-One Millions in Dividends By 107 Companies This Year.

That mining at present is in the most profitable stage of its existence is evidenced by the reports made to the Mining and Engineering World by American mines and works and other companies which look to mining for their profits. These reports show that 107 of these enterprises have paid dividends so far this year totaling $41,132,971. To date these companies have to their credit dividend payments aggregating $996,532,188. When it is considered that this does not include dividends paid by companies operating coal and iron properties, nor of those companies producing other mineral substances, it is readily seen that mining is one of America's most profitable industries.

In classifying the various reports made to the Mining and Engineering World, it is found that of the 107 companies mentioned above, 24 operate copper properties. During the four months of 1914 these companies paid out dividends amounting to $17,115,371. Since incorporation dividends totaling $409,860,870 have been paid on a combined issued capital of $265,681,715.

Properties classed as gold-silver-lead-zinc producers, to the number of 70, paid dividends during the four months' period totaling $10,840,305. To the end of April these companies have disbursed $254,293,474, or $57,089,385 in excess of outstanding capital. Forty-six of these properties are located in the United States and have to their credit so far this year $6,232,657, and since incorporation, $179,105,171. Eighteen are Canadian properties and their disbursements for the four months total $3,953,781, and since incorporation, $54,878,722. But six Mexican companies report dividend payments in 1914, these having disbursed $653,867. To date these six companies have $20,309,581 to their credit.

Seven metallurgical companies have made disbursements this year of $4,915,222, with total payments of $164,296,324.

Six securities-holding corporations had a profitable four months' period, having divided among shareholders $8,162,073, with total disbursements of $168,082,520.

THE BREAKING OF THE "HOLY GRAIL"

Satisfactory Explanations of the Accident Are Still Lacking.

Rome, May 16.—Both religious devotees and art lovers have learned with regret that the recent reports of the breaking of the "Holy Grail" beyond repair at the cathedral of Genoa are true, although satisfactory explanations of the accident are still lacking. One expert who ascribed the breaking of the ancient basin to dampness in the cathedral is popularly suspected of shielding someone who accidentally broke the vessel.

While it is doubtful that this basin is really the sacred cup around which so much longendary romance of knighthood days was woven, it has been accepted as such by a large number of Catholics.

The vessel was brought to Genoa in 1101 by Guglielmo Embriaco, among the spoils of the conquest of Caesarea. Tradition then said, and has since been followed, that in this octagonal cup, cut from what appeared to be a flawless emerald, Christ drank at the Last Supper, and later in it Joseph of Arimathea preserved the blood from Christ's wounds at the crucifixion.

Napoleon Bonaparte, "the great thief," as they call him here, carried it off to Paris, in 1807, and it was then tested and found to be of glass. It had slight ornamentation and appeared to be finished with the tool as in gem engraving, while the color and transparency were perfect. When reclaimed by Italy it was so badly packed that it was broken in the return and mended with gold filigree. Once before it left the cathedral, in 1319, when it was given as security by the town of Genoa for money needed for military defence. Eight years passed before it was returned.

TAX REDUCTION MAY BE RESULT

Persons With Children Cannot Rent Flats in Vienna.

Vienna, May 16.—The refusal of landlords in Vienna to rent flats to persons with children has become such an obstacle to families of the working classes that they are suffering real hardship in their quest for suitable living quarters. The condition of affairs has been presented to the city council and a proposal made to lower the taxes on houses whose owners would permit children to live in them. While this particular motion was shelved it is not improbable that something may be done in this direction. Since taxes on house property in Vienna amount to more than 42 per cent of the gross rentals, any reduction would be extremely welcome.

Workers living in suburbs are found to be badly crowded, as many as eight persons sometimes occupying a flat that consists of one small room and a kitchen.

COPENHAGEN HAS MUNICIPAL LOTTERY.

Copenhagen, May 16.—Every ride on a street car in Copenhagen is now accompanied by an irresistible temptation to participate in a municipal lottery. The litter of used tickets which passengers throw into the streets was such a serious annoyance that the city decided to make the tickets valuable as lottery coupons. Automatic machines have been placed at the various trolley stations, and when the passenger steps from his car he may convert his used ticket into a lottery coupon by inserting an oere, (about the equivalent of half a cent). The machine stamps the ticket with its number in the drawing. Every month goods of local manufacture are given as premiums in this lottery.

Denmark's ideal methods of agriculture will be exhibited in Russia by motion pictures. A Russian court official, Leonidas V. Plankhoff, will tour the agricultural districts of Russia, showing the pictures and explaining the methods which have made Danish farming the standard of Europe.

DEVELOPING THE HEIFER—I

By PROF. J. A. M'CLEAN.
Department Animal Husbandry Massachusetts State Agricultural College.

Improvement in the dairy can be achieved only by raising and developing heifers into cows that are superior to their mothers. The proper selection of the sire is one of the greatest influences in the improvement of the herd, but of equal importance is the growing and developing of the young things after they are born, for the best bred calf may develop into a scrub cow if it receives scrub treatment.

Granting that the calf is born right, due care must be taken particularly during its first three months. For the first twenty-four hours, let it suck its mother. This is better for both the cow and the calf. After the first day remove the youngster from its mother and for at least ten days feed upon whole milk. If the calf is doing well at the end of that time skim milk may gradually be substituted for the whole milk, till by the end of three weeks the calf is entirely upon skim milk. As soon as the calf will begin to eat grain feed a mixture of bran, corn and crushed oats mixed in equal parts by weight, allowing it to have as much as it will clean up twice a day. The skim-milk should be continued until six months of age, although the amount should never greatly exceed fifteen pounds per day.

Develop Digestive Capacity.

At about six weeks of age calves generally begin to eat roughage, and it is very important to furnish them with as much roughage of excellent quality as they will eat, for hay or grass are necessary for the proper development of the calf. We want our dairy cows to have great digestive capacity; to get this they must begin early to eat good hay. There is no better hay than alfalfa of high quality. Where it is not obtainable mixed clover hay or rowen will be found most excellent. To the above feeds add healthful conditions such as comfortable, moderately warm quarters, fresh air, cleanliness, sunlight (clean feed pails and feed troughs or buckets are absolutely essential) and exercising opportunities and at the end of six months the heifer should have made an excellent start.

Most calves are dropped in the spring of the year; yet I believe better results are obtained if the heifers dropped in the early fall are kept for the herd, for calves dropped then are nearly six months old when grass comes and are then large enough to withstand flies and other summer troubles and can make the best use of the grass. Spring calves will do as well if kept in the stables during the first summer, for, like children, they are subject to slight disorders, which although not serious should not be neglected.

THE WATER SUPPLY PROBLEM.

How Shall It Be Pumped and Stored?

Those who choose to live beyond the town water supply must devise their own water system, and this supply will come either from a stream, spring or a dug or driven well and will, in all probability, have to be pumped to a supply tank for distribution. If there is a never failing stream on the property with a sufficient fall a hydraulic ram may be used and is, perhaps, the most economical way of pumping, for if properly installed it can be depended upon to do its own work continuously and with but little attention. The fall of water required to operate a ram is from two feet upward, and it will push water to a distance of 500 feet and elevate it thirty feet for every foot of fall.

Having no stream, a driven well is safer to use than a shallow well (which draws its water from the upper strata of soil and may easily become contaminated), and a windmill will provide an inexpensive power, requiring only an occasional oiling, painting and the wind to turn the fan, but, as the latter is unreliable, be sure to provide a generous sized tank.

Different Kinds of Engines.

There are several kinds of engines for pumping water. The hot air engine is built especially for such work and has no superior (except the electric pump where the current is cheap) and is economical to operate, the fuel being either coal or kerosene. Gasoline engines can, of course, be put to many different uses, among them pumping water. They come in all sizes and, like the gas engine, are economical to operate. On farms where a gasoline engine is in demand a portable one may be purchased and, when needed for pumping, belted to the pump by a shaft and pully. The pump in this case should be placed in a small house over the well.

The electric pump has the advantage of starting and stopping automatically—a decided point in its favor when used in connection with air pressure water storage tanks. There are four ways of storing water in general use: in tanks of wood, which are inexpensive, but should not be allowed to become empty or they will shrink; in steel or concrete tanks set on steel or concrete supports (the former must be kept painted and are expensive to erect, the latter are also expensive but last indefinitely); in reservoirs, only used when there is a hill or to supplement a tank, and in air pressure tanks, which, when installed in the cellar with the pump attached, give little or no trouble and are inexpensive and convenient to maintain.

THE SUMMER RANGE.

The Growing Pullet Appreciates Freedom.

PROF. H. R. LEWIS.
New Jersey Agrl. Experiment Station.

Of all the problems confronting poultrymen the successful rearing of growing stock is the most vital. The question is one of inducing a continuous rapid development from hatching time to maturity.

Success depends upon giving growing pullets and cokerels ideal environmental conditions, such as an extended range, plenty of natural shade, fresh air houses and abundance of green, succulent food material in addition to a well balanced grain ration.

Free range is ideal, being conducive to uniform material in the form of grubs, insects and green grass. The more range given the birds the more sanitary their surroundings, for the droppings will be well distributed and will more quickly leach into the soil. When necessary to closely confine growing stock during the summer the area available should be divided into two runs and each alternately seeded to green crops.

Shade Essential.

Adequate shade is also essential, giving protection against the rays of the sun, and a growing bush or tree is the best, as more moisture is present than where artificial shelters of boards or burlap are used. The orchard is a good place to rear pullets, and the cornfield is another portion of the average farm which furnishes ideal range. Sunflowers, corn, castor beans and soy beans are some annuals which can well be planted for shade, and peach, apple and plum trees make excellent, permanent shade.

A constant supply of green food is necessary for the best development, and where birds are on free range there is, usually plenty of greensward, though on restricted areas crops, such as peas and oats, buckwheat, soy beans, rye, vetch and crimson clover, can be seeded to provide a continuous supply.

During hot summer nights all the protection which chicks need are cheap shelters, relatively wide open, and hence cool and well ventilated. Shed roof shelters, open in front and both sides, with provision for confining birds against enemies, is all that is necessary, and a shelter 6 by 8 feet will house fifty pullets to maturity.

The food supply should be determined by the condition of the range. A well balanced dry mash, kept in large hoppers, supplemented by corn and wheat (equal parts), fed broadcast morning and night with plenty of fresh water are the essentials for continuous growth and early maturity.

WHAT DOES THE CROP NEED?

An Experiment Plot Furnishes the Answer.

By P. K. EDWARDS.

One way of solving the many interesting and puzzling problems in the soil and plant kingdom is by an experiment plot. Here light may be obtained as to the natural peculiarities of soil, or the special effects of fertilizer on certain crops, or in what degree to supplement stable manure for fertilizer, or under what fixed conditions the ambitious garden lover may obtain the most gratifying results for flowers and vegetables. In starting this miniature farm, then, use substantial stakes at the corners of the plot, and mark them plainly 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, leaving a space of two feet between each two plots to prevent the plants on one plot from feeding on the other. Make each plot 6 by 24 feet and plant the same crop on all the different plots. Take winter potatoes, for example. On plot 1 spread 10 pounds of dried blood and 15 pounds acid phosphate mixed (where the amount used is so small it can be distributed more evenly by mixing it with its weight in earth); on plot 2 spread 7½ pounds sulphate of potash and dried blood mixed; on plot 3 use no fertilizer; on plot 4 use 7½ pounds potash and 15 pounds acid phosphate mixed; on plot 5 use 7½ pounds potash, 15 pounds acid phosphate and 10 pounds dried blood, and on plot 6 use only stable manure. Take great care not to sow any fertilizer on the spaces between the plots, and after the fertilizer has been spread, harrow the plots thoroughly lengthwise.

Comparing the Plots.

The blank plot 3 must not in any way be overlooked or neglected, for with it are to be compared all the other plots in order to see just what have been the benefits derived from fertilizing. To make clear what such an experiment may be, suppose, for instance, the yield on plot 3, where no fertilizer was applied, is represented by the number 100; the yield on plot 1 by the number 150; on plot 2, 160; on 4, 140; on 5, 175. With these numbers it is proved each of the three fertilizers is beneficial, for were it otherwise, the yield on plot 5, where all the fertilizers were used, would not have been greater than on plots 1, 2 and 4, on each of which only two fertilizers were used. It is always of importance to keep a notebook, jotting down everything of interest concerning the plots (such as measuring each separate yield), and information gained soon enables the experimenter to buy the exact fertilizing elemnts necessary for his soil and crops and to mix and apply them in the proper proportions.

SILAGE AN EXCELLEN" FEED FOR DAIRY CATTLE

Washington, May 16.—Silage is the main reliance of dairy farmers in many sections for cow feed, since it has been found to be particularly well adapted as feed in this connection, is the statement contained in Farmers' Bulletin 578, United States department of agriculture. While silage is an excellent feed for dairy stock, it should be combined with some other leguminous feed, such as clover, cow peas, alfalfa, owing to its insufficient productive quality.

The leguminous material will tend to correct the deficiencies of the silage in dry matter, protein and mineral constituents. A ration of silage and, say, alfalfa hay alone is satisfactory, however, only for cows which are dry or giving only a small amount of milk and for heifers and bulls. Cows in full milk require some concentrated feed in addition to hay and silage, as they cannot consume enough of these feeds to keep up a large flow of milk and maintain body weight.

The amount of silage to feed a cow will depend upon the capacity of the animal to consume feed. She should be fed as much as she will clean up without waste when consumed along with her hay and grain. Raise or lower the amount until the proper quantity is ascertained. Generally speaking, a good cow should be fed just short of the limit of her appetite. If she refuses any of her feed it should be reduced at once. The small breeds will eat 25 or 30 pounds per day; the large breeds 40 or more; and the medium-sized ones amounts varying between.

Ironclad directions for feeding cows cannot be given. In general, however, they should be supplied with all the roughage they will clean up with grain in proportion to butterfat produced. The hay will ordinarily range between five and twelve pounds per cow per day when fed in connection with silage. For Holsteins one pound of concentrates for each four pounds of milk produced will prove about right. For Jerseys one pound for each three pounds of milk or less will come nearer meeting the requirements. The grain for other breeds will vary between these two, according to the quality of milk produced. A good rule is to feed seven times as much grain as there is butterfat produced.

The following rations will be found good:

For a 1,300-pound cow yielding forty pounds of milk testing 3.5 per cent:

	Pounds.
Silage	40
Clover, cowpea, or alfalfa hay	10
Grain mixture	10

For the same cow yielding twenty pounds of 3.5 per cent milk:

	Pounds.
Silage	40
Clover, cowpea, or alfalfa hay	5
Grain mixture	5

For a 900-pound cow yielding thirty pounds of 5 per cent milk:

	Pounds.
Silage	30
Clover, cowpea, or alfalfa hay	10
Grain mixture	5

For the same cow yielding fifteen pounds of 5 per cent milk:

	Pounds.
Silage	30
Clover, cowpea, or alfalfa hay	8
Grain mixture	5

A good grain mixture to be used in a ration which includes silage and some sort of leguminous hay is composed of:

	Parts.
Corn chop	4
Wheat bran	2
Linseed oil meal or cottonseed meal	1

In case the hay used is not of this kind some of the corn chop may be replaced by linseed or cottonseed meal. In many instances brewers' dried grains or crushed oats may be profitably substituted for the bran, and oftentimes gluten products can be used to advantage in place of bran or oil meals.

The time to feed silage is directly after milking or at least several hours before milking. If fed immediately before milking the silage odors may pass through the cow's body into the milk. Besides, the milk may receive some taints directly from the stable air. On the other hand, if feeding is done subsequent to milking, the volatile silage odors will have been thrown off before the next milking hour. Silage is usually fed twice a day.

Calves may be fed silage as soon as they are old enough to eat it. It is perhaps of greater importance that the silage be free from mold or decay when given to calves than when given to mature stock. They may be given all the silage they will eat up clean at all times. Yearling calves will consume about one-half as much as mature stock; that is, from 15 to 20 or more pounds a day. When supplemented with some good leguminous hay, little, if any, grain will be required to keep the calves in a thrifty, growing condition.

One of the most trying seasons of the year for the dairy cow is the latter part of summer and early fall. At this season the pastures are often short or dried up, and in such cases it is a common mistake of dairymen to let their cows drop off in flow of milk through lack of feed. Later they find it impossible to restore the milk flow, no matter how the cows are fed. Good dairy practice demands that the milk flow be maintained at a high level all the time from parturition to drying off. It becomes necessary, therefore, to supply some feed to take the place of the grass. The easiest way to do this is by means of silage. Silage is cheaper and decidedly more convenient to use than soiling crops.

The amounts of feed will depend upon the condition of the pastures, varying all the way from ten pounds to a full winter feed of forty pounds. It should be remembered in this connection that silage contains a low percentage of protein, so that the greater the amount of silage fed the greater must be the amount of protein in the supplementary feeds to properly balance the ration.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

By LE ROY CADY,
Associate Horticulturist, University Farm, St. Paul.

Late cabbage may be sown in the cold frame or open ground.

Keep the cultivator busy in both garden and orchard. It pays.

Gladioli and dahlias may be set out the latter part of the month.

Plan several sowings of peas, beans, spinach, corn, radish and lettuce.

To get a succession of gladioli, make several plantings of the bulbs.

Do not prune spring-flowering shrubs until after they have flowered.

A planting of sweet corn should be made as soon as all danger from frost is over.

Alderman or Nott's Excelsior peas may be sown any time before the middle of May.

Don't sow seed on poorly prepared land. It means more work and often poor returns.

Hardwood ashes are fine to put on the fruit plants, and may also be used in the garden.

Swiss chard, or leaf beet, makes excellent greens and will last much later in the season than spinach.

Treat all potatoes before planting with corrosive sublimate or formalin for scab. Then plant on clean land.

There is still time to do some top-working and to set out some ornamental plants and shrubs about the house.

Cut asparagus just below the surface of the ground rather than break it. Breaking is apt to injure the crowns.

Asparagus is growing nicely. Are you enjoying cuttings from your own bed? It is not too late to set out a bed for future years.

Harden off all plants before setting in the open ground. This is done by reducing the amount of water given and giving more air to the plant. It is simply a hardening of the tissues to withstand field conditions better.

FLOUR INSECTS.

By F. L. Washburn, Entomologist, University Farm, St. Paul.

Sometimes weevils and so-called "bugs" found by a housekeeper in her flour are there because of carelessness in keeping the flour bins clean. Generally, however, these pests come from the mill from which the flour or meal was purchased. To avoid criticism in this connection, millers should not only practice the greatest care in keeping their mills clean, but resort occasionally to fumigation.

Hydrocyanic acid gas is the best agent for this purpose, since it in no way injures dry mill products of any kind, and the fact that it is extremely poisonous makes one very careful in handling it.

Heating all parts of a mill up to 122 deg. F., and holding it at that point for several hours will also kill mill pests and their eggs. Insects in grain stored in bins or elevators call for treatment with bisulphide of carbon the gas from which is inflammable. The process is attended with more danger than is the hydrocyanic acid gas treatment.

SECONDARY CAUSES OF DISEASE.

Aside from germs there are secondary causes, or predisposing or contributing factors, which simply make it easier for disease germs to get a foothold in a living body, and produce their own disease there. Contributing causes lower the vitality or natural resistance of a person or an animal, and render that individual or animal less able to fight off diseases when exposed to them. Secondary causes or predisposing factors that may be mentioned are improper food; impure drinking water; uncleanliness; insanitary surroundings, such as poor drainage, lack of sunshine, and insufficient ventilation; overwork, and exposure to extremes of heat and cold. By avoiding and correcting these, whenever and wherever possible, much disease will be avoided.

Bulletin 44 of the Farmers' library contains much useful information regarding the cause, prevention and cure of diseases of animals. Write to the Office of Publications, University farm, St. Paul, and a copy will be mailed to you free.

NEW HORSE DISEASE.

By W. L. BOYD,
Assistant Veterinarian, University Farm, St. Paul.

Dourine is popularly known as equine syphilis, horse pox, breeding-disease, and covering-disease.

It is very probable that range mares from a large dourine-infected district in Montana have been shipped out of Montana and into neighboring states, including Minnesota. Some mares that were known to have been exposed and some that were actually affected with dourine were shipped into Minnesota during the past year. The shipment was reported by Federal authorities to our state live stock sanitary board and the affected animals were promptly destroyed. It is easily possible that other exposed mares, showing at the time no symptoms of the disease, have been shipped into this state, hence the issuance of this bulletin as a warning to owners of horse-breeding stock to be thoroughly on guard.

It seems advisable to issue a general warning to all owners of horse-breeding stock, especially to owners of stallions which are liable to come in contact with Western mares, urging them not to allow their stallions to serve range mares that have not been in Minnesota for more than one year.

Owners of mares should not patronize stallions that have come from Montana, North Dakota, or South Dakota within three years, or other stallions, unless their breeding-history is well known. Owners of healthy breeding-stock cannot afford to take chances. Infected stallions should be castrated and infected mares killed, regardless of value.

All horsemen who do not already have full information with regard to dourine should secure the free bulletin on the subject, recently published by the agricultural extension division. It may be secured by addressing the Office of Publications, University Farm, St. Paul.

CO-OPERATIVE GRAIN MARKETING IN CANADA.

By L. D. H. WELD,
Agricultural Economist, University Farm, St. Paul.

The Grain Growers' Grain company of Canada is undoubtedly the largest farmers' marketing organization on the American continent, and represents one of the most important developments in co-operative marketing the world over. This company was organized by the farmers of Saskatchewan and Manitoba in 1906, and established a selling agency in Winnipeg, where it became a member of the organized grain exchange.

The growth of the company has been phenomenal. During the first year it marketed 2,340,000 bushels of grain; in 1910 it marketed 16,333,000 bushels; and in 1913, almost 30,000,000 bushels. It has a subscribed capital of $810,000, of which $646,000 has been paid in. There are over 14,000 stockholders; all of whom are farmers. The company pays 10 per cent dividends on stock, and places surplus profits in a reserve, which now amounts to nearly $200,000.

In addition to the selling of grain in the Winnipeg market, the Grain Growers' Grain company now operates under lease 170 country elevators owned by the Manitoba government, and two of the best terminal elevators of the Canadian Pacific railroad at Fort William on Lake Superior. The company has also purchased a third elevator at Fort William, which is a well-equipped cleaning house with $45,000 worth of machinery. Late in 1913 it purchased a small elevator in Vancouver, B. C.

But this is not all. The Grain Growers' Grain company operates under lease a small flour mill, and distributes the product among local associations of grain growers in carload lots, saving them from 30 to 40 cents per half-barrel sack, distributes coal in carload lots among farmers, saving them from $2 to $3 a ton, and brings apples in carload lots direct from the Co-operative Fruit Association of Ontario to the grain growers of Western Canada.

The company has also purchased a vast timber tract in Western Canada, where it expects to erect sawmills, with a view of distributing lumber in carload lots. Not content with these various activities this farmers' company owns a printing establishment in Winnipeg and publishes its own paper, the Grain Growers' Guide, one of the leading farm papers of the Dominion.

To carry on this vast business the Grain Growers' Grain company has offices in Winnipeg, Fort William, Calgary, and Vancouver. It has 350 employees during the busy part of the year. The company is still growing and has unlimited ambitions for the future.

A Hint for Coming Maternity

In a little book designed for expectant mothers more complete instruction is given in the use of "Mother's Friend." This is an external embrocation applied to the abdominal muscles for the purpose of reducing the strain on ligaments, cords and tendons.

It serves to ease the mind, indirectly has a most beneficial effect upon the nervous system and thousands of women have delightedly told how they were free of nausea, had no morning sickness and went through the ordeal with most remarkable success. "Mother's Friend" has been growing in popular favor for more than forty years. In almost every community are grandmothers who used it themselves, their daughters have used it and they certainly must know what a blessing it is when they recommend it so warmly. It is used very successfully to prevent caking of breasts.

"Mother's Friend" has been prepared in the laboratory of Bradfield Regulator Co 304 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for more than two generations and can be had of almost any druggist from coast to coast. Write to-day for the little book.

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY

St. Paul Girl Is to Be the First Bachelor of Music.

A. J. McDermid of Duluth Mining Representative on Gopher Board.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Grace Donohue of St. Paul is to be the first bachelor of music at the university and she is the only candidate for the degree this year. It is forty-one years since the University of Minnesota granted its first degree. In that time according to the records of the registrar, 10,300 degrees have been issued along the line of literature, medicine, science, dentistry and the like, but now by recent act of the board of regents, music has been put on par with other subjects. Accordingly, Miss Donohue who has specialized in music for four years is the first student to receive B. A. in music from Minnesota.

Axel Bratt, graduate student at the university, recently received word that he had been chosen one of the three or four students in the United States to receive scholarship of the American Scandinavian society. He will leave in August to spend a year in the study of the Scandinavian literature at the University of Upsala. This is the second time that this scholarship has been awarded to a Minnesota man, H. Olson having received one of the first scholarships three years ago.

Twelve university girls under the guidance of the faculty women's club are to make an experiment in the cottage plan of housekeeping next fall. The first step was taken, when the faculty women procured the cottage at 113 Church street. It will be furnished to accommodate twelve students and a chaperone will be engaged to live with the girls. The faculty women's clubs believe that it will be possible for the girls to live at the house for approximately $16 a month. A set of rules will be drawn up for the guidance of the girls, who will enjoy practically all the advantages they would have in their own homes.

According to plans for the new Biology building which is to be erected this fall, nearly three-quarters of the top floor will be devoted to the proper display of specimens. At present, many valuable displays have been neglected because of lack of space. One of the most interesting specimens in the museum will be the caribou group, recently presented to the university by James Ford Bell, of the class of 1901. Prof. H. N. Nachtrieb, head of the department, says a year will pass before the new building is completed and a transfer from the old is made.

As a testimonial of thirty-four years of service in the university, Retiring Dean and Mrs. Downey were given a farewell reception at the Hotel Radisson Thursday evening. The reception was attended by a large number of the faculty and numerous friends of the dean and his wife. Dr. Vincent acted as toastmaster, besides giving a short talk. Dr. W. W. Folwell and Miss Maria Sanford spoke of Dean Downey's service and of his future. Acting for the faculty, Dr. Richard Burton presented the dean with a gold watch suitably engraved, and Mrs. Downey with a large bouquet from Regent Summers, who was unavoidably absent.

The Ben Greet Shakespearean players will appear on the campus in an afternoon and evening performance Tuesday, June 9, under the direction of the senior class. Another performance will be given under the same management the evening of June 10 in Loring park. The plays to be given are the "Midsummer Night's Dream," "As You Like It" and "The Tempest." The contract guarantees that Mr. Greet himself will appear in every performance, with a full company of English players. The senior class has voted to turn over all the money made on the undertaking to the Minnesota Men's union, to be used in remodeling the chemistry building.

The intersociety debate cup went to the Shakopean Literary society by their defeat of the Philomatheans Tuesday evening. The question was, "Resolved, That the Patronage of Mail Order Houses Is Justifiable." The Shakopean team, which upheld the negative, was composed of J. J. Hedler, Edwin Dahlberg and Rudolph Wosmek. The decision of the judges was unanimously for the negative, this being the only debate in the series in which the negative won. This is the second successive time that the Shakopeans have won the intersociety cup. If they retain it in the next year's debate series, the cup will be permanently theirs.

Summer school bulletins for work in three colleges, academic, medicine and agriculture, have been issued for the term from June 15 to July 24. Although most of the courses are elementary and undergraduate, a number of courses are offered in which graduate credit may be earned. No more than six credit hours may be taken. The class sessions will be so arranged as to permit students to attend as many sessions of the N. E. A. in St. Paul as possible. The admission fee is $5 and $10 for each course, with $3 extra for laboratory courses. Sanford and Shevlin halls will be open this summer for the first time, and the Shevlin cafeteria will serve the men as well as the women.

STATE HAS PROFIT OF MANY MILLIONS.

Vienna, May 16.—Notwithstanding that the Austrian government's tobacco monopoly three years ago increased the retail price of cigars and cigarettes, the smoking habit appears to have held its ground, yielding to the state a clear profit of many million dollars a year. The tobacco monopoly's report for 1912, which has just been issued, shows $43,000,000 profit, an increase of about $3,000,000 over the preceding year.

Cigars had a great falling off, there being only 1,154,000,000 cigars smoked during 1912, a decrease of 82,000,000 as compared with the previous year, but the consumption of cigarets reached the enormous total of 6,222,000,000.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

NEW CONTRACTS LET DURING WEEK MAKE BIG SHOWING

Fine Residences, New Elevator, Store Building and Apartment House.

Force of 300 Men Employed on the "Model Town."

In the nature of the work and aggregate amount, the building record of the present week made a gratifying showing. Thirty-nine permits were issued at the building inspector's office for which the cost of the improvements was placed at $130,410.

In the list was included authorizations for the construction of the new home being built for Cassius H. Bagley on Twenty-fifth avenue east, near First street, to cost $27,400, and for a brick and tile residence for B. Silberstein on Twenty-first avenue east, near First street, to involve an outlay of $15,000.

A permit for $8,800 was taken out by the Suburban Home Building company to cover four frame dwellings to be built on Minneapolis avenue, between Osakis and Isanti streets.

A permit for a brick store to go up on Central avenue, between Ramsey and Bristol streets, West Duluth, to cost $10,000, was issued to A. Fieldman.

An interesting feature of the week came in the announcement of the letting of the contract by the Cargill Elevator company to the Barnett & Record company for the rebuilding of the working house of the Belt Line elevators, destroyed by fire on April 25. The work will involve an expenditure of approximately $150,000 and is to be pushed to completion by Sept 15. The structure will be of frame and will have an unloading capacity of eighty cars a day.

Model Town.

The Lounsberry-McLeod company is employing a force of more than 300 men in carrying through its contract for the building of 170 houses in the Minnesota Steel company's model town at Spirit Lake. A number of additional foundations were started this week and the erection of the cement block superstructures is proceeding upon forty other foundations put in this spring.

According to plans just filed at the city building inspector's office, a street car spur line is projected from Smithville into the town and a cement sidewalk is also to be carried through from the same point.

It has been felt by some that the present housing code imposes a serious bar in building operations, resulting in the holding back of considerable work.

The agitation for the expunging of the objectionable features took definite form yesterday afternoon as the result of a joint conference between architects and builders and members of the Building Managers' association held at the offices of the Builders' exchange. The various provisions of the ordinance were discussed and a number of changes suggested. A joint committee was appointed to prepare amendments to the code and to report at a meeting to be held at the Commercial club next Wednesday. E. J. Zauft, president of the Builders' exchange, was elected chairman of the committee, and J. H. Cook, Jr., secretary of the exchange, was appointed its secretary.

New Apartment House.

Duluth's coterie of apartment houses is to be augmented in the erection of a modern building of that type at Seventh avenue east and Second street for Adolph Marotta.

The building will be a three-story brick with stone trimmings, containing nine apartments of five rooms each, and it will involve an approximate investment of $33,000. It is to have reinforced concrete floors and staircases, making it as fireproof as possible. Each apartment will be equipped with a balcony. Modernly equipped kitchens and other appointments are to be provided, and the interior is to be of hardwood finish throughout. The general contract, including the plumbing and steam heating, has been let to Jacobson Bros. Work will be started at once with a view to the building being ready for occupancy by Oct. 1. The plans were prepared and the building designed by Holstead & Sullivan, architects.

Anderson & Gow have been awarded the contract for a brick residence for J. S. Lutts of Biwabik, Minn., to be built on East Sixth street at an approximate cost of $12,000. The plans were prepared by Bray & Nystrom.

Those architects will also have plans ready for figures in two weeks for a four-room frame school costing $10,000 to be built in the Buhl district.

Bids on the proposed technical high school at Eveleth, Minn., will be opened next week. It will be of two-story brick, of mill construction, involving an estimated outlay of $50,000. The plans were prepared by Bray & Nystrom, architects.

Plans are being prepared by the same architects, and will go out for figures next Monday, for an office building for the Miners' National bank at Eveleth. It will be of brick, two stories and a basement, and will cost about $20,000.

The contract for the proposed Soudan, Minn., four-room frame school, has been awarded to Willcutts & Son at $15,000. Bray & Nystrom were the architects in the job.

* * *

The building of an addition to the Central Baptist church at West Duluth is proposed. The structure will be of brown brick, and will involve an outlay of several thousand dollars. Kelly & Williams, architects, are now engaged upon the plans.

The same architects will have the plans ready to go out for figures next week for the proposed Gowan and Moore schools in the Floodwood district.

They are besides preparing specifications for the remodeling of the Duluth Trunk company's store front on Superior street west.

The Glencoe Building company is completing the remodeling of the premises formerly occupied by the Kitchi Gammi club on First street west. As a result of the changes, thirty offices are afforded. Half the number have been already leased, according to John A. Stephenson & Co., rental agents for the building.

* * *

Figures for a two-story brick business block to be built for P. Sher & Co., on First street east, near Lake avenue, are now in the hands of the architects, Lignell & Loebeck, and it is expected the contract will be let early next week. The cost of the building is estimated at $10,000.

REAL ESTATE DEALS OF WEEK REFLECT INDUSTRIAL PLANS

Another Coal Dock Is in Prospect for Rice's Point.

Negotiations for Big Factory Site for West Duluth.

An important real estate development of the present week came in the intimation that the Northwestern Fuel company had obtained options on property at Rice's Point with a view to building a coal dock in the near future. The water front secured in the vicinity of Elm avenue, will entail an approximate outlay of $150,000, and the cost of the proposed coal handling plant is placed at $750,000.

To assist the company in its enterprise, the city commissioners have tentatively approved of the vacation of the submerged end of Elm avenue.

Other interesting moves covering industrial propositions are reported to be on the tapis, and it is expected that an agreement covering the transfer of a large tract in West Duluth to be utilized as a factory site will be closed within the next ten days or two weeks. Negotiations are also in progress for the sale of a valuable business property.

Transactions during the week were largely monopolized in residence sales, in which as the records show, a fair quota were put through. Inquiry for all classes of house property is reported by operators to be the best in their experience in years, and the expectations now are that with the incoming of more seasonable weather, the volume of business will be substantially augmented from now on.

Real Estate Code Adopted.

Satisfaction is expressed by Duluth realty operators over the success attending their efforts to standardize the business. It is generally conceded that the local real estate exchange has done good service in the direction of promoting uniformity in methods of transacting business that has been found to work to the advantage of its members and their clients.

Through its membership in the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges the exchange here is affiliated with similar boards in ninety-two other cities.

One of the subjects that has had considerable attention at the annual conventions of the national organization has been the frequent exploitation of questionable land and subdivision properties and strong resolutions against that practice have been adopted. The sixth annual convention, held at Winnipeg last July, adopted a definite code of ethics, dealing with that and other matters, consisting of twenty-three distinct requirements. Copies of the code are now in the hands of members of the Duluth real estate exchange.

N. J. Upham has returned from Omaha, where he attended a meeting of the International Realty associates. Satisfaction was expressed over the outlook for a successful sale of the associates' Waverly Park proposition to be pressed next month by members of the Duluth real estate exchange. Judging from the advance inquiry being received, it is expected by Mr. Upham that the entire tract of thirty-six acres will be disposed of within ten days.

Bids were opened yesterday morning for the grading and paving of Victoria street from Woodland avenue extending about 1,200 feet easterly to its intersection with Thirty-fourth avenue east. Victoria street runs along the south line of Waverly park. The job will be let at once and will be pushed through to a speedy finish. It will have a cement curb and gutter and will be graded the full width.

The promoters of Waverly park are congratulating themselves on the beautiful view that can be had from all parts of that sub-division, but especially from Lakeview drive. This is seen more since the trees have been thinned out and the underbrush removed. People who will live at Waverly park therefore will have the advantages that come to residents of Hunter's Park, and in addition will have the lake view that will go to make their homes complete. There are many beautiful trees and evergreens dotted over the tract. The work of grading Sixth street is well under way and the sewers in four streets are already installed.

The Pulford-How company sold for A. H. Wallace to J. McCurdy, a house and lot on Twelfth avenue east at $4,000.

* * *

The Greenfield Realty company reported the receipt of earnest money on the sale of two houses at Lakeside. That office also disposed of two building lots there for improvement.

* * *

The Hoopes-Kohagen company sold two acre tracts in its North Homeland addition. The company is pushing ahead with the grading of streets and the installing of sewers in the Park Drive addition in the vicinity of Chester park, with a view of placing the property on the market in the near future.

* * *

E. W. Markell sold to C. Pearson, a lot on McCulloch street, Lakeside. He advised a good inquiry for lots in the Greysolon addition on Superior street east.

* * *

The Alliance Real Estate company sold six tracts at Exeter Farms during the week. About one-half of the 625 acres comprised in the tract are reported to have been disposed of since it was first placed on the market last July. Eighteen families are now living in the addition, and a number of other buyers are preparing to clear their holdings and build homes during the present season.

WHIMS OF AN INFAMOUS JUDGE

The Early Day English Jurist Jeffries Was a Splendid Example of the Menace in the Unchecked Power of the Bench.

There is no better source of "human interest" stories than an old law book. Though centuries have passed since the quaint, stiff phrases on the yellow edged pages were warm breath in the mouths of living men, the great human tragi-comedy was as tragic and as comic then as now, and the record of human passions and absurdities as clear as if it were made yesterday.

Take "Corbett's State Trials," for instance. It was printed only a little over a century ago, but contains reports of proceedings from the earliest period of the English courts.

The infamous Judge Jeffries presided over the trials reported in Volume 10, 1680 to 1685, and it is a sickening record. Under the bloodthirsty laws of that time, an unfit judge could commit atrocities such as we can hardly bring ourselves to read of nowadays. There are pages of dialogue in the old law books, however, where tragedy hides for a moment behind roaring farce, and we forget our horror while we gasp and stare and laugh at the extraordinary antics which a man, insane with power, could descend to.

He Dearly Loved to Talk.

Jeffries evidently liked his job, for one thing. The ancient and dignified Court of King's Bench was to him simply the place where nobody could keep him from doing as he pleased. He liked to talk, to contradict people, to bully them, to scare them, to lecture them, to get even with those against whom he had a grudge and the bench was his chance.

Entirely characteristic was his response to poor Joseph Hayes, charged with high treason on the basis of a letter which he insisted he never wrote, and who asked for counsel, objecting to certain evidence.

"You are under a mistake; somebody has put it into your head and puffed you up with a vain story; there is no such thing, it is a fiction, a mere whim, only said by Mr. Sidney and no ground in the world for it," exploded the judge.

Hayes meekly but unwisely ventured to inquire, "Was it not so in the case of my Lady Carr? There is a record of that, I suppose?"

"It was not so. Don't talk of it; there was no such thing at all," the court snapped.

Unwise, Because Right.

Hayes' persistence in this matter was particularly unwise because he was right as to the record. Nothing made Judge Jeffries madder than to be opposed by somebody who was in the right. He was evidently still peeved when, a little later, Hayes again raised some point of evidence and asked for counsel.

"No," roars his lordship; "it is an idle whim, and I would fain know the counsel that put that foolish notion into your head."

"If you will allow me counsel," pleads Hayes desperately, "you shall hear who they are; I have been told the law is so."

"We are of another opinion," observes Judge Jeffries grandly. "If any whimsical notions are put into you by some enthusiastic counsel, the court is not to take notice of their crotchets."

"I am not a man of that quality," protests Hayes later, "to give Sir T. A 150 guineas." And then the court had his chance:

"We all know you have been a very active man, a busy fellow about the city; as forward a spark as any I know of a great while. I don't know what you talk of your quality, but we know your qualifications; you have always been factious and turbulent against the king and government."

Much Given to Reflecting.

One trouble with Judge Jeffries was that he wanted to be the whole show—judge, jury, attorneys, complainant, witnesses and everything else. He evidently would have liked to be the executioner, too, judging from the relish with which he dwelt on the punishments it was in his power to inflict.

His charges to juries were gems.

"Gentlemen of the jury," the court began in the Hayes case, "this is an indictment of high treason against the prisoner at the bar; and you are to try it according to your evidence. The prisoner's affirmation of his innocence is not to weigh with you. Nay, I must tell you, I cannot but, upon this occasion, make a little reflection—" whereupon he proceeded to "reflect" at much length, all the reflections being inflammatory in character and taking the guilt of the accused absolutely for granted. "Reflections" from the bench were one of Judge Jeffries' strong weaknesses, anyway.

Attorneys Suffered Also.

It is pleasant to know that Hayes was acquitted after all, as a jury of hard-headed old Britons was unable to find that anything had been proved against him.

Attorneys in Judge Jeffries' court had an awful time of it. He was always watching for a chance to give them what he called "a lick with the rough side of his tongue," and he had a fine vocabulary of abuse, which he loved to use.

"Refer yourself to all that hear you!" he bellows to unlucky Counsel Wallop, in the case of Brandon & Speke, "refer yourself to the court; 'tis a reflection upon the government, I tell you, your question is, and you shan't do any such thing while I sit here, by the grace of God, if I can help it!"

"I am sorry," quavers Mr. Wallop, "I never intended any such thing, my lord.

"Pray behave yourself as you ought, Mr. Wallop; you must not think to huff and swagger here," the court admonished him; and added, still rumbling with indignation: "We have got such strange kind of notions nowadays that forsooth men think they may say anything because they are counsel!" ("Woolrych's Memoirs of Judge Jeffries," page 130.)

The history of Judge Jeffries and the "Bloody Assizes" stands forever to remind us what a man, crazy with power, may become if there is no check on his actions. If the man had not been such a menace he would have been a circus. But the trouble seems to be that a judge cannot be a circus without being a menace.

CLEANSING DELICATE FABRICS.

New York Sun: Use a mixture of gasoline and flour when cleaning delicate fabrics, laces, ribbons, plumes, etc. Dip the articles into the mixture and rub them thoroughly.

Torn lace can be repaired by first placing a piece of paper under the hole and then stitching on the machine back and forth until the hole is completely filled. Very fine thread should be used and the paper carefully picked out after the material is removed from the machine.

Laces that have been stained with perspiration should first be washed with cold water and soap. After the stain has been removed rinse in warm water.

A little white sugar in hot water, say two lumps to a basinful, is a sufficient stiffening for delicate laces.

WHAT NOBODY KNOWS

Just a Few of the Many Mysteries of Nature That Are Still Unsolved.

Chicago News: The most striking thing about a really learned man is not the extent of his knowledge, but the extent of his admitted ignorance. The wiser a person is the greater the number of things he doesn't know.

The more universally cocksure and well informed one seems the more likely it is that he is a humbug.

How little has science made inroad upon that stupendous and limitless nescience that surrounds it, as the stellar universe enfolds the tiny earth!

Sir Oliver Lodge the other day, at the meeting of the British association, spoke of the mystery of sex determination. Spite of all claims, we know little more today than did the cave men why one child is born a boy and another a girl, and why the world ratio keeps about the same.

Sir Oliver also expressed his wonder that some plants bore both male and female flowers. He said the same sap comes into the stemm, but just at that junction where differently sexed flowers branched away from each other there must be some profound change in the sap.

"I don't know what it is, and microscopes tell me nothing about it," he continued. "Perhaps if physiologists could find out just what happens in that little plant joint they would get some clew to the reason why some human beings are born boys and others girls."

He might have pushed further his point of wonder. How comes it that the earth juices make here a white flower and there a red? How is a huge oak all folded in a little acorn?

How can nature make the peach, full of juice and cased so closely in the thinnest of fuzzy skin that never leaks?

How does blood food here create a hard finger nail, there a hair and there a stony tooth?

What is electricity? We know something of how it acts. But what is it? We know little more of it than does a savage.

What is life? What is the secret force that transforms in a trice a living dog that eats his environment into a dead dog whose environment eats him?

What is love? Why does this woman thrill you and that one leave you cold or repel you?

What is conscience, that world's policeman that urges us on to what we think right and affrights us at what we think wrong?

What is truth? What is personality? What is being?

And these questions are not remote, academic questions, not such things as Huxley called "lunar politics," but they touch the very nearest and dearest regions of every man's life.

We are but dust motes in the sunbeam of the infinite. We cling like oysters to our little point in the bed of the vast ocean of mystery.

All about us is nature, her mind a galaxy of secrets, her thoughts far and strange as the procession of the suns.

Nothing befits us, her children, so much as reverence for the purposes, humility before her great brain, trust and love in her vast heart.

No one is so consummate an ass as the one who thinks he knows it all.

NOT TRUE IN BROWN'S CASE.

Philadelphia Telegraph: Congressman Augustus Lonergan of Connecticut smiled the other night when one of the party referred to the things the Recording Angel has scratched up against we poor sinners. He said he was reminded of the case of Brown.

He was going through a hospital one day when he came across Brown, who was patched up here and pieced out there, and looking considerably like a veteran of an aviation corps.

"Sorry to see you looking like this, old man," remarked the visitor, pausing before the chair in which Brown was recuperating. "What in the world ever happened to you?"

"Wasn't watching my feet," answered Brown, "and fell out of a skyscraper."

"You don't really mean it!" exclaimed the visitor, almost enthusiastically. "They say that when a man falls from a great height he thinks of all his sins before he hits the ground. Is that true?"

"Not in my case," thoughtfully replied Brown. "You see, I only fell five stories."

LEGAL NOTICES.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the payment of a certain mortgage executed by W. A. Epperson and Theresa Epperson, his wife, mortgagors, to F. A. Brown, mortgagee, dated August 1st, 1911, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for St. Louis County, Minnesota, on September 8th, 1911, at eleven o'clock A. M., in Book 290 of Mortgages on page 237, upon which said mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of Three thousand four hundred eighty-five and 33-100 Dollars ($3,485.33).

Which said mortgage, together with the debt secured thereby was duly assigned by the said F. A. Brown, mortgagee, to Twoby-Eimon Mercantile company, by written assignment dated September 9th, 1911, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for St. Louis County, Minnesota, on May 7th, 1914, at 11:45 o'clock A. M., in Book 332 of Mortgages on page 14.

No action or proceeding at law, or otherwise, has been instituted to recover said mortgage debt or any part thereof.

Notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained therein said mortgage will be foreclosed by the sale of the premises therein described, which are situated in the County of St. Louis, Minnesota, and described as follows, to-wit: Lots Six (6) and Seven (7), in Block Six (6), of the Original Plat of the Village of Brookston, to pay said debt, taxes, if any, and Twenty-five Dollars ($25) attorney fees, as stipulated in said mortgage in case of said mortgage foreclosure, and the costs and disbursements allowed by law; which said sale will be made by the Sheriff of St. Louis County, Minnesota, at the front door of the Court House in the City of Duluth in said county and state on the 20th day of June, 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon.

Dated May 8th, 1914.

FARM AND FRUIT LANDS

SUMMER RESORT PROPERTY.

We have one of the finest and prettiest natural summer resort properties to be had in this Northern country. Four men engaged for the summer beautifying it by cutting roads and graveling them; it will have roads just like your city parks. A caretaker engaged for the year taking care of boats and buildings for the property owners. We will build you your cabin at a nominal fee, pay for the whole on the monthly plan. Lots cost from $75 to $195 each. The North Star Gun club has its clubhouse across the lake from us, and several cottages belonging to Eastern people in the neighborhood. We can arrange to take buyers up any day, 51 miles from Duluth, 7 miles from Tamarack, Minn. Located on the shore of Lake Minnewawa, Sheshebe Point. Sundays, the 17th, 24th and 31st, we leave on the N. P. at 7:50 a. m. Make the trip if interested; you will never regret the expenditure. It will be a pleasant trip, anyway. Bring along your fishing tackle.

ACRE TRACTS.

FACTS ABOUT LAKEWOOD PARK GARDENS.

To start with, the price is $100 less per acre than is asked for other acre tracts within city limits.

No other tracts have transportation facilities like Lakewood Park Gardens. Four trains daily stop within stone's throw of tracts; auto road to every tract; phone, electric light and city water can be had. Tracts lie well, gently sloping towards the lake; good soil, easily cleared, no stone.

The Congdon boulevard, which is now a certainty (thousands of dollars having been spent to date), adjoins this property.

One acre, 2½ or 5 acres can be bought on easy terms.

ACRE TRACTS!

Buy an acre of good soil, high, dry, well drained and easily cleared, for much less than you have to pay for a lot away out. This property is within three miles of the center of the city. Let us show you what others are doing in the way of building homes. Price only $200 per acre; on any reasonable terms.

TO SELL A USED AUTOMOBILE YOU MUST NECESSARILY REACH THE PEOPLE WHO BUY AUTOS!

98% Per Cent of the Present Car Owners Read The Duluth Herald—Future Car Owners Also Read It.

THAT 98 out of every 100 automobile owners in Duluth and vicinity read The Duluth Herald was shown by a careful comparison between The Duluth Herald's subscription list and the names of car owners to whom licenses have been issued.

It is fair to conclude that an equal proportion of future automobile owners also read this paper.

The Duluth Herald's complete, accurate, well-told news and absorbing features appeal to the alert earning classes whose income is sufficient to enable them to afford automobiles.

Take this into consideration if you wish to sell a used machine. Place a "want" in The Duluth Herald, where it will be seen by the likely buyers.

If you wish to buy a used car and do not find listed in the "want" ads just what you want, insert an ad of your own asking for it; in this way you will reach practically all the present car owners and you will be able to secure just the car you want at a satisfactory price.

LOWEST RATES

The Duluth Herald's charges for classified advertising are less per thousand circulation than those of any other newspaper in Minnesota.

POULTRY, EGGS AND BABY FOWLS ARE WANTED

There are a large number of people in Duluth and vicinity who will buy breeding stock, eggs, baby fowls or chickens for laying this season.

Some one will gladly purchase what you wish to sell.

Present advertisers say they are getting splendid results.

"Herald want ads" are the best poultry salesmen available.

Circulation Greatest— Rates Lowest

The Duluth Herald has the greatest circulation of any newspaper in Duluth. Its rates for classified advertising are less per thousand circulation than those of any other paper in Minnesota. Best results are gained from ads when definite information is given. When information is lacking the presumption is that desirable features are lacking. Information as to contract rates and the probable amount of space your ad would take gladly given.

ALL COAL MINERS IN OHIO ORDERED TO GO ON STRIKE AT ONCE

Union Takes Offensive in Controversy Over Wages.

Officers Begin Paying Strike Benefit of $3 a Week.

All Offers of Settlement Must Go to District Officials.

Columbus, Ohio, May 18.—Orders declaring a strike of all coal miners in Ohio went out from headquarters of District No. 6, United Mine Workers of America, here today. Miners' officials today also began paying strike benefits of $3 per week to every member of the organization.

The mines have been closed since April 1 by orders of the operators.

John Moore, president of the district, announced that the international executive committee had ratified the recommendation of the Ohio committee for a strike last week. Officers and members of the Ohio Miners' union were not notified, however, until today.

"The strike will place the miners on the offensive instead of the defensive," said President Moore.

In the circular miners were notified to receive offers of settlement of the wage scale differences from individual operators, and to communicate these offers to district and sub-district officials for consideration.

NON-COMBATANTS IN SAN DOMINGO KILLED

Firing at Puerto Plata Causes Deaths—Ship Warned Away.

Washington, May 18.—Desultory firing by Gen. Bordas' Federal forces has caused many casualties among non-combatants in the besieged town of Puerto Plata on the northern coast of the Dominican republic, according to a report received today at the navy department from Capt. Eberle, commanding the cruiser Washington. Capt. Eberle already has protested to Gen. Bordas that the latter's reckless firing into Puerto Plata was in violation of his guarantee to safeguard all non-combatants. Capt. Eberle says no fighting of consequence has occurred during the last six days.

Saw Bombardment.

New York, May 18. — The Clyde steamer Seminole arrived here today from Dominican ports with news of the bombardment of Puerto Plata. The Seminole was prevented on her outward voyage from entering this port by the Dominican gunboat Independencia, which signalled that the port was under blockade. The gunboat was then shelling the town.

On the Seminole's homeward voyage she again called at Puerto Plata, nd this time was warned by the United States cruiser Washington not to enter. Passengers were brought on board by the cruiser's boats.

ASKS FOR FUNDS FOR CONSTITUTIONALISTS

Gen. Caballero Calls on Mexicans and Spaniards at Tampico.

Washington, May 18.—That Gen. Caballero, Constitutionalist commander at Tampico, had requested through the chamber of commerce there all business firms, Mexican and Spanish, to subscribe to a voluntary fund for the Constitutionalists, was reported to the navy department today by Admiral Mayo.

Circumstances of the request for voluntary contributions were described in a statement from the navy department.

"It was made clear," said the statement, "that this fund was not to be in the form of a regular war tax for which receipts would be given, or payment in advance of any or all taxes for a definite period. It was to be a contribution for which no receipts would be given.

"In response to this request, Admiral Mayo reports that considerable sums have been contributed from Mexicans and Spaniards in Tampico, but that so far no demand has been made on other foreign business concerns to comply with the request. No reference to this request was made by the Constitutionalist general at the informal conference held with Admiral Mayo on Saturday."

MEET TO ORGANIZE NEW RESERVE BANKS

Action Is Taken in All But San Francisco District.

New York, May 18.—Representatives of five banks assembled here today to take the formal action necessary to call into being the Federal reserve bank of this district. Two banks in this city and three upstate institutions were designated to execute the certificate of incorporation, which was to be done at a meeting of the New York clearing house later in the day.

With the signing of the certificate the bank is technically organized and the member banks may proceed with the election of directors.

In all of the twelve reserve districts of the country except San Francisco meetings are being held today to execute certificates. In San Francisco this action will be taken Wednesday.

HEAD OF NORWAY'S CENTENARY FETES

KING HAAKON VII.

FRESH DATA FROM MELLEN

Former Head of New Haven Will Turn Over More Documents.

Financial Deals Are Expected to Be Bared at Inquiry.

Washington, May 18.—When Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New Haven railroad, returns to Washington late today, he is expected to turn over to the interstate commerce commission, through Chief Counsel Joseph W. Folk, certain documents and papers which he went to New Haven to obtain.

The papers relate, according to Mr. Mellen's testimony, to the various operations of the New Haven, entirely aside from its relations with the Billard company. It is the announced purpose of the commission not to confine Mr. Mellen's examination to the Billard transactions, but to enter fully into an inquiry as to the acquisition by the road of all of its subsidiary properties.

Information Expected.

Mr. Mellen is expected to inform the commission how the properties were obtained, from whom they were purchased and how much was paid for them. Particular efforts will be made by the commission also to ascertain the methods employed in the acquisition of the subsidiaries, and to learn the names of the people or concerns that conducted the various deals and handled the money.

Chief Counsel Folk did not care today to discuss any phases of the pending inquiry. He and his assistants were busily engaged in completing their examination and analysis of the evidence and exhibits already submitted.

SUTHERLAND SAYS HE IS ASTONISHED

Utah Senator Is Against Repeal of Canal Tolls Act.

Washington, May 18.—Senator Sutherland of Utah declared in the senate today that in the history of free government, no such astounding proposition ever before had been presented to a great legislative body as the demand of President Wilson that the congress should repeal the tolls exemption law, "without raising the question whether we were right or wrong."

"To comply with the request," said Senator Sutherland, "would be so utterly subversive of every consideration of self-respect that even those who intend to capitulate will raise the question and make a pretense of justifying their action upon defensible grounds before acceding to the president's request."

Senator Sutherland said he intended to vote against repeal, but he added he was in favor of arbitrating the dispute, because of the difference of opinion prevailing among the greatest thinkers of the country over the question.

ROBERT J. KERR AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Temporary Governor of Vera Cruz Calls on President.

Washington, May 18.—Robert J. Kerr of Chicago and Mexico City, who was provisional governor of Vera Cru for a short time following the entrance of American forces into that city, arrived in Washington today and called at the White House. He came to the United States by way of Havana, and expressed a desire upon his arrival in Washington to lay information relating to Vera Cruz conditions before the president.

NORWEGIANS HEAR ORATORS

Minister Bryn Among the Speakers at Twin City Gathering.

President Wilson Congratulates King Haakon on Centenary.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The forenoon of the final day of the centennial celebration of Norway's independence which began here Saturday, was devoted to visiting and sightseeing, followed by an aeroplane flight and a baseball game at the Minnesota state fair grounds.

Addresses were scheduled for late in the afternoon, to be interspersed by band and concert music.

The speakers for the afternoon program were Governor A. O. Eberhart, Senator J. A. Gronna of North Dakota, H. H. Bryn, Norwegian minister to the United States, Norwegian Consul E. H. Hobe, President Kildahl of St. Olof College, and Rev. O. Vangsness of Minneapolis.

A concert with a chorus of 2,000 voices in the Hippodrome at the Minnesota state fair grounds last night was the principal event of the second of the celebration. In the forenoon many of the visitors attended special festival services at the various Norwegian churches in Minneapolis and St. Paul. In the afternoon addresses were delivered at the fair grounds by Rev. J. B. Birkeland and Rev. H. K. Madsen in Norwegian, and by James A. Peterson in English, all of Minneapolis.

According to reports to the police of the Twin Cities, pickpockets made a rich haul at the fair grounds during the afternoon, complaints of losses aggregating several hundred dollars having been received by the two police departments.

Big Day in Christiania.

Christiania, May 18.—The centennial celebration of the independence of Norway began a great patriotic demonstration Sunday. Forty thousand children bearing the national flag paraded before the royal palace in the morning, while the military and civil procession in the afternoon included 3,000 Americans who carried the stars and stripes.

The Americans were warmly cheered

AMERICAN CONSUL NEARLY LYNCHED

Refugees From Tampico Tell of Violence in That City.

New York, May 18.—Eleven refugees from Mexico, four of them from Tampico, arrived at New York today on the Ward line steamship Camaguey. Only two were Americans, John J. McPorland, an employe at Tampico of the Anglo-American Oil company, said that he left because of threats against his life, made when anti-American feeling was at fever heat.

The Camaguey left Tampico May 2, eleven days before the city fell into the hands of the Constitutionalists. The boat, registered under the Cuban flag, was tied up at the wharf at Tampico for seventeen days and was within a block of some of the heaviest firing of the Mexican gunboats.

According to the refugees, rioting in the streets was continuous and all hotels refused to house Americans. The American vice consul, according to one passenger, was dragged from a coach and a rope was put about his neck. Sailors from the British cruiser Hermione rescued him.

DRIFT ON SEA FOR 13 DAYS

Four More Survivors of Steamer Columbian Are Rescued.

Chief Officer of Vessel Tells Briefly of Fearful Experience.

Halifax, N. S., May 18.—The United States revenue cutter Seneca arrived here today with the four survivors of the burned steamer Columbian, whom she picked up from their small boat forty miles south of Sable island at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. The condition of the men is serious, but it is believed they will live.

A wireless message from Capt. Johnston of the Seneca yesterday told concisely of the rescue. Little could be learned today from the exhausted sailors of their experience beyond the fact that they had tossed helplessly on the seas since May 4, when fire on the Columbian drove them into their small boat.

Eleven Companions Died.

There were fifteen men in the craft when they left the Columbian. Eleven companions died of hunger and exposure and the four emaciated men taken aboard the revenue cutter were almost unconscious.

The Columbian was en route from Antwerp to New York with a miscellaneous cargo when the fire started at midnight on May 3. The crew had time only to launch their three boats. One

ARE SEEKING DATA FOR LAWS ON LABOR

United States Commissioners Begin Hearings in New York City.

New York, May 18.—With a view to obtaining first-hand information for recommendations to congress for remedial industrial legislation, the United States commission on industrial relations today began a series of hearings in this city at which men and women prominent in labor and social work will be given an opportunity to present their views. The hearings will continue every day until June 12.

The subject of employment offices and unemployment was to be discussed today, tomorrow and Wednesday. The Federation of Labor, the Socialist party and the Industrial Workers' representatives will be heard on May 21 and 22. Other subjects to be considered are state mediation and arbitration of industrial disputes and public offices and bureau of employers associations, industrial education, apprenticeship and the administration of child labor laws, the men's garment trade in New York city and the department stores of New York city.

FIND PUBLIC IS DECEIVED

Cabinet Officers Order Change in Pure Food Labels.

Make Retailers Immune From Prosecution—Change the Label.

Washington, May 18.—By an announcement of United States department of agriculture the legend "Guaranteed under the food and drugs act" is held to be misleading and deceptive, and the use of a serial number on food and drugs is prohibited after May 1, 1915, by a food inspection decision signed May 5 by the secretaries of the treasury, agriculture and commerce. The new regulation will take effect May 1, 1915, in order to give manufacturers an opportunity to use up their present stocks of labels.

After that date guaranties of compliance with the law should be given by manufacturers directly to dealers, and should be incorporated in the invoice or bill of sale specifying the goods covered. This guaranty should not appear on the label or package of the product.

Not Always Used in Good Faith.

Many reputable manufacturers have used the legend and serial number in good faith solely as a convenient way of notifying a dealer that they assumed full legal responsibility for their goods. Other manufacturers have employed this legend in such way as to lead the public to believe that their product had been passed upon and certified by the department of agriculture. The resulting widespread deception of the public necessitated abolishing the department's practice of accepting guar-

PRIEST'S COOLNESS AVERTS FIRE PANIC

He Preaches While Church Is Ablaze and Holds Congregation.

East St. Louis, Ill., May 18.—Presence of mind on the part of Rev. T. B. Bannan, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic church here, when he discovered last night that the church building was ablaze, averted a panic and prevented possible loss of life.

While the flames were being extinguished the priest remained in his pulpit and continued to speak calmly to his congregation, which was made up of 600 persons, mostly women and children. When the pastor finally told his audience of the fire, giving any who wished permission to withdraw, less than 100 persons left their seats. The blaze was soon extinguished and services resumed.

AUSTRIAN EMPEROR'S HEALTH WORSE AGAIN

FRANCIS JOSEPH.

Vienna, May 18.—The condition of Emperor Francis Joseph has been adversely affected by the cold and wet weather. His sleep is disturbed by his cough. The official bulletins are still favorable, but it is understood his physicians are trying to get the emperor to seek a warmer resort in the South.

NAON FIRST AT NIAGARA

Argentine Minister Arrives to Prepare for Peace Talks.

Mexican Delegates to Conferences Are in New York City.

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 18.—With the arrival here shortly after 10 o'clock today of Romulo S. Naon, Argentine minister, the first of the South American mediators to reach the scene where they will formally open their conference Wednesday, the effort to compose the Mexican situation made a real start.

Accompanied by Robert F. Rose of the state department, Mr. Naon motored from Buffalo this morning. On his way he was taken about Goat island and on the state reservation, and was shown various points of interest around the cataract. When he reached the hotel where the mediation conferences will be held, he went at once to his apartments. He is accompanied by his 11-year-old son.

James P. Mee of the Brazilian consulate in New York also arrived today. Among others here are Mr. Moreira, secretary to the Brazilian ambassador, and Senor A. Algara R. De Terreros, former charge d'affaires of Mexico at Washington.

Mexicans in New York.

New York, May 18.—Emilio Rabasa, Augustin Rodriguez and Louis Elguero, the three peace delegates from Mexico, who arrived in this city last night from Washington, remained secluded at their hotel during the forenoon. Senor Delcampo, attache and spokesman for the delegates, said most of the party had visited New York before and would not take a sight-seeing trip through the city. All remained reticent regarding their plans, although it was said that a statement might be issued this evening. The party will leave for Niagara Falls, Ont., tomorrow.

MISSOURI MURDER TRIAL CONTINUED.

Kansas City, Mo., May 18.—The trial of Dr. W. T. Elam of St. Joseph, Mo., charged with the murder of W. Putnam Cramer, a Chicago advertising solicitor, in a room in a hotel here Nov. 18 last, was continued today until May 25 at the request of the defense. Dr. Elam was released from jail on a bond of $10,000 six days after the shooting of Cramer.

DISPATCHES FROM MEXICO UNQUALIFIED

Chief Problem Will Be Establishment of Interim Government.

No Active Military Constitutionalists Will Be Accepted as Head.

First Move for Change Must Come From Mediators.

Washington, May 18.—Gen. Huerta has authorized the Mexican mediation delegates to submit his resignation, in case such a course is found necessary to a settlement in the peace negotiations.

This was stated positively in dispatches today from a thoroughly competent diplomatic source in Mexico City to one of the foreign representatives here, and confirms intimations given by friends of the delegates here yesterday.

According to this information from Mexico City, Gen. Huerta at first authorized the delegates to discuss only the question of the Tampico conflict, leading to the American occupation of Vera Cruz. Later the Mexican dictator, it is explained, came to recognize the necessity of a broader settlement, and then conveyed to the delegates assurances that he was prepared to step down should this course be found necessary by them.

Big Problem Remains.

The problem causing chief concern to diplomats in Mexico City now is that of the form of administration to be established during the interregnum before a constitutionally elected president could assume office. No intimations concerning the name of a possible successor to Huerta were contained in the dispatch, this subject being one in which it would be necessary to consult opinion of Constitutionalists and other leaders in Mexico.

Supreme Court Justice Lamar and Frederick W. Lehmann, who will represent the United States at the peace conference at Niagara Falls, Ont., today arranged to leave Washington at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. This arrangement will put the American delegates at the scene of the conference about the time the Mexican delegates arrive there from New York.

"No Constitutionalist."

"The Huerta delegates never will agree to the selection for provisional

THINK PARKS WAS KILLED

Mexicans Promise Punishment of Murderers of Soldier.

The Constitutionalists Ask Americans to Resume Mining Work.

Washington, May 18.—That officials of the Mexican government believe that the American cavalry man, Samuel Parks, was killed, is indicated in a dispatch received at the state department from the Brazilian minister in Mexico City today.

He says the Mexican minister for foreign affairs had sent him a note promising to punish the men guilty of Parks' murder if it occurred. The foreign office also promised an investigation of the alleged imprisonment of an American, Smith, family reported from Tonala several days ago.

Rebels After Guerillas.

Consul Letcher from El Paso informed the department that the Constitutionalists had ordered a vigorous campaign against the guerilla band under Former Federal Gen. Quezada, whose depredations on the border have been the subject of urgent representations by the department. Quezada's latest threat to destroy the windmills supplying water to cattle on American-owned ranches resulted in an imperative demand from the state department that he be suppressed.

Consul Letcher also reported that Gen. Carranza had ordered an investigation of the reported seizure of bullion belonging to the Bacis Gold & Silver Mining company near Durango.

In response to inquiries as to reported detention of foreigners at Quimathis, Gen. Obregon informed Constitutionalist headquarters, according to Consul Letcher, that all foreigners have been permitted to leave the territory he controls without molestation.

Want Americans to Return

The authorities at Parral, Consul Letcher reported, have sent agents to El Paso to persuade the American refugees there to return and reopen their mines and other industrial plants.

Consul Letcher today returned to his post at Chihuahua.

WALK OFF WITH CASH REGISTER

The cash register, weighing about seventy-five pounds, in the confectionary store of C. G. Frost, 5119 Ramsey street, was carried out of the store some time during the night. The register has not been found as yet by the police.

The burglars who carried it away evidently had a key to the store. They had entered through the front door by unlocking the door and on leaving they securely locked up the place.

The cash registered is said to have contained about $25 in cash. Of this sum $3 was in pennies and the rest in small change.

Chips from the marble base of the register found on the floor of the store indicate, the police believe, that the burglars attempted to tear this off in an effort to open the machine. Being foiled in this they carried the register out. A diligent search of alleys in the vicinity was made without any success in locating the register, and a further search is being made this afternoon.

The former owner of this store is said never to have had a key to the place. When he locked up, he used a bolt on the inside, having resided in the rear. Two new keys were recently made by a locksmith, one of which the proprietor carried and the other was carried by the clerk.

HISE AS TOASTMASTER.

Will Preside Over Banquet of Two Royal League Councils.

At a meeting of the joint committee of the Pocahontas and West Duluth councils of the Royal league held last night, George L. Hise, archon of the West Duluth lodge was chosen as toastmaster for the banquet to be given on Tuesday evening, May 26. The "spread" will follow a short program of music and games which the entertainment committee is arranging.

The members of the committee are Mrs. G. L. Hise, Mrs. F. Amen, E. W. Lund and Thomes W. Brain. The affair will be confined to members only and will be paid for out of the funds of the lodges.

At the banquet, impromptu talks on subjects assigned that night by the toastmaster will be given by those called upon. Prizes are to be awarded to those making the best responses to toasts. Other prizes for games will be given.

SCHOOL PUPILS PLAN ENTERTAINMENT.

To raise money for the general school fund, the pupils of Miss Margaret Linehan in the Fairmont school, are selling tickets for an entertainment to be given at the building Wednesday night. The program will include an address by Senator James P. Boyle, violin selections by Edward Dillon, the boy entertainer, a piano duet by Miss Ethel Molitor and Miss Zella Burrell, Miss Helen Rankin, vocalist, and Miss Elizabeth Donovan, reader. Miss Molitor will be the accompanist.

Longfellows Win.

The Longfellow baseball team defeated the Madisons at the latter's ground on Garfield avenue by a score of 4 to 3. The game was the first of the season with the locals and they are already looking for engagements with other school teams of the city.

The lineup for the Longfellow team is as follows: Swanson, catcher; Burton, pitcher; Sieger, first base; McNulty, second base; Method, third base; Tebrico, short stop; Nelson, left field; Davis, center field, and Burr, right field.

Alumni Will Meet.

The Alumni association of the Fairmont school will hold a business meeting this evening at the home of James Donald, 608 North Central avenue. Plans will be made for the annual banquet to be tendered in honor of the graduating class of this year early in June.

Baseball Rivalry.

Rivalry on the baseball diamond has manifested itself between the upper classes of the Duluth Industrial high school. This morning the Junior classmen issued a challenge to the Senior classmen to a game to be played some afternoon this week. Both classes have members who are said to be fast players and the students are expecting a close contest. The challenge has been accepted.

ENGAGED IN UPLIFT OF WORKING GIRLS

MRS. J. BORDEN HARRIMAN.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman is now engaged in the uplift of the working classes and the prevention of strikes as a member of the government labor board at Washington. She is a New York woman who is never happy unless she is engaged in some public activity. Before she undertook to solve the labor problem, she was organizing a company to provide ice cream sodas for the poor working girl at minimum prices, and before that she had turned her country place into a sanitarium for the benefit of weary millionaires.

SIGN RESERVE BANK PAPERS

Legal Organization of Minneapolis District Is Effected.

Men From Five National Banks Sign the Certificates.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minneapolis district regional reserve bank became a reality today when representatives of five national banks in the district met at the Northwestern National bank, in this city, and signed the certificates of incorporation. Similar action was taken today in the other eleven districts of the Federal reserve system. The signed articles of incorporation were mailed to Washington this afternoon.

The next step toward setting the bank in operation will be the dispatch from Washington of instructions to all national banks in the district to call meetings of their directors to choose official electors, and nominate each one businessman and one banker as a candidate for the directorate of the reserve bank.

Each national bank is entitled to one elector in the balloting on the directorates, and each is allowed to nominate one candidate for each class of directors.

Among the Signers.

Included in the signers were John R. Mitchell, president, and James L. Mitchell, cashier, of the Capital National bank, St. Paul; Ernest May, vice president, and R. H. Driscoll, cashier, of the First National bank, Lead, S. D.; Roy J. Covert, vice president, and George M. Hays, cashier, of the Merchants' National, Billings, Mont.; S. S. Titus, president, and J. R. Carley, cashier, First National bank, Grand Forks, N. D.; and T. R. Wall, vice president, and E. R. Williams, cashier, of the Commercial National, Oshkosh, Wis.

No chairman was elected and all formalities were sidetracked. The ten signatures were appended in five minutes.

BASEBALL GAME EMPTIES CITY HALL

Mayor, Commissions and All Employes Take a Holiday.

The city hall and the office of the water and light department presented a deserted appearance this afternoon. For as everybody should know, the local baseball season opened this afternoon.

The commissioners went to the ball game and on the Golden Rule theory, they announced, that the other public servants who wished to attend had their permission to do so. Wherefore all of the "faithful" were possessed of the desire to lend their assistance towards giving the national pastime a glorious start in the Zenith City. City Clerk Charles S. Palmer was in the council chamber all by "his lonesome" at 3 o'clock, the time scheduled for the regular weekly session and as provided by the rules he adjourned the meeting. It will be held tomorrow afternoon at the usual time, 3 o'clock.

Commissioner Leonidas Merritt, head of the division of public utilities, was host to the feminine employes, escorting them to the game, and the office was closed in order that the others might attend if they wished.

NO DIPLOMAS THIS YEAR

Graduation Exercises Will Not Be Held for Grade Schools.

Pupils Must Wait Until They Leave Junior High School.

For the first time in fifteen years there will be no grade school graduations in the City of Duluth this year. The high school graduation class this year is the largest in the history of the local institution.

Superintendent of Schools Robert E. Denfeld said this morning that the junior high schools will open next fall and for this reason the eighth grade pupils will not receive their diplomas until a year from this June. As the junior high school is a new feature in Duluth, the present eighth grade pupils must forego the pleasure of public school graduation until next year.

Most of those who are in the eighth grade at present will continue until a year from this June, when they will receive their junior high school diplomas. If they wish, they will then continue in the regular high school for three years, receiving a diploma at the end of that time.

There are about 700 pupils in the eighth grades in the city, said Supt. Denfeld this morning. The junior high schools will include the seventh, eighth and ninth grades in the future. Previous to fifteen years ago there were no graduations at all in the grade schools, the pupils being given cards permitting them to enter the high school.

The senior class at Central high school will be graduated on the evening of June 12, Principal Young said this morning. The class this year, which has 206 pupils, is the largest in the history of the institution.

SAYS BECKER WAS AFRAID

His Former Press Agent Testifies Against Ex-Police Lieutenant.

Plitt Quotes Employer as Saying "Bunch Will Squeal."

New York, May 18.—Charles B. Plitt, one time press agent and adviser for Charles Becker, on trial for the murder of the gambler, Herman Rosenthal, took the witness stand for the state today and corroborated in many details the story of Jack Rose and others that Becker was the instigator of the murder plot. As he testified he avoided looking at the defendant.

After Rosenthal had been murdered, the witness swore, he met Becker, who was indignant at the way the killing had been accomplished.

"What is the matter with Jack Rose and the bunch?" Plitt quoted Becker as having said. "To pull the stunt the way they did was very bad. You would suppose it was being done for the moving pictures."

Had to Have Alibi.

On July 15, the day before the murder, Plitt said he saw Becker at police headquarters.

"Becker told me," said the witness, "that he and I had to have an alibi for that night. 'Keep away from Times Square tonight,' he told me.

"'What's coming off?' I asked.

"'Never mind,' said Becker. 'Do as you are told. We've got to have an alibi. Tomorrow you'll know why.'"

Plitt showed signs of nervousness during his testimony, lowering his eyes under Becker's gaze. He evaded Becker's glance, studiously fixing his gaze on the floor in front of the witness chair.

The witness said he called upon Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty and did the best he could to establish an alibi for Becker.

Becker Sent Him to Rose.

He saw Becker later and Becker sent him to see Rose, then under arrest. He sent in a note to Rose with reference to the employment of counsel.

Returning to Becker, said the witness, he reported that Rose had agreed to allow Becker to select his lawyer. Becker then dispatched Plitt, the witness swore, to Rose's house on Long Island.

The next day, Sunday, Plitt asserted, Becker said:

"I wonder if that bunch will squeal on me."

"Then Becker told me to see Rose," said Plitt, "and advise him he was doing everything he could for him, and for him to say nothing."

Said "They Would Squeal."

The next time Plitt saw Becker was in the Tombs prison after his arrest. Becker said, according to Plitt, "Didn't I tell you they would squeal? I want you to go out and get everything you can on Jack Rose. Get hold of the men in my squad and have them testify I had no conversation with Mrs. Rosenthal on the night of the raid."

INJURY CASE GOES TO COURT

Colvin-Robb Lumber Company Refuses Damages to Frozen Workman.

Because he was obliged, he says, to work outside in weather so severe that one side of his face and head froze, resulting in the loss of the sight of his left eye, Joe Tuden, 216 Lake avenue south, wants the Colvin-Robb Lumber company, his employers, to settle with him for his injuries under the terms of the workingmen's compensation act.

The Colvin-Robb company refuses to acknowledge any liability and the differences which have arisen between Tuden and the company will now have to be adjusted in court where the main question which will be decided will be whether or not any liability attaches to the company for injuries such as claimed by Tuden.

Tuden says that he was employed as a "road monkey" and that it was his duty to keep the ice roads in the vicinity of the company's camps near Fairbanks, Minn., in good shape. He alleges that he was in the performance of his duty one cold day last January when he froze himself. At the time of the accident, he was receiving $30 a month and board.

For the loss of his eye, Tuden wants $600 or $6 a week for 100 weeks, for total disability resulting from the experience, he is seeking $6 a week for 300 weeks or $1,800 and an additional $100 for medical attendance.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

Would Quit Federals.

Montreal, Que., May 18.—Pitcher Frank Smith, who jumped to the Baltimore Federal league team and has won several games for that club, wants to jump back again to Montreal. He is here to talk it over with President Lichtenhein. Smith's desertion marks the first break in the Federal league ranks since the season opened.

Feds May Invade Cleveland.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 18.—The Ward brothers, millionaires, owners of the Brooklyn Federal league club, have closed an option here for property at the corner of the Euclid avenue and East Fifty-fifth street and extending north to Windsor avenue, which local baseball men interpret as meaning the invasion of Cleveland by the Federals next year with this Ward site as the location for a baseball park.

Cloquet Beats Fitwells.

Cloquet, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local city team yesterday defeated the Fitwells of Duluth, 7 to 4, before a large crowd. Cloquet's short stop, Johnson, did some good work. It was the first game of the season.

SURPRISES MANY IN DULUTH

The QUICK action of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-i-ka, the remedy which became famous by curing appendicitis, is surprising Duluth people. Many have found that this simple remedy drains so much foul matter from the system that A SINGLE DOSE relieves constipation, sour stomach and gas on the stomach almost IMMEDIATELY. Adler-i-ka is the most thorough bowel cleanser ever sold. W. A. Abbett, 205 West Superior street.

ST. PAUL MOTORIST PAYS FINE OF $1,000

Ralph Babcock Pleads Guilty to Second Degree Manslaughter.

Wabasha, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ralph Babcock, an automobile man of St. Paul, who on May 30 last, ran down and killed Mrs. Olga Johnson, an aged woman, at Red Wing, Minn., today pleaded guilty when arraigned on a charge of second degree manslaughter and was fined $1,000. His plea was in accordance with a prearranged plan agreed upon by opposing counsel.

Several civil suits still are pending against Babcock as an outgrowth of the accident.

SHARE FARMING IN AUSTRALIA.

Christian Science Monitor: Sydney, New South Wales—In view of the fact that the estimate of the present season's wheat crop of New South Wales is set down at nearly 42,000,000 bushels, exceeding last season's record by nearly 9,500,000 bushels it is proof of the value of the share farming that a considerable number of the wheat farms of New South Wales, and particularly the large ones, are worked on what is known in Australia as the "shares" system.

Under this system a farmer possessing the necessary team and implement arranges with the land owner to crop a certain area for a season or for a number of seasons. The usual form of agreement provides that the land owner shall provide land, seed, two-thirds of the manure, where manure is used, and bags for his share. The farmer does the cultivating and harvesting, using his own plant; provides one-third of the manure and bags for his share.

Up to a specified yield of the crop the owner and farmer take equal shares; any excess becomes the property of the farmer as a bonus to encourage good and thorough farming. This method of working large areas is invariably a success where the arrangement is drawn up on a truly co-operative basis, and is one of the most satisfactory ways of working large estates. Share farming enables a settler with little money at his disposal to accumulate enough means to buy land of his own.

LAUNDRY MATTERS.

Dallas News: Lay the linen into a clean bathtub just as it is folded. Allow lukewarm water to run over it, covering it well, then press the linen down so that the water soaks through, turn the under folds over one after another to allow the linen to be thoroughly wet. After the linen has been in the tub for an hour, run off the water and hang the linen over a clothes horse to dry. If the linen is colored it would be better to put the linen into a gallon of water into which has been dissolved a tablespoonful of powdered alum, which powdered alum prevents the color from coming out.

To wash serviettes in the very best way, first wash and dry in the ordinary way, but do not starch. When dry, dip one by one in boiling water, wrap in a starched cloth, wring as dry as possible and iron at once with a flatiron as hot as you can without scorching. Done this way, they have a glossy look which it is impossible to get if starched and ironed in the ordinary way. Always use your heaviest flatiron for table linen, as the greater the pressure the nicer it will look; they will look like new.

THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY

NORWEGIANS CELEBRATE THEIR DAY OF FREEDOM

Ole Sageng Given Stirring Reception By Immense Audience.

Love of God and Liberty, Norway's Contribution to America.

STATE SENATOR OLE SAGENG.

State Senator Ole Sageng of Otter Tail county was the chief speaker yesterday at the Central high school auditorium, where the Norwegians of Duluth celebrated the centennial anniversary of the independence of Norway.

It was 100 years ago yesterday that the constitution of Norway was adopted, and later in the same year a treaty was arrived at with the Swedish people to remain under one king but each country to have separate governments. This treaty was observed until nine years ago at which time the Norwegians again asserted themselves and broke away from the kingship of the house of Bernadotte and selected a king of their own.

In observance of the one hundredth anniversary of the adoption of the constitution, Duluth Norwegians packed the large auditorium of the high school to the degree of discomfort, and listened to a good musical program and a stirring speech on the part of Senator Sageng, one of the most noted Norwegians of Minnesota. The entire program, with the exception of Mayor Prince's address, was in Norwegian.

Rev. H. A. Ofstie, pastor of the First Norwegian-Danish Methodist church was chairman of the meeting and opened it with a brief introductory address. The Norwegian national hymn was then given by the Normanna chorus and the audience, accompanied by Flaaten's orchestra.

Mayor Prince Speaks.

Mayor Prince gave a brief address in which he commended the independent spirit of the Norwegian race, and urged them to exercise the same spirit in their adopted country in demanding better conditions that they did in their home land. Following a selection by Flaaten's orchestra Senator Sageng was introduced. He was greeted by the most enthusiastic cheers and it was some minutes before he could begin his address.

After telling his auditors of his appreciation of the reception given him and of his pleasure at being able to address a Duluth audience, the Senator reviewed the history of the Norwegian people, of their struggles to attain and maintain independence and of the sacrifices they had made to live in a land that was free and with a government of their own.

"You may indeed be proud of the record of your race," said the senator. "It is one of sacrifice and achievement. Many peoples with the desire for liberty and independence have ceased their efforts with much less than what our forefathers had to undergo; but they never let up. The sterling qualities of the race would not let them. Defeat after defeat might come, but never did they cease to work to make possible the independence which Norwegian people the world over are today celebrating.

Effect on America.

"It was this spirit that brought you to America, and while you have much to thank America for, America has no ground for being ashamed of the quality of the race that has come to her shores. America gives us much, but the Norwegian, in turn, contributes much to the strength of America and in the melting pot of races, the future American will be none the less strong for the intermingling of the Norwegian blood. You bring to America the typical American love of freedom, and the determination and willingness, if need be, to fight for it. No race has contributed to America more of this spirit which accentuates this great nation than that of Norway. It behooves you to stand behind your adopted nation with as much sincerity and determination as you would behind that land you have left.

"Another very important contribution which you bring to America is your steadfast love of God, and your insistence upon religious liberty. The Norwegians take no second place among the races of the earth in their religious zeal and they have not lost it on this side of the world. It affects them in their everyday social life, for with our race the church is the social center. This is important—far more important than appears on the surface; for with the church as a social center no people can go very far astray. There will be no chasing after false gods."

Senator Sageng admonished his hearers to never lose sight of the high principles which actuated their forefathers and the framers of the Norwegian constitution, and to give such high-minded loyalty to their adopted country.

The program was closed by the singing of "America" by the entire audience and the Normanna chorus.

BRING TALES OF ADVENTURE

Refugees From Mexico Recount Murders of Americans.

Arthur F. Flynt of Minneapolis Among Those Believed Killed.

San Francisco, Cal., May 18.—Graphic reports of the murder of Americans, the capture by a Mexican transport of the American brig Geneva and the imprisonment of United States Consul Clement Edwards of Acapulco, were brought in by 150 refugees on the British steamer Cetriana from Manzanillo.

According to the refugees, when news of the capture of Vera Cruz reached the west coast it was taken by the Mexicans as the beginning of war. Americans abandoned their homes and fled.

As the Cetriana got away from the dock, maneuvering adroitly out of what is reported to be an attempt to hem it in by four Mexican steamers, a rifle fire was directed against it. Many bullets struck the steamer.

Score of Murders.

Upwards of a score of murders, mostly of Americans, were reported by the Cetriana's passengers, but it was difficult to trace any of them to an authoritative source.

The story of the taking of the Geneva was told in the vessel's log by her captain, who said that on April 21 he was ordered to leave San Blas by the harbor officials, who had just received news of the taking of Vera Cruz and imagined that a state of war existed. The Geneva, lacking water and provisions, was compelled to put to sea, and on April 26, while she was lying to off Manzanillo, the Mexican transport Korrigan seized her as a prize of war.

Forbade Exchange of Signals.

The Korrigan towed the Geneva into Manzanillo, and port officials came aboard and ordered no one to leave the vessel. The Cetriana arrived on April 27 and her commander was notified he could not exchange signals with the Geneva.

A passenger got in touch with the German consul, who arranged with the commander of the Cetriana to steam away and pick up those aboard the Geneva in small boats.

Mines were exploded at the end of the breakwater and an attempt was made to ram the Cetriana by the Mexican steamer Herreras. The Herreras is a convict ship, and some of the convicts, trying to swim ashore, were fired at.

According to the story brought in on the Cetriana, United States Consul Edwards of Acapulco was told to leave the country. He went to Manzanillo and was put on the Mexican steamer Pesquiera. In his stateroom, it is reported, he was held as a prisoner, while an armed Mexican soldier paraded before the door and occasionally flourished a revolver muzzle through the shutters of the door. The consul was released later.

Among the Killed.

Among those believed to have been killed at Los Penas, between San Blas and Manzanillo, are Ralph R. Randell, H. J. James, Charles A. Kelso and men named Nelson, McAllister and Hidell.

C. N. Hale, mine superintendent, who led a party of seventeen refugees from Tepic and boarded the Cetriana, gave out a list of Americans who, he believes, have been killed. Most were in the vicinity of Tepic. They are:

Arthur F. Flynt of Minneapolis, who was captured in Santiago Ixcuentla after leaving La Purissima; Theodore Jones, who was imprisoned in Tepic; H. S. Wyndham, W. S. Dunn, Murray Thomas, Tom Fernandez, Otis Hidden, who were imprisoned by Gen. Juan Solaris, reported to be a bitter enemy of Americans; Rosa Morada; Otto Lund, wife and baby; Frank Rodrigues of Arizona and Frank Soto.

Arthur Payne Safe.

One of the returning refugees was Arthur W. Payne, son of a wealthy Menlo Park family, who was reported more than a week ago missing on the yacht Iola, with a moving picture expedition. Payne reported that he had been in peril and counted himself fortunate to escape.

A SIMPLE WAY TO REMOVE DANDRUFF

Prevent Falling Hair and End Itching Scalp.

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need) apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve, and entirely destroy, every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you value your hair, you should get rid of dandruff at once, for nothing destroys the hair so quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and everybody notices it.

CARDEN TO STAY IN MEXICO CITY?

London, May 18.—The Standard asserts this morning that the British government has asked Sir Lionel Carden to remain as minister to Mexico until the present difficulty in the republic is ended.

Insurgent Republican Meet.

Fargo, N. D., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The insurgent Republicans will meet here tomorrow morning on a call of Secretary Langer of Mandan. The Republicans interested in the Progressive Republican league are requested to meet with the committee. It is partially for the purpose of discussing the candidacy of U. L. Burdick for governor and also to determine which of the several candidates for treasurer and commissioner of agriculture and which of the two for superintendent of public instruction will be supported by that wing of the party.

Hanna at Mill City.

Fargo, N. D., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Hanna has gone to Minneapolis where he will have a place today on the program of the Norwegian Centenary celebration. He is getting ready to leave with his staff and several thousand Norwegians for Norway to present on July 4, the Lincoln statue given by the state of North Dakota to the Norwegian government. He will be accompanied by a large delegation. The party sails from New York June 12.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Drink Lots of Water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. Agent, Wirth's Red Cross Drug store, 13 West Superior street.

FOREIGNERS DRILL IN MEXICO CITY.

Vera Cruz, May 18.—A letter from a British resident of Mexico City, which reached here late last night, contained information that the Germans, British and Japanese were drilling in preparation for the defense of the concentrated districts. This activity grew out of fear of an attack on the capital by the Zapata forces, who routed the Federal garrison at Topilejo, a few miles to the south, several days ago. This is said to be the only cause for alarm.

U. S. BEATS MEXICO IN BASEBALL GAME.

Vera Cruz, May 18.—Americans and Mexicans met in friendly battle on the baseball field here yesterday and the nine of the Fourth infantry defeated the Aguilas, an all-star Mexican team, 4 to 0. The grandstand was crowded with white uniformed navy and khaki-clad army officers and a large number of the Mexican population.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE ON WHEELS STARTS TOUR

Train of Ten Coaches On Twelve-Day Trip Through the County.

Carrying the Latest Information Free to the Farmer's Door.

An agricultural college on wheels with a complete faculty, lecture rooms, equipment for demonstrations and stereopticon lectures, which will carry the best and most scientific information available to the very doors of the farmers and the farmers' wives, is what the Agricultural Special that started on a twelve-day tour of the range towns over the Duluth & Iron Range road this morning, might be called.

If there were any persons about the Union station this morning who were not aware of the importance of St. Louis county as an agricultural district, they were given a great surprise when they saw the magnificent train with ten coaches, bearing huge posters painted "Agricultural Special," pull out on its fourth annual tour.

As to both features and instructors this year's special probably excells any train of its kind that ever started out on a similar mission. Instruction of the most practical and helpful nature will be given to the farmers and housewives on the range. Two features that will probably attract more attention than any others are the model forty-acre farm in miniature with all necessary farm buildings and crops actually growing in the soil and the model farm kitchen with an up-to-the-minute hot water supply system. A special car is arranged for the women. Another interesting exhibit is specimens of work from the pupils of the rural schools. There is also the best equipment for testing seeds, loads of the latest and best farm machinery and an exhibit by the Universal Portland Cement company.

The Model Farm.

The model farm is probably one of the best object lessons in diversified farming ever given. The whole forty-acre tract is divided into fields with crops growing, showing the best arrangement for fields of alfalfa, clover, grain, meadow, pasture, and other crops. The stables, chicken yard and other buildings are systematically arranged. The arrangement as a whole is such that the farmers will catch at a glance the idea conveyed.

The model farm kitchen is also perfectly arranged for comfort, convenience, cleanliness and economy. The hot water system connecting with the cooking range, bath tub, wash bowl, sink, etc., put the farm kitchen right on a level with the most up-to-date kitchen in the city. The home-made cabinet, sanitary provision for a cream separator, churn, etc., as well as the inexpensive but very serviceable furnishings, make the model kitchen most practical.

School Exhibits.

The car of exhibits from the rural schools offers some interesting displays. During the last week Mrs. M. B. Holmes, supervisor of the unorganized schools of St. Louis county, and her assistants, have been busy classifying the exhibits. Embroidery, weaving, sewing, free-hand drawing, basket work, painting, sketching and wood carving are some of the articles that comprise the display.

A class from school No. 3, which has been making a special study of poultry raising has prepared illustrated booklets dealing with the subject from every angle. The information is based on personal observations made by the pupils who have been frequent visitors to the chicken ranch of John Sundinen on the Birch lake road ten miles from Ely. Sundinen is the largest poultry rancher in St. Louis county and averages 240 eggs daily from his hens.

Birds Classified.

A juvenile Audubon society of the county schools has prepared free hand drawings with accompanying articles descriptive of the birds of this country. Those that are helpful to the farmers and those classed as pests are interestingly described.

Essays on dairy cows, the best milk-producing feeds, and other useful hints gained by the pupils in their daily studies will be a part of the exhibit.

Illustrated fables and patriotic stories; maps of counties, states and nations made from salt and flour; a community rug in which each of the nine integral parts was woven by as many busy little girls; wooden tools carved from soft pine by young geniuses with jackknives, and many other articles which show how the hands as well as the heads are taught in the schools of St. Louis county, will be displayed on the agricultural special.

The nature of the instruction is such that anyone living on a farm will find something of special interest. In many cases country communities will be visited, and instruction carried right to the farmer's door. Stereopticon lectures will be given showing the farmer the best methods of crop raising, dairying, poultry culture, clearing land, and the best methods of home economics will be taught to the women.

Lecture Rooms.

Some of the coaches have been equipped as lecture rooms, and as many farmers as possible will be received on the train and the exhibits explained.

The corps of instructors has no novices. All are veterans and specialists in their individual lines. In fact several of them are pioneers in their branches of work.

Among the list are the following well-known instructors: A. B. Hostetter, agricultural supervisor of St. Louis, Crow Wing and Koochiching counties; Prof. N. E. Chapman, poultry expert from the agricultural college of the state university; K. D. Van Wagenen, agricultural agent for St. Louis county; N. A. Young, Mark Thompson, Fred Ward, R. I. Giffin, A. J. McGuire, W. A. Dickinson, Miss Mary L. Bull and Miss S. M. Rowe.

The itinerary of the trip will be as follows:

Palmers, Monday, May 18; Two Harbors, Tuesday, May 19; Fairbanks, Wednesday, May 20, Embarrass, Thursday, May 21; Biwabik, Friday, May 22; Iron Junction, Saturday, May 23; Sunday at Meadowlands, May 24; Forbes, Monday, May 25; Kelsey, Tuesday, May 26; Alborn, Wednesday, May 27; Saginaw, Thursday, May 28; Munger, Friday May 29; Proctor, Saturday, May 30.

SOCIALISTS WILL DANCE.

Scandinavian Branch Plans Series of Events for Near Future.

The Scandinavian branch of the Socialist party will hold an entertainment and dance at Sloan's hall Tuesday evening. A program of songs, readings and folk dancing will be given. Among those who will be on the program tomorrow evening are: Mollie Sederburg, Miss Melin, Mrs. Mosberg and Mrs. John Essen.

A series of entertainments of this character is being planned by the people's house committee, of which Henry Johnson is the chairman, and the committee is taking steps to interest other nationalities in the movement. The meeting tomorrow evening will be open to the public. The proposed "people's house" will be a building to be modeled after similar institutions in Europe, especially in Germany and Belgium.

An international dance will be held at the Auditorium on Thursday evening, June 4, under the auspices of the city central committee of the Socialist party of Duluth.

A mass meeting will be held at the Auditorium on June 16 at which Eugene V. Debs will deliver a lecture. The Socialists are aiming to make this the biggest meeting ever held by the party in Duluth and large delegations from outside towns are expected to participate.

A parade of the party members will be held preceding the meeting at the Auditorium.

WHAT OTHER CITIES ARE DOING

MAYOR BOLLINGER of Iola, Kan., has adopted an unique way of educating the taxpayers on the conditions of the city. He held a municipal picture show in the city building and demonstrated the efficiency of commission form of government, which has recently been accepted. The pictures gave the taxpayers a look into the records in the office of the city clerk and views of the water, light and power plants, water supply, fire and street departments. All the commissioners were on hand and explained the pictures pertaining to his particular department. This show resulted in securing a very large attendance, and educating the people up to conditions and properties in their city.

The Duluth commissioners have not attempted picture shows for the education of the public. Their announced policy is to visit various organizations throughout the city, discussing municipal affirs with them. In their results these meetings are more beneficial than a picture show could be. Those present participate in the discussions and gain a more intimate knowledge of city affairs than would otherwise be possible.

GIRL AND BOY BEST DECLAIMERS.

Grand Forks, May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Davis Liepsiz of Grand Forks and Miss Doris Kemper of Minot were the winners of the first prizes in the boys' and girls' state declamation contests, held here. The winners emerge from a field of twenty-seven aspirants for first honors.

Thurman Thompson of Park River and Miss Marion Sutherland won seconds in the contests, and Theodore Hale of Fargo, and Miss Jessie Gillispie of Grafton, won thirds.

SHRINERS RETURNING

Part of the Delegation to Atlanta Back in Duluth.

Royally Entertained in Georgian City and Other Stops En Route.

Most of the members of Aad temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, have returned from Atlanta, where they have been attending the annual meeting of the imperial council.

Some of them got in yesterday morning and some others came this morning. The rest will straggle in within a day or two. Seven or eight of them went to Washington and New York and will be delayed several days. Among the latter are Past Potentates Jesse Norton and Henry Nesbitt, Capt. A. H. Paul of Aad patrol, Lieut. Wallace Wellbanks and some others. Those who returned brought back Li'l Artha, Aad's goat who has been globe trotting for the last year. The drums were saved, but the cannon was lost. The returning Shriners all put the blame for the loss of the cannon on Nobles Henry Van Brunt and David G. Locwus, who were in charge of the gun. They left it on the sidewalk in front of one of the hotels and a squad of Shriners from Medinah temple, Chicago, came along and naturally "swiped" it. According to Illustrious Potentate H. W. Richardson, the Duluth Shriners had a fine time. To judge from Mr. Richardson's voice they must have had.

"Atlanta entertained the Shriners well," said Mr. Richardson today. "About 50,000 attended the imperial council meeting and the city took care of the crowd well. I think everybody was satisfied. The Duluth crowd showed up well in the parade and in general made a hit. On the way down we were well entertained by Syrian temple at Cincinnati, which was holding a ceremonial that night, and on Sunday, May 10, at Chattanooga by Shriners who reside there. On the way back we were given a surprisingly fine entertainment at Nashville, Tenn., by Al Menah temple, which had made elaborate plans for the entertaining of Shriners en route to or from their homes. We arranged a lay-over there and besides being treated to a fine banquet and entertainment, took part in a big and handsome parade in which our patrol, the patrol of the home temple and the patrol and band of Ismailia temple of Buffalo marched. The parade was a beauty through streets especially lighted. A big entertainment at one of the amusement parks followed, but this we could not take in, having a time limit on our lay-over. In all the trip was a delight."

MEXICANS WILL TAKE LIGHTHOUSE

Crew Is Appointed to Look After Lobos Island.

Washington, May 18.—The Brazilian minister in Mexico City informed the state department today that the Mexican department of communications had appointed three men to resume charge of the Lobos Island light, now operated by American forces. This information was conveyed to the Brazilian minister through the Mexican foreign office.

DR. RYAN REPORTS TO STATE DEPARTMENT.

Washington, May 18.—Dr. Edward R. Ryan, who as a representative of the American Red Cross and of the state department, was arrested in Mexico and held for some time as a spy by the Huerta forces, reported to the state department here today. A conference between Secretary of State Bryan and Dr. Ryan was arranged for later in the day.

SUNDAY SERMONS IN DULUTH PULPITS

"THE CHURCH AND THE LAW"

Dr. Hoffman Says That Justice Is Not Always Wholly Blind.

Would Have State Employ Wife Deserters, Paying Wages to Families.

Discussing "The Church and the Administration of the Law," Rev. Dr. Hoffman, pastor of the First M. E. church, last night pointed out several inconsistencies in the law's administration as between rich and poor litigants and urged the election of law makers better fitted to enact laws that would work impartially among all classes.

He expressed the belief that the tendency towards Socialistic legislation was a result of the law being administered largely in the interests of the classes or the special interests. While he considered such tendency was not as strong as it was a few years ago before the people became aroused to conditions, he maintained there was still a large field for improvement. He favored the enactment of laws that would require the state to give employment to worthless heads of families, deducting from their earnings the actual cost of keeping such men then giving the balance to the families, thereby saving society and the taxpayers much in the way of caring for the families besides doing a lot toward making the derelicts see the error of their ways.

He found much to praise in recent workingmen's compensation legislation but believed there was further field for improvement in this direction. While the bankruptcy law is a benefit to many who have failed in business and want to get another start in life, the speaker thought the law worked an injustice upon creditors who often got nothing in return for money or goods advanced the bankrupt in good faith.

Dr. Hoffman recited several instances that came within his observation while he lived in Pennsylvania of the law's partiality for the rich. He closed by emphasizing the need of electing high class men as state and national legislators and said the church would always be found on the side of law and order, but desired a square deal for all.

MISSOURI BANKERS GATHER AT ST. LOUIS.

St. Louis, Mo., May 18.—Seventeen hundred Missouri bankers and the wives of at least a third of them were expected to attend the twenty-fourth annual convention of the Missouri Bankers' association, which opened here today for a three days' session.

The Federal reserve act and its operation will form the chief topic of discussion during the meeting. The discussion for tomorrow will take in that subject. United States Senator Owen of Oklahoma, who with Congressman Glass first drafted the new currency law, will address the convention tomorrow.

The association has a membership of 1,487 banks. A score of women bankers are among those whose arrival was looked for tonight or tomorrow morning.

"THE END OF THE WORLD"

Lecturer Claims That the Earth Will Exist Forever.

An unusual lecture was delivered yesterday at the Woodmen hall on the subject: "The End of the World."

If the lecturer be correct in his views, there is not so much to fear concerning the end of the world as some would believe. The address was delivered under the auspices of the International Bible Students' association, by N. A. Linderberg.

Referring to II Peter iii: 6-7: "Whereby the world that then (before the flood) was, being overflowed with water, perished: but the heavens and the earth, which are now, by the same word are kept in store, reserved unto fire against the day of judgment and perdition of ungodly men," the speaker contended that just as the earth continued to exist after the first world perished in the flood, so the earth will continue after "this present evil world" is destroyed with fire. He quoted Ecclesiastes i., 4—"The earth abideth forever," and Psalm cxix., 90—"Thou hast established the earth, and it abideth," also Psalm civ., 5—"He laid the foundations of the earth, that it should not be removed forever," declaring that he who denies these verses denies the Bible.

He then endeavored to prove that the fire which destroys the earth, or social fabric, allowing the planet to remain, is not a literal fire. He quoted Zephaniah iii., 8: "All the earth shall be devoured with the fire of my jealousy," elsewhere called "the fire of God's wrath." The next verse, Zephaniah iii., 9 proves that the fire is not literal but figurative, "For then will I turn to the people a pure language, that they may all call upon the name of the Lord, to serve Him with one consent." This shows that people will still remain here after the earth (this present evil, unsatisfactory condition of earthly affairs) is destroyed by fire, the speaker contended.

"Fire Already Kindled."

"The fire is already smouldering in the hearts of countless thousands," continued the speaker, "and every time we see a strike, we simply see a little leaping forth of that flame. What if the strike should be world-wide? Such strikes have already been threatened and scarcely avoided. Should we have such a world-wide strike and should it succeed in tying up everything and finally dissolve the present order of governments, what then? We believe that a new social regime would be started, as was the case in the French revolution. Our statesmen of today think they see such a condition of affairs approaching. The Bible also predicts the same, and we might feel despondent were it not for the fact that the Scriptures assure us that the coming storm will break way in the glorious morning of the world's Golden Age."

No More "For Rent" Signs.

The speaker then showed that this "new heaven and new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness," will be an eternal condition, and that eventually all evil will come to an end. In the new order of affairs, "every man shall sit under his own vine and fig tree." There will be no more homeless families; no injustice will be tolerated, and every one will be happy. In conclusion, the speaker urged his audience not to dread the Lord's return and the end of this evil world or condition of affairs, but to look forward to it with joy, and to pray, "Thy Kingdom Come, Thy will be done on earth." The Lord says: "I come quickly." "Should we not with the apostle John, answer: 'Even so, come, Lord Jesus?'" said the speaker.

CHRISTIANITY IS EVERYDAY AFFAIR

Pastor Says Religious Spirit of the Day Is Largely Represented By "Poster Christianity."

"Poster-Christianity" was the subject of the sermon by Rev. Gebauer, at the First Unitarian church, yesterday.

"The religious posters which a certain company displays from time to time on its billboards may represent a well intentioned effort, but I doubt that they will accomplish much for the 'uplifting of humanity,' he said. "After all it is but a sensational and spasmodic effort, which can not affect the soul. The appetite for the water and bread of life can not be easily excited as is a hankering after a certain brand of pickles by a striking poster.

"No, we need much more the deepening of the spirit, which in the end will demand that every poster if not religious will, at least, not be suggestive of harmful frivolity. But now, without wanting to be harsh, I may perhaps say, that the poster-Christianity represents not a little the religious spirit of the day. Christianity in our day is largely sensational, it lacks permanency, it is filled with sophistry, it strives to make religion the handmaiden of every new reform fad. True enough, religion must serve, must uplift, but as soon as we say: Now let us have a religion, that will reform, which will do wonders and make us all happy, religion in the best sense will walk out of the postern gate. True religion will naturally go forth to do good, but when turned altogether into outward conduct, it will leave us. Religion must as a silent power pervade the whole being of man, and the truly religious will hardly know that this religion impelled him to acts of love and justice. It is because we have so little of true religion, that we make such frantic efforts to act religious, that is why so many for twelve months in the year and for six days in the week display posters of a merely selfish life, and then on the seventh day or on special occasions, show suddenly a religious poster, which soon after gives place again to a picture of frivolity.

Everyday Affair.

"Christianity ought to be an everyday affair. The once-in-a-while Christian only shows what a pitiful sort of Christian he is and how much he is in need of inner life. And while many see Christianity in a display of Christian ethics now and then, when they are deeply stirred by some calamity, there are still more, who see Christianity largely in intellectual belief. They will glibly talk about saving creeds and saving beliefs, they forget that the only thing that can save life is life, that a soul free from the power of self is a soul ransomed by a love, that is above all creed and theological theory. They hold on to their creed in spite of the fact, that such creed is really dead in them, and that their own actions are not influenced at all by what they declare vital to religion. And then to the large mass of the creed-worshipper, the soul which has no shibboleth seems astray and lost. They will not realize that it possibly may hold greater faith. Being so used to forms and phrases of faith, they see in forms and phrases the testimony of true faith. It is hard for them to understand that a man may be a Christian without saying much about salvation and Christ. Or that a man may be a true believer in God without constantly referring to Him Who is nearer to us than breathing and closer than hands and feet and yet beyond the reach of human thought and definition. The saving spirit of God, the Christ may be not on his lips, but a working power in his heart and soul. It is not the Christianity phrase that stamps a man a Christian, but a Christly life, a life in which the spirit of the Master is supreme. And perhaps where this spirit is truly supreme, there naturally little is said about the son of Mary. The historic Jesus means much, but His iternal spirit infinitely more. That spirit is to the true Christian the life, the truth the way. He has little interest in the miraculous things attributed to the Master, because he sees the greater miracle in the man himself or better in the divine spirit which filled him.

"And to believe in Jesus means to him not believing the doubtful and impossible things told about Him, but to believe in His life, to believe that we are called to live as He lived, to love as He loved, to die as He died, if occasion calls for, because we are so saving. Indeed there is no saving virtue in believing that Jesus did miraculous things, healed the sick and raised the dead, and arose Himself from the grave. If He were among us, He would not censure those who believed these things, but He might say: Blessed are those who deny that I was a holy magician, who believe that I was a mere man, and who yet believe in Me as the great son of the Father, and who lovingly do the will of God, and humbly try to live in My spirit, the spirit of the Father!"

West End

PLAYGROUND FOR WEST END CHILDREN.

Children of the West end residing near Nineteenth avenue and Superior street will have a playground this summer. The vacant property on the lower side of Superior street between Eighteenth and Nineteenth avenues is being leveled and cleaned for this purpose and apparatus for play will be installed by the playground association.

This place has been used for a number of years for this purpose by children, but the last two years had not been improved in any way. The scarcity of ground space in this locality for a playground caused many of the residents to ask the board to have the place again put in condition for use.

Swings, turning bars and teeters will be installed under the direction of Harry Cleveland, superintendent of the park board. The smaller boys will also be able to play baseball.

STILL WORKING FOR A "WHITE WAY."

Members of the West End Commercial club will attempt to exert what influence they can to secure the consent of the property owners still holding out against the proposed "white way" in order that it can be installed this summer. It is claimed by members of the committee that only two owners of property between Eighteenth and Twenty-second avenues have refused to sign the agreement.

Merchants of the street fear that if the consent of these two men is not secured prior to the laying of the new paving for the thoroughfare that the project may be given up entirely. They want the improvement put in while the street is being torn up, claiming that it can be installed at a lower cost.

On Thursday evening the committee, headed by A. B. Anderson, will ask each member of the club as well as every merchant in the West end, to write several letters to the remaining two owners and outline in these letters the importance to the West end of having such a system of lighting. This method is expected to bring the consent of the owners.

The cost of installation of the standards is estimated at about $35 per lot and the yearly cost of maintenance at about $17 per lot.

Missionary Meetings.

The Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street, will be entertained Wednesday evening in the church parlors. "Baptist Work in Russia" will be the subject discussed.

Following the meeting a reception has been planned in honor of Mrs. Richard Locke, who will leave in a few days for England to spend the summer. The speakers at the meeting will be Mrs. W. B. Patton, Mrs. J. D. McPhail and Mrs. Milton E. Fish.

The Young People's society has arranged a social and literary meeting for Friday evening in the church parlors.

Parish Meeting.

The annual parish meeting of the St. Peter's Episcopal congregation will be held in the church, Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street, this evening. Following the business meeting at which officers will be elected and the annual reports given, a short program of music and addresses will be given.

Dr. T. W. McLean, rector of the Trinity pro-cathedral, will be the principal speaker. The musical program is being arranged under the direction of Mrs. Neil B. Morrison.

Farmers Will Meet.

The Farmers' & Producers' club of Hermantown will meet this evening at the town hall. The principal discussion will be on improved market conditions and better roads.

For Social Centers.

The Junior Women's club of the Bryant Social center will entertain this evening in the school building, Thirtieth avenue west and Third street, for the young people of West end and West Duluth social centers. A luncheon followed by a musical program and dancing will feature the program. The program will begin at 6 o'clock sharp.

Fire in Lumber Pile.

A fire broke out in a pile of old timbers at 800 Garfield avenue and the Omaha railroad tracks yesterday afternoon at about 3:30 p. m. A hose cart from fire hall No. 2 put it out in short order. It is believed that sparks from an engine caused the blaze.

West End Briefs.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Grace M. E. church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, will entertain at a supper on Wednesday evening, May 27, in the church parlors. The supper will be served between 5:30 and 7:30 p. m.

Mrs. J. M. Congalton, 2515 West First street, is reported ill at her home.

CLEARWATER MUST PAY.

Bemidji, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state supreme court has decided that Clearwater county must pay the Good Samaritan hospital of this city for the care of a prisoner from that county who took sick while in the county jail here. The board of supervisors had allowed the bill at one time, but before action was taken, reconsidered and disallowed it. The hospital mandamused the county and the supreme court questioned the right of a board of supervisors to change its mind and "backtrack."

Muffins

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine.

When muffins are on the breakfast table, nobody cares for meat or eggs and they would be served more often if this meal were not prepared so hurriedly that there is no time to make them. If K C, the double-raise baking powder is used, the batter may be stirred up the night before, put in the pan ready for baking and nothing to do in the morning but bake them.

One-Egg Muffins

2 cups flour; 2 slightly rounded teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; 1 teaspoonful salt; ¼ cup sugar; ¼ cup melted butter or lard; 1 egg; 1 cup water or milk.

Sift dry ingredients together three times. Add to this the unbeaten egg, melted shortening and water or milk. Then beat all together until perfectly smooth. Oil muffin or gem pans and have oven slow until the muffins come to the top of the pan, then increase the heat to bake and brown the muffins. This recipe makes 12 large muffins. Raisins or currants may be added if desired.

Graham Muffins

1 cup graham flour; 1 cup pastry flour; 2 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; 1 to 2 level tablespoonfuls sugar; ½ teaspoonful salt; 1 egg; 1½ cups milk or water; 2 to 3 tablespoonfuls melted butter; mix and bake as One-Egg Muffins.

Graham batter should always be quite soft to insure light and moist muffins.

To get 88 other recipes as good as these, send us the certificate packed in every 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder, and we will send you "The Cook's Book" by Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill. Handsomely illustrated. Jaques Mfg. Co., Chicago.

"'TIS ONLY LEE" SAYS SAGENG

Otter Tail Senator Expects Long Prairie Man to Beat Governor.

Does Not Expect Three-Cornered Fight at November Election.

State Senator Ole Sageng of Otter Tail county, recently strongly urged for nomination for the office of governor, was in the city yesterday to address the Norwegians of the city on the occasion of their celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the independence of their native land. Senator Sageng was asked about the state political situation, but confessed that he does not know a great deal about it in view of the fact that he is pretty busy at home.

"I have made one speech for William E. Lee," said the senator yesterday. "That happened when I substituted for him at Detroit, where he was prevented from appearing because of sickness. I may make one or two more, but that has not yet been fully determined.

"I hope that I am not blinded by desire, but I believe that at the present time Mr. Lee's chances for the Republican nomination are much ahead of those of Governor Eberhart. However, as yet, the campaign has been comparatively quiet, Governor Eberhart beginning his campaign only last Friday evening. Mr. Lee and his friends have been working hard and there is no mistaking the fact that they have made great inroads on the present administration. Several things are causing people to look to Mr. Lee, chief among them being the extravagant record of the Eberhart administration; and then it is believed that the governor has been in the chair quite long enough. I rather think that we will have the desired change."

Senator Sageng had no comment to make on the chances of the Progressive candidate, Mr. Halbert, except that he does not believe that in case Lee is defeated at the primaries enough of the Lee supporters will go to Halbert to make the contest a respectable three-cornered one in November. He looks for the fight then, in any case to be between the Republican nominee and Congressman Hammond, the Democratic nominee.

BRITONS MOURN FOR LATE YANKEE CONSUL

John L. Griffiths Dies Suddenly in London—Native of New York.

London, May 18.—Gloom has been cast over the American colony in London by the death yesterday of Consul General John L. Griffiths, who succumbed to heart disease. His death is deeply regretted not only in the English capital, but throughout the country, where he was almost as well known as in London on account of his brilliant after-dinner speeches.

Mr. Griffiths was one of the most popular American officials who ever held office in England. The reputation he won, during his occupancy of the American consulate in Liverpool, for his close attention to the duties of his office as well as for his good fellowship was fully maintained by him while he was in London.

Was Popular Speaker.

Consul General Griffiths was the most sought-after speaker in London, and he delivered more speeches and addresses after his arrival here in 1909 than any other man during the same period of time. He was a prolific writer, and he sent extensive reports to the state department at Washington, while he still found time to do considerable litrarary work.

The British press pays the highest tributes today to the late consul general's abilities as an official, while the newspapers refer to him as a popular figure and praise his efforts on behalf of good relations between the United States and Great Britain.

Consul Griffiths died suddenly last night at his residence, of heart disease. He suffered a slight illness recently, but was considered convalescent.

John L. Griffiths was born in New York Oct. 7, 1855. He studied law at the University of Iowa and was admitted to the bar at Indianapolis, where he practiced for a time. He was appointed consul at Liverpool in 1905 and consul general at London in 1909. His wife was Caroline Henderson of Lafayette, Ind., whom he married in 1889.

Was Hoosier Legislator.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 18.—John L. Griffiths, the American consul general at London, who died there last night, for years was prominent in Republican politics in this state. Mr. Griffiths came here in the late '70s and was admitted to the bar. For one term Mr. Griffiths was a member of the legislature.

HUERTA IS WILLING TO BE ELIMINATED

president of any of the Constitutionalist military men," said a man who had a long talk with the Huerta representatives here today. "They are not suggesting any names, however, for provisional president, nor are they going to make suggestions to the mediators unless asked, as they are expecting the initiative to come from the three South American diplomats.

"They want someone, however, for provisional president who will guarantee a fair election to all parties concerned and who has not been a military partisan. Of course this would not exclude a number of men who have been in sympathy with the Constitutionalists, but not military leaders."

This view coincided with that obtained from other persons who had informal talks with the Huerta delegates here.

"Will Go the Limit."

The three Mexicans did not divulge the nature of their long conference with Huerta before their departure, but a man who knows the viewpoint of the three men said:

"They are prepared to go the limit in the way of concession, and will recommend to Huerta the reasonable thing. People who talked with the Huerta delegates said they realized the situation has progressed far beyond the Tampico incident, and that at Niagara Falls they would be confronted with the broad problem of restoring peace to Mexico."

The information of Huerta's attitude now received through foreign diplomatic channels agrees with the view obtained by some of the close friends of the Mexicans during their stop here.

Huerta Regime Crumbling.

According to this view, the delegates realized that the present administration at Mexico City was fast going to pieces and it was inevitable that Huerta give place to some other authority.

It did not, however, disclose that Huerta had authorized his resignation if they considered that course necessary, and this more definite phase was first made known in the dispatch through diplomatic channels.

The Mexican delegates are not "Huertistas," but represent broadly the best elements in the Federal districts, desirous of bringing about an orderly government in that section and throughout Mexico. In that respect their wishes are believed to correspond with the wishes and intentions of the American government.

Who will come after Huerta, whether an individual or a provisional commission, still is an open question, but it is gathered that the succession will not be likely to fall on military leaders who have come to prominence "by arbitrary force."

of these, containing thirteen men and the body of the chief steward, was picked up by the Franconia of the Cunard line on May 5. Late the same day another boat carrying thirteen men was sighted by the steamer Manhattan and her crew rescued. Hope for the third boat had been abandoned when the message from the Seneca was received.

The revenue cutter was on her way to Halifax when a man on the bridge made out a lifeboat apparently empty. Drawing near, Capt. Johnston found it contained four men, more dead than alive.

No Time for Provisions.

The men in the lifeboat had left their ship so hurriedly that there was no opportunity to supplement the lifeboat's usual store of water and biscuit. A single cask of water stowed in the stern was soon exhausted, but fortunately rain fell and the men suffered less from thirst than from hunger. One hundred pounds of hardtack furnished their only food. This was used up the first week.

Day after day the men made desperate efforts to attract the attention of passing ships. On the first two days three steamers were sighted, and for nearly a week the boat remained directly in the path of trans-Atlantic traffic, but none saw it.

At the end of the first week they had drifted about 120 miles to the north—away from the winter track of the liners. The immediate vicinity of Sable island is carefully avoided by merchant ships, and apart from the ice patrol ships practically no craft is found in the vicinity where they were picked up.

Threw Bodies Overboard.

With hope of rescue fast vanishing, the men lost courage. One week from the day they left the ship the last of the bread crumbs were eaten. On that day one of the fifteen men died. Some of the men drank salt water and one of them became insane and soon afterward died. Chief Officer Teire ordered the bodies thrown overboard.

One by one the men gave up until only four remained. Peter Triel died as aid was in sight. Chief Officer Teire, an Englishman, 22 years old, said today:

"I had just got on the Columbian's bridge at midnight, May 3, with no signs whatever of fire on board, when there came a series of explosions. One I think was a bunker explosion, which almost tore the ship in two. There was no time to get navigating instruments, provisions or clothing. We had to tumble into the boats in quick time. A strong southerly wind was blowing.

Saw Three Steamers.

"In the early morning we saw a steamer's lights, we judged it was the Olympia. We saw a couple of other steamers while adrift, but evidently we, like specs on the sea, were not seen.

"Day after day passed and the exposure began to tell on the men. We had preserved some cracker crumbs; the last of these were served out yesterday morning. For several days we had been eating leather. The dead were lowered to the sea."

Teire's feet were so badly frozen that it may be necessary to amputate them. The survivors were taken to the Victoria general hospital.

FIND PUBLIC IS DECEIVED

anties for filing and issuing serial numbers.

The food and drugs act does not prescribe any guaranty legend or serial number, nor has any manufacturer ever been required to file a guaranty or to use a serial number of the legend. The appearance of the serial number and the guaranty legend on the products, moreover, has been of no material assistance to the government in detecting or prosecuting violations of the food and drugs act, nor has it promoted the manufacture and sale of pure foods or drugs. The presence of the number and legend on an adulterated or misbranded product does not enable federal officers to secure any heavier penalty for violations than if the goods were not so labeled, although in many such cases it made deception of the public more certain.

Mention of Guaranty.

The only mention of a guaranty in the food and drugs act is section 3, which provides that where a dealer can show a guaranty from the maker of goods that they comply with the law, the manufacturer, and not the dealer, shall be amenable to prosecution.

The manufacturers believed it to be commercially inconvenient to give a separate guaranty as part of the bill of sale or invoice to every dealer with every interstate shipment of their goods, and soon after the passage of the act in 1906, asked the committee, appointed by the three secretaries to draft regulations, to allow them to file a blanket guaranty to dealers at Washington under which the makers of goods would assume full legal responsibility for all goods manufactured by them and shipped into interstate commerce. This guarantee was not in any sense to be a guaranty to or by the government, but was merely to be a guaranty protecting the dealer from prosecution in accordance with section 9 of the food and drugs act.,

This permission was granted, and the department assigned a serial number to each of the guaranties so filed. The manufacturer was then allowed to use this serial number on this label in connection with the legend "Guaranteed under the food and drugs act, June 30, 1906." There was no requirement, however, that any manufacturer should file such a guaranty.

Public Was Deceived.

A large proportion of the public took these words to mean that the government in some way guaranteed the article. In an endeavor to make it clear that the guaranty was not the guaranty of the government, the legend was amended to read "Guaranteed by (name of guarantor) under the food and drugs act, June 30, 1906." The public, however, persisted in taking these words, even after the amended form was employed, to mean that the Federal government had actually analyzed and found the product so labeled to be pure and wholesome and of standard quality. This misinterpretation on the part of the public was, in some cases, encouraged by manufacturers, and there is no question that the serial number and legend were used in some instances to increase the sale of highly undesirable foods and drugs for interstate shipment for which the manufacturers were later prosecuted and fined.

The only guaranty approved by the new regulation for use after May 1, 1915, is the individual guaranty identifying the goods sold by the manufacturer to the dealer. This guaranty can be incorporated in the invoice or bill of sale specifying the goods covered by the use of a form, stamped or printed in the document and signed by the manufacturer. When the goods are properly described in the document they can be referred to in the guaranty without repetition of the detailed description contained in the invoice or bill of sale.

This guaranty should not appear on the label or package of the product. In the meanwhile the public is notified that the presence of a serial number and the words "Guaranteed under the food and drugs act" on packages merely means a guaranty to the dealer that the manufacturer is legally responsible for his goods, and in no sense implies that the Federal authority has investigated or approved the quality of the goods so labeled.

Rest of Regulation.

The remainder of the regulation which deals with the method of using the guaranty is as follows:

"(b) The use on the label or package of any food or drug of any serial number required to be canceled by paragraph (a) of this regulation is prohibited.

"(c) Any wholesaler, manufacturer, jobber, or other party residing in the United States may furnish to any dealer to whom he sells any article of food or drug a guaranty that such article is not adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of the food and drugs act, June 30, 1906, as amended.

"(d) Each guaranty to afford protection shall be signed by, and shall contain the name and address of the wholesaler, manufacturer, jobber, dealer, or other party residing in the United States making the sale of the article or articles covered by it to the dealer, and shall be to the effect that such article or articles are not adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of the Federal food and drugs act.

Plea for Guaranty.

"(e) Each guaranty in respect to any article or articles should be incorporated in or attached to the bill of sale, invoice, bill of lading, or other schedule, giving the names and quantities of the article or articles sold, and should not appear on the labels or packages.

"(f) No dealer in food or drug products will be liable to prosecution if he can establish that the articles were sold under a guaranty given in compliance with this regulation."

by the enormous crowds along the route. Many of them had arrived only just in time to participate in the parade, headed by the Decorah college band from Decorah, Iowa. American flags were in evidence everywhere. King Haakon gave a special audience to the American delegates.

Wilson Sends Message.

Washington, May 18.—President Wilson and King Haakon VII of Norway have exchanged the following cablegrams, the text of which was made known in Washington today:

"The White House, May 17, 1914.

"His majesty, Haakon VII,

"King of Norway, Christiania.

"In the name of the government and people of the United States I extend to your majesty sincere felicitations on the centennial being celebrated today in Norway. The government of the United States is keenly sensible of the cordial feeling harbored in your enlightened and progressive country toward the United States, and in assuring you of the desire and aim of this government to reciprocate and foster that feeling, I avail myself of the opportunity to renew to your majesty my personal good wishes for your continued welfare and happiness.

"WOODROW WILSON.

"President of the United States."

"Christiania, May 18, 1914.

"The president, Washington.

"I thank your excellency very much for your very kind telegram, which my people appreciate very much as we have so many Norwegians who are now good American subjects, at the same time not forgetting the old mother country.

MOVIE HOUSE SAFE ROBBED OF $10,000

Burglars Work Three Hours and Make Watchman Report on Schedule.

New York, May 18.—Posing as detectives, four men gained entrance to a Broadway moving picture theater early today, made the watchman a prisoner, handcuffed three workmen who were in the theater, then blew open the safe in the box office and obtained $10,000. The robbers were in the theater building three hours and compelled the watchman to wind the watchman's clocks at various points in the theater at the proper time so that no suspicion as to their presence would be noted on the outside.

REPOPULATING THE COLONY OF LUDLOW

Unmarried Greeks Solve Problem of Colorado Strikers.

Trinidad, Colo., May 18—The repopulation of the Ludlow tent colony of strikers began today. Unmarried Greek strikers led the return to the camp, thereby solving a problem for the strike-leaders. The Greeks had mingled unwillingly with other races, presenting a difficulty in their housing.

For the present, unmarried men only will occupy the camp. The entrance of women and children was deferred until more tents have been erected and furnished.

AVOIDS CHILD AND KILLS LA CROSSE MAN

Motorcyclist Turns Aside and Runs Into Pedestrian.

La Crosse, Wis., May 18.—A toddling babe caused the death of Jacob Mickschell, member of a picnic party at Mormon Coulee, near here, yesterday. A motorcycle ridden by H. T. May, engineer, dashed along the highway just as a little child stepped out into the road. To avoid a collision, May turned his wheel aside and struck Mickschell, inflicting injuries from which the victim later died.

WATERLOCKED MILL MEN LOSE RATE PLEA

Shingle Tariff Is Declared to Be Reasonable.

Washington, May 18.—Refusal of the transcontinental railroads to apply the same freight rates on shingles from the waterlocked mills in the vicinity of Seattle, Wash., as from the various north Pacific land terminals, was held by the interstate commerce commission today to be reasonable.

It was urged by the waterlocked shingle mills that the excess over the terminal rate, which has been held to be reasonable, has seriously handicapped them in their competition with mills on the east side of Puget sound, and has retarded the development of the Olympic peninsula. The traffic from the waterlocked mills is immense.

An End To The Curse Of Wearing Worthless Trusses

No More Rupture Troubles

60 Days Trial To Prove It

You Don't Have to Risk a Penny.

Here is something absolutely guaranteed to keep your rupture from coming out.

And you can try it sixty days—make a thorough prove-it-to-you test—without having to risk a penny.

If it doesn't hold—if it doesn't keep your rupture from bothering you in any way—then it won't cost you a single cent.

The Only Thing Good Enough to Stand Such a Test.

You know as well as we that you can't tell anything about a truss or anything else for rupture merely by trying it on. That's the worst of going to a drug store or local truss fitter's.

A truss or so-called "appliance" may seem alright when you first put it on, and afterwards prove utterly worthless.

The only way in the world you can make sure of exactly what you're getting is by a 60 days' trial—a thorough day-after-day test.

And our guaranteed rupture holder—the famous Cluthe Automatic Massaging Truss—is the only thing of any kind whatever for rupture that you can get on sixty days' trial, the only thing good enough to stand such a long and thorough test.

Something Nothing Else Does

The Cluthe Automatic Massaging Truss is so utterly different from anything else for rupture that it has received eighteen separate patents.

It provides the only way ever discovered for overcoming the weakness which is the real cause of rupture.

Just how it does that—entirely automatically—is all explained in the free book.

Will Save You From Operation.

The Cluthe Truss has so thoroughly proved its merits that physicians in all parts of the world and surgeons in the U. S. Army and Navy now recommend it instead of advising operation. It has brought complete recovery in hundreds of cases after operation has proved a failure.

No Belt or Leg Straps to Annoy You.

That's why people who try this truss say it is as comfortable as their clothing. It is water-proof—will hold in the bath. Easily kept clean.

Get World's Greatest Rupture Book.

Don't send any money—just write for our free book and find out everything you want to know.

Full of facts never before put in print. Cloth-bound—96 pages—20 separate articles and 23 photographic illustrations. Will save you from being fooled and save you from wasting money.

Explains why elastic and spring trusses are a wicked crime—why they are the ruptured man's worst enemy—why the law should stop their sale.

Exposes the humbug "appliances," "methods," "plasters," etc.

Shows why operation is often a needless gamble with death, and why, if a man manages to get well from the operation, he often has to keep on wearing a truss.

And it tells all about the Cluthe Automatic Massaging Truss and how you can try it sixty days and how little it costs if you keep it.

Gives endorsements of over 5,000 people.

Better write for the book today—it tells things you could never find out by going to doctors or drug stores. Simply use the coupon or say in a letter or postal "Send me the book."

$16,000 IN RAGS UNDER KITCHEN SINK

Bundle of 1,400 Ten Dollar Bills Found in Suicide's Home.

Chicago, May 18.—Mrs. Emily Backus, 77 years old, and her sister, Miss Marietta Wright, aged 73, both wealthy, were found dead in their home yesterday. The door of their bedroom was locked and a gas jet was open.

The women lived in an old stone residence on the West Side. It was filled with valuable paintings and relics. Under the sink in the kitchen, tied up in a rag and marked with the name of Miss Wright, was a bundle containing $16,000 in currency. A bundle containing $4,000 in $10 bills was found in a bureau drawer in the bedroom. It evidently belonged to Mrs. Backus.

OYSTER BAY PLANS ROOSEVELT PARADE

Will Give Ex-President Public Welcome on Return Home.

Oyster Bay, May 18.—Oyster Bay folk have completed plans to welcome home Theodore Roosevelt, returning from the wilds of Brazil. The colonel is aboard the Booth liner Aidan, due to reach New York tomorrow.

It has not been decided whether Mr. Roosevelt will be transferred to a yacht at quarantine, or whether he will go to New York and make the trip here by train. Villagers hope he will come by train and pass through the streets, for should he come by yacht he would land at a pier outside the village proper. If he comes by train there will be a parade through decorated streets.

ANOTHER GERMAN AVIATOR KILLED.

Frankfort-on-the-Main, Germany, May 18.—Another fatal accident occurred today in connection with the Prince Henry aviation competition, which started yesterday at Darmstadt. Lieut. Rohde, who was flying as a passenger with Lieut. Koble, was killed when their monoplane was capsized by gusty winds. Lieut. Kolbe escaped with slight injuries.

NORTH DAKOTA CAT HAS ADOPTED PIGS.

Sherwood, N. D., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mourning the loss of her kittens, which had been drowned to reduce the feline population on the farm, a cat belonging to A. E. Chapdelaine has adopted some 2-day-old pigs. She was inconsolable over the loss of her kittens, and locating the pigs in a pen, her highly developed maternal instincts led her to take possession. When the mother hog arrived the cat flew into a rage and by scratching and tearing at the sow drove her away from her own offspring.

GOGEBIC COUNTY WILL SELL BONDS.

Ironwood, Mich., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The finance committee of the Gogebic county board unanimously decided to go ahead with the sale of bonds, so contracts for the work might be let by another month for the improvements to be made on the courthouse at Bessemer. The chairman of the committee, Robert Douglas, was instructed to have the formal "ads" and notices for bids sent out, all bids to be opened and bonds to be sold at 10 a. m. on June 8 at the county clerk's office in Bessemer.

BESSEMER KNEW RILEY.

Late Wisconsin Attorney Once Lived in Gogebic County.

Ironwood, Mich., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mathew Riley, the well known Wisconsin attorney who died in Milwaukee last Friday, aged 62, and was buried there today, once lived in Gogebic county. He moved to Bessemer in 1887 from Hatley, Wis., and resided in this county until three years ago filling the position of prosecuting attorney until 1889. During the later years of his stay here he was associated with Levi S. Rice in the law practice, which firm was dissolved about three years ago. He also served as city attorney for Bessemer for a number of years, and is the author of the present charter of Bessemer.

Mr. Riley was married in 1878 to Miss Fannie Edwards of Wayne county, Pa., who with one son, Selden, survives.

Norwegian Picnic.

Bemidji, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Norwegians residing in Bemidji held a picnic at Jesters' farm on Sunday afternoon. Baseball games, athletic contests and speeches marked the day. The event was in honor of the International centennial of Norwegian Independence day.

Certain-teed Roofing

Quality Cert-ified Durability Guaran-teed

Certain-teed is the least expensive in the end—and there is so little difference in first cost that you cannot afford to take the risk of buying a roofing that is not guaranteed by a responsible manufacturer.

There is no advance test by which you can determine the amount or quality of service a roofing will give. Such superficial tests as bending, smelling, tearing, etc., do not prove how long a roof will last. "The true proof is on the roof."

Such unreliable tests are used by some manufacturers and jobbers to dispose of their goods. Others take advantage of the public by putting out second or third grade roofings as their first grade goods, or by putting them under old established brands built up on better goods.

But our definite guarantee is your absolute advance knowledge of the service you will get from Certain-teed Roofing. The responsibility of the three biggest roofing mills in the world stands behind that guarantee. It is better than any roofing "test" ever invented.

The amount of Certain-teed Roofing required for an average roof, say ten squares, will cost less than $5 over the cheap mail order grade. This small additional cost is saved many times in the fifteen years' wear which is covered by the manufacturer's guarantee.

Certain-teed Roofing is sold at a reasonable price everywhere by dealers who believe in giving unsurpassed quality at a fair profit.

A Certain-teed Construction Roof for buildings of the most permanent type appeals to architects, engineers and builders as well as to owners.

A Certain-teed Construction Roof is a built-up roof and is the modern scientific process of covering—whether a gable roof or a flat roof with poor drainage.

A Certain-teed Construction Roof does away with the smoky tar-pot and as no gravel is used does not collect dust and the roof is washed clean after every rain. It is a sanitary roof.

Costs more, but worth more. Applied only by responsible roofers.

EXODUS TO THE COUNTRY

Duluthians Spend a Glorious Summer Sunday Out of Doors.

Fishermen and Picnickers Seek Nearby Streams—No Accidents Reported.

Duluth spent yesterday outdoors, enjoying the balmy breezes and bright sunshine to the limit.

It was the season's first general exodus to the country, the parks, the lakes and the streams. Except at the times the crowds from the churches and the people attending the celebration of May 17, Norway's Fourth of July, were temporarily on the streets, the city seemed deserted.

The weather was ideal and only those who had to work or who had special reasons for doing so, remained in town. The outgoing trains were filled to capacity and the roads leading from the city were thickly dotted with automobiles, motorcycles, bicycles and carriages. The river and bay saw the biggest fleet of sailboats, motorboats and rowboats of the year, while the street cars going to the parks handled a heavy traffic.

The fishermen were jubilant. Some sought favorite streams along the various lines of railroads or on roads accessible to automobiles and motorcycles. Scores of men and women found enjoyment up the St. Louis river, some casting or still fishing from the banks and others utilizing boats in their quest of the finny prizes. Picnic parties varying in size from the inevitable couple to a dozen or more were much in evidence.

No accidents of consequence were reported. The boat-rocking fool and the firearm maniac were not present and the water was too cold for swimming.

With another week or two of the present weather the summer season will be in full swing. The excursion boats will begin their river and lake trips, and the resorts will be open for business. The tourists will be arriving in increasing numbers and the sight-seeing cars will be making their daily trips.

REORGANIZATION PLAN FOR WABASH

Details Are Made Known at the Missouri Capital.

Jefferson City, Mo., May 18.—The complete plans for the reorganization of the Wabash railroad, which is now in the hands of a receiver, were filed here yesterday with the Missouri public service commission. The document was received from Winslow S. Pierce of New York, chairman of the reorganization committee.

The plan contemplates a $10,000,000 reduction in the capital of the company and an assessment of $20 per share on all stockholders. Preferred stockholders are to receive the new stock at par and common stockholders at $8, after each has surrendered his old stock and paid the assessment. There is to be no preferred stock in the new issue. Holders of unsecured claims will receive 50 per cent.

Change in Capital.

The present capital of the company is $219,793,877. After reorganization the capital will be $209,601,000, comprised of $64,580,000 undistributed securities and $135,016,000 in new securities. The exact reduction of stock, therefore, will be $10,192,877.

This plan will be submitted for approval to the public service commissions of Missouri, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana and Ohio, the five states through which the road runs.

The commissions of the four other states will meet jointly with the Missouri commission in St. Louis, May 21, to consider the plans.

BALL GAME WAS TOO INTERESTING

Boy Forgot Court Subpoena During Hot Corner Lot Contest.

The 10-year-old son of Mrs. Edith Nelson, 1717 New street, was too absorbed in a back lot baseball game Saturday to remember that his presence was wanted at the courthouse to testify in a suit brought by his mother to collect damages from the Pittsburg Coal company for the death of his father.

And when the lad failed to show up, his mother notified her attorney, who in turn notified the court. The result was that the case had to be postponed. Mrs. Nelson is the widow of Edward Nelson, who while working for the coal company Feb. 7, sustained an injury to one of his fingers which developed blood poisoning and caused death. The boy was on the coal wagon driven by the decedent when the accident occurred.

IOWA MAN STUCK WITH PITCHFORK

A farmer living in the northern part of Iowa stuck himself in the leg with a pitch fork. The wound would not heal and for two years he had a running sore. He tried all the common salves and liniments and sometimes the sore would heal, but it always broke open again. Finally he healed it up to stay healed with Allen's Ulcerine Salve.

This salve is one of the oldest remedies in America and since 1869 it has been known as the only salve powerful enough to cure chronic ulcers and old sores of long standing.

Allen's Ulcerine Salve acts by drawing out the poisons and healing the sore from the bottom up. It is so powerful that it heals new cuts and sores in one-third the time that common salves and liniments take. And it heals burns and scalds without a scar. Sold by the Spencer Pharmacy company and other leading druggists.

COMPANY CLEARED OF ECCLES DISASTER

Explosion Was Caused By Gas, Says Coroner's Jury.

Eccles, W. Va., May 18.—That the explosion in the mines of the New River Collieries company, April 28, which resulted in the death of 172 men in Mines No. 5 and 6, was caused by an accumulation of gas in No. 5, following a short-circuiting of the air, was the verdict of a coroner's jury. The verdict exonerates the company from all blame.

IRON WORKERS MUST RETURN TO PRISON

Convicted Dynamiters Are Given Until June 6 to Go Back.

Chicago, May 18.—All defendants in the structural iron workers "dynamite conspiracy" cases who are now out on bonds or whose convictions were affirmed recently, will either surrender at the government prison in Leavenworth or be taken to the penitentiary three weeks from last Saturday, according to a mandate issued by the United States court of appeals.

The court took under advisement the cases of Olaf Tveitmoe, San Francisco, Richard H. Houlihan, Chicago, and William Bernhardt, Cincinnati. These three were granted new trials, but the government petitioned for a rehearing of that action.

RISKS LIFE FOR HUSBAND'S WORK.

Nevers, France, May 18.—In order to show her confidence in an automatic detachable parachute invented by her husband, a young woman, Mme. Cayat De Castella, dropped 2,500 feet from an aeroplane yesterday. She landed gently in the grass of the aerodrome, and an enthusiastic crowd carried her from the field.

THEOBALD SMITH TO LEAD RESEARCH.

New York, May 18.—Dr. Theobold Smith, professor of comparative pathology in the Harvard medical school will be the head of the department of animal pathology of the Rockefeller institute for medical research, which John D. Rockefeller recently endowed with $1,000,000 and to which James J. Hill has pledged $50,000, for the study of hog cholera. In making this announcement the institute said that the new department would begin active work within the year.

Test Ultra-Violet Rays.

Rome, May 18.—The Italian government has requested Gieulo Ulivi, the discoverer of ultra-violet rays by means of which gunpowder and torpedoes have been exploded from a long distance, to test his discovery in the Mediterranean. It will be necessary for him to cause an explosion thirteen miles away and through the hills.

FIND WOMAN'S SLIPPER.

Patrolman Montgomery, while walking his beat early yesterday morning, found a woman's slipper on First street, near Lake avenue. All efforts to find the owner during the day failed and not until last evening was the slipper disposed of. Asa Lyons, a chauffeur, came to headquarters and told the police that he had been driving a party of young people Saturday evening and that one of the young men threw the slipper out of the car. Efforts at that time to find it failed, he said.

THIS WEEK'S WEATHER

Washington, May 18.—Generally fair weather over most of the country is the official weather forecast for this week.

"With the exception of showers the first half of the week in the Southern states and the Middle Mississippi and Ohio valleys, and about Wednesday in the Middle Atlantic and New England states, the coming week promises to be one of generally fair weather over most of the country," said the bulletin.

"Temperatures during the week will average near or slightly above the normal over practically all parts of the country east of the Rocky mountains. There is no important storm charted to cross the country the coming week."

AMERICANS WILL BUILD FOR CHINA.

London, May 18.—A Shanghai dispatch to the Daily Mail gives details of a loan of $30,000,000 negotiated by the Chinese government with the Bethlehem Steel Works for the construction of a naval base at Foo Chow. The security is the existing Foo Chow dock. Only American engineers and material will be employed. Only $20,000,000 will be devoted to constructional purposes.

ZELIE EMERSON IS HOME FROM ENGLAND.

Jackson, Mich., May 18.—Zelie Emerson, who has figured in many suffrage escapades in England, has returned to the home of her mother in this city. She refused to comment upon her experiences in London. She was said to be in good health.

Something About Government Ownership

No. 6

Considerable has been said about government ownership of telephones—about its efficiency and low cost of service.

Every government owned telephone system considers the Bell System as a standard, uses the Bell operating methods and either uses Bell apparatus or copies it.

Yet there is not another system in the world that gives an approximation to the facilities that the Bell System gives, or gives as good or as cheap service on the same basis of accounting, franchise conditions and wages paid.

The reason is that there is no such a thing as economical government administration; that low cost of government operated utilities is, as a rule, due to lack of quality, or to the fact that deficits of operation are being supplied out of the public treasury.

Bell Telephone Service Has Set the Standard for the Rest of the World.

Woman's Realm

The Linnaea society made $1,000 by its tag day, held Saturday for the benefit of tuberculosis sufferers of the city. The success of the undertaking was due to the offerings of many as no one gave more than $1. The amounts paid ranged from the dollar mark down to 1 cent. As about 10,000 tags were disposed of the average contribution was 10 cents. The bright pink and green cardboard squares were shown by prosperous looking men and women who could part with coins without the least inconvenience and by small urchins who made one wonder what had to be gone without in order that needy sufferers might be benefited.

The members of the Linnaea society wish to thank those who made it possible for them to raise the money that will be spent in Duluth for sufferers of the white plague.

CONFERENCE AT MEMPHIS

Duluth Delegate Returns From Notable Gathering in South.

The National Conference of Charities and Corrections held at Memphis May 8 to 15, was the second in point of attendance of all the conferences that have been held since the founding of the association, the largest one having been at Cleveland, according to Mrs. P. L. De Voist, one of the Duluth delegates, who returned today.

Meetings were from 9 o'clock in the morning until 1:30 o'clock and from 2:30 to 6 o'clock each day. Between meetings the delegates were entertained at receptions, taken for trips on the Mississippi, for visits to cotton plantations and to other points of interest. Every hour was taken up with interesting and beneficial meetings or with pleasure trips.

For the second time a woman was elected president of the Conference of Charities and Corrections. She is Mrs. John Glenn of New York, a native of Baltimore. Mrs. Glenn's father was one of the founders of the national association and she has continued in his work. Her husband is the chairman of the Russell Sage foundation and both Mr. and Mrs. Glenn have taken active part in the charities department of the conference.

One of the interesting features of the meetings was the report by states, given by the secretaries of the Charities and Corrections conferences of forty-five states of the union.

Keynote Was Hygiene.

The conference was addressed by the governors of Missouri, Arkansas and Tennessee. There were many noted men and women who gave excellent addresses that made the meetings of unusual interest. The keynote of the conference was hygiene. For the first time this subject was on the program daily.

As the Southern Sociological conference met in Memphis at the same time a joint meeting of the two associations was held on the evening of May 9. This meeting was addressed by some of the most celebrated sociologists who attended the conferences. Sunday morning Dr. Graham Taylor, the president of the National Conference of Charities and Corrections, gave the conference sermon in the First Baptist church. Dr. Taylor made a wonderful talk that appealed strongly to his large audience.

Mrs. Desha Breckenridge gave one of the most effective talks of the conference, telling of the good that has been done by social centers among the very poor of her home city, Lexington, Ky. Mrs. Breckenridge is a great granddaughter of Henry Clay, whose oratorical ability she has inherited. Another speaker of the same name was Miss Sophim Isba Breckenridge, who is dean of the women's law department of Northwestern university.

Mrs. De Voist, who was named by Governor Eberhart as a delegate, said the weather in Memphis was very much like the weather Duluth enjoyed yesterday.

Young Matrons' Club.

The Young Matrons' club of the First Baptist church will be entertained tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by Mrs. H. H. Thompson and Mrs. John McDonald at the home of Mrs. Thompson, 1212 East Fourth street.

Greysolon du Lhut.

The annual meeting of Greysolon du Lhut chapter, D. A. R., will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. W. P. Mars, 1627 East Third street. Mrs. S. L. Reichert will be the assisting hostess. Roll call will be answered by state flowers. There will be an election of officers and reports of the national congress.

Mrs. F. S. Sterbeck will sing "Blossom Land," by Percy Elliott and Mrs. C. B. Gilbert will sing Edwin Green's "There Is a Garden."

Shakespearian Burlesque.

Some of the most familiar Shakespearian characters will be burlesqued at the entertainment to be given by the Young Matrons' Circle of Pilgrim Congregational church in the Y. W. C. A. assembly room Friday evening. The following characters will be portrayed: Juliet, Mrs. W. C. Allen; Ophelia, Mrs. C. H. Dunning; Portia, Mrs. J. A. Hector; Lady Macbeth, Miss Myra Germond; Rosalind, Mrs. Frank Fenstermacher, and Celia, Mrs. Davis. Mrs. George A. Helfsteck will give a monologue, "Photographing the Baby."

WILL SPREAD GOSPEL THAT FARMER'S FAMILY IS AS IMPORTANT AS STOCK

MISS MARY BULL.

MISS BETH ROWE.

How the country housewife may make her home as attractive as her sister in the city will be shown by Miss Mary Bull and Miss Beth Rowe to the housewives in the rural districts on the range during the two weeks' tour of the Agricultural Special over the Duluth & Iron Range railway.

These experts on home economics believe that if it is necessary for a farmer to feed a mixed ration to his cows to get the best dairy results, it is infinitely more important for a farmer's wife to arrange her daily menu in such a way that her family will get the proper combination of foods to provide the proper nourishment for her family. They also will prove that a farmer's wife can have a kitchen with modern conveniences.

One of the chief duties of Miss Bull and Miss Rowe will be to explain the model kitchen, which has been arranged in one of the coaches of the "special." The point that will be most emphasized is the hot water system. The importance of the both on the farm has become more and more conspicuous during the last few years, and the gospel of cleanliness will be preached as well as proper food and clothing.

Every farmer's home can be provided with a hot water system, these experts say. In the modern kitchen shown on the train this idea is clearly shown. In one corner of the "kitchen" a large barrel for water is placed on a platform. It is connected by pipes to the cooking range, so that the water may be heated. Pipes connecting with the bath tub, the wash bowl, sink, etc., complete the hot water system. The arrangement is perfect and the cost is small.

Miss Bull and Miss Rowe will receive the housewives in the "kitchen," and meals will be cooked showing what a proper menu should consist of for breakfast, luncheon and dinner. Lectures will be given also explaining all phases of home economics.

Temperance Union.

The Minnesota Temperance Union association will meet at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow, from 12 to 1:30 o'clock for luncheon. This will probably be the last meeting of the year.

Thimble Bee.

On account of illness in the home of Mrs. M. H. Willis, the Thimble Bee of J. B. Culver corps, No. 69, W. R. C., will be entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. J. Hyde, 1125 East Fourth street.

At Pro-Cathedral.

The Woman's Auxiliary of Trinity pro-cathedral will give a birthday party Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock for the members of the congregation and their friends. Mrs. D. T. Murrey will speak on "Missionary Work in India," and there will be a musical program. After the musical program Mrs. E. Frank Barker will give an informal talk on Japanese literature, history and home life, illustrating her accounts with prints that were sent her by the Japanese consul of San Francisco. Mrs. Barker will speak in a Japanese booth and will wear an authentic Japanese costume of blue silk crepe. Miss Pearl Preston, who will take the part of Mrs. Barker's maid, will wear a Japanese costume that is authentic in cut as it was copied from Mrs. Barker's.

Tea will be served at tables with appointments typical of China and Japan. The color scheme of the guildroom will be Japanese blue.

Miss Agnes Wells, who has been a member of the pro-cathedral parish for some time, and who is to leave the city soon, will be a guest of honor at the birthday party.

Dancing Club.

The dancing club will give its spring dancing party at the Kitchi Gammi club Wednesday evening, May 27, instead of May 26, as was announced.

Maghan-Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. James Maghan of 1819 Piedmont avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Emma Louise, to A. W. Johnson of Superior, Wis. The wedding will take place in July.

NOTED ACTRESS PLAYS IN SHAW DRAMA

MRS. PAT CAMPBELL.

Mrs. Pat Campbell, as she is still known to the stage, has appeared recently in a new play by George Bernard Shaw called "Pygmalion." In it she took the part of a flower girl who is taken from the streets by an experimenter and trained to be a duchess.

Endion Circle.

Endion circle of the First Presbyterian church will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the church.

Y. W. C. A. Campaign.

The women who are conducting the campaign to raise $8,000 for the Y. W. C. A. budget started out this morning to call on the men to whom leaflets had been sent out setting forth the financial condition of the association. About 1 o'clock the committee women assembled at the Y. W. C. A. building to have lunch and discuss the progress of the campaign and plans for carrying it on. This plan will be carried out all week. The members of the committee are:

Mesdames—
W. C. Agnew,	E. D. Field,
W. A. McGonagle,	E. T. Hughes,
T. L. Chapman,	Watson S. Moore,
George H. Claypool,	F. H. Rogers,

J. A. Watterworth,	H. H. Phelps,
T. W. Hoopes,	A. D. Jacobs,
F. W. De Vey,	A. G. Strong,
F. C. Bowman,	Jay H. Hoag,
Misses—	R. E. Denfeld,
Myra Germond,	Helen Congdon.

Debate at Irving Center.

The debating club of Irving Social Center will debate the question of woman suffrage tomorrow evening at Irving school. Allen Forsberg and Edmund Briggs will be on the affirmative side and Page Cashin and James Bothwell on the negative side. Other clubs of Irving Social Center will meet as usual tomorrow evening.

Junior Woman's Club.

The Junior Woman's Club of Bryant Social Center will entertain their friends at a social dance and supper this evening at 8:30 o'clock. Those who will act as hostesses are Misses Mabel Thorstad, Etta Peterson, Hepzibah Hagberg, Edith Elmquist and Hazel Moir.

For Bride-Elect.

Miss Alvina Hasse of 308 East Fifth street entertained at an informal dinner of six covers yesterday in honor of Miss Lillian Stevens, whose wedding to Henry A. Anderson will take place Wednesday evening at the home of the bride. Miss Stevens will be attended by her sister, Miss Minnie Stevens, and the best man will be Ernest Larson.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Cultivate Diligence to Succeed.

Energy employed without guidance and discretion is usually a complete loss. We have all met the active individual who is in a turmoil all the time, yet never accomplishes anything — the man who has forty things started, and no one thing finished — the woman who ambitiously assumes numerous affairs in which she means to shine, only to fail to make any of them on schedule. However, failure is not due to lack of energy, but to its misdirection or eleventh hour application.

No one is harder to deal with than the hustling individual who is always talking, yet never saying anything; always doing, yet never accomplishing anything; always going, yet never reaching the destination. It is useless to complain to such people, for they are of a happy-go-lucky turn of mind or else impervious to recriminations.

The energetic person whose activities are for the most part misplaced or misdirected often bobs up in church and club work. She really wants to be helpful; moreover, she likes the excitement and the importance which attaches to herself in the various fields of endeavor. So she promises to do this and begs to be allowed to do that. In short, she assumes enough for any two able-bodied women with an enthusiasm and will that seems to argue well for the success of whatever she undertakes.

Mrs. Good Intentions would be shocked to have such terms as "trouble-maker" and "fabricator" applied to her in her efforts to be conspicuous in public events of one kind and another. Doesn't she work herself nearly to death struggling to do her part? Isn't her husband in despair because she will devote all her time to matters which do not contribute anything to his comfort or glory? Indeed he is inclined to sneer at the failure she makes, all because other people cannot be made responsible.

Assume a quarter of what you formerly attempted with so much gusto and you will be better off in the end. Let someone else have a chance. Other people like to be helpful in a small way. If you don't win a name for being dependable, your friends will distrust you and gradually they will eliminate you from all these social and other activities so thoroughly enjoyed, and which in moderation are good for you or any other man or woman.

HOME TREATMENT FOR TUBERCULOSIS.

Youth's Companion: In the last twelve months the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor has conducted some interesting and promising experiments. Recognizing that the tenements are hotbeds of tubercular infection, and that if tuberculosis could be conquered in the tenement districts, would soon cease to be the great scourge of the cities, the association selected a number of tubercular families for treatment in its East River homes. The aim was, without separating the family, to prevent the spread of the disease from the sick to the well members, to cure those who were in the early stages of the disease, to secure improved health and larger earning capacity to those whose cases were moderately advanced, and to rehabilitate the family, physically, economically, and socially.

The average residence of each family in the homes covered a period of 233 days. During that time the average gain in weight of each adult patient was nearly ten pounds. Of eighteen positive cases of tuberculosis that were under treatment for more than six months, eleven are apparently cured; in four the disease is arrested; and in two there is marked improvement. No new cases have occurred in any family admitted to the homes.

The improvement in the condition of the children and infants has been striking. Upon admission, nearly all of them were under-developed. Yet in six months every child had attained a weight normal for its age. "From pale, puny, forlorn, anaemic unfortunates," says the report, "they have changed to children wholesome, bright-eyed and happy."

The families themselves contributed by their earnings more than $5,000 toward meeting the total expenses of about $27,000.

The experiment is to be carried on for two years longer. It seems likely to result in definite proof that if families forced by tuberculosis into dependency and destitution can be provided with sanitary housing, adequate relief, reasonable segregation, and proper medical care, they can be rehabilitated in a comparatively short time, and that the disease can be virtually stamped out. Once that is certain, a new direction may be given to poor relief work and to the campaign against "the great white plague."

PRACTICAL TOMMY.

New York Mail: "Run upstairs, Tommy, and bring baby's night gown," said Tommy's mother.

"Don't want to," said Tommy.

"Oh, Tommy! If you are not kind to your new little sister she'll put on her wings and fly back to heaven."

Tommy's reply came.

"Well, let her put on her wings and fly upstairs for her night gown!"

A HAND-PICKED ISSUE.

Governor Eberhart in his keynote speech again declares that the real underlying issue in this campaign is the statewide primary, and that it is a goner if he is not elected.

Hang it, he oughtn't to keep on stirring up our sensibilities that way!

We think a lot of the direct primary. We always have favored it, and expect always to support it. It has its faults, which practice and study no doubt will work out of it; but it hasn't so many faults as some people seem to think. Most of the criticism against it—based largely on the fact that in its first application it produced Mr. Eberhart as the Republican candidate for governor—is on the ground that it fails to overcome lack of public spirit or to nullify the results of careless judgments by the voters. And there is no law, and never will be a law, that can do that.

But it is very important indeed that we keep the primary, and Governor Eberhart says that it is gone if he goes—that his defeat for nomination and election will pronounce its doom.

That's terrifying to contemplate. Its terrifying not only because it would be dreadful to lose the primary, but because it is fearful to think that a thing so important hangs on a peg so insecure and fragile.

Mercy on us! Eberhart, for all his splendiferous and dazzling greatness, is mortal, sad to say. Some day he must die. Even if the people keep on electing him year after year, as the only way of keeping the primary, and continue to put up with him for a generation because in no other way can they preserve the primary, some day he will pass away.

And then what is Minnesota going to do?

If the primary dies when Eberhart dies politically, it must die when he dies physically. So it's a goner anyway.

It's a truly terrible state of affairs which the governor pictures for us with remorseless iteration. We wish he wouldn't keep it up so. It makes for pessimism and despondency. It keeps us in a constant state of apprehension and alarm.

But always there is a faint glimmer of hope, which we like to return to and warm our trembling hands at. MAYBE IT ISN'T SO! Maybe we could keep the primary and not have to keep Eberhart too. Maybe the primary could endure his defeat. The matter is so important that it seems worth while hazarding all on a single cast of the dice, and trying that out.

Also, we are always interested in attempts of candidates to keep hand-picked issues to the fore, and to drown out other issues by harping on issues of their own choice. The incumbent who is uneasy about certain things likes to talk so loudly and long about other things that the delicate issues will be forgotten.

That's an old game of Mr. Eberhart's. One time it was "Conservation and Consolidated Schools"—Conservation and Consolidation—Con and Con for short.

This time it's the fate of the statewide primary.

"Con and Con" worked beautifully. We have a scientific curiosity to see how this successor to Con and Con will work out.

Mary Garden says she has quit America "for good." Remembering her Salome, "for good" is right.

STRIKERS AND THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT.

Governor Ammons of Colorado tells the president that he believes the Federal government should settle the Colorado coal strike, on these grounds:

First, that the "coal companies are composed in large part of stockholders beyond our state lines."

Second, that "the United Mine Workers is a national organization."

As stockholding in very few important companies is confined to a single state, and as practically all labor unions are national in organization, the governor's reasoning, if it holds good, will apply to every strike of any consequence.

For instance, in the last serious strike in Duluth, that on the street railway lines, the same conditions prevailed precisely. Most of the stock of the company is held in Canada, and the striking employes sought to affiliate with a national labor organization. Yet nobody thought of calling in the Federal government. The same thing was true of the Michigan copper strike.

If the governor had added that the product involved in the strike—coal—is a national necessary, he would have made his case much stronger.

If the Federal government is to settle all strikes to which the points Governor Ammons raised are applicable, it will have its hands full.

Yet some better method of settling strikes than by the test of brute strength is sadly needed in this country.

Since England boasted that her aeroplanes were safer than those of other nations nearly a dozen English army aviators have been killed. Which is putting altogether too literal a construction on the proverb that "pride goeth before a fall."

THE PEON AND THE LAND.

Some people may have wondered why it is always so easy to get up a revolution in Mexico.

That's simple. It's because the peon has nothing to lose and everything to gain.

The land, the people's land, is held by two hundred families. The peon has none. He has no home, no spot of ground to call his own and to love, no stake in government. So he is always willing to fight at anybody's call, always with the hope that fighting may better his lot and the certainty that it cannot make it worse.

We have been growing rapidly of late into a strong partisanship for Villa—for Villa, the brigand and outlaw—for Villa, the remorseless and cruel.

What we now hear about his tactics toward the peon and the land increases that feeling of partisanship.

Frank Putnam, a trained observer of wide experience who has lately been studying the methods of the Constitutionalists in Northern Mexico, describes in the St. Louis Mirror the system of land distribution which Villa has employed. As soon as a state was conquered surveyors were sent out to plat the great ranches—confiscated in the name of the people—into farms of ten, twenty and forty acres. The Constitutionalist government has already issued five thousand patents to heads of families, and its purpose is to keep it up till Mexico is divided.

That's proceeding rather cavalierly toward the big proprietors, but they are enemies. As a means of laying a foundation for permanency on the part of the Constitutionalists, it's exceedingly shrewd. The peon who gets a farm knows that the party back of his title is the Constitutionalist party. That makes him a strong Constitutionalist.

Moreover, if a Constitutionalist party government is established, every peon land-owner will have a stake in it. That is more than has been true of other Mexican governments, and that is what has been the matter with them—and with Mexico.

Babies born in 1950, says a Chicago scientist, will live to be a hundred years old. Not if they get to be president of Mexico.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

2.—Supreme Court Changes.

This amendment accomplishes three things:

First, it forbids judicial vetoing of statutes on the ground of unconstitutionality by a mere majority of the court. It requires that no statute shall be held to be unconstitutional unless at least five of the seven justices so declare.

Second, it increases the number of justices from five to seven.

Third, it takes the clerk of the supreme court out of the list of elective offices and makes him appointive by the court.

The first achievement of this amendment needs no argument, because one of the great scandals in the national life has been the condition under which courts of last resort could veto legislation by a mere majority vote—thus giving a single individual power to override the will of the people and the lawmakers.

The second accomplishment of the amendment needs no argument to any lawyer. Five justices were unable to keep up with the growing work of the court. Seven are needed, and this amendment provides the seven. Because some voters, not lawyers, will fear an increase in expenses, it will be necessary to acquaint the state generally with the fact that there will not be a penny increase because the legislature has already created two supreme court commissionerships, the commissioners to act practically as justices until the number of justices is increased, when the commissionerships expire. The sole effect of adopting this amendment will be that there will be seven justices instead of five justices and two commissioners.

The third effect of the amendment, to put the clerk of the supreme court under the appointment of the court, will be a step toward the short ballot in this state. It is absurd to have such an office in the list of elective offices, and the adoption of this amendment will lessen the absurdity of the present ballot.

This amendment should by all means be ratified by the voters.

With the United States flag flying in Vera Cruz it would seem a likely time for Champ Clark to get off a variation of his famous little joke about extending the United States.

THE SIN OF SERVING MANKIND.

"Our neighbor the Sun," says the New York World, "is in a great state of agitation because the president in his tribute to the dead sailors and marines said that 'we have gone down to Mexico to serve mankind if we can find out the way.' Would the Sun feel happier if he had said that 'we have gone down to Mexico to harm mankind if we can find out the way'?"

Knowing the Sun's viewpoint, and the viewpoint of those for whom it is the able spokesman, we have the utmost confidence that if the president had said that "we have gone down to Mexico to serve STOCKHOLDERS if we can find out the way," the Sun would be a great deal happier and much more enviable.

Talk of serving humanity, especially when such service involves any subordination of jeopardized investments, always irritates a certain class of people.

Buying eggs by weight is all right if there isn't too much wait before they are sold.

Our Aristocracy of Achievement

From "The Goldfish," published anonymously by the Century Company.

It is a fine thing to assert that here in America we have "out of a democracy of opportunity" created "an aristocracy of achievement." The phrase is stimulating and perhaps truly expresses the spirit of our energetic and ambitious country; but an aristocracy of achievement is truly noble only when the achievements themselves are fine. What are the achievements that win applause, for which we bestow our decorations in America? Do we honor most the men who truly serve their generation and their country? Or do we fawn, rather, on those who merely serve themselves?

It is a matter of pride with us—frequently expressed in disparagement of our European contemporaries—that we are a nation of workers; that to hold any position in the community every man must have a job or otherwise lose caste; that we tolerate no loafing. We do not conceal our contempt for the chap who fails to go down every day to the office or business. Often, of course, our ostentatious workers go down, but do very little work. We feel somehow that every man owes it to the community to put in from six to ten hours' time below the residential district.

Young men who have inherited wealth are as chary of losing one hour as their clerks. The busy millionaire sits at his desk all day—his ear to the telephone. We assume that these men are useful because they are busy; but in what does their usefulness consist? What are they busy about? They are setting an example of mere industry, perhaps—but to what end? Simply, in seven cases out of ten, in order to get a few dollars or a few millions more than they have already. Their exertions have no result except to enable their families to live in even greater luxury.

I know at least fifty men, fathers of families, whose homes might radiate kindliness and sympathy and set an example of wise, generous and broad-minded living, who, already rich beyond their needs, rush downtown before their children have gone to school, pass, hectic, nerve-racking days in the amassing of more money, and return after their little ones have gone to bed, too utterly exhausted to take the slightest interest in what their wives have been doing or in the pleasure and welfare of their friends.

These men doubtless give liberally to charity, but they give impersonally, not generously; they are in reality utterly selfish, engrossed in the enthralling game of becoming successful or more successful men, sacrificing their homes, their families and their health—for what? To get on; to better their position; to push in among others who, simply because they have outstripped the rest in the matter of filling their pockets, are hailed with acclamation.

It is pathetic to see intelligent, capable men bending their energies not to leading wholesome, well rounded, serviceable lives but to gaining a slender foothold among those who are far less worthy of emulation than themselves and with whom they have nothing whatsoever in common except a despicable ambition to display their wealth and to demonstrate that they have "social position."

In what we call the Old World a man's social position is a matter of fixed classification—that is to say, his presumptive ability and qualifications to amuse and be amused; to hunt, fish and shoot; to ride, dance and make himself generally agreeable—are known from the start. And, based on the premise that what is known as society exists simply for the purpose of enabling people to have a good time, there is far more reason to suppose that one who has come of a family which has made a specialty of this pursuit for several hundred years is better endowed by nature for that purpose than one who has made a million dollars out of a patent medicine or a lucky speculation in industrial securities.

The great manufacturer or chemist in England, France, Italy or Germany, the clever inventor, the astute banker, the successful merchant, have their due rewards; but, except in obvious instances, they are not presumed to have acquired incidentally to their material prosperity the arts of playing billiards, making love, shooting game on the wing, entertaining a house party or riding to the hounds. Occasionally one of them becomes, by special favor of the sovereign, a baronet; but, as a rule, his socalled social position is little affected by his business success, and there is no reason why it should be. He may make a fortune out of a new process, but he invites the same people to dinner, frequents the same club and enjoys himself in just about the same way as he did before. His newly acquired wealth is not regarded as in itself likely to make him a more congenial dinner table companion or any more delightful at 5 o'clock tea.

However, with a strange perversity—due, perhaps, to our having the Declaration of Independence crammed down our throats as children—we in America seem obsessed with an ambition to create a social aristocracy, loudly proclaimed as founded on achievements, which, in point of fact, is based on nothing but the possession of money. The achievements that most certainly lands one among the crowned heads of the American nobility is admittedly the achievement of having acquired in some way or other about $5,000,000; and it is immaterial whether its possessor got it by hard work, inheritance, marriage or the invention of a porous plaster.

In the wider circle of New York society are to be found a considerable number of amiable persons who have bought their position by the lavish expenditure of money amassed through the clever advertising and sale of table relishes, throat emollients, fireside novels, canned edibles, cigarettes and chewing tobacco. The money was no doubt legitimately earned. The patent medicine man and the millionaire tailor have my entire respect. I do not sneer at honest wealth acquired by these humble means. The rise—if it be a rise—of these and others like them is superficial evidence, perhaps, that ours is a democracy. Looking deeper, we see that it is, in fact, proof of our utter and shameless snobbery.

Most of these people are in society not on account of their personal qualities, or even by virtue of the excellence of their cut plug or throat wash, which, in truth, may be a real boon to mankind—but because they have that most imperative of all necessities—money. The achievement by which they have become aristocrats is not the kind of achievement that should have entitled them to the distinction which is theirs. They are received and entertained for no other reason whatever save that they can receive and entertain in return. Their bank accounts are at the disposal of other aristocrats—and so are their houses, motor cars and yachts. The brevet of nobility—by achievement—is conferred on them, and the American people read of their comings and goings, their balls, dinners and other festivities with consuming and reverent interest. Most dangerously significant of all is the fact that, so long as the applicant for social honors has the money, the method by which he got it, however reprehensible, is usually overlooked. That a man is a thief, so long as he has stolen enough, does not impair his desirability. The achievement of wealth is sufficient unto itself to entitle him to a seat in the American house of lords.

TheFederal League's Success

Baltimore Sun: The worthy John McGraw, in one of the articles which he writes periodically for a New York newspaper, confesses that the Federal league has done much better than he expected, and that it is being splendidly supported in Baltimore and elsewhere. Another New York paper quotes "an owner of a minor league and part owner of a major league team" as saying that the Federal league will put some of the minors out of business unless some defensive scheme is worked out by the minors and their major league allies. But perhaps the best news of all about the new organization is the fact that in cities where Federal and other major league ball is played, notably Chicago, the experienced sporting writers are declaring that the former is playing the better ball.

Every one in Baltimore would hate to see the International team here injured financially or any other way, but the fact remains that it is in a position of great disadvantage compared with the Federal team. The people cannot take as much interest in the Orioles as in the Terrapins, and for a good reason. Their hope of seeing the best kind of baseball is bound up in the latter. The Internationals of this year might be a much better team than their rivals, but come September and October their best players will be stolen from them and they will have to begin anew, whereas the Terrapins will build upon their solid foundation, and, if they receive good support, may in time have the champion team of the whole world here. At least there is no foolish drafting law to prevent.

This was the great weakness of the so-called "organized" baseball. If the minor league teams are restricted to the smaller towns such a system may possibly be carried out without danger, but it is the height of folly to imagine that cities of Baltimore's size or near it can be given inferior teams, teams that may be smashed to pieces at the end of every season, without resentment and warfare. That was the great blunder made by the "organized" magnates, and it bids fair to be a costly one for them. As they look at the success of the Federal league they must be murmuring to themselves a certain familiar couplet regarding the saddest words of tongue or pen.

Monterey.

We were not many—we who stood
Before the iron sleet that day;
Yet many a gallant spirit would Give half his years if but he could
Have been with us at Monterey.

Now here, now there, the shot it hailed,
In deadly drifts of fiery spray,
Yet not a single soldier quailed
When wounded comrades round them wailed
Their dying shout at Monterey.

And on, still on, our column kept
Through walls of flame its withering way;
Where fell the dead, the living stept,
Still charging on the guns which swept
The slippery streets of Monterey.

The foe himself recoiled aghast,
When, striking where he strongest lay,
We swooped his flanking batteries past,
And, braving full their murderous blast,
Stormed home the towers of Monterey.

Our banners on those turrets wave,
And there our evening bugles play;
Where orange boughs above their grave,
Keep green the memory of the brave
Who fought and fell at Monterey.

We were not many—we who pressed
Beside the brave who fell that day;
But who of us have not confessed
He'd rather share their warrior rest
Than not have been at Monterey?

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—William S. West, the new senator from Georgia, is a man of great determination and persistence. If he were to get up some fine morning with the idea, let us say, that he ought to eat a mess of young onions, and there were no young onions in market, he would get that mess of onions if it took him a couple of years, and onions would never be out of his mind until he got them. No matter what it is that he starts at he goes the whole distance. When he was a youngster on the farm, West got an idea into his head that he would never amount to much unless he first acquired a rather elaborate education. He had no money, but he announced that he was going through college and law school and then would round his equipment by taking a course at some good business college.

Friends and kinsfolk told him he would overdo the thing and waste a lot of time and that he'd better forget his foolish notions.

But West shook his head and said that he was going to be educated or know the reason why. By teaching school for a while he earned enough money to pay his way through college. It was slow, tedious work, because he had to stay out of college every other year to make the money he would spend the following year. By the time he had finished college his brothers who had not paused to acquire a higher education were established in business and prospering.

"You, too, might be making a lot of money by now," his friends told him, "if you hadn't fooled away your time in college."

"Yes," retorted West, "but I started out to get a very thorough education, and I never start anything that I don't finish."

He then began the study of law and alternated between working and attending law school until he completed that course. By that time he was past 30 years of age and everybody who knew him assumed that at last he was ready to bid farewell to his school days. But they were vastly mistaken, for there was still the business college.

"Look how old you're getting to be," his brothers said to him more in sadness than in anger.

"I don't fix my age," replied West; "the Almighty does that. But I mapped out a certain course to pursue, and I intend to do what I set out to do if it takes until I'm 60."

When he received his diploma from the business college and started out at last to make his fortune, West was 33 years of age.

He then started in and made a half million dollars.

Dr. Domicio da Gama, ambassador to the United States from Brazil, and one of the mediators of the Mexican controversy, is a person who can keep a great many important things to himself, saying never a word to anybody. When the mediation plan gets well under way, one may rest perfectly easy that the negotiations will not be upset by Ambassador da Gama talking too freely.

It was in connection with his marriage to a beautiful widow, a member of a wealthy New York family, that Ambassador da Gama made himself a reputation for unusual skill at keeping things quiet. A great many persons get married without much being known about it in advance, but as a rule those persons are not members of a diplomatic corps. The Brazilian ambassador is probably the only person in the diplomatic circle at Washington to ever accomplished so important event with such complete secrecy. Washington contains a great number of persons who aim to know the gossip of everything that is going on in a social way. Many of these were greatly vexed with Ambassador da Gama when he returned from New York one morning with his wife. Until then not a soul, even among his most intimate associates, had any idea that he was so much as engaged or that he was that well acquainted in New York. His little coup caused great mortification among those in the diplomatic set who felt that they had reputations to sustain as professional gossips. To this day they wonder how he managed it.

Two members of a Washington chess club stopped Senator Shafroth of Colorado on the street one afternoon recently and invited him to drop around to their clubrooms for an informal little series at chess.

"Oh, no, I cant' do that," replied Shafroth. "I can't do it at all—I really cannot."

His refusal was so positive that he seemed almost alarmed lest in a weak moment he might be inveigled into a serious situation.

"We aim to treat everybody right," laughed one of the club members.

"I grant that," said Shafroth, "but you know I have a flat rule against playing chess. I wouldn't get into a game of chess for anything."

The explanation is that ever since the international chess match, which was arranged by Tom Reed between the English house of commons and our house of representatives, and played by cable, with John Shafroth representing our side, Shafroth has avoided playing chess as he would avoid a pestilence. He won the match against the best player in the house of commons, and, as he explains it:

"Why play again and ruin one's reputation?"

Some Men—and Hearst.

Collier's: We referred recently to the experience of Mr. McLean of the Cincinnati Enquirer in attempting to create anti-Wilson sentiment in Ohio. Hearst has just tried the same thing in a baser way and got an even harder jolt. In the early fighting at Vera Cruz one of our marines, an 18-year-old Georgia boy named Randolph Summerlin, was killed. Whereupon Hearst's Atlanta Georgian tried to turn its own sneaking profit out of the tragedy by wiring its correspondent at Willacoochee as follows:

Please interview Summerlin's father on uselessness of sacrifice. If United States is now to accept mediation, does he not think it outrageous to have to send boys to be killed, and the government decide fighting is wrong? Please send good statement.

Hearst's employe forgot that he was sending this stuff to men of Georgia. Here's the answer he got:

Referring to telegrams to George W. Melton, beg to say my brother, Randolph Summerlin, was killed at Vera Cruz in defense of our country's honor. We favor President Wilson and the Democratic administration, and Randolph has four brothers and a father who are ready and willing to make the same sacrifice if called upon. We think the Wilson policy is absolutely right. I. W. SUMMERLIN.

And the local paper chimed in with this telegram to the Atlanta Journal (not a Hearst paper):

B. F. Summerlin, father, and I. W. Summerlin, brother of Randolph Summerlin, killed at Vera Cruz, take the "Georgian's" request as a gross insult, not only to his relatives and friends, but to the entire country. If we could not be loyal to our country, would move out. WILLACOOCHEE RECORD.

Hearst had better stick to the safe old policy of manufacturing any necessary "good statements." It would be less hard on his self-esteem.

Wanted—A Real Man for State Executive

Views of the state press on a much needed change.

The Right Sort of a Man.

St. Cloud Times: At one of the largest gatherings of Minnesota Democrats ever held in the state, wherein practically every county was represented, Hon. Winfield Scott Hammond, congressman from the Second district, was indorsed and recommended as a Democratic candidate for governor.

Mr. Hammond is a big man mentally and in all that goes towards making up an honorable, high-minded public servant. There is a long distance between Adolph Eberhart and W. S. Hammond. As governor the latter would lift the position to the plane once occupied by Ramsey, Sibley, Davis, Lind and Johnson.

The record of Governor Eberhart has been written by Republicans—Democrats could not paint a more condemnatory picture.

A Clean Man and a Good Record.

Fergus Falls Journal (Rep.): In selecting Congressman Hammond as their candidate for governor, the Democratic conference chose a clean man with a creditable record. Having secured the indorsement of the conference, he ought to have no difficulty in defeating Lawler for nomination.

Democrats Selected Well.

Crosby Crucible: Winfield Scott Hammond is the name of the gentleman next to be governor of the great and glorious state of Minnesota. Mr. Hammond is a tall-standing statesman and will bring Minnesota up to him, and give it the place that rightfully belongs to it in the sisterhood of states.

The Democrats have selected well and no mistake has been made, or is likely to be made, and the people of the state are highly pleased with the outcome of the convention, and rejoice at the salvation from political bondage that is in sight. He will be a governor in keeping with the greatness of the greatest state in the Union, and he will be a personal governor rather than shift the responsibility onto this interest or that system.

With Mr. Hammond leading Democracy, it matters not who the Republicans nominate, the Waterloo is written—but at that we would like to see a handsome, bang-up job made of it while the Democrats are in action. We would like to see Lee defeat Eberhart for the nomination, which would mean the elimination of quite a considerable batch of Republican incompetents at one full swoop.

No Embarrassing Entanglements.

St. Peter Herald: Congressman Hammond is free from embarrassing political entanglements, and his record in public life is one that it without reproach. He will be the nominee of Democracy, and there is reason to believe that, in the face of the normal Republican majority, he will be the next governor of Minnesota. He may be suported by the voters of all parties, and once he is elected he will fill the gubernatorial chair with conspicious dignity and ability.

Easy Either Way.

Albert Lea Standard: It is conceded by many close observers that the bitter factional fight between the Eberhart and Lee forces for the Republican nomination for governor will make it practically impossible for either of them to be elected, and that the chances for Hammond's election grow brighter every day. Democrats generally seem to hope for Lee's nomination as they figure that he would be an easier man to defeat, as he would be without the active and valuable support of the Eberhart organization of office-holders.

A Very Strong Man.

Perham Enterprise: The selection of Winfield Scott Hammond of St. James for primary candidate for governor by the Democratic conference insures the state a capable and honest executive in the event that dissensions within the Republican party overcome the hitherto predominate majority of that party. Mr. Hammond is a strong man. He is an able lawyer, a calm and level-headed counselor, a man of high ideals and absolute integrity. He is a progressive Democrat but neither a radical nor a visionary. As campaigner he will lack personal magnetism, for he is neither known to tango nor write love songs, but in the nominally Republican district which has successively sent him to congress he is not alone respected, but, by those who know him, well loved. The Minnesota congressional delegation will be weakened by his withdrawal but the state would be immeasurably strengthened by contrast with its present incumbent by his presence in the governor's chair.

The Home Paper

Walt Mason in Judge: The Punktown Bugle comes to hand on Friday of each week; a rawer sheet, in all the land, methinks, you'll vainly seek. It has of ink a greasy coat that soils my cuffs and bib; its type was old when Greeley wrote his essays for the Trib. It's printed now and then in red or other gaudy tint, and I must stand upon my head deciphering the print.

And yet, when that old Bugle comes, my tired eyes dance and shine; I quit my figures and my sums and read it, every line. I'd throw away the noblest book or skip a chance to eat, to pick the Bugle up and look through that old dizzy sheet. I'd drop the newest, fairest mag, with all its wealth of art, to read that musty crossroads rag, whose stories reach my heart.

"Old Peter Prune has bought a cow, his old one having died; we hope that he'll be happy now and not swell up with pride."

Thus speaks the Bugle, and I spring a retrospective smile; I knew old Peter, and, by jing! his cow was well worth while. That sort of news, you say, would give the willies to a bo. Ah, well, you see, I used to live at Punktown, long ago.

"Complaint is made that Jonas Boggs the ordinance would beat; he pastures all his cows and hogs along the village street."

"James Zimmerman has set the pace by painting up his shack. Good work, Friend Jim! Let others chase themselves along your track!"

"The mudhole in the public square disgraces our fair town, for sundry teams have foundered there and children there may drown."

"Some wretched fiend in human form stole prunes from Grocer Vail; our village marshal now is warm upon the felon's trail."

"Sam Jones has bought a runabout—seat wide enough for two. Perhaps he'll take a widow out; we wonder—say, don't you?"

"Sim Piker tried to shoe his mule, and, while he trimmed its hoof, the long-eared and ungrateful fool just kicked him through the roof."

You say such stuff is tommyrot, from jay reporter's pen; but every item hits the spot and makes me young again. You listen to it all with scorn and say it's stale and slow; it pleases me—for I was born at Punktown, long ago!

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1894.

D. E. Myers, superintendent of the Minnesota reformatory at St. Cloud, has resigned on account of ill-health, and the board of managers has elected William E. Lee of Long Prairie as his successor. It is not known whether Mr. Lee will accept the appointment.

The 3-year-old son of Joseph Mayhew, who works in Michell & McClure's mill at West Duluth, was drowned in the creek near the Central avenue bridge. He was attempting to cross the stream on a log to meet some other children when he fell and was carried down by the swift current.

W. E. Shipley of West Duluth has returned from a trip down the lakes.

Memorial day will be observed in Duluth this year by the three Grand Army posts uniting in a program prepared by a committee of which N. A. Gearhart is chairman and L. C. Johnson secretary. After the afternoon parade, a meeting will be held at the Central high school, where there will be music by the children of the schools under the direction of Prof. Custance and a memorial address by Rev. Dr. Forbes. Willis A. Gorman post will give an entertainment at the Temple in the evening, when Governor Knute Nelson, Mayor Ray T. Lewis and others will speak.

Yesterday was Norway's day of independence, and exercises were held at the pavilion last evening under the direction of the Young People's Idun society and the Normanna male chorus. The committees in charge were John Nornberg, John Iverson, G. Ringstad and Hans Caspersen from the Idun, and J. Sodahl, L. Throne and D. Staen from the Normanna chorus. The speakers were Charles A. Towne, John Rustgaard and O. Stenson and a fine musical program was presented.

The weather is the topic on the end of every tongue. Yesterday was the fifth day of rain, but today bright sunshine prevails. The high northeast wind was dissastrous to the lumbermen, booms giving away and logs going adrift. The dam of the Cranberry Lumber company went out, beaching 2,000,000 feet of logs on the south shore. The water in the bay rose two and a half feet and forced the Stevens mill at the foot of Garfield avenue to shut down.

Charles James Scott died yesterday at St. Luke's hospital after an illness of three weeks from typhoid fever. He was employed in the First National bank and had a large circle of friends in Duluth. The body was taken to Montreal for burial.

F. F. McIver, formerly of Duluth, has become connected with Bradstreet's commercial agency, his work being in the president's office in New York.

The Losses in War.

New York Evening Sun: Her boy had just enlisted and she was sorely distressed. Her friends were trying to ease her mind with the futile comparisons and hopeful assurances, "It won't last long and won't be very bad," they told her; "it just can't be. And what's 'four killed'—or even a dozen or a score—to the gory wars of times gone by?"

"A score or even half a dozen's quite some!" she sighed and brushed away a tear. "You talk to me as a Russian crowd once talked to a mother," she continued vindictively.

"It was during a Crimean war skirmish and they were gathered round the newspaper bulletin to get the latest account of the engagement. A peasant woman was loudly bewailing the fearful slaughter.

"'That's neither a slaughter nor is it especially fearful,' explained a pompous bystander. 'Why, there's hardly anyone killed at all! Only one Cossack!'

"'It was a fearful slaughter,' wailed the woman, 'for that one Cossack was my Cossack.'"

Wall Street Journal: A reader of the Wall Street Journal writes from Nebraska protesting against the suggestion of this newspaper that Mr. Bryan would find a more desirable field of usefulness elsewhere than in the office of secretary of state. This critic calls Mr. Bryan "our most gifted orator," and states, with perfect truth, that "his personal honor is untarnished by the breath of scandal."

It is certainly untarnished so far as the Wall Street Journal is concerned. But personal honesty is no guarantee of efficiency. Mr. Bryan lacks accurate knowledge, administrative capacity and experience in the conduct of foreign relations—all indispensable in the high office he holds. So far as his oratory is concerned, he cannot discharge the duties of secretary of state with his mouth. If honesty were all, his possible successors would be numbered in millions.

William Jennings Bryan is a perfectly square man.

In a perfectly round hole.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

"LITTLE BOY BLUE."

To the Editor of The Herald:
Will you kindly publish in your open court columns a copy of the poem, "Little Boy Blue" by Eugene Field.
Thanking you in advance, I remain, yours respectfully, J. A. E.
Duluth, May 13.

"The little toy dog is covered with dust,
But sturdy and staunch he stands;
And the little toy soldier is red with rust,
And his musket moulds in his hands.
Time was when the little toy dog was new,
And the soldier was passing fair;
And that was the time when our Little Boy Blue
Kissed them and put them there.

"'Now, don't you go till I come,' he said,
'And don't you make any noise!'
So, toddling off to his trundle bed,
He dreamt of the pretty toys;
And, as he was dreaming, an angel song
Awakened our Little Boy Blue—
Oh! the years are many, the years are long,
But the little toy friends are true!

"Ay, faithful to Little Boy Blue they stand,
Each in the same old place—
Awaiting the touch of a little hand,
The smile of a little face;
And they wonder, as waiting the long years through
In the dust of that little chair,
What has become of our Little Boy Blue,
Since he kissed them and put them there."

FULL STORY OF TWO BIG STRIKES.

To the Editor of The Herald:
While the Herald has told us about all some people care to know in regard to the copper strike in Michigan, and the big troubles of the Colorado coal strike, and the editor has printed some very wise remarks on the subject, yet I would like to inform all Herald readers of two places where the story in full can be obtained. The first place is in the Appeal to Reason, where John Kenneth Turner writes an article entitled "Capitalism's Invisible Army." The publishers say that this article "will run in the Appeal for the next twenty weeks."

On the back of the reddish colored subscription sheets is a little plain English prose entitled "A Message From Mother Jones." The last two sentences are "Down with government by gunmen," and "It has no place in the United States in the Twentieth century."

The second place to get a fine and clear description of the trouble in Colorado is in the New York Independent, for the date of Monday, May 11, 1914.

The main article of this issue is about "The War in Colorado," divided into three separate headings, as follows: First, "As the Workers See Is, by John P. White; second, "As the Operators See It," by John D. Rockefeller, Jr.; and third, "As Any Eye-Witness Sees It," by Helen Ring Robinson, only woman senator of Colorado. This magazine (The Independent) is one of the best weeklies published in this country, and is just what its name implies—"Independent." Any one who reads it for some time will agree with me on that point—I'm sure. If any Herald readers have the information desired, I wish that some day when it is easy to spare the time they would inform me on the following questions: 1. What were the dates of Napoleon Bonaparte's birth and death? 2. What were his most famous sayings? 3. What were his greatest peculiarities? 4. What were the dates of the birth and death of Robert G. Ingersoll? 5. What were his most famous sayings? 6. What were his greatest peculiarities? 7. Was Ingersoll an infidel or an atheist? 8. What is the difference between the two? 9. Who was the smartest of the two men—Ingersoll or Tom Payne?
Thanking you for past favors, I will end this letter.
GEO. W. McKAY.

"THE BEAUTIFUL HOUSE OF TOMORROW."

To the Editor of The Herald:
Will you kindly publish the enclosed poem which is a favorite of mine?

"A pilgrim was passing the wide-open door
As an angel stood waiting and calling to him,
From the beautiful house of today.
"O, enter, ye here, 'twas built just for you;
Come dwell in this beautiful place,
For other shall never be open to you,
From today to the end of the race.'

"But the pilgrim saw not its glory or worth,
I see not the beauty you say,
To me 'tis only a bare, lonely place;
'Tis only the house of today,
While onward before in my journey I see
A house that is wondrously fair;
'Tis the house of tomorrow that soon I shall see,
That is free from the burdens of care,

"And the angel said sadly, 'Farewell, Farewell,
As the pilgrim pressed forth on his way
To the house of tomorrow he had seen just ahead,
And lo, 'twas the house of today.
It's glory and splendor had seemed to depart;
'Not the house of tomorrow,' he cried,
And the angel still stood by the wide-open door
And pleadingly pressed to his side,

"How often we all, in the journey of life,
Impatiently press on our way,
Nor see in our haste that beautiful place,
The beautiful house of today,
But the house of tomorrow we constantly seek
And turn from the angel away,
Who lovingly, pleadingly, calls us to dwell
In the beautiful house of today.

HOSPITAL FEES.

To the Editor of The Herald:
Will you please settle this dispute through "The Open Court?"
A. says that when a man is employed by a company or corporation of any kind, that he must submit and be willing to pay hospital fees even against his will.
Is that the law?
A. says yes. B. says no.
Thanking you in advance for the space. A QUESTIONER.
Duluth, May 16.

There is no law covering the point. The company might enforce the collection of such a fee with discharge as the alternative.—The Editor.

SYMPATHY.

To the Editor of The Herald:
If Sextette is looking for sympathy there is at least one man in this city ready to give it, for he sat directly behind just such a couple Wednesday evening as Sextette describes.
It may seem a small matter for a big man to kick about, but by the great horn spoon, he spent a nerve racking hour and actually deserted before seeing all the pictures.
The company ought to make an effort to abate this nuisance.
Here is a chance for the movie-loving public to make suggestions towards such effort and earn the gratitude of THE MAN OF WRATH.
Duluth, May 16.

"SAFETY FIRST."

To the Editor of The Herald:
While you are calling attention to the matter of city regulations of automobile traffic, I would like to inquire if there is not a rule in force which requires the chauffeur of an auto in approaching a street car which is stopped to admit or discharge passengers, to halt the auto until the gates of the street car are closed before passing.
If there is such an ordinance it should be enforced as it is certainly a very important one. In most all other cities of any size this rule is strictly enforced, for if the chauffeur is not interfered with in this respect many of them will speed right by a car inconveniencing the street car passengers and endangering their lives.
The street car company strictly enforces the rule to bring a car almost if not intirely to a standstill when passing by another car which is stopped at the time to let passengers on or off and this rule is practically the same as the one which I have mentioned and of equal importance, as passengers often get on or off a car in a hurry and don't take time to look out for an approaching auto.
A SAFETY FIRST MAN.
Duluth, May 16.

There is no provision in the city traffic ordinance covering this, but the state law covers it and it should be strictly enforced.—The Editor.

WILL ATTEND DOLLAR DINNER

Boyle's Friends on Range Will Motor to Duluth.

Members of the "Boyle for Congress" clubs in Eveleth and Virginia are planning an automobile trip to Duluth Monday night, to attend the dollar-dinner of the Boyle clubs at the St. Louis hotel. Arrangements have been made for twenty machines, which will be decorated. A number of Hibbing Boyle boosters will join the delegation.
Senator Boyle was the principal speaker at the Norwegian celebration at Eveleth Saturday night. Today he is completing arrangements for his campaign in Duluth. The senator expects to cover practically the entire district between now and the primaries. He has made arrangements for a number of open-air meetings in various towns.

RESOLUTE WOMAN WON'T QUIT MEXICO

Methodist Missionary Decides to Remain at Her Post.

New York, May 18.—Rather than leave her work in Mexico City, Miss Laura Temple, a missionary of the Methodist Board of Foreign Missions, has decided to remain at her post. She is the only one of the thirty Methodist missionaries in the republic of Mexico who has refused to seek safety.
Explaining her reasons for wishing to stay, Miss Temple wrote the following letter to Dr. John W. Butler at the head of the mission work in Mexico City, who is now in New York:
"The industrial school with which I am connected is outside the city limits, and has no protection save that of native employes. While I am here to give them directions by telephone and pay them their wages promptly, they will faithfully guard the animals and contents of the buildings and will care for the fruit trees and crops. Should they know that I had left the country, in less than three days nothing would be left of the transferable property, because they would lose their heads through fear and bandits would do the rest.
"Our Sarah L. Keen college property here in the city would be less exposed, but would doubtless soon be looted if it became known that no one remained in charge of it. I have arranged to enter the English hospital as a volunteer to help care for the wounded in case there is fighting in this city. Miss Wilson, the one in charge, has assured me that my presence will mean much to her, as the nurses with one exception have never been in the midst of a bombardment, and she is not sure that she can depend on them.
"If I were in the United States I would volunteer to come here for Red Cross service. Now that I am here, why should I go away when there is an opportunity for serving?"
Miss Temple is a native of Pennsylvania, a graduate of Allegheny college, and since 1903 has been principal of the Sarah L. Keen college.

Mexico Will Meet the U. S.

at Niagara Falls! The mediators chosen to adjust the differences between the United States and Mexico have selected Niagara Falls as the place for their deliberations. Thirteen years ago the inventor of and the founder of this unique industry selected Niagara Falls as the spot on which to build the finest, cleanest, most hygienic food factory in the world. During that time this factory has been visited by over one million persons. In this unique plant are made every day in the year two million Shredded Wheat Biscuits—evangels of Health and Peace to all the world.

Ever eat Shredded Wheat Biscuits with strawberries and cream? If you haven't you have missed one of the joys of Summer—the choicest product of Northern fields combined with the most luscious product of American gardens—a dish that is deliciously nourishing, wholesome and satisfying. Heat one or more Biscuits in the oven to restore crispness; then cover with berries or other fresh fruit and serve with milk or cream.

BORROW FROM THEIR WIDOWS

Insurance Commissioner Condemns Practice of Mortgaging Policies.

Would Have Loans Conditional on Consent of Beneficiary.

In a statement issued by J. A. O. Preus, state insurance commissioner, the practice of borrowing money on insurance policies is condemned as an evil and the fear is expressed that legislation to meet conditions will have to be adopted.
The insurance commissioner does not take the stand that loans should never be made on reserves, for he appreciates that sometimes loans are a necessity, especially when made to pay premiums. Here is his warning statement:
"There are too many men who borrow money on their life insurance policies. There are too many men who look upon life insurance as their property and not as they should, a contract for the benefit of prospective widows and orphans.
Wife's Property.
"The ordinary wife works as hard for the maintenance of a home as does the husband. The life insurance contract should be looked upon as the wife's property and the husband should not borrow money from the insurance company in which the policy is held upon her property.
"Women strive to pay life insurance premiums and fail to realize until their husbands die that possibly there is a mortgage on the policy.
"Where a man borrows upon his policy for the purpose of paying premiums he is, to be sure, excused. From borrowing for any other purpose he should be discouraged. Where he borrows upon his policy for speculative purposes he cheats his family.
"A man should not be permitted to borrow upon his policy without the consent of the beneficiary.
"Every woman who is striving that her husband may pay premiums upon life insurance for the benefit of herself and children should ascertain whether there is a loan on such policy if she desires to know to what extent she is protected by life insurance.
Increase in Loans.
"During the last twenty years the percentage of policy loans to the reserves of legal reserve life insurance companies has increased from approximately 3½ per cent to more than 16 per cent. Life insurance policies in these companies are now mortgaged by policy loans in the sum of approximately $550,000,000.
Defeats Purpose.
"The purpose of every life insurance company is to pay death claims and protect families. Less than 10 per cent of loans made upon policies are ever repaid. The condition is becoming so serious that unless the public awakens to the evil of the practice of borrowing money upon life insurance policies the pendulum will swing back and instead of having legislation compelling legal life insurance companies to loan to policyholders, they will be forbidden to so loan money. Every life insurance policy which has been in force for a period of two years in the state of Minnesota has a given cash surrender value equal to the reserve on such policy. This reserve could on most policies be borrowed by the policyholder from the insurance company.
"Fraternal insurance societies which furnish insurance to the working man and protection to the families that need most, provide for no policy loans, and should proceed slowly in securing legislation which would enable the granting of such loans. Life insurance should be a system of protection to families and not a bank.
"Do not borrow money from your prospective widows and orphans."

Y. M. C. A. WORK IN SOUTH AFRICA

Johannesburg Paper Tells of Duluthian's Success There.

The Herald is in receipt of a copy of the Johannesburg Star, published from Johannesburg, Transvaal, South Africa, containing an account of a Y. M. C. A. celebration in which E. D. Ranck, formerly assistant general secretary of the Duluth association, took a prominent part. Mr. Ranck is general secretary of the association at Johannesburg.
On the program, reference is made to Duluth as being the home of the secretary. "This city is not on our map," states the program. With reference to the work of Mr. Ranck, the article says:
"In the course of the happy evening E. D. Ranck, general secretary, said he felt the association had in some measure justified its existence in the city during the last twelve months. On the 9th of April, 1913, they opened the building with a membership of sixty. On the 31st of March this year they had a paid-up membership of 1,170 in the senior department, and 260 in the juniors. Educational work had been carried on in the classes in Dutch, bookkkeeping, shorthand, elocution, first aid, and photography in both departments. In its religious work the association had conducted men's meetings on Sundays and Bible classes for both men and boys. In athletics cricket teams had been run, football clubs, tennis, swimming, shooting and physical culture. The demand for the latter was increasing weekly, and it was hoped that it would not be long before the gymnasium, which was so badly needed, would be built on the site adjoining."

DEATH NOT DUE TO BRUTAL ASSAULT

Post Mortem Shows Henry Nordquist Died of Erysipelas.

Henry Nordquist, 41 years old, who died at the county hospital Friday night, was not brutally attacked and murdered, as had been suspected, but succumbed to a severe attack of erysipelas, according to Coroner McComb, who conducted a post mortem examination at the Crawford undertaking rooms yesterday afternoon.
Nordquist was found at the Schlitz hotel last Thursday night in a drunken condition. He had fallen down a flight of stairs and was dazed when picked up. The injured man was taken to the police station and after his injuries were dressed, he was removed to the county hospital, where he died late Friday evening.
It was at first thought that Nordquist had been attacked and robbed by two men Thursday night. Nordquist was known to have had some money and the theory was advanced that the man had been murdered for his money. An examination yesterday afternoon disclosed the fact that Nordquist had been suffering from erysipelas and that it was the cause of his death last Friday evening.
Nordquist was a fisherman and had lived in Duluth about twenty-five years. He was a widower and had made his home on Park Point up to a short time ago. He will be buried at Greenwood cemetery tomorrow afternoon as a county charge.

A. F. OF L. HAS GAINED 69,756 MEMBERS.

Washington, May 18.—Reports showing a gain of 69,756 members of affiliated unions for April, 1914, over that month in 1913, were made public by Secretary Morrison following the meeting of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, which adjourned until July 13. The total paid-up membership for 1914 was 2,069,157. The treasury balance April 30 was reported at $105,098.01.

Coffee Finds Its Place

The Literary Digest, of March 28, 1914, quoting the New York World, says:

"Cocain and its allied intoxicants appear to be about the cheapest things in the market. They are seemingly cheaper than whiskey, cheaper than beer, cheaper in proportion to effects than tea or coffee."

The best teaching of today is distinctly against the use of coffee, tea and other drugs, and drug-bearing beverages—especially among the young. It is well established that headache, nervousness, indigestion, sleeplessness, and other aches and pains are commonly caused by coffee drinking.

People are becoming alive to this fact and thousands have quit coffee and now use

EBERHART AND LEE BOTH ON THE STUMP

Former Still on "Clean and Dignified" Pedestal; Not Expected to Remain There Long; Lee Using Both Hands; Some Curious Agreements of Governor; Auditorship Race Quiet; No Fur Flying in Democratic Campaign; The Congressional Situation Getting Interesting.

The most spectacular part of the campaign for nominations at the primaries of June 16, which, by the way, are less than a month off, is in the governorship matter on the Republican side. William E. Lee, the anti-machine conference's choice, has been hammering the record of Governor Eberhart for several weeks, and is not letting up. He keeps right on after it, and that record is receiving considerable airing. Governor Eberhart says he is standing on his record, but in his opening speech at St. Cloud on Friday night did not have much to say about it. He continued to harp on the conferences held by his opponents in both parties; and declared that the maintenance of the primary law is the main issue.

The whole result is likely to be, even the Republican papers are now very reluctantly admitting, that with the continually widening rift in the Republican party, Winfield Scott Hammond will win in a canter in November.

There are some parts of Governor Eberhart's St. Cloud speech which are rather curious. In one part he says that he believes in law enforcement. This is curiously in line with a resolution passed by the state retail liquor dealers' association a few years ago in which they solemnly agreed to abide by the law. The governor's promise comes in the matter of county option, where he dodges an expression of his position except to say that he will sign a county option bill if the legislature passes it—as any governor doubtless would do as a matter of course.

On the other hand, the machine forces are gleefully reprinting an admission made by Mr. Lee in one of his speeches, regarding the formation of a new machine. Mr. Lee is quoted as admitting the charges made that while he is against the present machine he is endeavoring to build up a new one. Mr. Lee claims for the "new machine" that it will be a better one.

In short the campaign is degenerating just now into a condition where the Democrats of the state are chuckling audibly. Charges and counter-charges are being made and now that the governor has started his stump speaking and Mr. Lee is well under way the fireworks are likely to break loose at any time. The governor reiterated at St. Cloud that he would conduct a "clean and dignified campaign" but if things get going against him too much, it is not believed that the interests that back him will stand for it. If anything can be found in Mr. Lee's record that will give them an opening. The chances seem to be that before very long their long distance debate will become a verbal rough-and-tumble affair, and, with the hide of one of them tacked on the fence when June 16 will have passed, there will be a distressing desertion from the ranks of the beaten candidate to the Democratic side.

In the meantime Congressman Hammond is remaining steadily at his post in Washington as he said he would, and there is no fur flying in the Democratic party. To his credit be it said, Dan Lawler, the rival candidate for the Democratic nomination, is acting in a manner contrary to all expectations and is behaving himself admirably. Of course he and his supporters are quietly campaigning, but in such speeches as he has been making, mostly non-partisan and really having nothing to do with politics except in a general way concerning good government, he has been courteous and non-abusive. Of course, in the case of a man of Mr. Lawler's disposition, accustomed to the give-and-take style of political campaigning, the eruptions are not to be unexpected at any time.

In the matter of the state auditorship, everything is being done quietly. Henry Rines appears to be having the best of the campaign, and despite his lack of money, or a well-heeled political organization, his friends in all parts of the state are making good on their admiration of his qualities, and are conducting a campaign without money and without price, or furnishing a little themselves. That style of campaign, prompted only by real admiration, based on a knowledge of a man's worth, is usually the most effective. It is a good thing, also, to have the people "at home" like a candidate and back him with unanimity. That is what is happening at Mora, where Mr. Rines lives, and where he is editor of the Times. They have organized "The Henry Rines Club of Mora, Minnesota," to boost the candidacy of "Kanabec County's Favorite Son," as they call him. As a part of its work this club has just issued a special edition of the Kanabec County Times for the purpose of telling the voters of the state what Mora thinks of her foremost citizen. Practically every citizen of Mora donated a week of time and effort in behalf of Mr. Rines.

Realizing that Mr. Rines is not in a position to spend very much money on his campaign, his fellow-citizens of Mora have raised a moderate fund to carry on a campaign from that city. In the statement sent out by the club, Mr. Rines' legislative record is dwelt upon at length and his public career described and eulogized.

But in the meantime Jake Preus is conducting one of the foxiest campaigns in the state. He is going here, there and everywhere speaking before various bodies—but, mind you, never mentioning politics in his speeches. He just talks about the insurance department of the state and of the laws he would like to see passed for the benefit of the insured. Of course he talks politics on the sidle. Jake is a nice fellow and it is too bad that he is hooked up with the crowd that is backing him and which urged him to get into this campaign.

The Republican candidates for congress in the Eighth district are "going to it" with a vengeance. Fortunately there is nothing in the way of mud-slinging in it—in their speeches at least, no matter what happens on the quiet. The speeches have been confined, so far, to those before clubs, at banquets and so forth, the day for "hiring a hall" seemingly having gone by. They are being invited to various points. Senator Boyle has been doing most of this thus far, owing to the fact that Congressman Miller has had to attend to his duties in Washington a great deal. In fact, after a short visit to the district he left yesterday evening for Washington on official business and will be absent a week. He has headquarters in the Alworth building with Ray M. Hughes in charge, and Senator Boyle has headquarters in the St. Louis hotel, with his brother, J. A. Boyle, in charge.

For the past two weeks both candidates have been busy speaking at different points on the range. Last week both of them—something of an anomaly—spoke before the New Duluth Commercial club at its annual banquet. On the same evening Congressman Miller spoke before the Orpheus Singing society at the West end. A week ago Sunday Senator Boyle spoke before the Bartenders' club, on Wednesday he spoke before the Boyle For Congress club, on Thursday before the Two Harbors Commercial club, on Saturday he was principal speaker at the Norwegian centenary celebration at Eveleth, next Thursday night he will speak at the Irving school in Duluth, Friday he will speak at some West end hall and a week from this evening he will address the banquet of the Boyle For Congress club, which is planned to be a big affair. As has been said, Congressman Miller will be in Washington during this week but by the time he gets back dates enough to fill in his time between then and the end of the campaign will be arranged. The only one yet announced is that of June 1, when both he and Senator Boyle will speak at the dedication of a high school at International Falls.

In the meantime Andrew Nelson, the Democratic choice for congress, is attending to his legal duties, having no opposition in the primary campaign. June 16 passed, Mr. Nelson will start in to give the successful Republican candidate a run for his money, and the belief is growing that it will be "some run" as Mr. Nelson is proving a surprisingly popular choice of the Wilson party for the office. In fact a good many venture the opinion that even with the retirement of Congressman Hammond, Minnesota will not be without a Democratic congressman. Also Carl Avery, who is the Democrat opposing Congressman Davis in the Third, and Dr. Witherstine of Rochester, are looming up as distinctly dangerous to their Republican opponents.

The legislative campaign is going on in an interesting manner, all of the candidates who have opposition at the primaries devoting practically their entire time to the campaign.

It is understood that, as is the custom among the Socialistic candidates for office, Richard Jones, candidate for senatorial honors in the Fifty-eighth district, will soon issue a challenge to his opponents for a joint debate. His opponents are State Senator Thomas M. Pugh and Former Representative J. R. Randall.

Candidates for county office have until a week from Wednesday to file with the county auditor. Until then it is not certain who will oppose who. Efforts are being made to trot out aspirants for all of the offices against the present incumbents. What the success will be remains to be seen. The chief battle ground for county commissionerships seems to be the Second district. Twelve have filed, but one, John Tischer, who was a candidate to succeed himself, was removed by death so eleven will make the race. T. H. Little, better known as "Ham" Little, has been appointed to fill the vacancy. He was already a candidate for the office. What effect his appointment will have in the final result is, of course, impossible to say at this time.

Carlton Vidette: Here in Carlton county we keep good district judges when we get them. We have not had a judicial contest for twelve years. The state should do the same with its supreme court judges.

Justice George L. Bunn has been associate justice for three years, succeeding the late Justice Jaggard. Before that he was district judge for many years. He is a candidate for re-election. Judge Bunn is regarded as one of the very able judges of the country. He is conscientious, fair and upright beyond a thought of suspicion.

Our three district judges, whose terms are about to expire, Judge Ensign, Judge Cant and Judge Fesler, are candidates for re-election, and are without opposition. They do our work well, everybody is satisfied, and we keep them. The state should do the same with Judge Bunn, and it will. No one has said anything against it. It would be unfortunate indeed if he were not returned to participate in the thorough work now being done by the supreme court. It is not a time to experiment. Judge Bunn should be kept where he is.

Well said about good men. The judgeships of the commonwealth are too important to experiment with.

TAFT TALKS OF MEXICO

Criticizes Administration, and Doubts Effect of Mediation.

The Ex-President Sees Stronger Pan-Americanism for Future.

New York, May 18.—William H. Taft gave his views of the Mexican situation in an address yesterday at the Free Synagogue's celebration of Peace Sunday. While the former president expressed little hope that the pending mediation conference would accomplish its immediate purpose, he declared that the offer of mediation and our acceptance was an important step toward the future settlement of international difficulties in the Western hemisphere.

He asserted that there was no popular pressure for a military policy which the administration cannot resist; for war, he said, the people have at present little enthusiasm.

The criticism Mr. Taft leveled at the Wilson administration had to do with the aid which, he said, the administration had given to the Mexican Constitutionalists.

Criticism of Administration.

"It is my judgment," he said, "that if, in our course toward Mexico in the past year, we had not exerted much direct influence as we have to aid one of the contending parties, we should not now be so near general intervention and war."

In conclusion he called upon all Americans to aid the president in his efforts to find peace.

Mr. Taft took the place of Secretary of State Bryan, whose duties at Washington prevented him from fulfilling an engagement to address the congregation upon "International Peace." Oscar Straus, representative of the United States in The Hague conference, also spoke. He pointed out that the Russian-Japanese war was settled through mediation, and that interference by an outside power in an international dispute was no longer regarded as an unfriendly act.

Taft Sees Error.

Mr. Taft's speech in part follows:

"With deference to the views of others, it is my judgment that if, in our course toward Mexico during the last year, we had not exerted such direct influence as we have to aid one of the contending parties, we would not now be so near general intervention and war. Nor would we have been so responsible for law and order in Mexico to the world as we are now likely to be if a new government comes into power through our influence. But not for this reason can I, or any one who agrees with me in this, fail to approve and applaud every honorable effort that our government can make and is making to avoid intervention and further conflict.

Earnestly Desires Peace.

"I yield to no man in my earnest desire for peace and in my detestation of war, but an advocacy of peace that ignores conditions and takes no note of what is practical is futile and ineffective. Threatened war between two stable nations is much easier to deal with than such a condition as confronts us in Mexico.

"What we have in Mexico to contend with is the disease of revolution. It has, in fact, become an international nuisance.

"In such a case a neighboring nation may properly intervene and help the forces of law and order to end such anarchy just because it wishes to live in a quiet neighborhood, and not from a spirit of conquest and greed of territory. If we are to be invoved in war because of Mexican anarchy, let us have it fully understood that we got into it 'in the service of mankind,' as the president phrases it, and not upon the issue of a mere punctilio in naval ceremonial. Let us not enter lightly or unadvisedly upon a course that will involve a sacrifice the extent of which may well make us pause.

Nature of Conflict.

"If the available military force of Mexicans trained and made hardy by a three years war were to be massed against our troops, we should need a much larger force than we now have to capture the large strategic inland towns. After we had captured them and dispersed the armies, the forces against us would adopt a system of guerilla warfare. That is easy to carry on and difficult to suppress in such a country. The best expert estimate of the force required by us to garrison the necessary towns, suppress guerilla warfare and tranquillize the country is 400,000 men, and it is said that this would take two or three years and involve an expenditure of $1,000,000 a day.

The Wisest Course.

"The wisest course for us to pursue, if the duty is before us of suppressing anarchy in Mexico, would be to blockade all the Mexican ports, because the military weakness of the country is not in lack of hardy men, but in lack of military supplies and in lack of food provision. If we could be content to take the seaports and blockade the country while we were making reasonable preparations for the task, then, when ready for action, we could do the work at the least cost of life and time and money. Disease in that country would thin our ranks more than bullets.

"Then, after having lost thousands of lives and expended a treasure double that which it has cost us to give to the world the Panama canal, we would have on our hands a hostile Mexican people without any gratitude for our sacrifice.

Pray and Hope.

"In the burst of patriotic enthusiasm, the sordid politician finds his greatest epoch. Let us pray, then, that our government at Washington may escape this tremendous task. Let us hope that Carranza, if succeeding to control in Mexico with our aid and influence, will bring about a condition of affairs, responsibility for which will not entail upon us burdensome consequences.

"We should take much satisfaction in some phases of the situation, doubtful as others may be. The first is that the prospect of war does not awaken general popular enthusiasm.

Good in Mediation.

"The other good thing is the offer of mediation by the three great nations of South America and our prompt acceptance. With the refusal of one of the warring Mexican parties to accept mediation, and with the probable defeat of the other, it may be that the actual result of the mediation may not be what is hoped for it. Still, the situation is so full of possible quick changes, that one cannot prophesy that the sincere effort of these mediators may not accomplish good.

"But whatever may result, the offer of mediation and our acceptance are in themselves a great step toward future solution of international difficulties in this hemisphere. It is said that it ends the Monroe doctrine. If we can unite with us the great powers of South America so as to use our joint good offices to bring about peace whenever controversy arises between the nations of this hemisphere, and to prevent the oppressive or unjust intervention of European powers, the Monroe doctrine is greatly strengthened for good. We shall thus remove the ill-will that a misunderstanding of the real limitations of that doctrine has aroused among South Americans."

LOSE CANNON BUT GET GOAT

Aad Temple Shriners Put in Strenuous Week at Atlanta.

Spent Three Days Shocking Southerners With the Big Gun.

Here is what the Atlantic Journal of May 15 has to say of the theft of Aad Temple's famous cannon:

"How on earth they got it, nobody knows. Where they hid it is equally a matter of profundly weak conjecture. The fact remains, however, that Shrine brigands purloined one large full-sized cannon from their brothers of Aad temple, of Duluth, Minn., and the Aad nobles went home without it Friday morning. They had reported their loss to the police, the fire department, the tax office, the state militia, the governor, and everybody else with authority in Atlanta or the state of Georgia. Likewise the wires of the United States had flashed the message to sheriffs and chiefs of police.

"You remember the cannon, of course. It was the one that trundled and rumbled through the streets for three days, behind half a dozen or more nobles of Aad. They would gallop up with it, whirl it round in a crowded street, square away while the crowds fled in panic, and pull the lanyard. One expected a roar that would shake the very buildings. Instead, a pop like that of a shotgun would startle the nerves, and away would go the cannon for another salute elsewhere.

Courtmartial.

"There was rumor among the nobles of Aad, as they boarded their train Friday, that there may be a courtmartial in the patrol when it gets back to Duluth, and that Chief Gunner Loewus may be the principal figure in the proceeding. Colonel Hi Van Brunt, commander of the patrol, was not blamed at all. The cannon had been delivered into the complete custody of Chief Gunner Loewus, said the Aad nobles; and he couldn't produce it, and that was all there was to it.

"The capture of the cannon happened in a very unsensational manner. It just disappeared, Wednesday night, from in front of a certain hotel into which Chief Gunner Loewus and his gunners' squad had been enticed. They came out, and it was gone. Stealing a cannon is not like stealing a pin, yet nobody had seen anybody go away with it. The gunners wiggled their way through the crowds. 'Have you seen our cannon?' they asked everybody. Nobody had.

"Surmise became certainty, Friday, that the cannon had been locked aboard somebody's train and was speeding away east, north, south or west. Aad didn't have it, and it wasn't to be found in Atlanta.

"'We are going to get that cannon back if we have to set the United States government after it,' said one of the nobles of Aad. 'It's a cannon with a history. It had been to St. Paul, Louisville, New Orleans, Rochester, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Fargo, before we brought it to Atlanta.'

"But the Aad nobles were happy, anyhow. They had recovered Lil' Artha, the famous goat. Osman temple, of St. Paul, captured the goat months ago and took him to Panama. Then Houston's Shriners, of El Mina temple, got him; and from them the Duluth Shriners got him back during the Atlanta meeting.

THREE GERMAN ARMY AVIATORS KILLED.

Halberstadt, Prussian Saxony, May 18.—Lieutenants Wiegandt and Fellinger, army aviators, were instantly killed while attempting a landing last night at the aerodrome. The motor was shut off and while making a sharp angle, the monoplane capsized and fell 2,000 feet.

Lieut. Miller Killed.

Frankfort-on-the-Main, Germany, May 18.—Lieut. Mueller was killed Sunday in the Prince Henry aviation competition when the motor of his machine exploded near Pforzheim. Lieut. Walz, who was with him, escaped with slight burns.

Lieut. Helddenz and a passenger also suffered a fall, but escaped with minor injuries.

Prince Henry witnessed the start at 4 o'clock yesterday morning at Darmstad. Eighteen military aviators and thirteen civilians took the air. About thirty additional military aviators will take part later.

REVIVAL IS IMMINENT

Big Crop and Favorable Rate Decision Are Hoped for.

Would Bring Heavy Buying of Steel Products—Stocks Low.

Plants of the United States Steel corporation are estimated to be working on a basis this week of 65 per cent of capacity, with the independent concerns slightly under.

It is said that orders for plates and other forms of structural building materials are being more freely placed, showing that a revival is taking place in building operations throughout the country. There has been also some improvement in the aggregate buying of general iron and steel products though individual orders are in the main small. This is taken to indicate that stocks in jobbers' hands are unusually light, warranting the supposition that a heavy buying movement will set in if the present high condition of the crops is maintained during the next three or four weeks in the winter wheat territory.

Expectations are entertained that a decision will be handed down by the interstate commerce commission in the railroad rate case by the end of the month. Should it be in favor of the transportation companies as generally expected, substantial buying on the part of the roads is regarded as certain to develop.

Regarding the rate problem, a prominent Eastern financial man is quoted as saying—"I expect the full 5 per cent advance to go on in all class rates very quickly, and commodity rates not vigorously protested to go into effect either at once or a little later. Special hearings are likely to be ordered on certain unremunerative commodity rates such as possibly on sugar, and some steel and packing products, to see whether they should not be called on to stand considerably more than 5 per cent advance.

"With reference to free terminal service, I expect a recommendation will be made by the commission that the roads themselves carefully consider the proposition, and from time to time and as rapidly as can be done without injustice to industries established in good faith upon existing practices, to correct inequalities so as to derive adequate revenues from that branch of their services."

It is nit de that the market is still soft in some lines of iron and steel products. Renewed price cutting has come about in plates and shapes, steel bars are off, and reductions of $1 per ton have been made in wire, wire nails and other wire products, and in galvanized sheets.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE

—By—

COL. WM. E. FELL, C. S. B.

of Leeds, England.

At Auditorium, Corner Third Avenue East and First Street, Monday, May 18, 1914, 8 p. m., auspices First Church of Christ Scientist, Duluth. The public is cordially invited. Admission free.

For Commercial Club Jobs.

Fargo, N. D., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The nominations by the members of the Commercial club of the members for the ensuing year include R. J. Cone, president of a local manufacturing plant, for the president. George H. Hollister and C. E. Nugent were named as first and second vice presidential candidates and F. A. Irish for treasurer.

Messenger Service Hit.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—On the complaint of F. L. Watkins, superintendent of the North Dakota Enforcement league, the licenses held by the Star Messenger service of Grand Forks were revoked by Mayor Dinnie.

Mr. Watkins charged that he entered the messenger service office in the role of a customer, and was offered liquor, as well as being solicited on behalf of women of the underworld.

VAN BUREN LEAVES CLUB FOR THE ROAD

GLENN S. VAN BUREN.

Glenn S. Van Buren, who for some months has been assistant to G. Roy Hall, traffic commissioner of the Commercial club, and who resigned several weeks ago, severed his connection with the club Saturday night and today took up his new duties with the American Carbic company at West Duluth. He is succeeded as assistant traffic commissioner of the club by H. M. Cross, formerly connected with the Great Northern road, and who is said to be well equipped in knowledge and experience for the position which he has assumed.

Mr. Van Buren has become very popular with those with whom he has had to do business during his stay in the club's employ, and with the members of the club. He will be in the factory of the Carbic company for some time after which he will become one of the company's road men.

"THE SPENDTHRIFT."

Baldwin Players Make Very Favorable Impression on First Appearance

Judging from their premier production, "The Spendthrift," which opened yesterday afternoon, the Baldwin Players should have a most successful summer season at the Lyceum theater. The opening performance at the matinee yesterday was attended by an exceptionally large audience and the reception accorded the members of the company was enthusiastic.

"The Spendthrift," Porter Emerson Browne's drama of society in the East, has been seen in Duluth before, but the presentation of this play by the Baldwin Players compares most favorably with that of the traveling organization. Every member of the company is well placed in the production and the work of the Baldwin Players is deserving of the warmest commendation.

Miss Lola May promises to endear herself to all Duluth theater-goers, especially the women. She is a finished actress and her portrayal of Frances Ward, the spendthrift, is well handled. Her work shows intelligence and study, and she possesses a personality that should make her a very popular leading woman.

Special commendation is due Miss May for her beautiful costumes and especially the green dress and wig in the second act. The gowns scored a hit yesterday, for their unique design. It might also be mentioned that the gowns of Miss Dolle Gray, who will undoubtedly handle the ingenue parts during the summer stock season, and who appears this week as Clarice Van Zandt, sister of Frances, are also exquisite. They are more extreme in cut and design than those of Miss May.

Too much praise cannot be given to Charles W. Dingle, the leading man of the company, who portrays the character of Richard Ward. Mr. Dingle possesses a striking personality, has a good voice and should become popular. He and Miss May are very well paired and their dual lead roles in the plays to come, from present indications, will easily set a high standard for stock acting.

Other members of the company, although in minor roles this week, are Walter S. Baldwin, Jr., as Monty Ward, the impulsive young man; A. Romaine Callender, as Philip Cartwright, the cynical bachelor and student of women; Joseph Stephanie as Suffern Thorne, the unscrupulous millionaire; William Delmar as Saunders, the butler; Miss Pearl Melville as Gretchen Jans, the wise aunt, and Miss Helen Keers, as Ellice, the maid.

The story of "The Spendthrift" is known to almost every theater-goer. It tells of the downfall of Richard Ward because of his wife's extravagances, her departure to a cheap flat, where she learns the world as it is, and the final reconstruction of the home on the new basis of love and thrift. The love story of Monty Ward and Clarice is beautifully interwoven.

"The Spendthrift" will be presented by the Baldwin Players all of this week, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday. Announcement was made yesterday of the presentation of "Alias Jimmy Valentine" next week, with "Madame X" and "Baby Mine" in preparation for the near future.

AT THE ORPHEUM.

"The Spoilers" Is a Stirring Picture of Life in Alaska.

Probably no writer knows Alaska better than the novelist, Rex Beach, and those who have read his two masterpieces, "The Spoilers," and his recent work "The Iron Trail," realize how intimately Mr. Beach has been associated with Alaskan life. This probably explains the keen interest shown yesterday at the Orpheum in the pictures of "The Spoilers," the present week's offering.

Rex Beach has had some remarkable experiences in Alaska, and only by rare genius and fore-handedness was he able to keep the wolf from the door in that frozen country when he wrote a play "over-night" there and produced it, saving himself and party from probable starvation. This rare genius and his intimate knowledge of the country is seen in "The Spoilers," which is a faithful and vivid portrayal of life in that land.

Those characters, so well known and true to life—Roy Glennister, Cherry Malotte, the lovable heroine of the frontier, and McNamara, the politician of the Northwest who rolled up a fortune by looting, are all lifted from the pages of the Beach story, true to the author's creation.

Those who saw the pictures yesterday were impressed with the excellent presentation of Alaskan life, which was more varied and more realistic perhaps than could have any dramatic presentation been. Instead of the few scenes that are possible in a stage production the photo-plays offer a multiplicity of scenes just as they exist.

William Farnum, the Roy Glennister of the pictures, and Kathlyn Williams, the heroine, appear to live the scenes of the novel. Dextry and Slap Jack and the other members of that rough coterie of miners so characteristic of the gold fields, lend a tone of realism to the scenes that brings Alaska before the very eyes of the spectators. Bessie Eyton as Helen Chester, the girl from the states, and her brother, Broncho Kid, the professional gambler, portrayed by Wheeler Oakman, are very creditable members of the cast.

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw.

Duluth saw Evelyn Nesbit Thaw Saturday. She appeared matinee and night at the Lyceum on Saturday. At the matinee the theater was filled from "pit to dome" to drag out a phrase the occasion to use is infrequent nowadays. Most of the matinee audience consisted of women, but there was a scattering of men.

That of the evening was also a large audience. In fact "the most talked of woman in the world" as she is advertised did big business in Duluth. Mrs. Thaw dances with Jack Clifford. That is about the size of it. Clifford does the dancing and she follows—quite acceptably but by no means starring. Clifford is an excellent dancer. She later appears in a pantomime. Not once during the whole program does she speak so colds may come and colds may go and she will draw down her alleged $3,000 per week all season.

Among the other attractions of the show was a monologue by Abe Attell, who for years, and until recently when Johnny Kilbane did the trick, was featherweight champion fighter of the world. Abe could fight better than he can monologue but no might be far worse at the latter. He talks fight reminiscences, and works off several hoary jokes. These are the worst of his performance. When he talks about his own fights he is entertaining. Other numbers were good, in fact, high class.

At the Empress.

A new bill of four vaudeville acts and three reels of pictures will be the attraction at the Empress theater for the first three days of this week. Featuring this bill is "The Great Gerard" and company, exponent of heavyweight and comedy juggling. Their feats are many and they relieve the many exciting stunts with some lively comedy. The Greys are vocalists offering a large list of popular songs and selections. Billy Davis is said to be a blackface comedian of exceptional ability. Swain's rats and cats will present a turn that goes clearly to show how patience and training can make the best friends out of hereditary enemies and compel them to perform feats in unison. The two-part feature film, "Her Fighting Chance" relates the trials and tribulations of a woman who by her carelessness has lost the love of her husband and how she fights to get it back. The single reel is a comedy.

Billy Single Clifford and a large company in the musical satire, "Believe Me" will be the attraction at the Empress for the last half of this week commencing Thursday matinee for four days. The cast contains besides Clifford, Miss Mae Collins, the Scotch Lassie; Joe Waldron, direct from the Fatherland; Miss Ida May, the Irish Dutchwriter; George Cable, the Three Weston Sisters and Edward C. Clifford.

CAR HITS AUTO.

Three Are Dead and Three Dying at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 18.—Three members of one family were killed, three others probably fatally injured and one seriously hurt at Fort Benjamin Harrison near here Sunday when a traction car struck an automobile.

Thomas O. Stout, his son, Claude, and his son-in-law, J. C. Shafer, were killed. Mrs. Claude Stout, her son, Kenneth, 4 years old, and William Stout, a brother of Thomas, were probably fatally injured and Mrs. Thomas Stout was seriously hurt.

Stout, it is said, did not notice the approach of the car. The automobile was torn to pieces. Stout was a real estate dealer.

WOULD PERFECT TITLE TO LOTS.

In order to perfect her title to four lots fronting 200 feet on Regent street at its intersection with Forty-seventh avenue east, Mrs. Charlotte Bartle-Kemper of Newark, N. Y., through her attorneys, Baldwin, Baldwin & Holmes, has petitioned the probate court to determine the descent of land in that part of the estate of Mary A. Bartle which is situated in St. Louis county. The court has set June 8 as a date for the hearing on the petition.

Mary A. Bartle died Nov. 4, 1902, at Newark, N. Y., leaving an estate valued at upwards of $20,000. Among her holdings were lots 9, 10, 11, 12, block 32, London addition, in this city. Under her will, her adopted daughter, Charlotte, now Mrs. Kemper, received $6,000 and certain personal property and the remainder of the estate was turned over to the surviving spouse, Andrew C. Bartle, for his use during his life time. The will stipulated that upon his death, it should revert to Mrs. Kemper. Bartle died Oct. 27, 1906.

NO ACTION YET ON JAQUES NOMINATION.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, May 18.—The senate committee on judiciary today took no action on the nomination of Alfred Jaques of Duluth for United States attorney for the District of Minnesota, because Senator Nelson is out of the city.

JOHNSON BALL TEAM.

All Members of Ray, N. D., Nine Have That Name.

Ray, N. D., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The most unique ball team in the United States is claimed by this town in the Johnson team, every member of which bears the name of Johnson.

The team, in its first game of the season, tied with its opponent, but its manager, Gilbert Johnson, declares the club will be able to defeat any semi-pro team of this district.

Plan Six Silos.

Sheldon, N. D., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Six silos are to be constructed at once near here, some of which will have 250-tons capacity. The new plants are the result of the agitation in this section by the advocates of dairying. It is anticipated that a number of others will be built this year and that within three years every farmer in the townships adjoining Sheldon will have one.

TWO SCHOOLS BREAK EVEN

Grand Forks and Cavalier Schools Tied in Interscholastic Meet.

High Schools of Flickertail State on List for State Aid.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Grand Forks and Cavalier high schools tied for first place in the annual state interscholastic field and track meet just held here, each scoring 42 1-3 points. Five new state records were established.

The other schools finished as follows: Grafton, 22; Drayton, 18; Fargo, 17; Pembina, 4; Langdon, 3 1-3; Lakota, 2; Stephen, Minn., and La Moure, 1.

John Burns of Cavalier was the individual star, winning three firsts and establishing new records in the shot put and hammer throw. He put the twelve-pound shot 45 feet 8¾ inches, and he threw the hammer 157 feet 3 inches.

Maid of Drayton also broke two state records, throwing the javelin 130 feet 7¼ inches, and running the half mile in 2:10.

The Drayton relay team established a new record for that event, at 1:45:2.

Over 100 high school athletes of North Dakota participated.

The reclassification of the high schools of the state, for the purpose of apportioning state aid, was the most important business transacted during the annual high school conference which ended Saturday evening. About 500 high school faculty members and pupils attended.

In the classification seven new schools were added to the list and several were advanced in rank. There are three classes of schools and state aid is based on the class division.

The Classification.

The schools, as classified, follow:

First class—Bismarck, Bottineau, Cando, Casselton, Cavalier, Cooperstown, Devils Lake, Dickinson, Drayton, Edgeley, Enderlin, Fargo, Grand Forks, Hankinson, Harvey, Hillsboro, Hope, Hunter, Jamestown, Kenmare, Lakota, Langdon, Larimore, Lidgerwood, Lisbon, Mandan, Mayville, Michigan, Minot, New Rockford, Oakes, Park River, Pembina, Rolla, Rugby, St. Thomas, Valley City, Wahpeton and Williston.

Second class—Anamoose, Aneta, Ashley, Bathgate, Berthold, Churchs Ferry, Fairmount, Fessenden, Glen Ullin, Hatton, Hettinger, Inkster, Leeds, Minneaukan, Mott, Northwood, Tower City, Towner, Webster, Westhope, Willow City and Wimbledon.

Third class—Bisbee, Bowbells, Bowman, Buffalo, Buxton, Cogswell, Courtney, Crary, Crosby, Crystal, Dazey, Edmore, Esmond, Flaxton, Finley, Forest River, Gilby, Forman, Granville, Hannaford, Lansford, Kensal, Kindred, Hannah, Havanna, Lansford, Linton, Litchville, Marmarth, Maxbass, Milnor, Milton, Mohall, New Salem, Oberon, Page, Portal, Ray, Reynolds, Ryder, St. John, Sanborn, Sarles, Sheldon, Sheyenne, Stanley, Starkweather, Steele, Surrey, Walhalla, Washburn and Wyndemere.

Decision was made by the conference to establish a statewide examination for eighth graders, thus standardizing the work.

Music was placed on the basis proposed by the music department of the North Dakota Educational association.

F. L. Whitney of Grafton was appointed a committee of one to investigate the feasibility of establishing a state bureau for the employment of teachers under the direction of the superintendent of public instruction.

FANATIC TAKES LIFE.

Former North Dakotan Kills Himself in Manitoba.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 18.—Peter Magnusson, who evidently once lived in this state, as he carried insurance in Thorvald Mountain lodge, filed in 1905, killed himself near his home at Gimli, Man., a few days ago.

On the ground beside him was a rifle, with one empty cartridge. The bullet had entered his left cheek and gone through his head. He leaves a wife and four children. In a pocketpook, which was lying beside him, was found a note, saying:

"You, who find me here, console those who should grieve. My time has come. I trust in God's mercy, whether I live or die. I belong to Him and my thoughts are with Him, and He has instructed me to come to Him. I trust in His mercy that he will not make others suffer for me, and that He will allow them to know Him alone, because His Word is trustworthy and His promise certain."

IS GIVEN SEVEN YEARS.

Bismarck Man Pleads Guilty to Assaulting Young Woman.

Bismarck, N. D., May 18.—Elmo Robertson, formerly of Grand Forks, who is connected with a local fruit company, pleaded guilty in district court to a charge of assault preferred by Miss Lillie Talbert of this city and was sentenced to seven years in the penitentiary.

The case has attracted much attention because of the prominence of the accused. The term may be lessened considerably by good behavior.

At the time of the assault highly colored reports as to the girl's condition were freely circulated, but developments since are said to indicate that these were exaggerated.

BOY IS DROWNED IN HART RIVER.

Dickinson, N. D., May 18.—Adam Virag, a 13-year-old boy, was drowned Saturday while attending a school picnic at McGilvery's pasture. His father, Casper Virag, a tailor, pulled the body out with drags brought from town in an auto. The boy jumped in to swim the Hart river and never came up. He made the third boy to be drowned here since last August.

FAVORS CHANGE IN INSPECTION FEES

North Dakota Hotel Inspector Recommends to Governor.

Bismarck, N. D., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—State Hotel Inspector W. B. Woolsey in his annual report to Governor Hanna from April, 1913, to April 1, last, tells of his work and recommends a law abolishing the graded system of inspection fees. In his report Mr. Woolsey says:

"I beg to report that I personally inspected 28 hotels of the first class, 87 of the second class, 225 of the third class, and 234 of the fourth class, making a total of 574 hotels inspected.

"The records of this office show that my predecessor from April 1, 1912, to April 1, 1913, inspected 22 of the first class, 102 of the second class, 213 of the third class and 134 of the fourth class, making a total of 472 hotels inspected.

Abolish Graded System.

"I would respectfully suggest that steps be taken to place before the next legislature laws abolishing the graded system of inspection fees, charging a universal fee of $2, and making it unlawful to conduct a hotel without a state license, as my understanding of the object of this law is to better conditions in hotels where such betterments are necessary.

"I have on file in this office copies of hotel inspection laws of all the states in the union having such. Have also corresponded with most of the inspectors enforcing same, thereby satisfying myself that where the universal fee system is in vogue, the inspector gets the most hearty co-operation in carrying out the conditions of the law.

"While I am satisfied the North Dakota hotels will compare favorably with any other state, there is still room for improvement; such conditions being brought about through ignorance of the hotel business rather than to evade the laws regulating same."

FALLS INTO MINE.

John Wulf Loses His Life at Crystal Falls, Mich.

Crystal Falls, Mich., May 18.—John Wulf was killed in the Bristol mine when he fell into a cave. He was walking along the road during the darkness and walked into the pit, falling such a distance that he was killed. Wulf had been missing since last month. His father lives at Forestville, Wis.

HEAVYWEIGHT DIES.

North Dakotan Who Tipped Scales at 395 Pounds Called.

Minot, N. D., May 18.—Probably the largest man in this state has just died here at the age of 45. He was Dr. Dalton O. Bruce, a veterinary surgeon, who weighed 395 pounds.

At the post mortem examination it was found that his entire body was equally developed, due to acromegaly, a very rare affliction, his heart weighing five pounds and his lungs twelve pounds.

Prior to his death Dr. Bruce was a successful veterinary surgeon for the last twenty years in this part of the state and is well known throughout North Dakota and the eastern part of Montana.

FIVE ARE DROWNED

When Launch Containing Nine Upsets at Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 18.—Five members of a pleasure party, consisting of nine persons, were drowned when the launch in which they were riding capsized in the Mississippi river here Sunday. The dead:

MRS. OTTO JUSTMANN and her two children.

TWO CHILDREN of John C. Buckholz.

Those saved were John C. Buckholz, his wife, one child and Fred Weber. The latter, a relative of Buckholz, lives at Merrill, Wis.

One body, that of one of the Justmann children, was recovered.

TAKES ROAD WORK.

Floodwood Man Will Do Piece on Duluth-St. Vincent Highway.

Floodwood, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Victor Carlson, who was logging north of Floodwood last winter, has sub-contracted seven miles of the Duluth-St. Vincent road from E. A. Dahl & Co., the successful bidders on the entire job. Mr. Carlson will start at a point abutting the city limits and work eastward to a point beyond where gravel has been located on the line of the [illegible] highway. Mr. Carlson is now busily engaged in the construction of camps and hauling in supplies, and expects to employ in the neighborhod of 100 men when things are so arranged as to make accommodations to house them. The drainage system will be the first work taken up, and it is expected that this work, together with the clearing of the right-of-way, will be completed in a couple of months.

TWO BARNS BURN AT THIEF RIVER

Hotel Proprietor in Night Clothes Hurt Saving Stock.

Thief River Falls, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Shortly after 12 o'clock Saturday night, fire broke out in the barn belonging to the Farmers' hotel which is owned and operated by Sam Johnson and located on Fourth street and Duluth avenue. The new screech whistle, recently installed at the city electric light and power plant, called out the fire department in a very short time. The flames spread very rapidly and before the hose cart arrived they had leaped to another large barn across the alley. A good supply of water kept the fire confined to the two barns notwithstanding the fact that when the fire department arrived five residences and a third barn were seriously endangered by burning shingles alighting on their roofs and porches.

Hurt Saving Cows.

Sam Johnson, proprietor of the Farmers' hotel discovered the fire. He rushed to the scene in his night clothes and entered the burning barn to liberate the three cows that were tied inside. He succeeded in leading two to safety but as he was untieing the third a plank from the burning loft over his head fell striking him on the back. He managed to escape from the burning building but was forced to leave one cow and a number of chickens to be cremated by the relentless flames.

The origin of the fire is not known, but it is thought that someone had gone into the barn to sleep and had set fire to the hay.

FLOODWOOD CREAMERY.

Report of Plant's Work During Month of April.

Floodwood, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to the report of Supt. Johnson of the local co-operative creamery, for April, 2,364 pounds of butterfat, 8,051 pounds of cream and 63 pounds for retail purposes were received and $622.65 was paid out to patrons. On account of the almost impassable condition of the roads leading to the village, many of the regular patrons of the creamery were unable to make their customary trips, hence the gain is not as large as it otherwise would have been.

Clayton Was Scorched.

Clayton, Wis., May 18.—A bucket brigade of citizens passing pails of water from the town pump, was all that saved this village from being destroyed by fire early Saturday. The flames were confined to the business district of the town. The loss is estimated at $25,000.

Ashland School First.

Ashland, Wis., May 18.—The Ashland public school took first place in declamation and also in oratory at the Park Falls contest. The schools of Ashland, Superior, Ironwood and Park Falls were represented.

Miss Edith Shea took first place in declamation, with the subject "Madame Butterfly." Abe Biglow, first place in oratory with the subject "Emmett."

Club Women to Meet.

New Rockford, N. D., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Club Women of six counties will meet here Wednesday for the annual meeting of the District Federation of Women's clubs, for which the local clubs have made extensive entertainment plans.

Rheumatic Throat Is Common Trouble

Should Be Treated in Blood To Prevent Recurrence.

There are successful gargles that stop soreness in the throat, but to prevent their incessant return, the blood must be put in order. The best remedy is S. S. S., as it influences all the functions of the body to neutralize the irritants or waste products and to stimulate their excretion through the proper channels.

Rheumatic sore throat is a dangerous indication, as it means that the blood is loaded with more uric acid than the kidneys can excrete, and may thus lead to serious general disturbance.

The action of S. S. S. stimulates cellular activity. It prevents the accumulation of irritants in local spots. It enables the arteries to supply quickly the new red blood to replace worn-out tissue.

For this reason uric acid that finds the throat an easy prey to its breaking-down influence, is scattered and eliminated. In other words, S. S. S. prevents chronic conditions by enabling all the mucous linings of the body to secrete healthy mucus. Its influence is shown in a marked improvement of the bronchial tubes, whereby the huskiness of voice with thick, grayish expectorations is overcome. S. S. S., well diluted with water, means a blood bath, since it is welcome to any stomach and at once gets into the blood.

S. S. S. is free of all minerals and contains ingredients wonderfully conducive to well-balanced health.

You can get it at any drug store, but do not accept anything else. There is danger in substitutes. S. S. S. is prepared only by The Swift Specific Co., 528 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Our Medical Dept. will give you free instruction by mail on any subject of blood disorders. Write today.

The Herald Sporting Gossip Is Reliable

O'BRIEN SAYS SOX ARE A REAL BASEBALL TEAM

The Irish Orator Declares the Addition of Another Hitter Will Make His Club a Real Pennant Winner.

With Dad Ford in the lineup and Shortstop Kroll, who has been secured to take the temporary place of the injured Wolfe, the Duluth White Sox are playing the first game of the season on the home grounds.

While the showing to date has not been at all to the advantage of the Dooks, O'Brien declares that he has a real ball club and one that will be up in the first division before the season is much older.

"We are not making any excuses for the showing on the road," declared the White Sox leader, "but some of the games were lost by one score and after the hardest kind of a battle. For the most part the club has played grand baseball and we are going to be in the hunt all the way.

"We need at least one more hitter. Deals are on for one or more players. The pitching staff looks good and I believe I have one of the fastest infields in the league."

The injury to Wolfe proved a handicap to the team. Freer was pulled in from the outfield and placed in the first cordon of defense. Wolfe is expected back in the game in a few days and his presence should strengthen the Sox.

To date all of the teams have played fast baseball and one the trip the Sox in Winona and Grand Forks went against the contenders that are making the running in the league.

Is After a Hitter.

"I have lines out for a heavy hitter," said O'Brien. "I was turned down in one quarter where I expected to land a heavy sticking outfielder. With a hitter or two you will see some climbing upon the part of the club.

"Wolfe looks awfully fast and I believe the pitchers are going to deliver. There are no excuses to offer, but it should be remembered that the bad weather on the training trip gave our pitchers little opportunity to round into pitching form.

"Cunningham has been going nicely and with the rest of the moundsmen right I think that we are going to have about the best staff in the Northern."

President Harry A. Blume of the local association announced that all of the games would begin at 3 o'clock. This will give the fans an opportunity to get home to the steaming dinner or supper, just as the case may be.

LEWIS MAY STAGE BOUT

Hotel Man Ready to Guarantee Zbyszko $1,000 to Come Here.

Tilton E. Lewis, manager of the St. Louis hotel and one of the rabid fans of the wrestling game, announced yesterday that he is willing to deposit a personal check of $1,000 in any bank of Duluth to secure a meeting between Stanislaus Zbyszko and Jess Westergaard.

"I will give this $1,000 to Zbyszko for his end," said Lewis. "If it is necessary to go that high to get the Pole here for a finish match with Westergaard.

"There is no doubt in my mind that the bout would draw $2,000 and it is a business proposition in offering so large an inducement to Zbyszko. That would be the largest guarantee ever paid to a wrestler in Duluth, but after looking into the proposition I am ready to put up my own money on the match."

According to the telegram received by Lewis from J. H. Herman, manager of the mastadonic Pole, Zbyszko will sail June 3 for the other side of the pond. The match with Westergaard here will be the final match wrestled in America this year by Zbyszko, and perhaps the final one ever wrestled in the United States by Stanislaus.

"If I promote this contest," said Mr. Lewis yesterday, "each of the wrestlers will have to post a forfeit for a finish contest. Westergaard will come to Duluth and train for the contest, and if necessary I will send and get the most competent referee in the whole country."

HIGH SCORES MARK SHOOT

Northwestern Gun Club Opens Another Season Auspiciously.

The annual opening shoot of the Northwestern Gun club was held yesterday in the presence of practically all of the members of the club and scores of their friends. The day was ideal for work at the traps, and the seventh annual opening was one of the most successful in the history of the club.

Fred Russell was high score man with 91 targets out of a possible 100. Higgins was close behind with 90 out of 100, and Budden broke 88 pigeons out of a possible 100.

SCHOLASTIC EVENTS.

Oshkosh Wins in Northeastern-Wisconsin Track and Field Meet.

Appleton, Wis., May 18.—Oshkosh won the fourteenth annual Northeastern-Wisconsin track and field meet at Lawrence college Saturday and with it won the Jones cup, this being the third year that Oshkosh won the meet. Andrews of Oshkosh won the cup for the highest individual score with 23 points. Bunks of Appleton was second with 19.

Oshkosh scored 49 points, Appleton 38 and Wausau 18. Other schools with winning points were Stevens Point, 11; Kaukauna, 6; New London, 6; Neenah, 6; Merrill, 2; Shawano, 1.

Champaign, Ill., May 18.—Jerry Weber of the Harvard school, Chicago, retained the Illinois state interscholastic tennis championship Saturday. Double honors went to Loeb and Taylor, of the University high school, Chicago. Nicolson and Kittleman opposed the Chicagoans in the doubles final.

LONGCHAMPS SPRING MEET.

Paris, France, May 18.—Longchamps was favored by brilliant sunshine yesterday and the first spring meeting of the season was attended by great throngs of fashionable people. The king and queen of Denmark and President and Mme. Poincare were present.

The colts pool, worth $20,000, was won by M. Roederer's Listman at 18 to 1. H. B. Duryea's Durbar and J. E. Widener's Mont D'or were unplaced.

The fillies' pool, worth $19,400, was won by Baron Maurice De Rothschilds' Diavolezza at 10 to 1. August Belmont's Roxanna and H. B. Duryea's Ardee ran unplaced.

Errors Behind Cunningham Lose the Evening Contest.

Winnipeg, May 18.—Duluth was beaten in both games of the double-header of Saturday, the Maroons winning the afternoon contest by the score of 8 to 5 and the twilight pastiming by the count of 4 to 3.

Leahy started the afternoon session and was relieved by Cunningham in the sixth round. The visiting pitchers were hit hard by the home players. The errors of the visitors came at unfortunate stages and counted in the run getting.

Up to the ninth inning of the final game the visitors had the Maroons beaten by the score of 3 to 1. In the final frame the locals made three runs. In this round two errors by the visitors coupled with three hits proved the undoing of the Dooks and gave the Maroons three straight games for the series.

With the exception of the fifth round Boly was steady and effective. The scores:

FORT WILLIAM LOSES SLUGFEST TO FLICKERS

Grand Forks, N. D., May 18.—Fort William lost here Saturday to the Flickers by the score of 12 to 8. The game was played in a wind storm and fly balls were almost impossible to judge. The contest was a free-hitting one, twenty-five hits being registered for a total of thirty-five bases. Wheeler made a double play unassisted with the bases full and Flaherty banged out a triple with the bases loaded.

GRAND FORKS WINS FINAL FROM TWINS.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 18.—Grand Forks made it three straight from Fort William by winning yesterday's game by the score of 4 to 3.

Boss Wheeler tripled in the latter part of the ninth round and was scored by Ted Corbett's single, after the visitors had tied up the score in the first part of the round.

Corbett, the Maroon castoff, was on the mound for the Flickers and pitched steady ball. Three fast double plays featured the fielding end of the game. The score: R.H.E.

CHAMPIONS WIN FINAL GAME FROM RED SOX.

Winona, Minn., May 18.—Winona won the final game of the Superior series here yesterday by the score of 1 to 0. Keller, the recruit hurler, was on the mound for the champs, and while hit harder than Chicken, was invincible when hits meant runs. Connell walked in the eighth. Collins was safe when his attempted sacrifice was booted. Davis moved both runners along by a sacrifice and the one run of the game was brought in when Fautch singled. The score:

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 18.—Before the largest crowd of the season at the Cincinnati park, the locals outbatted and outfielded New York yesterday and won 5 to 1. New York's errors were extremely costly, while those of the locals did not figure in the score of New York's one run.

Ames pitched excellent ball, while Fromme who started for New York was hit hard and was relieved by Wiltze in the eighth inning. New York scored its one run on a two-base hit by Bescher and a single by Burns. Cincinnati's first two runs were due to an error by Fletcher and a single by Groh and a double by Clark and a single by Ames. Groh again scored for Cincinnati in the sixth when he singled, went to second on a sacrifice, took third on an error by Doyle and scored on Stock's error. Cincinnati scored its last run of the game in the eighth on an error by Doyle and two singles. Score:

Cardinals 5; Dodgers 2.

St. Louis, Mo., May 18. — The wild pitching of Atchison, coupled with the heavy hitting of St. Louis when the ball did come over the plate yesterday, resulted in the locals' victory over Brooklyn by a score of 5 to 2. Daubert hit into right field for a home run in the first inning. In the seventh Wheat singled and virtually stole the rest of his way home, scoring the second run for the visitors. Wilson, after singling in the second inning, scored the first run for St. Louis on a wild pitch by Atchison. In the fifth the locals gained four runs on two errors, another wild pitch by Aitchison, a triple by Snyder and two singles.

Score:	R. H. E.

Phillies 4; Chicago 2.

Chicago, May 18.—Philadelphia beat Chicago after thirteen hard-fought innings had been played with two men out in the final inning and a man on first base, Williams lost Lobert's long fly in the sun. Luderus scored. A moment later Magee singled and scored Lobert. The locals had several opportunities to score with the bases filled and none out, but luck was against them. Twice, a local base runner was caught at the plate. Good's batting was a feature. Score: R. H. E.

GOLFERS IN BIG TOURNEY

Sandwick, Eng., May 18.—Jerome D. Travers, amateur golf champion of United States was eliminated today in the first round of the contest for the British amateur championship. The chance that an American would take the title across the Atlantic was thereby reduced to a minimum.

Charles A. Palmer, who defeated Travers by 2 up, is the Irish open champion and was the runner-up to John Ball for the championship in 1907. He comes from Handsworth, England.

Neither Travers nor Palmer played very good golf today. Travers appeared to allow too much for the speed of the green. Consequently he was short with his approach shots while his drives were about twenty yards shorter than those of his opponents. Even his putting was poor.

Palmer was suffering from lumbago and his drives lacked their usual energy.

The American champion took an early lead, but the players were all square at the turn. Travers was again two up at the thirteenth hole, but Palmer caught him at the sixteenth and won the last two holes.

A good gallery was on hand even for the morning play. Among the earlier starters was Harold H. Hilton, holder of the title. Hilton defeated H. L. Boyd of the Royal and Ancient Golf club by 8 up and 7 to play, in the first round of the tournament.

Never has an amateur golf championship meet been looked forward to with such excitement as that of today. The accommodations of the little town are totally inadequate and numerous visitors must journey up and down from London daily to witness the contests.

There has been more wagering on the result of the tournament than has ever been known in England, and it is said that the London stock exchange has neglected its regular business to make a book on the championship.

REVIEW OF MAJOR LEAGUE BASEBALL FOR PAST WEEK

East and West About Even, Giants of National and Tigers of Americans Playing Best Ball.

New York, May 18.—East and West began their first clash of the season in major league baseball last week and at the suspension of hostilities Saturday, neither section could claim a decided advantage. In the American league the East led easily by eleven games to six, but this was largely offset by the superior work of Western clubs in the National league, which ended the week with nine victories scored over Eastern rivals as against six defeats at the latter's hands.

The individual case of the National champions was an exception to the general rule of things in the older organization. The week was one of triumph for the Giants and correspondingly one of doleful trend for the present league leaders.

Out in front by a wide margin and with a long stretch of home games ahead of them, the Pittsburgs seemed likely to keep up their fast clip, instead, they started their week by losing to Chicago, were able only to tie the tail-end Bostons and then wound up the playing period by losing three games in a row to the Giants.

All the other Western clubs in the National circuit stood up well under the Eastern attack. Chicago, with strong pitching by Cheney and Vaughn, was able to force a division of honors from the heavy hitting Brooklyns, while St. Louis, taking a decided brace, downed the Philadelphias three games in four. Cincinnati walked right through the Boston series, shutting out the Braves in three of the contests.

Plank in Great Form.

In the American league the on-rushing Tigers kept up their fast gait almost without check. Three straight victories over New York kept them well in the lead, although the Athletics are slowly, but apparently surely creeping up. Eddie Plank seemed like his world's series self in the thirteen-inning game he pitched for the Naps, winning 1 to 0 and the Mackian pitching staff on the whole looked better than at any time since the season's start.

The same might be said of Washington, for Walter Johnson came through with two games pitched in his old-time form and Ayres won a 1 to 0 ten-inning decision from the skillful Scott of Chicago, who pitched nine innings of hitless ball before yielding the palm.

The New Yorks, after more than holding their end up with the other Eastern clubs, succumbed to the prowess of the Tigers in three well contested games in which the individual work of Ty Cobb twice turned the tide of victory toward his team. The St. Louis Browns dropped four out of five games played and lost their first division place. Just now the Bostons are pressing them further.

Cleveland Unfortunate.

The unfortunate Clevelands dropped off badly after an initial victory over the Athletics, but found a decided pitching encouragement in the work of young Hagerman in his brilliant, even if losing, struggle with Plank.

The American association has developed another see-saw race. Milwaukee and Louisville changed places as fast as they played for several days, and early predictions that the fight for the pennant would be between them have been borne out so far. Milwaukee's victory Saturday put the Brewers back in first place, but their loss Sunday again gave the lead to the Colonels.

Baltimore's lead in the Federal league remained unshaken, the Terrapins being out in front by a margin of three games practically all week. Brooklyn made a successful attack on St. Louis' second place position and weakened so that a shift in the first division lineup was made possible by the end of the week.

WITH THE AMATEURS

The Columbias Win.

The Columbia Clothing company's baseball team defeated the Big Duluth Juniors yesterday by the score of 4 to 1. The Columbias played a fast game, and want to meet any of the 16-year-old teams of the city for the championship.

The score by innings:

	R. H. E.
C. C. Co	0 0 0 0 3 0 0 0 1—4 6 2

GUSTAFSONS WIN FROM W. & L. AGGREGATION.

The Gustafsons yesterday defeated the W. & L. baseball team by the score of 9 to 6. The game was played on the Thirty-second avenue west ground. Hammerbeck pitched nice ball for the winning team. The contest was fast and well played. Next Sunday the Gustafsons meet the Superior box factory team.

Steel Company Wins.

The Minnesota Steel company baseball team defeated the Duluth Heights team yesterday by the score of 11 to 4. Hurley pitched nice ball for the victors. Roberts caught a fine game for the losers.

THE FITWELL JUNIORS DEFEAT SORENSENS.

The young Fitwells yesterday defeated the Sorenson Shoe company baseball team by the score of 10 to 8. The game was played on the Fifty-second avenue west grounds. R. McDougal and G. Brown were in the battery points for the winning team and A. Green, H. Johnson and T. Hanson the battery for the Sorensons.

THE LINCOLNS LOSE TO SUPERIOR TEAM.

The Lincoln Athletic club baseball team of this city was defeated by the Superior box factory team yesterday by the score of 5 to 4. The game was played on the South Superior grounds. R. Miller hurled a nice game for the winning team, errors being responsible for the runs of the Duluth team. Wick was on the mound for the Duluth team and was wild and unsteady. The score by innings: R. H. E.

CRIMSON OARSMEN DEFEAT OLD ELI

Philadelphia, May 18.—Harvard won a double victory over Yale Saturday when the second varsity eight in the junior collegiate race and the same crew in the eight-oar event triumphed at the twelfth annual regatta of the American Rowing association over the Henley course on the Schuylkill river.

Yale and Pennsylvania battled for second place, the Blue gaining the position. Annapolis naval academy was fourth and Princeton fifth.

The Harvard eight beat out the Union Boat club of Boston by about four feet.

Two records were broken, Ex-Capt. John B. Kelly of the Vesper Boat club, this city, won the single sculls easily from Paul Withington of the Union Boat club, Boston, in 8:03, beating the former record of 8:05, made by Jesse Williamson in 1905.

In the first double sculls event the Vesper B. C., Philadelphia, which finished first, was disqualified for a foul and the race was given to the Riverside B. C. of Cambridge, Mass., which had finished second.

The various races were won, as follows:

First single sculls—John B. Kelly, Vesper Boat club, Philadelphia, won; Paul Withington, Union Boat club, Boston, second; Durando Miller, New York A. C., third. Time, 8:03.

Junior collegiate eight-oared shells—Won by Harvard; second, Yale; third, University of Pennsylvania; fourth, Navy; fifth, Princeton. Time, 6:40.

Special four- oared shell—Won by Avy of Pennsylvania, bow, Popp; 2, Stokes; 3, Blatz; stroke, Odgers; second, University Barge club, Philadelphia, bow, R. Nalle; 2, E. Law; 3, R. Thayer; stroke, E. Hoffman; third, Naval academy, bow, Jones; 2, Heard; 3, De Roode; stroke, Richardson. Time, 7:13 1-5.

First four sculls—Centipedes, Riverside Boat club, Cambridge; Philadelphia Barge club; Malta Boat club, Philadelphia. Time 6:59.

Interscholastic eight-oared shells—Won by Philadelphia Central high; second, West Philadelphia high; third, Baltimore City college. Time, 7:10 1-5.

First double sculls—Won by Vesper Boat club; second, Riverside Boat club, Cambridge, Mass.; third, Union Boat club, Boston. Riverside claimed a foul and protested the race.

First four-oared shells—Won by Malta Boat club, Philadelphia; second, Ariel Rowing club, Baltimore. Time, 7:36 4-5.

Distinctively Individual

SEEMED TOO PERSONAL.

Stray Stories: A well-known university professor who has taken much interest in the woman's suffrage movement, was persuaded to carry a banner in a parade.

His wife observed him marching with a dejected air and carrying his banner so that it hung limply on its standard, and later she reproved him for not making a better appearance.

"Why didn't you march like somebody and let people see your banner?" she asked.

"My dear," meekly replied the professor, "did you see what was on the banner? It read: 'Any man can vote. Why can't I?'"

ON THE IRON RANGES

BRUSH FIRES BREAKING OUT

Flames Sweeping Along the Shores of Ely Lake Near Eveleth.

Building on the Outskirts of Hibbing Is Also Destroyed.

Eveleth, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—A fire burned all day yesterday along the south shore of Ely lake. The blaze found plenty of fuel in brush piles and slashings in the woods and burned briskly. It is not known that it did any damage.

Fire Near Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—A brush fire, the origin of which is not certain, destroyed the house near the rock crusher north of the village last evening and it was only through the prompt work of Fire Chief McIlharghey that the crusher itself was saved. Though outside of the usual limit of the work of the department, the chief made the run in his automobile when the fire was reported by a passing automobilist. The chemicals proved effective in fighting the fire back from the crusher, but the house was practically destroyed. It is believed that the house is the property of Paul D. Willard to whom the crusher was sold some time ago.

Brush Fire at Buhl.

At Buhl yesterday the fire department and the baseball team joined forces in fighting a brush fire that approached the edge of the village.

In Stuntz township the forest supervisors are burning the meadows and brushy places so as to provide breaks for the coming summer.

Smoke Around Virginia.

Virgina, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is considerable smoke around here, indicating that brush fires are burning. As there is no brush near the city no fear is felt of forest fires here.

GREAT NORTHERN TO SELL DEPOT

This Confirms Reports of Changes at Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Additional credence was given the report of the changes proposed by the Great Northern railroad here when it was learned that the present station had been offered for sale, with the assurance that it would be ready for removal within three months.

It is now generally conceded by those we are in touch with the situation that the road contemplated building in the vicinity of Fifth avenue and Washington street, where four new yards are being constructed. Though this is some distance from the center of the village, there is no adverse sentiment in the community, and the residents of Alice are naturally jubilant over the better service that will be afforded them, as the new station will be but a short distance from that suburb.

DIES BEFORE HIS WIFE REACHES HIM

Virginia Italian Called After the Woman Sails for America.

Virginia, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles Cappianic, a well known local Italian resident living in the Lincoln location, will never see his wife who left Italy a few days ago to join him here as he died yesterday of pneumonia after only seven days' illness. He was 35 and had been working hard to prepare a home here for his wife, recently sent her the money to come and join him and she sailed from Italy last Thursday. She will be apprised of the sad news on the arrival of her steamer at New York.

VIRGINIA GAME DRAWS THOUSANDS

Virginia, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—With favorable weather conditions the opening of the Northern league season here this afternoon at 3 o'clock brought out the biggest baseball crowd ever seen on the range, several thousand being present. All stores closed, the schools closed and many came from Eveleth and other range towns.

The opening game this afternoon is with the Fort William team and as both teams are on their mettle a fine game is expected. Lanemann is pitching for Virginia.

Eveleth Sent Crowd.

Eveleth, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—This city sent a big delegation to Virginia today for the opening of the baseball season in that city. All fans who could possibly get away attended the game and extra cars were used to handle the traffic. The showing made by the Virginia club this season makes it a much better drawing card with local fans than last season.

NASHWAUK CLEAN UP.

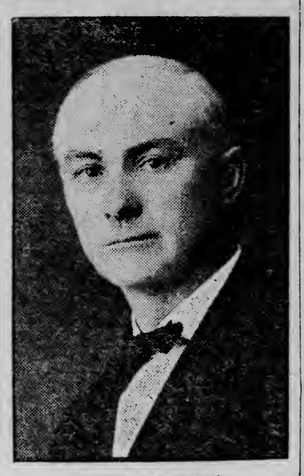
Tuesday and Wednesday to Be Devoted to Sprucing Up Town.

Nashwauk, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Village president, John P. Raattama has issued a proclamation at the request of several public-spirited citizens and several civic organizations that a certain period of time be designated to improve parts of the village where rubbish has accumulated during the winter and spring months, for the purpose of carrying on an active campaign to brighten up, clean up and paint up the village generally, as well as to plant and care for lawns.

It is hereby proclaimed, that Tuesday and Wednesday be designated as a period of time during which the citizens of the village of Nashwauk will co-operate with the board of health to make these two days a success from a cleaning up standpoint.

The streets and alley department will be at the service of persons interested in this work on the two days above mentioned, during which time that department will assist in removing promptly the waste matter piled up in alleys and vacant lots. It is particularly urged that property owners of this vicinity work in conjunction and co-operation and assist in this general cleanup.

ITASCA COUNTY BOARD MEMBER IS VERY SICK



CYRUS M. KING.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—County Commissioner Cyrus M. King and former president of the N. M. D. A., is very ill at his home in Deer River, and yesterday it was reported here that for a time he was not expected to live. A severe cold, which is developing into something very serious, is the cause of his indisposition.

TWO DULUTH MEN SECURE CONTRACTS

Naufts Will Build Eveleth School and Black Do Plumbing.

Eveleth, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Theodore Naufts of Duluth was the successful bidder for the contract to erect a manual training school building in this city. The board of education reached a decision Saturday after a careful consideration of several close bids, and awarded the contract to the Zenith City contractor for $37,875.

Another Duluth contractor, D. R. Black, was the lowest bidder for the plumbing contract, and his offer of $2,000 was accepted.

The heating and ventilating contract was let to F. S. Spencer of Minneapolis, who made a bid of $6,800 for the installation of a modern ventilating and a low-pressure heating system.

The new building will be located near the high school and is to be finished for the beginning of school in the fall. It is to be used exclusively as a manual training and trade school, and will be one of the finest in the country.

"TAMING OF THE SHREW"

Cast of Ely High That Will Present the Play.

Ely, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The following is the cast of high school students who will present the class play, "The Taming of the Shrew" at the Auditorium next Friday evening:

GRAND RAPIDS PRIEST IS GOING TO DENMARK

REV. FATHER BUECHLER.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. Father Buechler, pastor of the St. Joseph's Catholic church will leave next Monday on a three months' trip to Europe where he will visit at his old home in Denmark and at other points. Father Buechler has been working hard the past several years, with no pleasures except seeing the results of his labors, and the vacation is a well earned and well deserved one.

KELLEYS BEATEN BY TWO HARBORS

Duluth Aggregation Appears No Match for Lake County Nine.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the opening game of the season here the local Gopher team defeated the Kelley Hardware team of Duluth yesterday afternoon 19 to 4. On account of the visitors having to start to Duluth on the 4:30 p. m. train the game only went seven innings. The Duluth boys were no match for the locals who hit and ran bases at will. In the first inning the locals scored five runs and in the second they secured seven runs. The visitors put up such a miserable showing that many of the spectators left the park after the third inning feeling satisfied that the visitors were not even graduates of corner lot baseball.

Pitcher Carlson of the Kelleys was taken out of the box in the third inning after thirteen hits and fifteen runs were made, and Berg was brought in from the field and finished the game. While he was a little wild he managed to keep the hits and runs down for the remaining three innings.

Roberts pitched a fine game showing old time form which he has exhibited here for the past six seasons. Wold, the new man on third base, proved a find for the team. His fielding was perfect and the manner in which he got the ball across the diamond to first base was good to look at. The batting of Alex Johnson was about the only feature of the game. Out of five times to bat he secured the same number of hits. One home run which went over the back field fence, one double and three singles constituted the hits.

Many Witness Game.

The day was ideal for baseball and consequently a large crowd witnessed the game.

BODY TAKEN TO IOWA.

Grand Rapids Man Accidentally Killed Taken to Hawkeye State.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of Peter Wilkie of this village, who was accidentally shot by his son while on a hunting trip last Saturday evening, was shipped from this place at noon yesterday to Grimes, Iowa, his former home, where burial will be made Tuesday or Wednesday.

Mr. Wilkie and his son, about 16 years of age, had gone to the Wilkie farm, a mile north of town, Saturday forenoon, the boy taking with him a 22-caliber rifle. While shooting at a squirrel the boy accidentally sent a bullet in his father's direction, the ball taking effect in his left leg. The boy bound up the wound as best he could, got the team and started home with his father, but the loss of blood was so great that when they reached medical assistance he was beyond hope of recovery.

Mr. Wilkie was about 48 years of age and came here from the vicinity of Des Moines, Iowa, four years ago, first settling on his farm but later moving to town, directing the work on his farm from town.

JOINS MARINE CORPS.

Hibbing Militiaman Has Been Accepted By Uncle Sam.

Hibbing, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Corporal Anton Bernhardt of the local militia company has applied for entrance to the United States marines through the Duluth office and has been accepted. Capt. Junker received a telegram asking him for an honorable discharge of the militia man. Bernhardt had been employed by the Oliver Iron Mining company here as a machinist and has shown great aptitude in his military work.

GRAND RAPIDS FIRMS MOVING.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The sale of the Itasca Mercantile company's grocery and hardware stocks to Henry Hughes & Co., caused some business changes. Mr. Hughes moved his stock into the former quarters of the Itasca Mercantile Co.'s grocery and hardware and drug departments. The drug department, which was bought some time ago by Theo. Toren, who has been pharmacist in the Itasca Mercantile Co. drug store for several years, moved to the room being vacated by Hughes & Co. In the same room, James Connell, who has been in the hardware and grocery department of the Itasca for many years, will open a confectionery and grocery store. The Itasca Dry Goods Co., under the management of C. C. Peterson, will remain in its present quarters in the Itasca Mercantile Co. building.

CANNOT STOP CARS.

Mesaba Trolley Line Unable to Grant Hibbing's Request.

Hibbing, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Though anxious to do all in its power to co-operate with the village officials in answering the demands made by the Commercial club for changes in the system, the officials of the Mesaba electric road do not feel that they can stop at every crossing in Hibbing.

A letter from General Manager Newton received acknowledged receipt of the communication from Recorder Haley, and asked that any further steps be postponed until the road had an opportunity to submit arguments showing its inability to comply with the request. The letter sets forth that as the road is an interurban one, time is a prime object, and more stops in Hibbing would be detrimental to the present schedule.

TWO HARBORS BLAZE.

Fire Breaks Out in Store With Party Going on Overhead.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire broke out about 11:30 Saturday evening in the Bargain store on Second avenue, and considerable damage was done before the blaze was extinguished. The fire appeared to be between the walls and the firemen experienced considerable trouble locating it. There was also considerable damage done by water. The loss was not heavy. The fire was first noticed when smoke entered the hall on the floor above the store. There was a party going on in the hall and on investigation the fire was discovered to be in the store. If it had not been for the fact that the hall was occupied the fire would not have been noticed so soon and the chances are that the building would have been completely destroyed. The origin or cause of the fire is not known.

The fire department was also called out about 3 p. m. Saturday to extinguish a fire which started in the kitchen of the residence of J. E. Zemlin. There was no trouble getting the fire out without any or little damage to property.

EVELETH SINGLE MEN WIN GAME.

Eveleth, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator Jim Boyle was unable to be here yesterday and his team was defeated in the annual B. P. O. Elks' ball game. Senator Boyle was to have twirled for the married Elks.

Morrison, who pitched for the bachelors last year, recently became eligible for a position with the benedicts and was used on the mound. He started in fine shape but weakened and the single men won by a score of 10 to 7. Reed and Marty shared the honors on the mound for the winners.

The teams lined up as follows:

THREE BALL TEAMS

Have Been Formed By Eveleth Boys' Recreation Club.

Eveleth, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The captains selected by the Boys' Study and Recreation club of this city have picked the lineups for three baseball teams and are now busy arranging schedules. The Reds, Whites and Blues will play games among themselves and are also open for games with any boys' teams on the range. The teams are composed as follows:

HIBBING SOCIAL NOTES.

Hibbing, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Junker were pleasantly surprised at their home Saturday evening by a number of their friends, the occasion being their fifth wedding anniversary. The evening was spent in cards. Four tables of bridge were played, with honors going to Mrs. James Carmichael and Mrs. Al Dixon.

The Royal Neighbors of America will hold their regular semi-monthly meeting in Erspamer's hall tomorrow evening. Five new members will be initiated into the lodge.

Miss Myrtle Porteous, who for the past four years has been head saleslady for a dry goods company, has resigned her position.

Next Thursday evening, at the Presbyterian church, Rev. Sears Thomson will deliver an illustrated lecture on "New York City." The proceeds will be turned over to the Boys' club to help defray expenses for their camping trips.

Mrs. Joseph Berard of Sellers street returned home today noon from a week's visit in Superior as the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Leo Keller.

The Knights of Columbus will entertain its members and friends at a concert and dancing party tomorrow evening in McGolrick institute.

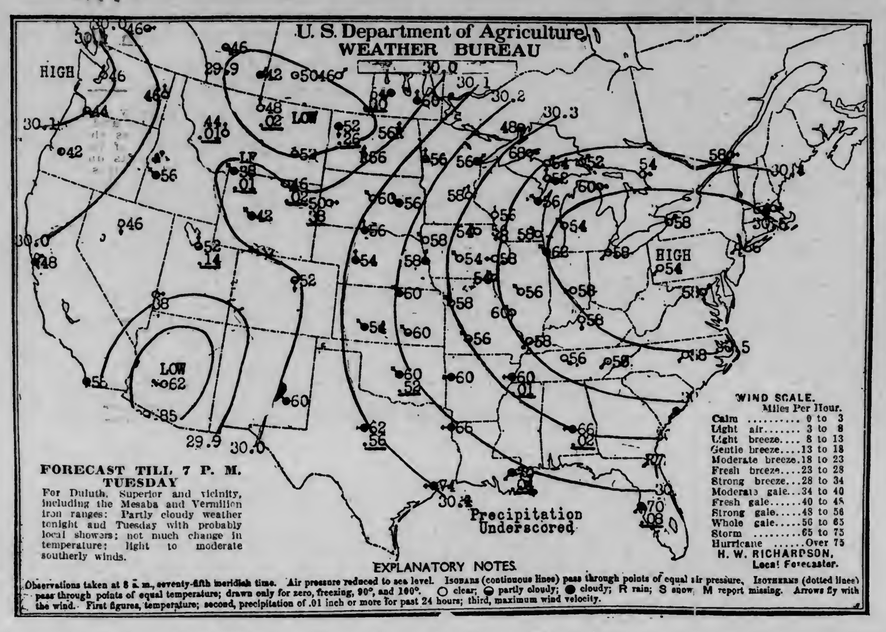
OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER



H. W. RICHARDSON, Local Forecaster.

FORECAST TILL 7 P. M. TUESDAY

For Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion iron ranges: Partly cloudy weather tonight and Tuesday with probably local showers; not much change in temperature; light to moderate southerly winds.

EXPLANATORY NOTES.

Observations taken at 8 a. m., seventy-fifth meridian time. Air pressure reduced to sea level. Isobars (continuous lines) pass through points of equal air pressure. Isotherms (dotted lines) pass through points of equal temperature; drawn only for zero, freezing, 90°, and 100°. ○ clear; ◑ partly cloudy; ● cloudy; R rain; S snow. M report missing. Arrows fly with the wind. First figures, temperature; second, precipitation of .01 inch or more for past 24 hours; third, maximum wind velocity.

CLOUDY

Just as we said, now that the substitute weather man is off the job and Potentate Richardson gets back from Atlanta, bad weather is threatened again. Today is all right, of course, even though it did start off cloudy, but Mr. Richardson says that it will be partly cloudy tonight and tomorrow with probable showers. However, after a straight week of fair and almost totally cloudless weather, there can't be much kick, so long as the rain will be called off for the ball games. The season opens today, you know.

A year ago today was fair and cool. The sun rose this morning at 4:28 and will set this evening at 7:40, giving fifteen hours and twelve minutes of sunshine, five more minutes than Saturday.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four to forty-eight hours light rains fell over the lower Mississippi valley and gulf states. Oklahoma, Western Kansas, Northern Utah, Wyoming, Western South Dakota, North Dakota, Montana and Manitoba. Moderate to warm temperature are the rule in sections east of the Rocky Mountains."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, May 18.—Forecasts for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Tuesday:

Wisconsin—Fair tonight and probably Tuesday; warmer in east and south portions tonight and in east portion Tuesday.

Minnesota—Generally fair tonight and Tuesday.

Iowa—Generally fair tonight and Tuesday; warmer tonight.

North Dakota—Unsettled weather tonight and Tuesday, probably showers.

South Dakota—Unsettled weather tonight and Tuesday, probably showers in east portion.

Montana—Generally fair tonight and Tuesday; not much change in temperature.

Lower and Upper Michigan—Fair tonight and probably Tuesday.

BOY TAKES TUMBLE.

Drops Eighteen Feet and Then Runs Home Badly Bruised.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—While sitting on the high retaining wall at the south side of the Leland avenue bridge, watching the people fishing, Douglas Dahl, the 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gust Dahl, fell off the wall a distance of nome eighteen feet to the stony ground below, lighting on his face, and inflicting a deep gash under his right eye. The boy got up and ran home, where medical aid was summoned, the doctor being obiged to take several stitches to close the cut.

HIBBING BEATS CHISHOLM 2 TO 0.

Chisholm, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first baseball game of the season was played here Sunday afternoon between Chisholm and Hibbing, Hibbing winning by a score of 2 to 0. A strong south wind of almost hurricane force marred the pleasure of the game. Williams for the visitors scored the only two tallies made, one on a wild throw by Chase in the fourth inning and the other on a two bagger by Carroll in the eighth. Nason for Chisholm, playing on second, showed up in fine form. Whaling of Grand Rapids played with the locals.

EVELETH COUNCIL TO DISCUSS BONDS.

Eveleth, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The calling of a special election for the purpose of issuing bonds in the sum of $200,000 for paving and other permanent improvements is the principal thing to be taken up by the city council tomorrow night. The council prepared for the calling of a bond election by holding a special meeting to place the city by resolution subject to a state law which provides for the issuing of bonds.

VIRGINIA'S LID FITS TIGHTLY.

Virginia, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Under the new chief of police, Owen Gateley, there is said to be a notable difference here with respect to the enforcement of the Sunday closing day. Yesterday was a pretty "dry" day in this city.

LOAN ASSOCIATION AMENDS CONSTITUTION

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting of the Grand Rapids Building & Loan association, the by-laws of the association were amended so as to provide for the issuance of paid up stock at a par value of $200 per share, and the further provision that holders of matured stock could exchange their shares of matured stock for shares of paid up stock, and that instead of the dividends, which are determined by the amount of profits, being applied to reduce premiums, there being none due, they shall be paid in cash every six months. Fred A. King, who is one of the officials of the association, came from Cass Lake to be present at the meeting.

EVELETH BRIEFS.

Eveleth, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Local Norwegians celebrated May 17 with a big dance and program at Monitor hall Saturday night. The celebration was well attended and lasted until a late hour.

Company E, Third infantry, had target practice for the first time this season at the outdoor range yesterday. The guardsmen did considerable indoor shooting during the winter and with the possibility of Mexico before them, the men are taking more interest than usual in their work and the officers expect an improvement over scores made in previous years.

The fishing in the vicinity of Eveleth has been rather disappointing so far this season and no good catches have been reported.

Judge Moylan was called upon to pass sentence Saturday upon a half dozen men rounded up by the police for minor offences.

The Minnesota Automobile association is desirous of having a club in Eveleth affiliated with the state organization. The city has many enthusiastic motorists, but no club and it is probable that steps will be taken this season to have such an organization formed.

Two Eveleth Fires.

Eveleth, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local fire department answered a call Saturday afternoon to a house on Fayal road and found a man spraying a smouldering mattress with a garden hose. Sunday morning the firemen were summoned again and made a run out Pierce street only to find their services not needed.

POISONED BY THE GRIP

The grip is no respecter of persons. No age or station of life is exempt from it. The grip is not a fatal disease but it leaves its victim in such a debilitated condition that one of our foremost medical writers has been led to say, "It is astonishing the number of people who have been crippled in health for years after an attack." It is a common thing to hear people date various ailments from an attack of influenza.

The condition of those who have had the grip is one that calls for a tonic for the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are especially adapted to meet this need as they purify and enrich the blood, tone up the nerves and give vigor, strength and health to the debilitated system.

"The grip left me without any vitality whatever," says one who has found relief, "and I lost all appetite and ambition. I was reduced in weight and was frequently confined to bed for two days or more. My friends thought I was going into consumption. I owe my recovery to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and cheerfully recommend them." The details of this case and a chapter on the proper treatment of the grip and its after-effects will be found in the booklet "Building Up the Blood" which will be sent free on request by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

BULL MOOSERS MEET.

Coleraine, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—With Hugh T. Halbert of St. Paul, Bull Moose candidate for governor as the star attraction there was quite a gathering of Bull Moosers here Saturday evening. Delegates were present from Hibbing, Chisholm, Keewatin, Marble and Grand Rapids. Alex King acted as chairman. Speeches were made by J. Higbee, candidate for the legislature. M. Lewis, candidate for secretary of state, and Mr. Halbert.

Mr. Halbert said that he had been advised to put the soft pedal on county option, but said that he would rather be defeated than stand for a principle in one part of the state which he could not stand for in another place.

He said that the Progressive party has a definite, distinct program. Beside county option it includes home rule for public utilities, woman suffrage and constructive measures for the conservation of natural resources.

FREEMAN TAKES HAND IN TROUBLE.

Chisholm, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Village Attorney Freeman has been delegated by the village council to try and compose the trouble between Recorder Bert Culver and Village Accountant P. L. Austin, who have been at outs since the recorder took office. He was directed to adjust the matter today, if possible. The attorney is seeking to adjust the matter today and have each carry on his duties in his own office.

Chisholm Club Date.

Chisholm, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Ladies' Art and Study club Saturday set the date for their annual banquet and made the committee appointments necessary for carrying out the details. The date will be May 25 in the evening and the banquet will be held in the new library building. The decoration committee appointed is Mrs. Frank Austin, Mrs. Edward Freeman and Miss Minnie Carlson. The committee on supper arrangements is composed of Mrs. William Conley, Mrs. A. Tancig and Mrs. E. H. Loofburrow.

Gilbert Beats Aurora.

Gilbert, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Gilbert ball team defeated the Aurora team here yesterday 6 to 3. The game was fairly even throughout, with the exception of one inning, when the Gilbert team scored five runs. An enthusiastic crowd of rooters was in present and cheered the good work of the local team. Following was the line-up of the Gilbert team: C, Costello; p, James; 1b, J. Shean; 2b, Ray Gahan; 3b, Stevens; lf, H. Hosking; cf, T. Nolan; rf, Mesnik.

Mountain Iron Outclassed.

Eveleth, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—A game between the local high school and the Mountain Iron high school team Saturday proved to be a farce. The Mountain Iron nine was entirely outclassed by the speedy aggregation developed by Coach Sylvecstor. The final score was 25 to 1.

Virginia Minister to Leave.

Virginia, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. Thomas Grice, pastor of the First M. E. church, who has been here eighteen months and is very popular, has been transferred to a charge in California and will leave here soon. His going is a cause for much regret.

McGuire Goes East.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Supt. A. J. McGuire of the North Central Experiment farm here left yesterday for Washington to testify before the interstate commerce commission as an expert agriculturist in an investigation which is in progress at the capital city.

Corsica Shaft Burns.

Elba, Minn., May 18.—A fire which broke out at the Corsica mine here entirely destroyed the shaft-house and before it could be checked burned down into the shaft. The fire started at the top of the shaft-house, which is a wood structure and gained considerable headway before it was discovered.

Grand Rapids Beaten.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city baseball team opened the season here Sunday at the South side ball park, playing the Cass Lake Indians. The Indians won by a 7-to-5 score.

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT AND ITCHES APPLY SULPHUR

Use It Like a Cold Cream and Dry Eczema Eruptions Right Up.

The moment you apply bold-sulphur to an itching or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a renowned dermatologist.

This remarkable sulphur made into a thick cream effects such prompt relief, even in aggravated Eczema, that it is a never-ending source of amazement to physicians.

For many years bold-sulphur has occupied a secure position in the treatment of cutaneous eruptions by reason of its cooling, parasite-destroying properties and nothing has ever been found to take its place in relieving irritable and inflammatory affections of the skin. While not always establishing a permanent cure, yet, in every instance, it immediately subdues the itching irritation and heals the Eczema right up and it is often years later before any eruption again manifests itself.

Any good pharmacist will supply an ounce of bold-sulphur cream, which should be applied to the affected parts like the ordinary cold creams. It isn't unpleasant and the prompt relief afforded is very welcome, particularly when the Eczema is accompanied with torturous itching.

William Trichtler Gets Verdict Against Gogebic Steam Boiler Works.

William M. Tritchler, doing business as the Trichtler Electric company, was this morning awarded a verdict for $649.04 against the Gogebic Steam Boiler Works as a balance due on his account with the defendants for his services under a contract to furnish the Duluth Boiler Works plant with certain electrical equipment. Trichtler sued for $843.91 and the company counterclaimed damages in the sum of $746.41, claiming that it was obliged to have the work done over again.

The jury reached its verdict Saturday and returned it sealed to the court this morning. It was opened and read as soon as the court had convened. The case was tried before Judge Fesler.

CLEAN-UP PERIOD EXTENDED; FINE RESULTS ARE OBTAINED

Few Delinquents and They Will Be Given Until End of Week to Make Good.

The clean-up period, originally announced to last ten days from last Monday, has been extended until the end of the week by Mayor W. I. Prince and "Brighten-up" Borgen, chairman of the brighten-up committee of the Rotary club.

The residents of Duluth have made excellent progress in the civic house-cleaning which has been under way, but those at the head of the movement felt that still better results could be obtained if the time were exended. This will round out a full two weeks of scouring and raking and painting and mending and repairing and gardening.

By the end of the present week the officials are certain that Duluth will more nearly approximate a "spotless town" than at any time since it attained to the dignity of a metropolis. Hundreds of lawns and yards have been put in first-class shape, but some still remain in need of touching up. By giving the delinquents until the end of the week the authorities are confident that the survey will show that few, if any, have made no effort to get into line.

One of the most encouraging features of the past week has been the time and effort which have been expended upon the back-yard gardens, both vegetable and flower. It demonstrates that the homecroft movement is increasing steadily. Not only does the city get the benefit of the improved appearance which is inevitable where gardens are planted, but those who have gardens score heavily in the campaign against the high cost of living.

Chance to Leave City.
If John McCullom, 65, and William Dunkley, 37, will leave town today they will escape straight sixty-day sentences on the work farm. They were arrested Saturday night on charges of being drunk a third time and, pleading guilty in police court this morning, were each given sixty days on the farm. The court agreed to suspend sentence if they would leave the city.

Municipal Court Calendar.
Judge Windom will call the regular jury calendar in municipal court at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. Among the cases to be heard are: Sandstrom vs. Hegland, Watsick vs. Markwat, Clark vs. City of Duluth and Northwestern Produce company vs. Great Northern Railway company.

Seek Dying Woman's Son.
Friends of Paul Parel, who is believed to be in Duluth, have written Chief Troyer in their efforts to locate him. His mother is dying at Clear Lake, Wis., and she is very anxious to see him, his friends write. Parel was last heard from in Superior three weeks ago.

Runaway Boys Found.
Gregory O'Neill, 13, and Edward Kelly, 10, who disappeared from their homes in Ingleside park Saturday morning, were found in a box car underneath the Lake avenue viaduct about 6 o'clock in the evening by Patrolman Lading. The boys were brought to headquarters and later taken to their homes by Humane Agent McKercher.

Stricken in Hotel.
Frank Lawrence, 47 years old, who has been working at the local docks for many years, was taken ill yesterday in his room at the Southern hotel, 210 Lake avenue south, and after being given treatment by Police Surgeon Murphy, was late in the afternoon removed to St. Luke's hospital. His condition is reported as being serious.

Verdict Will Stand.
Judge Ensign in district court Saturday denied an alternative motion of the defendant for judgment notwithstanding the verdict or for a new trial in the case of Joseph Beaulieu against the Duluth Boiler works. On April 28 last, Beaulieu was awarded $150 damages by a jury for injuries which he sustained while testing a boiler for the company. Unless Judge Ensign's order denying a new trial is reversed, the verdict will stand.

Case Settled Out of Court.
Notice has been filed with the district court that the personal injury claim which Rady, 18-year-old son of Mike Drozosovac, has against the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Railway company has been adjusted out of court for $4,400. The money has been paid over to L. Vukosav, who was appointed legal guardian of the young man by the probate court.

Will Receive $6.75 Weekly.
A contested case under the workingmen's compensation act was disposed of Saturday afternoon when Judge Bert Fesler of the district court ordered the Wisconsin Steel company to pay Andrew Lahti $6.75 per week during his disability, which consists of a broken instep sustained in an accident at a Nashwauk mine last December. The company contested the claim on the ground that Lahti had left the hospital at Hibbing three days after his foot had been placed in a cast.

False Alarm.
A pedestrian, seeing smoke coming from the roof of the Phoenix building, Fourth avenue west and Superior street turned in a fire alarm shortly after midnight. The firemen arriving on the scene found no fire and discovered that the smoke was coming from a chimney. The pedestrian had disappeared.

Auto Was Stolen.
While the owner was making a professional call at 3 o'clock yesterday morning, Dr. H. H. Hovde's automobile was stolen from in front of First avenue east and Sixth street. He reported the theft to the police and the machine was recovered about 10 o'clock in the morning by Patrolman Dinkel, who found it at the corner of Second avenue east and First street.

Mrs. Lee Visiting Here.
Mrs. Florence Lee, pioneer in the institution of anti-tuberculosis work in Duluth, was a visitor in the city today. She renewed acquaintances at the city hall and expressed great pleasure at the progress which has been made in the anti-tuberculosis campaign since she left here. While in Duluth Mrs. Lee worked with a committee of citizens. Since that time the city has assumed the burden, the visiting nurses being under the direction of the health department. Mrs. Lee is now located at Neenah, Wis., where she fills the position of visiting nurse and of a teacher in the public schools.

Damage Case to Jury.
Attorneys made closing arguments this morning in the $20,000 personal injury suit brought by Cecil Montee, a minor, by his father, Mathew P. Montee, against the Great Northern Railway company and the case went to the jury in Judge Ensign's division of district court this afternoon. Montee, aged 17, was run over by a switch engine in the Allouez yards June 24, 1913. His left leg was cut off.

Testimony in Damage Suit.
Taking of testimony was resumed in Judge Dancer's division of district court today in the $10,000 damage suit brought against Drs. Wunder & Goldsworthy, Duluth physicians, by Mathew Alexander. Alexander charges malpractice in that he was not given proper treatment when he went to the defendants with a septic arm.

MOB TRIES TO BREAK INTO CHICAGO BANK

Depositors Tell Police Head of Institution Has Disappeared.

Chicago, May 18.—Police reserves were called upon today to control a crowd of depositors who threatened to break in the doors of the Brookline Commercial & Savings bank, a private concern which closed its doors Saturday.

This bank and the Midway Commercial & Saving bank were owned by Joseph T. Ashurst and William B. Fosberg. Depositors informed the police that Ashurst was missing.

The Brookline advertised resources of $150,000 and deposits of $12,000, and had 800 depositors. Yesterday Fosberg found 400 pennies and 40 dimes in the safe.

A small but equally hopeless crowd of depositors gathered at the Midway bank, but there was no disorder.

Big Beltrami Land Sale.
Bemidji, Minn., May 18.—One hundred and thirty thousand acres of land were offered in the government tax land sale just closed here. Of this much was improved land of a high quality.

All government land offered was sold and about three-fourths of the private lands besides city and town lots were sold. The sale lasted one week.

QUARTERS FOR FIREMEN.

Room on Second Floor Will Be Repaired for Men.

The three men stationed at the New Duluth fire hall will be provided with sleeping accommodations on the second floor. The room will be plastered and a sliding pole will be installed. In the past the men have been sleeping on the ground floor but with the coming of the team of horses to haul the gasoline engine a change will be necessary. The firemen will remove the old plaster and repair the lathing, but the new plastering will be done by contract. Commissioner Hicken estimates that the work will cost not to exceed $200.

HORSES CATCH AND EAT FISH.

Baltimore News: On the coast of North Carolina there are several miles of low, sandy shore where nothing grows except a coarse grass, a few salt water weeds and wild parsley. On these banks live a strange breed of half-wild horses known as the "bankers ponies." These creatures are generally about twice the size of Shetland ponies. Every year the herd owners drive the "bankers" into pens, brand the foals with the proper mark and catch some of the older animals to sell to dealers.

North Carolinians say the beasts must be starved into eating grain, hay or grass, for they have always lived on rank salt marsh grass of the marshes and on fish. They catch the fish for themselves at low tide; with their hoofs they dig deep holes into the sand below high water mark, and when the tide falls they greedily devour the fish that are stranded in these holes. Often they fight briskly over an especially tempting morsel.

In captivity these strange horses are intelligent, but seldom are even in temper. Once tamed, they make excellent draft animals, for they have a strength that is disproportionate to their size. Foals bred from "bankers" in captivity make valuable animals—strong and intelligent.

LITTLE GIRL KILLED BY FIRE DEPARTMENT AUTO

Little Lyda Hubert of 323 Vernon street, a 4-year-old girl, was instantly killed at 2 o'clock this afternoon by the automobile of Assistant Chief Granzow of the fire department, while he was making a run to a fire on the Hermantown road.

The assistant chief had been in West Duluth when he got word of a brush fire on the hillside in the West end. He immediately started for the scene, and was traveling along West Third street. At the corner of Vernon street the little girl, who had been playing in the street started to run across in front of the automobile. The chief's driver veered to the other side of the street and tried to go behind the little girl, but she became confused and dodged back directly in front of the automobile, which struck her and killed her instantly.

The body was taken to the home of the little girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leander Hubert.

Five Ringleaders Taken to Jail Amid Much Excitement.

Eveleth, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Riot broke loose here today among the idle men and the police had to quell the disturbance by arresting five of the ringleaders. The affair created great excitement and feeling ran high. During the morning a lot of the men, mostly Italians, who have been laid off at the local mines, formed in line and carrying the red flag of Socialism and yelling "We want work," marched to Adams avenue where Contractor Lawrence McConnell has about thirty men at work on paving. They induced some of the men to join them and others were picked up as the mob swept along towards the Fayal mine, all crying in various tongues "We want work, we want work." Arriving at the Fayal, they called on the men working there to join them. Some did and various inflammatory speeches were delivered.

Police Charge Crowd.

The police charged the crowd and arrested the five ring leaders and hustled them off to the city jail. The crowd followed hooting but beyond throwing a few rocks indulged in no violence. The situation at 2:30 p. m. is a critical one but the authorities believe they can handle the crowd. The ring leaders will have hearings some time this afternoon on a charge of rioting.

TELEGRAMS FIGURE IN ANTI-TRUST SUIT

Companies Resist Subpoenas in Mississippi Cotton Case.

Jackson, Miss., May 18.—Hearings in the state's anti-trust suit against practically every cotton oil mill in Mississippi began here today before Chancellor Z. P. Jones. The state charge the mill owners entered into a conspiracy to fix the price of cotton seed and demands statutory penalties amounting to almost $60,000,000.

Attorneys for the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies are resisting subpoenas issued by the chancellor, commanding them to produce all messages, relating to seed prices, handled by oil companies. The state contends these messages, all in code, will show prices were fixed arbitrarily each day.

ONE OF KIDNAPED BOYS IS RETURNED

Five-Year-Old Identifies Four Men and One Woman as Captors.

New York, May 18.—While the relatives of Frank Longo, the 8-year-old boy, kidnaped on Wednesday, last, are anxiously awaiting news of him, another pending kidnaping case was solved Sunday by the return of Giuseppe Gumino, aged 5, to his distracted parents by the police, who arrested four men and one woman on the charge of holding the boy since April 28, for the payment of ransom. The alleged kidnapers, who were identified by Giuseppe at the Yorkville court, were held in $5,000 bail each.

NO ATTACK BY MEXICANS

Rumors of Plans Arouse U. S. Forces to Guard Vera Cruz.

Gen. Funston Reports Blowing Up of Railway Bridge.

Vera Cruz, May 18.—A rumored concentration of Mexican Federal troops before the American lines in the vicinity of Vergara station, two miles out on the Inter-Oceanic railroad, failed to materialize into the early morning attack which had been predicted by natives who entered Vera Cruz yesterday.

The night passed without any incident at the American outposts, and no indication was given that Gen. Navarrete or Gen. Pena contemplated any violation of the armistice.

From several quarters rumors were persistently circulated yesterday concerning Mexican troop movements in the vicinity of the American outposts. The American army headquarters staff was disinclined to take these rumors seriously, but precautions were naturally taken to guard against ny possible night surprise.

Drilled in Early Morning.

The infantry men turned out for drill in the early morning hours, in order to avoid the heat after sunrise. The artillery and cavalry also took advantage of the cool period of the morning to exercise their horses and mules and keep them in conditiopn.

Under the precautionary plans drawn up by the headquarters staff, the marines and bluejackets on board the American fleet are held in readiness to come ashore at an hour's notice in case the garrison should be attacked.

The possibility that Provisional President Huerta might prefer to bring on fighting with the American troops and make a short and desperate struggle to save his honor in this way, rather than await destruction by the Constitutionalists, was freely discussed here. This was thought to be responsible for an untraceable rumor that Gen. Huerta himself was commanding the Mexican forces in front of Vera Cruz.

Estimates of the Mexican forces vary widely, but information reaching the American staff here indicates that the Mexican army in the neighborhood of Vera Cruz is inconsiderable.

Bridge Blown Up.

Washington, May 18.—Gen. Funston from Vera Cruz reports that Mexicans have blown up the Inter-Oceanic railroad bridge at San Francisco, twenty-eight miles from Vera Cruz. The bridge spanned the Antiqua river and was 168 feet long and fourteen feet high.

MANY AMERICANS REFUSE TO LEAVE.

Washington, May 18.—The Brazilian minister in Mexico City reported today that he was completing arrangements for the departure of 250 American refugees, who will go by train to Puerto Mexico, where they will take ship for the United States. The minister added that there still are a large number of Americans who decline to leave Mexico City.

WANTS ARMY IN COLORADO

Representative Keating Calls at the White House.

Austria Adds to Plea; Ammons Asks Federal Intervention.

Washington, May 18.—Representative Keating of Colorado conferred with President Wilson today concerning conditions in the strike district of his state. Although the president had advised Governor Ammons that Federal troops would not be allowed to remain indefinitely in the strike sections, Mr. Keating said the president was not disposed to withdraw the government forces immediately, and is willing to do everything within reason for the preservation of peace in the coal region.

Mr. Keating expressed doubt as to the ability of the state militia to maintain order in the strike districts after the withdrawal of the Federal troops, unless mine owners consent to the mediation of disputed questions.

Austrians Want Guard.

Austrian Ambassador Dumba today laid before the secretary of state and the secretary of war an urgent request that Federal troops be retained on duty in the Colorado strike district. The requests were made at the instigation of the Austrian government on information received from their agents in Colorado.

The ambassador declared that in his opinion there was not sufficient force to maintain order if the Federal troops were withdrawn, and that he felt sure that trouble would break out again as soon as the army was out of the state. He stated that Austrian citizens, who make up a large part of the population in Ludlow and other strike centers, had been found dead and their bodies plundered.

Wants Federal Aid.

Denver, Col., May 18.—Federal aid in bringing about a settlement of the Colorado coal miners' strike is desired by Governor Ammons, even if President Wilson carries out his intimation that Federal troops may soon be withdrawn from the strike districts, the governor announced last night.

The governor's announcement followed an interchange of telegrams with President Wilson in which he expressed a wish that Colorado should regulate its difficulties without United States troops.

"I am earnest in my belief we should have national aid to bring about a settlement of the strike, because it is an interstate conflict," said Governor Ammons.

"Many of the coal companies are composed of a large part of stockholders beyond our state lines, and the United Mine Workers of America is a national organization whose headquarters is in the east, while Colorado is only one of three states of District 18 in this jurisdiction."

Officials of the United Mine Workers of America said if the Federal troops were withdrawn, the union would protest to Washington.

PRESENTS SIDE OF CORPORATION

Telephone Co. Employes Hear Address Opposing Government Ownership.

R. F. Landis of Minneapolis, division contract agent for the Northwestern Telephone Exchange company, who is on a tour of publicity throughout this section of the country in behalf of a campaign against government ownership of telephones, which has been recommended by Postmaster General Burleson, addressed a gathering of about seventy-five of the company's employes in Duluth, Superior and the range towns at the Commercial club this noon.

The aim of this publicity campaign, said Mr. Landis to The Herald this noon, is to acquaint the officials and employes with the company's arguments against government ownership. Mr. Landis spoke last Friday at Brainerd and is on his way West, where he will address the officials in all the larger cities.

Mr. Landis said in part:

"This question ought to be, and will be, decided on the basis of what is best for the people of this nation. The fundamental principle of public service is the 'greatest good to the greater number,' and the system which accomplishes this should prevail, whether private or government ownership.

"The United States is furnishing the cheapest telephone service per telephone in the world. If we had a government ownership advocate here he would be right up on his feet in a minute at that statement, and would probably say that the average price paid in the United States per telephone is around $30 per year, and in Norway and Sweden it is about $15 a year—and that rate is one of the very lowest in the world.

"The $15 charge in Sweden, we will say, against $30 here sounds as if it is cheaper service. But, gentlemen, the fundamental of prices is the buying power of a dollar. What can you buy for a dollar in Norway and Sweden compared with what you can buy for a dollar in the United States? You can buy about three for one. They pay a man a dollar a day over there for the same kind of work that you pay him two or three dollars a day for here.

"Wages paid telephone operators in foreign countries as compared to the average wages paid in the United States are Austria 33 per cent, France 45 per cent, German Empire 46 per cent, Great Britain 55 per cent, Sweden 40 per cent.

"Wherever government ownership has been tried the rates are higher, the service poorer and the number of telephones per capita lower than under private ownership in America."

SAYS AMERICANS SHOT THEIR OWN MEN

Beloit Boy Writes of Fighting at Vera Cruz.

Beloit, Wis., May 18.—In a letter written to a friend here today, Byron Shimeall, a Beloit boy, who took part in the United States marine occupation of Vera Cruz, declares that three of the Americans hit there were shot by their comrades, who mistook them for "spigs."

He declared one was shot five times by a detachment of troops stationed on the roof of a building. The other two were shot at night by outposts when they did not stand on command to give pass words.

NORTHERN PACIFIC TRAIN STOPPED BY BRUSH FIRE

Brush fires are reported to be burning beyond Carlton, on the Northern Pacific line, doing damage to line fences and telegraph wires.

The Northern Pacific train due here at 2:05 was held up on its way to Duluth from the Twin Cities, being unable to get by the fire, and had not arrived at 3 p. m.

No damage has been done to the train, it is claimed.

MICROBE OF BALDNESS EXPOSED

How Insidious Germ of Seborrhoea Does Its Deadly Work and How It Can Be Vanquished.

New York World: Baldness is entirely unnecessary—at any rate until after middle age. It can be prevented, but, when once it has been allowed to start, the best that can be done is to put off for a few years its further progress—and this only sometimes.

Baldness is almost always due to neglect of the scalp.

Dr. Richard W. Muller of New York, a specialist in diseases of the scalp, has just published a book on the subject; it is called "Hair." In his introduction he writes of baldness: "The real reason is that no one took sufficient interest in the young man's scalp when a boy until the stage of the disease which made him bald was too far advanced to save his hirsute adornment."

According to Dr. Muller, the most usual cause of baldness is a disease called seborrhoea. This manifests itself in dandruff. There are other causes—old age and hereditary arrested development of the hair-growing apparatus, for instance. But the man or woman who begins to get bald before the forty-fifth year is generally suffering from seborrhoea.

This disease begins insidiously at the ages of 12 to 14. It is first noticed in the falling of silvery scales on the coat collar and is accompanied by an oily condition of the forehead and sides of the nose. If the scalp be examined closely it will be "found to be covered with greasy, dirty scales, which, being removed, uncover a slightly reddened skin."

This condition is due to an increased flow of the oily secretions at the roots of the hair. These harden at the surface and choke the growth of the hair. The origin of this disease, says Dr. Muller, "has been the object of the most diligent research for the last ten years by Dr. Sabouraud, of the St. Louis hospital of Paris, as well as by the famous dermatologist, Dr. Unna, of Hamburg. Both agree that a microbe is the cause of the condition called seborrhoea. This microbe is believed to invade the follicles from which the hair issues forth. There it multiplies enormously, and by its presence in large numbers obstructs the mouth of the glandular ducts, fills up the follicle, presses upon the tender new hair and its bulb, and finally destroys the follicle utterly."

This disease, if discovered in its earliest stages, can be checked. But, unfortunately, it is rarely discovered before too late to be benefited by treatment. Dr. Muller says great harm is done by people who, on first noticing that they are losing their hair, apply wrong treatment. If alcoholic solution of salicylic acid be applied in the correct way at the right time "will do a great deal to improve the condition of the scalp and hair." Following are his directions to women for applying it:

"A wad of absorbent cotton or a soft toothbrush must be used. Part the hair once through the middle and then again twice at equal distances from side to side.

"Now use the solution in the following manner: Pour a sufficient quantity into a saucer and commence, say, for example, to treat the front section of the right side for the first day."

Dr. Muller advises that only one section be treated each day, so that it will take six days to treat the whole head.

"Dip the cotton wad or brush into the fluid, raise a strand and rub the fluid thoroughly into the exposed surface of the scalp for two or three minutes; then proceed to the next layer of hair, maybe half an inch further to the right, and do the same layer by layer as far as the scalp extends. It should take at least 30 to 40 minutes to do this work."

The treatment is often futile, in which case sulphur lotion must be used. Dr. Muller urges great discrimination in this, and it is far wiser to allow a specialist to apply it, for it is a dangerous irritant.

In the case of men and boys the treatment is easier. A tablespoonful of tincture of green soap is poured on the head, followed by a tablespoonful of hot water. These are rubbed gently into the scalp; another tablespoonful of the soap and water is put on and the rubbing is continued until the whole head is covered with abundant lather. This is allowed to remain undisturbed for ten minutes and is then washed off in several waters, each cooler than that which went before.

Four or five weeks of this treatment will generally check the progress of the disease, but if the hair follicles have been "invaded by the microbe these are, in this secure hiding place, inaccessible to any remedy."

Premature baldness is due to too frequent washing of the hair, to the wearing of tight, heavy hats and caps and to poor general health. Dr. Muller gives many recipes for lotions for this condition, but he remarks pessimistically that "it will frequently occur that the result is small and far off."

The best way not to be bald is to prevent the onset of the disease. Here are a few rules of this:

"As a general rule washing the scalp is not needed by adults, except every three or four weeks. If daily exposed to the dust and dirt of the street in cities, a weekly hair washing may be necessary, but if not so exposed longer intervals would be better.

"Both children and adults should have their hair washed with tincture of alkaline soap, green soap or Castile soap.

"After the comb has been used to separate the hair into strands the brush must be forcibly drawn through. Thus the hair will be cleansed as it should be and the scales removed from the scalp.

"Combs and brushes should be washed at least once a week in warm water to which some ammonia, one teaspoonful to a quart of water, has been added.

"No woman with thin, poor hair and inclination to congestion and headache should wear false hair upon her head.

"Even the perfectly healthy man should not think of keeping a stiff, firm hat on his head."

Dr. Muller recommends massage, but it must be correctly applied. The most important "consists of placing the fingers of one or both hands pon a particular place and, without quitting the same, to execute forward and backward movements and from side to side in a manner to move the integument over the deeper layers of skin and to render it thereby more flexible. Pressure massage consists of pressing and squeezing the skin between the thumb and index finger of one hand, or between two thumbs, with sufficient force to squeeze out all the contents from the conduits of the sweat and sebaceous glands."

Before massaging the finger tips should be dipped in fresh, odorless cold cream.

Dr. Muller holds out no hope to the man who is at present bald.

WERE RECKLESS SPENDTHRIFTS

Some Generous Prodigals Who Believed in Throwing Money at the Birds.

Tit Bits: There is a man traveling about the world at the present time who is doing his utmost to rid himself speedily of a fortune left to him by his father. That is Charles G. Gates, son of the late John W. Gates, a well-known American financier, and he declares that he gives away £200,000 a year in tips alone. "I can't take my money away with me when I die, so I am going to burn it while I live," said Charles Gates recently, and according to accounts he is spending and giving away many thousands of pounds a week.

John Gates, it is interesting to know, founded a huge fortune by introducing barbed wire on the market at the age of 21. He sold more in one day than could be manufactured in a month, and he afterward founded the Consolidated Steel & Wire company, with a capital of £4,000,000. He was one of the greatest gamblers of modern times, and all over the states he was known as "Beta-million Gates." On one occasion he played a game of poker with Joe Leiter in an express train between Chicago and New York, and won a jack pot of £16,000 by a bluff with a pair of nines. In 1900 he backed Royal Flush for the Goodwin Cup because the animal was the property of a fellow-countryman. He plunged so heavily on the horse that its price was shortened from 25 to 1 to 6 to 1. He won no less than £100,000.

Ernest Benzon, better known as the "Jubilee Plunger," who died some time ago, is said to have gambled away a quarter of a million in one year. Before he came of age, the court of chancery, to keep him out of mischief, sent him on a sea voyage, but the vessel putting in at Melbourne, he succeeded in incurring liabilities—including £25,000 lost at cards—amounting to £65,000. After reaching his majority he risked large sums on the wildest gambling chances, but it was by backing horses and betting on pigeon shooting that he squandered the fortune he inherited. An afternoon at pigeon shooting never cost him less than £1,000.

At Sandown one day he lost £15,000, and a further £10,000 in the evening, and on one occasion he declared that he lost £10,000 in ten minutes at chemin de fer. The gambling clubs helped to reduce his bank balance, and he said himself that he frequently lost at one of them sums ranging from £4,000 to £12,000. When his fortune had gone his father's trustees took his affairs in hand, and eventually made him an allowance of about £400 a year.

Charles Wells, who some time ago was arrested on a yacht in Falmouth harbor on a charge of fraud, was a notorious spendthrift, and was the hero of the popular song, "The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo." He lost by gambling many thousands of pounds. At Monte Carlo he was fairly fortunate, and the story of his coup at the gaming tables he has often told himself. He started with a capital of £60,000, and invariably bet on a "run" or "series" at both the roulette and the trente-et-quarante tables, betting either the minimum stakes or the maximum stakes. By following this system he took during one afternoon all the 100 and all the 1,000-franc notes supplied to one of the trente-et-quarante tables, and play had to be postponed until the officials had fetched a further 100,000 francs to the "bank."

A young Englishman, who found fortune in the Yukon, spent his money in the most reckless manner. He would buy up hotels, and hire special trains for an hour at a time. In a town in California he put up at a large hotel, and surprised the owner by asking him what he would take for the place as it stood. A very large sum of money was asked, as the landlord had no wish to sell, but the money was immediately handed over by the spendthrift. The new owner, soon after he came into possession of the property, had all the windows cleaned with champagne!

A famous spendthrift was the late G. A. Baird, known as "Mr. Abington" on the turf. As a lad he inherited £3,000,000, and when he attained his majority he spent over £300,000 on race horses. He gave an enormous amount for his Newmarket residence, and the total expense on his estate exceeded £150,000. Mr. Baird, although he had no taste for the drama, tried to "make a hit" by financing a London theater, but lost nearly £500 a week for two months.

Generosity was one of his strong points, and on one occasion he gave £500 toward defraying the expenses of starting dining places in the East end. The jewelers found him a very profitable customer and once he paid £17,000 for a pearl necklace for a lady of his acquaintance. When luck went against him one day he thought he might be able to change it by throwing some of his property away, so he dropped a scarfpin worth about £200 over Westminster bridge. His journey to New Orleans to witness the Hall-Fitzsimmons fight, in which he had backed Hall for £10,000, proved fatal to him. He caught a chill and died a short time after, in his thirty-second year.

Col. Mellish, a sporting American, thought little of drawing a check for £20,000 for a race horse or two, and at one time he possessed thirty-eight thoroughbreds, seventeen coach horses, fourteen hunters and numerous hacks. The colonel was very fond of show, and he used to appear at the various courses in a carriage drawn by four white horses, with two outriders. He had a pugilist at beck and call, and he was in the habit of journeying to every city in Europe to witness prizefights. He would gamble at cards to the extent of £40,000 at a sitting, and once he staked that sum on a single throw of the dice.

TWO WAYS TO CATCH RABBITS.

Robert Haven Schauffler in The Metropolitan: By the first method, "you take a lot o' salt, mix some pepper with it, strew it on a very hard rock, then watch. The rabbits cum and eat the salt, and the pepper makes 'em sneeze so vilen", they bump their noses on the rock till they fall in a swound and you step up and pop 'em in your bag."

The other method was to "build a bustin' fire in the woods when the snow is plenty. Now rabbits, you must know, is a mite cold blooded little critters, so they'll cum and set around it and warm their toes. Well, pretty soon they'll drop off asleep and the fire'll melt the snow into slush. And pretty soon the fire'll die out and the mornin' 'll cum on sharp and 'll freeze the slush into ice and ketch the little critters fast by the paws. Then all you have to do is cum round with yer axe and chop 'em out."

DRAINAGE DON'TS.

Journal of Agriculture and Star Farmer: Don't dodge the wet spots in cultivated fields. A few dollars spent in drainage will make these spots yield valuable crops, and will make the cultivation of the whole field more convenient.

Don't be content with raising marsh grass on muck and peat marshes. Drainage is the step that begins their adaptability to tame grasses and other farm crops.

Don't condemn the muck and peat marshes on which timothy has died out once. Drain thoroughly and then apply barnyard manure or commercial fertilizers, as is done on uplands. In other words, give the marshes a square deal.

Don't wait for nature to drain the wet lands without assistance. Nature alone did not remove the stumps and stones from the wooded, stony lands. Neither does she irrigate the arid lands of the West without the aid of man.

Don't let damaging water get on to land, if it can be prevented. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure in drainage.

Don't think it takes a wizard to lay tile properly. Have a survey made sufficient in detail to show that there is sufficient fall. An intelligent use of this fall will then insure success.

Don't install a part of a drainage system to which the remainder of the system cannot later be joined with advantage.

Don't let the waste banks of ditches grow up to weeds. Get them sodded and make them both valuable and attractive.

Don't let outlet ditches remain idle when they should be working. Have surface ditches and tile to keep them busy.

Don't spent a dollar for small ditches or tile on a marsh until an outlet is assured.

Don't fail to give land drainage the attention and thought it deserves.

RATHER SLEEP.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "I think I must have made a bad break last Sunday," mused the fellow who seldom goes to church.

"You see, I got an alumni catalogue of my old school and in looking through it I found that one of my classmates was the pastor of a Cleveland church. So I called him up, and he said that he was still preaching, and that if I wanted to meet him I should come to church on the following Sunday morning. Which I did.

"He introduced me to his wife, and she took me into the pew with her. Well, during the sermon I got very drowsy. I was nodding in the middle of the sermon, and the parson's wife touched me on the elbow.

"'You seem sleepy,' she whispered. 'Try some of my smelling salts.'

"'No, thank you,' says I, 'I'd rather sleep.'"

SPEAKING OF RACES.

Florida Times-Union: "Saw an odd race yesterday."

"Indeed?"

"Yes, it was between two dogs—a fox terrier and a daschund."

"Well?"

"Two saucers of milk were placed in front of them and the object was to see which could lick up his first."

"Which won the race?"

"The daschund won in the last lap."

A sailing vessel built 103 years ago recently began another voyage from England to South Africa.

WHEAT EASY AT THE CLOSE

Market Off at Finish on Weakness in Coarse Grains.

Flaxseed Trading Is Featureless, With Final Prices About Unchanged.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 18.—The market turned easy at the close on the good weather news and easiness in coarse grains from over the Northwest. May wheat closed unchanged; July unchanged and September ¼c up. May durum closed unchanged and July ¼c up.

Oats closed ¼c off at 38⅜@38⅝c for on the track, and at 38⅜c for to arrive.

Rye closed unchanged at 58@60c, and barley unchanged at 55@59c.

Puts on Minneapolis July wheat closed at 91⅞c bid and calls at 92⅝c bid.

With the factors all on the bullish order, the wheat market displayed strength again today.

There were more authenticated reports of Hessian fly ravages through Missouri and Nebraska, with experts placing the losses in a few districts of the former state up to 50 per cent.

Cables were still higher despite the heavy world's shipments, attributable to firmness of American and Canadian offers, and less favorable crop advices from Russia.

Good export inquiry and the working of some business both here and at Winnipeg was reported by the Ames-Brooks company, and other Duluth operators commented upon an improved Eastern inquiry. It is said that American millers are now beginning to display some anxiety on the score of supplies in this country being sufficient to cover requirements between now and the harvesting of the new crop, and that they are starting in generally to cover their prospective requirements.

A sharp decrease of 5,013,000 bu. was shown in the American visible supply for the week, bringing current stocks down to around 32,000,000 bu. Stocks at Duluth are now down to 5,926,000 bu., as compared with 12,067,000 bu. a year ago. There was a decrease of 1,955,260 bu. reported in the week.

Under the impetus of the higher prices prevailing, receipts at Duluth are now in better volume, amounting today to 89 cars against 77 a year ago. There were 155 cars of all grains on the tracks for the day.

May wheat opened ½c up at 94⅞c and gained ⅛c more, up to the final hour; July opened ⅛c up at 95c and also gained ⅛c more. The September option opened unchanged at 89⅝c and advanced ⅜c.

Demand for durum showed considerable betterment, the market in it being relatively stronger than in wheat. May opened unchanged at 90c and gained ¼c, and the July option opened unchanged at 90c and advanced ½c.

Flaxseed Slightly Off.

Business in flaxseed was featureless, being confined to scattering sales in small lots. Prices did not move either way during the first three hours trading. The market was unchanged at the close except that the May option was off ⅜c and October ¼c off.

Foreign markets were inclined to be weak, Antwerp closing ⅝c off; Buenos Aires unchanged and London ⅜c off.

Opening prices were all unchanged with the exception of October, which was ¼c off. May flax opened at $1.57 and closed ⅜c off at $1.56⅛ bid; July opened at $1.57⅞ and closed unchanged at $1.57⅞ asked; September opened at $1.59⅝ and closed unchanged at $1.59⅝, and the October option opened at $1.57⅜ and closed ¼c off at $1.57½ asked.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed at $1.36⅜, and July at $1.39¼ bid.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat—Strength in American cables Saturday and firmness of Canadian and Australian offers caused shorts to cover, and the market opened ¼@⅜d higher. Following the opening, prices further advanced ½d on the scarcity of supplies in the interior markets, strength in spot, and less favorable crop advices from Russia. Just before midday there was some profit-taking, and prices declined ¼d on large world's shipments, particularly from Russia and the Danube, and a disappointing demand for parcels. At 1:30 p. m. prices were steady, ⅛@¼d higher.

Corn opened ¾ to ⅞d higher and July further advanced 1¼d with active covering by shorts on the strength in nearby corn in Buenos Aires, with scarcity of Plata offers and unsettled weather in the Argentine. Later the advance was lost with liquidation attributed to private reports of clearing weather and the fact of the demand being satisfied.

There are serious complaints from the Volga region in Russia of drought and hot weather.

World's shipments—Wheat: American 4,568,000 bu; Russian, 5,120,000 bu; Danubian, 1,824,000 bu; Indian, 216,000 bu; Argentina, 904,000 bu; Australian, 1,160,000 bu; Chili and North Africa. 80,000 bu; total, 13,328,000 bu, against 1,632,000 bu last week and 16,096,000 bu last year; corn shipments, 4,242,000 bu against 4,853,000 bu last year.

The Minneapolis cash market was steady, with the demand fair but not all keen. No. 1 northern blue stem sold at 2½@4c over July and velvet chaff at 2c over July. Flour sales were slow with some further curtailment in operating capacity reported. Cash No. 1 northern wheat sold there at from 94¾c to 96⅞c and No. 2 northern at from 92⅝c to 94¾c.

A Chicago crop expert wired Baker: "A crop scare in winter wheat, with stohies of extensive damage from Central Missouri, Southwestern Illinois and a few points in Kansas developed during the latter part of the last week. The presence of the Hessian fly has been known for months, but little attention has been paid to them, as these insects never do any damage until the plant is well along toward maturity. There is a good-sized holding of May corn that does not settle but it is intimated in certain quarters that it has been bought through one house and sold through another, and at the proper time it will adjust itself.

B. W. Snow wired from Marshall, Mo.: "The river bottoms in Carroll, May and Charlton counties are badly infected with fly. This involves possibly 75,000 acres and the loss runs 50 per cent to total. West of Charlton county as far as Mexico there is some fly but apparentiy it is not serious. South of the river in the big counties of Cooper, Saline and Lafayette with 200,000 acres, there is generally a trace of fly. It is reported serious in spots along the river in Saline county, but the crop is reported unusually vigorous and is heading, and while the yield may be somewhat discounted, serious loss seems improbable. The district of severe loss seems confined to the north side of the river, but there may be enough in all river counties to bring the yield down to normal figures."

Herman J. La Bree of the Beecher-La Bree company, grain dealers, returned today from an inspection trip over Western Minnesota and Eastern North Dakota. He averred that the early crop outlook in the West is most encouraging, the soil conditions being regarded as the best in several years. Taken all around predictions are that the acreage in wheat in Minnesota and North Dakota will show an increase over last season. He gathered that an increased area will be sown in oats and other coarse grains in the Red River valley where seeding has been held back.

President Marcy of the Armour Grain company denies talk that there is a deal on in May wheat, and explains why May wheat prices are so much higher than new crop futures. He says that sales of Chicago hard wheat have been made in the past ten days for export which have netted full May price in store at Chicago. Winter wheat is the cheapest and best quality wheat in the world at the present time, and consequently reports will continue.

* * *

Reports received by Duluth grain operators today are to the effect that the three fine days during last week enabled the completion of seeding in many sections of the Red River valley, where the season has been unusually backward. With higher temperatures during this week, as promised by the weather bureau, it is thought there will be no further room for complaint on the score of prospects throughout the Northwest. It is conceded that the cool weather conditions so far have promoted the stooling of the plant to such an extent that it will be able to withstand any dry period of average duration.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Hessian Fly Stories Put Strength Into Wheat.

Chicago, May 18.—Wheat today showed strength on account of continued spread of Hessian fly damage to crops. Nebraska and Iowa sent complaints as well as Kansas, Missouri and Illinois. Profit-taking on the part of the bulls, however, caused a reaction. The market opened a shade off to ½c up, and made a slight further gain, but then lost virtually all of the advance.

Renewed strength developed as a result of predictions that before the week was at an end, Hession fly damage would be noticeable in most of the territory from Ohio to Oklahoma.

The close was unsettled, ⅛@¼c lower to ½c higher compared with Saturday night.

Dry weather and firm cables gave a lift to corn. Buying power, though, was soon exhausted. Prices started a sixteenth down to ⅛@⅜c higher and after a little additional rise, fell back to about Saturday night's level.

The market later broke sharply on account of increased offerings here to arrive. The close was nervous, ⅝ to ⅞@1c net lower.

Oats were governed by the action of wheat and corn. Demand was only scattered, but offerings, too, were light.

Provisions responded to an upturn in the hog market. Selling which came chiefly from packers, did not assume a burdensome volume.

GOOD BUYING IN BUTTE & SUPERIOR

Stock Advances on Appearance of Favorable Report for Quarter.

Improvement in the Mexican situation led to a bullish market in mining stocks at Boston today. Good trading developed in the more active issues, and moderate advances were scored through the list.

Butte & Superior was the feature advancing 75 cents on good demand to a close of $40.75. Greene-Cananea closed 75 cents up at $34; Granby 75 cents up at $82.75; Alaska Gold 25 cents up at $28.75; North Butte a shade off at $27.25; Shattuck 50 cents off at $24; and Amalgamated Copper a fraction up at $72.87.

In the Duluth curb list Calumet & Corbin sold at 32 cents and Calumet & Sonora at 72 cents.

The visible copper supply in England, France and afloat thereto on May 15, was 21,824 tons, an increase of 1,461 tons in the past fortnight. Supplies at Rotterdam, Hamburg and Bremen on May 15 were 8,491 tons a decrease of 455 tons.

Supplies at Rotterdam decreased 200 tons; at Hamburg 264 tons and at Bremen there was an increase of 9 tons.

Butte & Superior has issued its first report for the quarter ending March 31. It shows net earnings of $337,241 which compares with $319,984 for the last quarter of 1913.

Quincy directors have taken no action on the dividend due at this time for payment in June, nor has any meeting been called for that purpose.

* * *

The Ohio Copper Mining company produced in April 629,400 pounds of copper compared with 616,000 pounds in March.

UNDERTONE IS STRONG

Despite Occasional Reactions, the Stock Market Has Strength.

Late Rise in Union Pacific and Steel to Their Highest.

New York, May 18.—The opening bulge today drove the shorts to cover, but after their immediate demands had been satisfied the stock market grew quiet. Prices were shaded slightly toward noon, but the greater part of the early advance was retained. Speculative sentiment was cheerful.

Bonds were irregular.

Stocks were in increased demand today, and the market responded in the early trading with a strong upward movement. Railroad shares in particular forged ahead rapidly, although the steel and copper issues also made a good showing. Business was on an increased scale, with a better inquiry from commission houses.

Reassuring advices from Washington regarding the chances for successful settlement of the Mexican difficulty and anticipation of a large foreign demand, now that the London settlement has been concluded satisfactorily, encouraged bullish traders to take up stocks. In the first half hour prices of the leaders were raised 1 to 2 points.

The market closed easy today. Underlying strength characterized stock operations, despite occasional reactions on realizing and short selling. Unloading of other shares proceeded under cover of the late rise in Steel and Union Pacific to their highest. In the final trading the whole list sagged again, Chesapeake & Ohio losing over a point.

INCORPORATE NEW ELECTRIC RAILWAY.

Williston, N. D., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The papers for the incorporation of the new electric railway from this point to the southwestern corner of Divide county have been forwarded to the secretary of state. On their return the survey of the road will be commenced. As soon as that is definitely determined the canvass for stock subscriptions among the farmers along the route will be begun.

Gets Railroad's Potatoes.

Bemidji, Minn., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. G. Schroeder of this city was the recipient of the bushel of potatoes being given in each city by the Great Northern. It is the state belief of railroad officials that soil in this vicinity will grow potatoes as wanted, made to order and that when the county is once established as a great potato country, that the railroad will in turn reap rewards in freight bills.

STRONGLY ORGANIZED

Labor Unions in Duluth Said to Be at Maximum Strength.

Carpenters' Strike Settled By Compromise—Contracts With Employes.

That labor in Duluth was never more effectively organized through its unions in all lines of activity than it is now by the fact that every union shop in the city now has either a written or verbal contract with its employers regulating wages, length of hours, and conditions covering the general welfare of the workmen.

The claim made by labor leaders is that this thorough organization is having a wholesome influence upon the labor situation in general and that strikes will be on the decrease in the future. Boycotts also will be practically eliminated.

The effectiveness of the thorough organization is shown by the recent compromise effected by the Carpenters' union here and their employers. Members of the union voted last month to demand a 50-cent an hour schedule, which would be a 5-cent raise. A committee was appointed by the union to negotiate with the contractors and master builders and a compromise was agreed upon whereby a 2½-cent raise was accepted.

Strike Averted.

By this compromise a serious strike, right in the midst of the busy season, was averted. The raise will affect 500 carpenters, and mean at least $25,000 yearly to the workmen. Good will is said to exist between the workmen and their employers.

In speaking of the general situation today, William E. McEwen, editor and publisher of the Labor World, said:

"The unions are not boasting of their organization in Duluth, and are content to pursue their way peacefully in bettering labor conditions. Unions, although they may be called by another name, exist among practically all classes of men. The doctors, lawyers, real estate men, and others are bound by agreement and rules that are more drastic than those of a labor union.

"A labor union does not mean a 'closed shop,' but works to the end that contracts may be secured from employers regulating wages, hours of work and general conditions. The contract is obtained by the workmen and the employers getting together and working out satisfactory conditions for both parties.

"The unions in Duluth are well organized, and contracts, either written or verbal, exist between all unions and their employers. Nearly all the unions in this city are now at their maximum strength, and in many cases the membership now exceeds that of any previous period."

GRASS AND BUSH FIRES IN THE WOODS.

Returning fishermen report grass and bush fires in the woods. That some of them are of considerable extent is evidenced by the heavy haze of smoke in the air along the north shore of the lake, but thus far no reports have been received that any settlements or towns are in danger.

They started from sparks from engines or from embers of camp fires left by careless outers. The woods are quite dry, due to the absence of rain and the warm weather of the last week.

MIRACULOUSLY ESCAPES DEATH

Ride Stealer Falls Under Locomotive and Is Only Slightly Hurt.

While trying to catch a ride on an Omaha switch engine in the yards at Second avenue west late Saturday afternoon, George Bishop, 35 years old, fell off and was thrown underneath the wheels, miraculously escaping instant death.

Bishop's life was saved by the quick action of the engineer and fireman of the engine, who brought it to an instant stop when Bishop was seen to fall. It was thought, by those who witnessed the accident, that the man would be ground to death. Bishop was found pinned underneath the engine in a peculiar position from which it took considerable work to get him out.

The police were immediately notified and Bishop was taken to St. Luke's hospital, where he was this morning in a very much improved condition. He sustained a severe scalp wound, a fractured arm and several injuries about his arms and body.

Bishop worked in a lumber camp during the past winter and had been rooming at the Saratoga hotel the last few weeks.

VERY OBLIGING; IN FOR FORGERY

Lunch Room Operator Helps Bicycle Thieves and Is Arrested.

Joseph Ternosky, 18 years old, who operates a lunch stand at the corner of First avenue east and First street, was arrested Saturday afternoon on a charge of forging two orders and two checks. He is being held at police headquarters and will be arraigned in police court this afternoon.

According to Detective Terry, who made the arrest, Ternosky met Edward Vincent and Alfred Carter, who were arrested for the Superior police Saturday on a charge of stealing bicycles there, and agreed to help them sell their two bicycles last week. He wrote out two orders, signing their parents' names, and when the boys sold the bicycles at 338 East Superior street Ternosky then countersigned the checks the boys received.

It was learned yesterday that young Vincent was recently placed on parole from the Red Wing reform school and he was this morning brought back to Duluth from Superior and he will be taken to Red Wing this evening.

ON TRIAL FOR THEFT OF MONEY AND WATCH.

James Morley Gullett, indicted under the name of John Morley on a charge of grand larceny in the second degree, was brought to trial before Judge Bert Fesler and a district court jury this morning.

Gullett is accused of having stolen $60 in cash and a $5.50 watch from one Thomas Golis in a rooming house at 707 West Superior street on the evening of March 15. Golis went to bed without locking his door and when he awoke early in the morning his money and watch were gone.

The clerk at the hotel was notified and an officer was summoned. The clerk had seen a suspicious character around the place earlier in the evening and upon the description furnished the officer, Gullett was arrested while eating in a booth at the St. Paul restaurant.

A watch was found on Gullett which corresponded in number to the figure on a jeweler's guarantee which Golis had in his possession. The watch was identified by Golis later as being his property. Patrolman Callahan, who arrested Golis was called as a witness for the state at the morning session of court today.

PAPER DEFENDS THE UNMARRIED MOTHER

MRS. MARGARET H. SANGER.

Mrs. Margaret H. Sanger is the editor of a periodical called "The Woman Rebel," which has just been barred from the mails on the ground that some of its contents violated the criminal code. Mrs. Sanger says she proposes to send out the paper by express and from hand to hand. Here are the principles of the "women rebels" as set forth in Mrs. Sanger's periodical: "The right to be lazy. The right to be an unmarried mother. The right to destroy. The right to create. The right to live. The right to love."

P. O. SITE UNPOPLAR.

Fargoans Claim It Is Too Far From Business Center.

Fargo, N. D., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—A protest may be made against the site selected by the government for the postoffice. It is two blocks farther from the business center than the present office and will be that much additional distance for the residents of the southside. There were several sites submitted, but some lacked the necessary amount of space and others were too high in price. It will probably be five years before a new building is completed and ready for occupancy. The location selected is on the northeast corner of Second avenue and Eighth street north.

BOYS MUST PAY FOR STOLEN GUM MACHINE.

Three West Duluth boys, ranging in age from 12 to 15 years, who were arrested last week for stealing a gum machine from a West Duluth grocer were given one week in which to pay the owner of the stolen property, $8.50, when arraigned before Judge Ensign in juvenile court Saturday. Their cases were continued until next Saturday.

One boy, aged 13, was committed to the Red Wing reformatory for incorrigibility, and a 10-year-old girl was committed to the state public school at Owatonna.

FOOLING THE FOOD BUYER.

Packages Are Made to Look Larger Than They Really Are.

Harvey W. Wiley in Good Housekeeping Magazine: The gentle art of cheating the housekeeper is plausible and insinuating. The defrauder does not come with drums and cymbals. He glides like a serpent. His trail is marked only in the dust of the open road. He slips through the fields and forests unseen. His trail is lost, but his fangs and poison glands remain. There are many mean ways of cheating and defrauding in foods. The meanest and most threatening is by short weight and volume. The variation may be little, or it may be a lot—but it is effective every time. Our unscientific and immoral system of weights and measures lends itself readily to deception. No one knows how big the deficit bill is from that cause.

More gross and more frequent, perhaps, are the false balance and the shy measure. But this fraud is readily detected. When the official sealer of weights and measures is on his job, fines and jails wait on the owners and users of these devices. Again, the "package system" now so much in vogue, and which has so many distinct advantages, is a common vehicle of fraud. The buyer not only pays for the weight of the package, but also is ignorant of how much he is getting. Go to the man who puts up package foods and offer to sell him at wholesale a "package" of sugar or a "carload" of flour and see him raise his eyebrows in astonishment. "My friend," he would say to the seller, "do I look as if you could sell me a gold brick? No, sirree! I buy my sugar by the pound and my flour by the ton."

But it's different when he sells it to you. He offers you a huge package of corn flakes, so tortured in shape that it makes an equal volume of feathers feel like lead. The bottle of olive oil looks as big as a quart—and holds less than a pint. Your 10-cent package of codfish is never within hailing distance of a pound, and every year it shrinks. The hens are bred to lay little eggs because eggs are sold by the dozen. When they are sold by weight, as in France, they will grow larger. A dozen eggs there will weigh one and three-quarter pounds and over here a half pound less. You haven't the remotest idea of how much thread there is on a spool, nor how much pepper in a pod. Cantaloupes are growing smaller, with no increase in salaries. Advantage is taken of the craze for packages to sell short. The convenience of the consumer salves the conscience of the purveyor.

FISHERMEN AND OTHERS.

Forest and Stream: There are in this world two sorts of men, those who fish and those who don't.

The don'ts are divided into those who would if they could, but can't, and those who could if they would, but won't.

The won'ts are still further divided into those who are quite contented that they don't want to, and those who are dissatisfied with themselves because they lack the taste.

When we get as far as this we reach the man who could if he would, but won't, and would if he could, but can't.

OWN MUCH DOCKAGE.

Railroads Control 28 Per Cent of the Milwaukee Docks.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 18.—Twenty-eight per cent of all of Milwaukee's available dock property is owned by railroad companies, according to figures gathered by Secretary Herman Bleyer of the harbor commission.

The total amount of railway owned dockage in the harbor amounts to 17,535 feet, of which the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road owns 13,405 feet; the Chicago & North-Western road, 3,525 feet and the Flint & Pere Marquette, 605 feet. This does not include 1,100 feet, partly on the upper Milwaukee river and part on the Kinnickinnic river, which is owned by the Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light company.

"Practically all of the wharfage in the Milwaukee harbor suitable for warehouse and transshipping purposes is owned by the railway companies," said Mr. Bleyer.

THREE TOMLINSON BOATS LAID UP.

Three of the Tomlinson boats, the Frank Peavey, George H. Peavey and Frank W. Hart of the fleet which recently arrived here with coal cargoes, will be laid up here indefinitely, according to local officials. The crews and officers have been laid off. The Frank Peavey, the last to arrive, unloaded coal at the Island Creek dock, and will go to the shipyards.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of seven hundred seventy-two and 74-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice upon a certain Mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Prandia C. Galloway and Elsa Galloway, his wife, Mortgagors, to L. D. Goldberg, Mortgagee, bearing date the 21st day of February, 1912, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of St. Louis, and State of Minnesota, on the 21st day of February, 1912, at 2:15 o'clock P. M., in Book 285 of Mortgages, on page 467, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said Mortgage or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said Mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said Mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said Mortgage, viz:

Lots number nine and ten of block four, Endion Division of City of Duluth, in St. Louis County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said St. Louis County at the front door of the courthouse in the city of Duluth in said County and state, on the 15th day of July, 1914, at ten o'clock A. M., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash to pay said debt of seven hundred seventy-two and 74-100 dollars, and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, of said sum thirty-nine and 21-100 dollars being faxes paid on the northerly 100 feet of said lots and fifty dollars, attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said Mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated May 15, A. D. 1914.

L. D. GOLDBERG,
Mortgagee.

BENJ. M. GOLDBERG,
Attorney.

ORDER LIMITING TIME TO FILE CLAIMS AND FOR HEARING THEREON.—

State of Minnesota,
County of St. Louis.—ss.

In Probate Court. In the Matter of the Estate of Frank C. Berry, Decedent.

Letters testamentary this day having been granted to Harriett M. Berry.

It is ordered, That the time within which all creditors of the above named decedent may present claims against his estate in this court be, and the same hereby is, limited to six months from and after the date hereof; and that the 17th day of November, 1914, at ten o'clock A. M., in the Probate Court Rooms at the Court House at Duluth in said County, be, and the same hereby is, fixed and appointed as the time and place for hearing upon the examination, adjustment and allowance of such claims as shall be presented within the time aforesaid.

Let notice hereof be given by the publication of this order in The Duluth Herald, as provided by law.

Dated Duluth, Minn., May 15th, 1914.

Sale of School and Other State Lands

State of Minnesota, State Auditor's Office.

St. Paul, April 13, 1914.

Notice is hereby given that on June 17, 1914, at 10 o'clock a. m., in the office of the County Auditor at Duluth, St. Louis county, in the state of Minnesota, I will offer for sale certain unsold state lands and also those state lands which have reverted to the state by reason of the non-payment of interest.

Terms: Fifteen per cent of the purchase price and interest on the unpaid balance from date of sale to June 1, 1915, must be paid at the time of sale. The balance of purchase money is payable in whole or in part on or before forty years from date of sale; the rate of interest on the unpaid balance is 4 per cent per annum, payable in advance on June 1 of each year; provided the principal remains unpaid for ten years; but if the principal is paid within ten years from date of sale, the rate of interest will be computed at 5 per cent per annum.

Appraised value of timber, if any, must also be paid at the time of sale. Lands on which the interest is delinquent may be redeemed at any time up to the hour of sale, or before resale to an actual purchaser.

All mineral rights are reserved by the laws of the state.

Not more than 320 acres can be sold or contracted to be sold to any one purchaser.

Agents acting for purchasers must furnish affidavit of authority. Appraisers' reports, showing quality and kind of soil, are on file in this office.

Lists of lands to be offered may be obtained of the State Auditor or the State Commissioner of Immigration at St. Paul, and of the County Auditor at above address.

SAMUEL G. IVERSON,
State Auditor.
D. H., May 11, 18, 25; June 1, 1914.

FARM AND FRUIT LANDS

SUMMER RESORT PROPERTY.

We have one of the finest and prettiest natural summer resort properties to be had in this Northern country. Four men engaged for the summer beautifying it by cutting roads and graveling them; it will have roads just like your city parks. A caretaker engaged for the year taking care of boats and buildings for the property owners. We will build you your cabin at a nominal fee, pay for the whole on the monthly plan. Lots cost from $75 to $195 each. The North Star Gun club has its clubhouse across the lake from us, and several cottages belonging to Eastern people in the neighborhood. We can arrange to take buyers up any day, 51 miles from Duluth, 7 miles from Tamarack, Minn. Located on the shore of Lake Minnewawa, Sheshebe Point. Sundays, the 17th, 24th and 31st, we leave on the N. P. at 7:50 a. m. Make the trip if interested; you will never regret the expenditure. It will be a pleasant trip, anyway. Bring along your fishing tackle.

TROUT STREAM PROPERTY.

MELLEN SHOWS HOW MORGAN DOMINATED RAILROAD AFFAIRS

Resumes Recital of Financial Dealings of the New Haven.

Admits Attitude Toward Financier Might Be Called Cowardice.

Crowd Presses Into Interstate Commerce Commission's Quarters.

Washington, May 19.—Charles S. Mellen today resumed the remarkable story he is unfolding before the interstate commerce commission concerning the vast and complicated financial operations of the New Haven railroad and its various subsidiaries.

Chief Counsel Folk, for the commission, developed that the dominant part was taken in the transaction by prominent figures on the board of directors of the New Haven road and more particularly the late J. Pierpont Morgan and William Rockefeller.

Mr. Mellen told in detail of his relations and his differences with Mr. Morgan. He also went fully into the acquisition of the New York, Westchester & Boston road by the New Haven. This brought out further references to the part taken by the late police inspector, Thomas F. Byrnes of New York, who, Mellen testified, operated "through the people on Fourteenth street, where you know Tammany Hall is located."

Humiliated by Morgan.

Mr. Mellen, when questioned about differences with Mr. Morgan regarding the Westchester deal, detailed a conversation with the late financier which he said had greatly "humiliated" him. At first he hesitated to relate the conversation because Morgan was dead, but when pressed for an answer he said that Morgan had asked him if he thought he knew more about how a report on the Westchester deal ought to have been drawn than he, Mr. Morgan, did.

"Were you afraid of Mr. Morgan?" Mr. Folk asked.

"You might call it cowardice," Mr. Mellen answered. "I held Mr. Morgan in more awe than any other man I ever knew."

Mr. Mellen answered the rapid fire of questions with a readiness and seeming composure, and frequently evoked laughter by some sally. He still was under examination when the noon recess was taken.

McReynolds Before Cabinet.

While the hearing was in progress President Wilson and the cabinet were in conference in the regular semi-weekly session. It was reported from several sources that Attorney General McReynolds had brought up before the

ROOSEVELT NEAR HOME ONCE MORE

Oyster Bay People Are Persuaded to Postpone Celebration.

New York, May 19.—From the steamship Aidan, nearing this port with Theodore Roosevelt aboard, came a wireless message during the forenoon saying that Col. Roosevelt's health was greatly improved and that within a short time he would deliver a lecture on his explorations in Brazil before the American Geographic society, at Washington.

The Aidan, it was reckoned, would reach quarantine about 4 p. m. There a tug was waiting to take the colonel directly to Oyster Bay.

Celebration Is Postponed.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., May 19.—At the request of Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, the plans of the villagers of Oyster Bay to welcome their townsman, Theodore Roosevelt, have been postponed for at least twenty-four hours. There was to have been a parade tonight, but the decision to bring the colonel by yacht put these plans awry. Now it is planned to have Mr. Roosevelt dine quietly with his family at Sagamore Hill tonight, and if he feels well enough tomorrow evening, go down to the village.

WANTS STATE TRADE COMMISSION, TOO

Van Hise Criticizes the Bill Now Pending in Congress.

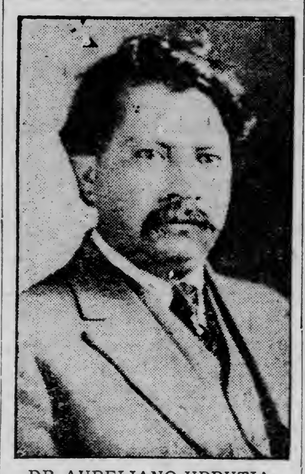
St. Louis, Mo., May 19.—"An interstate trade commission should be created for interstate commerce, and state trade commissions for state commerce, each to have control over business that is vested with a public interest or in which the market is controlled, precisely as public utilities commissions have control of public utilities," said President Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin in an address here today before the Missouri Bankers' association.

"This does not imply," he continued, "that the commissions shall have control of all business, but only that which, because of magnitude or because of co-operation, becomes vested with public interest."

President Van Hise criticised the trade commission bill now pending before congress, because "it does nothing of advantage to the business man in dissipating the uncertainty in regard to the application of the Sherman anti-trust law.

"If business men are to obtain any advantage from the trade commission bill," he said, "the commission should have power to pass on the legality of existing co-operation and to give orders in accordance with its finding of facts. When any act of co-operation has been approved by the appropriate commission, it should be free from attack."

ANTI-AMERICAN IS PROTECTED BY MARINES



DR. AURELIANO URRUTIA.

Vera Cruz, May 19.—One of the oddest situations that has grown up here during the American occupation is the guarding by American marines, in his hotel here, of Dr. Aureliano Urrutia, former minister of the interior under Huerta and a radical anti-American. Urrutia fled from Mexico City in disguise to escape the wrath of Huerta, and on arrival here was threatened by Mexicans. He was twice saved by Americans, and finally asked for an American guard, which was granted.

Urrutia was perhaps the most radical anti-American among the advisers of Huerta. When Envoy Lind was on his way to Mexico, Urrutia gave out a statement saying he would not be permitted to enter the country. Later the minister gave out another radical anti-American statement which might have resulted in widening the breach between the countries.

2-CENT FARE RULING MADE

Hans Trier Wins Point Before Commerce Commission.

Court Decision Is No Per Se Declaration of Reasonableness.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, May 19.—In the case of Hans Trier against the Omaha and other railroads, the interstate commerce commission today decided that the decision of the supreme court that the 2-cent passenger fares fixed by Minnesota legislature for travel within state were not confiscatory did not per se constitute a declaration that the 2-cent rate was reasonable within the meaning of the interstate commerce act.

Trier made trips from Clinton, Iowa, to Henning, Minn., and from Wadena, Minn. to Hudson, Wis., and filed a claim for reparation based on the application of the 2-cent rate for that portion of the two journeys wholly within the state of Minnesota. In rejecting this claim, the commission said: "The fares established by the law of a state do not become subject to the provision of the interstate commerce act until they have been adopted as their own and as applicable to interstate transportation by carriers, and until said fares have been filed with this commission, in accordance with the terms of section 6 of the act."

The commission also said that "while it should give due and proper weight to the determination of state legislature and commission, it cannot be controlled in its judgment upon the reasonableness of interstate fares by the independent action of a state legislature or a tribunal not Federal."

The commission found that on both journeys Trier had been over-charged to the extent to which the fares he paid exceeded the sum of local charges, and awarded him reparation in the sum of 33 cents.

DECREASE SHOWN IN GOTHAM DEATH RATE

Census Bureau Gives Out Figures Per Thousand Population.

Washington, May 19.—The census bureau today made public statistics on the death rate for 1913 in New York City on the basis of population per 1,000 estimated as of July 1, 1913.

Bronx borough, population 505,859, deaths 7,020, 13.9 per cent.

Brooklyn, 1,786,327; deaths, 24,830; 13.9 per cent.

Manhattan, 2,487,962; deaths, 36,375, 14.6 per cent.

Queens, 326,616; deaths, 4,506, 13.8 per cent.

Richmond, 92,124; deaths 1,555, 16.9 per cent.

Decreases for five-year period, 1906-1910, as compared with the period from 1901 to 1905, in each of the boroughs, were as follows: Bronx, 33.5 per cent; Brooklyn, 23.6 per cent; Manhattan, 25.1; Queens, 14.3; Richmond, 11.1 per cent.

SURPRISE DUE FROM BECKER

Defense Begins Its Story in Trial in New York.

Will Try to Prove Defendant Is Victim of Conspiracy.

New York, May 19.—The opening of the defense today at the trial of Charles E. Becker, charged with the murder of Herman Rosenthal, promised to furnish almost as many surprises as were sprung by District Attorney Charles S. Whitman, who completed his case against the former police lieutenant yesterday.

Martin T. Manton, chief counsel for Becker, announced that thirty witnesses would be called by the defense, and that four of these would be entirely new to the case. Whether Becker would take the stand, Mr. Manton said, had not been definitely decided. The defense, he added, would not take more than three days to present its evidence, and figuring from this statement a verdict in the case should be expected on Monday.

State's Last Witnesses.

In concluding his case, the district attorney brought forward Charles B. Plitt, former press agent and personal friend of Becker, and James Marshall, a negro who formerly obtained evidence against gamblers for Becker, to furnish links in his chain of evidence of the alleged murder conspiracy. Plitt testified that Becker had advance knowledge of the murder plot, and even knew the exact time that it was to be committed.

Marshall swore that Becker met and talked with Jack Rose at the alleged murder conference nearly three weeks before the murder, and by means of an affidavit sworn to at the time, fixed the exact date of this meeting.

Will Claim Conspiracy.

The defense will attempt to show that Becker is the victim of a conspiracy planned by the real murderers and that he was elsewhere than at the conference mentioned by Marshall and Rose.

Upon the opening of court the de-

TELL OF HORRORS OF COLORADO WARFARE

Judge Lindsey and Others Will Ask That U. S. Troops Stay.

Chicago, May 19.—Judge Ben B. Lindsey of Denver and five women from Colorado passed through Chicago today on their way to Washington to beg President Wilson not to withdraw the Federal troops from the Colorado strike zone. Judge Lindsey asserted that civil war would result if the regulars were replaced by militiamen.

"The true story of what occurred at Ludlow is too horrible to print," said Judge Lindsey. "We can only suggest the outlines by the direct testimony of the women who suffered.

"A father who went to the militia camp for his little boy was saluted with the headless corpse of the youngster. A soldier threw it at him, saying: 'Here, take the——thing.' Mothers who went to recue their babes were shot down and mutilated. Children, only a few years old, were killed; their heads were blown off. There are other crimes too horrible to mention, but we have affidavits with us to back up all statements."

In the Lindsey party are Mrs. Lee Champion of the Colorado women's relief committee, and several women who passed through the battle at Ludlow.

HUERTA'S ENVOYS ARE HOPEFUL OF SUCCESS OF PEACE MEETING

Washington Will Insist on Settlement of Mexican Affairs.

Troops Will Stay at Vera Cruz Until That Is Accomplished.

Mediators Expect Quick and Satisfactory End to Conference.

New York, May 19.—The three Mexican peace delegates, who will leave New York for Niagara Falls this evening, abandoned their policy of strict silence long enough today to express optimism as to the result of the mediation.

"We have no idea how long the conference will last," said Emilio Rabasa, the leader and spokesman of the Mexican delegates. "It may take three days or three months. We shall be governed entirely by our instructions. We are, however, very hopeful—very confident of a successful adjustment."

After the conference is over, they will return to Mexico City, said Mr. Robasa. It had been reported that they would visit Europe.

Washington Is Firm.

Washington, May 19.—As members of the American mission to the Niagara conference sped northward today, officials in administration circles confidently awaited the opening tomorrow of the next big scene in the Mexican crisis. President Wilson, it was known, was determinedly hopeful that mediation might be developed to a successful conclusion. He had outlined to members of the mission the Mexican equation as he viewed it, with the emphasis that it was the task of the United States unselfishly to attempt to help Mexico set up a government that would attract world recognition.

DOUBLE GUARDS AT ROCKEFELLER HOME

System of Electric Signals Also Has Been Installed.

New York, May 19.—In addition to doubling his guards from four to eight, John D. Rockefeller has had installed about the grounds of his Pocantico Hills estate a system of electric lights which he can flash by pressing a button at the head of his bed.

Before the demonstrations by the Industrial Workers of the World at the downtown offices of the Standard Oil company and the threats that they would visit his estate, Mr. Rockefeller was content with four guards. To these he called from an open window when he wanted to feel assured that they were on duty. With the new system in operation, the flashing of the lights is answered by the guards, who press buttons sounding buzzers above their employer's bed.

SCORNS INSURANCE; HAS $300,000 FIRE

Jacob Haisch's Manure Spreader Works at De Kalb Burn.

De Kalb, Ill., May 19.—Fire in the manure spreader works of the great Jacob Haisch agricultural plant here early this morning burned the building and contents to the ground with a loss of about $300,000. There was no insurance on the buildings or the contents.

Mr. Haisch is one of the best known manufacturers in the West and his business runs into the millions yearly, but he has never carried a cent of insurance on anything. He does not believe in it.

FEDERAL TROOPS HOLD OIL PROPERTY

Report That Reached Mayo About Panuco Is Confirmed.

Washington, May 19.—That Federal soldiers still control Panuco, thirty miles inland from Tampico, as rumored late yesterday to Admiral Mayo, was confirmed today in a report from American Consul Miller to the navy department. An entire garrison which evacuated Tampico when the Constitutionalists took the city, is said to have ceased flight at Panuco, where extensive oil wells are located. Concern is aroused over the fate of this property.

TITANIC'S SINKING RECALLED BY SUIT

Lucian Smith's Estate Sought for Son Born After Wreck.

Uniontown, Pa., May 19.—Court officers stated today that proceedings had been commenced here to recover for the son of Lucien P. Smith, who went down with the Titanic, a part of his father's estate. Mrs. Smith, who was the daughter of Representative James A. Hughes of Huntington, W. Va., gave birth to a son a few weeks after the sinking of the vessel. Representative Hughes took out letters of administration yesterday, filing a bond of $20,000.

It is said that Smith's relatives assert he left no estate, having had an allowance of $500 while he lived.

WAKE UP TEAMSTERS AND VACCINATE THEM

Minneapolis Doctors Find Case of Smallpox Among Men in Barn.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 19.—(Special to the Herald.)—City hospital physicians invaded a barn early today, routed sixteen teamsters out of their beds in the second story loft and vaccinated them.

This invasion followed a call at the City hospital by Benjamin Lewis, employed by the Bennett Lumber company. Lewis, feeling sick and his face of a roseate hue, was stopped at the front porch of the hospital till one of the internes diagnosed his case as smallpox, and notified Dr. C. E. Dutton, health commissioner.

Health department men were sent out to retrace Lewis' steps, which led them to the barn.

FIRE SITUATION IS MENACING IN NORTH PARTS OF MICHIGAN

Some Northern Wisconsin Bridges and Timber Are Destroyed.

Rain Is the Only Thing That Can Stop the Burning.

Heavy Blanket of Smoke Clings Close to the Ground.

Calumet, Mich., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The forest fire situation along the southern shore of Lake Superior is this morning much more menacing even than last night. During the night several farms south of Houghton were swept and farm buildings destroyed. Trains from St. Ignace and the southern peninsula are reported delayed on account of fires. The northwesterly wind has cleared the smoke from Lake Superior, making navigation safe, although there still is much smoke over the lake from fires on the north shore.

Much valuable timber is being destroyed and several small villages are reported menaced in various parts of the peninsula.

Bridges on the South Shore railroad west of Seney, Wis., were destroyed last night by bush fires, and trains east and west across the Upper Peninsula are delayed in consequence. Only a change in the wind or a heavy rain can prevent damage amounting to millions to timber, railroad and farm lands in Northern Michigan and Wisconsin. Today rains seems imminent.

SILVER AND BONES IN HOUSE AT BELOIT

Police Believe It Was Headquarters of Famous Outlaw Gang.

Beloit, Wis., May 19.—That the stamping ground of "Mysterious Jim" Martin's notorious gang of outlaws of thirty and forty years ago has been unearthed here in the destruction of the "house of mystery" at 835 Fifth street, is the belief expressed by former police officers of Beloit.

Since the discovery last week of a sum of silver in an old canvas bag in the walls of the old house, residents of the neighborhod have been treasure-hunting, and their efforts have led to the discovery of at least one human body and possibly more.

Mrs. Frank Cappen, who lives next door, dug out of the basement of her own home a piece of lavender dress, two woman's slippers and several human bones. Keen on discovery of anything that looked like more "treasure," Mrs. Cappen's curiosity was aroused by a wooden block mortised into the stones near the bottom of the basement wall.

Found Secret Grave.

On removing the block a large cavity was found, and further exploration revealed the fact that the hole had been used years ago as a grave. The piece of dress and the slippers were badly rotted, and the bones fell apart as soon as they were handled.

Discovery of this evidence leads the searchers to believe that other bones found in the "house of mystery" were human bones, and that "Mysterious Jim" and his band committed more than burglary in and around Beloit.

"Mysterious Jim" Martin, "Fairmont Frank," the doctor, "Big Slim" and "Big Jim" were members of a gang that made Beloit its headquarters years ago, and was only broken up when detectives were called to ferret it out.

PENNSYLVANIA PRIMARY ON

First Such Election Held in the Keystone State.

Penrose Is Opposed for Nomination to U. S. Senate.

Philadelphia, May 19.—Fine weather greeted the voters today in the state-wide primarily election in Pennsylvania. The several parties are selecting candidates who will come up for election in November for United States senator, governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of internal affairs, associate justice of the supreme court, judge of the superior court and four congressmen at large. Candidates for congress in all of the thirty-two districts in the state, half the membership of the state senate, and a full membership of the lower house of the legislature also will be nominated.

It is the first opportunity Pennsylvania electors have had to vote directly for candidates for the United States senate under the new Federal constitutional amendment providing for the popular election of senators. It is also the first state-wide primary for state officers outside of the judiciary. The

MAY DECIDE ON CONCRETE

Property Owners Would Save Half By Substituting for Asphalt.

City Officials Believe 16-Foot Roadway Sufficient for Victoria Street.

Property owners on Victoria street between Woodland avenue and the Hartley road will not have to pay for an asphalt pavement if they sign a petition for a 16-foot concrete roadway.

By so doing they will cut their assessments approximately one-half. The contract price for the ashpalt paving on a concrete base is about $15,000, and the city engineer estimates that the cost of a concrete pavement would be about $7,500.

Victoria street is not at present a heavily traveled highway, and the city officials feel that a 16-foot roadway would meet their needs. This could be laid to the sub-grade and widened later if conditions warranted. The concrete could then be used as a base for a better pavement.

Commissioner Murchison said this morning that notices to this effect will be sent out immediately to those interested. If the proposition is not accepted within a reasonable time, it is probable that the council will direct that the asphalt pavement be laid.

HOTTEST DAY OF THE YEAR

Mercury Touches 84 Deg. at 2 P. M.---Record for May.

Up to date, this is the hottest day of the year. Furthermore it is probably the hottest day Duluth has ever experienced in May, and is far ahead of the corresponding time last year.

At 11:30 this morning Weather Forecaster Richardson announced that the thermometer registered 78 degs. on the hill. He said that on the lower levels of the city it would be 3 to 5 degs. higher, paradoxical as it may sound. At 1:30 o'clock this afternoon the thermometer registered 84 degs., and was still going up, at 2 o'clock. The turning point of the day, says Mr. Richardson, is just about 3 o'clock, so up to that time the mercury will rise.

The highest point reached by the mercury yesterday was 76 degs., which was "some level" for this time of year.

The highest temperature on May 19, 1913, was 48 degs.

Without looking at the records closely, Mr. Richardson estimated that this is one of the hottest May days that the records will show since the weather bureau was established here. The hottest previous day in May that a hasty scanning of the records showed, was May 31, 1890, when the mercury reached 81.

ATTACKED BY HIGHWAYMAN

Duluth Woman Held Up and Robbed Near Her Home.

Thief Cut Her Stocking With Knife and Took $10.

Held up, attacked, slashed with a knife and robbed of about $10, which she had in her stocking, was the experience of Mrs. Henry D. Cross, 411 West Fifth street, at 2:30 o'clock this morning, while she was on her way home from a social gathering at Sixth avenue west.

The hold-up, according to Mrs. Cross, occurred about a block from her home. She had been at the home of Mrs. John Maki, 603 West First street, during the evening and was on her way home when a strange man rushed up to her, covered her eyes with one hand and then threw her down alongside the sidewalk in front of 419 Fifth avenue west.

According to her story to The Herald this morning, the man looked in her pocketbook and finding no money there, pulled out a knife, cutting her hand as he did so. She then became faint, she said, but remembers that he cut her stocking, where she had placed her money earlier in the day. There was a $5 bill, two one dollar bills and some silver, all wrapped up in the $5 bill, she said. After taking the money the man ran down Fourth avenue, toward Superior street.

Mrs. Cross then began to call for help and Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McLean, in front of whose home she was held up, were awakened and they went out to her assistance. They carried the women in the house and then telephoned her husband and also the police. In a minute Patrolman Thompson, who walks the beat in the vicinity of the hold-up and who heard the woman's yells, arrived on the scene and with her husband, took her home, about a block away.

Shortly after the police ambulance arrived at the scene of the hold-up and finding Mrs. Cross gone, Lieut. Barber, Sergeant Youngberg and Police Surgeon Murphy, drove to the woman's home, where Dr. Murphy dressed her wound. Her assailant had made a long cut on her right wrist and it was necessary to take two stitches to stop the flow of blood.

Mrs. Cross is today in a very nervous state, although not seriously injured. She came to Duluth eight years ago from Finland and was married to Mr. Cross two years ago. The latter is a lineman for the Northern Pacific railroad.

THREE ENLIST IN MARINE CORPS

More Liberal Ruling for Applicants Helps Recruiting Officer.

Three young men yesterday enlisted in the United States marine corps and they will be sent today to Mare Island, Cal., for a short training prior to being placed in active service in Mexico.

Anton Bernhardt, 513 East Seventh street, brother of Leo Bernhardt, meat inspector, is the only Duluth young man of the trio to enlist for a period of four years. He is very well known in the city, having previously been employed with the Republic Iron & Steel company. Fred Konell of Walsh, Wis., and Engner C. Anderson of Canada are the other two young men to enlist.

Since the new orders were received permitting the local marine office more leeway in choosing men, a number of inquiries have been made and applications entered, according to Sergeant Buck, who is in charge of the recruiting station. Previous to last week only former members of the corps were accepted for immediate active service, but this ruling was changed with a counter order received here last Friday.

AVOIDS UNCLE SAM'S WRATH

Vessel Master Has Alien Crew Arrested for Deportation.

Unwittingly Violated Contract Labor Law at Port Arthur.

In order that he might not be held by the immigration authorities for violation of the United States contract labor law; Capt. Brown of the steamer James H. Reed last evening placed under arrest six of his sailors, whom he hired a short time ago at Port Arthur. They will be placed on the steamer Easton of the Booth line tomorrow morning and taken back to Port Arthur.

Capt. Brown hired nine men at Port Arthur several days ago, when he started out with the steamer Reed for Buffalo. While at Buffalo Capt. Brown learned that he was unknowingly violating the contract labor laws of this country and to avoid any trouble decided to take the men to Duluth and place them in the hands of the immigration officials here. Two of the men disappeared while at Buffalo and another somewhere along the lakes, so that but six of the Canadians remained when the Reed arrived here yesterday.

As soon as the vessel docked late last evening, Capt. Brown notified police headquarters and asked that the authorities place the men in jail, so that none of them would escape until he could take the matter up with the immigration officials. The men taken from the steamer and placed in jail are: Samuel Champion, 37; Antti Tuomi, 20; Eli Makinen, 22; Nikolai Makinen, 28; Martin Surrock, 24, and James Wytis, 29. The three men who have escaped are: William Williamson, 19; Ernest Harmal, 26, and Ernest Field, 29.

By placing these men under arrest Capt. Brown escapes a probable violation of the contract labor law, which specifies that a foreigner should not be hired outside of this country and brought here to work. A violation of this law places the defendant under a penalty of a $1,000 fine for every foreigner brought into the United States.

Brown McDonald, local immigration inspector, said this morning that the six men will be placed on board the Easton tomorrow morning and sent back to Canada.

FORMER DULUTHIAN KILLED IN MEXICO

Arthur F. Flynt Victim of Mexican Captors on West Coast.

Arthur F. Flynt, who formerly resided at 315 West Fourth street in this city, is reported to have been one of the Americans killed by Mexican captors on the west coast of that republic.

Mr. Flynt was in the mining business while residing in Duluth, and was owner of a mine at El Zopilote, Tepic, Mex., and had just returned to that country on business when he was reported to have been taken by the Mexicans.

He is a cousin of Dr. Forrest H. Orton of St. Paul, and visited in the capitol city within the last year. He was urged by friends not to return to Mexico until conditions were more settled.

His daughter, Mrs. J. B. Sexton (Anita Flynt), formerly lived at Stillwater, Minn. She and her husband and their child were with Mr. Flynt at El Zopilote, and it was reported that she left last winter with her child for California.

INDUSTRIES AT HIGH TIDE

Manufacturers Report That Conditions Were Never Better Here.

Diamond Calk Horseshoe Company Shows Remarkable Growth.

From the manufacturer's standpoint conditions in Duluth are regarded as having never been better than at the present, despite dullness in shipping circles. Expansion in operations has been the rule with the majority of the enterprises located here during the last year, and in other cases arrangements are being made for extensions in the near future.

An industry that has shown remarkable growth during its career is the Diamond Calk Horseshoe company. Starting in small quarters on Lake avenue six years ago, that company now affords employment to sixty hands, entailing an annual payroll of approximately $45,000, and its new premises at Grand avenue and Forty-seventh avenue west are 125 by 125 feet in size on the ground floor and two stories in height. The company recently purchased additional property upon which it has just completed the erection of a large warehouse.

A gas fuel plant of the latest type that has been known to the trade has been installed, taking the place of the former gas plant for heating purposes. It is promoting greater efficiency and is expected to practically cut the cost of the heating operation in two.

"We have doubled our capacity for the manufacture of horseshoes and have also increased our calk output materially during the past year," said Otto Swanstrom, manager of the company, to The Herald today.

The factory output has been sold up till next October, and the company's four salesmen still have portions of their territories left to cover, he averred.

The concern has established distributing warehouses at Rochester, N. Y., and Spokane, Wash., enabling it to handle its Eastern and Western business to the best advantage.

Orders are coming in so rapidly from all sections of the ground being covered that the management is contemplating putting on a night shift shortly that will increase the number of hands on its payroll up to the 100 mark.

Wide Market for Matches.

Satisfaction is expressed by the Union Match company over the scope of its operations during the present year. The factory is finding a market for its products mainly in the Central and Eastern states and is besides shipping both to the South and West. With the white pine raw material close at hand and the exceptional transportation facilities available Duluth is regarded as a most favorable point for the company's operations. When in full operation the enterprise affords employment to 200 hands and its payroll aggregates aproximately $76,000 annually.

Boiler Plant Busy.

The Mesaba Boiler & Manufacturing company advised that its plant has been pushed to capacity all through the winter months and up to the present. Marine repair work has been featuring largely and several commissions have been received for mining machinery from outside points. The company has under consideration the building of an addition during the present season that will result in doubling the capacity of its plant.

He will reach Duluth tomorrow noon to be present at the regular weekly Boyle for Congress club luncheon. Mr. Boyle contemplates speaking in the West end tomorrow night.

Fire in Laboratory.

A chemical compound in the Normal school laboratory caught fire this morning and slightly damaged one of the tables. The fire department was called, but the flames were out before the firemen reached the scene of the blaze. The classes were resumed after the fire department had left.

Fisherman Arrested.

Ole Jenson was arrested this morning by Deputy Game Wardens Boyd and Tabor on a charge of having lake trout in his possession illegally. The wardens claim that Jenson had trout weighing less than one and one-half pounds. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned in police court following his arrest and his trial was set for 10 o'clock next Tuesday morning.

Admits Forgery.

Joe Treneska, 18 years old, who was arrested Saturday afternoon on a charge of forgery in the second degree, waived examination in police court this morning and Judge Windom bound him over to the next term of the grand jury. Bail was fixed at $500. Treneska is accused of forging two orders and countersigning the names of two young men to a check. He has admitted forging these names and will plead guilty before one of the district court judges this week.

Arrested for Swearing.

Joseph Allen, 21 years old, was arrested last evening by Patrolman Mahlen on a charge of swearing on a public street. He was given his liberty on payment of $10 bail and will be arraigned in police court this afternoon.

DUST STORMS SWEEP CITY

Property Owners Complain Bitterly of Failure to Sprinkle Streets.

Has Lake Superior gone dry or have the sprinkling carts gone on a strike?

Neither has actually happened but property owners are protesting that some such calamity must have befallen the city, judging from the clouds of dust which are sweeping through the city from one end to the other. Putting on the lid has become quite the fashion in some cities but putting the lid on the water wagon is not proving popular.

Pedestrians cannot walk a block without being caught in a swirl of dried street filth which is being whipped through the air by a brisk breeze. They are fortunate if they are not blinded and having ears and nostrils filled with the powdered gutter sweepings is inevitable. The complaints are loud and anguished. Those voiced in polite, or even printable language, are rare exceptions. The citizens declare that frequent sprinkling would do much to alleviate the conditions which are causing so much discomfort and annoyance, not to mention the expense incidental to the damage done by the dust to residences, stocks of merchandise and wearing apparel.

To make matters worse the works division is having trouble with the road oil, the first shipment of which has been received. It consists of two tanks, containing about 10,000 gallons each, and the officials do not think that it is up to specifications. They are forwarding samples to several laboratories to have chemical tests made of it. In the meantime no oil will be spread in any of the oil districts, which are chiefly in the residence sections. The oil is being secured from the Pure Oil company, with which the city contracted for approximately 140,000 gallons at 4.43 cents per gallon. If the product is not up to specifications the city will refuse the present shipment and cancel its contract. Commissioner Murchison states that since the contract was made the price of crude oil has dropped and that if this is found necessary the city will be able to buy a better grade of oil at a more favorable price.

In the meantime the dust blows merrily about and the suffering public is the "goat."

Light Rains in North Dakota.

Fargo, N. D., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Light showers fell in many stations on the North Dakota line yesterday afternoon and last night. The precipitation was welcomed by the farmers, following several days of warm weather during which there had been high winds which had rapidly evaporated the moisture.

NEW PLAN FOR EXTENSIONS

The new ordinance governing guarantees for water and gas main extensions has been tentatively prepared by City Attorney Harvey S. Clapp and will probably be given its first reading at the council meeting this afternoon.

The measure does away with the present system of requiring those getting service to bear the whole burden of the 8 per cent guarantee, but distributes it against all property benefited on the front foot basis. Under this plan the unimproved as well as the improved property will be obliged to pay its share of the guarantee. The guarantees will automatically expire at the end of fifteen years, unless in the meantime the consumption becomes large enough to wipe them out.

Commissioner Leonidas Merritt, head of the division of public utilities, has urged a change in the guarantee system almost since he assumed charge of the division over a year ago. He has taken the matter up with his colleagues and with various civic organizations and the present ordinance has been evolved as the most equitable manner of handling the question. Under the system which is still in force those who wanted water or gas service were required to sign a guarantee to pay 8 per cent of the cost of making the extension. This worked a hardship upon the signers in many cases, while the unimproved property got the benefit without any expense.

Many people have been awaiting the passage of this ordinance before presenting applications for extensions. They wish to come in under the proposed new plan and the passage of the ordinance will probably be marked by an augmented number of applications for extensions.

DRUM CORPS IS SAFE AT HOME

The incorrigible and irrepressible drum corps of Aad temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, returned only this morning, having left the rest of the crowd in Chicago.

They reached Duluth this morning, tired, but declaring themselves perfectly happy over their trip. It is said that the corps was one of the hits of the Atlanta meeting.

YOUNG WOMEN SHOW CRUEL SENSE OF HUMOR

Yesterday afternoon one of the young women employed at the city hall bought a pretty pair of new silk slippers.

Naturally, some of the others were just burning with curiosity to see the contents of the package and very mistakenly, as it proved, she showed the dainty footwear to them.

Later in the afternoon one of them enticed the purchaser of the slippers to another part of the building. In the meantime the others exchanged the new slippers for an old pair of shoes, replacing the bundle in its original position. The owner of the slippers worked with the others until 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon and being in a hurry to get home she grabbed her parcel without any suspicion that it was not all she thought it. She reached home just before the dinner hour and her folks insisted upon seeing the slippers. Imagine her dismay when the old shoes were disclosed. To make it worse several dinner guests were just as much interested in the parcel as were her folks.

To cap the climax the janitor came around this morning to demand the return of his shoes.

Who said all practical jokers were men?

WARNING TO SMALL BOYS

Will Lose Rifles If Caught Shooting Within City Limits.

The small boy who prizes his rifle and who would rather take a thrashing any day than part with his "twenty-two" must take care, lest he lose it.

Young America must not go agunning in the groves just on the outskirts of the city for if he does, he stands a good chance of losing his cherished treasure which easily would be the worst calamity that could ever befall him.

It is announced by R. D. McKercher of the Duluth Humane society that during the summer months when mischievous boys are prone to sneak off into the nearby woods with their rifles and shoot at birds, there will be a special agent of the society who will be on the lookout for them.

The "fly cop" detailed to this duty will not be marked with any badge so that he may be distinguished at a distance, and he will not confine himself to any particular part of the city. Any boy caught using firearms within the city limits will suffer the penalty of having his gun taken from him.

Numerous complaints about shooting in the woods were made to the society last summer and it was thought advisable to put on a special man this season to watch for violations.

TRY ROBBERY CASES.

Separate Trials Granted to Hickalo and Quisto.

Elias Kickalo, jointly indicted with John Quisto for robbery in the first degree, was brought to trial before Judge Bert Fesler in district court. Assistant County Attorney Forbes moved for a joint trial of the cases against both of the men but A. T. Rock, their attorney, demanded separate trials. Kickalo was put on first.

The two men are charged with having on March 3 last at Cedar Valley, a settlement in the Floodwood district, held up and robbed Mike Alapero, a fellow countryman.

SCORE BOAT LINE METHOD

Shippers' Attorneys File Warm Brief With Commerce Commission.

Claim Divorce of Boat and Rail Lines Will Help Greatly.

The keenest interest is being felt among Duluth shippers over the consideration by the interstate commerce commission of the case of shippers against the lake lines, which are, together with the railroads, trying for an increase in rates of 5 per cent the country over. The chief interest centers here in the lake lines, for it is believed that if the boat and rail lines are divorced—a thing which they are fighting desperately—and there is competition between them, a better condition will exist.

It is contended that the present combinations on the lake, which, it is charged, are shoving the independent lake lines to the wall, are manipulated so that it is made to appear that an advance in rates is necessary in order that a reasonable profit may be obtained. Duluth is vitally interested, and the Duluth Commercial club's traffic commission is not only interested, but is a party to the case before the commision. Briefs recently submitted by the shippers' attorneys recite conditions which, it is claimed, are unnecessary and caused by inefficiency in the management of the vessel lines, creating expense that is needless. A case in point is cited in the matter of the management of the Western Transit company, which receives freight from or ships its freight through only the New York Central lines. The Mutual is connected with four lines—the Erie, the Lehigh Valley, the Lackawanna and the West Shore.

The case cited is the increase in expense—according to the testimony of the management before the commission—and the lack of proportionate increase in business. According to this, in 1903 the company employed 105 men and in 1913 employed 145 men, an increase of 38 per cent. Its operating revenue decreased since 1906 from $1,611,355.43 to $1,568,277.12 in 1913. In other words in 1903 the company was doing business to the amount of $15,374 per employe while last year it was doing only $10,815 per employe. Summing up this condition in the brief, the shippers' attorneys say:

"This is fairly illustrative of the lack of efficiency of the boat line management, due, in great measure, we have no doubt, to the fact that officials and agents of the boat lines know that they are not expected to produce tonnage at the expense of the rail routes. If real actual competition between the lake and rail lines were permitted no such showing as this would be found in reports of lake carriers."

"WHITE WAY" FOR BOAT PASSENGERS

Visitors coming to Duluth in passenger steamers will not have to make their way through dark streets to reach the downtown section this summer, if the plans of Commissioner Lowndes Merritt, head of the division of public utilities, go through.

Commissioner Merritt expects to properly light the route from No. 4 dock, where most of the passenger boats land, to the main business section. This has been urged for years past, particularly as the way leads through a district which is deserted and unpleasant after business ceases for the day.

Within a short time the canal piers will be lighted again. The piers have proved extremely popular as a promenade in past summers and this season will prove no exception. Commissioner Merritt said this morning that he has been informed by the local government engineers that the comfort station planned last season will be erected this year.

OBITUARY

J. Howard Ewald, president of the Pittsburg Forge & Iron company, died at his home in St. Louis, Mo., May 18, of pneumonia contracted three days ago. He was a brother of the late L. Philip Ewald, the Louisville & Nashville railroad magnate, who left a $4,000,000 estate.

JOY RIDING IS HIS MANIA

Last night Francis Jackson, 21 years old, hired an automobile for two hours and when his ride about the city had finished, he told the chauffeur that he had no money and would pay his bill in a day or two. But this afternoon Jackson went a little farther and this time started to drive an automobile down Superior street, without the owner's consent or permission.

Jackson hired the automobile last evening from E. H. Harrison and when the latter tried to collect $7, the amount agreed upon, Jackson told him he had no money, but that there was no particular hurry about the collection. Harrison could not see the matter in this light and he had Jackson arrested.

This morning Harrison refused to prosecute Jackson, so the police allowed the young man to go. But at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon Patrolman Woods brought Jackson into police headquarters a second time. The officer claims that Jackson was tampering with an automobile and that he was about to start the machine down the street. Jackson will be arraigned this afternoon.

LOSES JOB AND WALKS 120 MILES

Tony Teppich, 25 years old, is angry.

And the police, to whom he told his story this morning, are inclined to agree that he has good cause for his feeling.

A week ago he paid a local employment agency $2 to obtain him a position, which the company did. Last Tuesday he was sent to Winton with a crew of men. The men worked three days and last Friday, Tony, with four others, were told that their work was over. There was no more to be done, the superintendent said, and the new men would have to go.

So Tony and his companions, it is said, were compelled to walk all the way to Duluth, a distance of 120 miles. They arrived this morning without funds and hungry. They had not eaten since Sunday morning. The others had a little money, but Tony was compelled to come to headquarters for assistance. He was given the usual meal, sardines and half a loaf of bread.

Tony came to this country eight months ago from Germany.

STRAW HAT SEASON OPENED BY MAYOR

Duluth's Summer Season Lengthened at Both Ends, Says Prince.

Hear ye! Hear ye! Here ye! The straw hat season is here.

Mayor W. I. Prince officially so declared this morning.

Let the scoffers and the doubters and the knockers be forever silenced and let the boosters herald far and wide that Duluth is on the map with the straw hat season on May 19 in this year of 1914.

Proof piles upon proof that Duluth has the best and most glorious summer weather between the oceans and the Great Lakes and the Gulf. And each year it grows longer and more delightful. Last year the city's executive, the arbiter of the straw hat season, extended it a month past the usual closing time and this year he proclaims it will open nearly two weeks ahead of the day fixed by fashion's dictum.

So get out the old straw bonnet or loosen the purse strings for a new straw lid and have no qualms of conscience or any fears that by appearing with it in public you are committing les majesty. Summer weather is here and the mayor gives you official sanction to be comfortable, especially since the baseball season is now opened in earnest.

ASKS FOR LETTERS.

Widow of Otto Jarvinen Would Settle His Estate.

Maria Jarvinen, 58, widow of Otto Jarvinen, who died, aged 57, on his homestead near Embarrass, Minn., Jan. 9, 1912, today petitioned the probate court for letters of administration on his estate. She represents that it consists of personal property valued at $150 and an 80-acre homestead worth $1,500.

Jarvinen died leaving a widow and four daughters, all of whom reside at Embarrass except one, who is a resident of Red Lodge, Mont.

TAXPAYERS HURRY TO AVOID PENALTY

Taxes have begun to pile into the office of County Treasurer George H. Vivian and with but a few days left in which to pay without penalty, the collection of the 1913 tax on real property is well under way.

The last day on which the taxes may be paid without penalty is Friday, May 29. One half of the tax may be paid in at that time and the second installment before Oct. 31. The law is such that if the first half is not paid this year before May 29, a penalty of 10 per cent will attach.

The counter collections have been noticeably heavy during the last week and it is expected that the rush will be a steady one from now on until the last day for paying without penalty. Most of the larger taxpayers are sending in checks but in the majority of cases payment is not made until the last week.

BAN LIQUOR AND MUSIC IN "DISTRICT."

Liquor, music and dancing will be barred in the segregated district, according to statement made by Mayor Konkel this morning. A notice was served on the mayor yesterday by Deputy Sheriff M. C. Dufficy, to the effect that liquor, music and dancing must be barred or the sheriff will take the matter into his hands. The mayor said that it would be unnecessary for the county to act as plans for an immediate ban on these features were being arranged.

PLAN SUBWAY FOR SOO TRACKS.

Plans for a subway to be constructed for the Soo Line railroad tracks at Belknap street are being considered by officials of the railroad and will be presented in the near future to the city council. The railroad promised when the road was first laid on the street that this subway would be built when the traffic demanded it. It is contended now that the traffic across this street has increased to such an extent that the subway will be necessary.

The city commissioners yesterday reappointed Robert Kelley park commissioner for three years. The commission also placed the salary of W. E. Davis, city plumbing inspector at $100 a month.

INSURGENT G. O. P. MEETING AT FARGO.

Fargo, N. D., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—There are a number of insurgent Republicans in session in Fargo today, on call of Secretary Langer of the Progressive Republican league. The meeting was called ostensibly in the interests of U. L. Burdick for governor, but it is understood it will be determined whom the insurgents will support for attorney general, state treasurer and commissioner of agriculture.

This afternoon it was announced that the insurgent Republicans would support Kraabel for renomination for lieutenant governor in preference to Jessen or Frain; Zuger for attorney general instead of Linde; Putnam for state treasurer instead of Tharalson or Steen; Hutchinson for commissioner of agriculture instead of Flint or Holbein.

They will also support Hall for secretary of state, Taylor for insurance commissioner, Jorgenson for state auditor, and the three members of the railway commission, all seeking renomination.

HORSE DEALER SUES FOR $1,300

In district court yesterday afternoon, W. A. Baune, Floodwood horse dealer, brought to trial an action in which he is seeking to recover $1,300 from Emma Heiskary Solheim, notary public, and M. N. Triplett, signer of her notarial bond. Baune alleges that the notary attached her seal and signature acknowledging the signatures of Flina Stein and William Stein to a purported mortgage held by Baune. The signature of Flina Stein, he says, was a forgery.

Baune says that on June 26, 1909, he loaned William Stein $583.76. In return Stein gave a promissory note on his farm a few miles out of Floodwood. The mortgage, presumably, was executed in the presence of Miss Heiskary, now Mrs. Solheim, as notary. Baune claims that he considered the mortgage executed in good faith and when it fell due he attempted to foreclose.

In a lawsuit which followed, a jury found that Stein had never consulted with his wife with regard to the mortgage and that her signature, necessary to the execution of the mortgage, had been forged. When shown her purported signature in court, she declared that the instrument was a forgery and testified that she knew nothing of the entire transaction until after foreclosure proceedings had been started. In district court on Oct. 6 last a jury found in the widow's favor and the court set aside the mortgage as a fraud.

Baune is now seeking to hold the notary and her surety liable for all damages, claiming that he was acting in good faith at all times. After the deal was closed between Baune and Stein, the latter left the country and has not been heard from.

Recipes for Wrinkles and Bad Complexions

Of all the beauty recipes that have been published, here are two that have successfully stood the test of time:

Wrinkle Remover—One ounce powdered saxolite, dissolved in ½ pt. witch hazel. Use as a wash lotion. It brings instantaneous results.

Face Peeler—Pure mercolized wax, applied at night like cold cream, only not rubbed in; wash off in the morning. It causes the wornout scarf skin to come off in tiny, almost invisible flakes, a little each day, until the fresh young under-skin is wholly in evidence. The beautiful rose-tinted, complexion thus obtained is not to be compared with one made over with cosmetics. If the old skin is marred with freckles, pimples or other blemishes, these defects are of course discarded with the skin itself.

An ounce of the wax is sufficient in any case.

The ingredients named are inexpensive and can be found in any drugstore.

ABOLISH THE FAMILY TICKET

At a meeting of the directors of the Duluth Boat club at the Commercial club today it was decided to abolish the family ticket, to permit the women to come to the club free of charge, and tax the boys $5. This ticket is good for boys from 14 to 21 years of age.

Mrs. Savage will be engaged to have charge of the dancing at the club and will give instruction to the members for a nominal fee.

Washington, May 19.—The house today passed the Rucker resolution, which in effect exonerated the Democratic congressional committee of charges that it violated the corrupt practices act in assessing senators and representatives for campaign contributions.

NEW ANGLE IN HIBBING CASE

A new angle developed today in the fight which is being carried on in the courts between the state of Minnesota and the village of Hibbing over an attempt on the part of the village to acquire by condemnation proceedings the title to a tract of state-owned land for the purpose of augmenting the village's water supply, when injunction proceedings were instituted by the state against the village.

Judge Bert Fesler this morning signed a temporary restraining order forbidding Sharpe & McGuire, contractors, from taking any further steps in sinking wells for the village on the land until Saturday, when the village officials and the contractors are required to come into court and show cause why a temporary injunction should not issue pending determination of the application for a permanent injunction. The restraining order and the order to show cause were served on the Hibbing officials and the contractors this afternoon.

The land sought to be acquired by the village through condemnation proceedings is described as the south half of the southeast quarter of section 12, 57-21 and adjoins the village limits. It is said to be underlaid with a valuable mineral deposit. The Arthur Iron Mining company, which holds a long term lease on the property from the state, is made a party plaintiff to the action and the contractors engaged by the village are party defendants.

In district court recently Judge Dancer dismissed condemnation proceedings brought by the village to acquire the property from the state, but solely on the ground that the village officials had mistaken their course of procedure.

They will be at home in Duluth after June 15. Miss Lundstrom has been a nurse in Duluth for the last six years.

FEDERALS EVACUATE THE OIL DISTRICT

Washington, May 19. — Later today Admiral Badger reported that the Mexican Federals who fled from Tampico to Panuco in the oil district had evacuated the latter city also.

"Reports indicate," said a navy department statement, "that the Federals evacuated Panuco city yesterday. The oil wells were all right up to yesterday afternoon. From 2,000 to 4,000 Federals were in the garrison."

SEVERE BLOW DEALT TO HUERTA'S TROOPS

Juarez, Mex., May 19.—The Constitutionalist troops under Gen. COURT DENOUNCES FRANK CASE SLEUTHS.

Atlanta, Ga., May 19.—Caustic criticism of methods employed by "certain detectives" in investigating the evidence on which Leon M. Frank was sentenced to die for the murder of Mary Phagan, was made here by Judge Ben H. Hill of the superior court yesterday.

The court called the attention of the grand jury to certain charges and counter charges of alleged bribery, fraud and coercion in the case. He declared certain "famous sleuths" were seeking, "not the truth, but money and notoriety." He characterized them as "a menace to justice" and said that the indignation of the people justly was aroused by their activities."

Judge Hill instructed the grand jury to make rigid examination into the charges of alleged bribery and fraud that had grown out of the Frank case. It is expected the examination of witnesses in this case will begin about the middle of this week.

ADVANCE OF MANKIND IN UNDERSTANDING OF TRUTH

Col. Fell Lectures on Christian Science at the Auditorium.

Says Jesus Knew All Cause and Effect Were Mental.

The auditorium was well filled last evening by an audience that listened with deep interest to a lecture on Christian Science by Col. William E. Fell of Leeds, Eng., given under the auspices of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of this city. Col. Fell, who was introduced by Robert Rankin of the local church, said, in part:

Progress is the keynote of the century, never before in the world's history have the inventions and discoveries of physical science shown a greater advance.

It would be truly deplorable if man's apprehension of the science of being had not shown a corresponding progress. I am here tonight to tell you that mankind has advanced in this understanding of Truth as is evidenced in the better health, better morals, and more harmonious conditions obtaining in the lives of those who are making an earnest study of this science of being or Christian Science. It is a fact of which we as a race have no reason to be proud, that many of the recent inventions of the day, whether the flying machine or the submarine vessel, have been applied to compass the destruction of mankind in time of war. Christian Science, on the other hand, when discovered by Mary Baker Eddy, was applied to the saving of mankind from all that was unlike good. For this purpose today Christian Science exists "to bind up the broken hearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison doors to them that are bound." To learn just how to do this is surely the science of all sciences, the science by which Jesus performed his mighty works in confirmation or demonstration of his mighty words.

Do you remember that he promised, that we too should do these mighty works when we understood him. "He that believeth on" or understandeth "me, the works that I do shall he do also."

As to our part in the matter, are we not exhorted to "have that mind in us which was also in Christ Jesus? To have that mind must mean to have that knowledge of God or good, which Jesus possessed, enabling him to cast out devils or evil of every description. We are encouraged therefore to assure ourselves that Jesus' mighty works were not merely miracles or wonderful works in substantiation or proof of his divinity, or for a special class or period, for God is no respecter of persons and is the same yesterday, today and forever, but were performed in obedience to spiritual law, which law must be to the full as operative now as it was during the first 300 years of the Christian era, when as history relates, these mighty works were done.

God Defined.

God is described in the Bible as Spirit, as Life, Truth, and Love and these terms whether taken collectively or individually stand for God. It is also universally accepted that God is omnipotent, which if it means anything at all must mean that God is all the power there is, all the science or knowledge there is and all the presence there is. This must be so for as you know the Latin word omni signifies all, and we cannot have more than all, so we come to the just conclusion that God, whom John declares to be Love, is all inclusive and can have no opposite called devil or evil; and as one scientific statement quite naturally leads to another we find that God being Life, Life is all the presence there is, and death becomes obsolete, real as it may appear to the physical senses. By the same course of reasoning we arrive at the fact that since God is Truth, Truth is the only legitimate knowledge or activity there is or can be. However loudly error may call out in justification of its presence and power, it has neither presence nor power; and grandest and most joyous conclusion of all, we find that there is no power, knowledge, or presence in anything but in Love and its manifestations, for God is Love and God is All.

Christian Science, teaches us to worship God in His allness, in His fullness, in His infinity, not as some grand looking human being on a cloud or a throne, such an one cannot be omnipresent. Only as divine Mind, infinite Principle, Life, Truth and Love can God be discerned. These terms refer to one absolute God and express the infinite.

The Real Man.

From a discussion on God in quite natural sequence we come to consider what the real or scientific man is.

The Bible tells us in language quite unmistakable, "that God created man in His own image," to be still more emphatic that statement is repeated "in the image of God created he him."

Christ Jesus exemplified this perfect manhood right here on earth, and the Gospels teach us how to attain to this fulness of the stature of Christ. Surely that was his love-crowned mission, that we too should do these mighty works, "ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." In that short sentence our Saviour epitomized the whole science of healing, not only of sickness and disease, but of sin, poverty and every conceivable discordant condition.

Now what is the truth to be known? You will find numbers of people quite prepared to declare that disease and sin are real. That is true—how then is Truth going to heal, to destroy, that which is true? By "the truth" our Saviour meant the absolute, the eternal, the immutable, in other words the spiritual. We have indeed to know what he knew, if we would cast out the devils of sickness, sin and lust as he cast them out. To know the spiritual fact concerning God and man, that God is spiritual perfection, and that man is His image and likeness, the image of perfection, is the Truth to be known in order to cast out any and every condition that is not of the Father.

The generality of people believe that God sends sickness in some unexplained way to do us good. That it is sent as a punishment, or to teach us a lesson or to draw us nearer to Himself. If this be the case what then is the attitude of the Christian world at large? If sickness is sent as a punishment, why do Christians promptly try to evade the punishment by sending for a doctor or taking drugs. If sent to teach a lesson are people justified in refusing to learn the lesson by getting rid of the sickness as soon as possible? If to draw us nearer to Himself, what is the Christian about when he sets up an active resistance to that which is to draw him nearer to God? Surely, if sickness is a good thing, the sicker we are the better. But although this may be the teaching of some today, it is not the teaching of Christ Jesus, who called sickness and disease "devil" or evil and cast them out. He never said they were sent by God to do good to humanity, but he did say of the woman who was bowed together that Satan had bound her. Not God be it understood. If by sin came death, by sin came also the forerunners and procurers of death, sickness and disease. "Then how do you account," we are sometimes asked, "for the fact that some of the most saintly people are the greatest sufferers? Ignorance of law will not save from the consequences of that ignorance. The spiritual law is there and available to all. We know it to be perfect in its operation, for Jesus has, for all time, proved it to be so. If the saintly invalid will learn the law his saintliness will remain, but his invalidism will go. Error and Truth cannot exist together.

GRASS FIRES ARE NUMEROUS

Fire Department Has Strenuous Time in All Parts of City.

Sunday and Monday Give Firemen Plenty of Work—Engine's Accident.

Since Sunday noon the fire department has been called out to fight twelve grass fires in various parts of the city.

The first grass fire was reported from the end of the Woodland car line at 11:09 o'clock Sunday morning. A large field back of the Calvary cemetery had caught fire. A No. 4 steamer, on the way to the fire, slid into the side of the road and was unable to get out until Assistant Fire Chief Wilson arrived on the scene and pulled the engine back on the road with his auto.

On Sunday afternoon the department was called out to extinguish several blazes in fields at Twenty-fifth avenue east and Superior street, another at Twenty-sixth avenue east between Superior street and London road and one on Calvary road.

Assistant Fire Chief Wilson, with three men, went to Morningside park about 11 o'clock yesterday morning in answer to an alarm that had been sent in by one of the residents. A blaze had started in the grass and was constantly growing, until the firemen arrived and extinguished it. No sooner had the firemen returned to headquarters, when they received another call from Morningside park and this time No. 4 engine was sent out to fight the flames.

At 1:16 o'clock yesterday afternoon a grass fire was reported at Hermantown and the West end department answered the alarm. It was while Assistant Fire Chief Granzeau was on his way to another fire at Eleventh avenue west and Michigan street from Hermantown, that he ran over and killed Lyda Hubert, the 4-year-old daughter of Leander Hubert, 823 Vernon street, at the corner of Vernon street and Grand avenue. The fire at Eleventh avenue west was started by a short circuit in the street car building but it was extinguished before any serious damage was done.

Another grass fire started at Fifty-fourth avenue west and Elinor street and it was soon extinguished by the West Duluth department. At 2:41 o'clock the department was again called to a grass fire, this time at Homecroft park, and no sooner were these flames out than the firemen were ordered to Morningside park again, this time at 2:45 o'clock. Engines from No. 4 were sent to Morningside and a few minutes later Chief Wilson arrived and after the fire was out took the entire crew to Arnold, where another grass fire had been reported.

The last fire yesterday afternoon was at Thirteenth avenue west and Railroad street, where some grass caught fire shortly after 4 o'clock. A pile of rubbish nearby also started to burn, but it was extinguished before the flames could spread any further.

ONE MILLION AMERICANS AFFECTED WITH TUBERCULOSIS.

There is no more encouraging effort being made in the interests of good health than in the rapid development of anti-tuberculosis sanitation. Each year the organized efforts to combat this disease grow stronger and stronger. Recently there has been a nation-wide anti-tuberculosis campaign inaugurated. It has been termed the National Assaciation for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. In every state and territory there have been formed both local and state anti-tuberculosis societies. These already number over 800. Over 30,000 beds for consumptives have been equipped in 500 hospitals and sanatoria. There are more than 1,000 physicians in attendance upon 400 free tuberculosis dispensaries and there have been established—more than 150 open air schools for the benefit of tubercular children. This organization, furthermore, has interested itself in the passage of laws dealing with tuberculosis in forty-five of our forty-eight states. It has likewise exerted a guiding influence on the health ordinances regulating tuberculosis in more than 200 cities and towns throughout the nation. Provision is being planned for visiting nurses, tuberculosis clinics and open air schools in every city and town in the United States, and the steady reduction of the death rate in tuberculosis among our 100,000,000 of American people by the application of these preventive measures is a most healthy sign. If any reader of this article is a tuberculosis sufferer or has a friend who is one, let me urge him to write the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, 105 East Twenty-second street, New York city, regarding the fullest details of their organization. This danger of tuberculosis cannot be too rapidly combatted.

THIS MAN PASSES A LOT OF BLOOD.

An Ohio gentleman writes for further help. "Three years ago I had two fistulas. I had them operated upon. Lately my rectum began to trouble me again. At times I pass quite a lot of blood and there is intense itching. There is also a discharge and at times air will escape. I do not have much pain except when my bowels operate, but the discharge has made me very sore. Do you think that this is another fistula forming or is it the effect of the two fistulas for which I have been previously operated upon? Do you think my condition can be one of bleeding piles? I am 38 years old and realize that I have let this condition go on too long. Three years ago I contracted syphilis and was treated twice with "606." Once in the back and once in my veins. I went entirely blind in my right eye for nearly one year, and at present while I can use my eye yet the sight is not very strong. The two treatments were given to me about two months apart, but I have not done anything since for my syphilis. Do you think the new treatment "914" will help me and is it liable to affect my eye again?"

Answer.

It would be necessary for me to examine you personally before I could intelligently counsel you as to exactly what is the matter with you, likewise as to the best procedure for you. The "914" treatment you speak of is simply a modified form of the Salvarsan treatment for syphilis. It is merely a more recent form of medication. The general principle of the medicine is no different from that of Salvarsan or "606." From your letter it looks to me as though your condition was one of fistula, but no man can advise you as to this until a personal examination has been made and the actual conditions noted, by the closest detailed physical observation. I have wondered on reading your letter whether or not there was any tuberculosis in your family or whether you had been suffering from the latter even in its incipient stage. Pick the best doctor in your city; go and consult him and take advice. That is what you are paying him for. You can't be intelligently nor satisfactorily treated at long range. Stick to your doctor.

You Smoke a "Better" Tobacco —Why Not Smoke The Best?

THE tobacco you now smoke you consider "better tobacco than you ever smoked before." Naturally, you kept trying until you found a "better" one.

But it stands to reason that since there is a difference in tobaccos, you may be missing still greater pleasure in a still better smoke—in the BEST smoke, in fact.

Tuxedo is the best smoke because no better tobacco leaf grows, and no process of treating tobacco leaf equals the original "Tuxedo Process."

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

We know that Tuxedo is made of the BEST tobacco—rich, mellow, perfectly aged Kentucky Burley. None better can be bought, because none better is grown.

It is treated by the famous original "Tuxedo Process" for removing the sting and bite of the natural vegetable oils.

Tuxedo was born in 1904. Its first imitator appeared two years later. Since then a host of imitations have sprung up.

No other tobacco can give the unique pleasure of Tuxedo because no other maker has yet been able to equal the Tuxedo quality.

NORWEGIANS END BIG CELEBRATION

Conclude With Organizing Association of Civil War Veterans.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 19.—Three days' centennial celebration of Norway's independence ended here last night with the organization of the Scandinavian Veterans' association composed of Norwegians who served in the Civil war of the United States. Officers were elected as follows:

President, Ole Nelson, Slayter, Iowa; vice president, Otto Steen, Wahoo, Neb.; secretary, N. Gilbert, Elva, Wis.; treasurer, George Jackson, Chicago.

It was proposed to open the new organization to Scandinavian veterans of all wars in the United States and invitations will be extended to Scandinavian members of G. A. R. posts, Spanish-American war veterans and all other similar bodies to become members.

The organization was a part of the celebration program and was affected at the state fair grounds immediately following the speaking and musical program.

A message of good will from the Norwegian government to the people of the United States was brought by H. H. Bryn, minister to the United States, who was the principal speaker of the celebration. He delivered his address late yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Bryn's speech was largely of a historical nature, dealing with the wrongs alleged to have been endured by the people of European nations. He laid stress on the fact, however, that Norwegians in all their history have been a race of free men; that in the centuries when slavery and serfdom flourished in other European countries no Norwegian ever wore a slave's collar and copper plate of ownership.

President Sends Greetings.

President Woodrow Wilson sent a telegram of greeting to the committee in charge of the celebration but for some reason it did not reach that body until after the celebration had closed. Governor Eberhart had, however, suggested at the celebration that a telegram be sent to the president, and a committee was appointed to draft and send a suitable message. In the meantime, late last night the president's message reached the convention. It follows:

"I deeply regret that it has been impossible for me to attend in person the centennial celebration of the Norwegian Constitution. I have always entertained so deep and genuine an admiration for the Norwegian people and their development in the direction of constitutional liberty that it would have been a real pleasure to be present and give voice to my own personal congratulations on this great occasion. It would have been a still greater satisfaction to me to have been able to congratulate the Norwegian people in the name of the people of the United States.

"The friendship between the United States and Norway is so cordial and of such long standing and our people have known each other so long to their mutual benefit that I am sure the whole country joins very heartily in the spirit of this celebration.

"WOODROW WILSON."

The committee replied:

"Acknowledging receipt of your kind and cordial message, 50,000 Norwegian-Americans assembled in centennial celebration of the independence of Norway, send this message of greeting and good will and pledge their continued loyalty to the land of their adoption."

The committee was composed of Governor A. O. Eberhart, Senator A. J. Gronna of North Dakota, A. A. Trovaten and J. A. O. Preus.

THINKS SHE IS BEING PURSUED.

Canton, Ohio, May 19. — Miss Mary Hough, about 40 years old, is held by the sheriff awaiting word from her relatives in Brooklyn. Only half clad, she jumped from a Pennsylvania railway parlor car yesterday when it stopped here, and ran a mile through the city. She cried that "white slavers" were after her. She was turned over to the Young Women's Christian association and agreed to return to Brooklyn, but later jumped from the Y. W. C. A. building to get away from imaginery pursuers. The sheriff then took her into custody.

She says she was on her way from Winnipeg, Can., to relatives in Brooklyn.

WHEN FEELING TIRED

Hood's Sarsaparilla Builds Up the Whole System---Makes Pure Blood.

That tired feeling that comes to you in the spring, year after year, is a sign that your blood lacks vitality, just as pimples, boils and other eruptions are signs that it is impure; and it is also a sign that your system is in a low or run-down condition inviting disease. It is a warning, which it is wise to heed.

Ask your druggist for Hood's Sarsaparilla. This old standard tried and true blood medicine relieves that tired feeling. It cleanses the blood, gives new life, new courage, strength and cheerfulness. It makes the rich red blood that will make you feel, look, eat and sleep better.

Be sure to get Hood's, because it is the best. There is no other combination of roots, barks and herbs like it—no real substitute for it—no "just-as-good" medicine.

BULL MOOSE MAN DENOUNCES WILSON

Beveridge Says United States Has Lost Its Prestige.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 19.—Albert J. Beveridge, former United States senator and now a candidate on the Progressive ticket for that office, severely critized the Mexican policy of the Democratic administration at a dinner of the Indiana Progressive club here last night. He advocated a constructive policy by this government in the handling of the Mexican situation, and asserted that recent Mexican incidents had indicated that the United States had lost its place as first power of the western hemisphere.

Mr. Beveridge declared that he could not see where mediation by the South American republics would result in peace.

"Assuming that the 'A. B. C. mediation' settles all these things for us, and that we submit," said Mr. Beveridge, "what then are 'mediators' to do with the hordes of professional bandits and murderers who are making Mexico a shambles?

"Feebleness of purpose and uncertainty as to policy never yet prevented war."

Mr. Beveridge criticized President Wilson for not taking definite action before the American bluejackets were arrested at Tampico.

"Admiral Mayo properly demanded a salute to our flag, the first decisive action in the whole sixteen months of halting blunders," he said.

PERMANENT EXPO BUILDING FAVORED.

Washington, May 19.—A $500,000 appropriation for the erection of a permanent building to house the government exhibit at the Panama Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco, urged by President Wilson in a special message last March, is proposed in a bill favorably reported to the house by the exposition committee. Secretary Garrison has stated that the building later could be converted into barracks for the army.

It is Just Natural To Admire Babies

Our altruistic nature impels love for the cooing infant. And at the same time the subject of motherhood is ever before us. To know what to do that will add to the physical comfort of expectant motherhood is a subject that has interested most women of all times. One of the real helpful things is an external abdominal application sold in most drug stores under the name of "Mother's Friend." We have known so many grandmothers, who in their younger days relied upon this remedy, and who recommend it to their own daughters that it certainly must be what its name indicates. They have used it for its direct influence upon the muscles, cords, ligaments and tendons as it aims to afford relief from the strain and pain so often unnecessarily severe during the period of expectancy.

A little book mailed by Bradfield Regulator Co., 305 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., refers to many things that women like to read about. It refers not only to the relief from muscle strain due to their expansion but also to nausea, morning sickness, caking of breasts and many other distresses.

America has private ownership and operation of telephones; one province in Canada has tried government ownership.

Here is the record:

January, 1908 — Government purchased Bell Telephone property in Manitoba.

March, 1908 — Rates for certain classes of service increased 25 per cent.

March, 1910 — Chairman of telephone commission declared rural rates were too low and would be raised.

March, 1911—Time limit on long distance calls reduced from three to two minutes.

Nov., 1911—Chairman of Telephone Commission reported $150,000 loss for year. with no provision for depreciation.

June, 1912 — Public distrust in government management forced Telephone Commission to resign.

July, 1912 — An increase of 20 per cent in rates put in effect.

The rest of Canada is retaining private ownership after the bitter experience of Manitoba.

Bell Telephone Service Has Set the Standard for the Rest of the World.

Business Men:

A movement has been launched by this bank which deserves your support. In succeeding, it will change the character of the flower of our citizenship, the young people, in whom will soon rest the destiny of Duluth.

It will make "WEEKLY SAVERS" of people who now save nothing at all, or save spasmodically. It will put PURPOSE back of thousands of savings accounts. It will create a good habit which will overcome many bad ones.

We want you to set the example by becoming "WEEKLY SAVERS" yourselves — you will never be too old or too rich to do it with profit. Then we want you to urge upon young people over whom you have influence to be "WEEKLY SAVERS."

Gardener's Calendar.

Plant carrots, lettuce, radishes and potatoes.

Time for dahlia roots and gladiolus bulbs.

Make an asparagus bed.

Put in nasturtium seed.

Plant pansies and asters in open ground.

Summer seems to be with us and there is a multitude of things which the gardener may do. It is time to plant nearly all varieties of small garden seeds, such as carrots, lettuce, radishes and spinach.

See that the ground is spaded deep and that the surface soil is finely pulverized before you start seeding. Set the rows running north and south if possible and plant seed sufficiently thick to insure a good stand. It is an easy matter to thin out vegetable rows where the plants stand too thick, but it is not so easy to supply plants where they are lacking.

Dahlia roots and gladiolus bulbs should be planted now. Dahlias should stand from two to three feet apart. Plant roots flat or nearly so with about two inches of soil over the eyes or crowns. They should be treated very much like potatoes in planting and cultivation.

Gladioluses are more effective when planted in masses, placing the bulbs five or six inches apart. The top of the bulb should be at least two inches below the surface. Pack the earth firmly about the bulb, but leave it loose over the crown. Be careful to have good soil, finely pulverized.

Asparagus needs rich culture and plenty of room. Plant 1-year roots in preference to older ones and do not have them less than eighteen inches apart in the rows with rows two feet apart. Make a trench eighteen inches deep, partially fill with a mixture of good garden soil and well rotted stable manure. Spread the roots out well in planting and have the crowns at least four inches below the surface when planted. Asparagus should not be cut until the third spring after planting. It takes time to establish a good asparagus bed; but, once established, it is permanent.

Put your nasturtium seed in the open ground now, planting about one-half inch deep. The dwarf varieties are very effective for borders, and the tall varieties are excellent for covering unsightly rocks or foundation walls. They will be a mass of bloom all summer if the old flowers are kept picked.

Pansy and aster plants may be set in the open ground now. Neither of these plants is very sensitive to frost and will be earlier and stronger if established before it gets hot.

Iris may be safely divided now, if not allowed to dry before resetting. This plant should be divided every third year to get good results. Set clumps two feet apart and do not use manure around roots.

WHAT OTHER CITIES ARE DOING

A GREAT many cities are establishing purchasing departments for the purchase of supplies, in fact, everything pertaining to the city. These purchasing agents devote all of their time to securing competitive bids and making careful analysis of figures, including transportation charges, etc. In nearly every city where it has been placed in vogue, the city has effected a great saving even in excess of the cost for maintaining such a service.

Duluth has made a start towards a purchasing system, the council having recently passed an ordinance providing for the establishment of a stores system and a purchasing agent. The measure limits the purchases to office supplies, stationery, blank books, printed forms and janitor supplies. For the present City Clerk Charles S. Palmer will act as purchasing agent. The announced intention of the council is to extend the purchasing system to all supplies and materials used by the city.

STEEL PLANT SUBURBS

EXODUS WILL BEGIN TO "MODEL TOWN"

Nearly 200 New Houses Will Be Opened for Families June 1.

On June 1 the big exodus from West Duluth to the new "Model Town" at the steel plant site is expected to start. On that date it is expected that the 175 houses of this suburb will be completed and ready for the occupants.

About twenty families have already moved into this town. The construction work, not only on the houses, but streets, is being pushed rapidly by a large crew of men. The houses are all of concrete blocks, with hardwood finish, modern throughout. It is said that these homes will be rented to the employed of the steel plant at from $15 to $25 per month.

Every improvement is being made to the streets ahead of the paving. Sewers, water and gas mains and conduits for both telephone and electric wires have been put in. To the southeast of the town a handsome park has been laid out. This was laid out twenty-five years ago as the "Spirit Lake park" and commands a beautiful view of the river and Spirit Lake.

NEW DULUTH LEADS SUBURBAN TEAMS

Strong Nine Will Play Big Duluths Next Sunday.

The New Duluth baseball team, which won for itself the undisputed championship of the steel plant suburbs last Sunday, will play the Big Duluths on the New Duluth grounds next Sunday afternoon. Frank Watcha, manager of the team, said that he believed that he had one of the strongest aggregations of players in the city and that his team would give any in the city league a good run for the championship.

The Sunday contest was one that probably created more interest than any other incident this spring. Every resident who was able to get out was present. The side bet, amounting to $50, which went to the winning team, made the contest more interesting. The New Duluth team won from Gary by a score of 9 to 4. A home run in the second inning with three mon on bases gave the New Duluths a big start, which they maintained throughout the game.

There has been some talk in the suburbs of consolidating the two teams and taking the best material of each for the purpose of making one of the strongest organizations in Northern Minnesota. This may be done by a conference of the directors of both teams.

URGE TWO SYSTEMS.

Gary Men Want Sewage and Water Pipes Laid.

Business men of the Gary district intend asking the city to make provisions for laying a sewer system in the streets at the same time that the water pipes are being laid, according to action taken last night at the meeting of the Gary Improvement club. A committee will lay the matter before the city commission.

Preparations are now being made for extending the water system from New Duluth to the other suburbs and the Gary residents contend that the two jobs can be done at the same time. The need of sewers was strongly emphasized by the members.

BUILDERS STILL ACTIVE AT GARY.

Building activities, while not as heavy as late last fall, are still being pushed at Gary. At present about fifteen buildings, most of which are for residential purposes, are under construction.

Another new business block will be erected on Commonwealth avenue. C. N. Inforzato has already let a contract for erecting a one-story building which will cost about $5,000. The building will have a 25-foot frontage and be 85 feet deep. Mr. Inforzato said yesterday that another story would be added to it later.

KILLS MEXICAN FOR INSULTING HIS WIFE

Customs Inspector at Douglas, Ariz., Released on Bond.

Douglas, Ariz., May 19.—In a revolver fight in the business section of Douglas, Eduardo Soto, a Mexican, 24 years old, was shot and killed yesterday by Luke Short, a mounted customs inspector.

Short refused to make any statement, but friends of Soto, who witnessed the affair, declared the inspector had not tried to arrest the Mexican, but had deliberately shot him because of previous trouble over an alleged insult by Soto to Mrs. Short.

Short was released last night on bonds of $15,000.

Constitutionalist Agent Lelevier was quoted as having said he would take the affair up with Gen. Carranza with a view to obtaining a special fund to prosecute Short. Feeling among local Mexicans ran high because of Soto's death, but Douglas officers declared he was an American citizen.

KRAFCHENKO PLOTTER KILLED IN PRISON.

Winnipeg, Man., May 19.—John Reid, former constable of this city, who exposed the conspiracy which led to the escape from jail of the notorious bandit Krafchenko, was fatally injured and another convict named Hawkins was killed when a scaffold on which they were working at Stony Mountain penitentiary collapsed late yesterday. The men fell forty feet to the ground. Reid died later.

Two Winnipeg lawyers also were sent to prison because of their part in the plot to liberate Krafchenko.

EMPLOYMENT AGENCY ABUSES DISCUSSED.

New York, May 19.—Abuses alleged to be practicid by private employment offices, the inadequacy of philanthropic offices of limited scope meant to supplant private agencies, and the need of broad organization of employment on national lines, were emphasized in the public hearing before the United States commission on industrial relations. Thirty-three witnesses will be heard during the three days devoted to employment offices and unemployment. The purpose of the hearing is to obtain information for recommendations to congress for remedial industrial legislation.

Cases of collusion between the "gang" boss and the employment agent in which the employe is discharged and the agent receives a second fee; of misrepresentation of the character of employment by the agents; the dispatch of employes to places where work is suspended from strike or other causes; the charging of excessive percentages on salaries by theatrical and other agencies, with the acquiescence of the victims through fear, are among the chief complaints charged against the existing system.

Garrison Creamery Burns.

Garrison, N. D., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—After being operated just six weeks the Co-operative creamery here was burned. The loss was $5,000 with $3,000 insurance. The company was organized last winter and the plant built this spring. It was doing a large business when destroyed and it is understood that it will be rebuilt at once.

State Encampment Called.

Eau Claire, Wis., May 19.—The state encampment of the Wisconsin Spanish-American war veterans will be held in Eau Claire, June 15, 16 and 17.

Woman's Realm

Mr. and Mrs. Burton St. John, who are on sick leave from missionary work in China, came Saturday evening to visit Mrs. St. John's brother, Julius H. Barnes, and family of 25 Twenty-sixth avenue east. They will leave Thursday noon for Oregon to visit Mr. St. John's relatives. This is Mr. and Mrs. St. John's second visit to the United States in twelve years, their other visit having been about five years ago when Mrs. St. John visited her old home for several weeks. They landed in this country last February and probably will stay a year before returning to China.

Mr. and Mrs. St. John speak interestingly of the country in which they have done missionary work of the Methodist Episcopal church for so many years. The scene of their activities is in Northern China, at Chihli near Pekin. The Chinese Americans are accustomed to, laundrymen and small merchants, are nearly all from South China, they said. When those of the northern part of the country emigrate it is generally to Manchuria or inner Mongolia. In Manchuria the proportion is five or six Chinese to one Manchese.

The New President.

Speaking of the elected president of China, Yuan Shih Kai, Mr. St. John said: "I think he will go down in history. He is broad minded and although he is not a Christian he has never done anything to retard the spread of Christianity and has expressed his admiration of Christian morals. He is something of a dictator but the newness of the republican form of government demands a certain amount of dictatorship."

The constitution of China is only provisional; a permanent one can not be established until agreed upon by all the provinces, Mr. St. John said. The new constitution will most likely provide for woman's suffrage. Mrs. St. John told of the slogan used in recent suffrage demonstrations in Oregon, "Votes for women; keep up with the Chinese."

That China has a great future and is destined to become one of the leading countries of the world is the opinion of Mr. St. John who pointed out that although heretofore only an agricultural country it has every opportunity to become a manufacturing one, as added to the manual skill of the Chinese there is a wonderful supply of coal and iron deposits side by side. In addition to these deposits there are gold and oil, in fact the vast country has minerals that have practically never been touched.

Many reports that reach this country and Europe intimate the republic is in danger of going to pieces, Mr. St John said. To confute this he told of the excellent financial condition that exists despite the fact that a definite system of taxation has not been worked out. "The lower classes are satisfied if they are left to earn their daily bread in peace," he said. "To them the republic stands for lighter taxes. Under the old system taxes were farmed out. Provided the government got the required amount it made no difference how much money was collected from the people. Each collector took a squeeze at the taxes collected before they were handed on to the next official."

Religious Liberty.

Religious liberty is one of the features of the republic. Chinese who are Christians may now hold office. Formerly these offices were not open to them, as the holding of them entailed the offerings of sacrifices to the heathen gods.

That the young men of China are anxious to study in Europe and America is shown by Mr. St. John's statement that between 100 and 200 go abroad every year. Of this number about 75 come to the United States from the indemnity school. This school was founded with the Boxer indemnity money returned to China by the United States. It was between $16,000,000 and $20,000,000. Entrance is by competitive examinations. Students may choose the American universities they wish to attend and the courses they will take in them. Expenses in America as well as in the preparatory school in China are paid by the indemnity fund.

New Women in China.

"There is certainly a new woman in China," Mrs. St. John said. "She goes to school, and unbinds her feet, and we are teaching her some modern ideas about the home. Many of the women are Christians. Mission schools have offered women educational advantages for years, but it is only recently that government schools have been open to them."

Mr. and Mrs. St. John said the government offers no opposition to mission schools. The desire to learn is so great that the combined forces of mission and government schools are unequal to the demand of the many men and women who seek admission to them.

Mrs. St. John described the costume worn by the women as a combination of Eastern and Western styles. With the typical long Chinese coat fastening on the side is often worn an accordion pleated skirt that is the Chinese adaptation of Western style. "In many cases the baggy trousers so familiar in Chinese pictures are still adhered to," said Mrs. St. John. "The working men wear baggy trousers and blue cotton shirts. Those of high station wear silk trousers and long silk coats, richly brocaded and of any gorgeous color except green. Green is a woman's color, and a self-respecting Chinaman would no more wear green than a self-respecting American would wear—well, let us say a wrist watch." Mr. St. John said Chinamen who have lived in Europe and America keep their Western clothes, but wear them on rare occasions only.

The uniform of the Chinese soldiers was described by Mr. and Mrs. St. John as being of navy blue trimmed with gray and very neat. Mrs. St. John showed a picture of the president and his bodyguard, all in these uniforms that could never be associated with the gorgeous costume of the Chinese. The president wore a rather plain cap, but the members of his guard wore caps that were trimmed with what, for lack of a better word, might be called pompons, though that does not sound a bit Chinese.

NO CHANCE FOR STAMMERERS TO KEEP PACE WITH FASHIONS

This picture shows what the gay Parisians were wearing at the end of April. What they are wearing now, no one can guess. It was in Paris that the woman who went to the doctor to be cured of stuttering said she did not hope to be entirely cured but she would be satisfied if she could be made to speak fast enough t-t-to order s-s-something bef-f-fore it w-w-went out of f-f-f-f-fashion.

WILL MEET IN TENNESSEE

National Suffrage Association Will Convene in Nashville.

Nashville, Tenn., May 19.—Mrs. Mary Ware Dennett of New York, secretary of the American Woman Suffrage association, has notified the Nashville Equal Suffrage league that this city will be the meeting place of the national organization this year. The association recently decided to meet in Tennessee, and left the choice of the convention city to the executive board of the Tennessee Equal Suffrage league. A contested vote left the issue in doubt between this city and Memphis, but Mrs. Dennett's letter decides the question finally.

Methodist Banquet.

Tonight at the First Methodist church, the Methodist Social union of this city will give its first annual banquet. Covers will be laid for 200. Rev. Charles Bayard Mitchell, D. D., of Chicago will be the principal speaker. W. L. Smithles, president of the union, will preside and Rev. Milton P. Burns, D. D., district superintendent, will be toastmaster. C. E. Dice of Grace church, will respond to the toast, "Methodism and Civics;" I. K. Lewis of Endion church will respond to the theme, "Methodist Co-operation," and Watson S. Moyer has been assigned the toast, "Our Program." The Sunday school orchestra of the First church will furnish music for the occasion. The banquet will be served at 6:30 o'clock.

At Pro-Cathedral.

The Women's auxiliary of Trinity pro-cathedral will hold its seventh birthday party tomorrow afternoon in the guild room. The program will begin at 3 o'clock and will consist of violin selections by Miss Eleanore Kraft, accompanied by Miss Ethel Molitor; vocal solos by Miss Myrel Hobbs, and a talk on "Missionary Work in India" by Mrs. T. D. Merrill. Mrs. Merrill will speak informally and will read extracts from letters of relatives who are in missionary work. After the program tea will be served. There will be no talk on Japan as was originally announced.

Ladies' Aid.

Mrs. Bert Wheeler of 1814 East Fifth street will entertain the members of the Ladies' Aid of Merritt Memorial church tomorrow afternoon.

Surprise Party.

A surprise party was given for Edward Boman Saturday evening at the home of T. W. Boman at Superior View. There were about 100 guests.

Monday Evening Club.

The tango received particular attention at the meeting of the Monday Evening club at the Kitchi Gammi club house last evening. Miss Berta Schmied and Leo Schmied danced a ballroom tango that was later practiced by the members of the club. The last meeting of the club will be held next Monday evening.

Dinner for Miss Gamble.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Gamble of 5415 Oneida street, entertained at dinner last evening in honor of their daughter, Miss Ella Gamble, whose wedding to Rudolph Charles Schiller will take place tomorrow evening. Pink and white sweet peas were used in the decorations. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Jay Finkelson, Miss Mary Bradbury, Miss Lucy Nightingale, Palmer Harbison and James McGhie.

Housewives' League.

At the last meeting of the season held yesterday afternoon the members of the Housewives' league decided they would do little during the summer months in the way of inspecting food until they have the support of the food ordinance. Mrs. C. E. Spring, the president, said merchants who keep their wares exposed and in an insanitary condition are not affected by public opinion, and that nothing can be accomplished in the matter of sanitary handling of food until there is a law.

The treasurer of the league reported $92 had been cleared at the rummage sale held recently. The Housewives' league hopes to establish a course in home economics next fall to teach the proper preparation of food. At the next meeting, to be held in Superior, a nominating committee will be appointed and the election will take place in October.

B. B. Club.

Mrs. R. M. Stitt of 211 Tenth avenue east entertained the B. B. club yesterday afternoon. Five hundred was played at five tables. Favors were won by Mrs. Thomas E. Considine, Mrs. D. Burnett and Miss Josephine Stevenson.

Family Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Merritt of 19 West Fourth street entertained informally at dinner last evening in honor of Lucien Merritt, who will leave soon for Minneapolis, where he will spend several months. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Merritt, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis H. Merritt, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Merritt, Mr. and Mrs. Alva L. Merritt, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Merritt and Mr. and Mrs. Leonidas C. Merritt.

Woman's Alliance.

The Woman's Alliance of Unitarian church will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. George R. Gebauer, 1209 East Third street. An invitation is extended to all members of the alliance and their friends.

Cassalman-Connor.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Mary Elizabeth Cassalman of Calumet, Mich., and Dr. Frank H. Connor of this city. The wedding will take place in the fall.

Norwegian Program.

A Norwegian national program was given last evening after the regular business meeting of Duluth council No. 3, Modern Samaritans. The program was in charge of John A. Johnson and Elmer Oss and consisted of a reading by Miss Helen Olson, a song by Elmer Oss and a short talk on the history of Norway by A. G. McKnight. Next Monday evening the council will give a dance with W. T. Atherton as chairman of the committee in charge.

Oreckovsky-Finkelstein.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Oreckovsky of 5½ East Fifth street have announced the engagement of their daughter, Eva, to Charles A. Finkelstein.

Junior Class Entertainment.

The Junior class of Irving school will give a musical and literary program Tuesday evening, May 26. A short sketch, "The Confederates," will be presented by Miss Emmeline Brett and Leo Deutch and there will be stereopticon views of Mexico. The proceeds of the entertainment will be used for the printing of the school book, "The Oracle."

Personal Mention.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Washburn and Miss Hope Washburn of 101 Oxford street returned Sunday from their winter home at Tryon, N. C.

Mrs. Alice Warren and her son, Carrol Warren, have moved from the St. Regis apartments to 5416 East Superior street.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Barnes, 3407 West Third street, have as their guests Mr. Barnes' brother, W. H. Barnes and little daughter, Jennie of Chicago.

* * *

Mrs. Emil Johnson and children have returned home after a week's visit with Mrs. Johnson's mother and relatives in Virginia.

Scandinavian Salvationists Meet.

Tonight at 8 o'clock at 210 Twentieth avenue north, there will be an officers' demonstration. A number of officers from Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, Iowa and Colorado will take part. Lieut.-Col. B. Nelson, the provincial officer, will have charge.

NEWS FROM BIRDLAND

Martins Are Back, Looking for Homes—Fly Catchers Also Arrive—Phoebes and Wrens Having Merry War.

The martins are back.

Flocks of these birds have been seen in the suburbs for several days, but yesterday they appeared in the city, and a large colony sought their old quarters at the Lake Avenue mission. A birdhouse was erected there last year for them, but it was torn down by workmen repairing the roof of the building. This morning two local bird lovers began rebuilding it.

Duluthians who have prepared martin houses and have postponed putting them up for fear the sparrows would occupy them, may now set them out. The martins will occupy artificial homes more readily than any other bird, unless it be the wrens. They like to live in colonies. S. George Stevens says he has had martins take possession of a box held in his hand.

The vexed fly catcher also made its appearance yesterday. The fly catchers are about the last of the migratory birds to come North.

The wrens have been here for some time, and they are very busy with their nesting preparations.

Phoebes, most common of the fly-catcher family, are more numerous in Duluth this year than they ever have been before. They are deadly enemies of the wrens, and many spirited fights are taking place for possession of houses. The phoebes, however, being larger than the wrens, cannot enter a properly constructed wren house, and the saucy little brown birds are left in peace when they are lucky enough to find a little wooden box with a hole about the size of a quarter, set up by some Duluth bird lover.

Song birds have never been so numerous in Duluth as they are this year, naturalists say. Duluth has a large and growing colony of bird lovers, and this spring a surprisingly large number of citizens have taken steps to attract birds to their homes, by building birdhouses, and putting out food and water for the little songsters. House owners appreciate how much the birds add to the attractiveness of their homes, and the birds are being protected and encouraged as never before.

OBSERVATIONS

—By PEGGY PEABODY—

Women Should Take Care of Their Hands.

There is no part of the body more conspicuous than the hands, particularly a woman's hands. Some folk think they depict character and that much may be read from the formation of the bone structure and condition of the flesh and nails.

Many a woman whose nose is well powered and whose face looks as though it was kept immaculately clean, has very unshapely, grimy hands, coarse of skin and unkempt of nails and cuticle. The face may be a primary consideration, but let no one think it contributes to its beauty when the hands accompanying it show lack of care.

I was rather surprised to note while in a company of men and women that the hands of the men folk were better in appearance than those of the women. Of course I know that the toil some women perform with their hands in connection with the washtub and the paring of potatoes and onions does not argue well for rosy-tinted palms and pretty nails. None of these women, however, was familiar with the washtub or paring knife.

One aid to soft white hands is a soap that will not destroy the natural oils of the skin. This many of the delicately scented high-priced soaps will do, notwithstanding their costliness, so the choice of a soap is important. Most of the brown, ugly, withered-looking hands that I see on all sides of me would be vastly improved by an oil bath indulged in daily for two or three weeks and after that, once or twice during the week.

Usually hands that are properly washed in water containing a drop of toilet ammonia, then lathered with soap, scrubbed with a good brush, and finally properly rinsed and dried, and each day treated to an oil bath will respond quickly and soon become most attractive.

A little attention will work the wonders that the hands of many women sorely need. Simple treatment regularly applied is all that is needed, so don't make the mistake of ignoring them. They tell their tale very quickly.

AMERICAN GIRL WEDS ROYALTY

JOSEPHINE BROWN
(Mrs. John Feuerheerd.)

Josephine Brown, an American actress, has married a member of the royal family of Portugal and if the monarchy ever returns she may just possibly be a big figure at the court of Lisbon. She married John Feuerheerd, grandson and heir of Duke Perdinand of Portugal. Feuerheerd became a British subject when the monarchy was overthrown but he would return to Lisbon if it was restored. Miss Brown was reported at one time engaged to marry William Gillette. She went from New York to London where she married Robert Lledwell, an Irishman. She was divorced from him.

The Baldwin Players are meeting with well-deserved success at the Lyceum theater, where they are presenting in a masterful manner the great drama of New York society, "The Spendthrift." Matinees will be given tomorrow and Saturday.

Commencing next Sunday matinee, they will present for the second week of their summer engagement "Alias Jimmy Valentine."

If disclosing your identity to a detective who was on your trail meant the saving of a child's life—what would you do? And again—after you had done the right thing what would the detective do?

These are two big questions that arise in the course of "Alias Jimmy Valentine," the famous Armstrong thief play which is founded on O. Henry's "A Retrieved Reformation." It's the story of a young bank burglar, his pardon and reformation, and makes a charming and thrilling play.

Some power of the primitive throbs in every real man, responsive to the call of contest, a natural fact that accounts for the perpetual popularity of combat. While wrestling bouts, boxing matches and prize fights have found this way on films, they retire to the shadow in face of a real fight that marks one of the big, fierce and vital chapters of "The Spoilers," now at the Orpheum. While Roy Glenister is a strenuous person, he curbs his disposition to openly meet and overthrow the nagging, scheming McNamara—the imminent cause of ruin—until the psychological moment. Disregarding all restrtaint that has kept him from laying hands upon his enemy, he declares he will break him with his hands, and discarding his revolver, scorning to fight an unarmed man, he avers the clinch with savage joy. While scientific boxing, or wrestling, according to the rules, is not here exemplified these two strong men put up a fiercer and stronger fight than has ever been caught upon the flying film. None of the so-called "holds" are barred, and many are used advantageously as the men strain and struggle, break and clinch, and put in smashing blows whenever they are fighting free. While there is lots of science in the art of defense and aggression, this is a smashing, rough and tumble conflict in which youth and agility finally wears down coolness and science by the gameness and fierceness of its onslaught. The slow, steady lead that finally delivers the sinewy McNamara into the steel coil of the "hammerlock" does break him in reality. Every move of this big battle is recorded with a fidelity and realism that is thrillingly wonderful.

Vaudeville opened at the Empress again yesterday, to continue until Thursday.

The new bill is varied, and contains several interesting and entertaining acts.

"The Great Gerard" and his company headline the bill in a juggling turn, consisting of comedy juggling and the handling of heavy weights and cannon balls. The ordinary juggling act does not arouse much interest among vaudeville patrons these days, but Gerard and his company have an act that is new enough and sensational enough to win gratifying recognition from the Empress audiences.

The Greys present the unusual singing act of a male soprano and female baritone. Their voices blend well, and their range of songs includes bits of opera, ballads and the popular "syncopated" stuff. Billy Davis, the colored comedian, has a line of patter that gets him more than a "laugh a minute," interspersed with a song or two of the same gloom-dispelling type.

An animal trick of the "different" kind is found in Swain's cats and rats, which consort together peacefully and go through their various stunts without any display of ancient enmity. Two feature films, a comedy sketch, "His Crime," and the feature film, "Her Fighting Chance," completed the bill, with music by the Empress concert orchestra.

"Believe Me" in which Billy Clifford will appear at the Empress theater for four days, starting with the matinee performance Thursday, May 21, is said to attract two widely different classes of playgoers; those who like the swing of a perfectly trained chorus and those who delight in the qualities of Clifford's portrayal of the witty and always ready comedian.

FARM MORTGAGE MEN OF IOWA IN SESSION.

Des Moines, May 19.—Iowa farm mortgage dealers were in session here today to perfect a permanent state organization. Congressman Ralph W. Moss of Center Point, Ind., was announced as the principal speaker, his subject being "A Proposed System of Mortgage Banks Under Federal Supervision and Control." Mr. Moss expected to detail plans for rural credits. Henry Wallace of Des Moines will address the convention on "Present and Future Values of Farm Lands in the Middle West."

Child Fatally Scalded.

Petersburg, N. D., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Clifford Bales, aged 3 years, was scalded to death at the family home here when, in a childish prank, he sat into a pail of boiling water.

CHEER UP, COLONEL!

Under the caption "Is Self-Government a Failure?" Colonel Henry Watterson laments to the extent of a column and a half in the Louisville Courier-Journal. In a spirit of pessimism that appears to be caused primarily by some local condition that is merely hinted at, he comes almighty close to condemning popular government as a dismal failure.

"Really," he asks, "does the goose swing high everywhere? Is everything lovely anywhere? We fear not. The ideal seems, if not out of sight, still far, far away. Since 'Adam dolve and Eve span,' and the patriarchs ruled the tribes of Israel, the millennium, like the rainbow, has eluded the grasp of the visionary. * * * The pendulum has swung all the way from absolute despotism to pure democracy. The result of each experiment is writ, sometimes large and sometimes small, but in spite of many attempts at mystification sufficiently legible, as a rule, to be understood, upon the human document we call history. In every instance where 'finis' has been chiseled at the top of the gravestone, 'failure' appears at the bottom.

"The Anglo-Saxons piqued themselves upon having varied the monotony of failure. After all, have they much to boast of? * * * It was left for the Colonials of the American Revolution to hit the trail and, led by Washington, to set the pace and learn what freedom is. Yet, now that we have it, and have feasted and fattened on it almost a century and a half, can we claim that it achieves more than partial good, that it meets other than relatively the ends aimed at by the authors of our Constitution and defined by our Declaration of Independence as the right of all men to equality before the law in the everlasting pursuit of life, liberty and happiness?"

Getting down to the concrete, "murder alternates with corruption" in Colorado, though the women there "have been voting for twenty-one years as imbecile as babes;" in New York "a government can be upset by a ring;" "graft, which erst was but a fine art, is at length a science. It has become an exact science. In every state capital there exists an invisible clique set for plunder." Etc., etc.

Aw, come on, Colonel!

Cheer up! Have patience! Rome was not built in a day. The millennium is not to be reached in a stride, or achieved with a breath. No man can read history, or study the signs of the times,—if his digestion be good and his spirits clear and free from taint of pathologic melancholy,—without finding there a splendid word that shines afar and lights men's souls to glory: PROGRESS!

We know not how it may be at Frankfort, but in our own state there never was a time when the more sordid forms of graft were less rife than they are today. True, the state is ridden by a cunning organization—half political, half a shrewd adjunct of greedy business,—but that is a passing phase, and the System in Minnesota works more by deluding the voters than by corruption. It is getting mighty careful about its pickings, and its day is about ended. It has fooled a good many of the people for quite a time, it has fooled some of the people not at all, and it is fooling fewer people every day.

In congress, there never has been a time in the history of the nation when the powers of Graft were so thoroughly hunted out and destroyed; never a time in history when legislation was less trammeled by the interfering finger of insolent Special Privilege.

In the nation, there never was a time when the people were so wide awake, so vigilant, so intelligent.

Self-government, Colonel, is neither a failure nor a three-day cure.

It has not achieved the millennium, and we do not look to see the millennium achieved for quite some time to come. Indeed, viewing it as a day when all is achieved, and therefore when all is ended, we have no desire to have it come upon us today or tomorrow; though following man's destiny we all must labor our prettiest to promote its coming.

The road drops into dark valleys here and there, but always, inevitably, it mounts upward and ever upward. There is a star of hope shining clearly on the heights, and man's aspiring soul looks to that star, and still climbs upward. He may stumble, he may fall; but he rises again, and still finds the road winding upward and ever upward.

Pity the soul which, misconceiving one of those dark valleys to be the end, wanders away from the road and goes wailing off into the outer darkness of despair, where there is no road, no faith, no hope.

Keep to the road, Colonel, and be joyful!

Another friend in need is the wheelbarrow, but the blamed thing can act most mighty cussed and ornery on occasion.

BUILD A HIGHWAY TO THE STEEL PLANT!

It is of the highest importance that a suitable highway from West Duluth to the steel plant site shall be completed at the earliest possible moment.

There can be no street railway line to the plant until this is done, nor even a decent wagon road.

The project is hung up now by a dispute over whether the road is to go under the Northern Pacific track at Gogebic street or at Commonwealth avenue.

The city authorities appear to prefer the Gogebic street crossing. All West Duluth, which is most familiar with the situation, seems to prefer the Commonwealth avenue crossing.

The important thing is to get the roadway. The crossing question is important, too, but it ought not to be so difficult as it seems. At any rate, it ought to be decided soon, very soon indeed, and the road connected up and completed.

Without professing any expert knowledge of the issues involved, The Herald is strongly inclined to agree with the West Duluth folks who believe that the proper place for the crossing is at Commonwealth avenue.

About the only objection to this crossing, so far as we have heard, is that such a cut will be necessary to get under the tracks that property adjoining will be damaged. On the other hand, there is a depression further along Commonwealth avenue that must be filled, and the dirt excavated can easily be moved down to make this necessary fill—which has to be made anyway. Realty values there are not great, and damage costs ought not to be heavy.

The alternative plan is to leave the present highway in Grand avenue just this side of Gogebic street, to cut under the tracks at that street, and to condemn a right of way paralleling the tracks for a considerable distance to Commonwealth avenue, with the fill in that avenue still to be made.

The Gogebic street plan involves building an entirely new roadway for a considerable distance, while the Grand avenue highway will still have to be maintained. Balanced against the expense of paying damages to property-owners at Commonwealth avenue, one of whom is the city itself, would be the expense of condemning a new right of way, of building a new roadway, of maintaining Grand avenue, and of making the fill on Commonwealth avenue without the help of the excavation under the tracks where they cross Commonwealth avenue. This is not to speak of the delay involved in arranging a new right of way.

It is easy to understand, in view of these apparent facts, why the West Duluth people are emphatically in favor of the Commonwealth avenue crossing and against the Gogebic street crossing. It is not so easy to see why the city authorities insist on Gogebic street instead of Commonwealth avenue.

This dispute stands in the way of a proper highway to the steel plant, and there can be no street car extension until such a highway is built.

It ought to be settled, and settled rightly, and settled right away.

Uncle Sam says foods and drugs, instead of being just labeled "guaranteed under the foods and drugs act," must actually be so guaranteed. Which furnishes another opening for complaint by the down-trodden vested interests.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

3.—The Reclamation Revolving Fund.

This amendment is of vital consequence to Northern Minnesota, and it will be of enormous benefit to the whole state. It will be a great help toward state development, and it will be a direct source of financial profit to the state.

The proposal is to set aside out of the permanent funds of the state a revolving fund of $250,000 to be used "in constructing roads, ditches and firebreaks in, through and around unsold school and swamp lands."

For lack of such roads and firebreaks, the state's timber possessions are constantly menaced by fire, and its landed possessions are kept off the market because of their inaccessibility.

If this amendment is adopted, the state will have a fund with which to build roads and firebreaks in, around and through unsold state school and swamp land, thus opening up the country and at the same time increasing protection against forest fires.

Unfortunately this amendment makes no provision for clearing stump-covered land, but so far as it goes it is of incalculable value, not only in itself but as a precedent that will lead to broader reclamation and development projects.

As Southern Minnesota is not directly concerned in this proposal, a great deal of work will have to be done to awaken the amount of public interest needed to ratify the amendment. Northern Minnesota can do a great deal if every voter takes care to vote "yes" in this proposition; but it will be necessary also to tell Southern Minnesota what it means to the whole state.

This amendment should by all means be adopted, and no labor should be spared to that end.

Mexico's foreign trade fell off more than twenty-four million dollars in the last six months of 1913. At this distance it would hardly seem as if Mexico was getting her money's worth out of the war down there.

HUERTA WILL RESIGN.

The news that the Huerta delegates to the peace conference carry authority to submit Huerta's resignation if it is necessary to straighten things out is interesting, encouraging, and more or less important.

But it doesn't clear up the situation anywhere near so much as you might think.

Huerta has been given much prominence, but he is an incident. Personally, for all his cruelty and malignity and stubborn and stiffnecked persistence, he is a trifle.

The issue in Mexico is the land. Two hundred families own it, and millions are landless. There never can be peace and settled conditions in these circumstances, and there never should be.

The Constitutionalists, led by Carranza and Villa, seek the solution of the land question. As they go—and they are going rapidly—they are dividing up the land among their followers. It is something like the "forty acres and a mule" which the Southern darkey expected to follow the Civil War.

Victory is almost within the grasp of the Constitutionalists. Opposition to them, though stubborn, has so far been uniformly futile. Their capture of Tampico was the most significant chapter yet. It opens to them a port through which they can buy arms. It gives them a starting point for San Luis Potosi—and Mexico City. Villa has shown himself to be a real military genius. The magic of success gives his forces great momentum daily. It is only a question of time, and no such long time either, until all Mexico will be in the power of the Constitutionalists.

Suppose Huerta does resign. His representatives intimate that his resignation is contingent upon the character of the government that succeeds his. This means that they will want a government that will stand pat on the land question—the kind of government Carranza and Villa are fighting victoriously to destroy.

On the other hand, President Wilson has told our representatives that settlement must include not only the elimination of Huerta, but a settled condition of peace, with the guaranty of a free election and the settlement of the land question.

If Huerta is to resign merely to make place for another defender of the old regime, Villa, Carranza and this country can thank him for nothing.

The Constitutionalists will have something to say about the kind of government that replaces Huerta's, and if the delegates at Niagara Falls deliberate long enough, they will say it; and that will mean not only the elimination of Huerta, but of Huertaism, Diazism and the landed families.

After all, the simplest way seems to be to fiddle along at Niagara Falls and let Villa cut the Gordian knot.

Huerta is only human after all. He prefers elimination by the A. B. C. mediators rather than extermination by Villa.

In Case of Drowning.

New York Telegram: Al Strassman and Al Brandt met at the New Amsterdam theater the other day for the first time since they were marooned by floods together in Los Angeles some weeks ago. They took a few minutes off to talk over "old times." Among their reminiscences was a story of their trip to Venice, near Los Angeles.

Finding they couldn't move their shows they went to Venice for a day's pleasure. There, on the beach, one hundred feet from the water, they saw some poles. On each pole was a bell, a horn, a flag and a sign. The latter read:

"In case of drowning ring the bell, blow the whistle and raise the flag."

The two Als both said they were positive that if a drowning man followed the instructions he'd be saved.

The Associated Press

Editorial in the Kansas City Star.

The Associated Press, whose methods have been under discussion at the newspaper conference at Lawrence, is a cooperative organization of several hundred newspapers. These newspapers have organized for the purpose of exchanging news. So far as possible they exchange news which they themselves have gathered. News which cannot be satisfactorily handled in this way they employ special correspondents to collect.

Dispatches to The Star, for instance, from within a specified territory, as well as this newspaper's local news, are available to be sent to other newspapers in the association from the Kansas City office of the Associated Press. But in addition the Associated Press has its own reporters who may be sent out on special assignments. For an event like the Omaha tornado the Associated Press hurriers reporters from other cities to help handle the news. It has a large staff at Washington and its own men, of course, are at the seat of military operations in Mexico.

It has correspondents in every important foreign capital, and in addition it has arrangements for an exchange of service with the great foreign news agencies. In this way the news of the entire world is brought to every member of this organization.

As has been said, the Associated Press is a purely co-operative agency. It does not sell news. It has no income and pays no dividends. Its members pay a weekly assessment to cover the cost of telegraph tolls and of management. A general manager is employed at a salary commensurate with his great abilities. He is in general charge of the organization.

There are no "owners" to make money out of the news service. The news is supplied to members at cost. In no other way would it be possible to supply the people of the United States with the complete news of the world at anything like so low an expense. The Associated Press is one of the world's great examples of co-operative organization.

Its members are of all political parties, and its officers necessarily make every effort to supply news that is as nearly non-partisan as possible. If they failed, there would be immediate objection from newspapers of the slighted party. There are many difficulties in the way of supplying non-partisan news. For instance, when Taft and Roosevelt were campaigning in New Jersey two years ago, the Associated Press correspondents with them had orders to file dispatches of about identical length. They did their best. But there was little Taft news to send, while the Roosevelt news was superabundant. When the campaign was over it was discovered that twice as many words had been sent out about the Roosevelt campaign as about the Taft campaign.

Even greater difficulties are involved in the reporting of serious labor troubles, like the Colorado miners' strike. The most conflicting accounts are given by the leaders of the two sides, and if the trouble is one of importance it often takes a congressional inquiry to discover the facts. There is no question that the men in charge of the news service try to send out accurate reports. But the difficulties are so great that it is not surprising that the reports sometimes fail in adequacy.

The Star, for instance, has received a statement from the Denver Chamber of Commerce, denying some of the reports sent out from Denver about the conduct of the militia in the warfare in the Colorado coal fields. Doubtless the strikers, too, feel that their side has not been fairly presented. It is one of the penalties of human nature that it is fallible. Meanwhile the reporters, with astonishly few exceptions, do their best honestly to report the news.

Such discussions of the news service as that at Lawrence are to be welcomed, for they help give the public a better idea of the problems of news gathering and of the way in which American newspapers are meeting them. It may safely be said that they are meeting them more efficiently and more adequately than the newspapers of any other country in the world.

What people generally do not understand is that the real beneficiaries of this remarkable co-operative news service are not the newspapers. The real beneficiaries are the people—the newspaper readers—who get the most extensive news service in the world at the lowest cost. Under no other system could this be accomplished.

How Women Forced a Governor's Hand

New York Sun: The Woman's Journal asserts that, so far as it is aware, "the news of the women's part in calling Federal aid to the state of Colorado has not been published in any paper east of Denver." That a number of Denver women interested themselves to end the civil war that existed in the coal fields was generally reported, but the details of their activities were not given. What they did is described by the Woman's Journal thus:

They issued a call in the name of the womanhood of their state for a meeting at the capitol. One thousand of them, with the eyes of the slaughtered in their ears and aghast at the horror of ruthless state murder of their fellow citizens, marched to the capitol and demanded an audience with the governor. He refused to see them. They stood firm and repeated their demand. The governor hesitated; he did not want to see them; but they were voters; besides, there was something awe inspiring in their spirit and numbers; they meant business. The governor reluctantly admitted them.

This is one of the few sensible acts by the governor that has been reported hereabout. The women "demanded that he appeal to President Wilson for Federal aid." The governor feared the appeal might be fruitless. He was asked to send a telegram to find out. At first he refused, but at length he gave in, and the women stayed until they saw the message filed. The answer was sent, with the result known to the whole country.

Most of the women composing this delegation were on duty from 10 o'clock in the morning until 4 o'clock in the afternoon. At 6 o'clock 150 were still at the governor's office, where they remained until 10 o'clock, having forced the executive to appeal for Federal intervention. Then they went home, having carried out their project exactly as they planned.

We hope these determined women, who did a necessary job so thoroughly and well, will now see to it that the administration of their state does not fall into laxity and inefficiency again. They have shown that they can compel action in a crisis; let them now take counsel to prevent such a crisis from again arising.

A Limit to Her Patience.

Chicago News: An angry mother had her little son by the hand and held a menacing cane.

"I'll teach you to tie a kettle to the cat's tail!" said the mother.

"It wasn't our cat," said the boy.

"No, it wasn't, but it was our kettle," said the mother.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—When Representative Walter M. Chandler of New York was traveling over Europe as a young man seeking education and adventure, he dropped in one day to have a look at the catacombs of Rome.

Now the catacombs do not comprise a sprightly place, even under the most favorable circumstances, and between the dim light and the droning voice of his guide, who pointed out the final resting places of people once prominent in Roman society, Chandler soon saw all of the catacombs that he cared for. Just when the place was getting thoroughly on his nerves, Chandler came face to face with what seemed to be the reincarnation of a college professor he had known at the University of Texas. Chandler was not expecting to see anybody from so far away in the Roman catacombs, and neither was the professor. Each therefore leaped to the same conclusion, to-wit: That he was looking into the face of somebody who had just risen from the dead. The flickering lamps borne by the guides gave a death-like pallor to the faces that helped to confirm this notion.

So Chandler and the Texas professor gave one scream apiece and fainted.

Senor Don Eduardo Suarez-Mujica, minister from Chile to the United States, and one of the mediators of the Mexican trouble, has a quiet sense of humor. He derives a great deal of amusement out of the ignorance of supposedly intelligent persons in the United States in regard to Chile and other Latin-American countries.

Not long ago a certain United States senator met Senor Suarez at a social gathering and by way of small talk asked him:

"Are there many white people living down in Chile?"

"Do you ask," came back the Chilean, "because they are scarce in your state?"

"Why, my dear sir," explained the senator in astonishment, "I come from a northern state and our people are practically all white."

"It's the same way with us," smiled the minister; "our people are nearly all white."

"But," persisted the senator, "I thought that in South America there were a great many colored people."

"There are a good many in some parts, just as there are a good many in some parts of this country," replied Senor Suarez. "Yet you still regard North Americans as a white race, do you not?"

The senator shifted the talk to the weather and walked away perplexedly scratching his thigh.

Senor Suarez-Mujica is noted in Washington for the possession of the most elaborate set of whiskers in diplomatic circles. They are dark, fan-shaped whiskers that trail over his chest somewhat like the half-spread feathers of a peacock over the ground. An almost identically similar whiskatorial outfit belonged to a former Greek minister and this caused the two diplomats to look so much alike that they were frequently confused. But Senor Suarez-Mujica now has the field all to himself.

When Miss Jessie Wilson was about to become the first White House bride under the present administration, James Martine, being the senior senator from New Jersey, circulated urbanely among his senatorial associates to raise a fund for a nice little gift from the senate to the bride. The gift was bought and that was the end of that incident. Time went on and Miss Eleanor Wilson became the second White House bride of the administration. Once again Senator Martine went among his associates to gather a little money for a suitable bridal present.

"Hasn't been long since you were around on a similar mission," laughed one senator as he gladly contributed.

"Yes," admitted Martine, "I'm getting so I feel like a deacon."

A group of men were talking about funny sights they had seen and then the topic shifted to funny possibilities—in other words, what would be the funniest sight one could imagine? Whereupon Morton Milford of the Indianapolis News spoke up and said he couldn't think of anything that would look quite so funny as the huge Ollie James standing in the aisle of a street car, trying to force a vast thumb and forefinger into a small coin purse after a 10-cent piece.

One of Representative Halvor Steenerson's constituents wrote in from Minnesota the other day to be set straight on an important matter that he did not quite understand.

"I've been reading about this woman's suffrage for two or three years now," his letter said, "and the trouble seems to be growing so that I've got to wondering what it is that they're suffering FROM. Are they suffering from some new kind of a contagious disease, or what is it?"

Patten, the Chicago man who undertook to corner wheat a few years ago, was in Washington recently. He appears to wear machine-made clothes and hand-made shoes and does not look the part of a wheat king. One would take him more readily for a feed store proprietor in a small town.

Sleep.

Kansas City Star: The science and poetry of sleep are here:

Sleep, begins in its first phase by a state of distraction. * * * Immediately afterwards, in a second phase, these states of distraction pass into a very delicate motor disturbance, due to the absence of parallelism in the axes of the eyes, or by the deviation of their conjugate movements.

Sleep hath its own world,
A boundary between the things misnamed
Death and existence: Sleep hath its own world,
And a wide realm of wild reality,
And dreams in their development have breath,
And tears and tortures and the touch of joy.

And Shakespeare's "Sleep that knits up the ravell'd sleave of care." And a host of others—that you can get glimpse of in the anthologies.

As between science and poetry, which gives you the truer idea of sleep?

Standing by the Butcher.

London Opinion: "How is it," inquired the young bride of an older married friend, "that you always manage to have such delicious beef?"

"It's very simple," said the older woman, "I first select a good, honest butcher and then I stand by him."

"You mean that you give him all of your trade."

"No; I mean that I stand by him while he is cutting the meat."

Keep Your Seat, William.

Grand Rapids Press: "Indeed," the speaker went on, "I believe that nine women out of ten propose. As a test, I would ask all married men in the audience whose wives virtually popped the question to them to rise."

There was a subdued rustle in the auditorium, and in the dense silence that ensued could be heard sibilant feminine whispers in concert, "Just you dare stand up!"

The State Press on the Republican Split.

Points About Eberhart.

Long Prairie Leader: The points for the people of the state to consider are:

1—That Mr. Eberhart has been in charge of the state government for nearly six years.

2—That the conditions resulting in inefficiency of administration have existed all that time.

3—That they have been permitted to develop.

4—That Governor Eberhart has done nothing effective to remedy matters.

5—That as late as two years ago he denied publicly that there was anything to remedy.

6—That finally recognizing the necessity for action, he was obliged to appoint a commission of thirty men to study the government he had been in charge of for six years and to tell him what the trouble is.

Do we need much more evidence that the governor is not a business man and as we contemplate the rising tide of taxes do we need any further assurance that what the state needs is a good business man at the head of the government?

The Natural Thought.

Albert Lea Tribune: As one reads over the platform the first thought which naturally comes to mind is that if the governor had been standing "emphatically" for these things during the past several years he has occupied the office of governor he would not today have been making such a desperate endeavor to get the ear of the public to impress upon the people what he is going to stand for during the next two years, supposing, of course, that he can again fool them into continuing him in power.

Possibly They Think They Are.

Princeton Union: The literature sent out from the governor's headquarters at the state capitol would lead one to believe that the taxpayers of Todd, Fillmore, Lac Qui Parle and Mille Lacs counties are heavily indebted to the governor and his private secretary and that they are the state.

Where to Look for Emancipation.

St. Peter Herald: No particular enthusiasm was aroused by Candidate Lee's keynote speech at Owatonna. Minnesota must look to Hammond for its political emancipation.

With Good Reason.

Sunbeam Sunbeam: By the time Lee and Eberhart get through roasting each other, from now until the June primaries, the people will come to the conclusion that neither one of them is a fit man for governor of Minnesota.

A Slippery Platform.

Browns Valley Tribune: Which is the paramount issue of Guvner Adolph, we should like to know—"Consolidation of Rural Schools" or "Hog Cholera?" Maybe he will "eliminate" both and fall back on "State Control of Public Utilities." He must do something mighty quick, as he has discovered that "My Record" is too slippery a platform on which to "stood" very long.

Figures It Out.

Northfield News: This year 1,000 men, representing a constituency of over 100,000 voters paid their expenses to Minneapolis and decided they wanted William E. Lee as their standard bearer. To insure an unbroken and successful opposition to the "machine" and Chauffeur Smith, all of the candidates agreed to abide by the choice of the conference.

The net result of the situation will be something like this:

101,665 — 62,402 = William E. Lee.

Quilp's House Gone.

Indianapolis News: Another Dickens landmark has disappeared from London, the house of Daniel Quilp—who is no means the least interesting character in "Old Curiosity Shop." This house, a narrow building of three stories and a basement, stood at 2 Tower Hill, and was probably more than 200 years old. The proprietress believes she possesses the original cupboard wherein this hard-featured, satanic dwarf stored his Jamaica rum; and also some other fine pieces of old furniture, for she doubtless believes that Quilp was not altogether a creature of fiction. It was to this house that Quilp returned after it was supposed, because of an unusual absence, that he was dead. He slipped behind a bedroom door and listened to the conversation that ensued among his wife, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Jiniwin, and Sampson Brass, the lawyer. This is, perhaps, the most grotesquely humorous incident in all of Dickens' novels. Brass is writing, aided by the suggestions of the women, an advertisement of the missing Quilp.

"This is an occupation," said the lawyer, laying down his pen and emptying his glass, "which seems to bring him before my eyes like the ghost of Hamlet's father, in the very clothes he wore on work-a-days. His coat, his waistcoat, his shoes and stockings, his trousers, his hat, his wit and humor, his pathos and his umbrella—all come before me like visions of my youth. * * *"

"You had better go on, sir," said Mrs. Jiniwin, impatiently.

"True, ma'am, true," said Mr. Brass. "Our faculties must not freeze with grief. I'll trouble you for a little more of that, ma'am. A question now arises with relation to his nose."

"Flat," said Mrs. Jiniwin.

"Aquiline," cried Quilp, thrusting in his head and striking the feature with his fist. "Aquiline, you hag. Do you see it? Do you call this flat? Do you, eh?"

"Oh, capital, capital," shouted Brass, from the mere force of habit. "Excellent! How very good he is. He's a most remarkable man, so extremely whimsical! Such an amazing power of taking people by surprise."

Quilp, in ushering out the men who had brought the news of their unavailing search for him, said, holding the door open with great politeness: "Have you been dragging the river all day, gentlemen?"

"And yesterday, too, master."

"Dear me! You've had a deal of trouble. Pray consider everything yours that you find upon the—upon the body. Good night!"

Perhaps no finer example of grim, sarcastic humor can be found in the language.

The Steel Trust Prayer.

Waterbury American: Many employe-stockholders attend the annual meetings of United States steel. At the last annual meeting one of their number, Samuel R. Maitland, who works at Homestead, asked the meeting to join in prayer for the company, its officers and its employés. Mr. Maitland's prayer has just been published as follows:

Our God, we thank thee for these officials and these good men who have taken such an interest in the welfare of humanity, and rejoice in our hearts for the blessed privilege of looking up to thee in thankfulness for it. And we would pray for the man who works and all who keep us together as one great family and organization. In thy name we ask it. Amen.

The Lost Hour.

She kept Tom Gibbs in after school
When all the world was fair,
Because he broke some simple rule;
She did not seem to care
How much he suffered when he heard
Us going out to play,
While he sat there and never stirred
Because he had to stay.
He looked at his geography,
But could not read a word;
She did not know he could not see
Because his eyes were blurred;
And when he heard the shouts and cries
As we went through the gates,
A great big tear fell from his eyes
On the United States.
And then he ciphered on his slate
In hopes he might forget
The world, and think of eight times eight;
But just when he would get
The answers down, he'd hear us call
"One strike!" outside, at play,
And then another tear would fall,
And wash his sums away.
He looked into his history
Awhile, and watched the clock.
He read from ancient times till he
Was clear to Plymouth Rock;
And he read on and never stopped
His studying until
He heard us cry outside, and dropped
A tear at Bunker Hill.
And after that she let him go,
In sorrow to the brim.
'Twas strange she did not seem to know
She took an hour from him;
And even with the mighty power
A teacher has to rule,
She cannot give him back the hour
That she took after school.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

CHECKING HIM UP.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Two or three months ago you published in your paper an article in regard to a change that was anticipated by the water and light department in connection with installation of water and gas; that is, where lots were owned back some distance from the water main, connection could be obtained and not the whole expense be borne by one or two parties, but prorated against the entire property benefited. I understand this is in the hands of Mr. Rittenhouse for advisement, and has been ever since the subject came up before a meeting of the commissioners, but nothing whatever has been done in regard to pushing the matter along. There are a great many awaiting Mr. Rittenhouse's action—as to buying property and erecting buildings, and would be greatly obliged if you could state whether anything has been done in connection with same, as it means much to people who own a lot or two some distance from the water main and cannot ask for connection as the lots between are owned by some large real estate concern who are holding for high prices, and do not intend to aid in any improvements unless compelled to. I should think Mr. Rittenhouse has had ample time to submit his report and am sure many would be very glad to hear from him.

Thanking you kindly for your space, I am AN INQUIRER.

Duluth, May 15.

City Attorney Harvey S. Clapp has the ordinance ready for presentation to the city council. It provides for spreading the 8 per cent guarantee over all property in front of which water or gas mains are laid on the front foot basis, whether lots are improved or not. The payment of the guarantee is no longer necessary when the water bills are sufficient to cover them. The ordinance provides that the guarantee payments shall terminate at the end of fifteen years. —The Editor.

COMES TO THE DEFENSE OF MEXICO.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In today's News Tribune I notice the editor takes another gratuitous fling at the Republic of Mexico; he, of course, could not refrain from doing so as he probably never reads any but a one-sided history of that unfortunate country; I am not a Mexican but Mexico is too good a country to let these unwarranted statements go by without being challenged. Did the Tribune editor ever read "The Republic of Mexico," written by Antonio Garcas Cubos in 1876, transulated into English by Geo. E. Henderson and published in Mexico City, (where people are so illiterate) "save the mark," at the "Les Esenenanza" office? In regard to education did the editor know in 1876, it consisted of a primary instruction, reading, writing, Spanish grammar, morality and good manners, (the last two things were never in the American school system) and moreover in the girls department needlework and other useful domestic science. In some states geography, national history and drawing were obligatory; while in the schools not supported by the government algebra and geometry, elements of general history, ornamental and lineal drawing and the French language were taught.

The number of primary schools in the whole republic now reaches 8,803 instead of 5,000 that existed in 1870. Of the number referred to according to the work of Senor Diaz Covarrubias, 603 are supported by the state government, 5,240 by municipalities, 378 by private corporations, 117 by the Catholic clergy, besides 1,581 by private establishments and 184 not classified. These schools are attended by 350,000 scholars of both sexes. Secondary instruction, as well as professional education, is under the charge of the state, subject to the programs established by law, which prescribes the liberty of education and profession. In the Republic of Mexico there are 105 establishments of secondary and professional instructions in the following form: One special preparatory school in the city of Mexico, nineteen civil schools of jurisprudence, twenty schools of medicine and pharmacy, ten schools for engineers, two naval schools, three commercial schools, three academies of art and sciences, two agricultural schools, two academies of fine arts, two conservatories of music and declamation, one military college, twenty-four seminaries supported by the Catholic clergy, one school for the blind, one school for the deaf, fourteen secondary schools for girls, total number of such institutions 105, with an attendance of 14,809 pupils. Much more might be said on education in Mexico, but space forbids.

This school record does not show badly for a country that has been torn with revolution ever since Father Miguel Hidalgo with his army of 20,000 soldiers, started the war of independence from Spain in 1810. Father Hidalgo is called the "George Washington" of Mexico, he having started the revolution that threw off the yoke of Spain and the Liberty Bell of Mexico may be seen hanging over the main entrance of the hall of ambassadors in Mexico City. It is uncharitable for us Americans to make gross accusations against our southern sister countries unless we state fully both sides of the controversy. Mexico is not only the land of revolution, but is also the land of flowers and sunshine. As there are no Mexicans in Duluth, I volunteer to take up the cudgel in their behalf against any one who attempts to calumniate them when they are absent and not in a position to defend themselves.

Yours truly,
JOHN SWANSON.

RAILROADS LOSE MAIL PAY CLAIMS

Court Reverses Itself and Saves the Government $31,000,000.

Washington, May 19.—Claims of mail carrying railroads against the United States aggregating $31,000,000 and involving 720 railroads, are denied in a test case decided by the court of claims. In an opinion by Chief Justice Campbell the court reversed a former ruling, and held that the present method of weighing mail to fix compensation for transportation, is legal and proper.

Prior to 1907 the postoffice department in weighing mails secured the average daily weight by weighing the mail carried for a period of 105 days and dividing the total by ninety—the number of days exclusive of Sundays. Since 1907 the department has recognized Sunday as a working day and has made the divisor 100. By this means, the railroads contended they were carrying about one-seventh of the mail without compensation.

This contention was upheld by the court of claims during the last administration, but Assistant Attorney General Funston Thompson secured a rehearing which resulted in the new decision. The original finding would have held the government liable for $31,000,000 to 720 different roads.

FORBIDS TEACHERS TO ORGANIZE UNION.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 19.—The board of education has taken drastic measures to crush the efforts of the women teachers in the grade schools of the city to form a labor union.

The board, by a vote of 4 to 3, passed a resolution declaring that membership in a labor union shall be regarded as a breach of the contract of employment with the board of education, and the equivalent of a resignation.

The fight between the board and the teachers is a result of the efforts of the teachers to obtain increase in salaries. The board refused to raise the pay, and recently 800 teachers voted to form a union and become affiliated with the Federation of Labor. The teachers are now arranging the details to form their union.

FORAKER WANTS TO RETURN TO SENATE.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 19.—Former Senator Joseph Benson Foraker has formally announced his candidacy for United States senator from Ohio on the Republican ticket. In a formal letter, Senator Foraker touched upon national issues, disagreeing with President Wilson as to his Mexican policy and opposing the repeal of the Panama canal tolls act.

A BRAVE MAN

By SAVOYARD

Washington, May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge is a brave man. I may say his audacity is sublime, and we may class him as the darling child of a warlike race. He made a speech in the senate the other day about our then belligerent attitude toward Mexico and who do you think this great statesman from Massachusetts put in it? Why, a quotation from the New England poet, who was a "Copperhead" in 1847 and wrote over the name "Hosea Biglow." Balzac would change his opinion that a rope is a sore subject to the widow of a man who has been hanged if he were in our midst and heard Lodge on Mexico when he quoted James Russell Lowell's doggerel to sustain his proposition, which is this: We must not fight Huerta unless we can join with him Carranza, Villa and the whole Mexican push. Well, there's chivalry in that. It was at Fontenoy that the household troops of the king of France advanced to the English grenadiers led by Cumberland and petitioned: "Gentlemen, will you be so good as to fire first?"

"Steady they step adown the slope, steady they mount the hill;
Steady they load, steady they fire, moving right onward still."

And Senator Lodge would not wage the war, if war there must be, against Huerta, the Czolgocz, alone, but he wants to lick all the country. Had one of his marshals acted on the idea of the Hon. Lodge, Napoleon would have had him shot.

Now, Lodge is all sorts of a statesman. In an exceedingly and an unusually patriotic address in the senate not long ago urging the repeal of that brat of privilege, the ship subsidy, the senator explained his vote against the Bard amendment by announcing that his opposition to that proposal was that it was a matter of supererogation. The Bard amendment in express terms allows the United States to do with honor what we have done with dishonor—pass our ships through the canal free of tolls. Senator Bard was seeking to amend the Hay-Pauncefote treaty and his plan was defeated.

It is true that "Fire-Alarm" Foraker had told us that he is the only living man who knows much about the treaty, and he gives us a lesson in what the late Tom Reed called "language," and to this effect, which is to say that the term "all" does not embrace the "whole." And to such miserable subterfuge, such utter contempt of common sense, are the advocates of subsidy reduced when they demand a tax levy on all the people to bestow a subsidy on a few of the people.

Now to get back to my intrepid friend, the Hon. Lodge. I do not know whether Levi Woodbury was at that time a senator in congress from the then grand little Democratic state of New Hampshire—and, by the way, she has got to be Democratic again, God bless her. Possibly Isaac Hill had been gathered to his fathers. Chronology is elusive and my memory does not go back quite so far.

But what would Senator Lodge say if a Northern senator, a New England senator, had voted against the Wilmot proviso, alleging that it was surplusage, that the law already provided for the exclusion of slavery from the territory? What would he have to say about that?

It is humiliating to me to find Southern men advocating this subsidy. It is that old Whiggery that we inherited from a former generation, that went into know-nothing Lodges and that never had a principle. I defy any man to tell me what the Whig party believed in except this—that government is a blessing.

Well, we have a lot of 'em on our hands now. Only last night I was talking with one of 'em, a senator in congress from a Southern state, and he knew about as much—certainly no more—of the true conception of our Democratic system as Nicodemus did of the second birth.

We must weed our privilege from our legislation. As a beginner, swat the ship subsidy.

URRUTIA HAS U. S. GUARD

Former Adviser of Huerta Is Threatened in Vera Cruz.

He Is Hooted, Jeered and Denounced as Murderer.

Vera Cruz, Mex., May 19.—Hooted and jeered by a small mob of Mexicans and called an assassin by one who alleged that his brother had been killed by order of the ex-minister of the interior, Dr. Aurelliano Urrutia, who held that office and was once Huerta's most trusted counsellor, was arrested for the second time yesterday afternoon since his arrival here a few hours earlier among the refugees from the capital. When in office Urrutia was one of the most rabid anti-Americans.

Dr. Urrutia had fled from Mexico City to escape the wrath of the president, and had the appearance of an ordinary laboring man when he disclosed his identity on board the American train this side of the gap. He was detained by the American officers and taken before Brig. Gen. Funston, who, however, ordered him set at liberty.

Guarded By U. S. Marine.

He was again taken into custody because of the demonstration made against him, but was released for the second time and sent to his room, where he is guarded by a marine, whose presence was requested by the fugitive in the belief that his life was in danger from his own people.

Antonio Rivero De La Torre, editor of El Dictamen, was the leader of the demonstration against the former minister. He appeared in the street beneath the window of the room occupied by Dr. Urrutia at the Diligencia hotel and began an impassioned speech. He shouted:

"Assassin! Coward!"

Then he charged that Urrutia was responsible for the execution of his brother, one of the deputies of the congress which Huerta dissaved. He cried out that Urrutia feared to walk the streets like an honest man, and challenged him to appear before the small crowd of his countrymen who had already gathered.

Threatener in Jail.

De La Torre was arrested and taken to police headquarters and a few minutes later Urrutia was also taken to police headquarters, but as there was no evidence warranting his detention, he was led back through a great crowd to the hotel. A guard was then placed outside his door. De La Torre remained incommunicado.

The ex-minister of the interior was one of the coolest men in the crowd. As he was being taken to his room, a correspondent said to him: "De La Torre accuses you of killing his brother."

"As to that," replied Dr. Urrutia, smiling, "I do not think he will be able to prove it."

TEPIC IN HANDS OF CONSTITUTIONALISTS

Boy General of Rebels and Gen. Blanco Take Town.

Juarez, Mex., May 19.—A telegram received by Constitutionalist officials from Tepic gives details of the capture of Tepic by the insurgents Saturday. The Constitutionalist troops, commanded by Gen. Luis Blanco and Gen. Rafael Buelna, were forced to fight twenty-four hours to keep the town, and they report many casualties.

Gen. Buelna is called the boy general among the Constitutionalists. He is but 23 years old.

The garrison which had not been killed, wounded or captured, fled to the south and are being pursued by the victorious Constitutionalists.

With this victory the Constitutionalists control the entire territory of Tepic and the entire line of Southern Pacific railroad from Nogales to Tepic is in their hands and has been reopened.

On May 17 the Constitutionalists cut the Federal line of communication between Colima and Manzanillo, thus shutting off the arrival of supplies at Gaumyas and Mazatlan from the supply base of Guadalajara.

The Constitutionalists declare this move will prevent the arrival of provisions or ammunition at those ports.

ANTI-AMERICAN OFFICIAL OUSTED.

Mexico City, May 19.—The resignation of Genaro Fernandez MacGregor, chief clerk of the foreign office, has been demanded by Acting Foreign Minister Esteva Ruiz. The reason given was that he had ordered Gen. Joaquin Maas at Saltillo to take measures against the American consul, John R. Silliman.

El Pais, the organ of the Catholic party, was suppressed yesterday by the police authorities.

According to advices received here, several hundred bales of cotton have been destroyed by the Constitutionalists in the neighborhood of Saltillo because the owners refused to deliver certain monies demanded by them. A threat was made to destroy the whole crop.

Gen. Blanquet, the minister of war, is authority for the statement that fierce fighting is in progress north of the city of Tepic, and that the Federals have gained the advantage.

MEXICANS KIDNAP MORMON COLONIST.

El Paso, May 19.—James Skousen, a Mormon colonist at Colonia Juarez, Chihuahua, was seized and carried off to the mountains by bandits Sunday, according to a message from Pearson, Chihuahua. Skousen's fate is unknown.

Gen. Rodrigo Quevedo, who has harried the ranches along the border for months, has threatened to take three American lives for each of his men killed by the Constitutionalist soldiers sent to wipe out his band.

ORDERS AMERICANS TO LEAVE VERA CRUZ.

Vera Cruz, May 19.—All Americans in Vera Cruz not connected with the army or other government service or not accredited newspaper correspondents, must register or be deported. This order was issued from military headquarters as a part of the efforts of Rear Admiral Badger to get American citizens out of the country. Difficulty has been encountered in answering questions regarding Americans, many of whom are not registered and have ignored the request of the consul to leave their names at the consulate.

Capt. Brewster, Fourth field artillery, has been invalided home aboard the Satilla, sailing for Galveston. Twenty discharged soldiers and two stowaways are also aboard the steamer.

TWO CARLISLE OFFICIALS QUIT.

Washington, May 19.—Resignations of Moses Friedman, superintendent, and S. J. Nori, chief clerk of the Carlisle Indian school, were accepted yesterday by Cato Sells, commissioner of Indian affairs. Two persons holding minor positions at the school were transferred, and another was removed.

Charges were filed several months ago against Friedman, Nori and other officials at the school, and a congressional committee made an investigation which resulted in Friedman's suspension. In accepting the resignations, Commissioner Sells stated that the action did not indicate the attitude of the bureau on any phase of the accusations.

The charges investigated by the congressional committee included laxity of discipline, unjust expulsion of students and misrepresentation of the school to the public by officials of the institution. Findings in the case, Mr. Sells said, had been referred to the department of justice for such action as it sees fit to take.

Commissioner Sells announced that a special officer of the bureau who had been at Carlisle recently apprehended five men selling liquor to Indian students.

LITTLE TAKES OATH AS COMMISSIONER.

Thomas H. Little, appointed to fill the vacancy on the county board caused by the death of the late John Tischer, commissioner from the Second district, yesterday took his oath of office before J. O. Walker, deputy county auditor. A surety bond for $10,000 which has been furnished by Mr. Little has been approved by District Judge Cant. It will be filed with the state public examiner in accordance with the law.

FOUND GUILTY OF GRAND LARCENY.

James Morley Gullett, alias John Morley, was convicted of grand larceny in the second degree yesterday afternoon by a jury in Judge Bert Fesler's division of the district court. He was found guilty of having stolen $60 and a watch worth $5.50 from Thomas Golls in a rooming house at 707 West Superior street on the night of March 16. The jury was out on the case for one hour. Gullett will be brought before the court later for sentence.

Lost Iowa Girl Comes Home.

Oelwein, Iowa, May 19.—Elizabeth Huppertz, aged 14, for whom a nationwide search was made following her disappearance from her home here last June, reappeared at her home here Saturday. She said she had been living in Southern California. The trip home was made alone.

WARRANTS ARE OUT FOR CIRCUS OWNER.

Chicago, May 19.—Two federal warrants were issued here yesterday for John H. Garrett, promoter and circus owner, who is now under arrest in Kentucky and whose business affairs here are being investigated by a Federal grand jury. The warrants charge perjury and concealment of assets. Garrett also is wanted by the state authorities to answer a charge of selling a forged mortgage to a Peoria bank.

INCREASED RATE ON BERRIES SUSPENDED.

Washington, May 19.—A new regulation governing weights on carload shipments of berries by express from points in Oregon and Washington to destinations as far East as Chicago, by which the transportation charges were increased, has been suspended by the interstate commerce commission until Sept. 17.

CLING TO HOLD ON VANDERBILT "U."

Oklahoma City, Okla., May 19.—The general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, yesterday reconsidered its action of Saturday which virtually severed relations between Vanderbilt university and the church as a whole. The conference directed that a re-draft be made of the committee report, to provide for joint action by commissioners to be named by the general conference and the patronizing conferences, in the effort to establish rights which the church claims in the control of the university.

Under a recent ruling of the Tennessee supreme court, the university was in effect removed from the direct jurisdiction of the general conference of the church. Action now will be taken either in state or Federal courts, in behalf of the patronizing conferences, which it is pointed out may have legal claims which the Tennessee court ruled the general conference has not.

ARMY AVIATION BILL IS PASSED

Washington, May 19.—Creation of an aviation section of the army as a part of the signal corps, would be authorized by a bill that passed the house yesterday. The measure has the approval of the war department and will soon be taken up in the senate.

AUTOMOBILE IS BURNED

Machine Is Destroyed By Fire on Two Harbors Road.

While he was driving to French river, where he had planned to spend the day fishing, William Wickham, 119 West Fourth street, suffered the complete loss of his automobile, which back-fired and was completely destroyed by flames. The machine is valued at $2,500 by Mr. Wickham, who said later that it was insured for $2,000.

The accident happened at 6:23 o'clock this morning, when the fire department received a call from a farmer about a mile beyond the Lakewood pumping station, who said that an automobile was on fire in the road. Assistant Fire Chief Wilson immediately started for the scene, but by the time the firemen arrived, the machine was almost completely destroyed.

Mr. Wickham and his brother, James, had left their home at 119 West Fourth street early this morning to spend the day fishing along French river. It was while they were between Lakewood and Clifton that the automobile back-fired and in a minute the car was in flames. The two men made every effort to put out the flames, but in vain.

The Wickham brothers own and operate two saloons at 31 Sutphin street and 323 South First avenue east. They are both well known in the city and have lived here a number of years.

WILL SUCCEED HIS FATHER

Richard M. Sellwood is Chosen President of City National Bank.

Richard M. Sellwood was elected president and Capt. Alex. McDougall, vice president of the City National bank at a meeting of the board of directors yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Sellwood, who succeeds his father, the late Capt. Joseph Sellwood, was associated with him for several years in his various enterprises and had been vice president of the bank during the last three years.

Mr. Sellwood is also vice president of the First National bank at Ely, Minn., and is an officer of the Commercial State bank at Two Harbors, Minn.

Capt. McDougall, the newely-elected vice president of the bank, has been connected with many Duluth business and industrial propositions, and was the founder of the Northern Cold Storage & Warehouse company, which is about to add to the capacity of its plant for the second time in three years.

HUERTA'S ENVOYS ARE HOPEFUL OF SUCCESS OF PEACE MEETING

based on capacity to maintain domestic peace and to meet international duties.

Conditions of Withdrawal.

He told the delegates that the American government would regard the definite settlement of Mexico's problems as necessary to the withdrawal of American military forces from Vera Cruz.

Instructions to members of the mission were not specific but the president reiterated that peace in Mexico to him appeared to be conditioned on the elimination of the Huerta administration and the creation of a government that could guarantee untrammeled elections, a solution of the land problem and other dissensions that have led to an internal strife of nearly four years. Comprehensive settlement, the president believes, must be based on consideration of Zapata and Carranza as factors, besides public interests in territory still controlled by Huerta.

Americans Start North.

As spokesmen for the United States to the mediation conference, Associate Justice Lamar, Former Solicitor General Lehmann and H. Percival Dodge, secretary to the commission, left Washington early today for Niagara Falls, Ont.

The departure of the American commissioners was without any formalities beyond the presence of several officials to bid them goodbye and wish success to their mission. Justice Lamar and Mr. Lehmann chatted with their friends, expressing a hopeful view of the outlook, and then boarded their private car, attached to the regular Lehigh Valley train, due at Niagara Falls about midnight tonight. With them in the car is their staff of secretaries and stenographers and several press representatives.

Refused to Talk.

Before leaving the commissioners completed arrangements to keep in close touch with the White House and state department on the various stages of development at the conference. They declined, however, to discuss their mission or the instructions they had received in their conference with President Wilson last night.

With the departure of the American delegates all of the various elements which make up the conference on the troubled Mexican situation either were at Niagara Falls or en route, Minister Suarez of Chile, one of the mediators, leaving during the morning.

Mediators Await Envoys.

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 19.—Gratified at the success that so far has attended their progress on the road to mediation and confident of the ultimate success of their peace program, the South American mediators spent today quietly waiting for the formal inauguration here tomorrow of their proceedings. The impression was gained by those who talked with the mediators that they expected a speedy, as well as a satisfactory settlement of the problem before them.

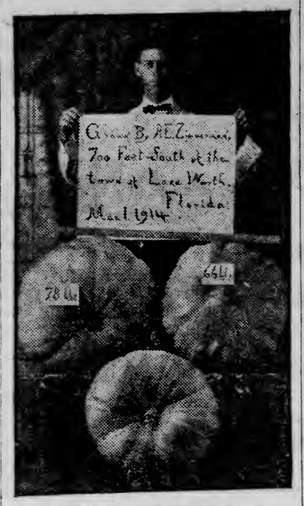
The mediators have great faith in the broad patriotism of the Mexican delegates and feel that while they come nominally as representatives of the Huerta government they have at heart the interest of the Mexican people as a whole and will listen to any proposals which aim to give their country a stable government.

Many Correspondents There.

A big conference room with its two anterooms in the hotel here overlooking the Niagara Falls, is all ready for the work to begin. A large squad of American, Canadian and foreign newspaper correspondents arrived today, prepared to flash the news of the conference to all parts of the world over about fifty especially installed telegraph wires.

The most important incident on today's program was the arrival of personal representatives of the duke of Connaught, governor general of Canada, to welcome the members of the conference to Canadian soil.

FORMER DULUTHIAN NOW FARMING IN SOUTH



AXEL E. ZIMMERMAN.

"Who said pie; these Australian pumpkins make it," writes Axel E. Zimmerman on the reverse side of the photograph received from him today by Finance Commissioner Fred J. Voss.

Zimmerman was formerly deputy city clerk in Duluth but moved to Florida some years ago, where he has since engaged in agriculture. He has kept us his correspondence with Commissioner Voss and from time to time has sent him pictures of some prize products. The last is the one showing the "swaoppor" pumpkins, one weighing 78 pounds and the other 66 pounds, according to the labels which are prominently attached.

Zimmerman writes from Lantana, Fla., but the pumpkins were evidently grown at Lake Worth. He will be remembered by many Duluthians.

SURPRISE DUE FROM BECKER

fense made a motion to dismiss the indictment against Becker on the ground of insufficient evidence. The motion was denied.

Mr. Manton then began his opening address. He said it was conceded that Rosenthal had been murdered and that four gunmen had murdered him. He intended to prove, however, that Jack Rose was Becker's stool pigeon and that Rosenthal was murdered in a gamblers' war, because Rose or some other person was afraid of Rosenthal. Manton said it was probably true that Rose visited "Lefty" Louie and the other gunmen and urged them to kill Rosenthal, telling them Becker wanted them to do so.

"But," said Manton, "it doesn't follow that he told the truth to the gunmen. As a matter of fact, Rose was acting entirely upon his own initiative. I will show that Rose said 'It's my life or Becker's,' and 'I'm not going to commit suicide.'

"A reporter for a morning paper will testify that he called Becker from Times Square directly after the murder."

PENNSYLVANIA PRIMARY ON

judicial candidates are being selected by non-partisan ballots.

Penrose Opposed.

In the Republican ranks Senator Boies Penrose is opposed for the senatorial nomination by J. Benjamin Dimmick, former mayor of Scranton. Representative A. Mitchell Palmer has Henry Budd, Philadelphia, as an opponent for the Democratic senatorial nomination, while Gifford Pinchot is unopposed, for the Washington (Progressive) party nomination for senator. Socialists and Prohibitionists also have unopposed candidates.

There is a hard fight for the Democratic nomination for governor between Vance C. McCormick, former mayor of Harrisburg, who has the support of the national administration, and Michael J. Ryan, city solicitor of Philadelphia. The campaign for this nomination was bitterly fought and both sides are claiming victory.

School Head for Governor.

The Republican organization is backing Martin G. Brumbaugh, superintendent of public schools of Philadelphia, for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, and the leaders declare he will win by an overwhelming vote. The principal candidate against him is Joseph Cauffiel, mayor of Johnstown.

William Draper Lewis, dean of the law school of the University of Pennsylvania, has the support of most of the Progressive leaders for the Washington party nomination for governor. The only candidate against him is Judge Charles N. Brumm of Schuylkill county.

to The Herald.)—Upper Michigan is dotted with forest fires, but none has attained alarming proportions except near the hamlet of Alfred, Dickinson county, the only region where damage of any particular consequence has been done. There are no fires in the neighborhood of Marquette. At and near Alfred considerable cut timber has been destroyed, as have a few houses. Large crews employed by Senator Stephenson's Lumber company are fighting the fires. Elsewhere flames have been confined to small areas of slashings and second growth timber, and so far have been controlled.

There are fires of the nature near Baraga, Chassell and Ontonagon and west of Ishpeming. The heavy timbered areas are considered in no present danger, as it is only in the outskirts, where the woods are most open that fires are burning. However, rain is badly needed.

The flames have created much smoke and this has been carried close to the ground for many miles, giving an appearance in places as if the whole country were ablaze. Wild rumors have been the result.

Denies Fire Are Serious.

Lansing, Mich., May 19.—Charles Hoyt, deputy state game and foresty warden, declared today that reports of great forest fires sweeping the Upper Peninsula of Michigan are exaggerated. Several official reports have been received from districts in the fire zone which do not corroborate the extent of damage estimated in news stories sent out from those districts.

Hoyt said it would be almost impossible for a forest fire to destroy the village of Lobert, in Delta county, because the outskirts of the village are five miles from the timber line. The department today received a message from Spencer W. Hill of Albany Island, that 1,000 acres of timber land are under fire in Chippewa county. Unofficial reports from Petoskey said serious fires were raging in the northern part of Emmet county.

Other reports said fires were burning in Alpena, Cheboygan and Otsego counties, but all were confined to slashings and no standing timber had been burned.

cabinet the subject or the New Haven inquiry, and the decision of the interstate commerce commission to proceed with the examination of Mr. Mellen and other directors of the road despite his letter to the commission stating that testimony taken now might grant immunity in any further action by the government.

The attorney general would not discuss the subject when he left the cabinet meeting. Neither would other members of the cabinet.

May Spare Nobody.

Already Mr. Mellen, though his testimony last Thursday was brief, has indicated that he may spare no one in his testimony. He informed the commission that he would reveal every fact in his possession concerning the intricate stock manipulations by which the New Haven acquired some of its subsidiaries. He promised to give not only dates and details of the various transactions, but the names of persons who promoted and profited by them.

A large crowd besieged the committee hearing today; eager to get a glimpse of Mr. Mellen and hear the continuance of his story. The clash between Attorney General McReynolds and the commission over the taking of the Mellen testimony, and the seeming expectation that this would be brought into the hearing heightened interest in the proceedings.

Mr. Mellen reached the hearing room about 10 o'clock, accompanied by his personal attorney, J. W. H. Crim. The former New Haven president carried a large box of private papers and memoranda. He smiled at the greetings of friends, and seemed composed for the examination about to begin.

"I am ready to go forward," said he, "but there is nothing I can forecast ahead of my testimony."

Women Among Spectators.

E. D. Robins, general consul of the New Haven, accompanied by his counsel, Homer S. Cummings, came in shortly after Mr. Mellen arrived. Among the 200 spectators was a considerable sprinkling of women.

Mr. Mellen was called to the stand about 10:30 o'clock. In response to inquiries of Counsel Folk, Mr. Mellen told how he had become president of the Northern Pacific. Mr. Morgan (J. Pierpont Morgan), was responsible for Mr. Mellen's presidency of the Northern Pacific.

"How long were you president of the Northern Pacific railroad?" was the first question put to Mr. Mellen by Attorney Folk.

"Six years."

"How did you become president?"

"I was asked by J. P. Morgan to become president," said Mr. Mellen.

Over the Telephone.

Mr. Mellen then testified that Mr. Morgan called him on the telephone and that the conversation was about as follows:

"'That you, Mr. Mellen?'

"'Yes.'

"'Can anybody hear?'

"'No.'

"'Will you take the Northern Pacific presidency?'

"'Yes.'

"'Leave all the details to me?'

"'Yes.'

About two or three weeks later, Mr. Mellen testified, he became president. He did not know, when he took the office, he said, what the salary would be. He added that he knew it "would be all right."

"While you were president of the Northern Pacific was the matter of the New Haven presidency taken up?" Mr. Folk asked.

"Yes. Mr. Morgan told me he would make me president of the New Haven."

Was Called "Morgan's Office Boy."

"As president of the New Haven, what were your relations with Mr. Morgan?"

"That is difficult to answer."

"Were you Morgan's man?"

"I have been called his office boy in the press," Mr. Mellen laughingly replied.

"What would you say as to the relations?"

"I am proud to be called his man. I thought a great deal of Mr. Morgan."

"Did you carry out his policies?"

"I do not know that he had any particular policies."

"What was the relative importance of the directors as related to Morgan?"

"That is giving an opinion. We regarded Mr. Morgan a man of ability, experience and capacity. I recall no case in which he did not have his way."

"How many directors shaped the road's financial policy?"

"There was a committee of three or four—Morgan, Rockefeller, Brooker, and I think at one time Ledyard. Morgan and Rockefeller were the only ones who remained on the committee all the time I was president."

Disposing of Bonds.

Mr. Folk presented a telegram from Jacob H. Schiff to Mr. Mellen, saying that Kuhn, Loeb & Co. would be glad to negotiate $12,000,000 of bonds to be issued by the Boston & Maine.

"Did you give Mr. Schiff opportunity to bid on those bonds?"

"I think not."

"I think it was considered that the bonds were satisfactorily placed elsewhere. I had no authority personally to place bonds. That was within the power of the finance committee."

"What would have happened had you turned over these bonds to Kuhn, Loeb & Co.?" Mr. Folk wanted to know.

"I should have felt that I properly might have been dismissed," was Mr. Mellen's emphatic reply.

Dealing With Byrnes.

Turning to another line of inquiry, Mr. Folk asked:

"How did you happen to get the 8,000 shares of New Haven stock, which were to be exchanged for Westchester stock?"

"Mr. Byrnes, former police inspector of New York, asked that the shares be placed in my hands so that he might not have to deal with a corporation. That was natural. As to the exchange of this stock," continued Mr. Mellen, "an impression is abroad concerning the duebills I gave that is erroneous. I think I gave duebills aggregating about $20,000, totaling about two dozen due bills. I don't think any cash was paid in the Westchester transaction except for such duebills as I gave. In such circumstances I paid my own cash and took the stock. Thus I became quite a stockholder."

Check For $10,450.

A check for $10,450 issued by Mr. Mellen to his own order on Feb. 2, 1909, was offered by Mr. Folk, who asked what it was for.

"That amount was paid to me in cash, and with the cash I took up certain duebills and paid also dividends on the stock which had accumulated. I frequently paid dividends to the holders of stock. These persons were sent to me by Inspector Byrnes."

Westchester Stock Bunched.

Mr. Mellen said that the Westchester stock seemed to be bunched in the hands of certain people.

"Did the financial committee know of your holding the New Haven stock and about this Westchester transaction?"

"Yes."

"Did you make a report as to the due bills?"

"No."

"The changes you wanted in the Westchester franchise were made?"

Mr. Mellen nodded.

"Did you talk with Rockefeller or Morgan about these matters?"

"I think not. I completed the whole transaction and then reported."

Mr. Mellen, asked if he remembered any who presented due bills to him, replied:

"I might remember if I heard the names."

Many of them, he hinted, were just "messengers."

Of Potential Value.

"Was the Westchester stock of any value?"

"It had a potential value. It runs through a good territory."

"Is the Westchester operated now at a loss of $1,250 000 a year?"

"Well, you have the figures."

Mr. Mellen testified that the question of the New Haven's acquiring the Westchester was first brought to his attention in a letter from E. M. Herr, president of the Westinghouse company. This was about 1905. Mellen's letter in reply indicated that he did not think much of the proposition. Among other things he said:

"It looks to me as if the company was organized as a strike, to sell out to us at the proper time."

PARTIAL VIEW OF STOCKPILE AT THE McCOMBER MINE

A large party of excursionists from Duluth, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Chicago, Virginia, Chisholm and Marshfield, Wis., with a special coach on the D. & I. R. Ry., spent Sunday inspecting the McComber mine of the Mutual Iron Mining company. The work on the 100-foot level was examined particularly showing when the vein was opened up, a distance of 120 feet east and west and where it is now crosscut north and south for 46 feet with face of crosscut still in the ore.

Sweaty Feet, Prompt Relief Also Corns and Callouses

The following is absolutely the surest and quickest cure known to science for all foot ailments. "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of warm water. Soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, gently rubbing the sore parts." The effect is really wonderful. All soreness goes instantly; the feet feel so good you could sing for joy, corns and callouses can be peeled right off. It gives immediate relief for sore bunions, sweaty, smelly and aching feet. A twenty-five cent box of Calocide is said to be sufficient to cure the worst feet. It works through the pores and removes the cause of the trouble. Don't waste time on uncertain remedies. Any druggist has Calocide compound in stock or he can get it in a few hours from his wholesale house. It is not a patent medicine. Calocide prepared only by Medical Formula Co., Dayton, Ohio.

FIREMEN OVERCOME AT NEW YORK BLAZE

Chief Kenlon Becomes Dazed; One Man Has Bad Fall.

New York, May 19.—Flames burned through six floors of a loft building extending from 22 Des Brosses street back to Greenwich street late last night, doing damage estimated at $250,000. A fireman fell through a skylight from the roof and was seriously injured. Several other firemen were overcome. Fire Chief John Kenlon became dazed after directing the fire-fighting for two hours, and was led away.

Companies dealing in cans, pipe, glass, soap and brass, suffered the heaviest losses. Elevated trains were stalled within the danger zone, and passengers remained in smoke-filled cars until firemen aided them in escaping.

FEMALE MOSQUITO IS DEADLIER THAN MALE

Wisconsin University Tells People How to Fight Them.

Madison, Wis., May 19.—With the advent of the mosquito season, the University of Wisconsin today issued a statement said to be of value wherever the pest is prevalent.

The statement declares that the female of the species is more deadly than the male, for while the latter feeds on the juices of fruits and plants, the female "gorges herself with blood in order that her eggs may have abundant nourishment."

The eggs in water become larvae, or "wrigglers," these become pupae, and the latter develop into full-fledged mosquitoes. It is because the larvae must come to the surface to breathe that oil is efficacious in exterminating them. It suffocates them. An ounce of oil, says the bulletin, will cover fifteen square feet of water and should be distributed once a week.

PENNSYLVANIA ON TRIAL IN ILLINOIS.

East St. Louis, Ill., May 19.—The government's case against the Pennsylvania Railroad company, accused of having financed a coal land deal for the Lumaghi Coal company, of St. Louis, is on trial here in the United States district court.

August Gutheim, special prosecutor, in outlining the case of the government, said the Pennsylvania railroad dealt indirectly with the coal company, which in return contracted to ship all its coal over the Vandalia railway, a subsidiary of the Pennsylvania.

Mott Gets Next Meet.

Mott, N. D., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mott was selected as the 1915 meeting place of the Missouri Slope Congregational association.

Rev. A. O. Hacke of Dickinson was elected moderator, and A. R. Bosworth of Regent was chosen to deliver the convention sermon at the next meeting.

Tango, and the Complexion

The strenuous exercise of the Tango has the effect of improving the general health and so naturally helps to improve complexion. It has also forced most women to discard face powders because they rub off too readily and fill the pores, making healthy skin-breathing impossible.

If pore-clogging powder were discarded for a plain spurmax lotion, there would be more beautiful complexions, and rough, blotchy, unlovely skins would rarely be seen. This lotion is easily prepared at home—just get from your druggist 4 ounces spurmax and dissolve in either ½ pint hot water or witch hazel, and add 2 teaspoonfuls of glycerine. The spurmax lotion is fine for hot days as it will not spot nor streak and one application lasts an entire day, relieving that shiny, oily appearance. This lotion blends so nicely with the skin that it cannot be detected, and it lends an exquisite charm to the daintiest complexion.—Advertisement.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

NO CREDENCE IN SULLIVAN

State's Star Witness in Alleged Grand Forks Bribery Untruthful.

Judge, in Refusing Grand Jury to Probe Further, So Declares.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—State's Attorney Burtness, who yesterday failed to obtain an order from Judge C. M. Cooley to call a grand jury, in connection with his investigations into charges of alleged bribery in connection with the acquittal of McLain Cooper of murder, is undecided what further steps will be taken.

JUDGE C. M. COOLEY.

Judge Cooley, in his ruling charges that J. A. Sullivan, the state's principal witness in the bribery prosecutions, deliberately perjured himself when he said that he (Cooley) gave him $15 during the program of the Cooper trial.

At the time of the trial, Judge Coley was a member of the Bangs' law firm. Sullivan, as a witness against Bangs, charged that he at one time received $15 from Judge Cooley, to be used in buying liquor for the jury.

Testimony Is Weak.

Judge Cooley also declared that Sullivan's testimony, under examination, fails to hold up, and is so self condemnatory that it is unreliable.

Commenting upon the law relative to calling grand juries in North Dakota, Judge Cooley holds that the provision, which calls for a petition of 10 per cent of the legal voters, is one that is designed against the holding of such special jury examinations unless it is absolutely necessary to do so to bring about law enforcement, and he does not believe that, in this case, law enforcement demands such drastic action.

INCENDIARY FIRES AT IRON RIVER, WIS.

Lumber Plant Burned and Village Has Suspicious Blazes.

Iron River, Wis., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.) — Two fires breaking out almost simultaneously here last night caused nearly $20,000 damage and leads to the belief both were the work of incendiaries. The first was in the rear of the town hall and did about $1,200 damage before extinguished.

The fire was not extinguished before another call was sent in from the Koplin & Poplin sawmill which was destroyed including the planing mill, drying shed and about 100,000 feet of finished timber as well as a small dwelling owned by Sarah Cronin and two houses the property of the lumber mill owners causing a loss of about $19,000. Pete Michaud and family lost all their effects as well as their home. The firemen were fighting the fire at the village hall when the other alarm was turned in and the blaze at the sawmill had gained great headway when the fire fighters arrived.

About 300,000 feet of lumber were saved. The sawmill was operated by gasoline engines and during the fire a number of explosions were heard.

Last night's were the fourth fires that occurred here within a short time and State Fire Warden Charles Good of Ashland, was here yesterday investigating the cause of the last two fires which are also believed to have been of incendiary origin.

MERCY SHOWN TWO RUNAWAY YOUTHS.

Arnegard, N. D., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two youths, both minors, who had been employed in one of the Great Northern construction camps, visited another and stole a watch. They were captured after a lively chase and pleaded guilty. Because of their youth they were let off with a small fine. They had run away from their homes in Iowa.

MORTON COUNTY PAYS OFF DEBT.

Mandan, N. D., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Morton county will be practically on a cash basis tomorrow when warrants aggregating $150,000 will be called in and paid. These warrants represent indebtedness incurred previous to May 1 last and it is the best showing the county has made for several years.

The county is in very good shape so far as bonds are concerned, there only being $31,000 in such indebtedness, falling due in 1925.

STORM SCARES COLTS; FIFTEEN ARE DROWNED.

Garrison, N. D., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fifteen colts belonging to Alfred Staley were in a pasture near here. They became frightened during a rain storm and ran into the creek and every one of the animals was drowned.

MICHIGAN VILLAGE DESTROYED BY FIRE

Alfred, Eighteen Miles From Escanaba, Is Wiped Out.

Escanaba, Mich., May 19.—The entire village of Alfred, eighteen miles from this city, was wiped out by fire late Sunday. The fire started from a forest fire that was burning in the nearby woods and spread to the village. The inhabitants lost all of their possessions and were forced to seek safety in the waters of the Escanaba river where they remained for a number of hours.

Extensive timber holdings of the I. Stephenson Lumber company were burned, the depot of the E. & L. S. railway, several trestles, a large quantity of logs and cut lumber and every building in the village were destroyed.

Escanaba was with a pall of dense smoke all day Sunday and late into the night. The loss is not yet estimated.

Larch, Mich., Burned.

The village of Larch, near Alfred, was destroyed. The loss is $5,000 there and at Edgar $30,000. Millions of feet of cut timber have been destroyed.

Chassell Is Menaced.

Houghton, Mich., May 19.—The village of Chassell, where the Worcester Lumber Mills are located, is threatened by a forest fire. The farm buildings owned by William Powers, two miles south of Chassell were destroyed yesterday.

TAKE FRIEDMAN "CURE."

Despite Rival Claims North Dakotans Allege Benefit.

Lidgerwood, N. D., May 19.—Twenty patients from all sections of North Dakota came here to take the Friedman tuberculosis "cure" administered by a Dr. Porter of Colfax, Iowa, who met the patients here on an agreement. Several of the patients claimed to have been greatly relieved, despite the statement from Washington and New York that the cure was devoid of merit. It is understood some of the regular practitioners may investigate to see whether the Iowan has any license to practice in North Dakota.

BIG INSURANCE TAX.

Nearly Half a Million for Collection in Minnesota.

St. Paul, Minn., May 19.—The state 2 per cent tax on insurance premiums for 1914 totals $458,959.66, as certified for collection by J. A. O. Preus, insurance commissioner. The 1913 collections amounted to $45,688.02. In addition, the state will collect this year $28,351.35 from fire insurance companies for the fire marshal's department, compared with $19,187.69 in 1913. The 2 per cent tax is collected on the following items: From level premium life insurance companies, $197,462.06; stock casualty companies, $68,683.51; stock fire and marine companies, $181,231.29; mutuals and Lloyds, $9,223.52; hail and cyclone companies, $2,016.52; inter-insurers, $342.76.

DULUTHIANS' AUNT DIES AT BRAINERD.

Brainerd, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. J. B. Williams, aged 57, died here of pneumonia, having been sick three days. She leaves a husband and daughter, Miss Maude Williams; a brother, Alex Southey of Washburn, N. D.; three sisters, Mrs. Bessie Cork, Mrs. L. R. Ellis and Mrs. G. W. Bester, all of Minneapolis; two nieces, Mrs. G. I. McWaters of Minneapolis and Miss Minnie Vivian of Duluth, and a nephew, E. A. Vivian, of Duluth.

AGED BRAINERD WOMAN BURIED.

Brainerd, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Nancy J. Craig, aged 92 years, 5 months and 20 days, died leaving eight children, twenty-one grandchildren and ten great grandchildren. She was born in Armstrong county, now Clarion county, Pennsylvania. Her father was George Means. Her grandfather was Major Robert Means of Mifflin county, Pennsylvania, a distinguished officer in the Revolutionary war, who received the tract of land where the family homestead stands, as part payment for his services in the war. Present at the funeral were these children: Mrs. Mary Rockefellow of Bonaparte, Iowa; George Craig of Keosauqua, Iowa; David R. Craig of Brainerd, with whom she had made her home; James N. Craig of Davenport, Iowa; Harry C. Craig of Curlsville, Penn. Three sons were unable to be present, being C. B. M. Craig of Bengough, Sask., Can.; J. W. Craig of Puyallup, Wash., and A. M. Craig of Tacoma, Wash.

GET NEW ARCHITECT.

Brainerd City Council Seeks New Plans for City Hall.

Brainerd, Minn., May 19.—James R. Smith, chairman of the building committee of the city council, City Engineer C. D. Peacock and City Attorney W. H. Crowell had a conference with the board of control relative to the plans for the new city hall and the board condemned the jail plans. The council held a special meeting and discharged the architect, C. Howard Parsons, by unanimous vote, and dispensed with his further services. The building committee was authorized to invite some one of the architects recommended by the board of control which has promised to have a representative on the ground to confer with the architect free of charge to the city.

CROOKSTON NOW HAS A REVIVAL ON.

Crookston, Minn., May 19.—An evangelistic campaign opened here Sunday evening and continues for three weeks under the joint auspices of the First Methodist, Presbyterian, Mission and Scandinavian Methodist churches. Charles Cullen Smith, the well known evangelist, is directing the campaign. He has just closed a series of meetings at Devils Lake. Prof. A. C. V. Gilmore, a celebrated chorus leader, and Walter Klingler, soloist of wide renown, have an important part in the campaign.

NEW CURRENCY ACT TO BE DISCUSSED.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new currency act will be the principal topic for discussion at the annual meeting of the Grand Forks District Bankers' association which will be held here May 29.

This will be the first meeting of the district organization since Cavalier, Ramsey, Towner and Nelson counties joined the group. Walsh, Grand Forks and Pembina counties also are included. C. J. Lord of Park River is president, and J. R. Carley of Grand Forks is secretary.

Sickness Breaks School Record.

Kenmare, N. D., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—A six-year record of perfect attendance at school was broken for Pearl and Walter Enochson on the same day. The children started school the same day six years ago, and not once during the intervening period was either absent from school.

The break came when the girl was taken with the grip and the morning she was ordered by the physician to remain at home, her brother was injured while playing ball.

NEW BRAINERD THEATER OPENED.

Brainerd, Minn., May 19. — (Special to The Herald.)—Governor A. O. Eberhart was unable to attend the opening of the Park theater here last night. In the absence of the governor, Judge W. A. Fleming spoke and then introduced Attorney C. A. Russell, who delivered a short address. The theater was resplendent in its new decorations and is a distinct addition to the playhouses of the city.

Violated Federal Game Law.

Barton, N. D., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first arrest in this locality and probably in this entire section of the state for a violation of the Federal game laws to protect migratory birds was made here by District Game Warden Kerr of Granville. N. J. Nesh had shot two geese and his act was a violation of both the Federal and the state laws. He pleaded guilty and was fined $20 in each case.

Commercial Club For Lidgerwood.

Lidgerwood, N. D., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—A great deal of enthusiasm is shown here over the preliminary efforts at organizing a commercial club. A mass meeting was held at which a committee was named to prepare a constitution and by-laws. It is to report Wednesday night, when it is expected there will be about fifty charter members enrolled.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Just Between You and Me

By BRUCE

ABE ATTELL was attired in brilliant pink pajamas. His hair is raven black, his skin is dark hued and his eyes of the deepest black. Against the never to be forgotten pinky pink of those pajamas the general blackness of the former champion featherweight champion pugilist of the world loomed forth in well staged contrast.

Mr. Attell went over to the glass of his bureau and surveyed his full reflected length. He stretched forth two arms—arms that have earned some $200,000 when equipped with a pair of boxing gloves, and yawned magnificently, as some people learn to do.

"Oh no! I'm not through with the game," hastily exclaimed the little fighter in response to our inquiry. "Kilbane is the man I want. He is one man I can lick; that's why I want to fight him."

And here happened a wonderful thing. Fighters and athletes the world over, since the time Antaeus was vanquished at the hands of Hercules, have refused to admit that they were not as good as ever, no matter the state of their muscular and nervous disintegration.

"I'm not as good as I was once," said Attell—"but I'm good enough to beat Kilbane, and he is the wise bird who knows it.

"You see it was this way—" there is an always and everlasting this way—"I beat Kilbane in Kansas City and beat him so easily that I thought the Los Angeles bout would be soft. I didn't train and I didn't take the bout seriously. I went in and rushed and didn't use my science; in other words I fought like a fool and now he is the champion—the greatest cheese champion of the world."

At this time the little fighter, with his sad Hebraic features, and those black eyes that are solemn before they flash forth in animated expression, seemed to be reflecting on the things that might have been, even as another great little fighter sadly reflected for a member of weary and epoch-reviewing years at St. Helena.

"The greatest cheese champion of the world," continued Attell as in a reverie. "I fought 365 battles. I fought more 20-round fights than any of the present fighters. Who has Kilbane fought since he has been champion?" Attell paused and looked intently and eagerly at the writer, for his subject, the monomania subject of Kilbane, was an obsession with him.

"The cheese champion has fought once for his title and that fight was a draw with Johnny Dundee. He is a fine champion!

"Kilbane is coming in at 130 for most of the boys he is fighting now, and he makes them weigh in. I fought 'em all—and I didn't care what they weighed."

Now Attell was dressing. The brilliant pink pajamas were slipped off, and as nature made him stood one of the greatest little fighters that nature and the skill of trainer ever collaborated in the moulding of.

Abe Attell declares that he is not through—but they all say that; and yet he looks good—and yet they all look good until they start.

The former champion has a large head for so small a man. He has the eyes that all champions have; they catch you full and instantly and discern without effort. His arms are beautifully moulded and his hands are large and well shaped. His back is the back of a boxer—broad and full under the arms. His legs are well made and you realize the speed of the man as you gaze at his whole lithe body.

"About Wolgast?" we asked.

"One of the greatest little men we have ever had." Attell replied.

"I fought him ten rounds when he was an unknown. Some of the writers of the Pacific coast accused me of pulling my blows. I told them they wronged me and Wolgast. 'You will hear from this boy,' I told them, and it wasn't so long after this that he beat Nelson."

"What about Nelson?" we interposed; "was he one of the greatest?"

"A cheese champion," came the quick reply of Attell.

"What did he have? Gameness and nothing more. Endurance? Yes; all that was included with his gameness. He was never as great as Wolgast. I would never call him great.

"I fought Nelson twice. The second time I stood toe to toe for fifteen rounds and slugged with him and beat him at his own game, the style of fighting that the world had come to believe the Dane invincible at. I went in close and let him bang away. when he was tired, there I was, right in close and Bang! I would lift one up with all the force of body. I would fight him until he started again and then rest. He was always trying and I never permitted myself to get tired."

"Was Terry McGovern one of the greatest of fighters?" we asked of Attell.

"One of the greatest little fighters of his time," came the reply, "and a man built to order for me.

"Terry loved to tear in and I always just loved the boys who would come flying into me.

"I was matched with McGovern upon two different occasions and the matches were called off. Sam Harris realized that a bad match was made and this baby never got the chance at the champion.

"You know that out in Denver in a gymnasium I annihilated young Corbett. Well Corbett beat McGovern—and there yon are. Later Corbett got good and was one of the gamest boys in the ring. Before he became champion he would dog it.

"A person can't say what it is that makes a champion game when he was a dog before he became champion. Jack Johnson was a big dog, and yet after he beat Jeffries he got confidence.

"Listen, if Jess Willard had nerve he would be the champion. He can hit and boxes easily—but his heart is bad. Some of these fellows don't like to get hit.

"Kilbane don't. He almost cried when I hit him in the eye at Los Angeles. Maybe you remember reading of how I was kidding him and calling him a cry baby. Say, Kilbane can cave your head in—clever? Yes, and fast, but hitting you going away and his right can't jar you—that's the kind of a champion he is. I wan't him once more, and then I'm through."

At this stage of the proceedings Attell flashed a message from Jim Coffroth, stating that he would stage a match between Attell and Kilbane, but Kilbane was holding out for a big guarantee.

"I am resting and working out on the road and in the gymnasium, just for one more chance at the cheese champion of the world," was the parting shot of one of the oddest ring characters that the modern boxing game ever produced.

WESTERGAARD AND ZBYSZKO

Two Heavyweights Will Meet in Duluth May 29.

Tilton E. Lewis will promote the heavyweight wrestling contest between Stanislaus Zbyszko of Poland and Jess Reimer Westergaard of Des Moines, Iowa.

The Swede and Pole will clash for the titular honors on May 29. Last evening Lewis spent an hour talking on the long distance wires. First he talked to Oscar Thorson at Des Moines and then he got Jack Herman at the Morrison hotel at Chicago and closed the deal that will bring here the two giants.

"Tilt" Lewis has always been one of the most ardent sportsmen at the Head of the Lakes. He is a warm personal friend of Manager Thorson of Westergaard, Mr. Lewis has announced that he will have to guarantee Manager Herman $750 for Zbyszko's end, with the privilege of 35 per cent of the gross receipts.

AITKIN BEATS CROSBY.

Pounds Miners' Pitcher and Captures Game, 9 to 1.

Aitkin, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local ball team pounded the Crosby pitcher all over the field at Crosby Sunday and won the game, 9 to 1. "Rube" Poston the Aitkin pitcher, was a puzzler for the miners while the locals did some excellent fielding.

Will Test Sunday Law.

Scranton, Pa., May 19.—E. J. Coleman, president of the Scranton Baseball association was fined $4 yesterday in police court in connection with the attempt to play baseball Sunday. An appeal was taken with a view of trying out the old blue law under which the arrests were made. The cases against the players who were arrested were continued.

DULUTH WINS OPENING GAME FROM SUPERIOR

Leahy Pitches Great Baseball After Monty Woods Is Derricked.

BY BRUCE.

Our home athletes stamped on the haughty and somewhat soiled neck of our bitter enemy yesterday and sent Brakeman Landry's Red Sox home with a 5 to 4 defeat marked on the local scroll.

Mr. Bert Sweeley of Paw Paw college strode to bat in the ninth with the count 4 to 3 against the home team. Mr. Sweeley swatted to Peggy the pegger, and was tossed out at first. Jeremiah Edmunds came on in the role of a pinch hitter and whiffed. Handsome Hi Brackett of Morrow had two on when Peggey the Pegger split the plate with a beauty. Mr. Elliott called it a ball and by way of showing his gratitude Mr. Brackett clouted the next offering on a line by second.

The Irish Orator strode to the plate and with the count two and one hit through the lane at second and Brackett broke for third. Brakeman Landry held visions of preventing a collision at third and heaved the pill high over the onion of McGee. When the excited Barrington Benrud recovered the pill the run was over and the gallant leader who only hits when hits count, was recuperating from his strenuous exertions on the second bag.

This was the psychological point and deep into the psychological atmosphere strode Franklin Deitrich. The third base caretaker slapped the pill on a line over the well moulded head of obstacle Cullis and our gallant leader with the shapely calves came bounding home ahead of the throw in and the maiden 1914 contest on the home lot belonged to us. Great rejoicings at the Rex hotel followed the game.

Peggy Rhoades Is Tight.

It required five rounds for us to get used to the brand of stuff flung by our former co-worker, P. Rhoades. Not until the fifth did the domestic darlings break into the hit column. Some more or less profound speculators were wondering if the pegger was going to pitch a no-hit game. So great was the anguish and so profound the speculation in this regard that popcorn and peanut venders complained bitterly of the lack of appetite of fans. After the fifth the spell was broken and the sales proceeded.

With one down in the first, McGee walked and scored when large Glass hit a large three-base hit to young Dad Ford in deep right, down near the foul line. Anderson slapped the pill by McDuff and the second run counted.

In the second Benrud doubled to right center, was shunted along the tow paths by better half battery mate Rhoades and counted when Persch hit through the pitcher's box. McGee singled and then Glass filed to Ford and recent father heaved the ball to Kroll in time to beat McGee back to second base.

In the first we got a run without the able or timely asistance of a hit or error. Brackett was hit on his well turned limbs. O'Brien sacrificed the handsome youth to third, a wild pitch sending Brack to second. Deitrich hit to Cullis and Brackett beat the throw home.

Deitrich singled to properly inaugurate the sixth. Phillips whiffed and Kroll lured hope back into the ball park by hitting past young William Dunn, who is breaking in this season. Dad Ford came to the bat and muttered to himself that the time was poignantly present in which to solidify himself with those who in former days used to hoot and joyously jeer at him. How time and circumstances change all things. Recent Father Ford swatted a neatly breaking in curve on the end of his bat over the mathematical railroad mind of Lawrence Landry and two runs were in.

Custer's Last Stand.

Monty Woods had been imperiously motioned to the dog house at the last of the second and Richard Leahy took his place. From the beginning the curves of Leahy were hard to solve. In the seventh the enemy made its last stand, as John Deitz and others from the neighboring state have in the lurid past.

McGee hit in the dust to Deitrich and that gent heaved the pill with such abandon and enthusiasm over the bean of McGuff that McGee rounded up at second. Glass gave up his cherished ambition to bust one on the nose and neatly sacrified McGee to third. Anderson singled over second and the run was in.

Then came the finish in the ninth, which opened this chapter, and those who waited through the long game were amply repaid.

Mayor Prince heaved the first ball. It was high, but cut the plate in two, and this fact is believed to be a world's record in itself.

The crowd was one of the largest ever assembled at Athletic park. Many of our leading citizens were present. The staff photographer endeavored to get most of them. Ladies were also there and their hats lent color and obstructions to the gay and festive scene. Machines and their occupants lined the sidelines in right. During several dry periods of the game there were repeated calls for Hicken. The commissioner bowed once, but after that refused to be recalled.

She was a large day and gave some of the Superior cits who journeyed over a touch of metropolitan life that they will long talk of.

VIRGINIA OPENS HOME SEASON

Big Crowd Watches Ore Diggers Lose to the Twins.

Virginia, Minn., May 19.—Virginia opened the home season here yesterday by losing to Fort William by the score of 7 to 6. The game was a slugging match, two home runs figuring in the scores of the visitors.

It was the greatest baseball opening in the history of the Mesaba range. The trolley lines ran special trains to Virginia, all of the stores here and in several of the other towns of the range were closed, and from miles around the fans poured into the Queen city. The largest crowd in the history of the national game in this section of the state witnessed the contest.

Fort William was held scoreless until the seventh round. A home run in that inning broke the cipher row. With one on the paths Wise hit for the circuit in the eighth, and with one run in, Kramer hit for another homer in the final round with two on the bases.

New York, lasted only three innings, Cincinnati bunching hits in the second and third rounds for a total of five runs. Wiltse proved decidedly unsteady, allowing three bases on balls in succession as well as serving a ball to Groh that the latter put into deep center for a home run with two men on bases. Schauer was effective in the innings in which he officiated. Douglas went well for three innings for Cincinnati, but proved wild in the fourth, while Yingling, who succeeded him was hit fairly hard. Benton, however, was invincible. Score: R. H. E.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 19.—Boston defeated Pittsburg yesterday 4 to 1. James was effective throughout. With the score 1 to 0 against them in the eighth, Boston got two runs on singles by James and Evers, Maranville's out and Connelly's single. McQuillen pitched the ninth and the visitors got two more on Schmidt's single, Martin's walk, Gowdy's sacrifice, an error by Wagner and a sacrifice fly by James. Score: R. H. E.

St. Louis, Mo., May 19.—Sallee was in rare form yesterday afternoon, Brooklyn's hits being few and far between, so St. Louis shut out Brooklyn in the second game of the series, 3 to 0. St. Louis scored its first run on Magee's single, an out and J. Miller's two-base hit. St. Louis scored its second run without a hit. Dolan walked and stole second, scoring when Egan let Wilson's roller get away from him. Snyder scored the other run after he had singled and taken second on Sallee's single, from where he scored when Huggins hit the right field fence for two bases. The fielding of Beck at shortstop was a feature. Beck will remain at short until the return of Butler, whose nose was broken in Sunday's game. Wheat made a sensational catch in the sixth inning for his only out of the game. Score: R. H. E.

Chicago, May 19.—Chicago bunched three hits with a base on balls and two errors by Philadelphia and won yesterday, 4 to 2. In the fifth inning Bresnahan doubled, Vaughn singled and Leach walked. After two were out, Saier singled. Ireland threw wild to first, and when Luderus recovered the ball he threw wild to Doolin, and before Umpire Eason called Saier out at third on account of the coacher's interference the locals had scored three runs. Vaughn held the visitors to three hits. Score: R. H. E.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Browns 4; Yankees 2.

New York, May 19.—By frequent use of the hit and run game yesterday, St. Louis hammered out three runs in the eighth inning and defeated New York 4 to 2. Shotten walked and on the hit and run he went to third on Austin's single through short. Austin stole second and scored with Shotten on Pratt's fourth single. On Pratt's attempted steal, C. Walker doubled through short, scoring Pratt. James, the St. Louis pitcher, was very wild and both Yankee runs were due to his wildness. Nunamaker, catching his first game for New York, scored both runs, once getting a base on balls and later getting hit by a pitched ball. Pratt's hitting featured. Score: R. H. E.

Senators 3; Naps 2.

Washington, May 19.—Washington won again yesterday from Cleveland 3 to 2 through the good pitching of Ayers and some fast infield work. The Senators scored two runs in the second inning on singles by Shanks, McBride and Moeller and Morgan's double. Shanks scored the winning run in the sixth by a daring slide after McBride had been retired on an attempted bunt. The visitors' two runs were scored in the fourth inning on an error, Johnston's single, Jackson's sacrifice fly, and a wild pitch. Score: R. H. E.

HARD WORK FOR OARSMEN

Ten Eyck Has His Men Going at Mid-Season Form.

The Duluth Boys Are Early Showing Splendid Condition.

Jimmy Ten Eyck's oarsmen are sleeping, eating and thinking over at the main club house.

James is a stickler for the labor of the brain. Prof. Ten Eyck trains the body, as results have proved, but he also believes that men to win must think in the strain of rowing.

All of the boys have settled to the real grind of the season. Trips around the horn are made with a frequency that bespeaks the physical fitness of the men. The morning and afternoon rows will bring the members of the squad to fine shape around the first of July. From then on Jimmy will put the finishing touches on the crews.

It is superb condition that has won in the past for the local crews and that has also excited the admiration and wonder of outside oarsmen and followers of rowing. One of the most careful trainers in the land, it is very doubtful if there is a better or more rigid trainer than our James, and the work of preparation that is going on now that is fitting the Duluth crews for a great fight for the Northwestern honors at Kenora and the national honors at Philadelphia.

The bantams are coming along nicely. The junior eight is a strong and willing crew, lacking finish and polish as yet, which is but natural, and as yet failing to indicate anything but potential power.

In the senior eight boat are the tried veterans of the Ten Eyck school and it looks now as if this boat should be faster than the national senior champion eight of last season.

The senior four, the crew that set aside all rowing precedents by the winning of two four races in two days and rowing in the senior eight to make the record more impressive, is out for a record that will compel its recognition as the logical and rightful crew for Henley world's championship honors.

To accomplish this it is necessary for Horak, the two Moores and Old Faithful Rheinberger to win at Philadelphia, and win over the class of the country—and the boys fully realize the prodigiousness of the task.

STILL HOPE FOR AMERICA IN GOLF

Four Survive in the First Round in British Championship Tournament—Ouimet Plays Brilliantly—Defeat of Travers Astonishes Britishers.

Sandwich, Eng., May 19. — Four Americans — Francis Ouimet of the Woodland Golf club, Massachusetts, open golf champion of the United States, Frederick Herreshoff, New York, Charles W. Evans, Jr., Chicago, and Frazer Hale, Chicago, defeated their opponents in the first round yesterday for the British amateur golf championship and thus qualified for the second stage.

Four other Americans — Jerome D. Travers of Montclair, N. J., amateur golf champion of the United States; Henry J. Topping, Greenwich, Country club, Connecticut; C. E. Inslee, Oneida Community club, New York, and Edward S. Knapp, Westbrook, were put out of the tournament by their opponents.

The two other American entrants, Harold Weber of Toledo, and Arthur G. Lockwood, Belmont Springs Country club, Massachusetts, did not play—the former because there was no time for all the contestants to play the first round; the latter because he had drawn a bye in this round. Both will play today.

The defeat of Jerome Travers caused an even greater sensation, if possible, than his victory in the finals would have done, for he was regarded as the most dangerous of the American competitors. He made no excuse for his defeat, however, saying:

"I am chiefly disappointed because I played such poor golf."

Travers really lost the match on the greens. A spell of brilliant sunshine and drying winds had made the fairway hard and fast and as a consequence the ball traveled far. But the greens were comparatively slow owing to their having been well watered during the hot weather to keep them in good condition.

This alteration in pace beat the American amateur champion. He could not judge the speed of the greens and was consequently often short with his putt.

It was the youthful Ouimet who played as the British critics had expected Travers to play. The open champion showed himself to be a brilliant and resourceful golfer. He always seemed to be playing well within himself, while his putting was not surpassed by that of any other player. Ouimet had as his opponent C. C. MacGregor of Manila, champion of the Philippines. At the turn the American was four up and he won the match by seven up with six to play.

Evans, the former Western open golf champion, will meet Brotherton of Hansworth today and Hale will meet Whitten, a youthful Australian champion. Ouimet and Herreshoff will not play again until Wednesday, when Ouimet will meet Tubbs of Littlestone and Herrehoff will meet Platt of the Royal North Devon, who is considered a high class golfer.

FIRE CAUSES HEAVY LOSS

Hermantown Farmer Burned Out, Losing Everything; No Insurance.

Neighboring Barn Burned—Farmers' Club Arranges for Assistance.

The home of Eli Le Beau, a farmer at Hermantown, was completely destroyed, and the barn belonging to Charles F. Wittich, residing across the Hermantown road from the Le Beau place, was also burned to the ground in a fire that started shortly after noon yesterday. The loss to Le Beau is complete, no insurance being carried, while a policy of only about $200 was carried by Wittich.

The fire is believed to have started from a spark from the chimney of the Le Beau home. The roof was discovered ablaze by Mr. Le Beau and another neighbor at about the same time. Both rushed to the home and a general alarm was turned in among the neighbors, all of whom responded quickly.

Mrs. Le Beau was working in the kitchen preparing dinner and was not aware that the home was on fire until the neighbors and her husband rushed in. Only a small amount of the furniture was saved. Strenuous work on the part of the volunteer firemen, composed of nearly every farmer in the district, saved the surrounding property, with the exception of the barn belonging to Mr. Wittich.

The high wind made it necessary to watch property for a half mile to the eastward. Fire brands were carried high in the air and dropped in close to the homes of neighbors.

Mr. Le Beau lost, in addition to his home and household furniture, 150 bushels of potatoes, stored in the basement, and all of his seed which still was to be planted this spring. Mr. Wittich had ten tons of hay destroyed besides a number of implements stored in the barn.

Provisions for the relief of the family were made last night at the meeting of the Farmers' and Producers' club of Hermantown. Every assistance that the members can render is to be given. Included will be that of erecting a home for the stricken family. All other business excepting that of discussing what they could do for their neighbor was dropped for the evening.

CHILD BUYS CANDY; IS KILLED BY AUTO

Little Lyda Hubert Had Just Promised to Be "Good Girl."

Little Lyda Hubert, the 4-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Leander Hubert, who was killed yesterday by the car belonging to Assistant Chief Granzow near her home on Vernon street, was just returning home from the store across the street where she had bought a sack of candy, when she was struck by the auto.

The child had been given a nickel only a few minutes before by her mother to buy candy on a promise of being a good girl while her mother went down town to do some shopping. She had left the store and reached the middle of the street when she noticed the large red fire auto coming. Evidently she became confused. She started back, and despite attempts on the part of the driver to avoid her, the machine struck and crushed her, after the car had been turned into the ditch at the side of the street. The machine was being driven by Mack McCullum.

The child was the youngest of a family of seven children. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 8:20 o'clock at the St. Jean Baptiste French Catholic church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street. Interment will be at Calvary cemetery.

LARGE CLASS CONFIRMED.

Fifty-Two Are Received at St. Peter's Italian Church.

A class of fifty-two received confirmation Sunday by Rt. Rev. Bishop McGolrick at St. Peter's Italian church, Eleventh avenue west and Superior street. This was one of the largest classes in the history of the parish. Italians of all parts of the city crowded the church. The pastor spoke to the people in Italian and Bishop McGolrick in English. The mass was sung by the Rev. Father Robillard of the French church, who kindly came to assist Father Garilli, the pastor of the church.

"College Chums," a comedy of college life, will be given by the Y. M. C. A. club assisted by the Y. L. Sodality of St. Peter's Italian church for the benefit of St. James' orphanage, at 8 o'clock tonight at the cathedral auditorium.

MISSION SOCIETY WILL HOLD MEETING.

The Women's Home and Foreign Missionary society of the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street, will hold its meeting in the church tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. At 3:30 o'clock the society will hold a reception in honor of Mrs. Richard Locke, who will leave in a few days for England, where she will make her home.

Mrs. Fred G. Hanson will be hostess for the afternoon. Mrs. W. B. Patton will be in charge of the program and Mrs. M. McBride will be in charge of the social activities.

Thurnsors-Larson.

Miss Esther Thurnsors and Axel Larson were married at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the parsonage of the First Swedish Baptist church, 2212 West Third street. Rev. Swaney Nelson read the service. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. John Moberg. Mr. and Mrs. Larson will reside at Ninth street and Twenty-fourth avenue west.

Informal Party.

Miss Esther Anderson, 2620 West Fifth street, entertained informally at her home last evening. Spring flowers were used about the rooms. The guests were: Misses Helen Jackson, Pearl Johnson, Julia Lofald, Signe Feyling, Louise Johnson, Josie Jackson, Gertie Seglem, Olga Benson, Marie Johnson, Angelia Feyling, Thora Seglem, Inga Brende, Florence Peterson and Messrs. Fred Johnson, Harold Johnson, Henry Hillman, Merle Anderson, John Seglem, Ernest Hanson, Charles Johnson, Sam Momb, Anker Anderson, Olaf Wick, Jarl Hanson, A. M. Solie and Herman Johnson.

Nelson Funeral.

The funeral service for Leander K. Nelson, 18 years old, who died Sunday at St. Luke's hospital, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from Olson and Crawford's undertaking rooms. Interment was at Park Hill cemetery. Rev. F. O. Hanson of the Trinity English Lutheran church officiated. The young man resided with his mother at 103 South Twenty-seventh avenue west. He is also survived by three brothers.

West End Briefs.

Lena Blackstad of Minneapolis is spending a few days visiting friends in the West End.

Rev. C. O. Larson of Chicago is a guest at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Swaney Nelson, 2212 West Third street.

Misses Mildred and Julia Bergquist, 2030 London road, will entertain for the Philathea class of the Swedish Baptist church at her home this evening.

Miss Theresia Liljegren of the West End will leave tomorrow for Grand Lake, where she expects to spend several weeks with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Peterson, 2720 West Second street, will entertain Friday evening for the Young Ladies' society of the First Swedish Baptist church. Plans will be made by the society for its summer's activities.

Rev. Swaney Nelson, pastor of the Swedish Baptist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, will conduct midweek services Thursday evening.

CROP CONDITIONS QUITE FAVORABLE

Everything Seems to Favor North Dakota Farmer This Year.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—More favorable crop conditions prevail in North Dakota than existed a wee kor ten days ago, continuous warm weather and sunshine during that period, and which was broken up slightly by local showers yesterday, producing better growing conditions.

Seeding Practically Done.

Seeding is practically completed in the northeastern counties; there are some small grains still to be seeded in the northwestern region and in the southeastern district, while in the southwestern counties the seeding operations are completed.

Flax seeding is well under way in the northeast and grain and corn are about the only things remaining to be planted.

PLAN MISSOURI DAY AT BIG EXPO.

St. Louis, Mo., May 19.—Details of the Missouri exhibits and plans for a Missouri day at San Francisco next year were discussed here today by the Missouri commissioners to the Panama-Pacific international exposition. It is planned to have Governor Elliott W. Major, his entire staff and other prominent Missourians at the fair on that day.

LEPROSARIUM NEED URGED

Health Authorities Aroused By Escape of John Early.

Leper's Wife Has Remarried and Lives Near Tacoma.

Washington, May 19.—Officials of the United States public health service were exercised today over the escape of John R. Early, the leper, whose case has attracted public attention for several years, from the Diamond Head quarantine station near Port Townsend, Wash.

Reports last night to Surgeon General Blue gave details of Early's escape, stating that he left the quarantine some time last Friday, other lepers in the colony aiding him in his plans and concealing his departure from attendants for many hours. Early was traced to Victoria, B. C., but according to late reports to Washington, has left there and was believed to be on his way to this city, where he once was confined.

"The escape of Early," said Surgeon General Blue, "again demonstrates the necessity for a national leprosarium, where patients can be properly cared for and safely guarded."

Seen at Victoria, B. C.

Seattle, Wash., May 19.—John R. Early, the leper whose case attracted widespread attention a few years ago, has escaped from the Diamond Head quarantine station near Port Townsend, where he has ben confined under the care of the United States public health service, and is at large. News of his escape was received by Dr. Eugene Helley, state health commissioner.

Early was last seen at Victoria, B. C., last Saturday. He is believed to have crossed the Strait of Juan Del Fuca in a launch from the quarantine station near Port Townsend, and to have been waiting in Victoria for an opportunity to return to Tacoma, his former home.

Early's wife obtained a divorce at Tacoma soon after his commitment to Diamond Head, re-married, and is living near Tacoma.

Early contracted leprosy while serving with the United States army in the Philippines in 1903.

BLOCK ISSUES HIS FORMAL STATEMENT

Goes Into Detail of Record as State Treasurer and of Recommendations for Changes—Tells of Former Achievements.

The longest statement of a candidate for office that has been issued this year, and one of the longest ever issued in the state, is that of Julius H. Block of Duluth, candidate for the Republican nomination for state auditor. Mr. Block was for several terms state treasurer while a resident of St. Peter, and is well acquainted with state department conditions as they were, at least. For this reason he goes into detail to show where revisions may be made and a saving of money with more efficiency can be brought about. His statement covers twenty-two typewritten pages of legal cap.

However, the chief plank in his platform is that of advocating the selling of foreign bonds held by the state and the investment of the money thus used in local bonds. He asserts that he was the first one to make that suggestion in a practical and definite way. It was in the case of the Virginia bonds, owned by the state and amounting to $2,145,000, and in this case he cites at length, showing that he brought the matter before the state investment board on Aug. 5, 1905, with the recommendation that the bonds be sold and the money reinvested in securities of Minnesota. He was voted down, 4 to 1.

Other planks in his platform, briefly stated, are:

A recommendation to have the examination of the books and records of all executive departments of the state made by a recognized accounting agency instead of by the public examiner, thus taking politics out.

That the capitol should be under the control of a commission composed of the executive family of the state.

That the contingent funds of the various departments should not be used to defray unnecessary traveling expenses or for any other purpose than those reasonably and legally warranted.

Suggestions of modern reorganization plans in the various departments, with a warning against the sweeping character of the plan proposed by the efficiency and economy commission.

He declares that the function of the insurance department is simply compiling statistics and requires no special training, ability or experience, although, he says, "they have been magnified to an amusing degree." He asserts that thousands of dollars can be saved in this department.

Suggests that settlers should be permitted to go on state lands and make their necessary improvements for a term of years before making a first payment.

Mr. Block goes carefully into detail and backs up his statement with copies of documentary evidence.

SOO PRESIDENT IS OPTIMISTIC

Edmund Pennington Sees Good Crop and Business Outlook.

Edmund Pennington, president of the Soo Line, is of the opinion that crop prospects in the Northwest were never so good as at the present.

"The area under crop along our lines is larger than last year," he said in the course of a recent interview at Minneapolis. "The grain is strong in the ground so that if periods of adverse weather come in June or July, it ought to stand up well for a long time."

Mr. Pennington said that according to his information, the Northwest is in exceptionally good condition in a business way in the face of the pending decision in the railroad rate case and other factors making for conservatism. The complexion of the situation in the West is brightening up as the agricultural outlook becomes more definite.

The road's new Chicago terminal is proving its value, a 20 per cent increase in the volume of merchandise handled resulting since it was opened, he averred.

SPRING THE ONE TIME IN ALL THE YEAR TO SELL YOUR USED AUTOMOBILE

You Can Reach 98 Per Cent of Prospective Purchasers

The spring season time is the cream of the entire year for selling cars.

The desire to own a machine is strongest when the weather is becoming balmy and everyone likes to take a spin in the country.

Of the prospective buyers 98 per cent can be communicated with at small expense.

That 98 out of every 100 of the present automobile owners are Subscribers to The Duluth Herald was shown when a comparison was made between names of car owners in Duluth and vicinity and the subscription records of The Duluth Herald.

The kind of high-class newspaper which appeals to the people who bought cars previously also appeals to the people who are buying this year, therefore 98 per cent of those who are buying this year are readers of The Duluth Herald.

These interested people watch the "automobile" column in the "Herald want ads" carefully. Your car offered there will have the consideration of all these future automobile owners. Ask for a "want" ad man, who will be pleased to call on you and assist in writing your ad.

LECTURE ON ADVERTISING.

Charles N. Buckbee of St. Paul Will Give Illustrated Address.

An illustrated lecture on advertisements and their arrangement will be delivered at the next meting of the Duluth Advertising club by Charles N. Buckbee of St. Paul. The next meeting will be held in the Commercial club rooms one week from tonight and it is expected at that time a general invitation will be issued to advertisers, not members of the club, to attend.

Mr. Buckbee will use lantern slides in connection with his address.

MISS LINEHAN APPOINTED.

City School Teacher Will Go to State Employment Bureau.

Miss Margaret Linehan of this city was yesterday appointed by W. P. Houk, state commissioner of labor, to take charge of the woman's department of the state free employment bureau. She will succeed Mrs. M. B. Rosing, who has been appointed postmistress at Cannon Falls, Minn.

Miss Linehan took the civil service examination for the position last June and her papers are said to have shown that she could repeat the labor laws word for word. The appointee is a teacher in the city schools. She formerly resided at St. Paul. Miss Linehan will assume charge of her new duties about June 15.

LAW WILL BE TESTED.

Right of Fire Marshal to Condemn Property at Issue.

Pipestone, Minn., May 19.—The law under which the state fire marshal condemns buildings is to be tested at the session of the district court which opened here yesterday. Mrs. Grace Keyes refused to comply with an order of the fire marshal to remove a building and action has been brought against her to comply with the order. An effort will be made to have the law declared unconstitutional.

BRIDGE COMPANY ON FULL TIME

Big Plants of American Will Operate at Capacity.

A reassuring piece of news comes in the statement that after working at half capacity for several weeks, orders have just been issued to operate the large plants of the American Bridge company at full time.

The company is reported to have sufficient contracts now on its books to assure the operating of its plants on a capacity basis over a considerable period. It is employing a large force here in pushing through its contract for the erection of the steel in the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad's new ore dock at Thirty-second avenue west. It has, besides, considerable miscellaneous work booked in the towns through the district.

BERT KRIBSBACK

has been a resident of Duluth for 20 years and has always taken an active part in its up-building. He has never before sought elective public office, but his capabilities for commissioner of the Second district are well assured by the fact that he was street commissioner for five years and later was road foreman for George Tischer, and again filled the same important position for John Tischer. Mr. Kribsback knows every want of the Second district and if elected as commissioner, will give an administration such as only an experienced man can give—economical and efficient.

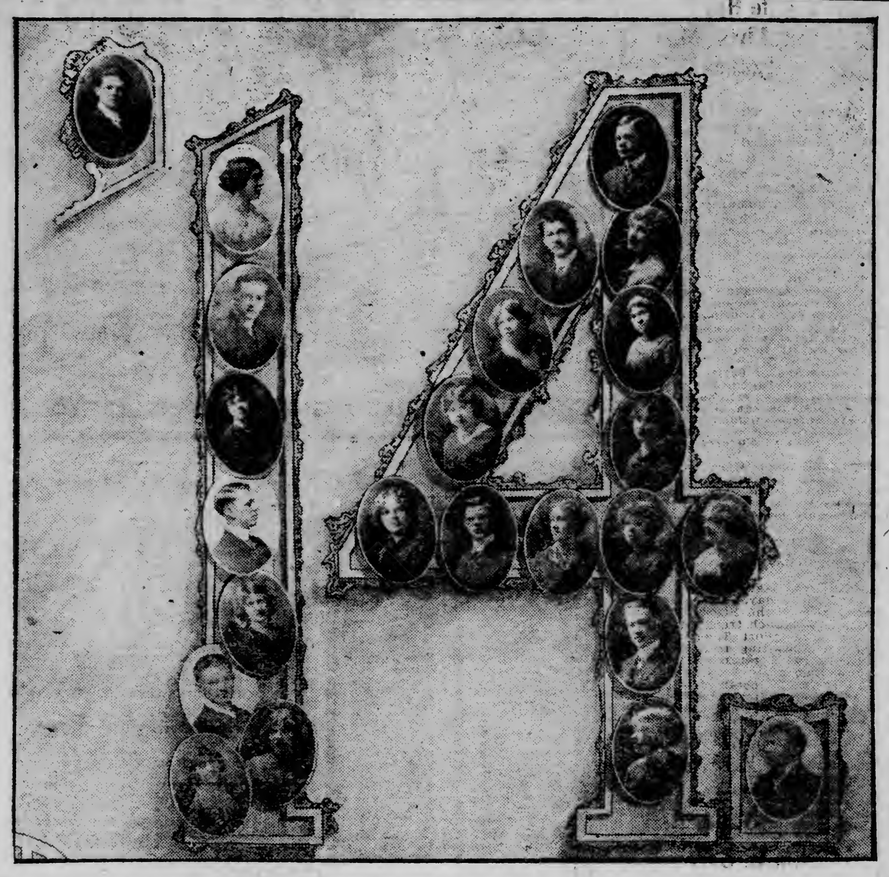
BIGGEST CLASS IN HISTORY OF INDUSTRIAL HIGH SCHOOL WILL BE GRADUATED NEXT MONTH



Upper Left Hand Corner—John Davis, "Mayor" of the Duluth Industrial High School.
Reading Down the Figure One—Selma Kauppi, Otto Blais, Daisy Wallace, Otto Olafson, Marian McLimans, Joseph Unenski, Hilma Johnson and Ida Fieldman.
Reading From the Top Down the Slanting Bar, Then Cross Bar and Later the Straight Figure of the Four—Harry Randall, Charles Nichols, Norene McNelis, Emeline Brett, Evelyn Wallin, Allen Forsberg, Bessie O'Brien, Vivian Nichols, Lillian Flaherty, Marie Haney, Elna Wicklund, Beatrice Williams, Page Sashin, and Alice McAuley.
The Period—Clarence Erickson.

A class of twenty-six students will graduate next month from the Duluth Industrial high school at West Duluth. The above picture shows twenty-four of the young people. Two others, Louis White and Clifford Little, will also receive their sheepskins.

The class is the largest in the history of the school. Last year the school graduated twenty-five students and the year before twenty-two received diplomas.

Six of the class will graduate as honor students. The young people on the honor roll are Vivian Nichols, Harry Randall, Lillian Flaherty, Marie Haney, Charles Nichols and Clarence Erickson. These pupils have attained a high scholarship during their entire four years in the high schools.

As yet the date for the graduating exercises has not been definitely set, nor have the students been chosen who will represent it in the closing exercises. These will probably be announced within another week.

BOYS WILL HAVE SWIMMIN' HOLE

"Wilcox Baths" Will Be Opened By the City on June 1.

The boys of West Duluth will again have a free swimming hole under the supervision of the city. Harry Cleveland, superintendent of city parks, and Lieut. Charles E. Wilcox of the West Duluth police station are making plans for the opening of the beach on June 1.

Some improvements, which will include the setting out of stakes and roping off the beach to a distance of about 300 feet into the water, as well as placing the dressing shanty in shape, will have to be made. The funds for this purpose will be secured by popular subscription among the merchants and other philanthropic citizens of this end of the city.

"The city will be unable to give any funds toward making any improvements in the place," said Mr. Cleveland this morning. "What expense there is to putting the place in condition will have to come out of donations made by the people interested. The city will pay for a watchman and caretaker."

The "Wilcox baths" were established three years ago by Lieut. Wilcox, after numerous complaints had been received from residents along Keene's creek and on the banks of the river that boys were using the place for bathing. Since the establishment of the baths there have been none of these complaints. The bank being used at the foot of Sixty-third avenue was created several years ago by government dredges when dredging out the channel. For a distance of 300 feet the water has a gradual slope to a depth of four feet. At this point the outer danger ropes are stretched and boys are forbidden to go beyond those lines.

Hundreds of boys have used the place daily during the summer time. A plan has been advanced to have the place divided so that one side of the beach may be used for girls. It has not been definitely decided to do this during this year, but it is probable that some action to that end may be taken for 1915.

FIRST STRAW HAT OF THE SEASON.

The first straw hat of the season made its appearance on the streets of West Duluth yesterday. While the season was still fourteen days off the weather was ideal.

The wearer of the hat was Rev. Walter Sievers, pastor of the German English Lutheran church.

"I just got back from Chicago, and everybody there is wearing a straw hat," said the pastor. "The weather there is not any better than here. If anything the atmosphere is balmier here than there."

AMATEURS WILL PRESENT PLAY.

The Young People's Society of the Hazelwood Presbyterian church has arranged with the management of the Alhambra theater for the presentation of an amateur play on June 3. The play to be presented will be "Prairie Rose." Rehearsals are being held three times a week by the young people.

MOOSE LODGE WILL HAVE CLUB ROOMS

The Great Eastern hall is undergoing a number of changes in order that the place may be utilized for up-to-date club rooms for the West Duluth lodge, No. 1478, Loyal Order of Moose. The society recently closed a contract for a long lease of the hall and it will be fitted up in modern style.

A handsome club room, rest room, gymnasium and baths will be among the changes made in the hall. The rooms will be in charge of a caretaker who will be at the hall every day between the hours of noon and midnight.

JAMES GEHERTY.

The West Duluth lodge has made a big gain in membership since the charter was opened. It now has nearly 300 members and when the charter closes at the meeting on Thursday, this week, it is expected that 300 will have been secured. James Geherty, organizer of the local lodge, said today that the West Duluth lodge has proved to be one of the most progressive in the state.

The new officers of the lodge are: M. J. Filiatrault, dictator; A. E. Brewer, past dictator; R. J. Baker, vice dictator; M. J. Roach, secretary; L. A. Barnes, treasurer; Thomas Foublister, Henry Butler and W A. Pond, trustees.

Longfellow Banquet.

The Longfellow Alumni association will hold a business meeting in the school building tomorrow evening at which plans will be made for the annual banquet to be held early in June. Ragnar L. VETERANS HOLDING REUNION AT FARGO

Allied Organizations Also Are in Session There.

Fargo, N. D., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The encampment of the North Dakota Grand Army of the Republic and allied bodies is in session here. The visitors were welcomed by President Emery of the city commission and the veterans and their wives were handed the keys of the city. The rest of the forenoon and first part of the afternoon were spent in routine business of the different organizations. This afternoon at 4 o'clock the visitors were given an auto ride around the city. Tonight there will be a camp fire. Washington Gardner, national commander of the G. A. R., and Mrs. McBride of Indianapolis, president of the Women's Relief corps, are here.

Here is a hair-removing treatment that is free from pain or danger and requires very little time: Make a paste with some powdered delatone and water, spread this on the hairy surface and in about two minutes rub it off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. Excepting where the growth is unusually stubborn, you will find a single application sufficient to banish every hair. To guard against disappointment, it is best to get the delatone in an original package.—Advertisement.

GETS $6,250 FOR INJURIES

Jury Returns a Verdict Against Great Northern in Montee Case.

Damages Are Awarded to Father of Boy Who Lost Leg.

Cecil Montee, 17-year-old son of Mathew P. Montee of McGregor, Aitkin county, Minn., will recover $6,250 from the Great Northern Railway company for the loss of the use of his left leg which was cut off in an accident June 24, 1913, while in the company's employment at Allouez, providing a verdict which was returned by a jury in district court before Judge Ensign this morning stands.

The jury retired to consider the case about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and after having deliberated for a few hours, reached a verdict. As the court was not in session at the time, the finding was sealed and delivered in open court this morning. The jury awarded the damages to Mathew P. Montee, father and natural guardian of the boy, in whose name the suit was instituted.

Young Montee had been employed by the company only two weeks when the accident occurred which cost him his left limb. While crossing the yards at Allouez he claimed that he signaled the hostler in charge of a passing switch engine to slow down and let him get aboard. Just as he attempted to do so, it is claimed that the locomotive lurched forward and that he was thrown underneath the wheels. Montee had been working as a boiler washer. Through his father, he sued for $20,000.

The jury found that responsibility for the accident rested with one Harry O'Dell, the hostler's helper, who admitted having seen the signal given by Montee. The company was held liable for the mistake.

Samuel A. Anderson of St. Paul, and Warner E. Whipple of this city, were attorneys for the plaintiff, and Baldwin, Baldwin & Holmes defended.

DEBATE TOLL REPEAL BILL

Gallinger Opposes and Burton Defends It in the Senate.

New Hampshire Man Declares Repeal Would Be Weak Retreat.

Washington, May 19.—Predicting that the day would come when the Democratic party would abandon its opposition to ship subsidy, "just as it had changed its attitude on slavery, the Civil war, the gold standard and free trade," Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire today defended the toll exemption for American coastwise vessels passing through the Panama canal.

He said that the $25,000,000 worth of church property in Washington exempted from taxation was as much a subsidy as the tolls exemption. To be consistent, he said, the Democrats should erect a tollgate at Cape Henry and off Sandy Hook.

Senator Gallinger insisted that a weak retreat, "such as proposed from the nation's attitude on tolls," would simply be an incentive to Japan to renew with fresh vigor its claims in California and to other nations to resurrect old grievances.

Burton Defends Repeal.

Senator Burton of Ohio declared the diplomatic policy of the United States in recent times in favor of equality for all nations positively forbids the discrimination in favor of American vessels by tolls exemption at the Panama canal. The senator said the United States had stood for the open door policy as distinguished from discrimination in China, and had insisted upon artificial waterways along the Canadian border being used on equal terms. He said it was too late now for the United States to change its policy for its own benefit.

The senator pointed to the canal treaty with New Granada, the one negotiated with Nicaragua and the one with Panama as showing that when it was intended to grant exemption to coastwise vessels, the point was specifically mentioned. He contended it would have been mentioned in the Hay-Pauncefote treaty had it been intended that the United States should have the privilege.

He said that the exemption of American coastwise vessels was particularly unfair to the Central American countries, whose coastwise ships would use the canal largely.

ON THE IRON RANGES

SIX EVELETH DISTURBERS GIVEN JAIL SENTENCES

Ringleaders in the Riotous Scenes of Monday Are Punished.

Normal Conditions Returned Punishment Having Had Good Effect.

Eveleth, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The aftermath of the riotious scenes enacted here Monday, when a mob composed of young Sicilians, late arrivals from the old country and few actually formerly employed here, yelling for work and carrying red flags, tried to induce men working on a paving job and at some of the mines to quit, was staged in municipal court today before Judge Moylan, when six of the ringleaders were punished. They got straight county jail sentences for resisting officers and disorderly conduct. One was ordered on city work. One man, who is married, was allowed the privilege of paying a fine, but the others will have to go to jail unless appeal bonds are furnished which had not been done at 1 p. m. today. It is notable that few of the real Italians of the city who heretofore have been willing to help their fellow countrymen in the way of bail have volunteered to come to the assistance of the accused, indicating the ringleaders have not much sympathy here.

Quiet Is Restored.

The disorderly scenes of yesterday will not be repeated today and perhaps not very soon as the result of the drastic action of the local and the Oliver Mining company police in promptly arresting the ringleaders and hailing them into court. The men were all tried by Judge Moylan today without counsel for either side, the court hearing some evidence, then promptly pronouncing the accused guilty and imposing sentence. All will be taken to the county jail unless they give bail which is not expected.

Nearly all are young men. An effort will be made to deport one for a prior crime.

The sentences and charges preferred against each follow:

Gomerzzi Nazzareno, assaulting Officer Pincus, thirty days.

Peter Rossi, disorderly conduct, thirty days.

Fordiri Torfirio, resisting an officer, thirty days.

Tony Bronka, sentence suspended because of his age, 19.

Vincent Bicianel, resisting an officer, will probably be deported, as he was punished two months ago for carrying concealed weapons.

Frank Valenta, assaulting Officer Joe Schoenk of the Oliver police force, thirty days in the county jail or a fine of $30, the fine being given because he is married.

Tedigrini Tomaso, disorderly conduct, twenty days on city work.

How Riot Started.

The trouble started yesterday morning when a mob of young men, mostly Sicilians, visited the mining offices in the Spruce district and demanded that the single men who are out of employment be given at least ten days' work each month and the married men fifteen days each month.

No violence was offered at the Spruce offices and the men proceeded from there to Adams avenue, where the Lawrence-McCann Contracting company had a crew of about thirty men working on a paving job. The men had increased to 100 or more when it reached the paving crew.

A demand was made that the workmen strike for $2.50 per day, a high wage under present labor conditions. Their tools were grabbed from their hands, wheelbarrows turned over and the engine on the concrete mixer stopped. Chief of Police Thomas Finnegan appealed to the men and persuaded them to disburse, but they reassembled a few blocks distant and proceeded to No. 1 shaft of the Oliver Iron Mining company at the Fayal mine, where arrangements were being made to lay off the last shift and cease work.

The mine is outside of the city and an Oliver Mining company officer ordered the mob, which had increased to over 200, to leave the property. The men refused to leave and the city was appealed to for help. An auto with a squad of officers was hurried to the scene and the leaders were placed under arrest.

Chauffeurs Stoned.

The chauffeurs of the auto which the police took and of another machine which the police tried to impress into service were forced to flee from stones hurled by the mob and the officers were forced to walk their prisoners to the jail, the crowd of unemployed crowding about them.

Officer Pincus, a city policeman, was struck by a rock in the back and Joseph Shoenik, an Oliver officer, was struck on the head with a club. The police were forced to use their clubs and several times it was necessary to draw guns to keep the rioters back.

The unemployed lined the streets near the jail for some time, but the crowd gradually broke up. The rioters were without a leader and their movements were uncertain. Many in the mob did not know the purpose of the demonstration and when questioned said that they were striking, although they had no jobs.

A red flag, made by tacking a cheese cloth banner onto a lath, was seized by the police. It is said that the American flag was first carried in front of the red, but that it gave place to the anarchist banner and was finally hurled down.

The mob consisted almost entirely of young Italians. It is estimated that not 10 per cent of the rioters were citizens of the United States and that less than half were residents of Eveleth. Many had been in the country only a few months.

Threats were overheard during the afternoon and evening and the city officers were on hand this morning when work was resumed on the city paving. The Oliver Iron Mining company hurried extra officers here by auto from other range towns and they will remain until affairs quiet down.

The city is doing everything possible to see that bona fide residents of the city get work. The council will attempt to get considerable paving work started when they meet tonight. The erection of a new school building will begin in a short time and will give employment to a number of laborers.

HIBBING WILL GO AFTER LAND

Justice of Peace Is Named to Start Proceedings Before.

Hibbing, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village council held a meeting this morning in order to permit Mayor Victor Power to participate before leaving for Idaho, where he has a case pending in the Federal court.

The council decided to go ahead with proceedings looking to acquiring the twenty acres of state land south of town needed for waterworks purposes and to that end appointed Former Judge S. Lekze, justice of the peace, before whom the proceedings may be started, there being no justice of the peace here at present. The state is favorable to the proceedings and will be present when the formal condemnation proceedings are started.

Chief Given Vacation.

Chief of Police Archie McFadden who is suffering of a lung complaint, was given indefinite leave of absence and will go to Michigan and other places in hope of relief. Sergeant William Dwyer will be acting chief during his absence. The salary of Municipal Judge T. F. Brady was raised from $3,000 to $3,600 per year.

The township boards of Stuntz and New Balkan are holding proceedings necessary to proceed with the proposed highway work between Hibbing and Chisholm.

There are few indications of brush fires around here today.

FIRE MENACING VALUABLE TIMBER

Flames Sweeping Along Ely Lake May Reach Rich Fuel.

Eveleth, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—A brush fire burning on this side of Ely lake, a short distance south of Eveleth will reach a valuable stand of timber unless it is checked. The state forestry service has been appealed to for protection by the owner of the timber, Mike Cronin.

A tract of land near the lake was logged last winter and the slashings were left in bad shape. If the fire reaches the slashings it is said that the standing timber will be doomed.

A brush fire raged on the opposite side of the lake Sunday but it was in cut-over land and did little damage. The sky has been smoky for several days and it is said that there are numerous fires in the territory adjacent to the city and unless there is a rain soon considerable damage will be done.

INSPECT PROPERTY.

Duluth and Chisholm Men Pleased With Prospects at McComber.

Chisholm, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Night Sergeant John Kelly returned from McComber yesterday where he has been inspecting the property of the Mutual Iron company with a number of Duluth men interested also in the property. The Duluth parties went in special car to Allen Junction where Mr. Kelly joined them.

Mr. Kelly speaks well of the property which is located in section 14, 62-14 on the shore of Lake Armstrong. The drills are down to a depth of 100 feet and have penetrated forty-five feet in ore and are still in ore.

Mr. Kelly brought with him a sample of ore which he will have analyzed locally. Samples previously taken show 65 per cent iron and the mine promises a big thing. Johnson & Osterberg of Virginia have the drilling contract and believe that the ore body is a large one and fully expect to see as big a mine as any of the other properties on the Vermilion range.

James Cardle is president. Tilt Lewis is secretary, both Duluth men.

The townsite of McCumber which is also owned by the Mutual Iron company is located between two beautiful lakes, Lake Armstrong and Clear Lake.

ILLEGAL FISHERMEN ARE BEING CAUGHT

Nine Lawbreakers Rounded Up at Biwabik and More Suspected.

Biwabik, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—War has been declared against illegal fishing on the Mesaba range and the flat has gone forth to gather in all who persist in breaking the laws. B. F. Myers, the local member of the state game and fish commission, is red hot on the trail of these law breakers as evidenced yesterday when he procured the arrest of nine who were haled before Judge Salmon. Eight of them were fined $10 each and one was fined $25 and costs. Some more arrests are expected to be made today in this locality, while George Wood is hot on the trail of law breakers in the Hibbing locality.

VIRGINIA TO VOTE ON SELLING SCHOOL

People to Decide Whether Property Shall Go to Church.

Virginia, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The board of education decided last night after a long discussion to call a special election for June that the people may decide whether the Central school building shall be sold to Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic church for a parochial school for $32,000, the value fixed by the appraisers. Rev. Mr. Neff appeared before the board and opposed the sale, contending the district needed the school. Father Powers, who appeared in the interest of the prospective purchasers, said the only thing to decide was whether the district wanted to sell the building to the church at the price fixed by the appraisers. The board, after discussing the matter in all its phases, ordered the special election for June 1.

UNKNOWN FINN FOUND HURT BESIDE TRACK

One Leg Apparently Taken Off By Iron Range Train.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—An unknown man was found this morning about 8 o'clock laying beside the Iron Range tracks near the east side of Waldo-loop and one-quarter of a mile from the Waldo block station, with one leg severed about midway between the knee and the ankle and the other leg badly crushed and bruised. He was found by William Schweiger, a section foreman, who put him on a handcar and brought him to this city, where he was placed in the Budd hospital. Dr. Christensen said that the left leg would have to be amputated about half way between the ankle and the knee. While the other leg was severely crushed and bruised, there is little danger of it having to be amputated.

Cannot Explain Injury.

The injured man is about 23 years of age and is a Finn. He does not speak a word of English, consequently nothing could be learned concerning the accident. Men of his own nationality were taken to the hospital for the purpose of interpreting, but for some reason or other he was not inclined to talk.

It is believed he was hurt while attempting to board a northbound train which passed that point about 7 o'clock this morning. The injured man had been lying beside the track nearly an hour before he was discovered.

MADRID MINE CLOSED.

About Sixty Men Are Thrown Out of Work at Virginia.

Virginia, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Madrid mine here, operated by the Eureka Ore company, was closed down yesterday and about sixty men thrown out of work. The only reason assigned is the low price offered for ore.

TWO ELY DEATHS.

Gust Neimi and a Child 8 Months Old Pass Away.

Ely, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gust Neimi died at the Shipman hospital this morning from appendicitis. He was about 30 years of age and had made his home here for twelve years. He was single and leaves no immediate relatives here. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

The 8-months'-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Krantz died yesterday afternoon and was buried today from the Catholic church.

SECTION 30 HAS BAD FIRE SCARE

Dryhouse Burns and Trees Nearby Also Catch.

Ely, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire completely destroyed the dry house at Section 30 mine about four miles east from here yesterday. It is not known how the fire started. The "dry" is used as a place for changing the clothes before going down in the mine, and a majority of the men lost their clothes in the fire. There was locker room for the 150 men employed at the mine.

Near the dry were two pine trees, and the flames shooting up from the burning building started a fire in the trees, the high wind carried the flames, and in a few moments Section 30 had not only a building on fire, but had also to fight a forest fire right on the border of the town. At no place are the buildings of the location more than 200 feet from the forest, so the whole location was threatened.

An appeal for aid was sent to Winton, which was responded to by the volunteer fire department of that village, and the forest rangers from Ely were called out. The flames were soon under control, but a shift in the wind would have caused a fight to be made for the safety of the town.

SCARLET FEVER WELL IN HAND

Two Harbors Health Officers Believe Epidemic Is Checked.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Only four new cases of scarlet fever have been reported during the past week, consequently the city officials and the board of health feel confident that it will only be a matter of a week or two until the disease will be completely checked. The four new cases have developed in homes which have been previously under quarantine. There are but twenty-two residences under quarantine which is about one-third of the number quarantined a month ago. The cases that have developed during the past week are as follows: William Kaasalanen aged 3; Louis Courscile aged 4; Pearl Freeman, aged 3; and John Sande, aged 9 years.

Grand Rapids Firms Move.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Henry Hughes of Henry Hughes & Co. is moving his business into his new temporary location in the Itasca Mercantile company's store here. The Itasca Drug company and James Connell, who is going in the confectionery business, are getting located in the building made vacant by Henry Hughes & Co.

Capture Ely Class Honors.

Ely, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Norrine Simpson of Winton has captured the first honors for the class of 1914 of the Ely high school and she will present the salutatory at the commencement of the class on June 4. Jerry Harri of Ely won second place and honors will be valedictorian of the class. Both have been awarded scholarships by Carleton college and Hamline university.

While work seems to be very slack here, the building profession seems to keep well occupied. Work is being done on a number of houses at the present time and several business blocks are being repaired and remodeled.

BIWABIK WATER SUPPLY SHORT.

Biwabik, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—This village is hard pressed for an adequate water supply as the result of recent operations in the Ruddy mine where a shaft has been sunk forty feet lower than the shaft in the Biwabik mine from which the present supply comes so that the present supply is drained. The village board has called in the services of hydraulic engineers and will proceed to take immediate steps to get a supply from another source at once.

VIRGINIA RESORTS ORDERED CLOSED.

Virginia, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The police and fire commission decided last night by a vote of 2 to 1, after an animated discusion, to close all resorts here and so ordered Chief of Police Gateley. The chief and his officers today are serving notice upon the keepers of all places where men and women consort to close such places in the future.

Chisholm Planting Trees.

Chisholm, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Superintendent of Parks Arthur A. Bischjold finds his hands full these days trying to keep the work of the various departments under his direction going. The replacement of trees that died the last year is in itself a big item and in addition comes the extension of boulevards. Village Engineer Fred Lang and Street Commissioner Filp Harrington are each endeavoring to keep the work moving so that the trees can be set on grade and each have large crews working to that end.

Eveleth Department on Jump.

Eveleth, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fire department had not returned from a run for a chimney fire on Fayal road yesterday when an alarm was turned in for a blaze in a warehouse in the rear of the Levant dry goods store on Grant avenue. Part of the apparatus was turned back before it reached the station. The fire started in some rubbish thrown into the alley to be hauled away and was extinguished before it did any damage.

Eveleth Ball May 22.

Eveleth, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—A ball will be given at the city auditorium May 22, by the E. P. P. exposition committee. The receipts will be given to a fund which is being raised for a Finnish-American building at the San Francisco exposition.

Grand Rapids Juniors Hosts.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The junior class of the high school tendered the seniors a banquet at the high school auditorium Saturday evening. Some after dinner speeches were made by members of the faculty.

Back From Mesaba Range.

Ishpeming, Mich., May 19.—John Hooper has returned from Eveleth and Chisholm, Minn., on the Mesaba range, where he has been visiting his sons, John and Thomas, for the last two months.

ELWELL ROAD JOB HAS BEEN GIVEN

Partridge & Harmon to Build Bemidji-International Falls Highway.

Bemidji, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following the favorable action by the state highway commission, contracts have been let for the building of the Elwell road between Bemidji and International Falls. Partridge & Harmon will get the contract for the entire highway, with the exception of section B, which is largely ditch work. George A. Snyder of International Falls will get this contract.

Sixty persons were entertained at the reception given by juniors of the high school, in honor of the seniors of the school, at Jester farm, where automobiles took the guests.

Richard Fenton, an amateur actor of Bemidji, appeared for the first time on a professional stage Sunday evening, when he took the role of the Irish policeman in "The Saleslady."

PARK RAPIDS DEATHS.

W. A. Burnett, Prominent Democrat, and Mrs. Witham Are Called.

Park Rapids, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. A. Burnett died at his home here Monday morning. Mr. Burnett was one of the leading citizens of this place. He came here sixteen years ago as manager of the Carpenter Lumber company until the mill closed down in 1913. Since then he has devoted his time to his farm here. He paid especial attention to sheep and had a large flock of pure breds.

He was always active in politics. He served for many years as county committeeman for the Democratic party. He was always present at the state and national meetings and attended the state conference this year at St. Paul.

His health had not been the best for the past year and exposure from caring for his fine flock of sheep compelled him to be up much nights in the inclement weather of the past month. He fell a victim to pneumonia. He was 73 years of age. He leaves a wife and one son, Ward Burnett of Minneapolis.

Mrs. Mary Witham, wife of Waldo Witham, died of cancer of the throat Sunday morning, aged 53. Mrs. Witham was prominent in Rebekah, Modern Brotherhood and in the Ladies of the G. A. R. circle. The funeral was held today under the direction of the Ladies of the Rebekahs and she was buried from the Episcopal church of which she was an active member.

GRAND FORKS HAS LANDED M. E. MEET.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Grand Forks was selected by the general council of the residential area of the Methodist church, which includes several Northwestern states, as the place for the 1915 meeting.

The annual council has just been concluded at Butte, Mont., where the Grand Forks representatives, Dr. E. P. Robertson and Dr. J. G. Moore were successful in obtaining the next gathering for this city.

The residential area council includes all of North Dakota, Montana, South Dakota and parts of Idaho and Oregon. Its membership is limited to the district superintendents, of which there are eighteen, with Bishop Luccock as the head.

MALLETS QUENCH FIRE.

Big Engines Soon Extinguish Blaze in Brookston Depot Platform.

Brookston, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock fire was discovered under the platform of the Great Northern depot here. Two Mallet engines were quickly filled with water and steamed up close to the fire and soon the flames were put out. The damage was small.

The Brookston baseball team defeated Floodwood Sunday afternoon in a well-played game of ball. It was the first game for both teams, but most of the players showed good form. The batteries were: Sauers, Carroll and Stein for Brookston; Adams and Cobb for Floodwood.

WRITES SON IS DEAD.

Cruel Hoax Perpetrated on Relative of Man in Mexico.

Bemidji, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—A "friend" of Paul Hoover, who is in Mexico, wrote the young man's father, W. E. Hoover, superintendent of the Fargo public schools, that Paul was dead. The father sent the message to the boy's sister, Miss Helen Hoover, supervisor of domestic science in the Bemidji high school. Paul later wrote a long letter telling of his experiences and relieving a high tension of anxiety.

Park River Missionary Meet.

Park River, N. D., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Northwestern Women's Foreign Missionary society of the church will meet here Thursday and Friday.

The principal speakers will be Mrs. J. B. Eaton of Fargo, Mrs. W. H. Pasco of Pembina, Rev. A. W. Brown of Park River, Mrs. J. Hull of Grand Rapids, Mrs. E. Treleaven of Hannah, Mrs. J. Moore of Hope, Mrs. F. A. Gossman of Dazey, N. D., Miss Ethel Halcrow of Grand Forks, and Mrs. G. D. Taylor of Minneapolis.

Two Grand Forks Meets.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Grand Forks will entertain this week, the North Dakota Dental association and the Grand Forks and Park River districts of the Luther league.

The dentists will have sessions Friday and Saturday.

The Lutheran meeting opens Thursday evening and continues till Sunday, with a join choir concert Sunday afternoon.

Fires Around Brookston.

Brookston, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Forest fires have been burning quite briskly near here for the past couple of days. Thus far no damage has been done, but unless rain soon falls a great portion of the neighborhood will be fire-swept. Today local citizens made fire breaks around the western limits of the village as a matter of precaution.

H. W. RICHARDSON, Local Forecaster.

EXPLANATORY NOTES.

Observations taken at 8 a. m., seventy-fifth meridian time. Air pressure reduced to sea level. ISOBARS (continuous lines) pass through points of equal air pressure. ISOTHERMS (dotted lines) pass through points of equal temperature; drawn only for 32°, freezing, 90°, and 100°. ○ clear; ◑ partly cloudy; ● cloudy; R rain; S snow; M report missing. Arrows fly with the wind. First figures, temperature; second, precipitation of .01 inch or more for past 24 hours; third, maximum wind velocity.

FAIR

Even though he started out with a threat of probable showers, since his return Weather Forecaster Richardson is behaving very commendably and says that we may have fair weather if we insist upon it for tonight and tomorrow without much change in temperature. Strangely enough a shower would not be amiss to kill off the grass fires; which goes to show that humans are never satisfied.

A year ago today was partly cloudy and cold. The sun rose this morning at 4:27 and will set this evening at 7:41, giving fifteen hours and fourteen minutes of sunshine, two minutes more than yesterday.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Rather warm weather prevails in most districts east of the Rocky mountains. Showers fell during Monday or last night throughout the Northwest, Eastern Nebraska, Kansas, Western Missouri, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana, Northern and Eastern Texas, South Carolina and Florida. Heavy rain fell at Fort Smith, Ark."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, May 19.—Forecasts for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Wednesday:

Wisconsin—Fair tonight; Wednesday probably cloudiness; mild.

Iowa—Mostly cloudy tonight and Wednesday, probably showers; mild.

Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota—Mostly cloudy tonight and Wednesday; not much change.

Montana—Generally fair tonight and Wednesday; not much change.

Upper and Lower Michigan—Generally fair tonight and Wednesday.

AH! MY TIRED FEET ACHED SO FOR "TIZ"

How "TIZ" Eases Sore, Swollen, Sweaty, Calloused Feet and Corns.

Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, aching, burning, corn-pestered, bunion-tortured feet of yours in a "TIZ" bath. Your toes will wriggle with joy; they'll look up at you and almost talk and then they'll take another dive in that "TIZ" bath.

When your feet feel like lumps of lead—all tired out—just try "TIZ." Its grand—its glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; also you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions.

There's nothing like "TIZ." It's the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause foot torture.

Get a 25 cent box of "TIZ" at any drug or department store—don't wait. Ah! how glad your feet get; how comfortable your shoes feel. You can wear shoes a size smaller if you desire.

HEADACHE AND DIZZINESS

Headache is never a disease. It is always a symptom. Applications, powders and tablets that drug the headache into quietude are treating the symptoms, not the disease, always a useless proceeding and often harmful.

When the headache is associated with some dizziness it is usually the result of nervous exhaustion and will continue as long as the person who is overworked allows the debility to continue. It rapidly disappears when rest and the proper tonic is taken.

Nervous exhaustion, tht cause of such headaches and dizziness, results from a strain on the nerves with which the rebuilding work of the blood is unable to keep pace. The best tonic for such a condition is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills build up the blood and strengthen the nerves. With this treatment, unless the overwork, worry, or whatever has caused the nervous breakdown, is persisted in, the headaches, dizziness, nervousness and irritability that characterize neurasthenia rapidly disappear.

The Dr. Williams Medicine company, Schenectady, N. Y., will send free on request a helpful little book on the home treatment of nervous disorders. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are obtainable at any drug store.

Why French Women Have Few Wrinkles

American women marvel at the velvety skins of their Parisian sisters and rather chide the fate which treats the European so graciously when, in reality, it is neither chance nor nature which makes the difference. It is only the difference of care and the use of proper treatment which marks the beautiful skin from the wrinkled, unpleasant one. The heavy massage is one of the American institutions which makes the flesh and skin flabby, while the use of a simple vegetable jelly cream takes little time and both cures wrinkles and protects against them. It will not grow hair nor stain bed linen and acts immediately. Just dissolve one ounce of almozoin (every good druggist carries this) in ½ pint water and before retiring apply the paste thus made to the wrinkled surface. At the very first application you will feel a slight drawing and note the fact that the blood is more active in the region which is covered. This means stimulation of the face muscles and a greater supply of flesh-building material brought to the surface at the place it is most needed, which will demonstrate its power to smooth the skin and stimulate it so that the surface becomes perfectly healthy.

MARKET HAS SHARP JUMP

Wheat Sells Higher on Crop News From Over Southwest.

Flaxseed Is Steady, With Day's Trading in Light Volume.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 19.—The market gathered strength in the late trading, and closed at the top. May wheat closed 1¼c up; July 1¼c up and September 1c up. May durum closed ½c up and July ½c up.

Oats closed ¾c up at 39¼@39¾c for on the track, and at 39¼c for to arrive.

Rye closed 1½c up at 59½@61½c and barley unchanged at 55@59c for choice stuff.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed at 38½c bid and July at 38½@38¾c bid.

Puts on Minneapolis May wheat closed at 92⅞@93c, and calls at 94¾c bid.

The present market in grain is mainly a weather proposition from day to day, with the trade keeping close tab on conditions in both the winter and spring wheat territories.

Today's market turned strong on a batch of further disquieting news emanating from the Southwest. The areas affected by Hessian fly are said to be gradually widening with the appearance of the pest reported in Illinois and Nebraska, in addition to Missouri. Snow's report regarding Missouri districts was very bullish, being to the effect that prospects had been reduced one-third since May 1 in five counties in that state.

There was a continuance of the good export and Eastern inquiry that had been in evidence during several days back and some foreign business was reported to have been worked locally. The trade is taking cognizance of the fact that stocks of spring wheat in the elevators at the Head of the Lakes are now down to only 4,436,000 bu, a portion of which is contract stuff. Going to make up the balance of the 6,003,000 bu of wheat now in store here are 8,000 bu winter wheat, 511,000 bu of bonded and 1,048,000 bu of durum, more than one-half of which will be wanted for export. This is thought to leave a very small margin to operate on during the next two months. Receipts at this point are now increasing with the coming to hand of supplies from country elevators. Inspections today came to 134 cars against 125 a year ago. A rush of wheat is on at Winnipeg just now, arrivals there today amounting to 420 cars against 296 last year.

Current reports regarding seeding conditions in the three Canadian Western provinces are encouraging. It is said that wheat seeding has been completed and that in some districts the plant is up three and four inches above the ground. The crop is considered to be about as far advanced as last year, but the season is later than 1912. It is thought that little if any increase will be shown in the area seeded.

May wheat opened ¼c up at 95c and held there, with no trading reported up to the final hour. July opened unchanged at 94⅞c and advanced ¾c and the September option opened ¼c up at 90c and gained ¼c. A moderate business was put through in July durum. It opened unchanged at 90¼c and gained ¼c.

Flaxseed Steady.

Flaxseed showed moderate strength on the appearance of fair inquiry from crushers and light offerings. Operators are becoming more strongly convinced that the area of flax seeded in both the American and Canadian Northwest will show a substantial decrease from last year. This is leading to a more bullish sentiment on the part of holders.

The market closed steady with final prices showing small gains.

Foreign markets were strong. Buenos Aires closing 5⅝c up for July; Antwerp ½c up and London 1¼c up.

May flax opened unchanged at $1.56¼ and closed ½c up at $1.56½. July opened unchanged at $1.57⅞ and closed ¼c up at $1.58 asked. September opened ¾c up at $1.59⅝ asked and the October option opened ⅝c up at $1.57⅜ and closed ½c up at $1.57⅞ asked.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed at $1.36¾ bid and July at $1.39¼.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Lecount wired from Carrollton, Ill.: "Some wheat here is badly affected by fly. All fields are slightly affected. The crop looks well from the road and is just coming into head, but when you examine the plant, you find the fly is 50 per cent of the stalks, and the whole fly infested territory has certainly been reduced many million bu.

B. W. Snow wired from St. Louis: "Drove today through counties of Pike, Illinois and Pike, Lincoln and St. Charles, Mo. All big acreages. The situation in both Pike counties is very bad. Large acreages are entirely worthless and everything except the very latest seeding is seriously hurt. In Lincoln and St. Charles counties the damage is less, but it is serious in places. It is difficult to make figures but safe to say that the whole area seen today has lost one-third in prospect since May 1. Usually the fly does not show up until just before the harvest, but this year the larvae is so numerous on each stalk that the plant is killed even before it heads out. The ground surface is very dry and caked. Oats are suffering and corn germinating and growing very slowly."

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Influenced by lower American wheat cables, profit-taking developed at the opening and values were ¼d to ⅜d lower. Following the opening, the near month declined an additional ⅛d. Expectations were for a liberal increase in the visible here. During the morning shorts covered on firmer and fewer Manitoba offers, strength in spot, further complaints regarding the American winter wheat outlook, strength in Buenos Aires and less favorable European crop prospects. The morning's loss was recovered, and at 1:30 p. m., the undertone was steady and unchanged.

"Corn opened under profit-taking, with prices ½d lower. A weaker Buenos Aires futures market, more favorable Argentine weather reports, and liberal Plate offers were the influences. Following the opening, there was a further decline of ⅛ to ¾d, but toward mid-day shorts covered and prices advanced½ @¾d from the low point on steadiness in spot, decreasing stocks here and a scarcity of offers for the near positions. At 1:30 p. m., prices were ¼d lower."

European visible wheat supply is placed at 76,824,000 bu, against 73,860,000 bu last week, increase, 2,960,000 bu.

Foreign crop summary:

Hungary—Some rain is reported, but the area not affected is still large. At least 5,500,000 bu of foreign wheat has already been purchased.

Roumania—There has been some replowing of wheat and corn and rains are greatly needed.

Russia—In the Azoff region there are some complaints of the crops being backward. Further rains have fallen in the southwest. Interior reserves are estimated to be large.

North Africa—Crop conditions are bad.

India—Owing to crop failure in some districts, and resultant high prices, mention is made of fears of famine.

Other countries report generally favorable conditions, but rains are needed in the near future.

Baker had the following from C. E. Lewis at Minneapolis: "Crop reports from the Southwest are not so reassuring this morning, and a material reduction in the winter wheat crop might easily occur from insects and adverse climatic conditions, and bring this year's total to a crop of approximately the size of last year's. The world is awaiting with anxiety the outcome of the winter wheat crop. Foreigners are buying as sparingly as possible until it begins to move, and millers are not contesting for old supplies beyond their immediate needs. We look for a big demand for the early movement of new wheat and should anything go wrong, it would be taken at higher prices."

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Opens Low, But Quickly Develops Strength.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 19.—Wheat was stronger here today following the opening, which was slightly below yesterday's close. Light offerings and insect reports were quoted as being responsible for the strength. Trading was extremely light in all of the options.

Wheat—May opened 92c; 93¼c; 92c; 93¼c. July opened 92¼c; 93⅝c; 92c; 93⅜c.

Cash: No. 1 hard, 98⅝c; No. 1 northern, 95⅝@97⅝c; to arrive, 95¾@96⅝c; choice to arrive, 97⅜c; No. 2 northern, 93⅜@95⅜c; to arrive, 97⅜c; No. 3 wheat, 91⅝@93⅝c. Corn—No. 3 yellow, 67½@68c; No. 3 white oats, 38½@38¾c. Flax, $1.54@1.56.

The strong cash wheat prices have caused an advance in the higher grades of flour. Fancy patents, $4.85 in wood; first clear, $3.60 in jute; second clears, $2.85 in jute; shipments, 48,900 bbl.

Barley, 43c to 57c; rye, 59½c to 61½c; bran, $22 to $22.50.

REMARKS—Showers fell over Manitoba, Montana, North Dakota, Eastern Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma.

Weather crop report for week ending May 18:

The weather favored winter wheat in all districts including the Pacific coast states; although there were a few reports of damage by Hessian fly, the outlook continues excellent. In the spring wheat belt seeding has been delayed in portions of Minnesota, but early sown in North Dakota is making excellent growth.

Corn planting is well advanced in the Central and Western districts but has been further delayed in Eastern districts. The weather was too cool for the rapid germination of oats. Hay is in good condition, except that in some sections it needs rain.

H. W. RICHARDSON,
Local Forecaster.

*—Inches and hundredths.
†—Highest yesterday, lowest last night.
‡—Not included in the averages.
NOTE—The average highest and lowest temperatures are made up at each center from the actual number of reports received and the average precipitations from the number of stations reporting 0.10 or more.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Hessian Fly Stories Boost Wheat Prices Higher.

Chicago, May 19.—Uneasiness over crop damage from Hessian fly carried the wheat market today sharply higher. It was conceded that the loss certainly amounted to many million bushels and there seemed no telling what the final outcome would be. Pit offerings were light and buying orders the rule. Quotations which started the same as last night to ⅜c higher, continued to rise without any material setback.

Afterward the market receded temporarily, a consequence of the government weekly crop report proving bearish. Later hessian fly damage was reported from Piqua, O. The close close was strong, ½c to 1¼@1½c net higher.

Corn ascended with wheat. Fine weather and easier cables were ignored. Prices opened ¼c off to ¼c up, and then made an advance all around.

Increase of country offerings checked the advance. The close though was firm, ⅞c to ⅞@⅞c above last night.

Firmness of other grain influenced oats. So also did the fact that a Canadian cargo here had failed to reach contract grade.

Provisions ruled steady with hogs. Trade was small.

STRONGER SITUATION IN COPPER STOCKS

Some Good Buying Develops Through List---Butte & Superior Still Features.

The movement in mining stocks at Boston was narrow today, but the trading came at slight advances over yesterday's range in most issues.

Butte & Superior monopolized a large proportion of the day's operations and the issue closed fractionally up at $40.50. Alaska Gold closed unchanged at $28.50; Butte & Ballaklava a fraction up at $2.87; Calumet & Arizona 25c off at $66.75; Greene-Cananea 25c off at $33.50; Granby 25c up at $32.50; North Butte 25c off at $27; Shattuck 25c up at $24. 75, and Amalgamated Copper 25c up at $73.13.

There was more trading in Duluth curb stocks than in some time back. Alex Scott was easier, selling at $4.50. Calumet & Sonora sold at 70 cents; Carman at 22 cents; Calumet & Corbin at 32 cents; Chief at 85 cents; Denn at $8.25; Florence at $15; Keating at $1.63, and Savanna at $1.63.

At St. Louis, lead closed dull at $3.80@3.85, and spelter quiet at $5.

Paine, Webber & Co. had the following from Boston: "A better feeling exists regarding the general business outlook and this is being reflected in our markets. We look for much higher prices this week."

* * *

The regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 was declared on Granby, payable July 15 on stock of record May 29.

* * *

John D. Ryan in his report to Amalgamated stockholders said in part: "Any marked recovery in business in this country, which we feel cannot be long delayed, is in our opinion certain to be reflected in a higher level of prices for copper metal than the present one."

* * *

Greene Cananea's output for April was 2,632,000 pounds of copper, 74,153 ounces of silver and 399 ounces of gold.

A wire from Boston relative to North Butte, received by Paine, Webber & Co., said: "Private dispatches from Butte says it is reported that the ore on the 2,400-foot level of the Edith May is running as high as 9 per cent copper with large silver values.

ADVANCES WIPED OUT

Stocks Start Higher, But Drop Under Unfavorable Influences.

Prices in Main Show Fractional Changes at the Close.

New York, May 19.—Apart from renewed weakness in a few isolated issues, particularly Chesapeake & Ohio stocks bore evidence of further accumulation in the course of today's early session. Trading was on a fairly active scale, but with continued lack of public demand. Overnight developments were without material bearing on the general situation and announcement of more gold exports and contemplated financing by the Northern Pacific railway were without adverse effect.

All the better known stocks registered slight gains at the opening and these were extended in some instances, United States Steel assuming leadership at a fraction over its best quotations of the previous day.

The market failed to hold any considerable part of its early advance, Steel, Reading and Union Pacific soon yielding, with sympathetic heaviness elsewhere. The unfavorable figures disclosed by the foreign trade report, supplemented by discouraging utterances of prominent merchants, served to call renewed attention to the state of mercantile business.

Increased weakness in Chesapeake & Ohio and Missouri Pacific was associated with pending financial difficulties. Some selling of Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific and the coppers was reported for foreign account. Recessions in Lackawanna and Pittsburg, C. C. & St. Louis on small offerings occasioned comment by reason of their usual inactivity.

Bonds were irregular.

Trading languished later and the market became heavier. Western issues reflected the less favorable weather reports. Contraction in bank reserves resulting from continued gold outflow, caused a further hardening of rates for money and demand sterling rose to $4.8840. Rock Island bonds were heavy, while Wabash 4's rose several points.

The market closed strong. Initial firmness of the market was partly offset later by various unfavorable influences, including poor weather reports, pessimism in high business circles and stiffening of money rates. Chesapeake & Ohio recovered all its loss, and prices in the main showed fractional changes.

FIGHT OVER A LICENSE

Hot Dispute as to Renewal of Last Chance Saloon Permit.

Different Stories as to Conduct—Other Matters Before Council.

The city council is probably scheduled for a hot fight over the renewal of the saloon license of A. J. Erickson at 19 South Sixty-third avenue west, this afternoon.

Commissioner W. A. Hicken, head of the division of public safety, has announced that he will recommend to his colleagues that the license be not renewed, some unfavorable reports having been received on the manner in which the place is conducted. It is claimed that drunkenness and brawling are too common and that being on a far end of a patrolman's beat it is difficult to give it proper police supervision. This morning the commissioner received a letter from a woman residing in the vicinity of "The Last Chance," as the saloon is known, stating that drunken men had come to her home and threatened her with knives and offered insults.

On the other hand many persons have visited the members of the council with assertions to the effect that the bar is properly run, and that this has been particularly true in recent months. Some have called in person and others have spoken to the councilmen over the telephone or communicated with them through the mails. It is said that Erickson will be represented before the council by Attorney Walter F. Dacey, who will be accompanied by a large delegation to support Erickson's plea that "The Last Chance" be allowed to continue in business.

Luther Dawson, colored, proprietor of the saloon at 21 West Michigan street, has been cited to appear before the council this afternoon to show cause why his license should not be revoked. He recently pleaded guilty to selling liquor without a license, having utilized a room back of his bar to sell intoxicants after 11 o'clock at night.

Although Dawson will probably be put out of the saloon business the councilmen favor the granting of another license for a colored saloon. They feel that the negroes should have a place of their own and believe that the best solution of the problem is by allowing them a licensed saloon.

Judges of election will be appointed at the meeting today. Four will be named for each of the forty-three districts, making a total of 172.

A resolution will be passed accepting the offer of the Norton estate to dedicate an easement for the 36-inch water main through their holdings east of Lester river and agreeing to vacate the present road when the county road or an extension of Superior street is improved.

A resolution will likely be passed directing the city attorney to take the steps necessary to condemn a right-of-way for an alley between Fourth and Fifth streets and Eleventh and Fourteenth avenues west.

A petition of property owners on Twenty-ninth avenue west between First and Third streets will be presented, asking that the avenue be paved in front of their holdings. The avenue has been paved with concrete between Superior and First streets and the contractors are willing to complete the job to Third street at the same prices.

Since the council passed a resolution for paving Vernon street with brick an effort has been made to have the material changed to sandstone. But as the majority of property owners expressed themselves in favor of brick at the hearing last week the council will not make any changes.

AMERICA WILL SAIL FRIDAY

Steamer Will Be Repaired and Start on South Shore Trip.

Louis P. Hogstad, division manager of the Booth Lines, announced today that the steamer America, which grounded on Fisherman's Point near Two Harbors during the recent heavy fog, will probably be put into commission again Friday. She will continue her freight and passenger service by making a trip along the south shore, touching at Fort Wing, Herbster, Cornucopia, Bayfield, Washburn, and Ashland.

The steamer Easton belonging to the same company, the United States & Dominion Transportation company, will be put into commission for the season's business June 1. She will make Port Arthur, Isle Royale and other Lake Superior points. She will carry both freight and passengers.

STOP TAKING ORE FROM MARQUETTE

The Iron Trade Review says: "Ore dock agents at Marquette have been advised from Cleveland that shipments from that Lake Superior port by the United States Steel corporation have been discontinued indefinitely. The reason is that unless business conditions improve decidedly there will be no demand for heavy shipments from the old range mines. Corporation officials are not willing to hazard a guess as to what these shipments will be.

"The Steel corporation's shipments from the Marquette range have been very light to date this spring. Only one steamship of the company has loaded at Marquette. It is explained on the Gogebic range that the recent curtailment of the Steel corporation operations in that region was made necessary because practically all the available stockpile room had been filled and ore was being hoisted at a rate greater than shipments could be made direct from the shafts."

INTERNATIONAL WAR RIGHT IN ST. PAUL

Cow Starts Fracas in Foreign Colony—Peace Pact in Court.

St. Paul, Minn., May 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—A little international mediation conference that may escape historians was staged in municipal court here when representatives of Hungaria, Poland and other factions of a local foreign section agreed to refrain from further clashes and to end a miniature war participated by a cow.

Testimony showed that Carl Toth had permitted his cow to feed in his neighbors' gardens; that the son of Mrs. Ella Lenway stoned the cow; that Joseph Havlick attacked the Lenway home with a pickax; that others became involved, and that soon the entire district was the scene of wild disorder.

Those arrested were released after the "peace pact" was agreed upon.

FEARED HE WAS ABOUT TO BE ROBBED

Michael Rich Fired Two Shots to Frighten "Robbers."

Michael Rich, 48 years old, saw two men sitting on a step near Eleventh avenue west and Superior street, late last evening, and immediately he pulled out his revolver and fired two shots in the air.

The report of the revolver attracted Patrolman Danielson to the scene, and he placed Rich under arrest on a charge of discharging a firearm. In police court this morning he told the judge that he thought the men were going to hold him up, and that he fired to frighten them away.

After pleading guilty, Rich was referred to Probation Officer Hicks and later sentence was suspended.

BANDS OF MERCY IN RURAL SCHOOLS

Humane Society Agent Will Put in Week Visiting the Schools.

Children of the iron range town schools are being organized into Bands of Mercy this week by Miss Ethel Norris, assistant agent of the Duluth Humane society. Miss Norris expects to put in the entire week visiting the schools in the various range towns on one of the humane society's annual missions.

The band of mercy idea has for its purpose the cultivating in the mind of the child a kindlier regard for dumb animals. One of its particular purposes, however, is to impress upon the mind of the school children the necessity of protecting bird life.

During the week, Miss Norris will visit schools at Hibbing, Virginia, Eveleth, Chisholm, Buhl, Tower, Ely, Mesaba, Gilbert, Mountain Iron and McKinley.

LEGAL NOTICES.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE—Whereas, default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, which was duly executed and delivered by Virginia Fairview Realty Company, a corporation under the laws of the State of Minnesota, mortgagor, to Edmund G. Walton, mortgagee, bearing date the 4th day of November, 1912, and duly filed in the office of the Registrar of Titles in and for the County of St. Louis and State of Minnesota on the 18th day of November, 1912, at 9 o'clock A. M., and was duly registered in said office in Book 52 of Register of Titles, on page 144, said mortgage being document file number 10607, which said mortgage, with the debt thereby secured, was thereafter duly assigned by the said Edmund G. Walton to W. T. Bray by an instrument of assignment dated the 3rd day of December, 1913, and filed in the office of the Registrar of Titles in and for the County of St. Louis and State of Minnesota, on the 11th day of December, 1913, at 5 o'clock P. M., and duly registered in said office in Book 52 of Register of Titles, on page 144, said assignment being document file No. 13625, said default consisting in the non-payment of the interest due on said mortgage debt, which interest was due and payable on the 4th day of May, 1914, amounting to the sum of $36.00, no part of which has been paid, by reason whereof said assignee of said mortgage has elected to declare the whole sum secured by said mortgage and note therein described, with all accrued interest thereon, to be now due and payable;

And, whereas, there is, therefore, claimed to be due, and there is actually due upon said mortgage debt, at the date of this notice, the sum of $938.40, principal and interest; and,

Whereas, said mortgage contains a power of sale in due form, which has become operative by reason of the default above mentioned, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof;

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage, viz.: Lot numbered twenty-eight (28) and the East twelve feet and six inches of Lot numbered twenty-nine (29), in Block numbered ten (10), Fairview Addition to Virginia, according to the recorded plat thereof on file and of record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for St. Louis County, Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said St. Louis County in his office in the courthouse in the City of Duluth, in said county and state, on the 10th day of July, 1914, at ten o'clock A. M. on that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of $938.40, and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and Fifty Dollars ($50.00) attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the date of sale, as provided by law.

MAYOR PRINCE and H. H. BORGEN,

CHAIRMAN of the ROTARY CLUB CLEAN-UP COMMITTEE,

Have Extended Clean Up Time to Next Saturday Night. Here is What They Say:

¶Clean up all basements and chimneys in the residence and business sections, and have all rubbish removed to the proper place.

¶Clean up the front yard and see that the gates are in proper order.

¶Clean up the back yard and see that all rubbish, tin cans and ashes are removed.

¶Clean up the sidewalk; build gutters in front of house.

¶See that all fences are in proper condition—repaired and painted to make them look right.

¶Repair and paint all screens and awnings and have them put on.

¶Repair and paint all lawn and porch furniture.

¶Repair and paint all porch floors and steps.

¶Repair and paint up all roofs, eaves and gutters.

¶Boost for cleanliness for terminal entries to the city.

¶Repair and paint up residences and business buildings, and advocate something similar for all public and municipal buildings not now in first-class condition.

LEE MAKES VIGOROUS REPLY TO THE KEYNOTE SPEECH BY EBERHART

Resents Governor's Campaign of Innuendo, Insinuation and Name Calling.

Eberhart's Attempt to Deceive the People Regarding His Record.

Real Issue Is Whether Political Machine Is to Control Government.

A FEW SHOTS BY LEE.

The issue in this campaign is not the primary election law.

Any attempt to repeal the law or weaken it would meet my positive opposition.

The real issue is whether a political machine, operating in secret, or the people as a whole, is to determine the policies of our government.

Two years ago a majority of 40,000 against Eberhart could not defeat him. A majority against him this time will defeat him. This is the chief cause of his irritation.

If the governor is sincere in his professions concerning the primary, why does he not also urge that the people be given the right to vote upon the liquor question by counties? Why does he not urge the adoption of the initiative and referendum or the submission of woman suffrage to popular vote?

St. Cloud, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charging that Governor Eberhart, in his "keynote speech" delivered here Friday night, had deceived the people of St. Cloud, and through them the people of Minnesota, as to his position on present public questions and his attitude on legislative issues in the past, William E. Lee, anti-machine Republican candidate for governor, made a vigorous and spirited reply here last night before an audience that taxed the capacity of the opera house. It was a unique gathering, in that Mr. Lee addressed practically the same audience that had a few nights before gathered to hear the governor's address.

"Governor Eberhart as an individual is not an issue, but Governor Eberhart as an official is," said Mr. Lee in opening his address. "He proclaims that he stands on his record and his position

IS TO BE BRIDE OF J. P. MORGAN'S SON

LOUISE CONVERSE.

Boston, Mass., May 20.—Louise Converse is to marry Junius S. Morgan, Jr., son of J. Pierpont Morgan. She is the daughter of Frederick I. Converse, a well-known composer of Boston. Her family is not wealthy. Young Morgan, who is 23, will graduate from Harvard next June and will probably be married in the fall.

PADDLE VAGRANTS WITH BARREL STAVES

Fort Wayne Police Clip Tramps' Hair and Run Them Out.

Fort Wayne, Ind., May 20.—A squad of five patrolmen under the direction of Capt. Richard Kelly last night arrested twenty-two vagrants who had camped in the outskirts of the city, marked each man by clipping a furrow through his hair with a pair of horse clippers, ordered them out of town, and as they ran, "paddled" each with a barrel stave.

The vagrants were told that if captured before the clipped hair grew out they would be sent to the stone pile for 100 days.

The tent and equipment of the camp was burned.

DAGO FRANK'S STORY BARRED

Court Refuses to Admit It as Evidence in Becker Trial.

Former Police Lieutenant May Not Testify Himself.

New York, May 20.—The confession that "Dago Frank" Cirofici made an hour before he went to the electric chair at Sing Sing will not help Charles Becker in his fight to prove his innocence of the murder of Herman Rosenthal for which Cirofici and his three companions already have paid the penalty. The supreme court, before which Becker is on trial for the second time, refused today to admit testimony dealing with this confession.

"Dago Frank," before he died, swore he had never heard the name of Becker mentioned until Rosenthal had been killed. The defense had planned to place upon the stand the sister of the dead gunman, the priest who accompanied him to the chair, the warden and the principal keeper at Sing Sing to testify to the authenticity of this confession, but Justice Seabury's ruling defeated their intentions.

Becker's face fell when he heard the ruling.

Occurred After Murder.

The court held that evidence pertaining to the confession was not admissible because it was an incident that occurred after the murder.

In an effort to establish an alibi for Charles E. Becker, charged

RESERVATION TOWN BURNED

Redcliff, Wis., Destroyed Before Rain Checks the Forest Fires.

Danger Still Exists Along Wisconsin Railway Lines.

Ashland, Wis., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—A drizzling rain set in this morning, which will temporarily check forest fires. Redcliff village, on the Indian reservation near Bayfield, is reported burned; also many logs on Bad River reservation belonging to the Stearns Lumber company. Extensive damage has been done to telephone companies' poles, which have been burned all over Northern Wisconsin. Iron River, wiped out by the same fire which destroyed Hinckley in the early '90s, was quite severely hit by the fire, which destroyed a sawmill and part of a lumber plant. The telephone exchange at Spencer burned.

Fires Along Railroads.

State Fire Marshal Lucius arrived at Ashland today. From a personal inspection of the fire situation, he says fires exist on the Northwestern road as far as 150 miles south of Ashland. He has ordered all the railroad north of Marshfield patrolled. Mr. Butler's summer resort on Flambeau Lake has burned and there were big fires near Saxon, Cedar, Van Buskirk, Woodruff, Manitowish and Elko. The Robbins Lumber company near Rhinelander lost two barns.

Fires are nearly continuous along the Northwestern for 150 miles and similar conditions exist on other lines.

Woods Still Dry.

Calumet, Mich., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Forest fire danger in the Keweenaw peninsula, Northern Michigan and part of Wisconsin was checked this morning by heavy rains which for a time amounted to a deluge. The rain prevented damage to the extent of many thousands of dollars. The woods still are very dry, however, from lack of rain for nearly a month. Settlers and small villages throughout the forest fire district are clearing fire belts around their homes and the railroads are doing what they can to prevent further outbreaks of the conflagrations. Much damage already has been done.

Sidnaw Is Safe.

Railroad reports from Sidnaw this morning deny that that town was partially destroyed by forest fires yesterday. Fires raged in the bush close about Sidnaw, but the town was not seriously threatened. The flames were quenched by this morning's rains. All wires to Sidnaw are down today.

The Copper Range railroad yesterday sent crews of fire fighters to Falcston and Toivola, where they beat bush fires back from railroad stations and prevented serious loss.

JUDGE HAS RIGHT TO TOTE GUN ON BENCH

Wisconsin Court Admits He Needs It to Inspire Respect.

Prairie du Chien, Wis., May 20.—A judge has the right to carry a revolver when sitting on the bench, in case he needs it to enforce respect for his decisions and protect himself against a mob, decided Judge George Clementson in circuit court here today. He heard the charge brought by District Attorney Munson against Judge David L. Dobson of the municipal court at Bell Center. Dobson was accused of carrying concealed weapons.

"There's a rough element at Bell Center, judge," explained Dobson, "and unless backed by a gun there is no 'kick' in my decisions."

The case was dismissed.

MELLEN CONTINUES STORY OF FINANCIAL DEALS OF NEW HAVEN

Interest in His Recital Keeps Keen at Capital.

His Testimony May Occupy Another Couple of Days.

Morgan Domination Is Shown to Commerce Commission.

Washington, May 20.—When the interstate commerce commission resumed today its investigation into the alleged exploitation of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad and the disposition of millions of dollars from its treasury through the acquisition at extravagant prices of subsidiary properties, Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New Haven, was ready to take the witness stand and continue his remarkable story concerning these transactions.

Interest in Mr. Mellen's testimony was heightened today because it was generally expected that he would make further revelations concerning the extraordinary deals which are alleged to have cost the stockholders of the New Haven fortunes.

When he left the stand yesterday, after a day of questioning by Joseph W. Folk, chief counsel for the commission, Mr. Mellen had recited the story of how the late J. Pierpont Morgan had absolutely dominated the New Haven's affairs, and how millions of dollars had been spent in awed and ignorant silence at Mr. Morgan's command.

Interest Keeps Up.

Interest in the remarkable story being related to the interstate commerce commission showed no abatement when Mr. Mellen resumed his testimony. Before the hour of beginning the proceedings the hearing room was well filled with spectators, who waited interestly the arrival of the principals in the case.

Mr. Mellen arrived early, accom-

M'EWEN WILL TAKE POSTOFFICE JUNE 1

Senate Confirms the Nomination of Duluth Man.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, May 20.—Just before adjournment last night, the senate confirmed the nomination of W. E. McEwen as postmaster at Duluth.

This nomination has been held up at the request of Representative Miller, who objected to the removal of Postmaster Cook on what he declared to be "flimsy" grounds. Mr. Miller did not object to the confirmation of Mr. McEwen at what he believed to be proper time, but he wanted Mr. Cook to serve out his full four-year term, which will expire in June.

Mr. McEwen will have to file a bond of $80,000 before he gets his commission. It is expected here that he will assume office about June 1.

T. R. JUMPS INTO POLITICS

Denounces Administration Policies on Colombia and Canal Tolls.

Plans Most Strenuous Campaign of His Public Life.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., May 20.—Twelve hours after Theodore Roosevelt returned from South America he was back today in the thick of politics. He was up early, and as soon as breakfast was over he was hard at work, picking up the threads where he dropped them seven months ago.

"Blackmail" to Colombia.

The Wilson administration's attitude in the controversy with Colombia over the Panama canal was criticized by Col. Roosevelt. He objected strongly to the payment of what he termed "blackmail" to Colombia.

"In submitting to this," he said, "it is just as though some future president of the United States should apologize to the successor of Huerta for the seizure of Vera Cruz. As for the payment of $25,000,000 to Colombia—" here the colonel threw up his hands—"well, that is unthinkable."

Col. Roosevelt expressed himself as strongly opposed to the repeal of the law for the exemption of American coastwise ships from payment of Panama tolls. He said he thought it perfectly right to arbitrate the question if the rights of the country to grant exemption were in question; but believed that to yield the point without arbitration as indefensible, as he was convinced that the United States was within its rights in freeing coastwise ships from payment of tolls.

When he goes to Washington next week, he said, he will be ready to refute statements of Henry Savage Lan-

STRIKE IN CHICAGO FORECASTED IN VOTE

Switchmen on Eighteen Railroads May Be Called Out.

Chicago, May 20.—Ballots of nearly 5,000 switchmen on the question of calling a strike against the eighteen railroads in the Chicago switching district were counted today. The first two roads to be recorded were almost unanimously in favor of a strike, and should this condition prevail with all, as it is expected to do, a powerful weapon will be placed in the hands of A. F. Whitney, vice president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, who is empowered, under the vote, to conduct further negotiations with the conference committee of the railroad managers' association before calling out the employes.

MOTHER AND BOY DIE IN FIRE IN ST. LOUIS

St. Louis, Mo., May 20.—Two persons are dead, a third is dying and several others are nursing severe burns as the result of a fire which early this morning destroyed a three-story frame building which had been occupied by three families.

The dead are: Mrs. Rebecca Soltz, 24 years old, and her 3-year-old son, Morris. A daughter, 4 years old, who was trapped with her mother and the little boy in the middle room on the third floor, still was breathing when firemen reached them. The little girl was rushed to the city hospital, but physicians held out little hope of her recovery.

Canoe Upsets During Trip on Illinois Drainage Canal.

Bodies of Gordon Higgins and His Bride Are Sought.

Chicago, May 20.—Search was resumed at daybreak today in the drainage canal at Lemont, Ill., for the bodies of Gordon Higgins and his bride, two young elopers, who were drowned there by the capsizing of Higgin's canoe a few hours after their marriage.

Higgins, a student at Evanston academy, and Miss Verle Stewart, a student in the Northwestern University School of Music, were married yesterday by Judge LaBuy in the city hall. He was 19 years old. She 22. Miss Stewart was a daughter of Dr. Harry J. Stewart of Kewanee.

Yesterday afternoon Miss Stewart took a suitcase and told her uncle, Myron H. McKinnon, with whom she lived in Evanston, that she was going home for a visit. At the same hour Higgins left his home with his uncle, F. H. Harwood, to go to the beach. The young pair were married and planned for a honeymoon in Gordon's canoe.

Shocked by the News.

Mr. McKinnon, Mrs. Higgins' uncle, was told that Gordon and his wife had gone down the canal in Gordon's canoe and he telephoned to different towns along the canal. His last call was made to Lemont. Marshal Kane answered.

"Seen anything of a red canoe with a boy and a girl in it?" asked McKinnon.

"Yes, but the bodies have not been recovered," answered Kane.

When McKinnon was able to hear more Kane described the drowning.

"Higgins had asked for a tow behind a barge," Kane explained. "One of the bargemen threw him a line and they were towed for a long time. They went to sleep about Willow Springs. About five miles north of here the steersman on the barge saw Higgins move and try to reach his coat. He leaned forward on his knees trying to get it, and the canoe rocked and turned over. Mrs. Higgins caught her husband around the neck as they went under, and neither of them came to the surface again."

Block Canal Tolls Vote.

Washington, May 20.—An attempt by Senator Kern, Democratic leader, to get unanimous consent for a vote May 27 on the Panama tolls repeal bill was defeated today when Senator McCumber objected.

"The time has not yet come to fix a date for voting," the North Dakota senator insisted.

SOME NEWS OF SILLIMAN IS DEMANDED

Washington Grows Apprehensive at Silence of the Mexicans.

Vice Consul Has Not Appeared; "Released" Over Week Ago.

Had Been Reported on Way From Saltillo to Capital.

Estacion, Amaragos, Mex., May 19, via El Paso, Tex., May 20.—Gen. Francisco Villa, leading 4,000 Constitutionalist troops, won the first important engagement of the Saltillo campaign May 17 when he defeated 4,500 Federals retreating from Monclova at Paredon.

The Constitutionalists lost sixteen killed and twenty-nine wounded. The Federal casualties were twenty-nine killed and over eighty wounded. The Constitutionalists captured 900 prisoners, nine pieces of artillery, over 1,000,000 rounds of small arms ammunition, a large quantity of artillery ammunition and a large supply of provisions, in addition to five troop trains which carried the Huerta soldiers.

No Blockade at Tampico.

Washington, May 20.—That every effort will be made by the United States to maintain the port of Tampico free and open to commerce was declared today by Acting Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt. While no definite orders had been issued, the acting secretary said that if necessary steps should be

CAR HITS AUTO AND FIVE ARE KILLED

Ohio Traction Car and Automobile Come Together at Crossing.

Columbus, Ohio, May 20.—Four persons were killed near Ashville, twenty-five miles south of Columbus, today when a Scioto Valley traction car struck an automobile at a crossing. The dead:

W. M. MILLER, president of the Citizens' bank, Ashville.

MRS. AGGIE MILLER, his wife.

MRS. ALICE STAIGER of Ashville and a 6-year-old daughter of Rev. C. E. Hill of Mount Sterling.

MRS. C. E. HILLS of Mount Sterling, wife of Rev. C. E. Hills.

VIDA BOND, 5-year-old daughter of H. J. Bond.

The 6-year-old daughter of Rev. Mr. Hills was rescued from under the burning automobile.

The traction car and the automobile were consumed by fire when the gasoline tank of the automobile exploded and came in contact with the third rail. The fire department was called from Circleville, but arrived too late to be of service.

MEDIATION STAGE SET

South Americans, Americans and Mexicans at Niagara Falls.

Washington Will Keep in Close Touch With Proceedings.

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 20.—The mediators and the representatives of the United States and the Huerta government began at 3 o'clock, the first formal conference looking to a settlement of the Mexican problem.

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 20.—Everything was ready today for the opening of the mediation conference, which under the guidance of Ambassador De Gama of Brazil and Ministers Naon of Argentina and Suarez of Chile is to attempt to compose the difference between the United States and Mexico. The Mexican peace commissioners arrived early today from New York; the American delegates reached here shortly before midnight. Minister Suarez was the last of the South American mediators to reach the scene.

Welcomed to Canada.

To welcome the visitors to Canadian territory, the Duke of Connaught, governor general of Canada, delegated Martin Burrell, minister of agriculture, and Senator Lougheed, Conservative

WILL ASK FOR PROTECTION

Bay View Heights and Proctor Residents Want Hose Cart.

Residents of Bay View Heights and Proctor intend presenting to the city commission in a concise manner the pressing need of fire protection in Bay View Heights this summer. A petition asking for the installing of a hose cart on the heights, located just east of the city limits line, will be circulated within a short time and turned over to the department of public safety.

At present the residents of the heights have to depend upon service from firemen at No. 8 hall or else from the volunteer department at Proctor. Many of the residents are members of this volunteer department and intend taking steps for the circulation of the petition.

"The city is doing nothing for the protection against fire for the residents of Bay View Heights," said one resident this morning. "There are a number of homes at the heights and just east of the city limits there are about seventy-five homes that have been erected within the last few years. All of these people living there are taxpayers and deserve to be given protection against fire from the city. A hose cart and shed to keep it in, are all we ask, and this can be installed here at little or no cost."

It is said that the new fire engine recently installed at No. 8 fire hall will be expected to make trips to the heights in case of a fire. While this will greatly help the situation at present, it is said that many times the road leading to the suburbs is not in a condition for good travel with such a heavy machine.

CITY OFFICES ARE CHANGED

Merchants Find Collection of Water Bills Is Unprofitable.

The water and light department branch office has been discontinued this month at the Spencer pharmacy and will be given a tryout at the Reliance drug store, 301 North Central avenue. A. J. Lindgren, manager of the former store, said this morning that the cost of handling the department's work in this end of the city was far greater than the remuneration and that he could no longer handle it for the 1 per cent paid by the city.

The notices sent out by the department this month still carry the note that the bills can be paid at the Spencer pharmacy. Mr. Lindgren said that this should have been changed as sufficient notice had been given the department that he would no longer handle the bills. He said that he still intended maintaining the collection for the Duluth-Edison Electric company for this end of the city.

Moe Also Refuses.

John J. Moe of J. J. Moe, Sons & Co., of the West end, has also refused to handle the collections of the department any longer. Mr. Moe said this morning that the collections were discontinued on account of the expense of handling the accounts. He said that the pay for collections amounted to from $8 to $15 and that the cost of giving the service amounted to well over $50.

For the time being the collections for the West end district will be handled at the West end branch of the public library, 20 North Twentieth avenue west. Manager Reed said that he hoped to make arrangements with some merchant to handle the collections as that had proved satisfactory in the past.

Remuneration Below Cost.

In speaking of the collections of accounts for the department Mr. Moe said: "There is no reason why the department should expect any merchant to handle its accounts below the actual cost of handling. The city is paying men from $1,000 to $4,000 for such service at the central office and while there is no doubt that the people in general are benefited by having branch stations, still that is no reason why the department should ask any business man to donate that service. Any business man of the West end would be glad of the opportunity to have the branch in his place of business, but no man can afford to give that service at less than cost which is what the city is asking."

Mr. Lindgren of the Spencer pharmacy gave similar reasons for discontinuing the branch office in his store. He has handled the collections for the department since the new method of collecting was put into effect.

FISHING GOOD ON THE RIVER

St. Louis Is Getting Back Its Reputation Among Sportsmen.

Stories of wonderful catches—fish stories, said to be genuine—are being told by men who have been up the St. Louis river fishing during the last few days. From these stories the river is again getting a reputation to be envied by any other stream in the northeastern part of Minnesota.

Amol Swanstrom and A. Mayhew brought back a good string of walleyed pike which they caught yesterday. Mr. Swanstrom said he caught fourteen with little effort while Mayhew got nearly as many. The two men made the trip up the river in the motor boat "Gee Whiz."

M. J. Filiatrault and a party of friends were at the river near Fond du Lac this morning. Reports of large catches made by the party had already reached town at noon.

George L. Hise and a party of friends fished off Grassy Point last evening and landed a number of good pike, pickerel and perch. These fish are said to be plentiful this year.

COMPLAIN OF THE DUSTY STREETS.

Residents along West Third street, west of the ore docks to Forty-sixth avenue, are complaining that the city is neglecting the work of sprinkling the street. During the last few days clouds of dust have been blown along the street, and no attempt to lay the dust has been made by the city.

"If we could have the street well sprinkled once each day in dry weather it would be a great relief," said one of the residents this morning. "The rain last night greatly relieved the situation and that goes to show what one sprinkling would do."

The matter will be taken up by the Oneota and Hazelwood Improvement club at its next meeting.

Surprised By Friends.

Miss Esther Larson of Fortieth avenue west and Eighth street, was pleasantly surprised by a number of her friends Monday evening. Dancing and games were enjoyed. The guests were: Mesdames J. Goodhand, H. M. Carr, John Turge, J. R. Ryter and L. A. Larson; Misses Heggie Lundquist, McDonald, Grace Konkel of Superior; Carrol Klatt, Lillian Nelson, Clara Goodhand, Edna Ross, Fern Brooks, Ethel McNevin, Charlotte McClellan, Gisa Perry, Hazel Butchart, Flora Butchart, Louise Sands, Olga Sands, Tetzner, Rose Weller, Edna Drier, Hazel Drier, Winnie Leonard, Ida Leonard, Viola Elliott, Jane Elliott and Messrs. James Lee, H. Coleman, John Conley, Andrews Garnet, Lindsay Pilkey, Harold Miles, Marcus Skomers, Leonard Larsen, Fred Konkel of Superior; Earl Ward, Fred Jeffery, S. Olsen, Henry Grueson, Angus Grant, Andrew Taylor, Ray Goodhand, Stanley Gilpin, Clifford Bijold, Chauncey Larsen, Christe Bergeson and P. Cleary.

New Business Block.

Excavations for the basement for the brick building to be erected by A. Fieldman at 314 North Central avenue were begun this morning by Nils Almquist. A handsome two story building of concrete and brick construction will be erected on the lot.

The building will have a 25-foot frontage on Central avenue and be 115 feet deep. It will cost when completed about $12,000. A handsome plate glass front has been planned.

West Duluth Briefs.

The alumni association of the Longfellow school will hold a meeting this evening at the school at which plans will be made for the annual banquet to be given in June.

The "We Brothers" class of the Westminster Presbyterian church gave an interesting musical and literary program last evening at the Great Eastern hall.

Mrs. Joseph Cassidy and children of Benidji are guests at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Dunleavy, 115 North Fifty-eighth avenue west. They will leave in a few days for Detroit, Mich., where they will visit relatives for two weeks.

Dr. M. R. Zack has opened a dental office in the Nelson block, rooms 4 and 6, Grand avenue.

Axel E. Peterson of Minneapolis is spending a few days visiting relatives in this end of the city.

Miss Hanna Mikalous of Virginia is a guest of relatives in West Duluth this week.

R. Granquist, expert electrician, 304 Central avenue.

Watch repairing. Hurst, West Duluth.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Third Swedish Baptist church, Fifty-ninth and Ramsey street, will entertain this evening in the church at their annual spring auction and social program.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

TWO YANKEES STILL IN PLAY

"Chick" Evans and Weber Survivors of American Golfers.

Sandwich, Eng., May 20.—Only two of the ten American competitors remained in the tournament for the British amateur golf championship after the conclusion of the third round today. These were Charles W. Evans, Jr., of Chicago and Harold Weber of Toledo.

Several of the most prominent English golfers were still in the competition, including Harold H. Hilton, the titleholder.

The defeat of the young American open champion proved as great a sensation as had that of Jerome D. Travers, American amateur champion. It had been thought that Ouimet would have no difficulty in disposing of the comparatively unknown and youthful Tubbs, who is a steady golfer, but never heretofore had succeeded in reaching anything like championship form.

On the links reports were current today that a wager of $150,000 to $50,000 had been offered on Monday against either Travers or Ouimet carrying off the championship and had been eagerly taken by some one who favored the American chances. After his defeat Ouimet was the first to congratulate his opponent.

Ouimet's weakness on the green proved his undoing in today's match. On several occasions he was short of the hole and he also occasionally overran it. Some times he missed easy putts. At the last hole he failed to get down a three-foot putt.

The Englishman started badly by slicing his tee shot but by good play on the green succeeded in halving the hole. At the second hole Ouimet bunkered, but made a good recovery. The American was again trapped at the fourth, where he played his approach shot too strongly and got over the green, thus giving his opponent the lead. Tubbs increased his advantage by taking the sixth. At the seventh Ouimet halved with a fine long putt and heartened by this secured the eighth. Tubbs thus led at the turn by one.

With the chance of making all square at the eighteenth, Ouimet got into the rough and Tubbs scored the hole and the victory.

Evans won his match in the third round, defeating H. W. Scott by 3 up and 2 to play.

Herreshoff was beaten in the third round by one up, his opponent being the Hon. Michael Scott of the Royal St. George's club.

Harold Weber of Toledo was successful in the third round, defeating A. Marriott by 2 up.

John Ball, eight times British amateur champion, was eliminated in the third round by Capt. Hambro of the Royal St. George's club after playing an extra hole.

U. S. LIQUOR LICENSE EVIDENCE OF WRONG

Opinion on Wisconsin Clubs Furnishing of Liquor Is Given.

Madison, Wis., May 20.—No club or association can furnish liquor to its members without a liquor license.

The holding of a United States government license by a club operating in dry territory is prima facie evidence of a violation of the excise laws of this state.

These two statements were given today by Attorney General Owen in an opinion to District Attorney Nelson of Dane county.

MORE ORE IN MINNESOTA

Testimony at Washington Tells of Gopher State Resources.

Agricultural Land as Good in the North as Elsewhere.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, May 20.—Testifying before Interstate Commerce Commissioner Meyer in the investigation of rates, practices and regulations governing the movement of iron ore from the mines to the Head of the Lakes today, Rukard Hurd, secretary of the Minnesota tax commission, stated that in his opinion there will be greater development of iron ore lands in Minnesota.

Mr. Hurd gave figures showing that the shipments of ore from the Minnesota mines from 1907 to 1913, inclusive, were about 200,000,000 tons, but that the visible supply, as shown by the tax commission's records, had increased from 1,190,000 tons in 1907 to 1,413,000 tons in 1913.

Hear Arnold and McGuire.

L. B. Arnold, land agent of the Duluth & Iron Range road, testified that his department was being run at a loss. He said that the grant of swamp lands to the road from the state amounted to over 600,000 acres, but that about 500,000 acres were undisposed of. This land, he said, was being taxed $4 per acre, and other expenses exceeded the annual revenue of $100,000 from timber sales.

A. J. McGuire, superintendent of the Northeast experiment station at Grand Rapids, testified as to the availability of the land in St. Louis, Lake and Cook counties for agricultural purposes. He said that on such lands as were adapted to agriculture, production of crops was about as good as the average in other parts of the state.

BOYS READY FOR MEET

All Schools in City Expected to Be Represented at "Y" Event.

Enthusiasm is at high tide for the interscholastic field meet, which will be held at the baseball grounds next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Groups of boys from nearly every school in the city may be seen practising for the big events. The change in the plan of having four champions is meeting with a lot of favor and the schools that have not many big students have an equal chance of winning one of the divisions.

At a meeting of the boys' committee held yesterday, Arthur Castonguay of the Bryant school was elected president of the meet and Herbert Carlson of the Adams school was elected vice president and George Boyer of the Washington, secretary. All entries are to be in at the boys' department Y. M. C. A., Thursday, and all contestants will report at the boys' department some time Friday to be weighed and to receive their numbers.

The awards will be banners made in the colors of the school for the winners of each division, with the exception of the heavyweights. They will receive the Herald loving cup. Winners of first, second and third award will receive the official league button.

The following schools so far have registered to have teams take part: Washington, Lowell, Ely, Adams, Longfellow, Franklin, Jefferson, Bryant, Jackson, Emerson, Satler. It is expected that each of the other schools will be represented. A trip to Camp Miller is to be given the school having the largest delegation present. All students are requested to wear arm bands, colors of schools, pennants, and those having autos will have them decorated.

SOCIALISTS HISS CHEERS FOR KAISER

Confusion and Uproar Mark Close of Imperial Parliament.

Berlin, May 20.—Scenes of great confusion and uproar marked the closing session of the German imperial parliament today. The members of the Socialist party, instead of retiring from the chamber before the usual cheers for the emperor were called for, remained and kept their seats, from which they refused to rise.

Speaker Johannes Kaempf immediately called attention to this breach of respect to the emperor, upon which the Socialists shouted, "That is our affair," and tried to drown the cheers with hoots and hisses. These were answered by tumultuous applause from the other parties.

The government's petroleum monopoly bill was not brought up for debate, and therefore falls through.

OLD VERDICT STILL STANDS

Dr. Anderson Is Denied a New Trial in Malpractice Case.

Judge, However, Says He Should Not Be Condemned as Surgeon.

Dr. James C. Anderson, a practicing physician and surgeon of this city, against whom a $4,000 verdict was returned Dec. 24 last by a district court jury which tried the malpractice suit brought against him by Albert J. Burgess, must stand the consequences of a mistake in surgery which cost the life of Grace L. Burgess. Judge Cant of the trial court today denied a motion for a new trial of the case, which was urged by attorneys for the local surgeon.

The jury in the malpractice action found that a mistake in an operation performed by Dr. Anderson on Mrs. Burgess for abdominal trouble was responsible for the death of the plaintiff's wife. It was claimed by Burgess that the surgeon mistook the illeum or lower portion of the smaller intestine for jejunum or middle division and sewed it to the anterior wall of the stomach near the pyloris with the result that a reversal of the peristalic movement of the intestines followed. It was also claimed that a diet of raw meat, which was prescribed, so agitated the stomach that the union broke and allowed fecal matter to discharge into the abdominal cavity, causing death.

The operation was performed March 27, 1913, and Mrs. Burgess died April 12. Burgess brought suit for $7,500 damages.

Judge's Memorandum.

In a memorandum handed down in connection with his order denying a motion for a new trial, Judge Cant states that although the surgeon should be obliged to stand the consequences of his act, the verdict should not reflect upon his integrity and that he should not be condemned as being wholly unworthy of public confidence. The memorandum of the court is as follows:

"Under the usual rules a new trial is not justified in this case. The evidence supports the verdict and there are no serious questions of law involved. The litigation should end and the parties should set about a readjustment of their affairs.

"The verdict is a serious matter for the defendant both as respects the amount thereof and the effect the same may have upon his standing as a physician in this community. But it is not the interests of the defendant alone which must be considered. The rights of both the plaintiff and the defendant are before the court.

"If there was fault upon the part of the defendant he should stand the necessary consequences thereof; that is the only safe rule. It places everyone on his guard. All are required to render faithful service, if they do not, certain unfavorable and unwelcome consequences should follow.

"The matter of untoward consequences, however, should not be carried too far. The most we have here is a lack of care or a lack of skill in this particular case. If such there was, it was a serious matter and the results were very distressing. But there was no intentional wrong-doing. The charge was negligence, not wilful wrong.

"The consequences to the defendant should be those which follow negligence, not those which follow crime. A man may, on occasion, be negligent and yet be strictly honest. So, here the integrity of the defendant is in no way directly attacked, and notwithstanding this unfortunate case, he should not on that account alone be condemned as wholly unworthy of public confidence. He may still be a skillful surgeon and he may still be capable of rendering efficient professional service. Continuous faithful service will in time restore confidence if in some measure that has been lost."

ONE LEAVES; FIVE MOVE IN

New Arrivals in Duluth Greatly Exceed Those Leaving City.

Scarcity of Moderate Priced Homes and Flats Is Reported.

Five families are moving into Duluth to make their permanent home to every one family that moves out, and new arrivals are finding considerable difficulty in finding suitable flats and houses in which to take up their residence.

Supt. P. S. Knowlton of the Duluth Van & Storage company is the authority for that statement. He says the general moving season began about May 1 and will continue until well into September. While it is impossible to estimate the increase in population during these coming months, the outlook at present indicates a big growth.

In speaking of his observations this spring Mr. Knowlton said "Practically all the people who have come to Duluth this spring, in so far as our experience has gone, have been of a good class. Families form the biggest percentage, and most of them seem to be well equipped with household goods, and have either bought or rented first-class houses or moved into good flats. Vacant dwellings of the better class are hard to find. The movement of families to Duluth has been greatly on the increase during the last two years. About five families move in to every one that moves out.

"One of the things I notice most about the families who move away from Duluth is that in nearly every case the head of the family has secured a position in some other city and another man is sent to take his place. There are practically no instances of families leaving Duluth because of dissatisfaction with the city or conditions here.

Needs Good Houses.

"Duluth, however, is greatly in need of a number of first-class houses and flats which would rent at a medium price. Many men working on a salary can hardly afford the best class of dwellings offered for rent because of the high rent, and the poorer flats and houses are not suitable for themselves and families. The incoming population is so greatly in excess of the outgoing population that this problem will have to be met with very soon. Duluth needs a number of flats and houses, perhaps some distance from the downtown district, that would rent for $20, $25 and $30 a month. These should be in a good neighborhood where the surroundings would be congenial and suitable for families."

TRADE PUBLICATIONS PREDICT A REVIVAL

The view is entertained by some of the leading Eastern trade publications that a healthy forward business movement will develop during the last half of the year. This change for the better, in sentiment at least, is attributed primarily to the prospects of a record-breaking harvest of winter wheat.

Owing to such restraining factors as uncertainty over the outcome of the freight rate decision and disarrangement in the affairs of some of the important railroad companies, such as the New Haven, Rock Island, St. Louis & San Francisco and Missouri Pacific, the expected awakening has not materialized to the extent it would ordinarily have done with such a crop outlook ahead.

Reports now coming to hand from Western business interests are said, however, to be so cheerful as to make an impression in New York wholesale and financial circles. Cheerfulness is being also encouraged by the appearance of some long deferred replacement contracts from the railroads with the steel companies buying of merchandise is reported by the wholesale establishments in the East. It is a subject of comment that this is occurring with stocks of goods in hand far below normal requirements in practically all lines, and with production in many directions far short of ordinary consumption.

ISSUES REPORT ON KEATING MINE

Floating Indebtedness All Paid—Annual Meeting Next Month.

The annual meeting of the Keating Gold Mining company will be held at the mine offices at Radersburg, Mont., on Tuesday, June 2.

The following encouraging report relative to the property has been issued by the president, Julius H. Barnes:

"Your officers report that developments at the mine have been very encouraging and that the property is in a more promising condition today than it has been at any time in its history.

"The shaft has been opened to the 1,000-foot level and during the past week drifting has commenced on this level. The vein was cut in opening the station, so that we have had no crosscutting necessary to reach the vein on this new level.

"In our lowest level, the floor of the 800, for over 600 feet we have a vein of good width and excellent value. To prove the extent of this ore deposit without waiting for the 1,000-foot level to be run that far, we have, 800 feet north of the shaft, sunk a winze from the 800 level. This is now down seventy feet and shows at present six feet of ore of a value of $20 to $30 and has shown excellent values every foot of this seventy. We have every expectation of finding the ore body continuous with depth and of such value as to be profitable to your property.

"During the past few months the operation of the mine has been profitable. All the floating indebtedness of the mine has been discharged, part of the bonds paid off and the balance extended for three years.

"If the 1,000-foot level opens the ore which we have every reason to believe we will find in place, we will have something of interest to say to our stockholders within a reasonable time. Please remember the property has developed a very large tonnage of ore in which the values run from $5 to $10 which, under present marketing and transportation conditions, we see no profit in removing, but we are studying on some process by which a profit can be secured from this large tonnage of ore of that value.

"Our average ore values for the past few months on all our shipments to the smelters have run above $20 per ton in gold."

Petition Is Denied By the Commerce Commission.

Washington, May 20.—The interstate commerce commission today denied a petition for a rehearing of the industrial railway cases recently passed upon by the commission.

WOMEN SET FIRE TO THE ROYAL FOREST

Kindle Brush Fires About Pavilion Where King Resides.

Aldershot, Eng., May 20.—A great brush fire, declared by the authorities to have been the work of militant suffragettes, encircled today the royal pavilion in Long Valley, where King George and Queen Mary are in residence in the center of a great army of British troops.

The entire camp was aroused before daybreak. Several battalions of infantry and regiments of cavalry turned out to fight the flames.

Suffragettes have shown great activity since the king arrived here. As their majesties left the royal pavilion today two women dashed in front of their carriage waving a banner with the words "Votes for Women."

By the use of wireless telegraphy to measure longitude it is believed that a map of the Belgian Congo, which would require ten years to prepare in the usual way, can be made in two years or less.

WANT SOCIAL EVIL BANNED

"No Toleration, Regulation or Recognition," Say Presbyterians.

Committee Says Fashion Is Factor in Ruin of Women.

Chicago, May 20.—"No toleration; no regulation; no recognition."

This is the suggested slogan of the Presbyterian church to be presented to the 126th general assembly, which convenes here tomorrow, in the report of the special committee on White Slave traffic.

The report estimates that there are 100,000 prostitutes in the United States, and that a far greater number are unchaste. Contributing factors in this condition are the fashions, dances, the theater, literature and ignorance. The principal remedy sugested is the enlightened training of the young.

The report was prepared by Paul R. Hickok, John Balcom Shaw, John Kennedy, Winfield Scott Hall and J. M. T. Finney.

Fashion a Factor.

Speaking of factors in the increase of the social evil "which are now assuming alarming proportions," the report says:

"One of these appears in the vulgar tendency of modern fashion. Our 'Standards,' we remember, expressly forbid all 'immodest apparel.' Today many of our women are going to such extremes of dress as to shock even the least prudish, and open American womanhood to the charge of a complete forfeiture of modesty. The unfortunate side of it all is, that the women of the church, whose most conspicuous adornment is supposed to be meekness, are quite as guilty of this offense as are women who make no religious professions. Until our Christian women can be made to see what mischief is being done by such a reckless abandon to the foibles of fashion, there can be little hope of stemming this evil tide.

Appeal to Women.

"We call the women of our Presbyterian church to a practical separation of themselves from these tendencies of our times, and exhort them to be at this point examples to their sisters, lending their voice and influence alike, against all extremes of dress, and seeking to lead society in a more worthy and wholesome direction."

The report concludes with a set of resolutions calling upon pastors to guard children against all factors of life which conduce to immorality; commending those pastors who have taken up the subject frankly with fathers and mothers, and calling upon others to do so; recognizing the work of juvenile courts; demanding the punishment of men as well as women offenders against morality, and approving all legislation looking to the eradication of prostitution.

Delegates Arriving.

Almost every train arriving here today brought delegates to the 126th general assembly of the Presbyterian church which opens in the Fourth Presbyterian church tomorrow.

There are 900 delegates, or commissioners, as they are technically termed, equally composed of clergy and elders. The first important business will be the election of a moderator to succeed Rev. John Timothy Stone, who is also pastor of the Fourth church. As electioneering is frowned upon by the assembly, it is said that the name of the man likely to be chosen cannot be forecasted.

HISTORIC THEMES TO BE DISCUSSED

By Mississippi Valley Historical Association at Grand Forks.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The seventh annual meeting of the Mississippi River Valley Historical society will be held here, beginning next Tuesday and continuing till Thursday. Prominent speakers from many sections of the United States will participate. O. G. Libby of Grand Forks is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

James A. James, Ph. D., president of the Northwestern university, is president of the association; George E. Vincent, president of the University of Minnesota, first vice president; Isaac J. Cox, Ph. D. of the University of Cincinnati, second vice president, and Clarence S. Paine, Nebraska Historical society, Lincoln, Neb., secretary and treasurer.

Clarence W. Alvord of the University of Illinois, is chairman of the executive committee; Dana C. Munro of the University of Wisconsin, heads the teachers' section; Judge C. F. Amidon of North Dakota heads the historical department, and Prof. C. M. Correll of Mayville, N. D., heads the history and social science section.

Joint Sessions Planned.

The Mississippi association will hold several joint sessions with the North Dakota Historical society during the three days. One portion of the program will be given over to the Germans, with Prof. M. D. Learned of the University of Pennsylvania as the principal speaker. He will, on his visit to the northwest, make a study of the progress made by German immigrants to the United States.

Minnesota speakers include Dr. O. M. Dickerson of the state normal school, Winona; Prof. A. C. Krey, University of Minnesota; Prof. W. H. Shepard, North high school, Minneapolis; Secretary Warren Upham, Minnesota Historical society; T. J. Malone, Minneapolis.

THIEF RIVER FALLS LIKES PAIR'S WORK

Salvation Army Officers Gave Good Satisfaction There.

Thief River Falls, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. and Mrs. Charles Nelson, who for the past twenty-two months have had charge of the Salvation Army operations here have been appointed to the command of the Crookston branch of the Army. While here they have done a good work in the face of many difficulties, as the work of the Salvation Army was very little understood by the people here prior to their coming. Capt. Nelson's administration has been one of education along the lines of Salvation Army endeavor, and now the organization stands high in the estimation of a large number of the people in this city. Capt. and Mrs. Pierce, who will succeed Capt. and Mrs. Nelson, will find the trail well blazed ahead of them.

Synopsis of Work.

Approximately 27,000 people heard the gospel preached on the street corners in 124 outdoor meetings held; about 20,490 people are recorded as attending 131 indoor meetings held; seventy-five conversions were registered, and six soldiers or members enrolled; two candidated for officership have been sent forth, one of which has passed through the training college and is now a probationary officer, and the other will shortly take up the course of study, prescribed by the Army and devote her entire time to Army work elsewhere; about 852 hours were spent in house to house visitation and 696 prayers were offered in homes visited. Four funerals were conducted, one of these was a pauper's child, while another was a homeless and friendless man. In addition to all this work, Christmas dinners for all the city's poor have been provided, as well as elaborate entertainments for the poor children. Hundreds of garments have been given away, and groceries and even house rent have been furnished in needy cases.

The collections and contributions of business men amounted to $2,468.72, which was expended in the following manner: Charity, $485.10; foreign missions, $215; captain's salary, $562.79; assistant's salary, $153.79; rent, light, fuel, car fare, stationery, etc., $1,042.23.

GRADUATING ADDRESSES

Will Be Delivered By Members of North Dakota U Faculty.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—University of North Dakota faculty men will fill many speaking engagements in North Dakota high schools during the commencement period. President McVey will speak at Crookston, Wimbledon, Milnor and Oakes; J. J. Pettijohn at Havana and Sheyenne; Dr. J. W. Todd at New Rockford and Balfour; Dr. H. R. Brush at Hamilton and Bathgate; Dr. O. G. Libby at Cando and Willow City; Dr. G. E. Hult at Devils Lake; Dr. F. H. Koch at Lidgerwood and Fairmount; Dr. J. A. Taylor, Rolla and Lakota; Dr. H. E. French, Mayville; Dr. W. G. Bek, Minot; Dr. A. J. Ladd, Pembina and Neche; Dr. V. P. Squires, Berthold and Towner; Dean J. Kennedy, Thompson.

GRAND JURY PETITIONS

Are Now Being Circulated in Grand Forks, N. D.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Petitions asking that a grand jury called in Grand Forks county to consider the charges of bribery growing out of the acquittal of McLean Cooper, of murder have been prepared by States' Attorney O. B. Burtness, and circulated today. The signatures of about 400 legal voters of the county are required to compel the calling of the jury.

This step is being taken as a result of Judge C. M. Cooley's refusal this week to call the jury at the request of State's Attorney Burtness. Judge Cooley held the petition required by law should be filed before he could take any step.

MANDAN HIGH TO GRADUATE ELEVEN.

Mandan, N. D., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.) — Eleven will graduate from the local high school this year, June 2, with Justice A. A. Bryce of the supreme court as the commencement speaker. Baccaulaureate services will be held Sunday, May 31.

The graduates are Charles Lewis, Conrad Mikkelson, Frank Bingenheimer, William Bauknecht, Adelaide Cummins, Eva Heater, Antonia Gruenfelder, Gladys Seitz, Adelle Ormiston, Lillian Thorberg and Dorothy Greenwood.

"BOYLE FOR CONGRESS" CLUB HOLDS MEETING.

Members of the "Boyle for Congress" club attended the mid-week luncheon at the St. Louis hotel this noon. The committee in charge of the sale of tickets for the dollar dinner to be held at the St. Louis hotel Monday night reported that more than 200 had been disposed of and that arrangements are being made to entertain about 400 persons. The committee on speakers announced that Senator Ole Sageng had accepted the invitation to be here at that time and that prominent Duluthians also will be heard.

Senator Boyle returned from Biwabik this morning and spoke briefly at the luncheon.

The senator will speak in Columbia hall in the West end tonight.

MONTHLY SETTLEMENT ON CHICAGO 'CHANGE.

Chicago, May 20.—Trading on the monthly settlement system, abandoned by the Chicago Stock Exchange in 1896, probably will be resumed soon by the exchange, it was made known today. It is understood that the governing committee has adopted a unanimous report in favor of the change.

The Chicago exchange went on a cash basis after the collapse of several big pools and sensational failures in 1896. To prevent similar happenings when the "account system" is resumed, rules governing margins have been prepared which are expected to keep trade on a safe basis. The governing committee will exercise complete supervision over all accounts.

OPENING ISLE ROYALE RESORTS

Warm Weather Welcomed By Owners of "Coolest Spot in Country."

Earl Neutson, proprietor of one of the summer resorts on Isle Royale, passed through Duluth today, on his way from his home in Minneapolis to the island, where he will open his resort.

"It looks as if we were going to have a hot summer," said Mr. Neutson. "The warm weather has set in early, and that is all we want at Isle Royale. Isle Royale is the coolest spot in the United States in the summer, and we ought to have a busy season on the island if this weather keeps up."

All of the summer resorts on the island are now being made ready for the tourists, and the first summer visitors are expected about the first of June.

Big Tolley, N. D., Auditorium.

SIDELIGHTS ON MEXICO WILL BE GIVEN BY "Y" LECTURERS

E. T. COLTON.

A. E. TURNER.

The Young Men's Christian association will have a very strong program for the rest of the week in its religious activities. Four international secretaries will be present to conduct a series of special services.

E. T. Colton, who is an associate of Dr. John R. Mott in New York, will address a group of business men Thursday noon at the Commercial club discussing the subject, "By-Products of Colonization and Commerce." On Thursday evening at 8:30 p. m. Mr. Colton will address a general meeting at the Y. M. C. A. to which all men are urged to come. On Friday evening at a dinner at 6:30 George Tibbitts of New York city and A. E. Turner of Mexico City will address a general group. Mr. Turner has for eight years been a resident of Mexico and has a good insight into the Mexican life and problems.

Cameron Beck of New York city will also be one of the speakers.

Mr. Turner is a graduate of Gustavus Adolphus college, St. Peter, Minn. Later he was a teacher in the college; was given the degree of master of accounts by the college. He did post-graduate work at the University of Wisconsin and University of Nebraska; secured degree of bachelor of arts from University of Nebraska. Later he had charge of Bible study work at the University of Nebraska, and was assistant secretary of the Young Men's Christian association at Omaha from 1903 to 1905. He has been secretary in Monterey, Mexico, and acting general secretary at Chihuahua.

For many years Mr. Colton has been one of the foremost university leaders in the United States and Canada. He has addressed great crowds of students at most of the principal universities from the Pacific to the Atlantic.

One year after graduation Mr. Colton accepted the state student secretaryship of Illinois. One year later he was called to travel for the International committee among the colleges and universities. Since 1904 he has been associate secretary of the foreign department of the international committee.

His travels include not only the Orient and Latin America, but also England, Spain and Portugal. His extensive travels and his sharing with Mr. Mott the supervision of the foreign work of the Young Men's Christian association gives him a knowledge of all the nations in which the association is working such as no other man, excepting Mr. Mott possesses.

SCORES DEAD IN RACE WAR

Negro Wins Indian Girl at Dice; Refuses to Sell Her.

Strange Story Comes From Plantation in Guatemala.

New Orleans, La., May 20.—The United Fruit company was today using its wireless in an effort to confirm a strange story of a race riot reported to have occurred on one of its plantations in Guatemala, in which it is reported sixty-four negroes and probably 100 Indians were killed.

Smouldering race hatred of the native Indians for negroes, inflamed by one of the negroes winning the Indian girl, Nazada, from her father at dice, and his refusal to sell her back to a native, is reported to be the cause of the trouble. The story came to New Orleans by mail.

Won Money and Girl.

The negro, Clarence Williams, had been working on the Teuahuena farm, one of a number of plantations the United Fruit company operates in the Montagua river district. According to the story, he had incurred the hatred of many of the Indians because of his prowess with dice. In a game recently, in which Nazada's father participated, he won all the old peon's money and then, Guatemalan fashion, the old man wagered his daughter. He lost.

As is customary among these Indians, the girl did not object to her part of the transaction and was taken to the shanty of the American negro.

As the story goes, Christofo Zurello, a half-breed boss of a neighboring farm, had wanted Nazada as a wife for his son, and was incensed when he learned that she had become the property of the negro.

Third Party Stepped In.

According to Guatemalan Indian custom, the father of the girl was eliminated from the matter by his unlucky cast of the dice, so Zurello entered into negotiations with the negro. He offered him 30 pesos for the girl. The negro refused.

Soon after Williams left for his work, Saturday, May 9, three men appeared at the shanty. It is said they were Zurello, a peon named Pedro, and a half-breed. Williams had occasion to go to the shanty a few hours later. Tied to a nearby tree was his Indian girl, mutilated with knives. Just before she died she told who had assailed her.

Arming himself, Williams, it is declared, began a search for Zurello, found him and shot him to death. Then he killed Pedro and the half-breed.

Attacked the Church.

All that night there was fighting between the negroes and the Indians. Religious services were held in a little church as usual the next morning. When the Indians came from the church the negroes were enmassed nearby and opened fire on them. Williams and twenty-two of his followers were killed and many Indians were slain.

Fighting was kept up for many days, and according to the story reaching here, the bodies of sixty-four negroes were found. Just how many Indians were killed probably never will be known.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys If Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. Agent, Wirth's Red Cross drug store, 13 West Superior street.

TWICE PROSECUTED AND TWICE FREED.

Elias Kickalo, twice prosecuted in district court as a wrongdoer, has been twice freed.

Kckalo, who resides in a Finnish settlement near Floodwood, was acquitted by a jury which reported in Judge Fesler's court at noon today of the charge of robbery in the first degree. The jury found that he was not guilty of having held up and robbed Mike Alapero of $120 at Cedar Valley March 3.

At the November, 1913, term of court Kickalo escaped prosecution because of a faulty indictment. The indictment charged him with the theft of a "mackinaw." The court ruled that "mackinaw" was an adjective and not a noun, and ordered Kickalo released from custody. The grand jury's intention was to charge him with the stealing of a mackinaw coat, but the word "coat" had inadvertently been left out of the indictment.

John Quisto was indicted jointly with Kickalo for the alleged robbery at Cedar Valley. The men demanded separate trials. Quisto will probably be brought to trial later.

SOLD LIQUOR TO INDIAN WOMAN.

William Andaburak, 54 years old, who operates a rooming house at 1225 West Michigan street, was arrested last evening on a charge of furnishing liquor to an Indian woman. He pleaded guilty in police court this morning and will be sentenced by Judge Cutting this afternoon.

Elma Ruud, who is a half-breed, was arrested by Patrolman Danielson on a charge of drunkenness and when she told the officers at headquarters that Andabuck had sold her the liquor, the latter was also placed under arrest.

The court is investigating the case this morning before sentencing Andaburak.

"GOT HER GOAT."

"He got my goat and I had to pay $2 to get it back, and that's what started the trouble," said Mrs. Louisa Watsick of West Duluth this morning while on the stand in municipal court, where she is suing Emil Markrut for $500 damages for an alleged assault on Feb. 27.

"After he got my goat," continued Mrs. Watsick, "the trouble between us started. It ended up with his assaulting me on my property on Norden street, where our houses adjoin one another."

Mrs. Watsick this morning brought suit before a jury, asking for $500 damages. Kenney & Kenney are conducting the plaintiff's side, while Richard Jones is defending Markrut. Judge Windom this noon continued the case until the afternoon session of court.

METHODISTS AT BANQUET

Members of New Civic Union Hear Prominent Chicago Pastor.

Rev. Charles Bayard Mitchell Discusses Change in Social Conditions.

The Methodist Episcopal Union of Duluth, which was organized last January, held its first annual banquet last evening at the First M. E. church. It was attended by more than 200 people from all parts of the city, every Methodist church in Duluth being represented at the gathering.

The feature of the evening was an address on "The Art of Human Approach" by Rev. Charles Bayard Mitchell, D. D., pastor of St. James Methodist church of Chicago, the largest church of its denomination in the Windy City and one which has one of the largest congregations in the country. Dr. Mitchell is one of the best known clergymen in the country, having formerly filled pulpits in Minneapolis, Pittsburg and Plainfield, N. J.

Dr. Mitchell spoke during the latter part of the evening and his address, filled with clever epigrams, was very well received. He characterized his address, which was entitled, "The Art of Human Approach," as "the art of getting along with folks." He especially emphasized the changes that have taken place in this country along business, social, political and religious lines during the last quarter of a century.

Modern Compression.

"Nowadays we don't do anything as our fathers did," said Dr. Mitchell. "Why, I remember when a family had to have a whole house to themselves to live in; now a hundred families live in one apartment house, and in Chicago we teach the dogs to wag their tails up and down, otherwise they can't wag.

"All this compression, this drawing together in great groups has made for closer social relations. No one now can live to himself alone; there is no such thing today as personal liberty, our rights end where our neighbors' rights begin.

"Out of it all have grown new words, new concepts of our duty to our neighbors. Five years ago 'social service' was a new expression and people didn't like it—they thought it meant Socialism. Fifteen years ago none of the great mass of social literature had been written; we knew nothing about the 'social consciousness.' Now all this has changed to a larger concept of our relations, a growing realization of our interdependence."

At the close of his address Dr. Mitchell characterized the Methodist church as "the greatest piece of ecclesiastical machinery in the world," and he urged the Methodists of Duluth to utilize this power in living righteously.

Rev. W. H. Farrell of the Asbury M. E. church, West Duluth, offered the invocation following the dinner, which was served at 6:30 o'clock. W. L. Smithies, president of the M. E. Union of Duluth, made a few opening remarks and he then introduced Dr. M. P. Burns, district superintendent, as the toastmaster for the evening. Both Dr. Burns and Mr. Smithies outlined the proposed work of the newly organized union and announced that it is the purpose of the officers to hold an annual banquet of all the members in the spring of each year.

"Co-Operation."

I. K. Lewis was the next speaker called and he gave a short talk on "Co-Operation." He urged the co-operation of all the citizens of a community and spoke at length against the competition that usually exists. "The chief purpose of Christianity today," said Mr. Lewis, "is not to get people into heaven, but to make earth a better place on which to live."

In a five-minute talk on "Our Program," Watson S. Moore gave a synopsis of the work of the newly organized union. He also explained the work of similar unions in Chicago, New York and Minneapolis and urged a continual co-operation of all the Methodist churches of the city. Charles E. Dice followed with a short talk on "Methodism and Civics," in which he expressed his hope for the early enfranchisement of women in this country.

During the course of the evening several numbers were rendered by the First M. E. Sunday school orchestra, of which Mrs. John Koneczny is the director. Miss Louise Murchison also entertained with two violin numbers.

The officers of the Methodist Episcopal Union include: W. L. Smithies, president; R. R. Forward, vice president; Rev. C. R. Oaten, secretary, and B. N. Wheeler, treasurer. At the first meeting last January several committees were appointed and the chairmen of these are as follows: W. L. Smithies, executive; W. S. Moore, finance; Rev. G. E. Silloway, evangelistic; R. R. Forward, social service, and Dr. M. P. Burns, social.

FARMERS COME TO AID OF FIRE VICTIM

Hermantown Club Appeals to Duluthians to Help Destitute Family.

The fire which consumed the home of Eli Le Beau of Hermantown, destroyed both the house and all of his furniture, as well as seed for this year's planting, has left the family in destitute circumstances. Neighboring farmers have already started a subscription list to assist the family in rebuilding their home, and have appealed to citizens of Duluth to raise about $500 of the amount needed to give them a start.

The initiative in the movement was taken yesterday by members of the Farmers' and Producers' club of Hermantown. James P. Grady, president of the club, said that the case was one of the most deserving in the county and that the farmers of the vicinity were willing to do what they could to assist, but that the majority of them were in such circumstances that they needed everything they were making. He asked that an appeal for aid be made through The Herald, and arrangements have been made so that any philanthropic citizen wishing to donate small sums towards this amount can leave the money at The Herald office, and it will be forwarded to the executive committee of the Farmers' club.

The Le Beau family has for years been struggling along to make a farm at Hermantown and have so far cleared a large part of the land. The fire wiped out the savings of years.

WORK BY DAY LABOR SATISFIES

West End Residents Well Pleased With City's New System.

Street improvement under the direction of the city by day labor is being met with great favor in the West end. The work, say business men along the street, is being pushed with better system and is more satisfactory to the general public than any similar work under private contract.

Credit for the work is being given James W. Preston, superintendent of the job, who is said to be the busiest man on the street. Business men say that they see him on the job from 6 o'clock in the morning and that often he is out as late as midnight looking after the work.

Property owners on Vernon street, First street, Twentieth avenue and other thoroughfares have said that they intend that their streets shall be improved by the city and not through contracts awarded to contractors. They are of the opinion, after watching the process of the Superior street job, that the city can do the work cheaper, as well as quicker and better.

The Vernon street paving is to be done this summer, according to the belief of the property owners. Their petition for the work has already been accepted by the city council and the work authorized.

YEOMEN HONOR WOMEN.

Will Wind Up Campaign for Members With Program.

As a windup to a May campaign for membership, dedicated to the women members of the lodge as "Women's month," Duluth homestead, No. 3131, Brotherhood of American Yeomen, will hold a celebration on Monday evening, June 1. A program of music, to be followed by dancing and refreshments, is being arranged.

Mrs. A. Bordeleau, lady rowena of the lodge, is in charge of the committee on arrangements. Business will be suspended after 9 o'clock that evening when the program will begin. The affair will be the first of a series of social events to be arranged for this summer.

JOIN EXODUS TO NORWAY

P. G. Hanson and Family Leave for Their Native Land.

P. George Hanson, well-known real estate dealer in the West end, Mrs. Hanson, their two daughters, Misses Ruby and Muriel, and son, Joseph, left last night for Norway, where they will attend the festivities connected with that country's centennial celebration of its independence. They will sail from New York on the steamship Laconia on Saturday and arrive in Norway June 1.

The exodus to Norway this year has been very heavy. Hundreds of people from the western end of the city as well as the entire state of Minnesota have already left and hundreds of others intend visiting their land of nativity before the end of the summer.

GARDEN COMMITTEE WILL MAKE REPORT.

The West End Commercial club will hold its regular meeting at Simonson's hall, Twenty-first avenue west and Superior street, tomorrow evening.

An interesting report will be given by the garden committee. More than 800 children from the Adams, Ensign, Lincoln and Munroe school districts have already announced their intention of entering the contest and the majority of those children have started their gardens.

The contest is being limited to all children under 15 years of age and those attending some of the institutions of the West end. Assurances of prizes amounting to about $100 has been received by the committee, merchants having liberally contributed to the amount. This amount will be divided equally between the four schools and awarded in amounts of from $1 to $5.

Lindstrom-Hanft Wedding.

Miss Signa Lindstrom and Arthur J. P. Hanft, both of Duluth, were married yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Trinity Lutheran church, corner of Twenty-seventh avenue west and Third street. Rev. F. O. Hanson, the pastor, read the service. The attendants were Miss Mary Binane and Gunnar E. Lindstrom. Only immediate friends and relatives were present. Mr. and Mrs. Hanft left over the Soo road for a short trip, and on their return will reside in the East end.

West End Briefs.

Mrs. John Wallin, 2708 West Third street, will be hostess tomorrow afternoon for the Rebekah guild of St. Peter's Episcopal church.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Second Presbyterian church held its semi-monthly meeting this afternoon in the church parlors. Mrs. A. F. Swanstrom, Jr., and Mrs. John Ledingham were hostesses.

Mrs. H. Wensted and Mrs. O. Morterud will have charge of an "apron" social to be given by the Ladies' Aid society of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street, Friday evening. A musical program is being arranged.

The Home and Foreign Missionary society of the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street, discussed "Missionary Work in Russia" at its meeting this afternoon. Following the meeting an informal reception was held for Mrs. Richard Locke, who will leave in a few days for England where she will make her home.

State Senator James P. Boyle of Eveleth, candidate for congress, will speak on the issues of the campaign this evening at Columbia hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street. The meeting will be free to those who wish to attend.

NEW ALBANIAN RULER HAS TO CALL IN AID

Vienna, May 20.—A serious situation has arisen in Albania, whereby the life of the new ruler, Prince William, has been endangered. According to Durazzo dispatches to the Neue Freie Presse, Essad Pasha had an audience with Prince William on Monday afternoon, and tendered his resignation as governor. Essad Pasha had 300 adherents in his residence and 5,000 in Durazzo. They started a revolt on Tuesday, Essad himself firing the first shot against the prince's palace.

The prince thereupon appealed to the commander of the Italian and Austrian warships. They landed detachments, who set up machine guns in front of Essad Pasha's house. The Turkish commander then asked permission to be allowed to go aboard an Italian warship. This was refused and he was arrested and placed aboard the Austrian warship Szigetvar, as the prince's prisoner.

According to other reports, Prince William discovered a fortnight ago secret plans which had been drawn up by Essad Pasha, and ordered him to disarm his bodyguard. Essad Pasha refused, whereupon the Albanian gendarmerie, commanded by Dutch officers, attacked his residence, arrested him, and turned him over to the Austrian commander.

Five hundred men from the Austrian and Italian warships are guarding the prince's palace.

INSURING GOOD DIGESTION

Importance of Preventing Food Fermentation in Stomach.

Good digestion usually means good health. So long as the stomach does its work properly disease can find no lodgment in the human system; the liver, kidneys and intestines will perform their work perfectly and remain in perfect health; but permit anything to interfere with the proper digestion of food, an unending train of troubles is set in motion. About the only thing that will upset the stomach and interfere with digestion is an excess of acid, usually caused by food fermentation. Food fermentation is due to chemical action in the food itself. This fermentation causes the formation of gas, or wind, as well as acid, resulting in the unnatural distention of the stomach and the burning by the acid of the delicate lining of the stomach.

Medicine and tonics cannot relieve this condition—they usually make it worse. The fermentation and acid are to blame and these must be overcome and prevented by taking after meals a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. Physicians recommend bisurated magnesia especially because it stops and prevents fermentation of food and neutralizes the acid instantly, making it bland and harmless, without injuring the stomach in any way. Get a little bisurated magnesia from your druggist and try it the next time your food ferments and upsets your stomach. Notice how quickly the acid is neutralized and how soon you forget that you have such a thing as a stomach. —Advertisement.

STREET WORK IS ORDERED

Council Considers Big Program of Improvements for Coming Year.

Many Petitions Received, Jobs Ordered and Contracts Awarded.

The current season's schedule of special improvements received a pronounced forward boost at the city council meeting yesterday afternoon.

Several grading, paving and sewer jobs were ordered; a number of contracts were let and a batch of petitions for others was received.

The jobs ordered were:

The grading and improving of Third avenue east, between Seventh and Eighth streets. The engineer's estimate for a 25-foot gravel roadway is $1,889.91 and for a 25-foot macadam roadway, $2,502.39.

The grading and paving of Forty-fifth alley west from Ramsey street to the Northern Pacific right-of-way. The engineer's estimate for concrete is $858.55 and for brick, $1,211.65.

The construction of a sanitary sewer in Grand avenue from Forty-second to Forty-third avenues west, in Forty-third avenue west to Fourth alley and in Fourth alley to Forty-fourth avenue west.

The construction of a sanitary sewer in Greysolon road from Thirty-sixth to Thirty-ninth avenues east.

The improvement of Glen place, between Twelfth and Thirteenth avenues west, the work to be done by the Apex Investment company under the direction of the city engineer.

Petitions were received for:

The grading and surfacing of East Ninth street, between Seventh and Fourteenth avenues to a width of forty-two feet, with combined cement curb and gutter.

The paving of Twenty-ninth avenue west, between First and Third streets, under the bids received last year.

The construction of a sanitary sewer in East Tenth street between Twelfth and Thirteenth avenues.

The construction of a sanitary sewer in Fifty-second alley west from Ramsey street to Polk street.

The construction of a sanitary sewer in Eighth alley between Sixteenth and Eighteenth avenues east.

Contracts Let.

The contracts let were:

The grading and surfacing of Victoria street from Thirty-fourth avenue east to Woodland avenue, with combined cement curb and gutter, to Rogers & McLean, on their bid of $4,616.55.

The laying of the 36-inch main for the water and light department, to King & Runquist on their bid of $6,325.26.

The paving of Vernon street from Grand Forks avenue to the west line of Bryant's addition, to E. A. Dahl on his bid of $22,027.65 for brick on a concrete base. The council refused to change to sandstone.

Miscellaneous paving material, to the Standard Salt and Cement company on their bid of $3,961.86. The material will be used by the city on the jobs now being done by day labor.

Two ordinances making appropriations for improvements which will be started without delay were passed. One was for $6,000 for the construction of two residences for engineers of pumping stations of the water and light department, located at Thirty-fourth avenue east and Fourth street and at Minneapolis avenue and Mankato street. The other was for $1,800 for three comfort stations to be erected in Chester, Lincoln and Fairmont parks.

A resolution was presented directing the city attorney to institute proceedings for the condemnation of an alley between Fourth and Fifth streets and Eleventh and Fourteenth avenues west. It was referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to whether or not an assessment can be levied to defray the expense.

The city engineer presented a plat for the requested condemnation of an alley in block 37, Endion division, between Seventeenth and Eighteenth avenues east. This was referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to the sufficiency of the petition.

A resolution was passed accepting the offer of the Norton estate for an easement for the 36-inch force main of the water department through its property east of Lester river. The council agreed to vacate the present road upon the improvement of the county road or of an extension of East Superior street. The present road would then lie midway between the road and the Iron Range right-of-way, dividing the lots while serving no useful purpose.

Commissioner Merritt's resolution directing the installation of four arc lights on Railroad street and the Sixth avenue viaduct during the navigation season, was passed. This is the route followed by those landing from passenger boats to the downtown section of the city.

The ordinance designating blocks 109 and 110 as a residence section was passed. A petition was received asking that block 10, Woodland park, Seventh division, be made a residence district.

New System of Guarantees.

City Attorney Harvey Clapp sent in a communication stating that in his opinion no further action should be taken upon the ordinance adopting a new system of guarantees for water and gas main extensions. The proposed measure distributes the 8 per cent guarantee over all property before which water or gas mains are laid, on the front foot basis. The attorney had expected to present the ordinance at yesterday's meeting but he was unable to attend.

An ordinance appropriating $550 for an automobile for the health department was given its first reading, as was an ordinance appropriating $1,500 for special castings for the water and light department.

The commissioners agreed to loan City Assessor J. Allyn Scott the automobiles of their various divisions, as they could be spared, to enable him to visit the outlying districts and to personally inspect various stocks of local merchants.

Attorney J. A. Keyes appeared to request the council to grant the Duluth Finnish Socialist local a dance hall license at 18 Lake avenue north without charge. He said the proceeds went towards the maintenance of the Finnish college. The license was granted last week, conditioned upon the payment of the fee, and the council did not rescind the resolution, letting it stand.

The commissioner of public utilities, was directed to replace the light standard near First avenue east and Superior street, which was broken last year. The firm which was partially responsible has paid $10 towards it and the balance will come from the city's general fund. The total cost is given as approximately $80.

Among the saloon licenses granted yesterday was one to Charles R. Hoar, formerly alderman from the Sixth ward and president of the old council for two terms. He takes over the license formerly held by J. M. Branscombe at 1524 West Superior street.

Farm Home Burns.

Rugby, N. D., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The farm home of E. S. Dale, near here, was totally destroyed by fire, caused by a defective chimney. The loss is $3,000. The city residence of Cyrus Johnson also was destroyed by fire, with a loss of $1,200. The explosion of a pan of grease started the fire.

CALIFORNIA ROAD MUST CHANGE DEPOT.

San Francisco, Cal., May 20.—Real estate speculation by railroad companies or their officials, to the detriment of the public service, was condemned yesterday by the California railroad commission, which gave the Nevada - California - Oregon Railroad company thirty days in which to submit plans for a new passenger depot in the heart of Alturas to replace one now a mile from the business center.

Evidence submitted to the commission tended to show that after Alturas had donated a right-of-way and 160 acres of land in order to be put on a main line, the railroad company had made a sub-division of the land and built its station there in order to enhance its value.

Attack $1,500 Estate Will.

Mandan, N. D., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Though his will disposes of property valued at only $1,500, heirs of Peter Regan, a pioneer resident of this district, will contest the instrument on the ground he was incapacitated when he made it.

Boulevard Around Lake Juanita.

Carrington, N. D., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Plans are being made for the boulevarding of the entire shore of Lake Juanita, near here, and converting it into a summer resort. A dam will be constructed across the outlet, thus maintaining the lake at a high level the entire season.

Don't Wean the Baby all at Once

AND don't wean him on cow's milk. Nurse your baby as long as you can, and when the baby stops gaining on your own breast milk, send the coupon for this trial package (free) of

Nestlé's Food

On the first day give your baby Nestlé's once instead of a breast feeding. On the second day give Nestlé's twice. On the third day—Nestlé's three times. And so on till the baby is completely weaned—on Nestlé's—and gaining once more regularly week by week.

If you wean your baby on cow's milk, you are making his little body face the greatest dangers of our day—the dangers that take thousands of babies from our arms. Every time you give your baby one mouthful of cow's milk you are making that little child fight dirty dairies—sick cows—summer complaint—consumption.

For authorities tell you that in one state alone—where laws are strict—one cow in three has consumption—and your own doctor tells you that your baby may get summer complaint from cow's milk.

You cannot tell whether milk comes from a healthy cow in a clean dairy. But our scientists do it for you.

Nestlé's is made from the pure milk of healthy cows in sanitary dairies. All the cow dangers are changed—all the baby needs are added.

Send the coupon today for the package of Nestlé's (enough for 12 feedings) and the specialists' book of instructions.

NEWS FROM BIRDLAND

Clearing of Land Brings Many New Songsters—Whip-poor-will Heard Here—Bobolinks and Meadow Larks More Numerous—Mourning Dove Pays City a Visit—Many Warblers and Song Sparrows.

The clearing of the land around Duluth is bringing many new birds to the city.

Birds that have rarely or never been seen in this vicinity before, are now being greeted by delighted bird lovers.

Last evening near Arnold a whip-poor-will was heard. The whip-poor-will is very scarce in this part of the country. Occasionally the strange call has been heard, but only occasionally. The whip-poor-wills have social instincts. They prefer to live in colonies, and the call heard last evening may mean a colony of these birds near Duluth this summer.

Out in Hunter's Park, two bobolinks have made their nest for two or three seasons. Bobolinks, a few years ago, were almost unknown in Duluth and the vicinity. They are not common yet, but they are more numerous this year than ever before.

Meadow larks have also been seen and heard this year. Meadow larks frequent only country that has been at least partially cleared, and as the farms extend the meadow larks will probably increase near Duluth.

Last Sunday the Herald "Bird Editor" heard and saw a mourning dove flying over he Vermilion road. He was probably just a chance visitor, and was headed south. The mourning dove very rarely gets this far north, although 100 miles south of Duluth in Wisconsin they are not uncommon.

Robins were never so plentiful in Duluth. The big red breasted songsters are growing as saucy as sparrows, and seem to feel perfectly at home in this country.

The many varieties of warblers, fly catchers, and song sparrows are bewilderingly numerous, especially the first and last named. There are only three varieties of fly catchers that are common here, the crested, the phoebe, and the king bird. The latter is sometimes not classed as a fly catcher. The warblers are headed for the cedar swamps up north, and probably a dozen varities of them are common in Duluth at present. The song sparrows will stay in this neighborhood, and probably twenty varieties of them can be picked out.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Parents Should Not Favor Handsome Children.

I was a visitor not long ago in a house where there were two girls, hardly more than children. One is very pretty in a soft baby way—the other is sturdier, not nearly as pretty, yet gives promise of becoming a handsome woman. To me the attitude of these little girls, who were sisters, was pathetic to observe.

The pretty one is vain as a peacock, selfish, overbearing, and wholly disagreeable. She treated her plainer sister as though she were a Cinderella, and is apparently upheld by her mother in this attitude. Cinderella, poor child, waits upon the beautiful princess as though she was a hireling. She deferred to her every wish and pleasure with sublime patience, and is so conscious of her own defects that she emphasizes every one.

I couldn't help thinking how unfair it is that the contrast between children of the same parents should be so pronounced anyway. I felt that it was an additional misfortune that their mother instead of praising the good points of her ugly duckling, makes a point of dwelling on the beauty of one daughter and the plainness of the other before them, without regard to the seed she is sowing.

It is a bitter thing for a child who cannot help her snub nose with its freckles and her unruly locks, to hear her prettier sister praised for her beauty. It is more bitter and even a little serious when the mother hasn't tact enough to convince the child that she isn't ugly or hopeless, and that like everyone else, she has certain features or points that are very good to look upon.

I don't advise a mother to extract all the pleasure that a well favored child may enjoy because of her beauty, but I do insist that the one whose physical attributes are less pleasing shall not have them harped upon all the time. Every woman who has the misfortune to be plain of face knows that she has been cheated or deprived of one of nature's choicest gifts. It is hard for the grown-up to endure plainness of feature but it is infinitely harder for the little child who has not formed a philosophy of life or living.

LECTURES ON HOME.

Mrs. Margaret Blair Will Give Series of Talks Here.

Mrs. Margaret Blair will deliver a series of six lectures on home topics the week commencing Monday, May 24.

Mrs. Blair is head of the department of domestic arts in the school of agriculture of the University of Minnesota. She is both a pioneer and expert in the work and the management of her department, and has the right experience that comes with the growth from one to the other.

No state in the Union has made greater progress in the teaching of practical problems in the schools than Minnesota, and the subject of home economics has found its way into the rural and city schools alike. Mrs. Margaret Josephine Blair has been one of the leading teachers of the science of home making. She is a most interesting speaker and her thorough knowledge of the subject and wide experience as a teacher has enabled her to win a high standing in her profession.

Mrs. Blair has lectured in every state in the Union. She is a ready speaker, interesting and convincing, and not given to long technical discussions, which can be understood and enjoyed only by the experts.

Her course in Duluth will consist of six lectures, to be given every afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Glass Block tearooms, on such subjects as the modern home, textiles, principles of dress, making the home attractive, etc.

Theater Party.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Patrick entertained a party of forty last evening at the performance of "The Spendthrift" at the Lyceum. After the play there was a supper and dancing at the Patrick home, 2306 East Superior street.

Dance at Kitchi Gammi.

The regular Thursday evening dancing party will be given at the Kitchi Gammi club tomorrow evening.

Graves-Rice.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Graves of 2429 East Third street announce the engagement of their daughter, Marie, to William A. Rice of Tenstrike, Minn. The wedding will take place June 2.

Wally Heymar George.

Wally Heymar George, the Chicago violinist, formerly of Duluth, who will be heard in concerts at the First Presbyterian church next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, has appeared with a great many of the most prominent clubs of the country and recently was in successful performances in Milwaukee and Elgin, Ill. She has appeared at festival concerts and with orchestras and frequently in Chicago. Mrs. George was born in Warsaw, Poland. She began the study of music in Berlin, but received most of her education in the United States. She is the winner of several prizes, among them a diamond medal.

Open Meeting at Irving.

There will be an open meeting at the Irving social center tomorrow evening. Senator James P. Boyle and Edward Armstrong will discuss the constitutional amendments with special emphasis on initiative and referendum.

Stevens-Anderson.

Miss Lillian Stevens and Henry A. Anderson will be married this evening at the bride's home, 1624 West Spring street. Miss Stevens will be attended by her sister, Miss Minnie Stevens. Ernest Larson will be the best man.

Gamble-Schiller.

Miss Phoebe Ella Gamble and Rudolph Charles Schiller will be married this evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Gamble of 5415 Oneida street. Miss Lucy Nightingale will be the maid of honor, and Palmer Harbison will be the best man.

Shower for Bride.

In honor of Miss Nan Holmes, whose marriage to Martin Hilber will take place June 9, Miss Mary Schulte entertained the senior gymnasium class of the Y. W. C. A. at a shower last evening the junior reception room of the association building. The decorations were of red roses, hearts and cupids and shaded candles. Miss Schulte was assisted by Miss Frances Kern, Miss Clara Schulte and Miss Anna Norquist. There were thirty guests.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—The Baldwin Players in "The Spendthrift."
ORPHEUM—"The Spoilers" in motion pictures.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

Favorable comment is heard on every side upon the success of the Baldwin Players in their charming production of the great society play, "The Spendthrift," at the Lyceum theater this week. The company is increasing its popularity. Play and production will merit all the good things that have been said of them. The company is individually and collectively adequate, the play fine, the production excellent, and some of the gowns worn by Miss May, the leading lady, and Miss Gray, the ingenue of the company, are creations of art and of wonderful interest to the feminine portion of the audience.

"The Spendthrift" will continue for the remainder of this week with a matinee today and Saturday.

Next week, commencing Sunday matinee, May 24, and continuing for the entire week, with matinees Sunday, Wednesday and Saturday, the Baldwin Players will present for the second week of their summer engagement, Paul Armstrong's wonderfully successful American play, "Alias Jimmy Valentine," as suggested by O. Henry's beautiful story, "A Retrieved Reformation." This play has proven not only a big success in New York, but everywhere it has been presented, and it is considered to be the most fortunate selection any stock company manager can make when considering which of the really best things to present to the public.

By the time the Selig Polyscope company had arranged to visualize Rex Beach's noted book, "The Spoilers," which is now being shown at the Orpheum, some features of the original environment had been eliminated, and it was necessary to restore them to preserve the atmosphere of the original work. Main street, in the city of Nome, had been wrecked by a tidal wave, and then eliminated by fire that followed when the ruins were timber-dry. With the aid of old photographs, every detail was restored carefully for this reincarnation of the famous placer mining town on the bleak shores of Bering sea.

It may be recalled in the book, that the miners, to rebuke the lawless invaders, who had under the false shadow of legal advice, taken their property, in revenge destroyed the mining camp of Midas. This was visualized in vivid style, as an old mining settlement was purchased, and blast after blast of dynamite blew it off the map. More than three months of working time were required to make "The Spoilers," necessitating the carrying of a large company over vast distances to secure the realistic authentic "locations." The book calls for a number of scenes taken in the driving rain. Producer Colin Campbell had a good, healthy lot of artists and none of them shrank from the sometimes disagreeable duties involved in the real life that makes "The Spoilers" big, moving and masterful.

Tonight's performances will be the last of the present vaudeville bill at the Empress theater. Four good acts, each representative of its class, have been the attraction at the popular playhouse. The Great Gerard and his company do a number of feats in strength and heavyweight juggling that are extremely hazardous and require besides considerable strength, skillful judgment. Billy Davis, a black-face comedian, offers many new jokes and plenty of song parodies. The Grays are phenomenal vocalists, offering a goodly bit of classy songs. Swain's Rats and Cats are funny. They do their tricks and feats without a word being said. The feature film "In the Moonlight" is a clever piece of acting, showing remarkable land and water scenes of startling beauty.

A carefully selected cast of artists and the same scenic production as was offered at the one dollar and half theaters, will be seen in "Believe Me," in which Billy Clifford will be seen at the Empress theater for an engagement of four days, starting Thursday matinee. Billy Single Clifford, the star of the occasion, is peculiarly fitted to interpret the light comedian part in the piece. Among those in the cast are: Miss Mae Collins, the Scotch lassie; Joe Waldron, direct from the Fatherland; Miss Ida May, the Irish elineator; George Gale, the Three Weston Sisters, and Edward C. Clifford.

TOO MANY ENGLISH HOLIDAYS.

Consular Report: The subject of holidays among the English working classes is being discussed with much interest. There has been a steady growth in the number of occasions when a cessation of work has become customary. Where only one day was formerly taken, now the day before the usual holiday and the day after are sometimes expected.

The Northern Advisory Trades committee has had the subject called to its attention and proposes to consider it further and try to reduce the number of holidays and bring order out of the existing chaos. There are now twenty-six days in the year recognized as legitimate occasions for holidays in most cities in England. They are as follows: Christmas day, the following day, known as boxing day, and often the next day also; New Year's day and the day after; Easter, beginning on Good Friday and including the Monday following Easter Sunday; Whitsuntide, two days; race week, six days; a week known as wages week; August bank holiday; and three or four days for the Elswick trips, a holiday claimed by many workingmen outside the Elswick works. All these holidays are not universal in England. Instead of those omitted many places have local holidays, as the fair week in Hull, and the goose fair week in Nottingham.

Much confusion and loss to business and to many workingmen, who can ill afford the loss of so much time, follows the present custom of taking holidays. The holidays mentioned are in addition to the weekly half holidays, observed Wednesday or Saturdays, which prevail in nearly all the shops, factories and shipyards in and around Newcastle. One large establishment, peculiar to itself, gives employes the privilege of choosing their own time for taking the holiday. Annually a vote is taken among the workingmen and the date favored by a majority is the one decided upon.

PRINTED NAMES.

Indianapolis News: Such names as Swearing and Gambling show how the original meaning has become corrupted. Swearing is from sweor, which comes from the Anglo-Saxon word "honorable." Gambling comes from gaming, which comes from a Norse word signifying "old descent."

WELCOME HOME, COLONEL!

Col. Theodore Roosevelt is home again after another long and arduous trip through jungles and wildernesses. He has been ill, and got rid of fifty-five pounds; but he is much better, and he could easily stand the loss of the flesh, which doubtless is due as much to the muscle-making strenuousness of his explorations as to sickness.

We're glad he's back and full of mental and physical vigor. For all his faults, which are many, we love him still—though he seldom is still—and he is, you will remember, our second citizen. A man so many-sided and so active, a man who "projects" around so continuously and so strenuously, could scarcely fail to have faults in plenty.

Col. Roosevelt discovered a river, we are told,—though some captious scientists announce that they are "from Missouri" about that river,—and doubtless brings news of new birds and beasts and bugs. At any rate he will have an interesting story to tell, and he will tell it well.

After that we shall hear how he likes the way things have been running while he was away: how he likes Mexico and the tariff—though it is against his rules to talk about that—and the currency and the trusts. We may as well prepare ourselves for the discovery that he isn't particularly keen about any of these things. Being, besides a great faunal naturalist and litterateur, an expert in the business of being president, and being used to the position of first citizen and not second, it would be against human nature to expect him to be enthusiastic about the man who has become the nation's first citizen in his absence.

Probably we shall hear, too, what he thinks about the Progressive or Bull Moose party, and what has happened to it while he was away. It has dwindled rather appallingly. Probably he will give it oxygen and apply galvanic batteries and try to make it stand on its feet again. Or maybe he will have a plan to take in the Republican party and give it shelter.

We shall see, presently, about all these things. In the meantime, we are sincerely glad that the Colonel got back all right and escaped all the crocodiles and stinging insects and didn't stumble into that new river, and that he is to be with us for awhile now and tell us how things ought to be done. We have missed him, and there has been a queer stillness without his voice.

The court of claims has refused to allow the railroads the increase they demanded for carrying the mails. Now is Wall Street's chance to see in this a forecast of the Eastern rate case decision.

LIGHTING THE WAY.

Passengers reaching Duluth on the lake lines land at night a good deal, and in the absence of lights it's a dreary and weird trip up town over the docks and viaducts.

So Commissioner Merritt is going to have lights put in to light the way, and to give visitors a more cheerful first glimpse of Duluth.

That's good. First impressions often are lasting, and we ought to put our best foot forward as often as possible. Commissioner Merritt is doing the right thing in illuminating the route of visitors who come by boat.

Apparently Weather Man Richardson learned some brand new kinks on the trip to Atlanta.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

4.—Publication of the State Treasurer's Report.

The Constitution now requires the state treasurer to publish his report in full in a St. Paul newspaper each year.

For some years, the custom has been to blink at this requirement, and to publish an abridged report.

The state officials believe this publication to be unnecessary, and therefore a waste.

They have tried before to get this provision repealed by constitutional amendment, and now they are trying again.

Those who believe in the fullest possible publicity for public affairs believe this publication to be justified. On the other hand the fact that its circulation is limited to the field of a St. Paul newspaper reduces its public value. It was published last year in a newspaper printed in a foreign language.

Voters will pass upon it according to their individual views.

Incidentally it might be remarked that the reputation of the New York police system is not being materially benefited by Becker's second trial.

THE RIGHT SYSTEM.

The city council has before it an ordinance spreading the guaranty, when gas and water extensions are made, so that every piece of property affected must stand its share on a frontage basis.

This, at last, is the right solution of this problem. It is the one which The Herald has advocated ever since the question came up.

The evil in the old system of guaranties was that nobody had to join who didn't wish to. So when people built homes in a new section and wanted gas and water, they had to guarantee eight per cent on the cost until the revenues from the extension reached that figure. Non-resident property-owners, or others holding vacant property for a rise, could refuse to participate even though they benefited, and usually they did refuse.

The first plan proposed, of assessing the cost of the extension just like the cost of a street improvement, was a bad plan and unjust. It would have added another handicap to home-building. It would have imposed on the home-seeker in new sections the obligation to pay not only for his own gas and water extension, but in large part to pay also for those already installed in wealthier parts of the city.

This objectionable plan has been discarded, and the right plan has been adopted. The pending ordinance should be passed.

It cost $12,468.62 to print Senator La Follette's rate speech in the Congressional Record. Maybe talk isn't so cheap in congress as some folks have thought.

BAD AND GOOD RESULTS IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Pennsylvania tried its 'prentice hand at a statewide primary election yesterday, but apparently not very many voters bothered themselves with it. This, in itself, is enough to account for any amount of bad results. The primary is no automatic cure-all. It is only an implement, and its value depends entirely on its use.

The Republicans nominated Boies Penrose to succeed himself as United States senator, which you can take to mean that the primary is a failure, that the Republican party is hopeless, or that Pennsylvania is boss-ridden and likes it, as you please.

But the Democrats nominated against him Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer, a clean-cut, appealing and altogether admirable figure in the new order that came in with Wilson; and the good of that offsets the bad in the Republican result—or will if the voters are wise in November.

Mr. Mellen should have had better judgment than to mention the colonel in his testimony on the very day the colonel got home.

A DECEPTIVE LABEL.

Ever since the enactment of the pure food and drug law this device has appeared on the labels of packages of food and drugs: "Guaranteed under the food and drug act."

What this label meant was that the manufacturer guaranteed the contents of the package to comply with the law.

What the average consumer thought it meant—and dealers were at no pains, naturally, to change this view—was that the government guaranteed the contents to be pure and wholesome.

The department of agriculture has just announced a new ruling to the effect that the use of this device will not be permitted after May 1, 1915, a year being allowed to use up labels already printed and in stock.

This ought to have been done long ago. The label was distinctly misleading, and its deceptive character is capitalized by the same type of manufacturers who used to put ground cocoanut shells in pepper, and water, coloring matter and alcohol in patent medicines.

How much of this story Mr. Mellen is developing before the interstate commerce commission is news to Wall Street?

HERE'S A SPRING TONIC.

When spring ripens, and especially when the first warm days come, there is a very prevalent ailment known as "spring fever."

Blood clogged by lack of exercise poisons the system, and victims of the seasonal disease are languid and thickheaded, crotchety and cross.

A good many take medicine for it, and in the old days grandmother used to stew up a mess of "yarbs" and make everybody drink the bitter concoction.

Medicine may be all right if that's the best you can do, and if the drugs don't leave worse troubles than they take away. But here, if anybody wants a prescription for spring fever, is a real one from the Journal of the American Medical association:

> Men have learned that the best spring tonics are the gifts of a beneficent nature. A full breath of fresh spring air, a brisk walk along a grass-grown road, a plunge into the cool waters of the old swimming-hole—if the water is pure and cold—or the morning shower if in the city, fresh green food or the pursuit after a bounding ball over a golf course—these are real invigorators, true tonics.

We feel a little hesitant about indorsing the recommendation of a plunge in the old swimming hole just yet, as the main swimming hole hereabouts is Lake Superior. The rest of it, however, is a hundred per cent right. A brisk walk in the open, application to hoe or rake in the back yard, the pursuit of a golf ball, fresh green food and more outdoor exercise—these are the ingredients of the perfect prescription for a spring tonic.

At last accounts Coxey's army consisted of one goat, one mule, and six privates. Perhaps the general will designate one of the privates as a goat to keep the four-footed one from feeling lonesome.

ARBITRATION OF THE TOLLS QUESTION.

Some of the senators want to drop the bill for the repeal of the canal tolls exemption, and submit the whole proposition to arbitration.

Some of those favoring this plan will vote for repeal, but most of them will not. And some of those who oppose repeal are so stiff-necked in their attitude, so fearful that England will get the best of us, that they will oppose arbitration as hotly as they are opposing repeal.

This is what should have been done in the Taft administration. It may not be too late now, but done now it will seem like evasion. Mr. Taft favored exemption frankly because he thought it a ship subsidy, and he favored ship subsidies. But he admitted a doubt of our right to make exemptions, and he was willing to let the issue be arbitrated.

A vote to arbitrate is a confession of doubt about this country's right under the Hay-Pauncefote treaty to exempt its own vessels from the payment of canal tolls.

The honest and the manly thing to do, where there is doubt about a nation's rights under a treaty, is to resolve the doubt in favor of the other fellow. To do otherwise is to quibble about the nation's pledged word—and no nation can afford to do that.

A compromise on arbitration may be possible, and it would be better than a failure of the repeal bill. But it would be avoiding an issue that ought to be met fairly and firmly and honestly.

John D. Rockefeller has doubled the guards around his house at Pocantico Hills, N. Y. What would he do if his house were in Colorado?

Historic Fools.

Life: Christopher Columbus was a fool to think that the earth was round and might contain lands hitherto undiscovered.

Galileo was a fool to insist that the world moved around the sun, particularly as the statement involved life imprisonment.

Napoleon was a fool to look for courage and a sense of honor in a people who had just succeeded in murdering their king and the greater part of their aristocracy.

William Wordsworth was a fool to try to write interesting poetry by merely describing exactly what he saw.

George Washington was a fool to claim that a British colony could be governed in any other way than that of the British Empire.

George Stephenson was a fool to believe that steam could be utilized for making a machine travel on wheels.

Richard Wagner was a fool to use the operatic stage for the production of realistic and dramatic effects.

Abraham Lincoln was a fool to demand that the Union be preserved on a basis of freedom and equality for all men.

Bismarck was a fool to attempt an organization and centralization of the heterogeneous German kingdoms.

Woodrow Wilson is a fool to place morality and conscience above expediency and the line of least resistance.

It Is Yet Early.

She came while it was still too dark to see,
Through the old garden, olive-shadowed dim,
Mary, who loved the Master tenderly;
Mary loved of Him.
As she came slowly, sadly to the tomb
The darkest hour before the waiting dawn,
Around her closer pressed the shrouded gloom;
She found her dear Lord gone.

Weeping, she turned her leaden feet to go
And sought the pathway, sick of soul, and tired,
And then the voice: "Why weepest thou?" and lo!
Her Lord stood by her side.
She knew Him not. 'Tis thus the shadows hold,
Unknown to us, not pain, but blessed peace,
And in their midst strange fears and sorrows old
May find some sweet surcease.

O grief of mine—mayhap it is too soon
For weeping eyes to see the dawning light.
It is the darkest hour, nor star, nor moon,
Lightens the dusky night.
And that which now I call my sorrow here,
Within the garden of my grief, may be,
Not sorrow, but my own Lord waiting near,
Until my eyes may see.

Picking the Boss

Lincoln Steffens in the May McClure's.

He "got in early," he said, "as a kid"—he and his whole gang. The old ward leader had taken them in before they were of age. They voted before they were eligible to vote, and they had been used to jostle citizens out of the polls. They "beat up" voters, and were taught to stuff the ballot boxes. What is more, they learned to do this joyously.

"Fun, wasn't it?" I interjected at a jolly moment of his narrative.

"You bet it was!" he said. "It was real sport." And his eyes twinkled. "Say," he said, "we got hell from the old boss once, our gang did. We'd stuffed our boxes so full that the count showed there was more ballots on our side than there was voters altogether. The papers against us, and th' reformers, howled with joy; and th' old man he certainly was mad. He sent for us—and, by th' way, that was th' time he took to me. He cussed around, and swore so that th' other kids was scared; but I didn't care. I stood back and just grinned. And so, when he fired us out, he kept me back. And he talked different to me. He explained to me that politics was a business; not a sport, but serious business; and he laid it out to me pretty plain. Then he said how he needed young fellows like me, and would I work with him and help him? And—well, I was one of his lieutenants after that. And that's how I was in line for his job when he died. I was leader, by then, of my own ward. I carried the Third in my pocket. But, for him, I handled councils regular, and sometimes the legislature, and I was always next at conventions. As he grew old and older, I did more and more till I was really doing all th' work; that is, all of what he used to wink his eye at and call th' 'dirty work.' So they picked me for his shoes when he passed out, and—"

"They?" Who are 'they'?" I asked.

"Why, th' big fellows," I said. "What you call th' business bosses."

"Tell me about that," I said. "How did the business men come to have the making of a political boss?"

"How?" he said. "I don't know how, but they did. Let me tell you. There was a fight on for leader when th' old boss died, and I was a dark horse in it, the youngest of th' candidates. And I thought it had to be fought out in th' executive committee, among th' ward leaders. And it was—for a while; till two of th' old leaders got too loud. They said things; gave out inside stuff; and it began to look pretty bad. Th' papers said a scandal was brewing, and I thought there sure was. And I was layin' low, pretty well out of it, when I got a call to the bank. You know—th' big bank. And there was the president, and the railroad and th' public service and—you know, the ones we wrote into your article as the real bosses. I thought of that, that day when we were talking. They sat down together that time. And there I was, too. And th' president says to me, he says—all quiet and dignified, like he always is; he spoke of the 'unseemly row' in the party—those were his words, I remember; he says how it hurt th' party, and not only in th' city, but in th' state and th' nation; and th' town, too; and business. And he says, 'It must cease'—just like that. 'And,' he says, 'you're th' man to stop it.' I was flabbergasted. But he goes on to say that th' old boss had recommended me for leader. 'Later,' he says: 'Not yet; too young yet,' but that I knew all the ropes, was honest, fearless, and could keep my mouth shut. 'So,' th' president says, 'we meant to wait, but we can't. The situation is critical. We here have gone all over the ground, and we's decided in this here emergency to call upon you to take command now.'

Big Business Ruled the Party.

"Can you see me? How I felt? I was tickled to death, but scared. That was all right to say; me to take command. But I wondered how it was going to be pulled off; how I was to work it, see? I didn't know much about th' big bosses and their ways. Th' old man, he always attended to th' big bosses and all that. But the banker, he knew. 'Now,' he says, 'you go to th' next meeting. Take with you all th' personal backing you can get. You've got seven leaders on your string,' he says. And he was correct. But there was sixty-three wards! See? I thought about th' fifty-six leaders not on my string. I didn't say a word, though, and it didn't fease him. He said that he and his 'colleagues here,' he says, 'we'll pass th' word down the line to th' other leaders to stand for you.' And he went on to say that they'd let it be known that hereafter all business contributions and all business wishes would be handed out through me. See? You on?"

I nodded. "Well, and then?"

"That's all," he said. "At th' next meeting that happened. It was as quiet and unanimous as in th' old days. Nothing to it. And after that I was th' man."

"And after that," I said, "after that you were the leader of the party and the head—the real head of the local city government."

"That's it," he said.

"After that," I continued, "you were the political head of the organized system of corruption in your city."

Those the Angels Love Get a Task, Not Thrones.

Will Levington Comfort in the Craftsman: Give a man his work and you may watch at your leisure the cleanup of his morals and manners. Those who are best loved by the angels, receive not thrones, but a task. I would rather have the curse of Cain than the temperament to choose a work because it is easy.

Real work becomes easy only when the man has perfected his instrument, the body and brain; because this instrument is temporal, it has a height and limitation to reach. There is a year in which the sutures close. That man is a master who has fulfilled his possibilities, whether tile trencher, stone mason, writer or carpenter hammering periods with nails. Real manhood makes lowly gifts significant; the work of such a man softens and finishes him, renders him plastic to finer forces.

No good work is easy. The apprenticeship, the refinement of body and brain, is a novitiate, and this is the time of strain and fatigue, with breaks here and there in the cohering line. According to the force of the spiritual drive on the instrument may be measured the suffering of the flesh to conform, and as well may be estimated, the final quality of the life attainment.

Too Many Minutes.

Saturday Evening Post: The negro coachman of a southern senator who attended the Episcopal church, after many invitations from the senator's wife, went into the church one Sunday morning instead of staying outside.

"How did you like the service, Jim?" she asked afterward.

"Not much, 'Mistis,'" Jim replied. "That ain't no church foh me. Dey wastes too much time readin' the' minutes of th' previous meetin'."

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator Miles Poindexter was the victim of a weird psychic experience on the night of the sixth of last April. He remembers the date because—well, the date has an important bearing on the story.

The senator went to bed on the night of the sixth feeling as well as usual. In fact, as he looks back on the strange experience of that night he distinctly recalls that he was in particularly good spirits at the hour of retiring. Shortly after midnight he found himself in the throes of nightmare—and then awoke with a start. Previous to that time he had not had a good nightmare for years. He was at a complete loss to figure out why he should be bothered with a bad dream and wake up suddenly in a cold perspiration on the sixth of April.

Moreover, why should his dream be about an election? Until the moment when he aroused himself, he thought he was running for something and that at every step friends and foes alike swatted him in the face with large ballot sheets, each containing a huge cross after the name of his opponent. Even after allowing for the exaggerated effect that a dream gives to a thing, Poindexter on awakening could scarcely shake off the idea that he must have been seeking office just a few seconds before. He sat up on his haunches in bed for two or three minutes trying to analyze the situation, but gave it up and went on back to sleep.

Now, if Poindexter's queer little experience had stopped right there, it would not be worth mentioning at all. One would simply say that he had eaten too heartily of Welsh rabbit or lobster Newburg before retiring, and let it go at that.

But the next morning when Poindexter got on a street car to go to his duties, up at Capitol hill, his seatmate, who was a total stranger and could have known nothing about the bad dream, turned to him and remarked:

"Well, I was sorry to learn last night about the election going against you."

Instantly Poindexter thought of the dream in which some election—he knew not what—had gone violently against him. Others then knew about his dream. The thing was uncanny!

"What election do you mean?" asked Poindexter excitedly, at the same time giving himself a clandestine pinch on the thigh to verify his belief that he was really awake.

"Why, the election down in your state, of course," replied the stranger, giving him a funny look. "I supposed you were down there. Oh, well, Underwood's a good man, but I've been rather in sympathy with your side."

Then a rift broke in the clouds and a shaft of light came through. It was not the first time Poindexter had been mistaken for Richmond P. Hobson, and the resemblance is indeed striking.

But what puzzled Poindexter then, was about the nightmare. Why should he dream about being defeated for an office simultaneous with the actual defeat of his double? Did all the people who have taken him for Hobson think about Hobson's defeat so intently that the thought waves got to him while he slept? Did some of the thought waves come wirelessing themselves to him all the way from Alabama? Or was the whole creepy combination of circumstances nothing more than coincidence?

Who knows? Ah, who knows?

Dr. Romulo S. Naon, the minister of Argentina, which is the A. of the so-called A. B. C. republics which figure in the Mexican mediation plan, is a persuasive person. It is said to have been he who talked T. Roosevelt into making his recent trip to South America.

One person after another interested in South America went to Roosevelt and tried to show him what a great thing it would be for science, humanity and himself if he would make a trip over that continent and get acquainted with the people. But T. R. seemed reluctant to make the journey. Then Naon got hold of Roosevelt, told him that he, T. R., had a message for the South American people that, whatever it was, they panted to hear. He stated the thing with such suavity and exhibited such an engaging personality that almost immediately after the interview Roosevelt determined to make the trip.

Naon is really the Roosevelt of Argentina—that is, he represents the extreme progressive thought of that country.

Representative Percy E. Quin of Mississippi is an exceptionally modest man, but he is also at times an absent-minded man. For that reason he gave an exhibition the other day of what might have been construed as gross immodesty. He had just made a speech on the floor of the house. When he sat down everybody applauded. Having had his mind fixed on his subject he did not realize when he sat down that the applause was for him, and so he absent-mindedly joined in the applause. He applauded louder than anybody else, until a friend came over and brought him to himself with the remark:

"You must have liked that speech."

The Tenderfoot at Poker.

Lippincott's: A Chicago man tells of a poker game played in a Wyoming town, in a saloon where the barkeeper, with the assistance of three crooks, puts one across now and then on a tenderfoot.

One night such a specimen appeared, and, after a few drinks, was induced to "sit in" for a while, at a dollar limit.

Matters progressed in the usual way for a bit; then an astonishing series of nods and winks began to pass about. The bartender had signalled that the tenderfoot held four kings on the draw. Then the betting began.

Presently a waiter brought sandwiches and whiskey, in order to distract the tenderfoot. While the latter was disposing of his drink the man next to him slipped a sixth card into his hand, thus nullifying it.

The unconscious tenderfoot took up a huge sandwich, bit off a large mouthful, and began to bet again. He was, of course, raised all around. He bet on, and ate on, quite calmly. A big sum lay on the table.

Then, very suddenly, the bartender resumed his signalling. He was excited. It was plain that things were going wrong. The crooks' anxious, called the tenderfoot.

The latter finished the last bite of his sandwich, took a big drink of whiskey, and laid down his original five cards. Then, in silence, he gathered up his winnings, and took his leave.

After his departure there was the deuce to pay. "What," demanded the crooks of the bartender—"what did he do with that sixth card?"

"Didn't you see?" howled the bartender, dancing with rage. "He ate it with his sandwich!"

Reclaim and Settle Idle State Lands

The State Press on a Needed State Policy.

Put the Land to Use.

Biwabik Times: Northern Minnesota would be doubly blessed if the single tax was put in force. The single tax means that all this wild land held for speculation would be taxed at the same figure per acre as the improved farms. And it should be. The outrage of owners of this cutover land holding it from $10 to $25 an acre, would then be a thing of the past. It would gladly be sold for $1 and $2 an acre, all that it should bring from the actual settler. The taxing power of the state should be so used that land could not be held for speculation.

If They Only Knew.

Virginia Enterprise: There are still available for homestead entry in Minnesota 1,000,000 acres of land in addition to several millions of acres more of good land which can be bought cheap and on reasonable terms.

Minnesota is one of the richest states in the Union today. But we have only recently begun to realize it. Northern Minnesota alone can take care of thousands of farmers and the effort ought to be made to interest them here. The state real estate agents are doing a good deal in this direction, but there are many other influences that ought to be set at work interesting new settlers.

Northern Minnesota farm lands at the prices at which they can be bought and cleared, and at the terms, ought to have a strong appeal to the men who toil in Eastern industrial centers, with small hope of a better future. Many of this class of people are passing through the state to Montana and the Canadian Northwest daily.

If they knew of the success the sturdy Finnish farmers are making on lands in the immediate vicinity of Virginia; if they knew that many of them who were formerly miners at good wages could not be induced to return to the mines, and that on what used to be considered waste land in this section they have won an independence they never know before, some of them might be induced to stop here and look us over.

The Duluth & Iron Range railroad land department is doing more at the present time to bring new settlers here than is any other single influence. It is only one of a number of corporations who have large holdings in St. Louis county who ought to be active in this regard or who ought not to complain when the assessor raises the valuations on their idle speculative holdings next May.

Boost for Meeting.

Gonvick Banner: In spite of the political uproar, the annual summer meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association to be held at Thief River Falls on June 3, 4 and 5 promises to eclipse all former gatherings. It will be a meeting in and for the best interests of all Northern Minnesota, with its main purpose to derive a system that will mean the development of our thousands of unoccupied acres, their drainage, and general betterment of farm conditions, as well as many other projects of vital importance; a meeting in which everybody is free to voice his suggestions; and one that comes this time almost at our very door. It is just reason why the squad of boosters of Clearwater county should journey to the hub city on those dates. It is well worth the trip and would at least show an appreciation for the warm feeling this association has always held for this county. It's possible that within a reasonable length of time our own county may have an opportunity to entertain this resplendent body of boosters.

It's Being Done Now.

Aurora News: Thousands of cattle are being successfully raised in the pine district of Northern Michigan. The same thing will be done in Northern Minnesota soon and this section of the state will be one of the finest dairying districts in the country.

And Mighty Good Land, Too.

Anoka Union: Minnesota has thousands of acres of land, waiting to be improved by men who want to gain riches and comfort.

Something Must Be Done

Bemidji Sentinel: Some time ago an editorial suggestion from The Duluth Herald called attention to the urgent need of intelligent activity on the part of the state in making possible the development of the great tracts of idle state land.

No part of the North country is more vitally interested in such a move, because none would be greater benefited, than the counties of Beltrami and Koochiching.

The Herald has no hard and set views as to the method of procedure, but offers as a possible solution the following:

Resolved, That we urge the state of Minnesota, the largest owner of idle lands in the state, to adopt a human and business-like land policy that will hasten the settlement and cultivation of its idle acres, put them on the tax rolls and the list of producing lands, and profit the permanent school funds; and to this end we suggest that the state create, out of the proceeds of land sales or otherwise, an ample reclamation revolving fund to be devoted to the following essential features of reclamation:

1. Partial clearing of each tract offered for sale, so that the settler may make a living from the start and while clearing the remaining acres by his own efforts;
2. Drainage of submerged areas; and
3. Road-building so that settlers may carry their goods to tracts now inaccessible, and bring their products out to market.

We suggest that the cost of each of these steps in reclamation be added to the price of the land when sold, and recovered into the reclamation fund for further use; that the price of the land, with the profits of reclamation, be placed in the permanent funds; and that the reclamation fund, when it is no longer needed, be restored to the fund from which it was diverted. Should privately owned land be benefited incidentally, it should be assessed its pro rata share of the cost.

This plan appeals to us as one for serious and determined consideration, not because there may not be ramifications that would alter The Herald proposal in some respects, but because it gives us a starting point on a problem, the importance of which overshadows at this time all other problems that Northern Minnesota faces.

A Dancer Preferred.

Philadelphia Telegraph: The conversation at a smokefest the other night turned to fads and fancies, when Congressman Edward W. Poul of North Carolina was reminded of Bessie and May.

Bessie and May were leisurely strolling along the street one day when the former suggested the possibility of the latter marrying an esteemed citizen named Smith.

"The very idea of my marrying a man like that!" was the emphatic rejoinder of May. "I thought you knew me better! Why, he doesn't know a single one of the new dance steps!"

"I know he doesn't, dearie," responded Bessie, "but they say he is a wonderful swimmer."

"What if he is!" was the imperious rejoinder of the particular May. "Do you think I want a husband that I would have to keep in an aquarium?"

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1894.

There is considerable talk now of candidates for county officers. For treasurer, E. J. Crossett will be in the field again, and J. P. Johnson and M. J. Davis may oppose him. N. F. Hugo, G. J. Mallory and Charles J. Dahl would like to be register of deeds. Sheriff Sharvy would like another term, and H. M. Myers and W. W. Butchart have their eyes on the place. W. N. Shephard and D. J. Sinclair are candidates for clerk of court. Judge of Probate Phineas Ayer will probably not be opposed. Otway W. Baldwin and P. C. Schmidt would like to be county attorney. Dr. Fred Barrett, James A. Boggs and L. M. Willcuts are mentioned for the house of representatives. F. B. Daugherty has an inclination to go to the senate again.

There is considerable excitement at Fond du Lac over reported gold discoveries. That there was mineral-bearing quartz at the point where gold is now found has been known for years. W. H. Hollenbeck has had a lease of the land from the state for ten years or more.

Among the attractions at the Duluth Pavilion this summer will be a miniature Ferris wheel modeled and built by a West Duluth man, James McArton of the Columbia house on Central avenue.

Jared Benson of Anoka, one of the pioneers of the state, is dead. He served for many years in the legislature, and was speaker of the house three terms.

Samuel F. Wadhams and Miss May Morris, daughter of Mrs. Mary Morris of St. Paul, were married by Rev. Dr. Ryan at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. David H. Day, 419 First avenue west, on May 16. Those present were Mrs. Morris and sons, Mr. Weider of St. Paul, the bride's uncle, Dr. and Mrs. D. H. Day, Mrs. E. T. Wadhams, Miss Stella C. Wadhams and Ralph H. Wadhams of Wilkesbarre, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Anderson and Miss Annie Clarkson have left for Scotland and England, their home.

The engagement of John J. Haley and Miss Tressie O'Donnell is announced.

Morris Brooks, who has been absent from Duluth for several months, will return soon to remain permanently.

Charles F. Parkhurst, the attorney, who has been ill for some time, has been removed to St. Luke's hospital.

Matthew Matthews, a woodchopper about 30 years of age, was accidentally shot in the stomach and killed at Woodland yesterday. He was pulling a gun toward him when the trigger caught and it was discharged.

Reassurance for Alarmists.

Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin: Alarmists are always talking of the degeneracy of the present age, but now and then something occurs to show that physically as well as mentally the folks of today are doing pretty well, thank you, and the alarmists are not as well informed as they think they are.

Often it has happened in England that when young people of historic lineage, getting up tableaux or other entertainments, desire to don suits of armor that had come down to them from ancestors of the period of the War of the Roses or earlier, they could not get them on. The doughty warriors for whom these garments of iron and brass were built had narrower chests and shoulders and shorter limbs, in many instances, than their descendants of the present day.

Now comes American testimony of the same sort. Miss Katherine Dickinson of Alton, Ill., director of the Camerata chorus, preparing a program of American songs to be sung in costume, is having great difficulty in finding songsters for the chorus who can wear the gowns which were made 100 years ago, and which will be worn at the concert. It appears that the girls of today are too tall and too broad across the shoulders to wear gowns worn a century ago.

What a lot of nonsense is talked by the eugenists who base their arguments for scientific regulation of marriage on the assumption that the race is going to the bow-wows because the state does not step in to prevent physical deterioration! Instead of being physically inferior to their ancestors the average young man and young woman of the present time seemingly are better nourished, better grown, and in every respect more stalwart specimens of humanity than the average of the individuals from whom they are descended.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

FIRE AUTOMOBILES AND THE PUBLIC.

To the Editor of The Herald:

"Duluth has an up-to-date fire equipment, and will get more autos."

It looks well and sounds still better, but on the other hand—

"Assistant chief's auto kills 4-year-old girl going to a brush fire on Hermantown road."

I want to see the city well protected and supplied for fire fighting, but if we have to stay at home and not venture on the streets for fear some fire auto might come along and we could not get into clear, I suggest that the commissioner of public safety look out for these drivers.

If it's wrong for a private vehicle to exceed the speed limit, why should it not be wrong for any public vehicle to do so?

I hope that some of those speed fiends do not make a mistake and run down our commissioner of public safety some bright day during their early morning exercising, as we may need him yet before we have our fire department fully equipped.

WOULD QUESTION THE CANDIDATES.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Before the nomination and the election of governor and legislators it is important for the voters to get acquainted with the candidates' point of view regarding the preservation of our institutions and the enactment of just and practical laws. Inquire of the different candidates for governor as well as those for representatives and senators whether they strictly favor the upholding of free press and speech without any liability of being influenced to the contrary. Find out whether they would favor a law that would redress the wrongs inflicted on an unfortunate who has been convicted of crime that he never committed and whose innocence first, after many years confinement in the penitentiary, has been revealed. It seems that the state ought to do such a victim justice and instead of pardon that he does not need, it would be far better to recompense him for the time of imprisonment and publicly proclaim his innocence. Ask the men who want you to send them to the legislature whether they favor punishment to charlatans that pretend to cure consumption and other incurable diseases, who, with full knowledge that nothing can be accomplished, persist with their quackery with no other object in view than to rob of the last penny the unfortunate and the afflicted.

Send the candidates that answer you in the affirmative on these questions, to the legislature, but keep a constant watch on them and let their acts serve them in future elections, the same as we shall observe our city commissioners' stand on the housing code and thereby be guided in voting at our next municipal election.

OUTLOOK IS BRIGHTENING

Signs of Substantial Revival in Ore Business, Says Locker.

Premium for Vessel Tonnage Following Rate Decision Is Predicted.

There has been a decided change in the iron ore situation during the last few days and general business in the East is beginning to show signs of substantial revival, according to W. H. Locker of the Locker-Donahue company, who has returned from Philadelphia, where he had been engaged in closing the final details in connection with the organization of the American Manganese Manufacturing company.

Everything pertaining to the deal has gone along satisfactorily without a hitch developing in any quarter, he averred. The assent of the stockholders of the Dunbar Furnace company to the transaction has been obtained, and it is expected that the agreement will be formally ratified at a meeting of that company to be held on June 2. It is planned to have the iron furnaces at Dunbar, Pa., in operation under the new organization by July 1.

In the meantime mining operations, Mr. Locker said, will be pushed at the properties of the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs and the Cuyuna-Duluth iron companies which are being merged into the American Manganese Manufacturing company. The raising of from 250,000 to 300,000 tons of ore at these mines is proposed during the present season. Between 40,000 and 50,000 tons are now accumulated on their stockpiles. The working forces at both mines are to be increased in the near future, so that a large tonnage may be available to ship with the going into operation of the Eastern furnaces in the consolidation.

Steel Outlook Brightens.

Discussing the iron and steel situation, Mr. Locker said that Eastern steel manufacturers are looking forward to the materializing of a good buying movement in the event of the forthcoming decision of the interstate commission in the rate question being favorable to the railroads. Bullish sentiment is also being promoted in financial and industrial quarters through the good crop outlook.

Up to date only a small tonnage of ore has been contracted for by the independents largely for the reason, according to unofficial statements, that mine owners are not satisfied with the schedule of prices fixed, and are holding back. There is said to be a general expectation among operators that forthcoming developments in the situation will be of such a nature as to lead to advances in ore prices later on in the season, by reason of the fact that stocks now being carried at the Lower Lakes ports are comparatively small and will thus render necessary the hurrying on of shipments.

"The manager of one of the largest vessel concerns outside of the Pittsburg Steamship company expressed the opinion to me that vessel space will be at a premium by the middle of the season," averred Mr. Locker. "His reason for entertaining that view was the expectation that there will be heavy demand for space on the part of shippers by that time."

Mr. Locker will leave for the East again tomorrow to assist in placing the finishing touches upon the plans of the big consolidation.

DISEASE COSTS U. S. $800,000,000 YEARLY

Education and Sanitation Most Effective Remedies, Says Dr. Phelan.

"Disease in Industry" was the subject of an address delivered last evening by Dr. Raymond Phelan at the Commercial club. The lecture was one of the series in the university extension course. Dr. Phelan touched upon the responsibility to be charged to the individual, to the employer and to society in general.

The speaker declared that sickness had cost the United States $800,000,000 a year and that the most effective remedies seemed to be in education, in sanitary provisions by the employers of labor, and in provision for compensation for occupational diseases by the state.

Next Tuesday, Dr. Phelan will lecture on "Unemployment at Home and Abroad."

SAYS BUSINESS IS "GOOD IN SPOTS"

And Duluth and Minneapolis Are Two Good "Spots."

K. W. Perkins of Minneapolis, northwest manager of the Otis Elevator company, and E. A. Henderson of Chicago, district manager of the same company, are in the city today visiting Colin Kirk, the local manager.

E. A. Henderson expressed the opinion that business through the country is good in spots and that Duluth and Minneapolis are among the points that are giving the best account of themselves in the way of activity. Officers of the National Building Managers' association, he said, expect that their annual convention to be held here from July 14 to 17, will be one of the best attended in its history. The majority of the members in the East will avail themselves of the opportunity to take advantage of the boat trip up the lakes.

FREE MILL CITY ICE.

For Those Who Come After It During Drivers' Union Strike.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 20.—The first violence in the strike of the Ice Wagon Drivers' union, in progress for nearly a week, was reported yesterday. The largest ice company in the city, whose men are the only ones remaining out, has agreed to supply any of its customers with ice providing they will come and get it. The union has sanctioned this agreement, but will not permit such customers taking any except for themselves. Yesterday afternoon when a grocer's driver had loaded a good supply on his wagon strikers gathered about and threw the ice into the street. A police squad quelled the disturbance. It is said that the company is giving away eighty tons of ice a day.

NOT TO CUT OFF HEADS

Plan of Efficiency Commission Is to Head the Thing Up.

One Government Instead of Sixty and Team Play Throughout.

St. Paul, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—"How are these people going to take it to have their heads cut off?"

"We are not proposing to cut off their heads. We want to put heads on them."

In the plans of the efficiency commission all the work that is now done is still to be done, and wherever there is a man's job now, there will be under the new plan. If any places are now filled by men who don't have a man's job that, of course, is something else again, and when these places are all shaken down into their departments, that will very soon appear. But the answer given above by a member of the efficiency commission to the question states the fact.

The present government is in a large sense headless. Not to mention the isolated and scattering boiler inspectors, or the disintegrated oil inspectors, every little board has been so far a government in itself. The new scheme is to make them all part of one government. Not to cut off any heads, except those which are clearly superfluous, but to head the thing up. And as no man will admit for a minute that he is among the superfluous ones, nearly everybody is taking very kindly to the efficiency commission's plans.

All Have Co-Operated.

At the last meeting of the commission, C. P. Craig took occasion as chairman to express the obligation of the commission to the officeholders in the capitol. They didn't have to do anything. This body has no authority—no legal power. They have co-operated in furnishing information and advice to the fullest extent "in a high sense of civic duty." Even those who were unable to agree with the commission's recommendations have given their co-operation and full information with invariable courtesy.

The idea is gradually taking possession of those who are acquainted with this problem that the essence of the whole thing is to provide a single state government instead of a flock of little organizations, each one dragging its own administration, as a snail carries its shell. Nearly every criticism of the commission's plan comes from someone who hasn't got that idea but sees one of these small governments standing alone. Of course, it is doing better work when it has a complete administrative organization than it would have without any. What the commission sees is that the administrative organization can all be framed from one center with multiplied effectiveness of all the parts, and this is the feature which public opinion heartily approves as fast as people get to see it. One government instead of sixty—order in place of confusion—and team play throughout.

PLAN REFERENDUM UPON TRUST BILLS

Chamber of Commerce Directors Announce Decision at Washington.

Washington, May 20.—Directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States have determined to take a referendum vote of the business organizations of the country on the Clayton and Newlands anti-trust bills. The referendum on the pending interstate trade commission measure will be completed May 29, it was announced.

MASTER PLUMBERS ARE PUT ON GRILL

Hearing as to Alleged Trust Is Begun at Des Moines.

Des Moines, Iowa, May 20.—The examination of witnesses in the nation-wide probe of the activities of the Master Plumbers' Association of America, alleged to be a trust, was begun here yesterday by the grand jury in the Federal court of the Southern district of Iowa. Judge Smith McPherson instructed the grand jurors as to the intent of the Sherman anti-trust law, and soon the first of the 100 witnesses to be heard was placed on the stand. The names of witnesses examined was refused, but it was said that they came from Iowa.

PLANS FOR FESTIVAL

Will Be Discussed By Committee Next Friday Night.

Further plans for the big midsummer festival for 1915 will be discussed at a meeting of the Festival and Pageant association to be held Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the Commercial club assembly room. A. C. Pearson, temporary secretary of the association, today issued the call for the meeting. All representatives from the city's various civic organizations are urged to be present as much unfinished as well as new business of importance is scheduled to come up.

Does Tango Reduce Flesh?

The violent movements of the modern dances naturally tend to keep flesh down, but they also tend to put an extra strain upon the vital organs, especially the heart, and so may damage the health more than assist it. Besides, many people do not dance, some people do not believe in dancing, and few people can afford the time to dance enough to really accomplish much reduction. A better way to dissolve fatty tissue easily and quickly without dieting is by taking the parnotis treatment, made at home as follows: Put 4 ounces parnotis (from your druggist's) in 1½ pints hot water and strain when cool. Take a tablespoonful before meals until weight is where you want it. No harm results from the use of the parnotis treatment, and the flesh is left solid and the skin soft and smooth.—Advertisement.

BADGER STALWARTS' STATE CONVENTION

Call Is Issued, Reciting Needs to Correct State Conditions.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 20.—A call for a state convention was issued by the so-called stalwart wing of the Republican party, at a meeting held here late yesterday.

The call announced that among the subjects to be discussed would be political conventions, the interests of the people, the remedies necessary to meet the demands of the voters, and expressed the belief that the present business stagnation was due to unwise tariff legislation; that taxes are excessive; that the state university is over-extravagant and that certain persons connected therewith meddle too much in state politics.

GIVE BENEFIT DANCE.

Company C Will Raise Fund for Emergency Call.

Company C, Third Regiment, Minnesota National Guard, will entertain at a benefit dance this evening at the armory. The affair will be open to the public. NEW COUNTY SCHOOL.

Building Will Contain Living Rooms for the Teachers.

At a meeting of the county board of education yesterday afternoon at the court house, N. A. Young, county superintendent and clerk of the board, was directed to advertise for bids on the proposed school building two miles south of Brevator and eight miles northwest from Cloquet. The building will cost approximately $4,000. The board also authorized improvements and repairs on school No. 14 of the unorganized district. When remodeled the building will be arranged so as to provide living rooms for teachers.

Is Blond Hair Most Popular?

The too-common use of peroxide and hair bleaches would lead us to think that blond hair is much more desirable than the darker shades, if we did not realize that the thing women want is not so much the very light tresses as the contrast they make with features naturally supposed to be crowned with darker hair. Nature's plan is always the best in these matters. Just keep the hair perfectly clean and healthy and your natural hair will be so attractive that artifice will be unnecessary. Warm weather makes frequent shampooing necessary to keep the hair bright, clean and fluffy, and if you shampoo with canthrox the scalp and hair will not only be cleansed from dust, dandruff and excess oil, but a wholesome, healthy condition will follow. A teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup hot water is ample for the thickest growth of hair. These exhilarating canthrox shampoos make the head feel good, require little time or labor and give to any hair a soft fluff, beautiful gloss and rich, even color. The cost per shampoo is almost nothing.—Advertisement.

WILL DISCUSS CODE.

Builders' Organizations Will Consider Various Objections.

Emil Zauft of West Duluth will preside at a meeting of representatives from the Real Estate exchange, Building Managers' association, Architects and Builders' exchange and Commercial club rooms, at which objections to a number of features of Duluth's building code will be discussed. It is probable that several changes will be suggested in the ordinance. The code is now in the hands of the city attorney, who is considering its revision.

URGE U. S. TROOPS BE KEPT IN COLORADO.

Fort Smith, Ark., May 20.—Following a scathing indictment against the state of Colorado in which John P. White, president of the United Miners of America, referred to it as the "citadel of corruption," the district convention of Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas of the organization adopted a resolution here petitioning President Wilson to retain United States troops in the coal mining sections of that state.

The resolution asserts that the actions of Governor Ammons of Colorado indicate he is using his office in the interests of the mine operators.

Mr. White, previous to the passage of the resolution, said he had proof that more than 150 men from the slums of Chicago and New York were taken to Colorado and enlisted in the militia to act as gunmen for the operators.

TWO MEN HELP ROOSEVELT FROM BOAT TO HIS HOME

Physical Condition Shock to His Oyster Bay Friends.

Colonel Refuses to Talk Politics—Shows Joy at Return.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., May 20.—Theodore Roosevelt set foot on his native soil at 8:40 o'clock last night for the first time in seven months. The colonel's coming was a quiet affair—in sharp contrast with the noisy welcome he received when all New York turned out to greet him on his return from Africa four years ago.

A group of thirty persons—old friends and relatives—stood quietly on the sandy beach at the cove on Oyster Bay, just down the hill from Col. Roosevelt's home. The former president, leaning heavily on a cane and assisted by two men, toiled slowly up the gangway from the landing place. It was something of a shock to his old friends, to whom his unusual physical vigor had been always a source of wonder, to note the change.

Manner Unchanged.

But though Col. Roosevelt had paid this penalty for his researches in the jungle, he gave no sign of change in his manner.

It was a picturesque scene. Since long before sundown the little group of persons had been waiting silently on the beach. As night fell two lanterns were brought. Here and there a thin finger of light from the waiting automobiles parked on the shore shot out across the dark waters of the bay. Across the water the lights of the village glowed.

Few words were spoken as the little company of men and women waited for the first glimpse of the lights of the tug which was bearing the former president from New York harbor.

Shortly after 8 o'clock the tug was sighted. She steamed in slowly, and after what seemed an interminable delay to those on shore, a rowboat put off and crept up to the wharf.

"Hello, Hello There!"

Not a word was spoken until a familiar voice was heard across the water.

"Why, hello," cried Col. Roosevelt, "hello, there!"

A little cheer went up as those on shore caught sight of a bronzed face, lighted by the pale rays of the boat's lantern. Mrs. Richard Derby, Col. Roosevelt's youngest daughter, fled down the gang plank and put her arms about her father as he was helped slowly from the boat to the wharf. He made his way up the incline to land and stopped to greet his friends.

"By George, it is good to see you all!" he said, with the broadest kind of a smile.

"How do you feel?" was the first question put to him.

"Fine, fine; just fine," he exclaimed. The next question he cut off short.

"No Politics."

"No politics, no politics," he said. "Not a word of politics. I'm going to stay here quietly in Oyster Bay for ten days, until I leave for Europe for my son's wedding. I shall go nowhere except to Washington to speak before the National Geographic society."

"Washington is a bad place for you now," broke in some one.

"I wish you were there now, Theodore," came from a gray-haired woman.

The colonel laughed at this remark.

"If I were," he began, "I would—would—"

But he decided not to say what he would do. He stopped short, then, raising his cane, said with a laugh:

"You see, I still have the same big stick."

There was a family reunion at Sagamore Hill last night. Col. Roosevelt's youngest daughter, Ethel, and her husband, Dr. Derby, were there, as well as the members of the party who made the trip on the tug with the former president.

Mrs. Roosevelt devised and directed the arrangements to make her husband's home-coming a quiet one.

Not After Governorship.

New York, May 20.—Theodore Roosevelt, accompanied by the two naturalists of his party, George K. Cherry and Leo E. Miller, arrived from Para at Quarantine shortly before 4 o'clock yesterday on board the Booth liner Aidan. With a few crisp sentences, punctuated by decisive gestures, he reaffirmed the verity of the "River of Doubt," curtly denied having expressed himself as to presidential probabilities for 1916, declared he would not run for governor of New York, and made a few deprecatory remarks about his critics. With harbor craft tooting and flags fluttering he was taken on board the tug W. F. Dalzell, which proceeded to Oyster Bay.

Friends who have been alarmed by the reports of Col. Roosevelt's severe illness were greatly surprised when they saw him. He was noticeably thinner, and he used a cane as he walked about the steamer's deck, but his face wore a healthy tan and he apparently had lost not an ounce of the vigor and energy which have become characteristic of him. After stopping ten days in this country, Mr. Roosevelt will go to Spain to the wedding of his son, Kermit.

Not a Few Wet Eyes.

As the tugs which carried several members of the Roosevelt family, including Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Emlen Roosevelt, Archie and Theodore, Jr., approached the Aidan, the familiar figure of the colonel could be seen leaning far over the rail as he waved a greeting, his lips flexed into the familiar arch. Not a few eyes were wet and the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel stood at the top and shook each man by the hand. Anthony Fiala, who went part way with Mr. Roosevelt in his explorations, was the first man to greet the colonel after Mr. Malone.

Mr. Roosevelt anticipated most of the things people were anxious to know, as he submitted to a fusillade of questions before going on board the tug that took him home.

Has Given No Views.

"Not a word about the political situation," said Col. Roosevelt. "I don't know anything about it, for I haven't seen a newspaper. Any papers which have given my views on the Mexican situation have misquoted me.

"That applies to what has been said about by political intentions," he added.

He was informed by newspaper men that he was reported to have said that he would not run as candidate on the Republican ticket, and that if he became a candidate, it would be on the Progressive ticket.

"Not a word of truth in this," said the colonel. "I have not made a single declaration about the political situation in 1916.

"I haven't been asked if I would run for governor of New York," he replied in answer to another question. "If asked, I would say that I would not.

As to the River.

"As to the river, it is extraordinary to have put on the map a river so long as the Rhine, but there is no more doubt of its existence than there is the Rhine."

Mr. Roosevelt was asked how he felt.

"I don't look like a sick man, do I?" was his rejoinder. "I have been very ill with jungle fever, but I'm all right now. I feel fine."

It was learned, however, from Mr. Cherry that the colonel still suffered from slight symptoms of fever. He had had a chill earlier in the day. Mr. Roosevelt confessed that he had lost fifty-five pounds, part of which he had regained. He had also been troubled by the bites of poisonous insects.

Mr. Malone asked him if he were bothered by the criticism made by the English exploror, Henry Savage Landor. Mr. Roosevelt laughed deprecatingly. Neither that nor similar criticisms worried him a great deal, he said.

The colonel told friends and newspaper men who crowded around him that he would make only one address before sailing for Spain.

"I will give this," said Mr. Roosevelt, "before the National Geographical society. At that time I will answer any questions that any reputable person wishes to ask me about my trip. More than this I do not care to say now."

Has Some Trophies.

In the baggage brought by the colonel were a number of alligator skins and other trophies which no one but the customs house officers saw. The only exception which the colonel took to the procedure of these officers was their handling of a manuscript which lay on one of the trunks.

"Please don't touch that," warned the colonel. "I shouldn't want to be separated from that."

As Mr. Roosevelt talked with the collector of the port and the newspaper men his illness did not show either in his face or his manner. His dominant feeling seemed to be one of gladness at getting home, and it was plain that, for a while at least, rivers, political situations and all else lay in the shadow for him.

upon public questions, and asks indorsement of them. It is therefore proper that they should be discussed. He pleads for sympathy upon the ground of 'personal abuse, slander and villification.' I have never referred to his personal character, and have only a kindly feeling to the governor personally. But every statement I have made concerning his official conduct is absolutely true, is supported by irrefutable evidence and stands unchallenged in any detail. I hereby challenge the governor or any one to indicate a single statement of mine concerning his position or his official acts which is untrue or in the nature of 'personal abuse, slander and villification.' Such charges as I make are direct and concrete. I am personally responsible for them, and if I am guilty of slander, the state will vindicate him and punish me. He protects himself from responsibility by indirection, innuendo and generalization. He dare not directly and publicly charge me with that which he insinuates. He says he is conducting his campaign in a 'clean and dignified manner,' and yet his speech abounds in innuendo, insinuation and name-calling.

"If the governor in his insinuations meant to imply that I have been guilty of any corrupt practices, I invite him to make public any evidence to that effect; and I challenge him to make such a charge direct and public. His insinuations constitute not only 'personal abuse, slander and villification,' but the vilest kind of insult not only to me, but to all of the citizens who participated, directly or indirectly, in the conference.

The Primary Law's Fate.

"The governor professes to be greatly exercised over the possible fate of the primary election law. Is it possible that he believes the people to be so forgetful as not to remember that he never in a single instance publicly advocated the enactment of such a law until compelled to do so by public sentiment and political expediency?

"I urged such a law while he was using his influence and official position to defeat it in the legislative session of 1911. I was advocating such a law while he was hesitating, explaining and sidestepping the question during the winter and spring of 1912. I was one of the first to urge a primary law that would insure majority nominations, and to that end I urged the second choice provision, which was written into the law, and which he tried to defeat.

"No word or action of mine can be twisted into a suggestion that I have changed my position, and the governor knows it.

"Any attempt to repeal the law or to so change it as to deny to the people the right of nominating candidates for office by a direct vote would meet my positive opposition.

"The issue in this campaign is not the primary election law, or the right of peaceful public assemblage. The real issue is whether a political machine, known to the law, controlled by special interests and operating in secret, or the people of the state as a whole, are to control the politics and determine the policies of our government; and the governor cannot distract attention from this fact.

"He bases his claim that the primary election law is in danger upon the fact that a conference of representative citizens of Minnesota was held in Minneapolis last March to agree upon a candidate for the office of governor whom all of them could support. This conference was made up of representative and honorable citizens of nearly every county in the state, most of them strongly in favor of the primary election law, and many of them members of the legislature that enacted it. None of them so far as I have ever heard has been or is now in favor of its repeal. No one except the governor has suggested that there is any disposition to so amend it as to deprive the people of the right to select their candidates for office at a primary election. The conference did not abridge this right: it rather enlarged the power of the people. Two years ago, for every thirty-eight who voted for Eberhart, sixty-two voted against him and a majority of nearly 40,000 against him could not defeat him. In the present contest a vote against Mr. Eberhart has the same value as one for him. A majority against him this time will defeat him. It appears that this is the chief cause of his irritation.

Need No Defense.

"The gentlemen who composed the conference need no defense for their motives or their actions. That they were gotten together in an illegal or dishonest manner or that their deliberations were other than patriotic, is a gratuitous insult passed upon them by the chief executive of this state. All of them are well known citizens of their respective communities. Many have state wide reputations. That their friends will resent the slur cast at them by the governor is certain.

"No, the primary law is not in danger from anyone connected with the Minneapolis conference. Its enemies, if it has any, are in the governor's company, who, like him, believe in it only so long as they can gain political advantage by violating its spirit, by getting together in secret conclave behind closed doors for the purpose of deciding what men and what measures may be considered by the people of Minnesota and its law making body. The political machine on which the governor is a subservient cog is the only organization in Minnesota that I know anything about that has violated both the spirit and the letter of the primary election law and who would be in favor of repealing it if they could not advance their interests by violating it.

"If the governor is sincere in his professions concerning the primary, why does he not also urge that the people be given the right to vote upon the liquor question by counties? Why does he not urge the adoption of the initiative and referendum amendment to the constitution? Why does he not urge the submission of the question of woman suffrage to a vote of the people?

"The fundamental right of the people to vote in one case is as clear as in another.

Failed to Do His Duty.

"The governor disclaims any responsibility in the matter of appropriations. He says that he has no influence over appropriations and is forced to either approve them or veto them as they pass the legislature. This has been true with the present governor simply because he has failed to do his duty. If he had been prepared, as he might have been, to furnish information concerning appropriations, there is no doubt the legislature would have modified appropriations in accordance with his showing of the actual needs of the state government. The present governor has been absolutely devoid of any information concerning the needs of the state, and when called upon by the appropriations committee for assistance in drawing the general appropriation bill was unable to render them the slightest aid. Here is what Andrew Davis, the chairman of the committee on appropriations in the house, says of the governor's failure to cooperate with the legislature:

"'After all the items had been brought together in the general appropriation bill, Senator Clague and I personally took it to the governor and called his attention to the large increase over former years and asked his assistance and advice in reducing the amount. He went over the bill with us, item by item, and was unable to make any suggestion and admitted he was wholly without information concerning the items that made up the bill. We would have welcomed information and advice from the governor, but were unable to get either.'

"If I were governor of Minnesota I would have the estimates from heads of departments, state institutions, boards and disbursing officers of every kind carefully checked up and compared over a period of years so as to be able to note every increased demand. Then I would call upon the superintendents of institutions, members of boards and heads of departments to give me in detail the reasons why they had asked for increased appropriations and the necessity for new buildings and other improvements. Then, when the legislature convened, I would be in a position to give them reliable information upon practically every item of appropriation that it would be called upon to consider."

High Cost of Government.

Mr. Lee discussed at length the high cost of state government in Minnesota as compared with that of a number of surrounding states.

"Governor Eberhart," said Mr. Lee, "discusses state development and wants to make it appear that he is the only public man who favors it. The fact is that everybody in Minnesota favors state development and it is not a political issue. His statement upon this is on a par with his declaration against hog cholera. Everybody agrees with him. That's why he says it's an issue.

"Two years ago I made a campaign in this state on the necessity of better business methods in our state government. At that time the governor insisted that Minnesota was economically and efficiently managed and needed no change in methods.

"Just as in the case of the primary, when necessity compelled and when political expediency suggested, he became a convert, appointed a commission and now assumes credit for the work I did in arousing public sentiment."

Mr. Lee ridiculed the governor's claim that he has enforced the laws and that he is entitled to credit for fourteen laws which he lists under temperance and social welfare. "The fact is," said Mr. Lee, "that the governor and his administration, as represented in the legislature, opposed every one of these measures so far as they had opposition.

"The brewery organization and the political machine, of which the governor is a member, opposed, under cover when it could, and openly whenever it was necessary, all but one of these fourteen bills.

"Now in view of these facts I charge the governor with coming to the city of St. Cloud and trying to deceive the people as to his attitude and record on public questions. I also charge the governor with insincerity on the question of county option. It is not a question of whether he will or will not sign a county option bill if it is passed—it is a question of how he stands upon the issue of county option and where he will exert his influence. Four years ago I stated my position, willing to accept the consequences of the stand I took. Why does not the governor be equally frank with the people of the state."

Public Utility Regulation.

Referring to regulation of public service corporations, Mr. Lee said:

"My position upon this question has been a matter of public record for two years. In the last campaign my platform contained a plank favoring a bureau of experts which should be at the service of the municipalities for the purpose of investigation and advice. I am unalterably opposed to vesting in the state, authority over matters which are purely local, because it violates the fundamental principles of democracy. The right to manage their own affairs is identical with the right to nominate and elect their officials, and growth in democracy can come only through the exercise of this right.

"If a state commission is in the interest of the people at large as opposed to the interests of the utility companies, why is it that the utility corporations are supporting Governor Eberhart? And why is it that E. E. Smith, the paid attorney of these corporations, lobbied throughout the 1913 session of the legislature for the enactment of such a law and against the enactment of the Nolan and Minette bills?"

CHEERS GREET NEEDED RAIN

Showers Are Sufficient to Quench Forest and Grass Fires.

Wide Territory Benefited By Downfall—More Is Predicted.

The much-needed rain that fell last night was received with expressions of pleasure by everybody, and in one part of the city the night air was split by a rousing cheer four stories high.

That was at the Y. M. C. A. building, corner of Third avenue west and Second street. Just as the rain began to fall hard, almost every window in the building became suddenly decorated with a head and in some cases two and three, and as if moved by one impulse, these heads emitted a cheer that startled pedestrians and caused heads to pop out in other houses.

But the rain, almost prayed for, while lighter than had been wished, did a world of good. It was heavier in the Copper Country, it is understood, than it was here and it has put out the forest fires which had reached an extremely dangerous stage. It is also believed that the rain quenched the fires that have been raging on the north shore and in the vicinity of Duluth, and that for the time all danger is past. The woods are said to be very dry, however, and it will take more than the rain of last night to put them in condition where fire danger in the immediate future will be wiped out.

Only showers fell, says Weather Forecaster Richardson this morning. There were few points where they were heavy, but they came intermittently and kept up for some time, so that they did a great deal of good and over a wide territory. Mr. Richardson says that the showers extended all over Northern Minnesota, the Copper Country and the Red River valley. He says that they were heavy enough to do a lot of good to the seed that has been planted, and more rain is looked for.

In Duluth they were sufficient to extinguish all grass fires and lay the clouds of dust on the city streets.

with having instigated the murder of Herman Rosenthal, counsel for the defense were prepared today to call several witnesses to support the testimony of Frederick Hawley, former newspaper reporter, whose direct examination was concluded with the adjournment of court yesterday. The cross-examination of Hawley was not expected to take up much of the morning session.

Hawley testified under direct examination that Becker answered his telephone on the morning of the murder, soon after the shooting of Rosenthal, and could not have been near the scene, as has been previously charged by witnesses for the state.

Becker May Not Testify.

A conference last night attended by Becker, his wife, brother and counsel, failed to determine whether the defendant would be called to the stand to tell his version of the murder and the charges of Jack Rose, Harry Vallon and Bridgie Webber, that he had ordered Rosenthal killed.

leader, to come here from Ottawa. Their duties included visits of greeting to the mediators and to the American and Mexican delegates.

The formal opening of the conference was set for 3 p. m. today.

The program for today included nothing except the formal introductions, exchanges of courtesies and adoption of plans for the conduct of the proceedings, such as are customary to the opening of an international gathering of this character.

Da Gama Is Leader.

The mediators were prepared to lay before the delegates from the two governments the rules and regulations which will govern during the proceedings. Ambassador Da Gama of Brazil, as ranking representative among the three mediators, will be the leader in whatever action is taken, but it has not yet been announced whether there will be a chairman formally chosen to preside over the sessions.

Justice Lamar of the United States supreme court and Frederick Lehmann, former solicitor general in the department of justice, the American delegates, with H. Percival Dodge, their secretarial adviser, are making their headquarters at a hotel in Niagara Falls, N. Y., on the American side.

Washington Will Watch.

Washington, May 20.—With the stage set for the beginning of the Niagara conference late today, officials in administration and diplomatic circles here turned their attention to proceedings in the Canadian border town, which it was hoped would result in complete settlement of Mexico's ills. President Wilson was to keep in close touch with the progress of negotiations by means of a special wire set up between the White House and the headquarters of the American mission at Niagara Falls.

Justice Lamar and Former Solicitor General Lehmann are familiar with the president's general view of the Mexican question, but they will submit all important questions to him before they take any action on the proposals of the South American envoys.

MELLEN'S STORY OF NEW HAVEN

panied by his counsel, J. W. H. Crim. He seated himself at the left of the stand from which he is giving his testimony and chatted pleasantly with several persons who greeted him. He showed no signs of fatigue from his prolonged effort of yesterday. How long he may continue on the witness stand it was impossible to foretell today.

Chief Counsel Folk said, as he entered the hearing room, that it was the expectation that Mr. Mellen would be on the stand throughout the day and perhaps longer.

Subjects Not Yet Touched.

"We have not yet gone into the matter of the acquisition by the New Haven of the Rhode Island and Connecticut trolley lines. We should be glad to have some information concerning those transactions."

The proceedings again were slow in getting under way. Huge hampers of documents and records were brought into the room. They were records largely submitted to the commission by Mr. Mellen for examination.

It was 10:25 when Mr. Mellen finally took the stand. He was not quite as pale as on yesterday.

Loan of $300,000.

"When was a loan of $300,000 made to Haskell of the Boston Herald?" began Mr. Folk.

"Two years or more before notes of Haskell were sold to Mr. Billard," Mr. Mellen replied.

Asked to explain the transaction he said:

"I had known Mr. Haskell some years and I laid the case before the finance committee and they agreed to the loan.

"Was the fact that he was owner of the Boston Herald an inducement to make the loan?" Mr. Folk asked.

"It was certainly not a bad inducement."

"What was pending in the Massachusetts legislature at the time of the loan to Haskell?"

"There was always something pending in the Massachusetts legislature."

The Boston Herald.

"Did you have anything to do with the reorganization of the Boston Herald?" asked Mr. Folk.

"At the request of Mr. Hemingway I attended a meeting at which the reorganization of the Herald was considered. I paid no special attention to the matter. I was there as an observer. I took no part in the proceedings. I met, at times, Mr. Choate and Mr. O'Brien, the editor of the paper. In course of a year I attended perhaps three meetings of the board of the paper. I never was in the Boston Herald office. The meetings I attended were held in the Union club. I did nothing at those meetings except to observe the proceedings."

Told Extraordinary Chapter.

A story of absolute domination in affairs of the New Haven railroad system by the late J. Pierpont Morgan—of the spending of millions in awed and ignorant silence at the command of the all-powerful financial ruler—was told by Mr. Mellen yesterday. It was the most extraordinary chapter yet unfolded in the commission's inquiry into the alleged exploitation of the great New England railroad, and disappearance of fortunes from its treasury through acquisition at extravagant prices of subsidiary properties.

There was no time in a single day to crowd in details of all the incidents and events dealt with in the witness' testimony. He barely touched upon some of the big things, paving the way for exhaustive questioning.

Members of the commission, counsel and interstate spectators fairly hung upon every word of Mr. Mellen as his story developed dramatically under the examination of Counsel Folk.

In Awe of Morgan.

Everybody listened with absorbed attention, and at times evident amazement, as he related how he had stood in awe of Mr. Morgan because of his comprehensive grasp and perfect prescience of financial matters; how he had consulted with Theodore Roosevelt, then president of the United States, regarding the purchase of the Boston & Maine railroad; how he had prevented the late E. H. Harriman from acquiring the Boston & Maine by getting it himself for the New Haven, and how he had dealt with the late Police Inspector Thomas F. Byrnes of New York to obtain the Westchester stock held by persons whom he assumed to be connected with Tammany Hall.

Mr. Mellen told the commission he conferred with President Roosevelt before he purchased the Boston & Maine railroad to consolidate it with the New Haven. Mr. Roosevelt did not advise the purchase, Mr. Mellen said, "but told him he must not expect relief from him in case he should violate the law."

Willing to Talk.

As he did when on the stand last week, Mr. Mellen gave his testimony with apparent willingness, answering every question clearly and concisely—that is every question except one. He did try to avoid telling about the time when Mr. Morgan humiliated him by brusquely refusing to give him information concerning the Westchester transaction to which he thought, as president of the New Haven, he was entitled. When he finally related the incident his face was drawn into hard lines, and he clasped his hands over the table in front of him almost convulsively. His voice indicated no signs of emotion, however, continuing clear, distinct and resonant.

Later he even gave the story a touch of humor. When Directors Hemingway and Skinner of the New Haven demanded of him why the road was expending $11,000,000 on the Westchester, he said, he offered to appoint each of them as committee of one to find out that he had "barked his shins" in a futile endeavor to obtain information from Mr. Morgan; and that they could try if they desired.

"They ducked," concluded Mr. Mellen, grimly, and a ripple of laughter ran around the hearing room.

He Saw Roosevelt.

Particular interest was aroused by Mr. Mellen's account of his conference with the then president, Col. Roosevelt, respecting the acquisition of the Boston & Maine. He explained that he was a great admirer of Col. Roosevelt, and frequently conferred with in about important questions. Col. Roosevelt said to them at that conference, according to testimony, that he was not a lawyer and was not prepared to advise what he should do about the proposed purchase; but on Mr. Mellen's statement of the situation he thought there might be nothing objectionable in it.

Mr. Mellen added that the president said he could countenance no illegal action in the matter, and suggested that he confer with Commissioner Lane of the interstate commerce commission. From Mr. Lane, he said, he got no expression of opinion.

The "Little Father."

A letter was submitted by Mr. Folk, written May 21, 1907, by Henry W. Whitney to Mr. Mellen, suggesting that he "say something at an early day touching on the Boston & Maine matter;" that "a large public is still to be reckoned with," and concluding with this paragraph:

"I have thought it possible the 'Little Father' at Washington might like to get his finger into the pie, in which case, if it should happen before the public had become reconciled to the change, it might result in infinite harm to all your interests."

Mr. Folk then offered in evidence the reply to that letter the following day, in which Mr. Mellen wrote:

"It has been thought advisable by all concerned that just as little official information should get out to the newspapers regarding the Boston & Maine matter as is absolutely necessary. This was agreed upon by Mr. Ledyard, Mr. Tuttle and myself, and we are acting on this theory at the present time. The Washington situation I have, I think, completely cared for. One never knows for a certainty regarding matters there, but the ground has been carefully plowed and every chance for trouble considered and, I think, successfully eliminated."

Dealing With Billard.

Mr. Mellen told of his relations with John L. Billard and of the transactions between the New Haven and the Billard company. He intimated with a smile that Mr. Billard was a shrewd trader, saying that when he was conducting any business with him, he never looked anywhere except straight into his eyes.

dor of England and others, who have expressed doubt as to the correctness of his statement that he had discovered a great river in the wilds of South America.

Col. Roosevelt, it was learned today, looks forward to one of the hardest political campaigns of his career. Except for the time occupied by his trip to Spain for the wedding of his son, Kermit, he expects to devote to politics most of his time until November.

Already a tentative plan of action has been mapped out. Col. Roosevelt has in mind one of the longest campaign trips he ever has made, taking him from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and several shorter trips in nearby states.

Walked and Dictated.

By 9 o'clock today he was in his library, a great, quiet room on the ground floor of the old house on Sagamore Hill. He paced the floor and dictated letters and telegrams at top speed to the stenographer whom he had summoned from New York. His desk was piled high with messages from all parts of the world, inquiring as to his health and informing him of political conditions.

For ten days before he sails for Europe, Col. Roosevelt has mapped out a program which will keep him busy. His present desire is to get back in touch as soon as possible with the affairs of the Progressive party in all parts of the country, and help to start the machinery for the coming campaign.

Before he left South America he planned his work, arranging by cable for conferences with leaders of the Progressive party. The first of these was set for today. George W. Perkins of New York, chairman of the national executive committee, and O. K. Davis of Washington, secretary of the committee, were expected at Sagamore Hill to give Col. Roosevelt a report on the situation.

Will Meet Bull Moosers.

Col. Roosevelt already has made appointments with Progressive leaders of several states. One of the most important of these conferences will deal with the situation in Pennsylvania, where Col. Roosevelt expects to make a hard campaign this fall. Within the next few days the colonel will see William Draper Lewis, dean of the University of Pennsylvania, who was nominated for governor at yesterday's primaries, and Gifford Pinchot, the candidate for United States senator. E. A. Van Valkenburg, publisher of the Philadelphia North American, and William Flinn of Pittsburg, both of whom were prominent in Col. Roosevelt's 1912 campaign, also will attend this conference.

Walter Brown of Ohio, chairman of the national organization work of the Progressive party, will come to Oyster Bay to tell of the outlook in his state.

To His Office Thursday.

Col. Roosevelt will go to his editorial office in New York tomorrow morning, and will spend most of the day in meeting political associates. At that time he will confer with the New York state leaders.

The address which Col. Roosevelt is to make before the National Geographical society in Washington has been set for next Tuesday evening. It is in this address that the colonel will make the first formal announcement of his discovery of a river in Brazil.

taken to prevent a blockade by either Mexican Federals or Constitutionalists.

Want News of Silliman.

Anxiety among officials here over the inability to get definite word from American Vice Consul John R. Silliman, who was reported released from prison at Saltillo more than a week ago, aroused the state department to renewed activity today in the missing American's behalf.

Evidencing his own apprehension, Secretary of State Bryan telegraphed to American Consul Hanna at Monterey, asking if it would be feasible to send a messenger to Saltillo to determine if Silliman ever had been released.

Secretary Bryan's directions to Consul Hanna made it plain that he was to use his discretion in prosecuting his inquiries, as officials here realized there were many difficulties to be overcome in sending a representative of the Monterey consulate into the Saltillo district, where the Constitutionalists and Federals are in a death struggle for supremacy. Saltillo is about fifty miles from Monterey.

Persistent Silence.

So persistent has been the silence for the last few days of the Mexican foreign office with regard to the American requests for actual information regarding Silliman that anxiety in many minds has turned to apprehension that Silliman, despite previous assurances of his safety from Huerta's agents may again have been held in custody. Some officials fear that he may have been killed.

It is more than a week since the Mexican foreign office and the Brazilian minister in Mexico City declared that Silliman had been released and was en route to the capital to be turned over to the Brazilian authorities for safe conduct to Vera Cruz.

PRESBYTERIANS AT KANSAS CITY

First Delegates to Southern Assembly Already on the Scene.

Kansas City, Mo., May 20.—The vanguard of the Presbyterian forces that meet in Kansas City beginning tomorrow for the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States (the Southern Presbyterian church), reached the city today. They were members of the systematic benevolence committee, one of the most important bodies of the church. They came in advance of the main body of the commissioners to the assembly to hold preliminary meetings today, at which reports were prepared for submission to the assembly.

The election of a moderator will be held tomorrow afternoon. An effort will be made to elect a layman to the office. Only three times has this occurred in the history of the church.

The question of uniting with the United Presbyterian church will be one of the important questions discussed.

WOMAN IS TO DIE IN THE ELECTRIC CHAIR

First Degree Murder Verdict Is Returned in New York.

New York, May 20.—Mrs. Madalina Ferola, a widow, 45 years old, was convicted yesterday of the murder of Carmelo Canestrale, who was stabbed to death on a Bronxborough bridge Dec. 29, 1913. This is the first conviction of a woman for first degree murder by a jury in New York in fifteen years. The death sentence will be pronounced next Tuesday.

Mrs. Ferola kept a boarding house in the Bronx, and Canestrale, a peddler, aged 26, was her boarder. For a broken promise to marry her she decoyed him to the bridge and killed him.

GROCERS CRITICIZE BANKRUPTCY LAW

McGlasson Says It Gives Protection to Dishonest Methods.

Louisville, Ky., May 20.—Discussion of the national bankruptcy act, repeal of which was favored by a number of speakers at the National Association of Retail Grocers at their annual convention here yesterday, temporarily was held in abeyance today, that the entertainment program might be carried out. O. M. McGlasson of Chicago, president of the National Wholesale Grocers' association, told the convention yesterday that millions of dollars are lost annually through "dishonest methods practiced under the protection of the bankruptcy law," and that to allow such conditions to continue is an unwise waste of wealth. He declared that the existence for an indefinite length of time of the law "tends to lower the moral standards of business," and that to "insure the continued well being and soundness of commercial life of the nation," it should be repealed.

The convention indorsed the idea of holding an international congress of grocers at the Panama-Pacific exposition in San Francisco in 1915.

MASTER MARINERS' 400TH ANNIVERSARY

Trinity House, Chartered By Henry VIII, Has Wonderful Record.

London, May 20.—The 400th year of the foundation of Trinity House, the world-famed corporation of master mariners chartered on May 20, 1514, by Henry VIII, was celebrated today.

At the time of its chartering, the organization was described as "the guild or fraternity of the most glorious and undividable Trinity of St. Clement." Its founder was Sir Thomas Spert, commander of the famous battleship Harry Grace de Dieu, comptroller of the navy.

At first the guild was mainly concerned with supplying pilots for the ships entering and leaving Deptford Royal dock yard, but Henry VIII increased its prestige by handing over to the corporation the entire direction of that dock yard.

In Story of Sea Supremacy.

Queen Elizabeth entrusted the corporation with what constitutes its chief modern duty by giving it authority to erect beacons and other marks for the guidance of navigators around the English coasts. These duties have been carried out ever since, and Trinity House has always led the world in the matter of coast lighting.

The history of Trinity House is the story of Britain's rise to the command of the seas. It was Trinity House which, by a bylaw in 1687, made a written agreement between the master and crew of a ship compulsory.

OFFICES ARE WELL RENTED

Agent Says 95 Per Cent of Available Space Is Occupied.

Majority of Office Buildings in Duluth Are Showing Profit.

Never before in the history of Duluth, declares Whitney Wall, have there been so few vacant offices as there are at the present time. In the opinion of Mr. Wall, formed after a careful study, nearly 95 per cent of the office space of the city of Duluth is rented.

"Our company has 575 offices and more than 95 per cent of them are rented," said Mr. Wall today. "I have made inquiries of the other agents of Duluth and I believe that it is a conservative statement to say that the average of all the rented office buildings of the city will exceed 95 per cent of the total office room.

"Take the office renting proposition from a period of say eight years ago. In that time the Alworth, Sellwood, Fidelity, Sherwood and Oak Hall buildings have been constructed, and the office space of Duluth further increased by the additions to the Wolvin, Board of Trade, Providence and Lonsdale buildings. But despite this increase in the offices of the city there has never been so great a demand for office room as there is today, nor have there been so few vacant offices.

"We have in Duluth 600,000 square feet of office space. At first consideration some people might think this a large amount of space in which to conduct the larger part of the affairs of the city in. Let me say that the Equitable building of New York city has 1,500,000 square feet of office space, and also has forty-eight elevators against the twenty-eight elevators of all of the office buildings of Duluth.

"One of the troubles of this city is that the buildings that have been constructed for revenue are competing against some monuments and some buildings that have been constructed strictly for advertising purposes.

"Considering all details of the building game, it must be said that office rents of Duluth are cheap. All things considered, it also must be said that if the demand for office space increases within the next eight years or the next decade as it has in the past, that we will have need of several large, and let us hope, modern office buildings.

"Personally I am of the opinion that 1925 will see 250,000 people here, which will mean that Duluth will have need for another additional 1,000,000 square feet of office space."

Mr. Wall declared that the majority of the office buildings of Duluth were showing a profit upon the investment, adding that owners here were learning the wisdom of keeping up with the pace of other cities in the way of modern improvements and the latest equipment.

TENANTS ROUTED BY AFTERNOON FIRE

Defective Wiring Does $500 Damage at Ashtabula Flats.

Defective wiring in the basement of the Ashtabula flats, Fifth avenue east and Third street, started a fire shortly before 6 o'clock last evening and caused all the tenants to flee from the building. The blaze was extinguished before any serious damage was done.

Mrs. O. Finaten, mother of Jens Finaten, who lives in the third flat, was ill in bed, and when the fire started next door, the firemen were compelled to carry her out of the building. She was taken to St. Mary's hospital.

The flat in which the fire started is at 220 Fifth avenue east and is vacant. The flames damaged the basement and flooring on the first floor to an extent of about $500, Assistant Chief Wilson said this morning.

Within a few days forty-eight persons have been fined in New York for driving smoking autos.

CHURCH WORK IS DISCUSSED

Duluth District Congregationalists Meeting at Aitkin.

Lay and Clerical Delegates From Duluth Are Taking Part.

Aitkin, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—This city is guest today to the seventeenth annual meeting of the Duluth district association of Congregational churches with lay and clerical delegates from all parts of the district present. The session opened yesterday afternoon in the Congregational church with Rev. G. P. Sheridan of Brainerd as moderator and Rev. H. R. Harris, Biwabik, scribe.

The session began with devotional services, Rev. G. P. Sheridan; organization and business; symposium, "The Newer Congregationalism." (a) "Its Message," Rev. G. P. Sheridan; (b) "Its Adoptability," Rev. H. R. Harris. Discussion, "To What Extent is it Permanent?" led by Rev. C. N. Thorp, Duluth. Rev. George Merrill of Minneapolis made a short address and Rev. D. J. Cowling, president of Carleton college, spoke in behalf of college work.

The evening session opened with a prayer and praise service conducted by Rev. W. E. Hammond of Aitkin. The annual sermon was preached by Rev. D. J. Cowling, Ph. D., D. D., and the communion service was conducted by Rev. W. L. Sutherland of Detroit and Rev. H. R. Harris.

Wednesday's Program.

The program for this morning follows:

Devotional service, Rev. O. C. Mason, Remer; business and reports of churches; "Co-operation and Denominationalism;" (a) "Co-operation," Rev. A. L. Richardson, pastor M. E. church, Aitkin; (b) "Denominationalism," Rev. W. L. Sutherland; discussion led by Rev. Jones, Backus; adjournment.

Afternoon — Women's missionary hour, Mrs. C. N. Thorp, Duluth, presiding; (a) devotional services, Mrs. A. White, Brainerd; (b) Address, "The Challenge of Awakening Nations," Mrs. W. W. Sanford, Duluth. (c) Address, "The Negro in Church and College," Mrs. L. E. Jepson, Minneapolis; automobile drive.

This evening a banquet will be served with A. L. Hamilton, Aitkin, toastmaster and the following program: "The Layman's Relation to the Church," Dr. W. C. Bray, Biwabik; "The Layman's Relation to the Bible School," C. Bruhn, Brainerd; "The Layman's Relation to the Denomination," Rev. C. N. Thorp, Duluth. Adjournment.

DULUTH CONCERN IS SEEKING $26,000.

Devils Lake, N. D., May 20.—The case of the John Miller company of Duluth vs. J. A. Minkle of Knox was heard by Judge Griffin, which involved a foreclosure action. Judge Griffin was appointed referee by the district court to try the case and make findings of fact and law and refer the same to the district court. The action involved $26,000, but practically the only property left in the foreclosure proceedings was the home and barn in Knox, Benson county. R. A. Stewart of Minnewaukan represented the plaintiff and the defendant defaulted.

SNEEZES TO DEATH.

Great Northern Employe at Glyndon Meets Unusual End.

Crookston, Minn., May 20.—Timekeeper Hogan, employed by the Great Northern at Glyndon sneezed to death, according to word received here when the foreman sent word for some one to take Hogan's place.

The foreman simply stated that the timekeeper, referring to Hogan, died suddenly while sneezing violently. It is believed he burst a blood vessel.

Joe Page was accordingly sent from Crookston to succeed Mr. Hogan. Page left for Glyndon to assume his new duties.

Hogan, it seemed, resided at Morris, Minn., where some of his relatives live and in which section of the state he is well known. The body was shipped there for interment.

BELTRAMI COUNTY LAD WINS STATE FAIR TRIP

HARRY BOWERS, JR.

Bemidji, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Harry Bowers, Jr., an 18-year-old school boy, has won the Beltrami county essay contest, writing upon the subject of corn. The prize is a free trip to the Minnesota state fair, Sept. 7-12. The fair association will pay the expenses of the lad, with the exception of $2 that he will be expected to pay. Live stock, corn, clover and alfalfa were the subjects assigned by the state committee.

Russel Wind of Ponemah, Cross Lake Indian school, writing on "Alfalfa," took second and was elected alternate. John Harris of Bemidji, by ranking third, was elected second alternate. Honorable mention was given Archie Fairbanks and Blake Rose-Bear of the Cross Lake school.

NEW SETTLERS FOR FLOODWOOD SECTION

Men Coming From Iowa to Locate in That Part of County.

Floodwood, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Out of a total of $40,000 appropriated for the improvement of roads in Commissioner Kauppi's district, known as the Fifth, Floodwood will receive $6,000 distributed as follows: Savana road, $1,400; Prairie Lake road, $1,400; Graff road, $1,300, and Blackwood road, contract let for $2,530. In addition there are several roads on which sums ranging from $100 up will be spent.

G. I. Idzorek, local representative of the Iron Range railroad, reports two sales of forty acres each, to new men, who expect to improve the land in a short time. Over fifteen new settlers moved into the Floodwood district this spring, bringing with them horses, cattle and machinery. Some of them bought improved farms, but most of them purchased new land and are busy putting up buildings and clearing their lands. The two Iowa men, Charles and Louis Knebel, bought their lands in section 28, 52-20, near the St. Louis river.

TWO DROWNED IN ST. CROIX.

Stillwater, Minn., May 20.—Frank Imholt, 46, and Mack Muller, 19, were drowned in the St. Croix river yesterday near the Imholt farm in Wisconsin, two miles from here.

The men were swimming in the river.

FARGOANS RAISING FUND FOR COLLEGE.

Fargo, N. D., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The committees to raise the endowment fund for the Fargo college began an active campaign today to increase the local subscriptions to meet the requirements of J. J. Hill and secure the provisional contribution he made of $50,000. The college seeks a $500,000 appropriation. As soon as $300,000 is raised the educational committee of the Congregational church will take up the matter of increasing the fund to half a million. Of the $100,000 planned to be raised here half that amount has been secured and it is thought the rest will be raised within the next few days.

ABSENT VOTERS LAW WILL BE GIVEN TEST.

Fargo, N. D., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new absent voter law passed by the last legislature will be given a thorough test at the primaries. It was originally planned for the accommodation of traveling and railroad men, but this year so many Norwegian voters are either in Norway now, en route or planning to go that they are anxious to secure the primary election ballots and vote.

The candidates for office have until May 24 to file. There is a delay of five days to give the committees an opportunity to fill vacancies, which will make it the late afternoon of May 29 before the copy for the ballots can be turned over by the auditors to the printers.

STRIKER ADMITS SWEARING TO LIE.

L'Anse, Mich., May 20.—John Bodner, a striker, testifying yesterday in the trial of George Toth, charged with shooting Guy Wilkins Oct. 6, said that when he swore to an alibi for Toth in the first trial, he perjured himself at the suggestion of Mr. Oppman, an organizer of the Western Federation of Minors.

CASE IS CONTINUED.

Action at Eau Claire Involving Railroad Construction Goes Over.

Eau Claire, Wis., May 20.—The case of Peter Nelson, Timothy Foley, doing business together as Peter Nelson & Foley Bros. vs. the Fairchild & Northeastern Railway company, a corporation, and R. A. Jacobson, came up before Judge Wickham in circuit court Monday and was continued over the term. This is the case in which a builders' lien was filed against the property of the company to recover $29,553.99, claiming that the contractors were to be paid as fast as the work was completed, also that the engineer's certificate was fraudulent and incorrect.

NINE WILL GRADUATE

From Grand Forks Wesley College on June 9.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. Thomas W. Fossenden of the Wesley Methodist church, Minneapolis, will deliver the commencement address to the graduates of Wesley college, here June 9. The baccalaureate sermon will be preached by President Robertson, June 7. Nine students will graduate: Artland L. Pardee, Thomas W. GAME AND FISH BOARD TO MEET.

Fargo, N. D., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Meetings of the North Dakota game and fish board of control are to be held along the main line of the Northern Pacific at Jamestown June 2, Bismarck June 3 and Dickinson and Beach June 4. The plan is to have conferences with the sportsmen of the state regarding game law enforcement, protection and propagation of game and to receive suggestions regarding prospective changes in the game laws. The meetings will be held under the auspices of the gun clubs.

Hull Not Sidetracked.

Madison, Wis., May 20.—Mertin Hull, gubernatorial candidate, declared yesterday he will not run for lieutenant governor.

"I am running for governor, he said. "I don't propose to be sidetracked. My position as a candidate for governor has long been known, and I am in the race to stay."

Granville P. O. Burglary.

Granville, N. D., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is no clew to the identity of yeggmen who dynamited the safe in the Granville postoffice Monday night, making away with about $300 worth of stamps, and a small amount of cash. The yeggmen gained entrance through a rear window.

Drowns Near Perham.

Perham, Minn., May 20.—Stanley Klock, a car repairer in the Northern Pacific shops at Dilworth, was drowned in the lake near here Sunday while fishing. His boat capsized and he was unable to reach shore. He was 35 years old and is survived by his wife and two children.

VANDALS INJURE WITH EXPLOSION.

Golden Valley, N. D., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Vandals exploded dynamite caps around the recently constructed foundations of the Halpern store building and practically wrecked them. They will have to be almost rebuilt. It is not known whether it was the work of enemies of Halpern or the contractor. The loss will fall on the latter, who had not completed the work. The officials are endeavoring to locate the guilty parties.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Marquette—Eugene Windoft, a seaman in the United States navy and son of Carl A. Windoft, who died here suddenly on Saturday, May 9, arrived in Marquette this week to view the remains of his parent before the burial took place.

Negaunee—W. E. King of Hancock, who was awarded the contract to build the new city hall, has signed the contract and has men on the grounds building a tool house. He expects to be able to begin work dismantling the old structure in a few days.

Iron River—While tying his horse in a stall, William Oberg met with a peculiar accident here. The horse jerked back as he was tying a knot in a strap. DULUTH VANQUISHED BY BRAKEMAN JACK'S CREW

The Superior Red Sox Cop Second Game By 4 to 1 Score.

Cummings Opposes Blancke and Holds Domestics to Five Hits.

BY BRUCE.

The worm turned yesterday, as worms occasionally do, and Superior malignantly smeared the gumbo of defeat over the domestic tribe to the doleful tune of 4 to 1. Indigo Pat Cummings who must walk back to California unless he wins two-thirds of his games, held the pitching pass against us and yielded five hits during his administration.

Monday evening, following the festivities incident to the opening game, Brakeman Landry, the handsome manager of the Red Sox, took the members of his team far from the tumultuous roar of Tower avenue, with its gay night life and hum of human activity, and in the peace and sylvan quiet of a large vacant lot talked earnestly, even eloquently to his boys.

Handsome Jack told them how it was Carl Hanton's first year in baseball and also his own as a manager, and that great things depended upon the playing of the team. It seems that the eloquent appeal, like Little Nap's chatter in the shadow of the pyramids, was weighty with effect.

Henry Clay Blancke, the Keats student and more recent follower of Maeterlinck, was on the firing line for our side. Henry Clay warned his warm admirers before the game that his back shoulder muscles were stubborn and refused to act right when a curve was attempted. Therefore Henry Clay had recourse to his fast one and the enemy had recourse to runs.

Unlike the contest of flossy opening day, we drew first blood. After Brother McGee made a great spear and throw of Knoll's grounder, in the second round. Recent Father Ford, pale but determined, strode to the platter and slapped one on the nose to the paling in left which netted two hassocks. Long Michael McGuff of Springfield, Ohio, smote one to left over near the foul line, and before the pill was back in the diamond the Buckeye was on second and Father Ford was on the bench. While Shorty Sweeley, the Paw Paw college alumnus was being heaved out, Recent Papa Ford advanced to third, at which spot he remained.

In the luscious fourth McGee whiffed and Glass fouled to Sweeley. All looked peaceful and quiet. Anderson beat out an infield hit that confused our infield and Handsome Jack Landry walked. Anderson stole second and went to third on a passed ball and Landry stole. Young Bill Dunn, the green recruit, singled and two came romping home. With two of the enemy dead in the fifth Persch doubled to deep right and crossed the pan on McGee's single past the first-base station.

In the sixth stanza Anderson reached the sanctified haven of first when Kroll booted his offering. Jack, the brakeman, sacrificed and young Bill Dunn singled over second and Andy rounded up at third. Young Bill started to steal and the rattle of his bones so startled Sweeley that he heaved the onion over O'Brien and Anderson came home with the run.

During the rest of the battle the enemy could do nothing to the offerings of Blancke. But Pat Cummings has traveled from the classic clime of California and he knows that it will be a long walk back, therefore he heaved with a deliberateness and never allowed our side to grow unduly familiar.

We made a semi-rally in the ninth. Phillips walked. Mark Freer, hitting for Kroll, smote to deep left. The treacherous wind back-pedaled the ball into the hands of Handsome Jack Landry, who was waiting huddled up against the fence. Thus it would seem that the elements as well as the soft infield are against our boys. Ford walked and visions of victory arose. McGuff of Springfield, Ohio, hit another long one to left that the wind hauled down to Landry's level and Sweeley ended it by grounding out.

Today Superior and Mickey MacDonald will be over again. Tomorrow we start the series of three in the Hislop park addition.

WINONA HAS PICNIC WITH FARGO TEAM.

Fargo, N. D., May 20.—Winona simply outclassed the local team here yesterday, the champions winning by the score of 11 to 1. Snow held the Cantillonites to six scattered hits, while the offerings of Klontz and Watkins were hit to all corners of the lot. The score:

	R.	H.	E.
Winona	2	10	0
Fargo-Moor.	1	6	4

Batteries — Snow and Schneider; Klontz, Watkins and Murphy.

VIRGINIA AGAIN LOSES TO FORT WILLIAM TEAM

Virginia, Minn., May 20.—Fort William won the second game of the series here yesterday by a batting rally in the fifth inning, when four scores were made, the visitors taking the contest by the count of 4 to 1. The home team garnered ten hits, but they came at the wrong time. The errors of the home team assisted the visitors in their run getting.

The score:

	R.	H.	E.
Fort William	4	5	2
Virginia	1	10	3

Batteries—Virginia, Matts and Rains; Fort William, Barber and Chapman.

WINNIPEG WINS CLOSE GAME FROM FLICKERS.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 20.—Winnipeg defeated Grand Forks here yesterday by the score of 2 to 1. Manager Eddie of the locals protested the game on Umpire Shannon's decision. With two runners on the bases Pitcher Dusty Rhoades in attempting to throw the ball let it slip from his hands, it going only part way to the batter. As the hitter had three balls on him he started to walk to first. Shannon ruled that the ball was out of play and compelled the batter to take his place at the plate again and motioned the runners back to the bases they had left.

Both Rhoades and Davis pitched good baseball and the game was well played. The score:

	R.	H.	E.
Winnipeg	2	5	1
Grand Forks	1	4	2

Batteries — Rhoades and Kurke; Davis and Peters.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

White Sox 3; Champions 0.

Philadelphia, May 20. — Cicotte pitched in wonderful form yesterday and Chicago shut out Philadelphia by 3 to 0. McInnis, who singled with one out in the eighth inning was the only home player to reach first base. Cicotte was given perfect support. Chase handled the only difficult chance offered by the home players. Only four balls were knocked to Chicago outfielders. Shawkey was hit hard.

Score: R. H. E.

Red Sox 6; Tigers 4.

Boston, Mass., May 20.—The Red Sox took the third straight game from the league leaders yesterday, 6 to 4. Boston gathered most of its runs while Dubuc was pitching, breaking his string of five straight victories. He was taken out in the sixth inning, after Boston had scored two runs on Speaker's double, Scott's sacrifice, a fielder's choice and Gardner's hit. Hall, who succeeded him, also failed to hold the Red Sox safe.

Bedient pitched well for Boston. His retirement was due to the appearance of a pinch hitter. Sam Crawford recovered from a batting slump with two singles. Score: R. H. E.

Browns 3; Yankees 0.

New York, May 30.—Hamilton held New York to five scattered hits here yesterday and St. Louis shut out the Yankees 3 to 0. Next to Hamilton's great pitching, the batting and fielding of Wares featured in the work of the St. Louis team. St. Louis scored twice in the third inning on Wares' single, Agnew's triple and a passed ball. Wares' double, an infield out and an error by H. Williams resulted in the visitors' third run in the seventh inning. Keating pitched good ball for New York. Score: R. H. E.

Pirates 7; Braves 5.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 20.—Pittsburg broken its losing streak after dropping six straight games by beating Boston yesterday 7 to 5. The visitors got two runs off McQuillan on singles by Maranville and Schmidt, a hit batsman and an error by Viox in the second. Pittsburg bunched four hits in the fourth and these with two walks off Crutcher and a wild throw by Evers gave them five runs in one inning. With two out and Martin on first in the sixth, Mann hit a home run. In the seventh the visitors tied the score on Evers walk, and an out and Gilbert's single. Cocrham relieved Crutcher in the fifth and was relieved by Rudolph with two runners on bases and two out in the eighth. Mitchell and Gibson singled off Rudolph, scoring the winning runs. Score: R. H. St. Louis, Mo., May 20.—St. Louis pounded Brooklyn's pitchers hard yesterday afternoon and won its fourth consecutive victory. The score was 6 to 2. The locals hit Rucker, the star left hander, for eight hits and four runs, after which he was relieved by Wagner. The locals scored two runs off Wagner's delivery by bunching three hits with an out and a sacrifice. The locals filled the bases in the eighth inning after two outs on two singles and a pass but could not score. Smith scored Brooklyn's first run when he tripled and scored on Egan's sacrifice fly. Daubert crossed the plate with the Easterner's other run in the ninth inning when he singled, stole second and came home on Stengel's single. It was Stengel's only time at bat officially, he being passed twice and sacrificing once. Beck and Dolan played a great game in the field and the latter, besides getting four hits in five attempts and scoring three runs himself, drove in two. Score: R. H. E.

Chicago, May 20.—Frank Schulte batted for Lavender in the seventh inning and delivered a triple which virtually cost Philadelphia the game yesterday. The final score was 6 to 1. Bresnahan doubled in this inning and Schulte tripled, scoring the catcher with the tying run. The hit upset Alexander. Leach singled and scored Schulte with the run, which was enough to win the game. However, the locals scored three more runs in this round on singles by Good and Williams, two sacrifice flies and errors by Becker, Irelan and Cravath.

Lavender held the Philadelphians to two scattered hits, one of which, a home run by Magee, saved Dooin's men from a shut out. Score: R. H. E.

SOPHOMORES WIN SWIMMING MEET

The Central high school sophomores won the swimming meet from freshmen swimmers at the Y. M. C. A. pool, yesterday afternoon by the score of 42 to 26. The meet was exciting to the very end.

Bob Paine of the freshmen was the largest point winner, making 18 of the 26 points scored by the first-year men. "Fat" Hall scored 12 points for the winning sophomores.

The sophomores won the relay race, one of the steller events of the meet. Hall and Paine swam the last laps and the race was close and exciting.

The result:

One lap—First, Paine; second, Parsons; third, Hall.

Two laps—First, Hall; second, Paine; third, Parsons.

Six laps—First, Hall; second, Paine; third, Parsons.

One lap on back—First, Paine; second, Hall; third, Thorpe.

Floating — First, Walker; second, Thorpe; third, Parsons.

HOUSE GOLF TEAM DEFEATS SENATE PLAYERS

Washington, May 20.—Ten senators, noted for their prowess at golf, suffered yesterday an inglorious and overwhelming defeat on the course of the Columbia Country club at the hands of a team from the house.

Not a senator won his match. Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, who played with Representative Treadway of Massachusetts, was the only man who came home with honor and he had to be content with a tie.

The match was scored a point on each nine holes and a point on the match. The house team got so many points that Capt. Oglesby quit counting them. The senators said they had been overtrained and overconfident.

METROPOLITAN EVENT.

Large Entry of Golfers in Big Eastern Championship Contest.

Englewood, N. J., May 20.—An almost unwieldy field of 130 amateur golfers began the qualifying round of thirty-six holes medal play on the links of the Englewood Country club today for the sixteenth annual championship of the Metropolitan Golf association. The winner will take over the title held for the last three years by the national champion, Jerome D. Travers of Upper Montclair, N. J.

With the exception of Travers, Frederick Herreshoff, E. S. Knapp and H. J. Topping, who are abroad, the field today comprised all the players of note in the metropolitan district, including Walter J. Travis, Findlay S. Douglas, Oswald Kirkby, R. C. Watson, Max Marston and A. F. Kammer, the runner-up to Travers last year.

The members of the Duluth and Superior Baseball teams will be the guests of the Lyceum theater this evening. Darby and his team mates will be in one box and the cohorts of Handsome Jack Landry will be in the other box.

Houck Released.

Philadelphia, May 20.—Pitcher Byron Houck of the Philadelphia Athletics was yesterday released to the Baltimore club of the International league, but he announced he would not join that team. He said if he could not pitch in the big leagues he would not pitch at all. Houck joined the Athletics in 1911, coming from the Spokane club.

BOY PLAYER BEATS OUIMET

Young American Eliminated as Contender for British Golf Title.

Herreshoff and Weber Dispell American Gloom By Brilliant Victories.

Sandwich, May 20.—Francis Ouimet, open golf champion of the United States, was eliminated as a contender for the British amateur champion today. He was defeated with apparent ease by "Young" Tubbs, a boy player from a nearby course at Littlestone-on-Sea.

There was a huge crowd of spectators on hand for the Ouimet-Tubbs match, including, of course, a large delegation of Americans. The enthusiasm of the American gallery was soon sharply cooled by the way in which Tubbs handled their favorite.

Ouimet got into difficulties on the fourth hole, taking seven strokes, while Tubbs made it in a clean four. The Englishman was never in danger thereafter, although Ouimet made a sensational three to his five on the eighth hole and fought desperately all the way in. At the turn Ouimet was 1 down and Tubbs finished the round with 2 up.

Out—Ouimet, 6 5 4 7 4 4 5 3 5—42; Tubbs, 5 5 4 4 4 3 5 5 5—40.

In—Ouimet, 5 5 4 4 5 5 3 5 5—41-83; Tubbs, 4 5 3 5 4 5 4 6 4—40-80.

The defeat of Ouimet cast a gloom over the American contingent, but the cloud was partially dispersed shortly afterward by the brilliant victory of Frederick Herresoff, New York, and of Harold Weber, Toledo. Herreshoff beat J. R. Platt of the Royal North Devon club by 4 up and 3 to play. Weber beat K. M. Carlisle of Sunningdale by 7 up and 6 to play.

Arthur G. Lockwood of Massachusetts was beaten by 2 up and 1 to play in the third round by Mr. Hayward of Ealing.

Harold H. Hilton, holder of the British amateur championship, beat Robert Harris of Acton, Eng., by 2 up and 1 to play in the third round. Harris was the runner-up to Hilton last year.

WHITE PINE MEETS DEFEAT AT McGRATH.

The White Pine baseball team went to McGrath last Sunday and was defeated in a fast and exciting game. Three errors by the White Pine team in the third inning were the cause of the defeat. The feature of the game was a double play by Carroll and McGillan in the sixth inning. About 100 fans accompanied the team. The score:

State College, Pa., May 20.—E. Hammitt, a sophomore, equaled the world's record in the 120-yard hurdle event yesterday in the inter-class field meet at State College, covering the distance in 15 1-5 seconds. He also made a new State College record of 24 3-5 seconds in the 220 hurdles.

Johnson Case Completed.

Chicago, May 20.—Arguments on the motion to dismiss the temporary injunction restraining George Johnson from pitching for the Kansas City Federals were completed yesterday by attorneys for the Federal league and for the Cincinnati Nationals. Judge Foel, in the superior court, took the case under advisement and a decision is expected within a week.

Mexican Convict Convicted.

Stillwater, Minn., May 20.—Andrew Montpetit, a Mexican inmate of the new state prison, was tried by a jury in district court and found guilty of attempting to escape. He was given an indeterminate sentence by Judge P. H. Stolberg. It will begin when his present term expires. On Nov. 21 last Montpetit struck a guard at the new prison and jumped into an open box car as a train was leaving the prison yard.

When Skin Eruptions Make Sudden Appearance

Impurities May Lurk in the Small Spaces For Months, or Years Waiting Their Chance.

The sudden appearance of some form of skin eruption calls for the immediate use of S. S. S., the famous blood purifier. People will wonder why, when apparently in the best of health generally, the skin breaks out with unsightly eruptions. It is accounted for by the fact that deep in the interstices, the small lymphatic spaces, there are hidden away germs that have lain dormant for weeks, perhaps years. Through some cause such as a cold, the system is in a low state of resistance and the germs then jump at the opportunity and some form of blood trouble makes its appearance.

If the mucous membranes are involved we have colds, catarrh, bronchitis, pneumonia and so on. If the general process of nutrition is disturbed we have rheumatism, indigestion, headache and anemia. And when the skin breaks out it shows how impurities have affected the blood generally. Then is the time to attack disease vigorously with S. S. S.

The action of this splendid purifier is a sweeping aid to the natural tendency of the body to rid itself of all harmful germs. For if this were not true none of us would survive the second week of infancy. The course of S. S. S. leads through the vast network of lymphatic veins wherein germs are attacked and held down in the tiny glands of the lymphatic system. Then there is the complex and extensive plan of mucous membranes lining all the cavities of the body. Herein is where poisonous matter is prepared or converted into a substance to be readily eliminated by the mucous membranes of the lungs, liver, kidneys and bladder and by the skin, which is a modified form of mucous membrane. The well-known catalytic action of S. S. S. throughout the connective tissues brings into play all the forces of the body to check disease and replace with new tissue-building materials that which has broken down or has become infected by disease germs.

And what is of more than passing importance S. S. S. is a purely vegetable product, relatively as essential to well-balanced health if the blood is impure as are the food elements of our daily ration.

Get a bottle today at any drug store but insist upon S. S. S. Look out for substitution. Beware of all those harmful stuffs containing mercury, iodide of potash, arsenic and other mineral poisons.

S. S. S. is prepared only in the laboratory of The Swift Specific Co., 414 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Write for a copy of a finely illustrated book on skin and blood troubles. When you purchase S. S. S. look for the little folder around the bottle. It invites you to consult the Medical Department free should yours be a serious or chronic case.

SALOON WAS A "MISSION"

Proprietor Tells of His Efforts for Colored Men of City.

"Innocently Guilty of Wrongful Law Violation," But Loses License.

Luther Dawson, proprietor of the colored men's saloon at 21 West Michigan street, made a unique plea to be allowed to continue in business when he appeared before the city council yesterday afternoon in answer to a summons to show cause why his license should not be revoked.

Dawson recently paid a fine in police court for selling liquor without a license. He had rigged a temporary bar in the pool room back of his saloon and was arrested while dispensing intoxicants after 11 o'clock at night.

"Yessah, ah wishes to say some words foh mahself why mah license shouldn't be taken away," said Dawson, speaking with a pronounced dialect, in response to Commissioner Hicken's query if he wished to be heard.

"Gentlemen, ah wants you to rightfully understand the circumstances of mah case. Us colo'd people have been having a club in connection with the saloon, in back of which is a pool hall. Ah served drinks in the pool hall to members of the club only. In one way ah concluded ah was guilty, but ah's innocently guilty of any wrongful law violation.

More Like a "Mission."

"The place has been more like a mission than a saloon. We has been ministerin' to the needs of the colo'd folks in this community. It has been a place for them to congregate and get together and hold sociable and peaceable intacose. That's anothah reason why ah'm innocently guilty of intentional wrong doin'.

"We has also been like an employment agent for the colo'd folks in the town. When people are lookin' for waitahs oh portahs they has been comin' to us. And likewise, when the colo'd folks is out o' a job they comes to us, and we places them.

"We had to have somethin' to make the place draw them and we had a club. Ah served them drinks, but it was just the same as othah clubs serve the membahs and for them reasons ah thinks that ah'm innocently guilty and that you honorable gentlemen should not take away mah license."

With an elaborate bow Mr. Dawson concluded his appeal and resumed his seat at the rear of the council chamber. "Question" called Commissioner Hicken. "Call the roll, Mr. Clerk," directed Mayor Prince. "Yeas, five, nays none," answered the clerk. And thus was Mr. Dawson's saloon license tossed into the "disca'd."

Commissioner Hicken said that he would recommend the granting of another license for a colored saloon but that he was waiting for an opinion from the city attorney to learn whether or not it could be allowed in the same building, as that location was the most desirable one available for it. The Hicken code provides that any building shall be penalized for one year in which a conviction of law violation has been had.

SALOON GOES BY THE BOARD

City Commissioners Refuse Renewal of A. J. Erickson's License.

Attorney Dacey Pleads for Square Deal—Vote Is Unanimous.

Despite the appeal of Attorney Walter F. Dacey for a square deal and petitions of business men and neighbors testifying as to A. J. Erickson's character and the conduct of his place, the city council yesterday afternoon refused, by a unanimous vote, to grant Mr. Erickson a renewal of his saloon license at 19 South Sixty-third avenue west.

Safety Commissioner W. A. Hicken, who announced some time ago that he would recommend such action to the commission, opened the hearing with a brief statement of the case, in which he made no specific charges. He explained that it is located five or six blocks from any other saloon; that it is on an isolated end of a police beat; that a factory will be opened in its immediate vicinity in the near future, and that he considered it to be in the interests of civic betterment that the saloon be not continued.

Attorney Dacey asked for more definite charges in order that they might be met. Commissioner Hicken answered that he would not make specific charges, as they were unnecessary, the council having full authority to say which licenses should be granted and which should not be granted. He added that it was only as a matter of courtesy that the hearing on the license was being accorded to Erickson and his attorney.

Declares Reputation Good.

Attorney Dacey asserted that he had made a thorough investigation of the situation, both as to the conduct of the saloon and the reputation of its proprietor. He declared that he had called on most of the business men in the immediate vicinity and that all of them had assured him that the saloon was run in an orderly manner and that Erickson had an excellent reputation. He explained that his investigation disclosed the fact that while the saloon had formerly been the cause of numerous complaints, most of them were previous to the present administration. In this he was supported by Chief Troyer.

Two later complaints were made but in neither of them could Erickson be held responsible, he said. The attorney read two petitions, one of which was signed by ten men whose places of business are near the corner on the saloon is located, and another signed by about 100 of Erickson's neighbors, asking the council to renew the license. He declared that in all fairness and justice Erickson's license should be renewed.

Commissioner Hicken said that he was willing to admit that the place had been properly conducted in the last six months but that it was about six months ago that Erickson was notified by him that he would recommend that the license be not renewed.

Drunks Are Obnoxious.

He read a letter from a woman living nearby, in which she stated that drunken men were frequently seen in the yard back of the saloon and that several of them had come to her home threatening her and using profane language. Charles Kauppi and M. H. Haan, who are in business in that corner, testified as to the orderly manner in which the saloon has been conducted.

The vote on the license came in the regular course of business during the regular meeting. When City Clerk C. S. Palmer began to call the roll, Commissioner Murchison leaned across the table and asked Commissioner Hicken if the proceeding were not an arbitrarily new method of handling saloons. Commissioner Hicken assured him that it was not, recalling to his mind that several other saloons have been denied renewals of their licenses. He added that this was part of the program for reducing the number of saloons in the city.

"Can't you reduce them rapidly enough by putting out those which violate the law?" Commissioner Murchison then asked.

"No," answered the safety commissioner.

The clerk then started the roll call again and the renewal was refused by a vote of 5 to 0.

HEARS ABOUT LAKE EMPLOYMENT SYSTEM

U. S. Industrial Commission in Session in New York.

New York, May 20.—Recent experiments in conducting public labor exchanges and employers' associations were described before the United States commission on industrial relations, in session here in search of data toward a legislative solution of the problem of unemployed. Philanthropic agencies could not be kept self-supporting, even though they could not be pronounced a total failure, was the trend of the views expressed.

Fifteen thousand men are engaged yearly by owners of four freighters carrying coal and grain on the Great Lakes, through the Lake Carriers' association, which maintains a registration system, club rooms in eleven ports at a cost of $50,000, and pays death benefits and total disablement benefits, George N. Marr, secretary of the Carriers' association said. The former service of employment agencies and unions was not satisfactory, but he knew of no dissatisfaction under the present system, Mr. Marr added.

The state free employment office in Boston, Mass., had driven many of the smaller and less scrupulous agencies out of business, its manager, Walter L. Sears, reported. Its cost per annum is about $21,000, or 86 cents per job.

Advantages of a government organization of labor was recognized by the experts appearing before the commission, but the natural scope for state or national employment agencies was by several of them considered to be limited to unskilled labor.

PASTOR SELLS CHURCH.

Fight Starts When Workmen Begin to Wreck Building.

Bartlesville, Okla., May 20.—Because members of the Epworth Methodist church failed to pay him back salary amounting to $40, Rev. H. C. Breeze, the pastor, sold the church building.

Yesterday a force of workmen, under the direction of the new owner, prepared to remove the building. In ten minutes a crowd of 100 men, women and children surrounded the workmen, threatening them. They were members of the congregation. When the workmen started to tear away the foundation a free-for-all fight started, clubs were used freely and revolvers were flourished.

A riot call was sent in and Sheriff Jordan, accompanied by Mr. Breese and several deputies, rushed to the church. The sheriff sent the minister home under guard and placed guards around the building.

Mr. Breese asserted he has received only $16 in salary since last November, and that the sale of the church building was ordered by the church board at its quarterly conference.

BIG PHONE MERGER IS MADE IN OHIO

Morgan & Co. Has Agreed to Take Refunding Bonds.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 20.—A $25,000,000 merger of independent telephone lines in Ohio practically has been completed, according to a report here, and will be put through subject to the approval of the capitalization by the Ohio public utilities commission. J. P. Morgan & Co., according to the report, has agreed to take general refunding bonds for stock holdings in the Ohio properties.

The merger, it is said, will include all the Morgan properties and several others, including about fifteen companies in various parts of the state.

JUMPS FROM SECOND STORY

Delirious Virginia Scarlet Fever Patient Escapes From Nurse.

Dashes Away From Hospital Into Woods; Soon Recaptured.

Virginia, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Suffering from extreme delirium the result of a severe attack of scarlet fever, Charles Hauti, at 6 o'clock this morning, clad only in shirt and hat jumped from a second story window of the Detention hospital and escaped to the woods nearby. He was captured by convalescent inmates of the hospital a few minutes later and returned to bed. His condition is serious and he may not recover. Hauti was sent to the hospital Monday. He came to the city on the Canadian Northern train and applied at a local hospital for medical aid. His case was diagnosed as scarlet fever and he was ordered committed to the city hospital. All yesterday he was delirious and attendants had to watch him constantly to keep him in bed.

Leaps From Window.

Leaving his room for a moment this morning the nurse locked the door, and as she disappeared Hauti rose from bed, raised a window and jumped to the ground, escaping physical injury. His absence was discovered a few minutes after he left the building and convalescent patients at the hospital, nurses and attendants joined in the chase. The police were summoned from the headquarters station but by the time they arrived he had been apprehended. Hauti has no relatives in this section and had been employed as a woodsman in the country about Cook. He had developed scarlet fever in an advanced stage when he applied at the hospital for aid.

VIRGINIA MEMORIAL DAY PLANS ADVANCE

Observation of Great Event to Be More Notable Than Ever.

Virginia, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Virginia in keeping with former records it has made in that respect will pay splendid honor to the nation's heroes Memorial day. A meeting of the general committee on arrangements at Supt. of Schools Colgrove's office yesterday afternoon, mapped out the day's celebration. The school children will again take a prominent part in the big parade.

N. J. Eaton, J. Meyers and other local Civil war veterans will ride in automobiles in the parade. It has been decided that members of the school board, council and Spanish war veterans will walk.

Line of March Planned.

Superintendent Colgrove plans to have the line of march from the Roosevelt school to Maple street, up Maple street to Railroad avenue to Chestnut street and down Chestnut street to Central avenue and then to the Roosevelt field.

A large platform will be erected at the field for the speakers and musicians. It is thought the crowd can be better handled at the field than at any other point in the city proper.

HOME IS DESTROYED.

John Pecor Is Burned Out at Grand Rapids.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The home of John Pecor here was totally destroyed by fire at midnight Monday, caused by the explosion of a lamp. No efforts were made to save any of the furniture, as the fire had gained such headway in a short space of time that any attempt to enter the house to save anything was considered unwise. On the arrival of the fire department it was decided to play the streams on the surrounding buildings so as to protect them from sparks that were being carried by a brisk south wind that was blowing at the time. The house and contents were partially insured.

CHISHOLM MAYOR HAS GONE TO COAST.

Chisholm, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor and Mrs. Joseph Austin and young son, La Follette, left Monday for the Pacific coast. They will visit Mr. Austin's sister, Mrs. Ed. Anderson, at Missoula, take in the Yellowstone National park, then go to Spokane, Portland, Seattle and Vancouver, returning via the Canadian Rockies. They will be absent about a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Toney Rebrovich have returned from their eastern honeymoon trip, having been absent about ten days. They were married in Virginia on May 7 and left for Pittsburg, where they visited at Mr. Rebrovich's home. Mrs. Rebrovich was formerly Miss Margaret Indihar, who has lived here for a number of years.

Frank G. Harris returned from the Twin Cities, where he attended the Printers' Cost convention.

ALICE WATER DITCH WORK IS COMMENCED

Hibbing Starts Work on Water Main Extension.

Hibbing, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Work on the ditch in which the water mains that will supply Alice are to be laid was commenced this morning under the direction of H. G. Yahke, recently appointed for that purpose. The line runs from Garfield street to Alice and will carry a twelve-inch main. When the new wells are sunk south of the village water will be secured from there for the line. It is anticipated that from 100 to 150 local men will be employed.

Saturday Half Holiday.

The employes of the office of the water and light department are to receive a half holiday every Saturday, according to the action taken by the board last evening when it was decided to close the office at noon on Saturday.

Electric light users who endeavor to reduce their bills by tampering with their meters will have a hard row to hoe and may find themselves without either electricity or water. One case was cited to the water and light board last evening and the secretary was instructed to write the man a letter informing him that if the new meter which was installed was in any ways damaged that all service would be refused him.

To Inspect Cement Walks.

Vic Carlson was last evening appointed inspector of the cement work now being done on the White Way installation at a salary of $5 a day. He will act under Superintendent Norman.

WOODSMAN HURT.

Leg Taken Off By Logging Train Near Basswood Lake.

Ely, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Koski was brought to the Shipman hospital here yesterday afternoon from Camp No. 3 of the Swallow & Hopkins Lumber company with one foot completely severed. It is understood that Koski was walking on the railroad track used by that company for hauling logs from Basswood lake to Fall lake, and he was caught at a sharp turn in the road, and was run over by the engine, cutting the foot entirely off a little above the top of the shoe. The accident happened between 12 and 1 o'clock, and he was immediately taken by the train crew to the end of the road, where a tug brought him to Winton, and a wagon from the lumber company was used to bring him the remainder of the sixteen miles to the hospital.

Owing to the loss of blood and the shock of the accident, Mr. Koski is in very critical condition.

It is not known what he was doing at the place, but it is thought that he was going to Basswood lake or some of the other lakes near there to fish.

HIBBING VS. WOODLANDS

Miners Hope to Defeat Duluth Team Next Sunday.

Hibbing, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Final arrangements have been completed for the baseball game next Sunday between the fast Hibbing team and the Woodlands of Duluth. The locals' victory last Sunday over the strong Chisholm aggregation has inspired them with confidence and they feel sure that they will be able to give a creditable exhibition in the Zenith City. It is probable that an effort will be made to secure another pitcher in addition to Tedisco, as D. Williams is now holding down the first sack and Dwight Booth has not appeared in uniform this season. It is also planned to secure another infielder so that Carroll Booth may be left in the outfield where he has played a star game.

LODGES SEEK BURTON.

Join in Search for "Detective" Who Swindled Hibbingites.

Hibbing, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The lodges and orders to which W. E. Burton, the "government detective" who succeeded in getting away with more than $1,500 secured from Hibbing and Buhl merchants with forged checks, will do their share in endeavoring to secure trace of him. Notices are being sent to the other lodges with a picture of Burton and the request that the local officers be informed if he turns up.

VIRGINIAN TAKES HOOSIER BRIDE.

La Porte, Ind., May 20.—Chris Weimer, who says he is a Virginia, Minn., hotel proprietor, and who came to Indiana to get a wife because a friend had told him of the Indiana girls' exceptional virtues, left for his home town Monday night with a bride, Miss Mary Reed of Hammond, one of five contestants for that distinction. She gave her age as 25 years. Weimer is 40.

HIBBING HOSPITAL TO BE DECORATED.

Hibbing, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The detention hospital is to be redecorated on the inside and given a new coat of paint on the outside. The water and light board last evening instructed the secretary to call for bids this week, the contract to be let at the next meeting. Enamel is to be used in the interior decoration. Bids will also be called for in purchasing an electric washer, a mangle and a dryer for the hospital. Other improvements are being made under the direction of the board, following recommendations by the health deparment.

Hibbing Club Picnic.

Hibbing, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Hibbing Dramatic club will enjoy a picnic some time within the next three weeks when the manuscript of the first play to be presented will be read. The time and place of the meeting has not been fully determined. A highly enthusiastic meeting of the club was held this week at which two new members were admitted.

Wants to Change Dwelling.

Hibbing, Minn., May 20.—Alex Koski seeks permission to make certain changes in his residence and McGraw and Currie, blacksmiths, ask to be allowed to raise the roof of an addition to their shop in applications filed with the village council and referred to the building committee.

EVELETH MEN WILL APPEAL

Mass Meeting Held to Raise Funds for Those Convicted.

Will Be Held at Eveleth Until Their Appeals Are Perfected.

Eveleth, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The six men convicted in municipal court here yesterday of participating in Monday's riotous acts will give bonds and appeal to the district court from the judgment rendered against them by Judge Moyland when he gave them thirty days each in the county jail. This was decided at a mass meeting of friends and sympathizers held in Stepnich's hall last night at which several spoke in Italian and other languages. It was decided to engage Attorney McMahon of Virginia to perfect the appeal and a collection was taken up at the meeting to raise the necessary defense fund. At the request of their attorney the convicted men will be held here pending the securing of bonds and appealing.

There was no disturbance yesterday or this morning, the disgruntled having apparently had all they want of running afoul the local and the Oliver police. It is believed that some I. W. W. agitators are working on the range trying to foment trouble among the men out of work, but during Monday's riotous acts it was impossible to connect any of the agitators with the mob that stormed the paving crew and the Fayal mine.

VIRGINIA PLANS SPENDING BIG SUM

Council Decides to Go Ahead With Lot of Improving.

Virginia, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council decided last night after a long discussion to expend a large sum, perhaps as much as $50,000 in the way of sewer and paving work this year and the city engineer was instructed to go ahead and prepare plans and specifications. The paving material will be decided on later. It was decided to have parts of Mesaba, Ashland, Central and Ohio avenues on the South side and parts of First, Third and Fourth streets on the North side.

All of the councilmen and the mayor will visit Chisholm next Friday to look over the new municipal greenhouse and detention hospital to get ideas to be adopted in the local buildings contemplated.

MINERS AT FUNERAL.

All Lincoln Mine Employes Attend Rites for Virginian.

Virginia, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The popularity in which Charles Cappina, an employe of the Lincoln mine near here is held was attested this afternoon when the mine closed down and the 150 miners attended his funeral in a body at the Polish Catholic church at 3 o'clock. He died unexpectedly while his wife was coming from Italy to join him here after he built a home. She will be notified of his death when her steamer reaches New York.

The Lincoln men all went to work at 6 this morning so they could lay off this afternoon for the funeral.

BY ELY COUNCIL.

Several Important Matters Are Decided Upon.

Ely, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council last evening decided to open Conan street from Central avenue to Second avenue west, also to open First avenue west from Harvey street to Conan street; also to build a cement walk on First avenue east from Camp street to Chandler street, and from First avenue east to Third avenue east along Chandler street. Both of these jobs will be done by day labor under the supervision of the city officials.

Judges were appointed for the several wards and polling places designated for the primary election of June 16.

The question of changing the city charter was raised and the initial steps were taken to secure a revision of the charter.

Tower Commencement.

Tower, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eleven will graduate from the high school at exercises at the Vermilion opera house Friday night, as follows: Aaron Hallock, president and class historian; Elsie Hewitt, vice president, piano solo; Allie Murphy, secretary and class will; Lennie Fogelberg, class song; Rose Gordon, class poem; Elsie M. Martin, Helen G. Gallien, salutatorian; Elsie Harve, valedictorian and piano solo; Esther Holter, class prophet; Clara Elkrem, Helena Johnson. Rev. W. F. Hovis of Duluth will deliver the baccalaureate sermon.

BLOW UP GUN TRAP.

Vandals Wrecked Property of Biwabik Gun Club.

Biwabik, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Some miscreant Saturday night or Sunday dynamited and ruined the trap of the Biwabik Rod and Gun club. It is not known at what time the explosion was set off, but Monday morning the trap was found wrecked. The club at once offered a reward of $25 for the arrest and conviction of the person or persons guilty of such an outrage.

Investigation showed that the guilty parties first broke into a nearby powder house and stole the powder with which they did the mischief. Judging from the appearance, they put a stick of dynamite through a hole into the trap box and touched it off while they sought a place of safety.

The motive for the crime is hard to find. The local rod and gun club is not a closed organization and so far as known no one has been refused membership. It is a very dastardly trick and it is hoped the culprits will be brought to justice in a short time.

ELY LAKE TIMBER IS NOT BURNED.

Eveleth, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The disastrous forest fire that swept along Ely lake early in the week did not reach the valuable timber that for a time seemed doomed. The fire shifted at the right time and then the rain of last night came at an opportune moment to prevent further loss. John Crusnik, a farmer living at Spruce Junction, a few miles from here, was burned out Monday afternoon, losing his house and contents at a loss of several hundred dollars.

LEE GIVES BONDS.

Virginia Chinese Can Now Be Released From Jail.

Virginia, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Lee, the local Chinaman who is in the county jail at Duluth, being held pending an appeal to the supreme court from the conviction of first degree assault, can be released, as he has furnished a new bond. Dr. Welrick and Pete McCarthy of Hibbing qualifying for $2,500.

FIXING LIBRARY AT GRAND RAPIDS.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—A few minor improvements are being made on the public library. The northwest window of the basement is being replaced by a door to give access to the basement from the outside and a cement walk will be laid to run from the main walk to the new doorway on the west side of the building. It is understood the Christian Scientists will occupy the basement for church services.

HIBBING BRIEFS.

Hibbing, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Edward B. Miller and children have left for Winona to be the guests of Mrs. Miller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Burt. They were accompanied by Mrs. Miller's brother, Lewis, who has been visiting here the past two weeks. Mrs. Miller and children will be absent from the city for two months.

Rev. Father Gilli of the Church of the Immaculate Conception officiated at the services of the late Celeste Galloranzi, who was killed in an accident at the Lincoln mine in Virginia.

Mrs. P. J. Mulholland has returned from International Falls, where she was called by the alarming illness of her sister, Miss Katherine Riley. Miss Riley, who was suffering from pneumonia, made a quick recovery and is now convalescing nicely.

Edward Herschbach has arrived from Mt. Clemens, Mich., where he spent the past three weeks at the Sanitarium taking treatment for rheumatism. Hs health is very much improved, which will be a pleasing fact to many friends.

FARM SPECIAL WELL RECEIVED

Two Harbors and Other Points Give Visitors Fine Send Off.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Iron Range road's agricultural train is getting a fine reception in this section. Crowds visited the train here yesterday, listened to the lectures and admired the exhibits. The train went from here to Fairbanks and other points along the line, being well received everywhere.

Farmers arrived here early yesterday for the train and as soon as the cars were open at 10 a. m. for inspection thronged them. The boys' and girls' car attracted much attention. Through the efforts of K. D. Van Wagenen, county agricultural agent, and R. L. Giffin, secretary of the Hibbing County Fair association, a boys' and girls' contest has been started for the raising of alfalfa, corn, potatoes and poultry. This movement on their part is to get the future farmers started and interested in the cultivation of the land, and as they will furnish seeds free and offer cash prizes to the contestants every child that has the facilities to plant a small piece of ground may enter the contest.

M. J. Thompson, superintendent of the Northeastern Minnesota experimental station, joined the party here.

Thompson Meets Farmers.

The morning program consisted chiefly of demonstrations and lectures on farming and farm management. Mr. Thompson met a large number of the leading farmers of the community desiring seed and wishing to consult him on stock raising.

A. B. Hostetter gave a talk on potatoes—their raising, cultivation and the general need of increasing the crops here.

W. A. Dickinson, in charge of the party, lectured upon stock raising, breeding and the need of this county, especially in increasing the herds. The farmers brought many fine specimens of Holstein and Guernsey cows and prize bulls and the hardy and rugged appearance of the stock showed that this section is ideal for stock raising.

CHARLES MATTSON IS PNEUMONIA VICTIM.

Ely, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles Mattson, aged 35, an employe of the Swallow & Hopkins Lumber company near here, died at Shipman hospital from pneumonia contracted recently when he fell into Fall lake while loading logs.

RAIN ON MESABA.

Virginia, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Welcome rain is falling here today and the possibility of further brush fire damage is obliterated. The rain is quite general in this section.

Virginia Buys Fire Truck.

Virginia, Minn., May 20.—At a special meeting of the police and fire commisson a new seventy horse-power truck was purchased for the fire department from the American LaFrance Engine company for $5,500. The machine will be a four cylinder one and is to be delivered here in ninety days.

The Kissel Kar and Seagrace companies, which were the other bidders, had their checks returned.

The clerk of the commission was instructed to advertise for bids for an automobile for the fire chief, as the bids submitted were unsatisfactory.

Virginia Club Insured.

Virginia, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The management of the local club in the Northern league today took out a blanket insurance policy covering all of the members of the club and insuring them against injury during the season.

The total attendance Monday at the opening game of the season here was 3,400, breaking all records for ball attendance on the Mesaba range.

Brakeman Hurt.

Biwabik, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Matt Kittala was brough to the Biwabik hospital Sunday morning with a fractured leeg having attempted to board an Iron Range ore train at Brimson, and was injured. He was found the next morning and sent here for treatment.

Postponed Till Winter.

Hibbing, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The question of continuing the heat service enjoyed by eighteen local business men through next winter will not be taken up until next week. The users are to have a meeting before then and decide their course of action. It is highly probable judging from the advance discussions that the increased rate at which the service is offered will prove acceptable.

Gilbert Votes Bonds.

Gilbert, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local voters at a special election held Monday decided by a vote of 97 to 27 to issue bonds in the sum of $40,000. It is expected that the bonds, which will carry 4 per cent interest, will be sold to the state of Minnesota. The territory recently annexed to Gilbert is not included in the valuation which has been tabulated as a basis for the floating of the bonds. When this money becomes available much of it will be spent in needed public improvements.

New Hibbing Addition.

Hibbing, Minn., May 20.—Hibbing has a new plated addition that has been formally accepted by the village council in which lots will soon be for sale. It is known as Park Addition and comprises the sw¼ of the sw¼, section 7-57-20, the land being located just south of Bennett park, and is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lavell.

CARDEN HAS LONG TALK WITH HUERTA

Mexico City, May 20.—Sir Lionel Carden, the British minister, held a prolonged conference with Provisional President Huerta yesterday which has caused considerable speculation.

Minister of War Blanquet, in a statement, talked of the situation in the north. He said:

"There is no news regarding the reported evacuation of Saltillo by the Federals and the advance of the revolutionists southward from that place.

"The department of gobernacion informs me that many rebel wounded have arrived in Torreon from the battle that for several days past has been going on in Ramos Arizpe.

"Rodrigo Quevedo, the counter-revolutionary leader, is attacking Casas Grandes in Chihuahua."

Gen. Blanquet said it was untrue that he is going north to command the troops operating against the Constitutionalists. He said he would remain at the head of the war department.

CURRENCY PROBLEM ACUTE IN VERA CRUZ.

Vera Cruz, May 20.—A perplexing problem has presented itself here owing to the scarcity of Mexican coin of small denominations. Mexican currency still is the medium of exchange, but the stringency has become so pronounced that several stores and restaurants have displayed signs warning prospective patrons that they must have the exact change to pay for their purchases.

The disinclination of local banks to release the large amounts of Mexican currency held by them, except at a rate many points below the exchange ruling in Mexico City, which hitherto has been the accepted rate here, is the alleged cause of the shortage.

The current rate in the Federal capital is about $3 Mexican for $1 American. The majority of the business houses here, taking their cue from the banks, display signs announcing that they will pay $2.75 Mexican for $1 American.

VANDALIA ROAD IS GUILTY OF REBATING.

East St. Louis, Ill., May 20.—The Vandalia railroad, a subsidiary of the Pennsylvania, was found guilty of rebating in the Federal district court here.

The verdict was on two counts of an indictment that charged the road with granting rebates to the Lumaghi Coal company of East St. Louis. The fines, under the statute, may range from $1,000 to $20,000 on each count. Attorneys for the road filed motions for a new trial.

It was charged by the government that the railroad granted the rebates in an indirect manner—by borrowing money from a St. Louis bank at 4 per cent and loaning it to the coal company at 2 per cent.

It was claimed that several corporations under the partial control of the Vandalia had a part in the transaction.

A STOMACH TONIC

There is a form of indigestion called "atonic" dyspepsia. Atonic means "lack of tone." It is probably the most common form of indigestion but not much is heard about it because people are inclined to group all forms of dyspepsia as "stomach trouble" and the doctors let it go at that.

Lack of tone in the digestive organs means that the stomach is no longer able to do its work as nature intended. The nerves that control it are weak, the glands that supply the digestive fluids are not working properly. Gas on the stomach, sour risings in the throat and constipation result. The cause of the trouble is thin blood. Stomach, nerves and glands are all dependent on the blood and when it gets thin and watery they are at once weakened. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood and the first response from the stomach is a better appetite, freedom from distress after eating and an increase in ambition and energy generally. Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a stomach tonic and see how your general health improves.

A diet book, "What to Eat and How to Eat" will be sent free on request by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Every druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

DANDRUFFY HEADS BECOME HAIRLESS

Scalp Dries—Chokes Out the Hair and Prevents Its Growth.

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy, every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will be silky, fluffy, lustrous, soft and look, and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

SAYS SULPHUR IS SURE TO RELIEVE ITCHING ECZEMA

Get an Ounce of Bold-Sulphur Cream and Heal Skin Eruptions Right Up.

Any breaking out or irritation on the face, arms, legs or body when accompanied by itching, or when the skin is dry and feverish, can be readily overcome by applying a little bold-sulphur cream, says a noted dermatologist.

He informs us that bold-sulphur instantly allays the angry itching and irritation and soothes and heals the Eczema right up leaving the skin clear and smooth. Bold-sulphur has occupied a secure position for many years in the treatment of cutaneous disorders because of its parasite-destroying property. Nothing has ever been found to take its place in treating the irritable and inflammatory skin affections. While not always establishing a permanent cure it never fails to subdue the itching irritation and drive the Eczema away and it is often years later before any eruption again appears on the skin.

Those troubled should obtain at any pharmacy an ounce of bold-sulphur cream which is applied to the affected parts in the same manner as an ordinary cold cream. It isn't unpleasant and the prompt relief afforded, particularly in itching Eczema, proves very welcome.

PUT ON TRIAL FOR BURGLARY

Herbert McCall, 37 years old, charged with having burglarized the D. A. Miller jewelry store at 217 West Superior street March 15 last, when $1,500 worth of jewelry is alleged to have been stolen from the display window, was brought to trial before Judge Bert Fesler and a district court jury this morning.

McCall was arrested in Superior March 23 while in the act of pawning two watches with the Marcus Loan company, 702 Tower avenue, which are claimed by the police to be a part of the loot which was stolen from the Miller store on the night that the place was burglarized. Miller identified the two watches as his property when called as a witness this morning.

The two pawn tickets for the watches were found in McCall's clothes by the officers at the time of the arrest. A bracelet and some other jewelry were also found on his person, but the prisoner declared at the time that they were the property of his wife.

The Miller store was broken into early on the morning of March 15, about three hours after Miller, the proprietor, had left the place. The store is next door to the New Grand theater, which at that time was in course of construction. Scaffolding on the front part of the new theater obstructed a view of the store from East Superior street. A newsboy discovered the burglary and reported it to the police.

McCall has been a familiar character about the city for a number of years. On Jan. 7 last he was arrested on a charge of having tapped the wires of the Duluth-Edison Electric company at the Myers' hotel, Oneota. After a trial in police court, however, he was acquitted of the charge.

A. G. McKnight is attorney for the accused, and Mason M. Forbes, first assistant county attorney, is directing the prosecution.

SAYS BURNS MEN ARE AFTER HIM

Proctor Secret Service Man Seeks Aid Through City Clerk.

Proctor has a secret service man who is being annoyed day and night by Burns detectives, equipped with dictagraphs and electrical appliances, according to a communication which has been received by City Clerk C. S. Palmer.

The envelope is addressed to the city clerk, but the letter is directed to Governor Eberhart. It was written and mailed at Proctor.

"Some men and women are here representing themselves as Burns detectives," reads the missive. "They are annoying me day and night with dictagraph and electric appliances. I have made repeated efforts to notify President Wilson but have failed. Will you take this matter up with Washington and protect me?

"I am known to you as Jack Sale, employed as special by U. S. government. My correct name is B. W. Huston of Morganfield, Ky. Mr. Palmer, please send this message. I am without means and abused day and night by these men."

INCUBATOR FIRE BURNS HALF OF TOWN

Village of Nadeau, Mich., Nearly Wiped Out By Flames.

Marinette, Wis., May 20.—The village of Nadeau, Menominee county, Mich., was more than half destroyed by a fire that originated in a chicken incubator at the Exchange hotel today. The Exchange hotel, the Paress hotel, postoffice and several residences were destroyed. The total loss is estimated at $50,000.

Guests of the hotels had many narraw escapes, many being obliged to flee in their night clothes.

Railroads Will Advertise Duluth.

Coincident with the issuing of the summer folder of the Duluth Commercial club, the railroads of the various parts of the country were asked to handle allotments at their various ticket offices. Some replies were naturally expected, while others were doubtful. To the surprise of those of the club having charge of the matter, replies from railroads from which no attention was expected are coming in, each agreeing to handle a considerable number of the folders and distribute them to the best advantage.

BRIDGE WILL BE ERECTED

If Not at Fond du Lac, Then Further Up the River.

Will Be Built at Point Entirely Within State If Necessary.

That there will be a bridge across the St. Louis river in the vicinity of Fond du Lac despite the protests of Superior citizens there is little doubt. If the present bill in congress providing for a bridge across the river at Fond du Lac is blocked as appears to be the desire of some on the other side of the bay, a bridge will likely be built entirely within the confines of the state.

The state and county directors of the Duluth Commercial club met at dinner this noon at the club and took decisive action. A resolution was adopted favoring the bridge at Fond du Lac and urging the Minnesota members of congress of both houses to do everything possible for its construction. The resolution was emphatic and recited the case and circumstances in detail.

This done, the directors, in discussion, decided that in case the bill is defeated, to recommend to the county commissioners of St. Louis county to construct the desired type of bridge further up the river, wholly within Minnesota territory so that there can be no interference from the neighboring state and the improvement be arrived at regardless of the present fight. It is realized that the proposed location is to be preferred, but if that cannot be obtained because of adverse action, the next best thing will be the bridge at another point further up the stream, affording practically the same advantages.

HAY OF WAHPETON IS HEAD OF G. A. R.

Parade Feature of Closing Day of North Dakota Meet.

Fargo, N. D., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Memorial service in honor of the dead was a feature of closing today of the state G. A. R. encampment. The service was open to the public and was largely attended. Chief interest in the afternoon proceedings hinges around the annual parade. The veterans and members of the W. R. C. will be in line escorted by the police, a band, the Spanish-American war veterans and hundreds of Fargo school children. The parade will be reviewed by National Commander Washington Gardner and State Department Commander Vallandigham.

Gets Divorce and Alimony.
Judge Cant yesterday afternoon signed an order for a decree of divorce to be granted Judith L. Johnson, 38, from Anius Johnson, 46, to whom she was married Sept. 4, 1897, on the grounds of cruelty. The case was tried at the March term. Mrs. Johnson claimed that her husband was cruel in that he applied vile names to her and cast aspersions on her chastity. She was granted the custody of their four children, ranging in age from 12 to 3 years, given possession of their homestead at Ely and granted $10 a month alimony.

Many Would Be Chauffeurs.
About twenty young men took the chauffeurs' examination at police headquarters this morning under the direction of Joseph A. Maloney, chairman of the state board of automobile examiners. About thirty more are expected to take the examinations this afternoon. Mr. Maloney will conduct a similar test at Hibbing tomorrow morning.

Auto Club to Meet.
The Duluth Automobile club will hold a meeting tomorrow evening at the assembly room of the Commercial club and an effort is being made to have a large attendance because of the fact that important business is to come up. It may be decided to establish a special "road drag" day at the meeting, and another important thing that will come up will be the matter of issuing a monthly bulletin devoted to the cause of good roads and autoists' welfare in general. There will be several other matters up for consideration.

Closing of Parochial Schools.
Dates for the closing of parochial schools of Duluth for the midsummer vacation have just been fixed. They will be as follows: St. Mary's, June 16; St. Anthony, June 16; Cathedral high school, June 18; John the Baptist, June 19, and Saints Peter and Paul, June 21.

Would Close Estate.
Moritz Heim, attorney for Edgar Prochnik, Austrian consul, today petitioned the district for an order of distribution of the wrongful death funds collected for the estate of Nikola Ilic, who met an accidental death at the Woodbridge mine July 19 last. Heim, as administrator of the estate, collected $1,200 from the Oglebay Norton company, Ilic's former employers. He asks that it be given to Dmitra Ilic, mother and sole heir residing in Hungary after certain expenses and incidentals are paid.

Services for Children.
There will be a service for the children at Trinity pro-cathedral at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The children will assemble in the Sunday school room before going to the meeting.

Another Ladies' Night.
The directors of the Commercial club, at their noon meeting today, decided that another "ladies' night," which occasions have reached a stage of great popularity, will be given at the club on May 29. The program for the affair will be announced later.

Ascension Day Services.
Tomorrow will be Ascension day, one of the chief of the post-lenten holy days, and it will be observed with services at St. Paul's Episcopal church, Seventeenth avenue east and Superior street. Service will be held at 10:30 in the morning.

Inspecting Old Trenches.
The division of public works is making an examination of streets in which trenches have been dug by contractors who have laid water and gas mains for the water and light department. The contractors are now asking for the 5 per cent guarantee which was withheld. Before this will be paid by the water department the condition of the street must be approved by the works division. James Lawson, superintendent of maintenance, says that the "O. K." will not be forthcoming unless the street is in as good shape as it was originally.

PENROSE WINS IN PENNSYLVANIA VOTE

Democratic Contest to Nominate Governor Not Yet Decided.

Philadelphia, May 20.—Pennsylvania yesterday for the first time held primaries to choose candidates for United States senator, governor, justices of the supreme court and of the superior court, as well as for other state offices, state and legislature.

Although fair weather prevailed, the vote was light. Boise Penrose won the Republican nomination for senator, and Martin G. Brumbaugh was practically unopposed as the Republican candidate for governor. Mr. Brumbaugh is superintendent of public schools of Philadelphia.

On the Democratic ticket Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer was selected as the party candidate for senator, defeating Henry Budd of Philadelphia.

Gifford Pinchot was unopposed for the Washington Progressive nomination for senator.

There was an unusually warm contest for the Democratic nomination for governor between Vance McCormick of Harrisburg and Michael J. Ryan, city solicitor of Philadelphia. Early returns were conflicting and it was not possible to indicate which of the two candidates was the victor.

William Draper Lewis, dean of the University of Pennsylvania, had no opposition for the Washington party nomination for governor.

Reduction of U. S. Fleet in Mexican Waters Is Planned.

Henry Lane Wilson Is Scored By Stone in the Senate.

Washington, May 20.—Plans for the withdrawal of a part of the naval force now in Mexican waters was considered at the navy department today. Acting Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt said that within a week he hoped to withdraw to American waters one division of the Atlantic fleet, consisting of four battleships and five torpedo boat destroyers with a tender.

H. L. Wilson Criticized.

Criticism of Henry Lane Wilson, former American ambassador to Mexico, was made in the senate today by Senator Stone, chairman of the foreign relations committee, when Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan had read a letter from Mr. Wilson expressing his views on the Mexican situation.

The letter was ostensibly to correct a date in Senator Smith's recent Mexican speech. The former ambassador, in calling attention to the error, told of various occasions when he had urged the recognition of Gen. Huerta, and expressed the belief that the adoption of that course by the present administration would have averted the bloodshed which has occurred.

"This is an attempt of the somewhat discredited former ambassador to exploit himself in the public press after his repeated fulminations have become somewhat stale," said Senator Stone. "It is an attempt to revive his drooping fortunes by getting something printed in the Congressional Record."

CALL ON THE MEDIATORS

Americans and Mexicans Perform Duty at Niagara Falls.

Possible Elimination of Huerta Likely to Be Considered.

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 20.—Delegates representing Mexico to the mediation conference, assembled here to settle differences between the Huerta government and the United States, called formally today upon the diplomatic representatives of Argentine, Brazil and Chile, who will adjust, if they can, the troubled conditions in Mexico.

No sooner had the Mexican representatives departed than Messrs. Lamar and Lehmann, delegates on behalf of the United States, made their formal call, and this opened the way for the first session of the mediation conference, announced to begin at 3 p. m.

Mr. Suarez, the Chilean minister, had not arrived in time to meet the delegates, who were received by Ambassador Da Gama and Mr. Naon. It was announced that the absence of Mr. Suarez would not delay the opening of the conference.

No one of the mediators would hazard an opinion as to the probable duration of the conference. They were optimistic, but made it plain they were not in position yet to know what to expect.

Elimination of Huerta.

While the elimination of Huerta was believed to be paramount in the minds of the mediators, it was realized by those closely in touch with the situation that the final solution of this problem would depend to a considerable extent upon the nature of the powers conferred upon the Mexican delegates. In the event that these powers were plenary, it was thought that the question could then be approached with directness as one of the first proposals to be submitted. If, on the other hand, the Mexican representatives were under instructions to refer the suggestions of the mediators to the Mexican capital for final decision, the subject would probably be approached with less hopefulness of an immediate settlement.

Direct Wire to White House.

In the latter event the Mexican representatives would conduct their negotiations on a basis equivalent to that of the American delegates, who are known to be under instructions to report all issues that arise to the Washington government for final determination.

While Justice Lamar and Mr. Lehmann have been provided with almost instantaneous telephone connection with the White House and the office of Secretary Bryan, over private wires manned at each end by a confidential operator, the Mexicans must resort to cable communication, subject to delays and interruptions which the disturbed conditions in Mexico have caused in the service.

AFTER SUPPLIES FOR STATE MILITIA.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, May 20.—Adjt.-Gen. Fred B. Wood of Minnesota is in Washington conferring with officials of the war department about equipment and supplies to be furnished the Minnesota National Guard during the fiscal year beginning July 1 next. Gen. Wood said his being here had nothing to do with the Mexican situation.

OBITUARY

Col. William Westerman, a pioneer of St. Cloud, Minn., and two terms its mayor, died Tuesday night at Los Angeles, Cal., according to a telegram received here today. The cause of his death was not given in the message. He left St. Cloud a year ago to make Los Angeles his home, but had planned to return next week to spend the summer in St. Cloud. Col. Westerman served as mayor in 1888 and 1889, and for four years was receiver of the Federal land office. A widow and adopted daughter survive him.

Charles Sprague Pearce, the artist, is dead at Auvers-Sur Oise, France. Mr. Pearce was born in Boston in 1851. He attained much fame as a painter of peasants and fishermen and was a conspicuous figure in the art circles of Paris, where he made his home for many years. He had not been in America for eighteen years.

THE MODERN WEATHER MAN

Has a Batting Average of .800 and Saves Us Money.

Detroit News: People don't laugh at the weather man as they once did. The reason is that they need him in their business. Of course, when two long-promised fair inauguration days turn into howling blizzards, the laugh is on the weather man, and a certain percentage of "wise" people begin to declare that there never was and never will be anything in the science of meteorology besides guess work and good jobs. But the fact that in this country the weather man makes a perfect score eight times out of ten, and that one or two of his misses is far from being bad; the fact that last year the weather man saved the people of the western coast $15,000,000 in one night by his warnings; the fact that the weather man is now working to make nine out of ten predictions come true, with a hope for a full score of ten—these ought to be sufficient to give him a high place in the professional life of the country.

The fact is, the old term, "meteorology," no longer fits the work of the weather man. He is beginning to speak of his science as "aerology." He is beginning to chart the air. There are rivers in the air just as there are rivers in the sea. It is ignorance of the current of these rivers that has hampered aviation in its bolder attempts. When the aerial rivers above the Atlantic are charted, we may expect to see airships paying calls between New York and London. Winds and storms are not always free lances, striking here and there undesignedly and without traceable cause. The physics of rain, the nucleus of the raindrop, the centers of condensation, the cradle of winds—all these are being patiently studied by disciplined minds.

And for a much wider purpose than the mere forecasting of weather. The weather forecast is, beyond doubt, of immense value to the country. On accurate forecasting depends millions of money every day. But the new science of aerology seeks yet farther—it seeks to control the weather. Heretofore this splendidly audacious illustration of man's ambition has been confined to more or less nondescript "rainmakers." But the weather bureau of this government has already contrived inventions which control frost in fruit-growing sections—fighting the frost by heating the air by adding moisture to the air, by covering the plants, or by mixing other chemical elements to the air which sing in mystic authority, "Come not near! Come not near!" The beauty of this fact goes well beyond the practical value indicated, for the weather men who invented these contrivances have freely surrendered all chance of private patent monopoly and have given them generously to the farmers without royalty.

One aspect of dangerous weather is the fog. The weather man entertains no lesser hope than of being able to dissipate the fog which makes harbors dangerous and cities dreary. He does not hope, of course, to blow it from the vast face of the ocean, but he has been so successful in dispelling it from small areas that he hopes in due time to be able to dispel it from cities and from places of crowded shipping.

So, you see, the day of the weather man is coming, is here.

SUN POWER PLANT.

Consul Arthur Garrels, Alexandria: A public demonstration was given on July 11, 1913, of the workings of the sun power plant recently erected by a New York concern at Meadi, near Cairo in Egypt. The principle involved in the plant is the invention of Frank Shuman, an American who supervised the erection of the plant and is conducting the experiments.

The plant covers several acres of land on the west bank of the Nile. A series of reflectors and absorbers, a low-pressure steam engine, a condenser, and a pump comprise the principal independent units of the mechanism.

There are five reflectors, each of which is 204 feet long and parabolic in form. They are spaced at intervals of 20 feet and made up of a series of one-eighth-inch glass mirrors. The reflectors aggregate a total light absorptive surface of 13,500 square feet, are placed in iron frames, and geared and interconnected with the engine by an arrangement of cog wheels. The mirrors automatically follow the course of the sun and are regulated by what is termed a thermostat, the secret of the invention.

Running exactly down the center of each reflector is the boiler or absorber, a box of three-eighth-inch metal with a tube at the top. By means of an automatic feed the box is constantly half full of water. The reflected sun rays are concentrated on these boilers, and the steam generated is led from the various units to the engine. The 100-horsepower engine is of the low pressure type. The exhaust is condensed to water and returned to the boilers.

IT WAS A LENGTHY TRIP.

New York Times: The girl who had just returned from her second six week's tour of Europe beamed compassionately on the woman who modestly confessed that she had been abroad only once.

"Too bad," said the girl, patronizingly. "I always feel so sorry for anybody who is not able to get back a second time. How long were you there?"

"Ten years," said the woman.

The six weeks' tripper changed the subject.

SCHOOL BUYS FARM TRACT

District No. 27 Bids in 40 Acres for Agricultural Purposes.

State Lands Bring an Average Price of $6 an Acre.

St. Louis county has at least one settlement of farmers who are losing no time in seeing that their children shall be well trained and schooled along agricultural lines. It is known as the Little Swan settlement, which is fifteen miles south of Hibbing on the Little Swan river.

At the May sale of state lands today at the courthouse, T. S. Silliman of Hibbing, attorney for Independent School District No. 27, which embraces the Little Swan settlement, bid in a 40-acre tract of land, which will be devoted by the school district to agricultural school purposes.

The tract purchased by Mr. Silliman for the school district is described as the northwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 36, 56-20. It was bid in for $23 an acre, or $920.

The land, now wild, will be cleared and broken and crops put in as soon as possible. It is the aim of the school board in that district to replace the present schoolhouse at Little Swan with a three-room schoolhouse, to be constructed on the newly acquired site.

District No. 27, having purchased more than the necessary five acres of land adjacent to its school, is entitled to special state aid for its agricultural courses, according to Attorney Silliman.

The sale of state lands this morning was conducted by Theodore Nelson, manager of the state land department. Approximately 1,640 acres were disposed of at an average price of $6 an acre. The prices, however, ranged from $5 to $23.

About fifty bidders were present. Among others was George H. Ralph, former state drainage engineer, who bought several descriptions in townships 50 and 52, 19 for several of his friends at St. Paul and Bagley, Wis.

Mr. Nelson will leave this evening for St. Paul. On Monday at Roseau he will conduct the first of a series of twenty-three sales. He will visit Duluth again on June 17.

SERVICES FOR VETERANS

G. A. R. Members Will Attend Endion M. E. Church Sunday.

Memorial day Sunday will be observed at the Endion Methodist church. Rev. William Forney Hovis, the pastor, will preach the sermon to the veterans, and it is expected that the church will be crowded. The G. A. R. men will hold no parade, advanced years in most cases making such an attempt impossible. It may be, however, that the Spanish American War Veterans and the Sons of Veterans will march to the church from some assembling point, but that has not, as yet, been determined. Included in those who will take part in the services will be the women's auxiliaries to the various patriotic organizations and, officially, an immense assemblage is assured. The church services will begin at 10:30, the regular hour.

A week from Friday the schools will be visited by the veterans and the pupils will be told of the stirring times of the revolution. The citizens' committee has charge of the assignment of the G. A. R. men to the various schools and will announce their list later.

CLOQUET FIGHTS MENACING FIRE

Maid Curling Hair Starts Blaze That Threatens City.

Cloquet, Minn., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. O'Leary and her famous cow, credited with starting the great Chicago fire, did not have anything on a maid employed in the Engdahl boarding house on Carlton avenue, in the residence portion of the city, as it is claimed there about 2:30 yesterday afternoon as the maid was curling her hair she upset a lamp and fired the Engdahl boarding house, burning that and other structures in the worst fire seen here in years. A high wind was blowing and as the day was unusually hot and sultry the safety of the whole town was feared.

Mill Hands as Firemen.

Men employed at the local mills were ordered to the fire along with the high school students, all of whom joined the local fire fighters in confining the fire to one area. When the Engdahl house took fire the maid who is alleged to have started the fire fled and has not been seen since. She left a baby in the house, Mrs. Engdahl being absent in Duluth. The baby was saved by a 16-year-old boy from Scanlon. The fire was extinguished by 5 o'clock. The most valuable property destroyed was the fine home of Attorney Walter Case. The Engdahl boarding house was insured for $1,800. A dwelling owned by Mr. Carlson was also destroyed; no insurance. Dwellings belonging to Mr. Gilbert and the Desilets family were also destroyed. The approximate loss is $10,000. The fire fighters did excellent work or the city might have been burned. The hydrants of the Cloquet and Northern Lumber company's mills and their fire-fighting appliances were pressed into service.

HEROINE OF A TANGO ROMANCE

MRS. J. D. M. GRAY.

Mrs. Gray is the heroine of a tango romance. She met at a dansant, James Douglas More Gray, who says he is a son of Sir James Gray of Scotland. After frequent meetings in the Broadway trotteries, they determined they would like to one-step through life together. So, though the young woman was only 16, they got a marriage license and, fleeing from a pursuing mama, they got a parson at the Collegiate church to marry them. Mrs. Gray was Annabel Dade and her mother is the wife of C. A. Henderson, a broker of New York.

CLOUDBURST SWEEPS OUT THE RAILROADS

Clayton, N. M., May 20.—The Clayton bridge was swept out yesterday when a cloudburst near here swelled the Canadian river. Part of the Fort Worth and Denver railroad track was washed away.

City Is Isolated.

Roswell, N. M., May 20.—This city is isolated from railroad communication, owing to cloudbursts Sunday and Monday between Clovis and Elida, stations of the Santa Fe railway, north of here.

LOCK CASHIER IN VAULT; ROB BANK

Three Bandits Are Surrounded in the Woods By Posse.

Spokane, Wash., May 20.—Three bandits who locked the cashier of the State bank of Spangle, Wash., in the bank vault and escaped with between $4,000 and $5,000 yesterday, are surrounded in the woods along Hangman creek, four miles from Waverly, Wash.

Posses under the leadership of sheriff's deputies obtained bloodhounds from Moscow, Idaho, and put the dogs on the trail. O. W. Newlon, the cashier of the bank, joined the hunt.

Newlon was alone in the bank when the three men entered, covered him with pistols, forced him into the vault and locked him in.

STAMBAUGH BOASTS FOUR-WING CHICK.

Stambaugh, Mich., May 20.—A freak chicken, now preserved in alcohol, has been added to the museum of the Stambaugh high school. The fowl, a baby chick, had grown to normal size at the time of hatching, but did not live after it was taken from the shell. It possessed four wings, four legs and two bills, all perfectly formed, and only two eyes. The chicken was hatched a few days ago in the poultry yard of J. T. Hayes of Palatka.

MILLIONS OF FISH FRY ARE PLACED.

Grand Marais, Mich., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Upwards of 50,000,000 fish have been planted in Upper Michigan waters this spring. Forty-one millions of the fry were hatched at the state plant at the Soo and the remainder at the Federal hatchery at Duluth. The bulk of the planting was done by the national government. This was for the benefit of the commercial fisheries. The state's contribution was 3,000,000 lake trout, planted in inland lakes, and 2,000,000 brook trout and 1,000,000 rainbow trout, planted in streams. The fish planted by the government consisted of 25,000,000 white fish and 10,000,000 lake trout, hatched at the Soo, and approximately 10,000,000 white fish and trout procured from Duluth. Only because of this annual work are the commercial fisheries and the game fishing of the region maintained.

KEEPING ONE'S YOUTH.

Ohio State Journal: Dr. Josiah Oldfield, the famous English food expert and health authority, being nearly fourscore years and ten, is competent to tell us how to live a long time and keep young, also. He says:

"A man must submit himself to mental and physical discipline and eat wisely and not too well.

"Think big thoughts and cling to noble ideals.

"Live on the fruit of the highest minds.

"Do not waste time over petty things and do not take narrow views.

"Take fruits, vegetables, oils, pure wines, eggs, butter, milk, and bread. Avoid shoddy, second-hand food of all kinds."

There is the best set of health rules ever published. There is not a drug in it. The "mental and physical discipline" is the keynote to the whole matter. If anything is the matter with you, think right, act right, eat right, talk right, and look up. What have "big thoughts" and "noble ideals" to do with health and a happy old age? Everything. They help the nerves and the stomach and the bones. For indigestion catch the inspiration of big minds. For rheumatism take broad views and stop quarreling about petty things. For tuberculosis take fruit, eggs, milk, bread, and no shoddy or second-hand food.

These things should be taught in church and school. There is no real religion or education without them. They are far more important than memory or literary style. They are essential to a true life. In fact, a person cannot be happy in this world or the next without them. Cut them out of the paper and put them where you can see them occasionally.

PALMER MYSTERY FINALLY CLEARED

Finding Skeleton Explains Disappearance of Michigan Deer Hunter.

Palmer, Mich., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—By the discovery of the skeleton of the young man, the mystery that had enshrouded the fate of Stephen Nichols for more than a decade has been cleared away. The boy met death in the wilderness, in what manner is unknown.

Eleven years ago last fall, Nichols, the son of W. H. Nichols, left Palmer on a deer-hunting trip to the Bass lake country in Forsyth township. He never returned. The woods were searched for days by hundreds of men. No trace of the young man was found.

Skeleton Is Found.

The discovery of the skeleton was made by three men on their way to the seat of a forest fire. Lying near the bones were a watch, a leather belt, a pair of rubbers and a rifle, the stock of which had been partly burned, presumably by forest fires. The articles were identified as the property of Nichols. It has always been the belief that the young man lost his way and succumbed to exposure or that he was shot and killed in mistake for a deer. The latter has been the father's theory. The remains were found but a short distance from a road and within two miles of a farmhouse.

ISHPEMING BOYS TAKE TO FARMING

Co-operative Farms Run By Youth Are Great Success.

Ishpeming, Mich., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Co-operative farms conducted under the management of the Ishpeming board of education have created so much interest on the part of the students during the three years since their establishment that this season they will be operated on a larger scale than heretofore. M. A. Russell, an agricultural expert from the Michigan Agricultural college, has been placed in charge.

The board of education owns eighteen acres of tillable land in three different tracts and most of this will be cultivated this spring. Students will, as heretofore, do the work. One hundred and twenty-five boys have agreed to perform the necessary labor. They will be paid at the rate of 10 cents an hour, the school board marketing the produce and retaining the proceeds. This spring the principal crops sown will be potatoes, cabbage and cauliflower. One acre will be devoted to strawberries. It is believed that this year, for the first time, the farms will return a profit.

AUTHORS AND THEIR MUSCLES.

New York Sun: James Francis Dwyer, author of "The White Waterfall," "The Spotted Panther" and other tales of adventure, believes that the first step toward success in writing is to let one's muscles get flabby. Many famous authors have had original theories as to what helps the muse. Shelley used to lie on the hearth rug with his head close to the blaze; Schiller kept his desk drawer full of decaying apples; Balzac drank bowls of black coffee; H. G. Wells is said to believe that the first essential is to ruin one's digestion. Mr. Dwyer, however, says the first thing is to abolish the old bosh about a sound mind requiring the body of an expert athlete. "I used to be a first-class amateur prize fighter," he said. "My muscles were as hard as iron, and I acted as sparring partner for the Australian lightweight champion. But I found that for all my perfect physical trim I couldn't write half a column in the evenings. I gave up the body culture and decided to cultivate my writing instead. So the first thing to do if you want to be a great writer is to let your muscles get flabby and grow a bay window. Look at Chesterton."

HOW THE GREAT BLUFFER DIED

Man Who Was Born With Soul of a Conquerer in Body of Postage Stamp Collector.

Kansas City Star: "In the village where I was born," stated the Old Codger, "there lived, so long ago that you can pick a squabble with me any time by trying to pin me down to the exact date, a man who had nearly everybody bluffed and kept them that way the most of his life. He was under-sized and puny, stoop-shouldered and white-haired, and usually spoke in an apologetic manner, but despite all that his neighbors were firmly convinced that he was a dangerous gent to fool with.

"His name was Simon Bagley, which didn't sound especially savage. Strangers, seeing him poking around in his little second-hand store like a discouraged spider in a wornout webb, would never have suspected him of being as dangerous as a wild Malay, but nearly anybody who knew him would have told 'em that he was. If you wanted any of his goods you'd probably have to rustle him out of a back corner or from behind something, and then he'd make excuses for putting you to the trouble. But once in every six months or so he would begin drinking, quietly and by himself. It generally took him a week to become properly saturated, but when at length it was accomplished and he was lit up like a cathedral the change in him was amazing. His paltry form would stiffen, his stooping shoulders straighten up, his chest swell out and his voice unfold. He would yank a big box out in front of his little store, mount it, and bellow forth heroic poetry in a voice as sonorous as the roar of a torpedo.

"He made a specialty of the raging old poems of the days of yore when every poet who thought anything of himself wrote by main strength and in tones of thunder. It was sort of stimulating to see little old Simon Bagley on his box with his white hair blowing in the wind and hear him hurling defiance to despots and all such folks. It was almost a liberal education, too, to listen to his resonant renditions of 'Marco Bozzaris' and about the time that 'Freedom shrieked when Kosciusko fell' and concerning the 'Polish Boy,' young feller, you recollect, who had the idea that nobody could hold him, and also hear him hist during the 'Battle of Waterloo' that the deep sound was not the wynd but it was, it was the cannon's opening r-o-a-r-r-r- He would thus continue until he finally became exhausted, and then he'd slump into his second-hand store and be sick for a week.

"As near as I can remember, nobody undertook to interfere with these occasional festivals of his. They felt that it would be safer to let him roar in peace. Nobody knew what he would do if he was interrupted, but the prevailing impression was that he would do something serious. Then, too, a newspaper man from the city wrote up one of his recitals and the account was copied all over the country, and as that was the only notice the outside world had ever taken of our village everybody naturally felt grateful to Mr. Bagley, as well as afraid of him. So in the course of time he became a feared and respected institution, which was proper enough, for Daniel Webster himself got drunker and roared louder than our esteemed townsman when he unbelted. On these accounts he gave our prosperous little city a warlike and literary atmosphere, the same as having Jesse James and Bertha M. Clay in our midst would have done.

"Doubtless I'd have been fooled along with all the rest by his bluff if it had not been for an uncle of mine who had been a boy along with Simon Bagley in their old home hamlet. According to Uncle Dud, the real reason back of Simon's behavior was that while in his sober moments he was what Nature intended him to be, a poor, little skinny coward, when under the influence of whisky he temporarily threw off the handicaps that fate had loaded on him and became for a brief season what he had hungered and thirsted all his life to be. It was then that he dropped his timidity and humility, his cowardice and weakness, and tore loose and went on the rampage with the heroes of old. All his gray life, as Uncle Dud explained it to me, Simon Bagley had aspired to be brave and bold and valiant, but never had the necessary nerve. He hadn't, said Uncle Dud, have the physic—meaning 'fea-zeek,' I judged. He was born with the soul of a conqueror in the body of a postage stamp collector. In his dreams he was a sir knight in armor bright, and when he woke up he was a second-hand dealer headed for the poorhouse. His ambition was ever with him, and when he couldn't suppress it any longer he blew up and for a little while blazed and thundered his rabid old war songs, and was for the time being what he had always yearned to be. Many of us have something of much the same sort carefully concealed about our persons, but as a rule we don't go as far as did friend Bagley, which is very likely the reason we don't make our bluffs stick as well as he did.

"Well, as time went on and he grew older his attacks naturally hurt him worse, and at last came an occasion when the doctor warned him that just about one more able-bodied hooraw would finish him. So after that for a year or so the worst he did was to soak up about half way and stay in his store and talk to himself. People began to think that he would never erupt again and the little boys took to making snoots at him behind his back. Then one evening when he had grown pretty feeble he was taking one of his solitary walks down the jack-oak lane listening to the birds twittering and watching the low-hanging sun getting ready to go out of business over the western end of the lane. Bye-and-bye there was a snap off to one side as if somebody had popped a whip, then another, and presently two more, and a sort of humming, groaning mutter. And then a poor simpleton by the name of Smith tumbled over the fence out of the woods and into the lane, down toward the sunset, and came flapping down the road with his mouth open. He fell down a couple of times and then came stumbling forward and collapsed in the dust and crawled toward Bagley and grabbed him around the knees, and lay there panting like a lizard with his foolish face in the dust betwixt old Bagley's feet.

"There had been a crime committed and as the simpleton was handy a mob put chase to him. People are pretty particular about some things, but when a party of our best citizens set out to lynch somebody if they can't catch the right feller most anybody who ain't armed or influential will do. The mob nearly filled the lane after they had swarmed over the fence, and they had guns and a rope or two and one thing and another. They rolled up to Bagley and the simpleton like a tidal wave and they rolled back again like another tidal wave. The little old man looked at them as they came on, and then looked quickly over his shoulder, and then down at the poor simpleton sprawling in the dust.

"His bent old form straightened up and he took off his hat. He held up one thin hand commandingly and unfolded that great voice of his and told them to stop. And remembering what a dangerous man he had always been, they stopped and stood while he roared. He broke all of his previous records, for this time he was shouting for a human life. No member of that mob was ever able to tell afterward what he said. He blazed at them with words and lines from all the ferocious old poems he had ever recited in the past. He beat them back with selections from all the famous orators he had ever known. He raged and thundered denunciations, defiance and vituperation, all mixed and mingled and as furiously and frenziedly and fast as he could talk. He put his foot on the simpleton's neck in his fury and stood like St. George, or some such feller, tromping the dragon, and ground him farther down into the dust, and didn't seem to know it and neither did the simpleton. And talking against time, he stood the mob off until the sheriff came charging up with the word that the poor simpleton had nothing to do with the matter.

"Then old Simon Bagley hushed his harangue and stood looking kinda peculiar for a minute, and seemed to sort of sink into himself. Then he fell forward on the simpleton, who was trying to get up, and tumbled him into the dust again. Thus Simon Bagley died. I have always held that he broke his heart trying to fight off his cowardice and for once in his life actually be what he had always wanted to be. But the doctor gave it a Latin name."

WHO'LL JOIN S. A. U. D. G.?

Aim of the Projected Society Is to Protect Public Men From the Long Series of Formal Banquets.

Roy L. McCardell in the New York World: A society for the Abolition of Useless Dinner Giving.

Why not? I'm for it.

There's the S. P. C. A. and the S. P. U. G. and the A. I. C. P. all doing good and needed work. Let's have the S. A. U. D. G.

For what purpose?

In three December weeks in New York more than fifty great public banquets have been given, are being given, will be given.

It is estimated that more than twenty thousand more or less merry gentlemen will let nothing them dismay in the way of eating, drinking and after-dinner oratory and will cheerfully pay out the estimated cost of $150,000 for the big eats the while they wail of hard times and talk mournfully of the ubiquitous recrudescence of that famous veteran, old General Depression.

No One Would Need Go Hungary.

But let not the impoverished rich in general, or the broker who is broke in particular, be wall further. At this season of the year no wealthy man of good moral character whose evening attire is not too warm or ragged need go without a good dinner, especially if he has any ability as an after-dinner speaker.

There are fifty great banquets to attend and there are several hundred lodge and club dinners, "beefsteaks" and "eating rackets" generally going on all over the Great New York, from Brooklyn to the Bronx, every night, any night, during this month of the big eats—December.

Now will Job Hedges, Dr. Talcott Williams, Patrick Francis Murphy, Mayor-elect Mitchel, Augustus Thomas, George F. Kunz, Joseph H. Choate, ex-President Taft, Hon. William J. Bryan, McAneny, Prendergast, Whitman and all the other sure-fire orators have speakers' sore throat until New Year's sees the turn of the tide after every hotel, every public catering house, every club and in many mansions there will be eating and drinking Gargantuan and galore!

And the expense of these dinners is no small item. Two dollars a plate is the minimum. That's what they call people's dinner. Seven dollars a plate in the average, ten a plate is not unusual, while New York's three annual sheriff's dinners cost $50 a plate.

What You Get for the Money.

The diner regular can tell by one glance at the menu what the dinner cost. A $2 dinner calls for six French names of food. A $5 dinner for eight and you buy your own champagne. A $7 dinner has nine French dishes and a quart of wine to every four persons. A $10 dinner means a bottle of wine to every three persons, better cigars and a souvenir to take home to your wife.

But pity the poor "prominent citizen" who cannot refuse for business, social or political reasons to accept invitations to these great metropolitan potlaches night after night and week after week during the New York banquet season.

A sure fatality that attends success in our city is that one gets invited and must attend so many gorgeous gorges.

Look at our mayor-elect! In the fifty great banquets advertised and noticeable (and there may be a hundred more as costly slipping by on the quiet), the Hon. John Purroy Mitchel has signified he will attend one-third of them! Heaven help him and many other notable victims of French cookery served at buzzer signals by drilled lackeys—food that was cooked early in the day and kept warm for the dinner.

All big banquets are alike in that the food is costly and without savor and the speeches generally tiresome and stupid. It is the season of French seasoning in food and hem and haw in speaking.

Same Old Stories.

Around and around and around "our distinguished guests" must go to listen to "our distinguished speakers." Our distinguished guests know the stories of our distinguished speakers as well as they know the menu. The speeches sound the same and the dishes all taste the same, except the bisque of whatever it may be that is served as soup.

If pink coloring matter is put in it it is scheduled as "bisque of lobster." If it is servel straight it may be bisque of anything the chef chooses to call it. The difference in flavor is only marked as between the taste of a Swiss waiter's thumb whether it be gloved or ungloved.

But reform is creeping into our intolerable banqueting system. Not in the food, for that reform would necessitate giving brains to hotel cooks, and all that hotel cooks know of brains is that they can be cooked a hundred different ways without having any taste to them.

The Airbrake Signal.

The reform I speak of is an automatic airbrake signal at the speakers' table. It was first introduced at the dinner of the safety and sanitation conference. At this dinner a green light was flashed when it was within two minutes of the end of the speaker's allotted time. At the exact end the windsmith was flagged with a red light.

It was a great success, but the time limit was shortened without notice to some prosy orators until the flashing of red and green made the speakers look like a kinemacolor movie that is "ringing."

This new signal light speaker's safety system should be installed at once at every big banquet. Any windjammer who runs over signals should be promptly shot by a concealed sharpshooter in the ladies' gallery.

Pending the installation of the colored signal safety shut-off, those addicted to the banquet habit who have resolved to eschew both dyspepsia and boredom may still enjoy big New York banquets if they will get something to eat before they attend and leave before the speaking commences.

There is a greater field in New York City at this writing for the S. A. U. D. G. (Society for the Abolition of Useless Dinner Giving) than there is for lots of the other initialed organizations.

WHEN a dealer offers you a substitute for the article you want, tell him what you think of him.

Tell him he is dishonest. Then stop dealing at his store and acquaint your friends with his slippery practices. The trouble with most of us is, we treat the substitution evil far too lightly. Substitution is an increasing menace. It is dangerous, because it destroys the ideals of young clerks starting out in life and gives them a wrong conception of business ethics. In nine cases out of ten they want to tell the truth, but the unscrupulous shopkeeper insists on deceit for the few dollars extra it puts into his till. Or maybe it's an intermediate boss, who wants to make a showing. The merchant himself may be guiltless. Refuse "substitutes" or "just as goods" and you'll help to quickly abolish this form of deception.

When you ask for an article advertised in this paper, be sure and get it. If the dealer says he is "just out of it," tell him he can get it from his jobber. If he is an accommodating dealer, he will get it for you. If he is not accommodating, try the next dealer.

Patronize dealers who give you what you ask for.

WHAT OTHER CITIES ARE DOING

A PROCESS has been discovered which enables a revenue to be secured from discarded tin cans which form such a large part of the city refuse. What to do with tin cans has been a great problem. A chemist from one of the schools of technology has discovered a process by which tin cans can be made to yield iron, resin and solder. In one city a private corporation has installed this method by securing these bi-products and selling them at a fair profit. This will make it possible for cities owning their garbage plants to install this feature that will dispose of tin cans at a profit. Garbage in most cities is being turned into fertilizer, and ashes are made to yield soap and lye, so that the problem of garbage disposal is one that has become a revenue producing feature, provided an up-to-date plant is maintained. In one city a private corporation declares 18 per cent dividends on a proposition that disposes of garbage in a scientific way; this is in addition to paying the city for the privilege.

Had the city awarded a contract to a private corporation to take over the garbage collection of the city, as was proposed, the company would undoubtedly have utilized to advantage the materials which are now wasted. The city might do well to look into this feature of garbage collection. It has an incinerator, where garbage and ashes are delivered.

EXIST WITHOUT WATER.

London letter in the Providence Journal: Recent investigations on the little known and rarely visited Henderson or Elizabeth island have led to the discovery of a complete and curious little colony of zoological total abstainers. The island, which is uninhabited, is situated about 120 miles northeast of Pitcairn island—itself sufficiently out of the way, but famous as the home of the descendants of the mutineers of the Bounty.

There is no water on it, not even a swamp, and it is only six miles long, yet it harbors quite a menagerie—a kind of rat, a lizard, described as very abundant, and no fewer than four kinds of birds, all peculiar to the island. There are a fruit pigeon, a lorikeet or honey-eating parrakeet, a little rail or crake and a reed warbler. The strange thing about the inmates of this curious little natural aviary of coral rock, surrounded by waves instead of wires, is that two of its inmates are birds, one especially associated with water—the rail and the warbler.

Yet it is evident that these, like the rest, must do without drinking, unless the dew can slake their thirst, or they have acquired toleration for sea water as a beverage. A similar case is that of the peculiar and very handsome wild goose of the Sandwich islands, which frequents the barren lava flows, where there is no permanent water supply, but it feeds on juicy food, such as sow thistle and berries. Here we get an even more squatic type of bird marooned on dry land, but the Sandwich island goose takes to water readily enough when kept in Europe.

"As to the existence of animals without drinking, it is well known that many have the power of sustaining themselves in this way, and the phenomenon occurs irrespective of their diet being vegetable or animal, at any rate in some cases," says the Standard in commenting upon Henderson island life. "Rabbits, as is well known, can live without water if given plenty of salad and so can parrots if supplied with sop; yet both will drink on occasions. So will hawks and owls, but these birds can subsist for long periods without drinking in captivity; in fact, under the old management at the zoo the owls never had any water given them. Neither did the curious hornbills, which are by nature chiefly fruit eaters, receive any. They have the opportunity of drinking now, but do it so awkwardly trying to peck up the water with their great bills that the habit hardly seems natural.

"It has been recorded that a great bustard lived for months in captivity, without drinking, although the species does drink occasionally; and it may be suggested that the bustards are a family of birds accustomed to frequent dry places and hence have acquired a power of abstinence.

"But, setting aside the fact that the great bustard is often found near water, this explanation would not serve in the case of parrots and hornbills, which are as a rule forest birds; moreover the family of birds most especially associated with desert conditions—the sand grouse—do not show any tendency to dispense with drinking. Indeed they are very dependent on water, flying to their drinking places twice daily, and watering their chicks by soaking their own under plumage in the fluid, which is afterward sucked off by the young.

"The camel itself, proverbial for its adaptation to the desert and endurance of thirst, is equally in need of drinking, although on account of the water storage arrangements in its stomach it can do without a fresh supply for days. Yet its endurance of thirst can be maintained only about twice as long as that of the horse kept under similar conditions; and as an abstainer it cannot compare with the giraffe, the eland and some of the other antelopes which can subsist without drinking for months at a time and probably indefinitely.

"Ability to exist without drinking is evidently a physiological peculiarity of certain species of families of animals, and it is obvious from what has been said above that this power is capriciously distributed and has no necessary connection with the creature's environment, though under the pressure of circumstances it may become invaluable."

UNCONSCIOUS HUMOR.

Indianapolis News: When the reform bill was being put through the British parliament in 1867 the clerk of the house intimated that an amendment had been handed in, the writing of which was so illegible that he could not say what it was about or who had written it. It was discovered that Lord Lyttleton was the author and that the amendment proposed the disfranchisement of all persons unable to write!

DIRTY KINGS.

Indianapolis News: King Charles II of England, dressed shabbily, and Louis XIV of France, disliked to wash, a little cold cream applied with a handkerchief being the chief tribute he paid to cleanliness. In St. Simon's detailed account of the king's day, from the passing of his periwig through the closed curtains in the morning to the ceremonial placing of the night shirt over his shoulders when he retired, there is no mention of any ablutions.

MARKET UP AT FINISH

Wheat Advances Sharply at Close, Following Bulge at Chicago.

Flaxseed Again Slightly Down, With Trading in Limited Volume.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 20.—The wheat market bulged sharply at the finish following strength at Chicago. May wheat closed ⅝c up; July ⅝c up and September ½c up. May durum closed ¼c up and July ¼c up.

Oats closed ⅜c up at 40c for on the track and 39¾c for to arrive.

Rye closed unchanged at 59½@61½c, and barley unchanged at 55@59c for choice stuff.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed at 38¾@38¾c, and July at 38⅝c.

Puts on Minneapolis July wheat closed at 93⅝c bid, and calls at 95¼c asked.

The wheat market became more of a two-sided affair today, and a slightly easier tendency developed. The advance during the last couple of days as a result of advices of damages through the Hessian fly, was considered to have been too rapid by many in the trade. Furthermore, Price Current was out with a review of the situation in the principal spring wheat producing states, predicting an increase in yield of 72,616,000 bu over last year in the territory covered. There were also advices at hand from points in Missouri claiming that the damage through flies had been overdrawn, and some elevator interests in Kansas denied that there had been any deterioration in the crop in the principal wheat producing sections of that state.

The Armour interests who had been heavy buyers of September wheat at Chicago were alleged to be liberal sellers today, and J. A. Patten was reported to be lightening his load although he was out with a statement predicting that wheat might easily sell up 10 cents a bu.

There was a falling off in the Eastern and export inquiry on the local board, though some foreign business was advised to have been worked. Taken on the whole, trade was on the quiet order during the first three hours of the session, operators preferring to hold back awaiting developments.

At Winnipeg, exporters advised a keen demand for No. 2 northern. The crop situation and the early outlook was said to be favorable throughout the three Canadian provinces.

Liverpool closed higher on the bullish American news and unfavorable European crop reports. A good general demand was noted.

Receipts at American primary markets were larger, showing an increase of 293,000 bu over last year. As a result of the strong situation in the May option wheat is being rushed into Chicago, arrivals there today amounting to 204 cars, compared with only thirty last year. Duluth receipts were forty-five cars against fifty-four a year ago.

May wheat opened unchanged at 95⅞c and gained ¼c up to the final hour. July opened unchanged at 96⅛c, and weakened ¼c, and the September option opened unchanged at 90¾c and weakened fractionally. There was only light business in durum. The July option opened unchanged at 90¾c and held there.

Flaxseed Slightly Off.

Trading in flaxseed was extremely limited and was confined mainly to small lots. Buyers and sellers each assumed a waiting attitude. Final figures showed small declines with the close nearly at the big points.

The foreign markets were again irregular, Buenos Aires closing ¾c off, Antwerp unchanged, and London ⅞c up.

May flax opened unchanged at $1.56½ and closed ⅛c off at $1.56 bid; July opened unchanged at $1.58 and closed ¼c off at $1.57⅞; September closed at $1.59¾ nominally, and October unchanged at $1.57½. Trading was confined to the May and July options.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed at $1.36½ bid and July at $1.38¾ bid.

MARKET GOSSIP.

The Minneapolis cash market was steady with the demand fair. One northern blue stem sold at 2½@4c over July and velvet chaff at 2c over July. Fair trade was dull as buyers did not follow the advance, except for very small lots for nearby needs.

Cash one northern wheat sold there at from 96c to 98c and No. 2 northern at from 94c to 96c.

B. W. Snow wired Baker's Chicago correspondent: "Counties immediately south of the river from St. Louis to Kansas City all show a lowered wheat prospect during the last week. Much, especially near Kansas City, still promises high, but a great deal more begins to show thin and ragged. A considerable percentage of the plant seems to die off before heading, leaving the fields thin where the stand was originally heavy. This is characteristic of the present fly attack, the plant dying before the head comes out. A month ago this section promised a record-breaking yield. It will now do well to reach an average. With fly damage showing so severe and early, it is reasonable to look for increasing disappointment as harvest approaches. The surface is dry and hard and oats are doing poorly and beginning to turn yellow. Corn "is well up, clean and well worked."

Broomhall's special Russian news says: "Weather, on the whole, since spring seeding has not been favorable with the temperature below normal and an absence of needed rainfall. Latest advices report hot dry weather in the Southwest and it is droughty in the Azoff. Some authorities are contending that the interior reserves are not as large as the world has been led to believe, and this is emphasized by the slowness of marketing, with prices very attractive to sellers. Arrivals at seaports show an increase, but freights are low as many steamers are without available cargoes. Holders are still firm."

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat—Steady American cables yesterday and less favorable crop advices, together with firmness in Buenos Aires and less favorable European weather reports, stimulated shorts to cover, which resulted in an opening advance of ⅜d. Following the opening the market was dull, but steadily supported, with firmness in American winter offers, and a hardening tendency of offers from all exporting countries. The spot market was firm and there was an improved demand for cargoes. At 1:30 p. m., the undertone was steady to firm, ¼@⅜d higher."

* * *

"Corn—Steady American cables and the closing strength in Buenos Aires yesterday prompted shorts to cover at the opening here and values were ⅜@⅝d higher. Following the opening, there was a further advance of ⅛@¼d with very few La Plata offers and strength in spot here. Stocks are decreasing rapidly and prospects for early free shipment from Argentina are dubious. At 1:30 p. m., the undertone was strong, ⅝@¾d higher."

Buenos Aires wheat closed firm today with shorts covering on a good export inquiry and higher foreign bids. Corn was strong with shorts covering. Arrivals are light, the quality is poor, and there is much difficulty in filling contracts.

Price Current says: "There are persistent reports of damage to winter wheat by Hessian fly in Illinois and Missouri and Kansas, but the extent of the damage is uncertain. We do not believe the total production has been materially reduced as yet, although the situation appears to be somewhat critical. We estimate the winter wheat crop of the principal surplus producing states as follows in bushels Ohio, 46,276,000; Illinois, 49,754,000; Iowa, 8,878,000; Kansas, 114,722,000; Indiana, 45,384,000; Missouri, 43,363,000 Nebraska, 63,954,000; Oklahoma, 30,344,000; total, 461,635,000 bu.

"The same states last year had a crop of 329,019,000 bu, making the prospective increase 72,616,000 bu.

Parker Paine received the following from Winnipeg: "J. Martin wires us from Estvan, Sask., wheat conditions from Winnipeg to Estevan, as fine as I ever saw at this time of the year. There is plenty of rain and there are first-class prospects for a very good crop."

STOCKS ARE VERY DULL

United States Steel and Coppers Lose Substantial Fractions.

Time Money Shows Relaxation, But Exchange Continues Strong.

New York, May 20.—An utter lack of initiative was reflected in today's early dealings on the stock exchange. Price changes were quite evenly divided as to gains and losses, few of which exceeded fractions, save in Missouri Pacific and Chesapeake & Ohio, which declined a full point.

The professional element, whose operations made up the great bulk of the present trading, seemed disposed to await the outcome of impending developments, such as Mexican mediation, crop prospects and general conditions, before assuming a more definite attitude.

For the balance of the morning session the market lapsed into extreme dullness, business dwindling to slender proportions, New Haven, Consolidated Gas and Peoples' Gas developed heaviness, the former declining 1½.

Selling of New Haven was believed to be of bear origin and was associated with the investigation now in progress at Washington. Other stocks displayed a tendency to yield, United States Steel and the coppers losing substantial fractions. Among the high priced specialties American Tobacco was conspicuous for a 3 point drop.

Bonds were irregular.

Further weakness ensued in the afternoon but the general market was at a standstill with prices ½ to1½ below yesterday's close. Weakness of bonds was a striking feature, Western Maryland is falling abruptly 5 points to 96. Missouri 4s and 5s, as well as Southern Pacific convertibles, also are under pressure. Time money showed some relaxation but exchange continued strong, cables being quoted at $4.8595 and demand at $4.8650, which implies further gold exports. Selling of Western Maryland and Steel was supported by Europe.

The market closed irregular today. Except for increased weakness in certain stocks, due to more or less specific reasons, the list inclined to recover. Business continued in very light volume, however, and left no doubt of its professional character.

COPPER STOCKS BECOME INACTIVE

Realizing Develops in Some Issues and Day's Close Is Lower.

The volumne of trading in mining stocks at Boston fell off today after nearly a week of activity. The market was called upon to absorb considerable realizing sales in a few issues that had been especially active of late. Small declines were general through the list.

Butte & Superior closed 38 cents off at $40; Alaska Gold fractionally off at $28.50; Granby 38 cents off at $82.12½. North Butte unchanged at $27; Greene-Cananea 50 cents down at $32.75 and Amalgamated Copper a shade off at $73.12, and East Butte 50 cents up at $10.75.

In the Duluth curb list, Keating sold at $1.63 and Calumet & Sonora at 71 cents.

Paine, Webber & Co., had the following from Boston: "The action of the market during the past ten days makes us believe we are approaching a broader and higher period of trading."

* * *

It is officially intimated that the dividend will not be paid on old Butte & Superior $5 par stock. The old stock should be exchanged for new, the $10 par issue before June 12.

EIGHT ARRESTS FOR BREAKING LIQUOR LAWS

Eight arrests were made by the Superior police yesterday on warrants charging violations of the liquor laws. Two of those arrested were for operating a "blind pig." The two taken on the latter charge are Sam Suey, proprietor of a chop suey joint at 1307 Tower avenue, and Joe Nowitski, 1806 Third street. The other six were James Morrison, Mrs. J. A. Jennings, Theodore Burglaff, Walter Huff, Arthur Flancher and M. B. Timlin, all of whom are proprietors of saloons who sold liquor on Sunday.

PREDICT END OF THE SEGREGATED DISTRICT

The segregated district of Superior is doomed to become a thing of the past in the belief of citizens of Superior as well as habitues of the district, since the order prohibiting the sale of beer, and liquors, as well as dancing and music went into effect. The order prohibiting liquor, dancing and music was put into effect yesterday by Chief of Police McKinnon.

It is said that the women are already begining to make preparations to move out of the district. A strict watch is being kept by the police to see that the order is being enforced.

Held for Burglary.

Three men were arrested yesterday afternoon by the Superior police charged with being implicated in burglaries which took place Monday night. The men being held are Emil Lasander, Albert Berg and John Smith. They are believed to have been the men who entered Peter Korby's restaurant, 315 Tower avenue, and stole $25 in cash from a dresser drawer and $10 from a cash register.

Thieves also entered Joe Backstrom's saloon, 1101 Fifth street and stole a quantity of liquor. A box car on the Great Northern railroad near the Twohy-Elmon mercantile plant was entered and considerable merchandise stolen.

AN INTERROGATION POINT.

Los Angeles Times: A Philadelphia reporter was questioning Treasurer Fahnestock over-zealously about the mooted billion-dollar blanket mortgage of the Pennsylvania railroad.

"Some of your questions," Mr. Fahnestock said, with a smile, "remind me in their zeal of the new flagman.

"A new flagman, the first week of his job, was much exercised on account of the delay of the Green Bullet, the mile-a-minute flyer.

"Finally, forty minutes late, the Bullet came tearing along at eighty miles an hour.

"The flagman rushed out with a red flag. The Green Bullet stopped with a grinding of brakes and a tearing up of ties and roadbed. The conductor lea

POLLUTION OF THE LAKES

Subject of Sewage Considered at Water Plant Managers' Meeting.

Ultra-Violet Rays as Means of Purifying the Water.

D. H. Reed, manager of the water and light department, and E. W. Kelly, department engineer, have returned from Philadelphia, where they attended the thirty-fourth annual convention of the American Water Works association.

Manager Reed said that many interesting and instructive papers were read, part of them being generally discussed on the floor of the convention. One of them was on sewage pollution of boundary waters. It was written by Dr. Allen J. McLaughlin, who recently had charge of a government investigation to ascertain the condition of the water in the Great Lakes. He devoted himself to the situation on the lower lakes. Duluth was not specifically mentioned, strongly indicating that the contamination at the head of Lake Superior is so slight as to be on minor importance at this time.

Another paper in which the Duluth delegates were interested was on the purification of water by ultra-violet rays. The local supply is now treated with a hypochlorite plant and a few complaints have been received that it leaves a slight taste. The use of ultra-violet rays would dispense entirely with chemical treatment but would be about three times as expensive.

Manager Reed is planning to write several comments upon some of the papers which were read, as well as other managers of water departments in various parts of the country. These will be printed in the official journal. The convention took no action relative to charges for fire service connections but the president will probably appoint a committee to investigate the subject and report at the next meeting.

LITTLE VESSEL CHARTERING DONE

Steamer McWilliams Takes Cargo of Bonded Oats—Others Loading.

The steamer J. J. McWilliams has completed the loading of 240,000 bushels of bonded oats at the Globe elevator and the following boats are loading today: Maruba, 100,000 bushels of flaxseed; George C. Howe, 100,000 bushels of spring wheat; Carnegie, 100,000 bushels of bonded barley, and the Wallace, 13,000 bushels of bonded barley.

With the comparatively small supplies of spring wheat remaining in the local elevators, vessel chartering is quiet. Considerable bonded oats have, however, gone out during the last two days. The rate on wheat remains at 1 cent a bushel to Buffalo.

UNDERTONE IS STRONGER

Vessel Owners Hope for Much Better Conditions on Lakes.

There is beginning to be felt a much stronger undertone in marine circles due to the report that members of the interstate commerce commission favor at least a part of the 5-cent advance requested by the Eastern railways and that an early decision may be given. Duluth marine men today expressed the belief that capacity business would be the order of things on the lakes by June 10 and that the remainder of the season from that date would be at high tide.

The condition at this time is still slow and action from the commission is anxiously awaited. After the decision has been rendered it is thought that the railroads will immediately announce their policy for the season, and that business will be regulated accordingly. The orders for steel rails and equipment have been very light so far this season, and this has caused depression in the ore situation.

Coal carriers are finding business so poor in the East that vessels are willing to wait for cargoes. Grain carriers are getting one cent but only when owners fail to get other cargoes. The congestion at Buffalo is said to be greatly relieved from a week ago.

RELIEF SENT TO WRECKED STEAMER

Amazon Is Fast Ashore on Cheboygan Point, Lake Huron.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The tug Schenck left with the lighter Reliance this morning to work on the steamer Amazon which is ashore on Cheboygan Point, Lake Huron. Vessels are experiencing some delay in the river on account of smoke from forest fires.

ANNOUNCES CHANGES IN LIGHTING SERVICE.

The following changes in the coastwise lighting service are announced by Capt. Albert Swenson, chief of the Head of the Lakes division of the hydrographic office:

"The color of the structure at Superior bay entrance, including the Superior entry north breakwater light and the Superior entry inner north pier head light, will be changed from white to black. Change effective May 1. Buoys have been replaced for the navigation season in Lake Michigan and the Straits of Mackinac.

"In St. Mary's river, Lake Michigan, the color of the Vidal shoals channel range front light structure has been changed from white to black. The lower half of the tower is black, with a vertical white stripe seven feet wide on the front. Gros Cap reef gas and bell buoy No. 18 will be discontinued permanently, starting May 1.

"In the Straits of Mackinac, Lake Michigan, the fog signal at the White Shoal light station has been changed from a six-inch to a ten-inch air whistle. Lights and fog signals have been re-established in the Straits of Mackinac and Grand Traverse bay for the season of navigation."

Railroads

DECISION IS OF INTEREST HERE

"Sand and Gravel" Case Will Affect New Duluth Switching Dispute.

The traffic department of the Commercial club is awaiting with much interest the final outcome of a rate case known as the "sand and gravel case," recently decided by the state railroad and warehouse commission and appealed to the district court of Hennepin county by the Great Northern road, unsuccessful defendants in the action.

The cause for the interest locally is that the traffic department is about to bring to the attention of the state railroad and warehouse commission a case for New Duluth shippers and manufacturing plants, involving much of the same question as the sand and gravel case. The final decision in that case will be of value to the traffic department.

The case involves the matter of switching charges. Recently the various roads inaugurated changes in switching charges which, it is claimed, are unfair and inequitable. The Washed Sand & Gravel company of Minneapolis entered complaint with the railroad and warehouse commission that the Great Northern road was discriminating against it in the matter of switching charges in this: That the regular charges within the confines of the city limits were at the usual rate of $5 per car to all parts of the city, an excessive rate had been put on for switching to a point known as Henry's Spur, which was 400 feet outside of the city limits. Very recently the commission found for the complainant and ordered the railroad to restore the $5 rate for switching to Henry's Spur. The road, as has been said, has appealed to the courts.

The Duluth case is slightly different, for the reason that all points involved are within the city limits, the Northern Pacific simply adding charges between the center of the city and New Duluth because of the distance away. But points that will be settled in the appealed case will be of value, and will have a decided effect on the Duluth case.

J. H. Reagan Ill.

Max S. Smith, commercial agent of the Lehigh Valley road, with headquarters at Minneapolis, is making his "semi-centennial" visit to Duluth. At least that is what Traffic Commissioner G. Roy Hall says it seems like. Mr. Smith brings the news that J. H. Reagan of St. Paul, agent of the same road, is very ill at a hospital in St. Paul with inflammatory rheumatism.

Mr. Reagan, who is very well known here, made his first trip here in his new position on the day of the big storm last month when so many lives were lost. He caught cold here and on going home grippe developed, later turning into his present affliction. Much sympathy is felt for him here, and his early recovery is hoped for.

MEASURING A RIVER.

St. Nicholas: An engineer found himself summoned one day into the presence of his commander. Napoleon stood on the bank of a wide river gazing across to where the enemy had planted batteries, which he desired to attack with artillery.

"How wide is that river?" was the question put to the engineer.

"Let me get my instruments," was the reply as he turned to go for them.

"I must know at once," the emperor insisted.

The engineer went down to the level bank of the river, and, standing erect, gradually bent his head forward till the edge of his hat brim just touched the line from his eyes to the water line at the opposite bank of the river. Then, keeping his head bent as it was, he wheeled a quarter turn till his eyes looked along the hat brim and met the land at a point on the same side of the river on which he stood. Here he noted a rock or tree near the point at which his eyes met the ground, and calling a soldier, directed that a stake be driven near that point, as he should direct. Then, by motioning just where to drive the stake, he fixed the point at which the line from hat brim and eye reached the bank. Turning to the emperor, "your majesty," said he, "the distance from where I stand to the stake is the width of the river."

And so it was, as you can readily see. If the emperor did not promote that officer—why, then the story does not end as it should!

AS AN OLD MONK SEES IT

We Need Renewed Family Life Most, Says Abbot Gasquet—Fifty Years of Monastic Living Has Not Narrowed This Catholic's Social Vews.

New York World: Abbot Gasquet, monk and historian, acknowledged to be one of the world's greatest students of the Bible, has no delusions about life and living. At 69 he is a real monk and a sane one. It might be expected that half a century of living under the medieval system of monasticism would contract a man's view and make him at best a narrow judge of the times in which he lives, an observer obviously observant from one point of view. But this is not true of this great English Benedictine, now delivering a series of historical sermons in the Advent series at St. Patrick's cathedral. He is neither a pessimist nor a tiresome optimist. He is human and has caught with genuine sincerity the human impulses of the public and all that that means.

Result: He loves all the world and all the peoples in it; he looks for a really better world, a day when there shall be no charity that pauperizes, when the toiler will get that justice which is his, the abbot believes, as a co-partner of capital. This scholar claps his hands applaudingly at the multitude of fresh, round-faced lassies throwing themselves into the marts of business, and seriously asks: "Why shouldn't they?" He frankly admits that woman has been too long the underdog of humanity; that true Christian ideals demand she be given the same opportunities and the same advantages as those in the way of man.

Society's Greatest Need.

"What do I think is one of the great needs, the most useful for all mankind at this moment?" repeated the abbot. "Well, I am afraid you will think me an old foggy, a monk out of touch with the spirit of the age. But I must be as frank as you wish me to be. Candidly, then, what society needs most at this time is a general re-establishment of family life. The thought is particularly applicable to our large cities, to London and New York and Paris and other centers. It is applicable alike to rich and poor of all creeds. Please do not think that my monastic training and manner of living have made me indifferent to the sweet things in life which every man and woman and child born into the world ought to enjoy with a natural birthright.

"The point I have in mind is this: Our family life should be gradually but unmistakably guided into its natural anchorage—simplicity. I know you are going to laugh at me, but I ask you how many families in this city, in London and elsewhere, keep up the family standard that existed, say fifty years ago? How many families preserve the family unit, the family spirit as it then existed? No, we must be candid with ourselves. We don't say grace before meals as was done then; we don't assemble as a unit, when night falls, to offer up a prayer in common. Our apartment life in great centers has crushed out the simplicity of genuine family life."

From the family life we passed to a consideration of the material things so obviously necessary for the preservation of any section of society.

"Yes, we must be frank here as well as there," said the abbot. "The disturbance of the material side of life cannot be overlooked. The man who toils has not been given what you Americans call a square deal. He has to bear his fair share of the burdens of life with his wealthier neighbor. He has to keep or try to keep a family life and meet other obligations which society has imposed on him. It seems to me to be vitally important that an end should soon come to the unspeakably wretched remuneration for labor, called salaries.

Capital and Labor Partners.

"Personally I have come to the conclusion that one way to solve the question is by a co-partnership agreement between capital and labor. I know of a great firm in England that is experimenting along those lines and its members assure me that it is working fairly well. To be brief, the laborer is paid a given sum by the day or the week and the owner or investor demands a given sum of interest on his investment over and above the legitimate expenses and the salaries paid the workers. What is left over and above this dual arrangement is divided annually between the workers and the capitalists or investors.

"That seems to me to be a fair understanding, provided the worker is protected in the first instance by a real living wage. Any other agreement would be unjust."

From man as a toiler the abbot passed to the new woman.

"Harm in womankind competing with her opposite? Not at all," he exclaimed. "Why shouldn't a woman blaze a path for her own self? Has she not been trampled under foot in ages past and in the times we live? Has she not had to bear burdens which men and Nature impose on her? Let me be equally frank here; and mind you, you are getting the thoughts of an old monk. Women have been slaves under all systems and every form of government. It was hardly to be expected that that condition would last any more than any sane person, observing conditions about him, would state that the plain everyday man of family proposed to live under old fashioned ideals of right and wrong until the end of time. There are more women than men in the world, and I confess that I like the determined spirit of the young girl—in fact, admire it—that leads her into the occupations which man thought he had a prior right to, a right that could not be taken from him.

Women Must Not Be Unsexed.

"Let them alone. Let them compete. What would you have them do? Sit at the fireside all day, knitting, crocheting, making bonnets and things that belong to a past age? Why, bless your soul, they can buy all these things in a department store. And because they do possess the courage to be up and doing is not sufficient justification to warrant the conclusion that they are thereby becoming undomesticated. If there is a genuine family life at her own home a woman will rarely be estranged from her natural sphere.

"But please state this: that while I applaud admiringly the human courage of our young women, while it is delightful to see them win the laurels in various vocations, I have no thought that this betterment of her social conditions should be at the expense of the maternal instincts of her sex. Women ought always to dream the dreams of women."

This is the abbot's second visit to America. What did he like about it?

"Well, I like your go. But you go so fast, as such a tremendous speed and at such expense to your nervous system that I fear the next generation will be a nervous wreck. Yet I wish we at home had just a little of that go. We need it. And the vast sums you spend for educational purposes. Perfectly marvelous! Everybody seems to be a student. The other day I sat beside a boy in a car. He had a basket of meat alongside of him. And what do you think he had in his hand? A French grammar.

Good Words for Y. M. and Y. W. C. A.

"You do a great deal, too, for the young men and women with your Y. M. C. A. and your Y. W. C. A. That kind of activity makes good citizens. And what tremendous sum that was these organizations raised the other day. Perfectly amazing! The young men and the young women are the hope of the nations. We cannot do too much for them."

The abbot came to this country to raise funds to finish the work of revising the Bible, probably the greatest intellectual undertaking of the Catholic church in modern times. The labor is entirely in the hands of the Benedictines, though the commission, of which he is the head, has the assistance of Biblical scholars in every department of the church.

BODY A WIRELESS STATION

Predicted That Telepathy Will Some Day Become Universal Between Minds That Attract Each Other.

New York Press: That telepathy—that is, psychic communication between two minds, will some day be in universal use between any two minds which have learned to attune themselves scientifically one to the other, just as wireless telegraph stations are attuned, seems a safe prediction in view of the intensely interesting experiments made by two Frenchmen—Phillipson and Menzerath.

It has long been known that the electrical current of the body, which flows from the right to the left side, and which until now was believed to be connected in some way with the fact that we are usually right and left-handed, is subject to variation. These variations are caused by mental work, or by emotion, such as fright, fear, grief, excitement.

The two French scientists, by employing the galvonometer of Finthoven in their experiments, have produced highly satisfactory results. The subject was placed in a dark room, and in either hand he held one electrode of the galvonometer stationed in an adjoining room. A bright light was then flashed in the subject's eyes and two seconds later it was noted that the right hand became positively charged with regard to the left. An auditory excitation, caused by a detonation, produced a similar result, which, however, was stronger in effect than the first.

The subject was then asked to multiply nine by four. Apparently the work performed was too simple to cause any but the most trifling change in the current, but a multiplication of fractions, entailing considerable brain work, occasioned a considerable difference in the potential of the two hands. The subject was then tested as to emotion by being reminded of an act of injustice which he had suffered some time ago, and the current became greatly agitated, more so than through work or external nervous excitation.

The experiments showed the same results with a left-handed subject. The electric current flows always from right to left hand, and the rignt hand is charged positively.

The experimenters deduced from these experiments that the electrical current of the body is not due to nerve or brain action, but to mechanical action, it being noticed that the right hand contracted slightly whenever the subject became agitated, and the stretching of the skin on the right hand resulted in that hand's being positively charged.

To understand how these facts may help place telepathy on a scientific basis, it must be borne in mind that emotion has a greater effect on the electric current of the body than work or external excitation. It must also be borne in mind that electricity and electric currents are so pervasive that we can nowhere escape them.

There are numerous well authenticated cases on record in which persons, suffering a violent death, appeared as phantoms to persons who were dear to them at the moment of death. The emotion which a person who is conscious suffers at the moment when a violent death is offered him in the form of murder or accident, beggars every other emotion. Science, proceeding on the lines indicated above, hopes to unravel the mystery attaching to telepathy, by showing how the electric currents of the air, when impinged upon by the electric currents of the body at a moment of supreme emotional excitation, will transmit that shock over miles and miles, and deliver it safely to the receiving instrument in the form of another human electric current, attuned to the first in some way which science has not yet explained.

THE POISONED NEEDLE A MYTH

Scientists Say There Is No Drug Known to Them That Can Be Administered Hypodermically.

Journal of the American Medical Association: Popular beliefs on scientific subjects apparently run in waves. Many of our readers remember the interest in hypnotism which followed the publication of "Trilby." Svengali with his "hypnotic eye" at once became a real and possible personage in the public imagination. The newspapers were full of stories of girls and women who had suddenly been fixed and paralyzed by the hypnotic gaze of some mysterious stranger with piercing black eyes and who had been compelled by his will to do fantastic acts which they were powerless to prevent. Fiction writers took up the idea, and stories centering around hypnotic influence became common. It was used as a plea in criminal cases, various culprits alleging that they had been hypnotized and compelled against their will to perform unlawful acts. All this occurred in spite of the fact, frequently stated and known by every scientific man, that the limitations of hypnotism are definite and well recognized, that no person can be hypnotized unknowingly or against his will, and that few persons are so susceptible as to be capable of being compelled to perform acts beyond their own volition and knowledge.

The Latest Belief.

Another popular fiction which later on took the place of hypnotism was that of instantaneous anesthesia. Stories appeared in the newspapers of women who had been accosted by strangers and, under some pretext, had permitted a cloth or a handkerchief to be pressed momentarily over their mouth and nose. Immediate unconsciousness was said to have followed, resulting in a period of insensibility and irresponsibility, varying from a few minutes to hours or even days. Chloroform sprayed into an open window by means of an atomizer, anesthetics tied to a rag on the end of a pole and thrown into a bedroom, instant unconsciousness following the administration of drugs unknown to physicians and pharmacists, were some of the variations of this idea. In the minds of physicians and nurses who see every day the administration of anesthetics, such stories only excite mirth. Any one who knows the difficulty and labor of procuring unconsciousness through the use of anesthetics, even under the most favorable conditions and with every possible means of restraining and controlling the patient, knows how absurd such stories are.

Another "Mysterious Stranger."

A latter-day variation of these popular beliefs may be found in the "poisoned needle" stories which have been going the rounds of the press recently. A woman goes to a moving picture theater, enters a crowded elevated train, or is caught in the press of a crowd. Suddenly she sees, close beside her, our old friend the "mysterious stranger," with the piercing black eyes and the compelling manner. At the same time, she feels a sting and knows that she has been stabbed with a poisoned needle. She immediately becomes unconscious, dazed or irresponsible for a greater or less period of time, during which she experiences a number of marvelous adventures or hairbreadth escapes.

It is not possible to say that no woman was ever without her knowledge given a drug hypodermically which produced unconsciousness. It can, however, be said very positively that there is no drug known to scientific men which could be administered in the manner or which would produce the effect described in recent newspaper reports.

Like Salem Witchcraft.

One of the laws of hysteria is that when any peculiar phenomenon is reported, similar instances immediately appear throughout the country. We may now expect a spring crop of magazine stories and popular novels based on the poisoned needle as a motive. Scientifically, the thing is as ridiculous and impossible as hypnotism of an unwilling subject or instaneous anasthesia. Popular beliefs travel in waves, and hysteric and excited imaginations help them along. The history of popular delusions, from Salem witchcraft to present day vagaries, is full of such instances.

HER EYES UPON HIM.

New York Mail: A well-known writer was present recently at a dress rehearsal of a comedy played by amateurs. The rehearsal went well, but the hero, B——, seemed rather hard and cold. The novelist sat in a box next to a charming woman of middle age. She said, at the end of the third act: "It goes beautifully, doesn't it?"

"Beautifully," said the gentleman. "But B—— doesn't make love to that pretty girl in as ardent a manner as I could wish. His lovemaking, in fact, strikes me as very tame and spiritless."

The woman frowned. "He won't put any more spirit in it while I've got my eye on him, let me tell you," she said. "I'm Mrs. B——."

LEGAL NOTICES.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, COUNTY OF ST. LOUIS—ss.

District Court, Eleventh Judicial District.

Rade Orlich, as Administrator of the Estate of Mike Zigich, Deceased, Plaintiff, vs.

Zenith Furnace company, a corporation, Defendant.

To Dane Zigich, Boja Zigich, Hojan (Steve) Zigich, Heirs at law and next of kin of decedent Mike Zigich, American Surety company of New York, Edgar Prochink, Imperial and Royal Consul for Austria-Hungary, Mike Skorich, and all other persons interested in the Estate of Mike Zigich, Decedent:

NOTICE.

Pursuant to order of the above named district court, duly made and filed in the above entitled matter, notice is hereby given that the undersigned Rade Orlich, as administrator of the estate of Mike Zigich, deceased, has in his possession a certain sum of money received by him as administrator on account of the wrongful death of said decedent.

That an application has been made to the District Court of St. Louis County, Eleventh Judicial District, State of Minnesota, for an order allowing and adjusting all attorney's fees and their expenses incurred in connection with the collection and distribution of said fund, determining the lawful heirs and next of kin of the decedent and other persons entitled to share in the distribution of said fund, as creditor or otherwise, and authorizing and directing the undersigned representative to distribute said fund in accordance with such determination.

That said application will be brought on for hearing before said court at a special term thereof, to be held at the county courthouse in the City of Duluth, Minnesota, on the 13th day of June, 1914, at 9:30 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, at which time and place all persons interested in the distribution of said fund may assert their claims and will be heard therein.

Dated, May 6, 1914.

MELLEN FOR U. S. CONTROL OF RAILWAYS

Coupled With Monopoly, That Would Be Best, He Declares.

Former New Haven Head Tells More of Morgan's Power.

Thinks Roosevelt Protected Road in Ownership of Steamships.

Washington, May 21—Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New Haven railroad, told the interestate commerce commission today that he favored railroad monopoly, controlled and regulated by the government, and that such a monopoly would be beneficial to the public.

Questioned by Mr. Folk as to his present business relations, Mr. Mellen said:

"I have not a dollar's interest today in the New Haven. I disposed of all my stock. I retain a little interest yet in the Boston & Maine, and in the Ontario & Western."

"Why did you personally favor the consolidation of the trolleys with the New Haveen?"

For Controlled Monopoly.

"Because consolidation would result in better service, lower rates and greater satisfaction to the public. I believe the public is better served by a monopoly of transportation than in any other way. I think, however, that the monopoly should be controlled and regulated by the government."

"What do you think railroads generally are doing about the matter?"

"I know of nothing a railroad can do now except take off its hat to some government official."

"If Mr. Morgan had not died how far would you have gone in this dream of consolidation?"

"To heaven, I suppose."

Morgan's Power.

"Didn't Morgan have more power than any state government under which you operated?"

"He never tried to exercise any such power."

"He was in control of the New England situation?"

"I can best answer that by quoting the old saying, 'Where McGregor sits, there is the head of the table.'"

"What would the meetings of the directors of the New Haven have been like without Mr. Morgan?"

"About as tame as a lot of cows without a bull."

Mr. Mellen said he was opposed to the New Haven's holding and operating steamship lines.

"I always was against the plan. I was afraid of disasters on those tinder boxes."

Would Sell to Morse.

Mr. Mellen, after testifying regarding an offer of $20,000,000 made by Charles W. Morse for the purchase of steamships owned by the New Haven, said he came to Washington and consulted President Roosevelt in regard to the matter.

"Mr. Morse," he said, "had acquired practical control of nearly all the steam lines of the Atlantic coast. He wanted our holdings, and I finally got a definite offer of $20,000,000 from him. I wanted to sell, but the president urged me not to sell.

"I told Mr. Roosevelt that as it was expected the bill being prepared by Herbert Knox Smith, commissioner of corporations, would contain a clause preventing railroads from owning steamships, it would be to our advantage to accept the Morse offer. I told him I felt it was doubtful that we ought to turn down the proposition when we could turn the property into cash.

"Roosevelt Kept Faith."

"Herbert Knox Smith and Commissioners Prouty and Knapp were present, having been called in by Mr. Roosevelt. Mr. Roosevelt told me: 'I can only promise you, Mr. Mellen, for myself, that if you do not sell your lines I will promise you so far as I am concerned while the law remains as it is, you shall experience no trouble from me in your ownership of what you now have.'"

"When was the bill put in by Attorney General Bonaparte?"

"I think in 1907."

"Why was the provision preventing the railroads from owning steamships left out?"

"I imagine it was because Mr. Roosevelt kept faith with us."

Although the hearing was not scheduled to begin until 10:30 o'clock, the spacious hotel room where the inquiry is held was crowded with spectators half an hour earlier. Mr. Mellen and his counsel, J. W. H. Crim, did not arrive until a few minutes before the set hour. The former New Haven president appeared in good humor.

When Mr. Folk, chief counsel for the commission, reached the room, he said that the line of inquiry would be taken up where it was left off yesterday, it being his purpose to continue investigation of acquisition by the New Haven of the Rhode Island and other trolley systems.

Before Mr. Mellen took the stand there was informal discussion among attorneys and investigators as to how much longer Mr. Mellen would be detained as a witness. It was intimated by representatives of the commission that there still was much ground to be covered and that Mr. Mellen might be excused late today or tomorrow, to be called back next week.

No Assurance From Aldrich.

Mr. Folk, taking up the acquisition of the Rhode Island trolleys, asked Mr. Mellen:

"What assurance did Senator Aldrich give you to be transmitted to the New Haven directors?"

"I do not remember any," Mr. Mellen replied.

Mr. Mellen stated that his impression was that when Mr. Aldrich saw him at Stockbridge he made some allusion to resuming negotiations for acquisition of the Rhode Island trolleys.

Mr. Mellen further said that the United Gas & Improvement company refused to separate the Connecticut & Rhode Island trolleys. The intimation was that the New Haven had to take the properties in both states in order to get the Rhode Island trolleys.

"Has the deficit that resulted from the purchase of the Rhode Island trolleys ever been made up?" Mr. Folk asked.

"No, but I am confident it will be," said Mr. Mellen.

"So you paid $19,000,000 or $20,000,000 for property worth about $8,000,000?"

Disagree as to Value.

"I do not accept your valuation of $8,000,000."

"How do you estimate the value in

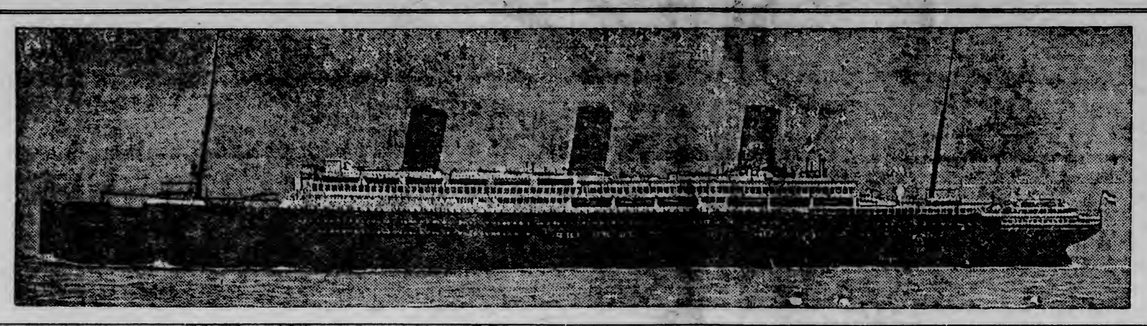
NEW GIANT LINER BREAKS FROM TUGS AND DRIFTS DOWN THE HUDSON



THE VATERLAND.

New York, May 21.—The giant new liner Vaterland broke away from tugs convoying her to her dock today and began drifting down the Hudson, carried by the tide. At times she swung broadside across the river.

In the grip of the strong ebb tide, the big steamship was helpless. She was carried steadily down stream toward the battery.

When the Vaterland was headed in for her pier, more than fifty tugs had her in charge. As her bow neared the pier, the strong ebb tide caught the vessel at the stern and began to swing her around, heading her straight for a wooden pier nearby. There was a shouting of orders, the big whistle of the liner boomed and the hawsers on the tugs were let go.

The vessel began to back under her own power and was soon out in the stream again, almost directly in the path of the Lackawanna ferryboats. The tugs began to maneuver about her again as the big liner slowly drifted southward.

After the vessel had drifted more than a mile, the tugs succeeded in getting her in tow again and she was headed upstream under control.

The Vaterland of the Hamburg-American line, the biggest steamer in service, arrived in New York harbor early today on her maiden voyage from Hamburg. Her run yesterday was 694 miles, and her average speed an hour was 23.9 knots.

The Vaterland was launched on April 3, 1913. She is 950 feet in length, 100 feet beam and has a tonnage of 58,000. She carries one commodore and four captains and a total crew of 1,234.

The new giant of the seas received a noisy welcome as she passed up the harbor to her pier in Hoboken, N. J.

WABASH ROAD PLANS SHOWN

Provide for New Stock Issue of Eighty-Six Million Dollars.

Many Improvements in Service Material Are Proposed.

St. Louis, Mo., May 21.—Plans for the reorganization of the Wabash railroad, now in the hands of a Federal receiver, were laid before a joint meeting of the public service commissions of Missouri, Ohio, Iowa, Illinois and Michigan here today.

The plans, which were filed with the Missouri commission last Sunday, provide for a new stock issue of $86,000,000. These shares are to be exchanged for the present preferred stock at par and for the present common stock at 88.

Shares of outstanding stock exchanged for the new are to be assessed at $20 each. This assessment is expected to yield $18,480,000 cash, which with $11,900,000 expected to be obtained by the sale of $14,000,000 in refunding bonds at 85, is expected to supply more than $30,000,000 for the cash requirements of the road.

Cash Requirements.

Among the cash requirements are receivers' certificates aggregating more than $14,000,000; protection of treasury securities pledged for 4½ per cent gold notes already matured; equipment obligations, sinking fund on underlying bonds and $5,000,000 for new equipment and working capital.

It is proposed to organize a new company to take over the Wabash properties, either at foreclosure sale or otherwise. The new securities are to aggregate $145,000,000, including common stock, adjustment bonds and refunding bonds.

The present securities undisturbed are to exceed $64,000,000 making the total outstanding securities of the reorganized company $209,600,000—more than $10,000,000 less than the securities of the present company.

Plans for Service.

The reorganization committee plans an extension of double tracks, the reduction of grade, the elimination of grade crossings, an extension of the automatic block signal system and the purchase annually for five years of fifty freight locomotives, six passenger locomotives and 2,000 freight cars.

No Indianan Present.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 21.—Indiana's public service commission did not send a representative to the reorganization meeting of the Wabash railroad, held in St. Louis today. The question whether the Indiana commission has any authority to regulate the issue of bonds in the reorganization of an interstate corporation is in doubt. For that reason, it was stated, the commission did not send a representative to the meeting.

BABY SECURITY FOR MOTHER'S BOARD BILL

"She Can Keep the $33 and Me the Baby," Says Creditor.

Chicago, May 21.—A year-old boy was given in court here by his mother, Mrs. Pauline Hubel, as security for a $33 board bill. The baby was turned over to Mrs. Rudolph Peterson, with whom Mrs. Hubel formerly lodged.

By order of the court, the mother may call as often as she likes, but may not take her son away until the bill is paid.

"I like this baby," Mrs. Peterson said in answer to an inquiry of Judge Fry. "If she wants to keep the $33 and me the baby, that suits me fine."

SAYS CONGRESS IS TO ADJOURN JULY 20

Senator Kern Makes Another Visit to White House.

Washington, May 21.—Senator Kern conferred again today with President Wilson concerning the legislative program. The senator still insists that congress can adjourn in July, and gave assurances that there was no intention on the part of administration leaders to remain in Washington throughout the summer. The senator fixed July 20 as the probable date of adjournment.

CHURCH BODY BEGINS WORK

Presbyterians' First Task Is Election of New Moderator.

Unshaken Belief in Miracles and Virgin Birth to Be Declared.

Chicago, May 21.—Rev. John Timothy Stone of Chicago opened the twenty-sixth general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States here today with a gavel made from the pulpit of George Whitfield, one of the founders of Methodism, who died in Newburyport, Mass., in 1769. The gavel is small and light and its mallet-shaped head is bound by gold bands. It was presented to Dr. Stone last year at Atlanta when he was elected moderator.

Election of this year's moderator was the most important business scheduled for today. Sixty-five Presbyterian institutions were represented in a pre-assembly conference yesterday of presidents of Presbyterian colleges, at which the choice of a moderator was a leading topic. It was said that the assembly, in its choice of a moderator, whoever he might be, would record in the most positive manner its unshaken adherence to the doctrines of belief in the miracles, the virgin birth and other time-honored tenets of the Presbyterian faith.

Possible Candidates.

Among the possible candidates are:

Rev. Maitland Alexander, First church, Pittsburg.

Rev. Andrew V. V. Raymond, First church, Buffalo.

Rev. Aquilla Webb, Louisville.

Rev. Joseph P. Calhoun, Fourth church, Knoxville, Tenn.

Rev. George B. Stewart, president of Auburn Theological seminary.

The general assembly is composed of 920 members, half ministers and half elders. Representation is upon the basis of the number of ministers. The interests of the home missions were expected to figure prominently in the

WOMEN FAIL TO SEE KING

London Police Disperse Column Headed for the Palace.

Fifteen Hundred Officers Guard Grounds—Reserves Kept Ready.

London, May 21.—The police today broke up a large column of militant suffragette raiders, who were marching on Buckingham palace for the purpose of handing a petition to King George. When the women reached the top of Constitution hill, leading to the palace, the police dispersed them and arrested Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst and several other leaders.

St. James park and the grounds of Buckingham palace were crowded with police from an early hour this morning, the mobilization of 1,500 men having been ordered to oppose the projected attempt by militant suffragettes to present a petition to King George.

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the leader of the militants, had announced that she would lead a great procession to the royal residence, but it was said she probably would be arrested under the provisions of the "cat and mouse" act, if she put in an appearance.

The police formed a complete ring around the palace and its grounds, as the women had threatened to scale the high walls inclosing the gardens. All the detectives from police headquarters at Scotland Yard were on duty, and a body of 1,000 patrolmen was held in reserve in case of emergency.

WOMAN KILLS BOY IN WILLIAM TELL ACT

Lynn, Mass., May 21.—Henry Garvin, 17 years old, who was shot in the head when Miss Juanita Griffith tried to knock a potato from his head with a rifle bullet in a theater here Tuesday, died today. The woman is being held by the police.

BECKER ENDS HIS DEFENSE

Murder Case Will Go to the Jury on Friday.

Man With Revolver Tries to Reach District Attorney Whitman.

New York, May 21.—Both prosecution and defense in the case of Charles Becker, on trial for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, rested before noon today. The case will be in the hands of the jury before noon tomorrow, and Becker's fate may be decided by tomorrow night.

After both sides rested, court was adjourned until 2 o'clock this afternoon, when it was announced Martin F. Manton, Becker's chief counsel, would begin his address to the jury. At 8 o'clock tonight District Attorney Whitman will make his closing address. He will conclude about 11 o'clock, and court will be adjourned until 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, when Justice Seabury will deliver his charge.

This will occupy about an hour, and the jury will then retire to determine whether Becker, as a lieutenant of the "strong arm squad," conceived the plot that resulted in the murder of the Tenderloin gambler, and for which four men have paid the death penalty.

Armed Man After Whitman.

Joseph M. Fath, who said he was a wireless operator, was arrested while trying to see District Attorney Whitman yesterday. In a suitcase Fath had with him, detectives found a loaded revolver.

Detectives traced a wire Tuesday from a window of Whitman's private office to a building a block away. It was supposed the wire had been set up as a means of hearing over a telephonic device what went on in the district attorney's office.

On Board U. S. S. California, Mazatlan, Mex., May 20, via wireless to San Diego, Cal., May 21.—An army of 5,000 Constitutionalists, having occupied Tepic with a loss of 400 killed and an unknown number of casualties among tht Federals, has begun its advance on Guadalajara.

In advance of the moving troops, a flying squadron of cavalry is working destruction to the Huerta lines of communication, its main object being the crippling of the railroad from Manzanillo to Guadalajara.

SAYS STEPHEN R. DOW MUST GO TO PRISON

Massachusetts Supreme Court Overrules Bill of Exceptions.

Boston, Mass., May 21.—Stephen R. Dow, a member of the Stock exchange, must serve a prison sentence of from eight to twelve years. The supreme court today overruled a bill of exceptions to his conviction for conversion.

The brokerage firm of Stephen R. Dow & Co., of which Dow was the head, failed in December, 1912. Subsequently Dow was convicted of conversion of $83,000 from the Algomah Mining company, $51,000 from the Indiana Mining company and $105,000 from the Franklin Mining company, corporations of which he was president. He based his exceptions on the claim that the statutes did not apply in his case.

Testimony for the defense was that Griffith had forcibly operated on Robinson, whom he charged with assaulting Mrs. Griffith in her home.

CITY CAN REGULATE WEIGHING OF COAL

Wisconsin Supreme Court Decides Dealer's Action Against Sparta.

Madison, Wis., May 21.—The supreme court today, in an opinion by Justice Barnes, sustained the validity of an ordinance passed by the city of Sparta requiring all coal sold in the city to be weighed upon the city scales.

A Sparta concern contested the validity of the ordinance, claiming it was unlawful and in restraint of trade and discriminatory as to a certain class.

Credible Information Comes Through Diplomatic Channels.

Mediators Talk Informally With the Mexican Envoys.

Villa's Victories May Force Dictator's Hand in Proceedings.

Washington, May 21.—"Everything is working smoothly, there has been no hitch whatever," was the answer of Secretary of State Bryan today to inquiries about the preliminary mediation conferences over Mexican difficulties at Niagara Falls, Canada, after he had conferred for an hour with President Wilson and rewieved dispatches from American Commissioners Lamar and Lehmann regarding the negotiations thus far.

Following Secretary Bryan's announcement, unofficial but reliable information was reiterated in official quarters that Gen. Huerta had placed himself unreservedly in the hands of the three commissioners representing his interests at Niagara Falls. It positively was declared that the Mexican commissioners' authority included the right to effect Huerta's effacement as a condition of final settlement.

No White House Statement.

President Wilson made no announcement of the mediation developments, but in view of the fact that the negotiations in so far as the American interests are concerned are being conducted ad referendum, the Washington government had received complete information of the proceedings up to date and Secretary Bryan's assurances were interpreted to mean that nothing had arisen to arouse apprehension.

Secretary Bryan was asked if any friction had arisen with regard to the nature of the credentials given the American commissioners. He said there had not.

It was distinctly stated by the secretary of state, when the American commissioners were appointed, that every proposition they made or entertained during the mediation proceedings must be regarded as ad referendum, or subject to the approval of Washington government; and it is now believed that the Mexicans thoroughly approve this course on the part of the United States.

By Diplomatic Channels.

Information concerning Huerta's possible elimination reached Washington through diplomatic channels free from direct interest in the Mexican political situation. It served to clear away confusion that has arisen since

ICE DELIVERIES ARE MADE IN MILL CITY

Official of Company Arrested for Shooting to Scare Strikers.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The delivery of ice by the Cedar Lake Ice company, whose 300 drivers and helpers are on strike, was begun today by non-union men, under police protection. Only a few wagons were sent out today. At noon there had been no violence reported, but large crowds of strikers and sympathizers followed the wagons, hooting at the drivers and the policemen accompanying them.

J. R. Chute, treasurer of the company, was arraigned in municipal court today, charged with shooting at a striker who attempted to board an express wagon on which Mr. Chute was riding. The shooting is said to have taken place late last night. Mr. Chute claims he shot into a cake of ice to frighten the man as well as a crowd of strikers who were following him. The specific charge against Chute is disorderly conduct.

ROOSEVELT BUYS WEDDING CLOTHES

Ex-President Spends the Day in New York City.

New York, May 21.—Col Roosevelt arrived in town today to spend his first day in New York for seven months. There was no one with him but the chauffeur in the automobile that left Oyster Bay at 8:30. This first day in the city he desired to be alone, the colonel said.

He said he expected to spend a great part of the day buying clothes for his son's wedding. When the task of "togging himself out" was finished, he planned to see his publishers, meet a number of Progressive leaders and visit the American Museum of Natural History. Late in the afternoon he intended to go to his editorial offices.

OBLIGATIONS OF CIVILIZATION

Thirty of the leading business men of the city were guests this noon at a luncheon held at the Commercial club to introduce E. T. Colton of New York, an associate of Dr. John Mott, head of the international Y. M. C. A. committee, and A. C. Turner, one of the secretaries of the Y. M. C. A. at Mexico City. Mr. Colton spoke on "Bi-products of Commerce in Colonization."

His talk, while brief, was most interesting. He made a strong argument, as a matter of fairness and square dealing, for the establishment and maintenance of foreign branches of the Y. M. C. A. He pointed out that when the commerce of America intrudes itself upon foreigners, China, for instance, civilization takes with it to the foreign people its knowledge and by that breaks down their faith in their old beliefs, leaving them adrift as it were. Civilization, also, he pointed out, takes its vices with it and adds the new vices to their old ones.

"As a matter of fairness and square dealing," said Mr. Colton, "we should give them something to off-set the damage we do. By the establishment and maintenance of the Y. M. C. A. branches, we compensate, to a large degree, for what we take from these people and the vices we inflict upon them."

Tomorrow night, both of the visitors will speak at a dinner to be given at the Y. M. C. A. This is known as the annual foreign work dinner. Mr. Turner will be the chief speaker.

LITTLE BOY IS BITTEN BY DOG

Clarence Lytle, the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Lytle, 1001 East Fifth street, was bitten by a dog about 1 o'clock this afternoon while he was playing baseball with other boys in Portland square, opposite his home.

Young Lytle stepped up to pat the dog, and as he did so the animal jumped up and bit him on his right cheek. Companions of Clarence took him to his home, where the wound was later dressed by Dr. Robert Graham. A careful watch will be kept to see if rabies develops during the week. The animal is also being watched.

Mr. Lytle, who is manager for the Stacy-Merrill company, said after the incident that the dog had been acting rather strangely of late and that it was constantly barking.

CLEAN UP AND SWAT THE FLY!

Only Two More Days of City Cleaning Time Left.

Only two more days of the clean-up time remain, tomorrow and Saturday.

The civic housecleaning time will come to an end Saturday night and no further extensions will be granted.

"Wherefore, Mr. Citizen," says the health department, "if you are among those who have not yet joined the army of those who have been endeavoring to make Duluth a spotless town, it's up to you to get busy. Delay no longer. Actions speak louder than words or intentions. Results are what count. If you haven't already done so, start doing things with your rake and your paint brush and your hammer, or whatever else may be necessary to put your premises in spic and span condition.

"Have that pile of rubbish hauled away or burn it up. Get the 'kids' interested. Nothing appeals to them like a bon fire and they will 'work their heads off' to collect the wherewithal with which to feed the flames. Have that stack of ashes taken to the dump, of if you have a garden, spade some of them into the soil. They'll help to lighten it. Brighten the house or the fence or the outbuildings with a coat of paint, or all of them if they need it. Put the walk in shape. In short, show the true spirit of civic pride and cooperate with the officials and public organizations to make your city a delight and a pleasure to behold. You'll get a lot of personal enjoyment out of it and profit physically, mentally and financially.

"Start those flower beds or that vegetable garden. It'll pay you in more ways than you can appreciate until you begin to realize the results."

Some Delinquents.

Although the clean-up campaign has been under way since a week ago last Monday, some are still delinquent. Many of these are the vacant lot owners, and the authorities believe that the majority of them are owned by persons outside of the city. But all of them will be checked up. In connection with their regular duties the health department inspectors will visit them. Notices to clean up will be served upon the owners if they reside in Duluth, and if not, upon the agents. Failure to respond will result in warrants being sworn out for their arrest.

Swat the Fly.

In connection with the clean-up campaign, Dr. H. E. Webster, director of public health, calls attention to the fact that this is the time to "swat the fly." He urges all residents to hang their screen doors and their window screens. He says that if it has not already been done, particularly pains should now be taken to see that the garbage cans are tight and provided with tight covers; that all filth, the breeding place of flies, is removed from the premises; that the garden fertilizer, chiefly manure, is spaded underground, and that all stables and barns are provided with sanitary facilities.

Mayor Prince and "Brighten-up" Borgen express themselves as greatly pleased with the response with which their appeals to clean up have been received. They state that they have seen hundreds of people, old and young, putting their premises in first-class shape, but they are anxious that by Saturday night there shall not be a single dirty yard or lot in the corporate limits.

MAY LOSE HIS WIFE AND LIBERTY

"Black Sheep" Likely to Go to Penitentiary and Be Divorced.

Sigrud H. Thompson, the "black sheep" of a prominent Minneapolis family, known to Duluthians as a bartender and ex-pugilist, is again in the toils.

Troubles never come singly for him, and after having been lingering for some time in the shadow of the penitentiary, he finds himself confronted not only with an excellent chance of going to Stillwater for breaking his parole, but also of being divorced from his wife, Alice Mabel Thompson, a Duluth woman.

Divorce proceedings against Thompson were started in district court this morning. Mrs. Thompson, aged 25, is seeking a separation on the grounds of cruelty and non-support. She asks for the custody of their three children, Alice, 6; Dora, 5, and Grace, 3. They were married Nov. 22, 1905. Thompson is 29 years old.

Thompson, she says, is naturally shiftless and indolent and during the seven years of their married life has failed to devote himself to employment any more honorable than that of a bartender, she says. She alleges that he has been drunk most of the time during their married life and that she has had to depend upon her father, of this city, for the support of herself and her children.

One June 18 last, Thompson passed a forged check on Arthur C. Goering, cashier for Frerker Bros. The check in question was made out to Sig Thompson and was purported to be signed by Nick Christopher. It called for $55. After Goering had cashed the check it was found to be a forgery.

When arrested for the crime, Thompson admitted his guilt. He pleaded guilty to a charge of forgery when arraigned before Judge Dancer on June 24 and upon his promise to follow the straight and narrow path from then on he was released from custody and given another chance. He was told to make regular reports to Col. F. E. Resche, probation officer.

About a month later the probation officer granted Thompson permission to go to Minneapolis, where he said he could secure work and support his wife and children. Through relatives at Minneapolis he was given a chance to get on his feet.

During the month of March last, Thompson was arrested for the theft of $18 from a cash register. He was again paroled on this charge and given another chance to reform.

Soon afterwards, he became implicated in another larceny deal. It was alleged that he stole a watch from a lumberjack. When the Minneapolis police wanted to find him, they were unable to do so. He was located through Col. Resche of the district court here.

Thompson had instructions to make regular reports to the local probation office. One day Col. Resche received a letter bearing a Minneapolis post mark which aroused a suspicion in his mind that it had not been written in Minneapolis. Closer investigation disclosed the fact that the letter had been written in Milwaukee, as a Milwaukee firm's envelope had been used. The address and name of the firm which had been blotted out with ink became visible again when eradicator was applied.

When brought back to Minneapolis, Thompson stood trial on the second larceny charge, that of stealing a watch and was acquitted. He was then committed to the workhouse for violating his parole.

In the meantime, some action may be taken to bring him back to Duluth to answer for violation of his parole in this court.

Gen. S. J. Conklin of Clark, veteran soldier and journalist, died May 20 at the national sanatorium at Hot Springs, S. D. He was 85 years old on May 5. His death was caused by accidental scalding. Gen. Conklin was born in Yates county, New York. His father died when the boy was 4 years old and at the age of 12 Conklin was apprenticed to a shoemaker and tanner and at 18 set up in business for himself. In 1856 he left his business and took the stump for the newly formed Republican party and campaigned for Gen. Fremont for the presidency. In 1857 he moved to Wisconsin and studied law and afterward practiced. He served one term in the Wisconsin legislature and at the outbreak of the Civil war enlisted as a private. He rose in rank until he became judge advocate of a general courtmartial. After the war he resumed his legal practice, and again served a term in the legislature. In 1872 he edited a paper at Waterloo, Wis., and 1879, moved to Watertown, Dakota territory. He established the Dakota News at Watertown, and later Conklin's Dakotan. He was the first president of the South Dakota Editorial association. In 1901 Governor Herried appointed him adjutant general of the national guard and he was largely instrumental in making it an efficient organization. Gen. Conklin was three times married and is survived by his third wife and several children. Gen. Conklin was a Republican most of his life, but once campaigned South Dakota for Andrew Lee, the Democratic candidate for governor. He belonged to many secret orders, having been a Mason over fifty years.

Edward Authier, 92 years old, father of George Authier, secretary to Governor Eberhart, died May 20 at the home of his daughter, Mrs. E. R. Regean, 1351 Van Buren street, St. Paul. He suffered an attack of pneumonia three weeks ago and never rallied. Mr. Authier was born near Montreal, Can., and moved to Rutland, Vt., when 20 years old. He lived there until thirty years ago, when he took a farm near Fort Dodge, Iowa. For five years he has been living with his daughter at Hamline. His aged wife, who is critically ill at the Regean home, and six children survive.

Capt. Otto Charles Bernard Lademan, aged 70, a Civil war veteran, died at his home in Milwaukee, Wis., May 21, after an illness of about a week. Capt. Lademan enlisted in the Third Missouri regiment and took part in the battle of Wilson's Creek, Jackson, Vicksburg, and many others, where his valiant conduct received favorable comment.

GUN-TOTER GETS LIGHT SENTENCE

For flashing a large Colt revolver in Blackwood's cigar store last evening, Alexander Cosgrove, 24 years old, was this morning deprived of the firearm and escaped with a fine of $20 and costs, which he paid.

Cosgrove and a companion, David J. McLeod, 23 years old, went into the Blackwood store about 11 o'clock. They were both intoxicated and in a few minutes Cosgrove pulled out a large Colt revolver, with a seven-inch barrel, and began flourishing it about the store. Everybody in the room sought shelter either out on the street or behind one of the counters.

But Cosgrove did nothing further and with a wave of his hand was off across the street to the St. Louis hotel. In the meantime an employe at the cigar store telephoned headquarters and Patrolmen Kreager and Callahan were sent to the St. Louis hotel, where they placed Cosgrove and his companion under arrest.

In police court this morning Cosgrove pleaded guilty to the charge of carrying concealed weapons, while his companion admitted having been drunk. McLeod was fined $1 and costs or three days in jail.

Both Cosgrove and McLeod claim they were born in Canada and that they recently came to this country.

THINK YOUTH CRAZY.

Complaint to Probate Court Regarding Young Automaniac.

Francis Jackson, 21 years old, who rented an automobile Monday evening for two hours and then told the chauffeur that he had no money with which to pay his bill, and who attempted to start an automobile on Superior street Tuesday afternoon, is believed to be insane and a complaint has been filed by the police with the judge of probate court.

Jackson pleaded guilty in police court yesterday to the charge of tampering with an automobile, but the court is of the opinion that the youth is out of his mind and that he should be sent to Fergus Falls for treatment.

On Monday evening Jackson was arrested on the complaint of a chauffeur, who drove him about the city for two hours. He refused to press the charge the following day and Jackson was given his liberty. In the afternoon he was caught tampering with an automobile near Third avenue west and was again arrested, this time by Patrolman Woods.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally If You Eat Meat Regularly.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications. DIES IN PORTLAND.

Miss Elizabeth Jones, Former Duluthian, Succumbs to Operation.

Word was received here this morning of the sudden death at Portland, Or., last evening of Miss Elizabeth E. Jones, formerly of this city.

Miss Jones was very well known in Duluth, having resided here for a number of years, up to three years ago, when she went to Portland. She was cashier for French & Bassett during her residence in Duluth. She is survived by a brother, Charles F. Jones of this city, a conductor on the Great Northern railroad.

Miss Jones recently underwent a serious surgical operation at a Portland hospital and letters received here by her friends the past week were very encouraging and her recovery had been expected. The announcement of her death last evening is a surprise and a shock to her many friends.

Miss Jones will be buried at Portland Saturday.

Lanctot, aged 79, one of the pioneer residents of Gentilly, Polk county, a former resident of Michigan, who lived in the city several years. She was the mother of twelve children nine of whom survive, as follows: Emie Lanctot of Laurium, Mich.; William Lanctot of Crookston, Ed Lanctot of Crookston, Fred Lanctot of this city and Cy Lanctot of Great Falls, Mrs. J. B. Dupuis of Gentilly, Mrs. H. Langevin, Mrs. Eli Asselin and Mrs. W. H. Farley of this city.

Murder and Suicide Fail.

Hannaford, N. D., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two hired men on the Albert Weels farm in this county were shot. Both may recover. There had been some differences between them. One borrowed a rifle, ostensibly to shoot gophers. He fired into the back of his fellow worker than turned the weapon on himself. His efforts at murder and suicide were both futile.

BOYS' "GANG" IS BROKEN UP

Police Arrest Three Boys on Charge of Burglarizing Store.

Two Others Are Held for Stealing Beer From Box Cars.

Three boys were arrested last night for burglarizing a store and two others were arrested this morning charged with having broken into merchandise cars, and are being held at the West Duluth police station.

The first three have already confessed to having entered C. G. Frost's confectionery store, 5119 Ramsey street, it is said. The other two are accused of stealing, on various occasions, beer cases from cars standing on the Soo Line transfer at the foot of Forty-ninth avenue west.

The first three arrested were Clarence Flynn, 18 years old; Ernest Anderson and Leonard Mattson, each of whom is 20 years old. They confessed to Lieut. C. E. Wilcox that they had broken into the confectionery store. Their confession was secured shortly after they were arrested last night.

The arrest of these boys followed four days of quiet investigation conducted by the police. The cash register stolen from the place was found yesterday afternoon in a mud hole back of the National Iron works.

Entered Through Church.

According to the story told by the boys, they had unlocked a shed door in the rear of the Finnish Baptist hall, which adjoins the confectionery store. An old doorway which had been boarded up was torn loose and the boys crawled through the aperture to the store. Then they carried out the register by unlocking the rear door and left the building after locking the rear door from the inside and returning through the mission hall. It was at first believed that the boys had duplicate keys to the door.

Henry Merow, 18 years old, and Lemoin Hicks, 17 years old, were arrested at their homes early this morning on charges of being implicated in breaking seals of merchandise cars in the transfer railway. Special watchmen for the road have been quietly investigating these thefts, which are said to cover several weeks' duration, and last evening are said to have shadowed the boys to their homes. The beer cases, four of which were taken last night, were found in a shed near that locality. Many of the bottles from these cases were found to be empty.

Others Implicated.

The police are of the opinion that several other boys are implicated in this latter case. It is expected that the two now under arrest will give the names of several others, and that the others will probably be arrested before night. An agent for the Soo line who has been in consultation with the police said that on one occasion a barrel of beer weighing about 200 pounds had been taken, and that some of the cars from which the stuff had been taken showed evidence that the seals had been broken before they entered the yards. The stuff had been taken as soon as the cars stopped on the side tracks.

The three who confessed to the burglary will be arraigned in the West Duluth police court this afternoon, and it is probable that formal complaint against the other two will be drawn up this afternoon by Assistant City Attorney White, who spent the morning in this end of the city.

The arrests this morning and last night are looked upon as important by the police, who are of the opinion that many burglaries and petty thefts will be cleared up by confessions of the boys.

BANQUET FOR CLUB MEMBERS AND WIVES.

A meeting of the general committee that had charge of the recent banquet of the West Duluth Commercial club, will be held tomorrow evening at which plans will be made for giving a private banquet that will be for members of the club and their wives. The date will be decided on and other details attended to.

The meeting will probably be held prior to the opening of the regular business session of the club. A number of important subjects will be taken up by the club during the evening.

ALUMNI WILL BE HOST TO GRADUATES.

The Longfellow school alumni association will hold its annual banquet on Friday evening, June 5, according to arrangements made at the meeting of the organization held at the school building last night.

Ragnar L. Larson, president of the society, will preside at the banquet. The program will be arranged by a committee headed by Arnold Erickson. John Nettleton was chosen chairman of the decorating committee; Hazel Burnside, chairman of the refreshments committee, and Bessie O'Brien, chairman of the invitation committee.

A class of fifty pupils will graduate this year from the Longfellow school. All of the graduates will be given invitations to the banquet. The class is the largest to graduate in the history of the Longfellow school.

Mothers Tell of Mother's Friend

Experience is or should be our best teacher. Women who have obeyed the highest and noblest of all sacrifices, the struggle for the life of others, should have a better idea of helpful influence than those who theorize from observation.

At any rate when a prospective grandmother urges her daughter to do as she did—to use "Mother's Friend," there is ample reason to believe it the right kind of advice.

Its purpose is to furnish pliancy to the muscles, to take away the strain on the cords and ligaments, to relieve the tension of nerves and tendons so apt to provoke or aggravate nausea, morning sickness, twitchings of the limbs and so on. It is applied externally.

Although, in the nature of things, a woman would use "Mother's Friend" but rarely, yet so effective has it been found that this splendid remedy is on sale in most drug stores throughout the United States. It has been prepared by Bradfield Regulator Co., 306 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., and advertised by us for over twenty years. Ask at the drug store for a bottle of "Mother's Friend." It is worth while.

West Duluth Briefs.

The West Duluth Women's Christian Temperance union was entertained this afternoon at the home of Mrs. O. T. Strand, 921 North Central avenue.

State Senator James P. Boyle of Eveleth and Edward Armstrong will speak this evening at the social center at the Irving school. The speakers will talk on the initiative and referendum amendments to the state constitution.

The Dramatic club of the Irving school social center will hold its first annual banquet this evening at the school building. Plans have been made to entertain for forty guests. Dancing and music will follow.

Dr. M. R. Zack has opened a dental office in the Nelson block, rooms 4 and 6, Grand avenue.

The Proctor Volunteer fire department will entertain on Friday evening, May 29, at a dancing party at the Odd Fellow's hall.

Mrs. George Coons and son, Ashley, of Proctor are spending a few days visiting relatives at Virginia.

The Adult Bible class of the Westminster Presbyterian church, Fifty-eighth avenue west and Ramsey street, will have charge of the services at the church Sunday evening. Each member of the class will take part.

R. Granquist, expert electrician, 304 Central avenue.

West Duluth lodge, Loyal Order of Moose, will hold its meeting this evening at the Great Eastern hall. Plans for the immediate furnishing of the big hall for club room purposes will be taken up. This meeting will be the final prior to the closing of the lodge's charter.

IS INJURED IN RUNAWAY

In a runaway at Second avenue east shortly before 1 o'clock this afternoon, one horse was killed, the driver, Bert McIntosh, 27 years old, was injured in his side, and a wagon load of slab wood was scattered. A second horse escaped uninjured.

The runaway started between First and Second streets on Second avenue, the horses having become suddenly frightened at an automobile. They dashed down the avenue and at First alley, almost directly in front of the Orpheum, they fell to the pavement, throwing McIntosh out of his seat and smashing the wagon.

One of the horses was so injured that it was immediately shot by Detective Toewe. McIntosh sustained an injured hip as a result of the fall, and after he was given medical attention by the police surgeon, he was able to go to his home at 2231 West Superior street, in a street car.

McIntosh drives for a West end wood dealer and he has been making his home with the latter.

GETS $8,000 FOR INJURIES

Miner Given Big Sum for Crushed Face and Loss of Eye.

Zekan Puvalich, who barely escaped death in an accident at the Mahoning mine near Hibbing when the side of a dump car fell striking him on the head cracking his skull, has through his representatives, Attorneys John H. Norton and Ljubo Bogicevich of this city, received $8,000 in settlement of his claim for personal injuries from the Mahoning Ore & Steel company.

The settlement was one of the largest which has been made out of court in a personal injury case for some time. The case was scheduled for trial at this term of the district court, but just before the action was called a settlement was effected between Abbott, McPherson, Lewis & Gilbert, attorneys for the company and representatives of the injured miner.

In the accident, Puvalich received a fractured skull and had one side of his face badly crushed and mutilated. One eye was removed by the physicians who attended him. The accident occurred Aug. 29, 1913, about one month before the workingmen's compensation law went into effect. Under the new schedule, he could not have recovered much more than half of what he secured from the company in settlement.

WARNING TO "MASHERS"

Judge Cutting Promises Maximum Sentences for Youths Who Annoy Women.

Warm Weather Brings Complaints of Loungers and First Arrests.

With the coming of summer and the arrest last night of Frank De Witz, 21, and Lloyd Rood, 27, on a charge of using profane language to two young girls, Judge Cutting this morning gave the annual warning to "mashers."

In the last few years, both police judges have been very hard on "mashers" and those convicted were usually given the maximum fine or jail sentence. Judge Cutting said this morning that the same ruling will be followed out this year. As mashers are wont to work during the summer months, the judge has instructed the police to keep a close watch on all young men and to bring them in headquarters, should they in the slightest degree annoy any women on the street.

It is during this season of the year, when young men usually stand around the corners, that the police receive complaints from women and girls to the effect that they are being annoyed. The officers have all been instructed to watch for law violators and the court has promised to inflict the stiffest fine possible on those convicted.

Both De Witz and Rood were taken into custody last evening by Detective Terry and Patrolman Westerlund on a charge of using profane language. They were accused by two girls, who claimed that the young men attempted to flirt with them in front of the Rex theater and that when they resented their action, De Witz swore at them. The girls appeared in court this morning and testified against the prisoners.

De Witz and Rood pleaded guilty when brought before Judge Cutting this morning and they were fined $40 and $10, respectively. The former was compelled to telephone his home at Rochester for money, with which to pay his fine, while Rood paid his $10 and costs to avoid a ten-day sentence. They both work at a local soda fountain.

WILL IMPROVE PARK PROPERTY

Mayor Makes Promise to Club—Other Improvements Asked of City.

That the city will eventually purchase additional property for the enlargement of Merritt park, and that an attempt will be made to connect Fortieth avenue with the boulevard were the promises made by Mayor W. I. Prince to the Oneota and Hazelwood Improvement club last night. The mayor also promised the members that the park would be given needed improvements during this summer, among which would be paths crossing the place.

The club adopted resolutions asking the city to purchase dock property near the foot of Thirty-ninth avenue. The state owns some property in this vicinity and it is proposed to ask that dock frontage adjoining this be purchased by the city. Members claimed that the city should own dock facilities in this vicinity in order that excursion boats might have a place to land passengers.

The club also adopted resolutions calling the attention of the health department to a nuisance said to be caused by the Elliott packing plant. During warm weather it is said to be increased on account of the odors issuing from the place.

L. A. Larson, president of the club, tendered his resignation to take effect at once. Mr. Larson told members that he intended moving his family to the Twin Cities where he expects to open an office. Mr. Larson was formerly the chief engineer for the city school board.

The election of a successor to Mr. Larson will be held next week. Capt. William Jeffreys, vice president of the club will probably be elected, according to statements made by the members.

SPEAKS AT WEST END.

Senator Boyle Addresses Audience at Columbia Hall.

Senator James P. Boyle told an audience at the Columbia hall that he would work for harbor improvements if chosen successor to Congressman Clarence B. Miller from this district. A breakwater for the harbor and deepening of the channels were among the improvements he would seek.

Senator Boyle said that the recent storm on the lake had demonstrated the need of this breakwater and that the expenditure of $4,000,000 for the purpose was far better than expending the same for war preparations.

He said that in his opinion the greatest crime of nations was the expenditure of billions of dollars annually for war when there are so many other important needs of the people being overlooked.

SURPRISED BY FRIENDS.

Victim of Accident Presented With Purse and Party Is Given.

Iver F. Peterson, who has been laid up for some time as a result of an accident, was pleasantly surprised last evening by a number of his friends at his home, 118 Twelfth avenue west. He was presented with a handsome purse. Games and music featured the evening's entertainment, one of the numbers being a solo rendered by Silas B. Markeson. The guests were: Messrs. and Mesdames C. J. Lindblom, H. C. Westrom, F. L. Peterson, Carl Peterson, Mrs. J. Stenback, Misses Goodhand, Olga Zurk, Adelaide Roos, Alma Olson, Olga Peterson, Ida Iverson, Alice Sorenson, Esther Peterson, Signe Peterson, and Iver Peterson, S. B. Markeson, James Knutson, Charles Simonson, Axel Ecklund, John Grimstad, Arthur Carlson, Thomas Stroum and Frank O. Peterson.

How You Can Have a Clear, Hairless Skin

(Boudoir Secrets)

Here is an inexpensive and time-saving hair remover every woman should keep handy, for with it the skin can be kept entirely free from hair or fuzz. Get a small original package of powdered delatone and when hair growths appear make a paste with a little of the powder and some water. Apply, and after two or three minutes rub off and the hairs will have vanished. The skin should then be washed to free it from the remaining delatone. This is quite harmless, but be certain you get delatone.—Advertisement.

Hoving Funeral.

The funeral of David S. Hoving, 21 years old, who died yesterday at the St. Louis county sanitarium, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from Olson & Crawford's undertaking rooms. Interment will be in Park Hill cemetery. Rev. C. G. Olson of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church will officiate. The young man resided with his parents at Twenty-eighth avenue West and Helm street.

West End Briefs.

Harry T. Taylor of International Falls is spending a few days in this end of the city.

The Young Ladies' Society of the Swedish Baptist church will be entertained tomorrow evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Peterson, 2720 West Second street.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Second Presbyterian church was entertained yesterday afternoon in the church parlors. Mrs. A. F. Swanstrom and Mrs. John Ledingham were hostesses.

James C. Colander of Green Bay, Wis., is a guest this week of West end relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. K. E. Anderson of Minneapolis are visiting this week at the home of relatives in the West end.

The Men's Welfare League of the Swedish Mission church held a business meeting in the church last night.

The West End Commercial club will hold a business meeting this evening at Simonson's hall, Twenty-first avenue west and Superior street.

Mr. and Mrs. George M. Jensen, 2117 West First street, returned yesterday from a week's visit in the Twin Cities. Mr. Jensen was attending the annual convention of the Northwestern Printers' Cost association. They also attended the festivities held by the Norwegian societies of Minneapolis on Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

It is announced that the choir of the Swedish Mission church, which usually holds its rehearsal on Friday evenings, will meet tonight instead of tomorrow.

Gladys Bergquist Dies.

Gladys, the 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bergquist, former residents of the West end, who are now residing at French river, died yesterday. The funeral will take place from the family home on Sunday afternoon. Rev. C. W. R. Wermine, pastor of the Swedish Methodist church, will officiate.

CHURCH BODY BEGINS WORK

choice of a moderator and in the acts of the assembly.

The program for today was short. The assembly was opened with prayer and after a report of the committee on arrangements recess was scheduled to be followed by the election of a moderator. There will be a general reception tonight.

The last meeting of the general assembly held in Chicago, was in 1877.

Interesting Contest.

An interesting contest is expected between the progressives and reactionary elements over an interpretation of that portion of last year's report of the board of home missions which sought to abolish the department of church and country life, organized to enlarge and improve the work of the country church and adapt itself to the practical needs of the community. The last general assembly adopted a report expressing the fullest sympathy with the work, but directing that the department be discontinued as soon as practicable. The department has continued its work under the direction of Rev. Charles L. Thompson of New York, but he is expected to resign his post because of old age. He is 78 years old. It is said that many influential leaders will make a determined effort to have this department and its work continued.

Reports from a score of standing and special committees dealing with many important phases of religious, social, educational, political and industrial life will be considered by the assembly in the ten days it is in session.

Sermon By Moderator.

Rev. John Timothy Stone, D.D., pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church and moderator of the body, opened the general assembly at 10:30 o'clock with a sermon in which he reviewed the progress of the church and enumerated its principal activities during the past year. It was the second time in the history of the Presbyterian General Assembly that the retiring moderator convened the new assembly in the church of which he was pastor.

Rev. William H. Roberts of Philadelphia who has acted as stated clerk for years, called the roll after the assembly had been convened.

The first important item of business was the organization of the new body by the election of a moderator and other officials. There were fewer candidates for moderator mentioned than in previous years and as a result little canvassing for votes. This was a result of the precedent established last year when Dr. Stone was unexpectedly elected from the floor of the assembly after half a dozen candidates had spent many days electioneering among the commissioners.

Gavel of Walrus Tusk.

Rev. S. Hall Young, who spent forty years as a missionary in Alaska, where he established the first church of any denomination, presented both Moderator Stone and his successor with a gavel made from the tusks of a walrus, which Dr. Young killed on one of his expeditions in the Behring sea.

The Fourth Presbyterian church, Lake Shore Drive and Chestnut street, in which the general assembly is in session, was recently built at a cost of $750,000 and is said to be the most beautiful and best equipped church of that demonination in the world. It is situated in one of the most aristocratic residence sections of the city although not more than one mile from the retail shopping and theater district. It was dedicated May 9, has a seating capacity of 1,500, and will be a "seven days a week church" devoted to every kind of institutional activity.

Sabbath Observance.

"King George of England has established the rule for himself and his family never to travel on Sunday unless it is absolutely necessary. Would that in our country the high officials of our own government, some of them professing Christians, would adopt the same rule and set an example to the American people. Alas, it is not so at present."

The committee on Sabbath observance drew this contrast today in its report. The results of twenty-three years' work of the Sabbath day observance committee were laid before the assembly. The committee found cause for rejoicing in the passage of Sunday rest laws by forty-seven states, but issued a circumstantial rebuke to the management of the Panama-Pacific exposition for planning to open its gates on Sunday.

General adoption of a Saturday half holiday as giving opportunity for preparation for the Sabbath was advocated in the resolutions which closed the report. Families are urged not to buy anything on the Sabbath, to refrain from reading Sunday papers and to facilitate the religious observances of servants.

Marriage and Divorce.

"One out of eleven marriages in this country ends in divorce. The highest divorce rate in any country is in Japan. The next highest is in the United States. This situation is a disgrace to America." So saying the report of the committee on marriage and divorce opened with an emphatic denunciation of apathy on this subject and declared that the time was ripe for action and not words.

The committee recommends that this general assembly approve of the following particulars as desirable for incorporation in an improved state code or new law on marriage and divorce:

"The requirement of a residence of at least two years in the state where the application for divorce is to be entered.

"The requirement of a period of at least one year after the granting of decree, before the same shall take effect.

"The following proviso concerning evasion of law as to marriage and divorce, to-wit:

"That if any person or persons being resident ofthis sitate shall go into another state or country with intent to evade or violate any of the laws of this state pertaining to marriage or obtain a divorce, and there contract a marriage or obtain a divorce, prohibited by the said laws of this state, and then return to this state, such marriage or such divorce shall be null and void for all purposes in this state, with the same effect as though such prohibited marriage or divorce had been entered into in this state."

Loss of Membership.

A net loss of members to the Presbyterian church averaging more than 43,000 a year for the six years since 1908 was regretfully announced. This loss was stated to be through the single item of absenteeism. In 1913, 50,927 members were dropped from the rolls and 7,206 were restored.

These figures, however, take no account of the yearly additions to the church in new members, children, converts, etc.

The loss, as given above, was stated to be due both to what is termed "absenteeism" and to the negligence of members to notify their churches of change of address. The statement was given in the report of the committee on the suspended roll.

Prison Reform.

"Government is but the sum of individuals which cannot do as a whole what is forbidden to its members. We find nothing in the teaching of Christ which authorizes or suggests the right of government to revenge itself on its delinquent members."

With these words for preamble the prison reform committee submitted a report condemning virtually the entire operation of the penal system in this country, both courts and prisons. The entire structure is erected on the fallacy that a prison is a place of punishment, the report declared, stating further that the best outlook at present is through the extension of probation and honor systems.

The Bible in the Schools.

Efforts to have the Bible read daily in the public schools of the United States will be pressed strongly by the alliance of reformed churches in America holding the Presbyterian system, according to resolutions offered for acceptance by the general assembly.

"Religious training in our public schools, so planned as to avoid the violation in any way of our cherished principle of the separation of church and state, should be systematic and constant," declared the preamble. "This council calls upon the church authorities to investigate the subject fully with a view to devising some method of averting the sad results of present inefficiency in moral and religious training."

The resolution reads:

"The Word of God is the charter of the spiritual and civil rights of man, as abundantly illustrated in the history and institutions of this country. Persistent efforts are being made to exclude the Bible from use in the public schools. It is ordered that use be made of every proper means in maintaining the Word of God as an essential element in the education and training of the youth of the land."

WASHINGTON ASSURED HUERTA IS READY TO GIVE UP THE FIGHT

the first published statement that Gen. Huerta was to be eliminated as a condition precedent to the continuance of the mediation and the denial from Huerta that his representatives had instructions from him. All agree that Huerta has not directed his commissioners to announce his elimination.

It likewise is understood that the Mexican commissioners will not abuse the power placed in their hands and that if exercised, so far as it affects the retention by Huerta of his office of provisional president, it will not be called forth except practically as a last resort to save the mediation from failure.

At the navy department today it was stated that it is not deemed expedient to make any changes in the disposition of the American fleet in Mexican waters during the present state of the mediation, though routine drills and practices of the ships have been much deranged by their long stay in that part of the world.

May Force Huerta's Hand.

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 21.—There is a feeling on the part of the principals to the mediation conference here that the savage advance of the Constitutionalist army under Gen. Villa inevitably must have a bearing upon the settlement of the difficulties between the United States and Huerta's party.

When the South American mediators withdrew the invitation they had extended to Gen. Carranza to send delegates to the Niagara Falls conference, because of the refusal of the Constitutionalist leader to agree to an armistice to continue during the sessions, it was stated that the conference would proceed to a consideration of questions growing out of the Tampico incident and subsequent causes of irritation between the Mexican Federal army and the American military forces.

Cannot Stop Villa.

Official reports coming yesterday from Constitutionalist sources reciting the victories of Villa and his army in the Saltillo campaign, have convinced the Mexican representatives here that Huerta's foes cannot be stopped. Moreover, the execution of a Federal general and his entire staff by Villa has impressed upon them the fact that leaders of the Federal army cannot hope for mercy if they fall into the hands of the Constitutionalists.

That the weakening situation of the Federal forces may force Huerta's hand is recognized here.

Mediators Meet Mexicans.

The three South American mediators, in an informal conference today with the representatives of Gen. Huerta, sought to learn in a general way the viewpoint of the Mexican representatives on various tentative plans for a solution of the Mexican problem.

The mediators pursued the same course with the Mexican delegates today as they did with the American peace commissioners last night. No formal expression of views was required, but the mediators suggested hypothetical steps looking to a settlement of the Mexican imbroglio, and learned the trend of thought of the delegates.

No proposals of a definite character had been made to the Americans, and it was understood that none were contemplated today with the Mexicans. In fact, one of the principals to the conference expressed the opinion that it might be several days before a definite and comprehensive plan would be submitted for formal consideration to either side.

They Just Talked.

Minister Naon of Argentina described the informal sessions with each side as "talks" or "conversations" indicating that what was being done was chiefly for the guidance of all parties in shaping the course of the mediation.

In the talk of the mediators with the American delegates, no points were broached as having been authorized by the Mexican delegates, but the substance of the talk was nevertheless communicated today by the American delegates to Washington in line with the policy they have adopted of keeping President Wilson and Secretary Bryan closely advised of developments here.

Today's conference between the South American mediators and the Mexican delegates marked the conclusion of the first step in the attempt being made to compose differences between the United States and Mexico.

"Retirement" Story Explained.

Much interest was displayed here in an explanation circulated today respecting the erroneous dispatch of yesterday, saying Huerta would retire. As received, the dispatch read:

"Huerta gave out a statement saying he authorized peace delegates to offer resignation if necessary, to arrange peace."

Correspondents of the Associated Press in Mexico were immediately cabled to send Huerta's verbatim statement, which order disclosed after several hours that the word "denying" had been received "saying" and that the sense of the dispatch had been reversed by this error. As filed, the dispatch was a denial by Huerta that he had authorized his delegates to agree to his retirement from the presidency. An investigation is proceeding to fix responsibility for the error.

Statement By Ruiz.

Mexico City, May 21.—Estava Ruiz, acting minister of foreign affairs, reiterated his former statements relative to the powers granted to the Mexican delegates to the peace conference at Niagara Falls. He said that Mexico's representatives had been empowered by the government to deal with everything that may be discussed, with the object of solving the international difficulty.

The keenest interest is manifested by all classes in the peace conference. The department of foreign affairs is in close totich with the delegates, and the Brazilian minister is receiving dispatches from the Brazilian ambassador relative to the conference. Americans here are being kept informed of events by the minister.

Provisional President Huerta, in the course of an interview yesterday said:

"The Mexican peace delegates have no instructions to offer my resignation at the conferences at Niagara Falls."

The president spoke with energy, standing erect, and punctuated his words with a characteristic movement of the right hand.

Prior to this, the acting minister of foreign affairs, Esteva Ruiz, had said that the Mexican representatives had been given "ample powers," by the government to deal with everything that may be discussed at the peace conference with the object of solving the international difficulty.

MELLEN FOR U. S. CONTROL OF RAILWAYS

a case like that?"

"When I value a purchase I consider its prospective value, what it ultimately will be worth."

In explaining the purchase of the Rhode Island trolleys, Mr. Mellen said that the price paid was in debentures of the Rhode Island Security company, securities guaranteed by the New Haven railroad.

"As this was an inter-company transaction," said Mr. Mellen, "the price was perfectly immaterial. It simply was the passing of securities between the New Haven and its various subsidiaries. It was the changing of assets from one pocket to another."

Mr. Mellen declared that in the Rhode Island trolley transactions he was assisted by various members of the board of directors.

"Was there influence exerted to induce you to acquire these trolley lines?" asked Mr. Folk.

Worked Toward Principle.

"I never have known," responded Mr. Mellen, "a large transportation matter that was not backed by influence. The fact is that in the acquisition of these electric lines I was working toward a great principle. Sooner or later, I felt, transportation was to be by electricity. I am still confident that my theory was right."

"Do you think control of that kind fair to the public?"

"The control must be such as was contemplated in New England, or it must be in the hands of the government," answered Mr. Mellen with emphasis.

"You regard control by one man as a good thing?"

"That is a misnomer. No one man could control it. I had more bosses when I was president of the New Haven at a salary of $60,000 than when I was a clerk at $50 a month."

"The main force was Mr. Morgan, was it not?"

Greatest Force in the World.

"The greatest force in the world is brains, and Mr. Morgan had them," replied Mr. Mellen squarely.

"Then the control would have gone to one man?" Mr. Folk continued.

"If his brains controlled the situation, he had a right to that control."

"Have you, in the light of later events, changed your views?"

"Mr. Morgan's death changed the situation."

Says Morgan Made Nothing.

Dominant control by the late J. Pierpont Morgan, not only of the officials, but of the properties of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railway, was further emphasized yesterday, by Former President Mellen.

Mr. Mellen, testifying to his high regard for Mr. Morgan said:

"I do not remember his doing a single thing on which he made a dollar in connection with the New Haven while I was president."

Mr. Mellen admitted frankly that neither he nor any of the directors of the New Haven had the temerity openly to oppose Mr. Morgan's plans, although he said he sometimes disagreed with them. He said, however, that Mr. Morgan's judgment in any financial transaction was so marvelous that anybody well might hesitate before running counter to it.

Had Morgan Lived.

Even in the acquisition by the New Haven of the Westchester property, in which millions of dollars vanished as thin air, Mr. Mellen, who said he did not approve of the purchase, insisted that, had Mr. Morgan lived, the property might have been far more valuable than it is today.

So, too, with the acquisition of the Worcester, Nashua & Rochester railroad, in which Mr. Morgan, Mr. Mellen said, was responsible for paying $15 a share more than the stock was worth. As in the Westchester transaction, however, Mr. Morgan, according to Mr. Mellen, would brook no interference, carrying out his plans practically without regard to the opinions of others interested.

Acquisition by the New Haven of trolley lines in Connecticut and Rhode Island occupied much attention at yesterday's proceedings. Mr. Mellen said that some of the properties had been purchased at too high a price, but added that they were worth more to the New Haven, at the time, than to anybody else. In purchasing the lines, particularly those in Connecticut, he said, he encountered "sharp competition" from other prospective purchasers, and thereby the price was boosted."

Aldrich's Name Brought In.

Just at the close of the day it developed that Former United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island was primarily instrumental in selling the trolley system of that state to the New Haven.

Mr. Mellen maintained that the trolley lines acquired by the New Haven, generally speaking, were valuable properties, and while they had cost a large amount, he believed the money had been well invested. He cited the three Connecticut trolleys which had been leased for ninety-nine years on a guarantee of 5 per cent return.

At the close of the day Mr. Mellen, who had been telling his story in a vigorous manner, giving illuminating side lights upon every detail of importance, perceptibly tired. His voice began to lose its resonance and clearness, and several times he had to be admonished by counsel and commissioners to speak louder. His weariness seemed to be purely physical, however. His answers were prompt and direct and he apparently retained to the full his powers of memory and his grasp of details about which he was interrogated.

Are American Complexions Improving?

There is considerable discussion of the point in all beauty journals today and as near as we can glean the opinion is that the discarding of pore-clogging powders has made for a decided increase in beauty of the American woman's complexion.

A plain lotion is best for the complexion because it protects the skin and gives to it an indefinable charm and elegance impossible with powder or rouge. To prepare a perfect lotion at home, dissolve 4 ounces spurmax, which you get from your druggist, in ½ pint hot water or witch hazel and add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. The spurmax lotion cannot be detected when on and a single application lasts an entire day. It blends so nicely with the skin that spotting or streaking is impossible. This lotion is splendid for that shiny, oily appearance and other complexion upsets. It will give a rough, aged skin a smoothness and youth-tint truly charming.—Advertisement.

FALL IS LIKELY TO PROVE FATAL

While leaning over the railing on the Sixth avenue viaduct, Edward Walsh, 35 years old, fell through about 7 o'clock last evening, falling a distance of thirty-five feet to the tracks below. He is at St. Luke's hospital, where his condition was this afternoon reported to be serious and his recovery very doubtful.

According to several pedestrians, who saw the accident, last evening, Walsh appeared to be intoxicated. He leaned on the railing and then suddenly shot through to the yards below. He fell on his head and right shoulder, breaking his arm and severely bruising his skull. He also sustained several internal injuries and Police Surgeon Murphy, who attended the man, said this morning that in his opinion Walsh will not live.

Walsh was picked up by the pedestrians, who saw the accident, and later taken to St. Luke's hospital, where he was brought back to consciousness by Dr. Murphy. He was able to tell his name and age and state that he had recently worked in the woods. He then lapsed into unconsciousness again and he remained in this condition all night and this morning.

Absorbs Skin, Chases Wrinkles—Young Again

"The shock at beholding myself in the glass after nine long weeks abed nearly caused a relapse," writes Emily Colson in Home Queen. "The faded face, with its lines of illness and worry, seemed twenty years older. Now, I thought, I could not attend my chum's wedding, eleven days off, to which I had looked hopefully forward.

"She herself came to my rescue. She procured an ounce of ordinary mercolized wax at the drug store, which she bade me spread on like cold cream, washing it off next morning. Applied nightly, this apparently absorbed the withered skin, so gently I experienced no discomfort. Upon the wedding morn the pallid complexion had entirely given way to one of youthful color and loveliness.

And there wasn't a wrinkle. This due to a wash lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel. The daily face bath had dispensed every line." —Advertisement.

THICK BROWN SCALE ON TOP OF HEAD

Began to Spread. Scratched and Made Sore. Itched and Burned. Hair Began to Fall Out. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

Cotthus, Mo.—"I noticed a small scaly spot on top of my little girl's head but paid little attention to it. In about two months it began to spread and would break out in yellow blisters. They would break and be a raw sore for a while and then dry up and leave a brown yellow scale, in some places very thick. I could hardly keep her from scratching it raw all the time, her head itched and burned so. She scratched and made raw sores. Her hair began to fall out gradually and seemed perfectly dead. It kept spreading until it was over half of her head and I thought I would be bound to cut her hair, which I hated to do.

"I decided to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment, as I saw so many advertisements praising it so I sent for a sample. I used them and it began to improve so I bought some Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment All the back of her head was perfectly raw when I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I followed the directions for the treatment of eczema on the scalp and her head was cured." (Signed) Mrs. M. Broyles, June 18, 1913.

A single cake of Cuticura Soap (25c.) and box of Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are often sufficient when all else has failed. Sold throughout the world. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

IS ARRESTED FOR PERJURY

Wrath of Mother-in-Law Gets Richard Valentine Into Trouble.

A mother's anger caused by the disobedience of her daughter and the disregard of her warnings this morning caused the arrest of Richard Valentine, 27 years old, on a charge of perjury. He is accused by Mrs. Hannah Bergren of having perjured himself to Clerk of Court J. P. Johnson when the young man took out a marriage license on March 14 and swore that his present wife was 18 years old. They were married that day by Rev. A. W. Ryan, rector of St. Paul's.

Mrs. Bergren claims that she warned Valentine and her daughter, Mildred Olson, last winter, not to marry, as the latter was not yet 18 years old. She also claims that she told Valentine not to obtain a marriage license as he would thus perjure himself.

Valentine and his wife were married on March 14 and have since been living together. The mother yesterday swore out a complaint for the former's arrest and he was this morning taken into custody by Court Officer Jensen. He asked for a hearing when arraigned before Judge Cutting and his examination was set for 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Should Valentine be convicted on a charge of perjury he will face a sentence of from one to five years. The mother claims that Mrs. Valentine will not be 18 years old until next month.

Most Backache Suffering Due to Disordered Kidneys

In the removal of waste material from the body, the kidneys are called upon to perform a very important duty. The failure of these marvelous and delicately constructed tubules to properly do their work means retention in the system of poisonous matter. This pollutes the body, and if permitted to remain results in severe backache pains, loss of appetite, headache, torpid liver, constipation, indigestion, sleeplessness, rheumatism, and eventually Bright's disease.

About 37 years ago Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy was discovered; its remarkable power to correct diseases of the kidneys and liver and to assist in restoring these vital organs to health was at once appreciated. And today it stands as one of the standard remedies in the treatment of diseases of the Kidneys and liver. It contains no harmful ingredients. Many persons suffer from diseases of the kidneys needlessly. The use of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy will improve your health, and make you feel that life is really worth the living.

It is sold by all druggists in 50c and $1.00 sizes. A free sample and other valuable information if you write, Warner's Safe Remedies Co., Dept. 375, Rochester, N. Y.

Y. M. C. A. IN OTHER LANDS

Making Work of Diplomats Unnecessary, Says John R. Mott's Associate.

Former Mexican Secretary Says That Country Needs an Ideal.

E. T. Colton, an associate of Dr. John R. Mott, executive secretary of the foreign department of the International Y. M. C. A. committee, and A. E. Turner, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Monterey, Mex., and a very well known Y. M. C. A. field worker, arrived in Duluth today.

In speaking of the work of the Y. M. C. A. in foreign countries, Mr. Colton declared that the efforts of the international association were so appreciated by many of the government officials of some of the Latin republics that the remark was made that the work of the diplomat was being made unnecessary.

"Buenos Aires raises an annual budget of $32,000 for the maintenance of the Y. M. C. A. of that city," declared Mr. Colton, "which is compared to $6,000 contributed by North America. In addition to this, $140,000 was raised for the construction of the Y. M. C. A. building, which is used daily by more than 1,000 members.

"John R. Mott is doing a wonderful work. His work has earned the appreciation of the president of the United States. While Dr. Mott did not originate the foreign work of the Christian association, he has greatly elaborated it and has built up a remarkable system.

"Some of the countries of Europe would have the Chinese believe that our Y. M. C. A. in that country is merely a blind for governmental exploitation of China. That this assumption, or pretended belief upon the part of the press of some of the other countries, is not taken the least seriously by the Chinese, is proven by the fact that some of the leading government officials of some of the Chinese provinces are directors and earnest supporters of the Y. M. C. A. movement.

Many Prejudices.

"It has required earnest and often strenuous work to overcome prejudices in some of the foreign fields, this being especially true of China; but the expansion, the progression and the education of most of the foreign countries have made it easier, and in this work the association has taken no small part."

Speaking of Mexico and some of the conditions that brought about the present revolution, Mr. Turner declared that it was primarily the dissatisfaction of the people that brought about the uprising.

"Mexico is one-fourth as large as the United States in area," he declared, "and posseses rich mineral lands and agricultural areas. The agricultural lands surpass in value the mineral deposits. More than fifty different kinds of fruits can be raised and grains of various kinds grow readily and abundantly.

"In this area are 15,000,000 people. Less than 5,000,000 can read and write, the rest living in ignorance and extreme poverty. The laboring man, on an average, draws less than 50 cents a day.

"The coming of foreigners, the establishment of schools, the encouraging of Protestant missionaries, education and regeneration and the construction of railroads created new ambitions and new ideas. These desires are chiefly responsible for the revolution. The solution of the revolution in Mexico is the raising of the lower classes into a middle class which can take over the power of government and make it stable."

Lack An Ideal.

Working among the Mexicans and knowing them thoroughly, Mr. Turner declares that it is to the lack of an ideal that can be attributed the non progressiveness of the people of the country and consequently Mexico as a nation.

Education, which resulted in an increase from 3,000,000 educated people in 1900 to 5,000,000 in 1910, will eventually create new ideals and add the incentive of ambition, believes Mr. Turner, who declares that the Mexican does not fundamentally or racially lack steadfastness or stability of character.

Potentially, the former secretary of Monterey declares, Mexico is a great nation, that will some day come into its true destiny.

DOCTORS WERE NOT NEGLIGENT

Jury Absolves Them From the Charge of Malpractice.

Treatment which Mathew Alexander, woodsman, received from Drs. H. E. Wunder and William Goldsworthy when he went to them Jan. 11, 1913, suffering from blood poisoning in his right arm, did not constitute malpractice in the opinion of a district court jury which tried a suit for damages brought by Alexander against the local physicians. The verdict was returned in court at 9:50 o'clock this morning. It absolved the defendants from any responsibility for the subsequent condition of Alexander's arm.

Alexander claims that although he had a ticket which entitled him to receive treatment from the physicians, Dr. Wunder only made a superficial examination when he should have operated. When the arm grew worse he went to another physician and had the necessary operation performed. Alexander sued for $10,000 damages.

Alexander a few months ago sued Alger, Smith & Co. for the alleged failure of the company to provide him with surgical treatment as called for by his medical and hospital ticket, which entitled him to treatment by Drs. Wunder and Goldsworthy. He asked $3,000 damages. The jury in the case hung out for fifty-four hours and then failed to agree. They were discharged Dec. 24. This case is still pending.

WISCONSIN STOCK EXHIBIT PLANNED.

Madison, Wis., May 21.—The sum of $10,000 is practically assured to be set aside by the Panama-Pacific exposition commission of this state for a Wisconsin display of livestock. Word to this effect came to the Wisconsin Livestock Breeders' association today from Secretary D. E. Bowe, Milwaukee, Wis.

RAIN COVERED WIDE TERRITORY

The thunder storm of last night was the third which Duluth has had this year, and accompanying it was a rain that was heavier than any of the showers that have fallen during the last two days. It was not local but rather widespread. Almost the entire upper lake region got it, and so did the Mississippi valley, the Red River valley and a large part of the Northwest. It is predicted that the rainy season has spent itself for the time and that Duluth is due to get a period of fair weather again.

HOW "TIZ" GLADDENS TIRED, ACHING FEET

"TIZ" fixed my sore, swollen, sweaty, calloused feet and corns.

Ah! what relief. No more tired feet; no more burning feet; no more swollen, bad smelling, sweaty feet. No more pain in corns, callouses or bunions. No matter what ails your feet or what under the sun you've tried without getting relief, just use "TIZ."

"TIZ" is the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up the feet; "TIZ" is magical; "TIZ" is grand; "TIZ" will cure your foot troubles so you'll never limp or draw up your face in pain. Your shoes won't seem tight and your feet will never, never hurt or get sore, swollen or tired. Think of it, no more foot misery; no more burning corns, callouses or bunions.

Get a 25 cent box at any drug store or department store, and get instant relief. Get a whole year's foot relief for only 25 cents. Think of it.

NEW ASSISTANT TRAFFIC MANAGER

The new assistant traffic manager of the Commercial club is Herbert M. Cross, who has spent the whole of his business life in the railroad business, and who is believed to be exceptionally well equipped for the position which he has assumed. For seventeen years he was connected with the Great Northern road, rising from office boy to the leading clerical positions. He has been at different times, chief clerk, cashier and rate clerk in Superior and at the time he resigned to take the assistant traffic managership of the Duluth club, was cashier at the general offices in Superior. Mr. Cross is considered one of the most efficient railroad office men at the Head of the Lakes, and it is believed that he will be of much value to the club's traffic department, which, under the management of G. Roy Hall, has become the most important department of the club.

HERBERT M. CROSS.

CANNOT RENEW DEAD LICENSE FOR SALOON

Madison, Wis., May 21.—The supreme court today held that when a place used as a saloon in localities where the ratio under the Baker law is exceeded, has been discontinued for saloon purposes, the right has been lost to have a license renewed. The case in point was that of a license having been granted for a place in Forest county which had been discontinued for three years.

TRAFFIC TIED UP BY FOG

Steamer George Peavey Is Compelled to Return to Port.

Vessel Owners More Cautious Since Lake Captains Were Punished.

Navigation at the Head of the Lakes was practically at a standstill for several hours yesterday afternoon and last night because of a dense fog which enveloped the upper lake region. The steamer George Peavey, one of the Tomlinson vessels, which started on a down-lake trip early in the evening, was unable to proceed in safety, and turned about, returning to harbor. The fog horns were kept blowing vigorously and no accidents are reported at this end of the lake.

Owing to the summary penalty which was meted out to the captains of the America and the Poe for failing to observe the sailing regulations during the fog of two weeks ago, when both vessels were beached, marine officials are said to be tightening up on the observance of these rulings. The season so far has been featured with an unusual number of serious accidents, the worst of which was the sinking of the Benjamin Noble with her whole crew and cargo.

VESSELS WILL HAVE LAYOFF

Independents Suffer Most; Several Large Boats Tie Up.

The outlook for independent vessel owners at present is anything but cheerful. Practically all of the ore will be shipped in corporation vessels. It is estimated that the amount transported in outside vessels will not amount to 25 per cent of the usual amount. Should the steel business have a turn for the better, however, independent boats would be greatly benefited.

Practically no season chartering is being done at this time. In many cases where business has been obtained by Independents, it has been due to the fact that cargoes have been traded.

The movement in coal from down-lake ports to the Head of the Lakes has been fairly heavy this spring, and if the movement continues as it has, the docks here will soon be crowded. The same is said to be true of the Lake Michigan docks. There some of the shippers are cutting down their orders and will not increase them until shipments from the docks are improved.

Grain shippers have not been anxious for tonnage, which has been freely offered at 1 cent. About 1,000,000 bushels of grain have been shipped from the Head of the Lakes this week, and several cargoes more have been chartered for immediate shipment. Stocks in elevators here are at a record low mark at present, and if the movement continues for a couple of weeks, stocks will be exhausted.

Vessel owners are convinced that they will be unable to keep all their boats going the way business stands, and some of the vessels are being given a layoff for a short time. The steamer Western Star is reported to have gone into drydock at Lorain today, but will go into commission as soon as repairs have been made. The steamer L. C. Smith, which wintered at Port Huron, left today for Toledo, where she will go into dry dock for a time. The steamer M. A. Bradley will leave the same port the latter part of the week for Cleveland where she will wait until better freight rates are in sight.

AGAIN READY FOR VOYAGE.

Steamship America Will Resume Regular Trips Friday.

The steamer America, owned by the United States & Dominion Transportation company, which has been at the shipyards in Superior for about two weeks undergoing repairs, will be put in commission tomorrow and start on a trip to south shore ports at 5 o'clock. The vessel, which was wrecked on Fisherman's point during the recent dense fog suffered severe damages, being punctured on the rocks. The boat will be inspected by the government inspector this afternoon.

DROPPED $630 IN "BLACK JACK" GAME

Because he "sat in on a 'black jack' game" in a back room of E. J. Johnson's saloon at Buhl, April 25, 1913, and donated $630 to the cause, Otto Gerglund started suit in district court yesterday afternoon to recover his loss from the saloonkeeper and his sureties, Nels Rian and Ed Johnson.

Berglund claims that the owner of the saloon induced him to take a hand in the game and that when he departed from the thirst emporium, his roll had changed hands. Berglund claims that Johnson violated the condition of his bond given to the village of Buhl by permitting gambling in his saloon.

STEALS SUIT CASE FROM POLICE STATION

John Oikari, 32 years old, succeeded in stealing a suitcase from police headquarters yesterday.

Yesterday afternoon Oikari came into headquarters and made a complaint about the loss of $10 which had been taken from his room. Oikari was told to wait until one of the detectives arrived, and he was allowed to sit in the jailors' room at the rear of the station.

About 4 o'clock Jailor Johnson was called out on a run and while returning along Michigan street, near First avenue east, he saw Oikari walking along with a suitcase under his arm. Officer Johnson recognized both Oikari and the suitcase and he jumped off the police patrol and placed Oikari under arrest.

In police court this morning Oikari pleaded guilty to the charge of petit larceny and he was fined $40 and costs or thirty days on the work farm.

LETTER FROM FLYNT.

Written By Former Duluthian Before Being Killed in Mexico.

Stillwater, Minn., May 21.—Arthur F. Flynt, formerly of Duluth, who is believed to have been killed by Mexican Federals near Tepic, was last heard from alive while he was being held a prisoner.

A letter was received from him in March by his daughter, Mrs. J. B. Sutton of Nevada, and was forwarded to Mrs. John Sutton of Stillwater.

BUSIEST DAY SINCE FALL FOR POLICE.

The largest grist in the past six months was brought before Judge Cutting in police court this morning. The police were kept busier last evening and during the night than at any time since last fall. Most of those arrested were taken into custody on charges of drunkenness, while several were brought in for disorderly conduct, swearing on the street, larceny and assault. There were twenty-eight arrests in all yesterday. Last night the police gave twenty men free lodging at police headquarters.

WHAT OTHER CITIES ARE DOING

A GREAT many cities are having much difficulty in raising funds for improvements. In some cities the governing authorities have started improvements without taking the people into their confidence, so that when the expense of the improvements had to be met by taxation the people objected to the increase in taxes.

The most satisfactory way for a city to secure improvements is to have them sanctioned by the people. A number of cities practice this with very satisfactory results. City officials hold mass meetings in different parts of the city and ask all property owners in the immediate vicinity of each district to come together and discuss improvements. The city officials call upon the property owners to state what they think is most needed in their community; this is tabulated on a blackboard. A free expression of opinion is solicited and encouraged.

After a number of suggestions have been made, the property owners are then asked to vote which one of these they consider the most important. The improvement that receives the largest number of votes is placed on another part of the blackboard and an estimate of the cost of that improvement is made during the meeting by a person competent to make an estimate. He is usually in the employ of the city. After the people have agreed to the necessity of this particular improvement, the majority having agreed that it is the most necessary improvement, then the people are asked to suggest ways and means of raising money to pay for the cost of this improvement. In nearly every instance the majority favor the floating of a bond issue and the providing of a sinking fund to run for a period of thirty or more years. This sinking fund and interest are met by taxation which is added to the regular budget of the city.

It has been found well to have on the blackboard the present budget of the city, showing the people how much money is taken in and how much spent for ordinary expenses. The next week the same kind of a meeting is held in another part of the city in the same manner, and so on until all parts of the city have had an opportunity of discussing the method of ascertaining the needed improvements, and how they shall be provided for. Cities which have followed this plan have been able to secure a very hearty and enthusiastic co-operation on the part of the citizens on the matter of necessary improvements.

Most of the important special improvements in Duluth are ordered after the people owning property fronting on the street have petitioned for them. The city officials meet with the property owners to ascertain the opinion of the majority as to the nature of the improvement. The cost is defrayed by assessments levied against the property benefited. The payment can be made in a lump sum or it can be spread over a period of three years. The cost of the street intersections and storm sewers is paid by the city from funds raised by general taxation. This system is generally satisfactory to local citizens.

SAYS ALL HUERTA'S PARTY MUST GO OUT

Pesquiera Declares That Would Pacify All of Mexico.

El Paso, Tex., May 21.—Constitutionalist leaders here reiterate the statement that the elimination of Huerta alone would not suffice to pacify the country. They declare that the absolute separation from power of the party supporting Huerta would bring about peace.

"In the event of Huerta's resignation," said Roberto V. Pesquiera, confidential representative of the Constitutionalist government, "some one undoubtedly would be left in charge of the government in Mexico, as was the case in Chihuahua when Federico Moye was left in charge after Gen. Velasco had evacuated that town before the approach of Gen. Villa. I anticipate no trouble or bad conditions from this move, but I think it would not bring relief.

"Such a condition of affairs, I believe, would automatically bring into power those forces which we represent, forces which would carry into effect those reforms we deem indispensable to the pacification of Mexico. That is to say, the separation of the Huerta element from power would automatically pacify the country."

RELATE ADVENTURES WITH THE MEXICANS

Consul Edwards and Other Refugees Reach San Francisco.

San Francisco, Cal., May 21.—With nearly a score of American, English and other refugees from Mexico aboard out of a passenger list of 109, the Pacific Mail steamship Newport, Capt. Gardner G. Track, commanding, docked at this port yesterday.

Many of the refugees, among them United States Consul Clement S. Edwards, stationed at Acapulco, and Walter M. Neal, general manager of El Favor Silver mines, state of Jalisco, brought thrilling tales of their adventures in escaping from the war ridden country.

Fought the Mexicans.

Weak from an attack on him and his party in El Favor by Mexican bandits on April 28, Neal told of the murder of two of his companions by the attacking party, which pillaged the mine, stabbing to death G. E. Williams, an Englishman, and A. B. Hoadley, an American, and of his own struggle with thieves who stabbed him five times before he could escape into his barricaded house.

"The attack began as we were eating dinner," Neal said. "The bandits broke into the cyanide plants, carrying off 20,000 pesos worth of bullion. We pursued them, about fifty in number, into an arroyo. There Williams and Hoadley were surrounded, and on surrendering were stabbed to death.

Stabbed Five Times.

"A mob of natives congregated about the company stores and I was parleying with them when I was set upon and stabbed five times, and carried into the office. The natives made a forty-five minute attack with rifles and dynamite, but a detachment of Federal soldiers arrived and rescued us. We gave Gen. Francisco De Toro, who was in command, 1,250 pesos for his aid. The natives destroyed $50,000 worth of company property."

Consul Edwards, who boarded the vessel at Mazatlan, told of an attack upon him by a Federal soldier aboard ship at Manzanillo, from whom he escaped by barricading himself in his stateroom. The consul turned over the consulate affairs in Acapulco to the British vice consul when he received orders to leave.

BLANQUET CLAIMS REPULSE OF REBELS.

Mexico City, May 21.—Gen. Blanquet, minister of war, said last night a band of Constitutionalists which approached the suburbs of San Luis Potosi Tuesday night was repulsed by the garrison. The Constitutionalists fled to the mountains.

Passengers from Tepic report that Gen. Juan Solares, the Federal commander who joined the Constitutionalists a few days ago, was killed by Constitutionalists near Acaponeta.

The chamber of deputies has approved a proposal for a new tax on cultivated lands. Small land owners are exempt from the tax.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

WAS STUNG BOTH WAYS

Floodwood Man Has Bitter Experience With Inconsistency of Juries.

Opponents Proved Signature Was Forgery and Then Proved It Wasn't.

William A. Baune, Floodwood horse dealer and real estate man, has had his day in court and has learned from his experience that the inconsistency of juries is one of life's little ironies and should be accepted as a matter of course.

When Baune attempted to foreclose on a mortgage covering an 80-acre farm near Floodwood about two years age, he was confronted with an objection made by the mortgagor's wife who declared she had never signed the mortgage.

The matter went to court. A jury on Oct. 6, 1913, found that the mortgage was a forgery so far as the signature of the woman was concerned and judgment was entered that the foreclosure proceedings should be set aside.

Baune turned around and sued Emma Heiskary Solheim, the notary, who acknowledged the purported forgery to recover his loss. In this case, the burden of proving that the signature was a forgery fell upon him and he evidently failed to satisfy the jury.

Yesterday afternoon in Judge Ensign's division of the district court, the jury found that the woman had signed the instrument and that Baune was not entitled to recover anything from the notary or M. N. Triplett, signer of the notorial bond.

Woman's Story.

Flina Stein, farmer's wife and mother of five small children, came into court a few months ago and related a story of how she had been tricked out of her homestead, an 80-acre farm in the Finnish settlement, seventeen miles out of Floodwood.

Mrs. Stein claimed that she lost her farm to Baune on a mortgage foreclosure sale. She alleged that her signature had been forged to the mortgage and that she had no knowledge of the foreclosure proceedings until it was too late to redeem.

Baune, defendant in the action, claimed that he acted in good faith in the matter. On June 26, 1909, he loaned William Stein, the woman's husband, $583.76, who as security for the debt gave him a mortgage purporting to bear the signature of himself and wife.

Stein took the mortgage and later brought it back with the proper signatures. Mrs. Stein in court claimed that she never saw the mortgage and never signed the paper.

The case was tried twice, once before Judge Dibell and again before Judge Ensign. Judge Dibell left the bench without deciding the case. At the retrial of the action, the question which the jury was asked to decide was whether or not the mortgage was actually executed by Mrs. Stein. The jury's verdict was "no." The court, acting on the finding of the jury that the mortgage was a forgery, set aside the foreclosure and restored the property to the Steins.

Sued the Notary.

Baune then started suit against the notary and her surety to recover $1,300, which included the sum loaned the Steins and the costs of the litigation which followed to an unsuccessful culmination. In this case Baune and his attorneys, Hans Haroldson and C. C. Colton, took a position opposite to the one which they had taken in the former litigation.

Baune's contention in the suit against the notary was that the signature of Mrs. Stein had been forged and that the notary had acknowledged and certified it to be a genuine one and that he had relied on this in putting through the deal.

Mrs. Stein again took the stand and testified that the instrument was a forgery, but three handwriting experts were put on the stand who carefully examined the signature on the mortage, compared it with known signatures of Mrs. Stein and pronounced it genuine.

The notary testified that Stein had come to her office with a woman whom he introduced as his wife and whom she believed was Mrs. Stein and that upon this representation she acknowledged the signature.

In a special finding submitted to the jury in Judge Ensign's division yesterday, the jury answered "yes" to the following question: "Did Mrs. Flina Stein appear before the defendant, Emma Heiskary Solheim, and sign and acknowledge the mortgage, plaintiff's exhibit A?"

In accordance with this view of the matter, the jury brought in a verdict for the defendants, Mrs. Solheim, formerly Miss Heiskary, and M. N. Triplett, signer of her notarial bond. Donald Holmes of Baldwin, Baldwin & Holmes appeared in court as attorney for the notary.

HAS WHOLE CAR AND TRACK TO HIMSELF

Smallpox Patient Found on Train Near Aurora, Ill.

Aurora, Ill., May 21.—Charles Norton of Chicago, a traveling salesman, is the sole occupant of a Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad passenger car sidetracked in a gravel pit three miles south of here.

Norton was found to be suffering with smallpox while the train was nearing Aurora yesterday. He will have the exclusive use of the car and side track until he recovers. The Aurora health department will care for him.

Efforts are being made to locate and vaccinate the other occupants of the car.

Look at Me I am Well.

"I cannot say too much for Peruna. It has entirely cured me of my trouble. My eye lids were thick and red nearly all the time. My eyes were especially sensitive to light. Catarrh was my trouble. I had had my eyes treated and took a great deal of medicine, but nothing seemed to help me until I tried Peruna. I always use Peruna when my family need it. Always find it very good; it helps wonderfully. You can use my testimonial anywhere you wish to." So says Mrs. C. Skehan, No. 614 S. Leavitt St., Chicago, Ills.

MANY FINES PAID AT LIBRARY FOR TARDINESS

About $500 is collected yearly in fines for keeping public library books over time. That, it is claimed, has been about the average for the last five years. Fiction readers contribute the most of this, in keeping with light and frivolous minds, perhaps, while the readers of serious literature are quite prompt in their returns and reports. Numerous excuses are given the librarian and her assistants when delinquents return the over-due books, but in most cases it is a matter of plain forgetting.

OBJECTIONS TO HOUSING CODE

Builders and Architects Discuss Changes They Would Have Made.

Objections to certain features of Duluth's new housing code were discussed last evening at a conference of delegates from the Duluth Builders' exchange, the real estate exchange, the Architects' club and the Commercial club at the Commercial club rooms. Emil J. Zauft presided at the meeting.

The objectionable features discussed were the lighting and ventilating provisions of the code. Many expressed an opinion that the ordinance calls for too large a glass area in many rooms of buildings and houses and that the court and air shaft measurements hinder the architects in drawing their plans and the contractors in carrying them out.

It is intended that the meeting last evening shall be the first of a series in a campaign for less drastic laws governing building work. The next meeting will be held May 27 at the Commercial club.

MANY STORES WILL REMAIN OPEN

Business Will Suspend During Memorial Day Parade, But Resume Later.

All the retail stores in Duluth will not be closed Memorial day.

The day falls on Saturday, on which day the biggest business of the week is transacted, and for that reason many of the merchants object to closing all day. They explain that they will suspend operations during the parade as a mark of respect to the old soldiers, but assert that under the circumstances more should not reasonably be expected of them. Saturday evening, they say, is the one time in the week that working men are able to do their shopping, and to close all day would inconvenience many customers.

WILL REMIT DISCOUNT.

City Will Relinquish Hold-Out in Purchase of Motor Rigs.

The city will not insist upon taking a 1 per cent discount for cash in payment of the two motor rigs purchased from the American La France company. When the check was forwarded a cash discount of $139.30 and one of $570.20, which would have been saved in salaries and maintenance of horses, if the engines been promptly delivered, were deducted.

Commissioner Hicken yesterday received a letter from the company protesting against this action, but admitting its helplessness. Commissioner Hicken had a conference with his colleagues and it was decided to remit the first discount. The contract price was $14,500 for the two machines, with two old steamers included.

SUES FOR INSURANCE.

Timber Cruiser Claims Accident Indemnity Is Due Him.

A jury was drawn in Judge Ensign's division of district court yesterday afternoon to try a lawsuit brought by J. A. Gillis against the Duluth Casualty company in which the plaintiff is seeking to recover $560 on an unpaid accident insurance policy.

Gillis, a timber cruiser, declares that while a passenger on a Duluth & Iron Range train near Alger station, Lake county, May 29, 1912, he sustained injuries in an accident which disabled him for twenty-eight weeks. He claims that his accident insurance policy was in effect at the time and that he is entitled to recover at the rate of $20 a week.

VERA CRUZ TROOPS SEE TROPICAL RAIN.

Vera Cruz, Mex., May 21.—The hardships of a rainy season campaign were brought home to the U. S. troops last night by a half hour's tropical downpour. The paved streets in the main portion of the city were running curb-deep within a few minutes and the sewers were wholly inadequate to carry off the flood. The unpaved streets were muddy torrents, and the sentries at the outposts were drenched before they could put on their slickers. Officers and refugees dining at the cafes were marooned until the downpour ceased and the waters subsided.

This was the first heavy rain of the season. Usually the rains begin early in June, when the daily downfalls cripple transportation of all kinds.

CHILD WORKERS MUST BE STEADY.

New York, May 21.—Juvenile employment must be steady, if children are not to lose their respect for work and their steadiness of character, Miss Anna Herkner of the Maryland bureau of labor told the United States commission investigating industrial relations. Of 1,400 children who had changed their positions in Maryland since January last, one-half had left of their own accord on account of the difficulty of the work or disagreeable surroundings, dull season, or fear of the machines, she said.

WILSON POLICIES ARE INDORSED.

Columbia, S. C., May 21.—The policy of President Wilson on the Mexican problem, Panama tolls and the tariff, was indorsed here last night in resolutions adopted by the Democratic state convention. Approval also was given the regional reserve bank system.

Plans for the coming state primaries, at which state and Federal officers, including a candidate for United States senator, will be nominated, will be made at a meeting of the Democratic state committee at the conclusion of the state convention.

75c French Dinner

WITH WINE

NEW ST. LOUIS HOTEL

Saturday from 6 to 8 and Sunday from 8 to 12

I deem it absolutely imperative to tender you my sincerest thanks for your kind patronage. I feel so enthusiastic over my results accomplished in so short an interval. Just think, I have only been amongst you about five Sundays, yet last Saturday and Sunday it was compulsory to employ five additional waiters to assist in serving you my celebrated French Dinner with Wine at 75c. Now that reads appreciation and satisfaction. Times have changed considerably in the last two decades, the man with influence and pull has been relegated, the individual of today must show RESULTS. Courtesy and cleanliness are the paramount features of the successful caterer. We are living in an era today where we must cater to the public and give them what they want. Next week I am busy, Monday I have that Boyle aggregation of 300 and two other small banquets during the week, but Saturday, May 30th, is that beautiful day consecrated to our heroes and beloved ones who have crossed the Great Divide. That day has been designated as "Memorial Day."

LISTEN!

I intend to extend myself on this particular day. My menus are being printed in Philadelphia and are to be most original and unique and I shall place before the public one of the grandest, most delicious dinner ever seen in the Northwest. Remember I am still featuring individual chix pie in conjunction with soup, relishes, salad, tea, coffee or milk and dessert every Saturday with my 40c lunch. Monday Special, Boiled New England dinner. Say, I have some of those great big, fresh shrimps and also those big Pacific coast crabs, served with mayonaisse dressing.

REFORMED CHURCH SYNOD CLOSES.

Lancaster, Pa., May 21.—The general synod of the Reformed church in the United States came to an end late yesterday. The next meeting in 1917 will be held at Dayton, Ohio.

The synod of the Northwest was empowered to form a new synod to be known as the synod of the Southwest, and to consist of classes now existing in Illinois, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Rev. James I. Good's report on the state of the church showed that the denomination has added 9,000 new members in the last three years.

BRAINERD MAN IS FOUND MURDERED.

Brainerd, Minn., May 21.—The authorities are probing the death of George Rappel, Sr., aged 70, a shoemaker, who has lived here forty years, whose body was found Tuesday night on the floor of his shop with the head crushed in. He is always said to have had money about him yet his pockets were found empty.

The body was discovered in the evening, the door of the little shop having blown open and disclosing the tragedy to a man who had called for shoes.

Rappel was a widower and leaves these children, George Rappel, Jr., whose family lives in Brainerd and who is employed by the Crosby Meat company in Crosby; Joseph Rappel of Saskatchewan, Can.; Mrs. Ben Kost of Spokane, Wash; Mrs. Herman Holtkamp of Brainerd. He belonged to the Catholic church.

The shoemaker was an inoffensive man, beloved by his friends and a particular friend of the children. He had no enemies. Robbery alone can have been the motive for his destruction.

EIGHTEEN INITIATED.

Red Lake Falls Encampment of Odd Fellows Is Growing.

Red Lake Falls, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Grand Patriarch S. A. Farnsworth and Grand Scribe F. H. Castner of St. Paul, and several visiting patriarchs, were in this city Tuesday evening, to initiate a class of eighteen into Valley Encampment No. 9, I. O. O. F., which was transferred from Crookston to this city. After the candidates received the three degrees, the following officers were elected for the balance of the term: Chief patriarch, Frank Jeffers; H. P., G. B. Fairchild; S. W., Ben Resch; scribe, A. L. Reichert; treasurer, C. O. Kankel; J. W., Lee Healy.

Woman's Realm

Miss Carolyn Munger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harold Munger, and Cavour Hartley, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Hartley, will be married Wednesday evening, June 24, at the home of the bride's parents, 2330 East First street. Invitations have been sent out for the wedding reception to be held at 8:30 o'clock on the evening of the wedding.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Auxiliary Members Hear Interesting Talk on India.

The seventh birthday of the woman's auxiliary of Trinity pro-cathedral was celebrated yesterday afternoon in the vestry of the pro-cathedral. Members of the organization pledge themselves to give whatever amount they may desire on their own birthdays. This money is used for the support of women missionary workers and in cases of illness and disability. The auxiliary studied China this last year and Mrs. W. E. Jones announced home missions would be studied during the coming year, especially those of Alaska.

A program was given at yesterday's gathering. Miss Myrtle Hobbs sang two selections, accompanied by Mrs. Fred Waldron, Jr., and Miss Eleanor Kraft gave several violin numbers, accompanied by Miss Ethel Molitor.

Mrs. T. B. Merrill spoke on "Mission Work in India." Mrs. Merrill is particularly interested in India as several members of her family are engaged in missionary work in that country. She read extracts from letters from one of these relatives, Rev. James C. Perkins, who for thirty years has labored among the Hindus.

Mr. Perkins' territory is on the eastern coast of India. In it there are 240,000 people and 650 towns and villages. Aruppaukattai, his station, in the chief town in the territory and has a population of 23,600. Here there are four Indian pastors, forty-one catechists, and more than fifty teachers, half of them women. In the parish field there are Christians in 126 villages. More than 300 villages open to schools are not occupied on account of lack of funds.

Rev. T. W. MacLean made a few closing remarks that followed up Mrs. Merrill's theme.

Tea was served in the vestry room. Chinese lanterns and chrysanthemums were used in the decorations. There was a birthday cake with seven red candles. Mrs. J. D. Morrison and Mrs. W. E. Jones were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Walker Jamar and Mrs. Page Morris.

The Svea Glee club members will go to Minneapolis, where they will take part in the saengerfest to be held there June 8 to 11. The local club will take part in the program of June 9. They will decorate their train and the hotel where they will make their headquarters with Svea and Duluth pennants and expect a delegation of Duluthians to go with them to Minneapolis.

The Swedish organization that will hold the saengerfest at Minneapolis is composed of fifty-two musical clubs east of the Rocky mountains, and has a membership of about 2,000. There are two divisions, the Eastern and the Western. The Western division met in Duluth two years ago. At the saengerfest to be held in Minneapolis next month, both sections will combine and will send about 1,000 singers to it.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—The Baldwin Players in "The Spendthrift."
ORPHEUM—"The Spoilers" in motion pictures.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

The Baldwin Players at the Lyceum theater will continue their excellent performances of "The Spendthrift" for the remainder of this week with the usual matinee Saturday at 2:30 p. m. All who have witnessed their performances during this, the initial week of their summer engagement, have become staunch admirers of this organization and their popularity is growing so rapidly that they are destined soon to become prime favorites with all classes of theater-goers.

Next week, commencing with Sunday's matinee and continuing for the entire week, with matinees Sunday, Wednesday and Saturday, they will produce by special arrangement with the Liebler company, the fascinating and powerful American play, "Alias Jimmy Valentine."

This is undoubtedly one of the most successful plays ever presented in this country and will be produced in an excellent manner by the Baldwin Players. The management promises a rare dramatic and comedy treat for all who witness this production.

Seats are now on sale at the Lyceum box office.

When it came to a pictorial production of Rex Beach's masterpiece of fiction, "The Spoilers," now at the Orpheum, William N. Selig gave carte blanche to all associated with the enterprise, to spare neither time nor expense to secure the best results possible. Producer Colin Campbell took to his task very literally and seriously, bringing forward every detail distinctly and with exactitude.

In the original outlay, he filmed 14,500 feet, making in all 232,000 distinct photographs of the big moving story that restlessly drifts from Washington to the far-flung shores of the city of Nome, on the Behring sea. Then began the work of most careful cutailing to reduce it to a normal size, practicable for an evening's entertainment. This scale finally settled upon nine reels, giving a grand aggregate of 144,000 distinct pictures, which seemed sufficient to cover the action of the work from prologue to finale with a firm, spirited grasp upon scene and situation. Primarily, a cast of unusual strength and caliber was secured, selected with a view to make the characters register impressively as soon as introduced. Studied care and unusual liberality was exercised to give the actual atmosphere and the real environment, so that the action should retain its integrity at all times.

The attraction at the Empress for the remainder of this week beginning with a matinee this afternoon will be the popular light comedian Billy "Single" Clifford in his latest success, the musical satire, "Believe Me." The cast and scenic embellishment of this play are said to be the same as seen in the one-a-day houses at one dollar and a half prices.

"Believe Me" is brimful of good things. Besides the excellent cast of artists, there are many lyrics set to tuneful music, instrumental numbers consisting of violin and cello solos and a cornet trio. Among the many songs are the following: "Kitty O'Brien," "The Honolulu Girl," "The Garden Ball," "Just for Tonight," "Such a Silly Ass." A special number is introduced by Billy Single Clifford in which he is seen at his best. "When I Marry You," is a pretty duet by Miss Collins and Mr. Clifford. "Will O' the Wisp" is sung by Ed C. Clifford, a baritone. "Believe Me" will play a four-day engagement at the Empress, tonight, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

SUNDAY, JUNE 14, WILL BE FLAG DAY

Sunday, June 14, will be Flag day, the 137th anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes as the national emblem.

Although many pastors will make Flag day the topic of their sermons on that day, the formal observance will take place on June 15.

No program has been arranged, but G. A. R. men, the Spanish war veterans and members of the Women's Relief corps are stirring up a sentiment for the general display of the national flag on June 14 and 15.

Woman Walker Is Crazy.

Mandan, N. D., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Kathryn McGee, aged 27, a teacher who recently walked thirty-five miles, from Wade, Morton county, to Mandan, in a storm, to see a moving picture show, was taken to the state asylum for the insane at Jamestown yesterday.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR WILL ATTEND CHURCH

The Knights Templar will march to church on Sunday afternoon and it is expected that many knights from the Superior commandery will come over and accompany the Duluth knights.

The services will be held in Trinity Pro-Cathedral, Twentieth avenue east and Superior street, and the sermon will be preached by the vicar, Rev. Thomas W. MacLean, himself a knight. The knights will meet at the Masonic temple and will march from there to the church in full uniform. They will be accompanied by the drum corps of Aad temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

HIGHER VISION FOR PEOPLE IS URGED.

Kansas City, Mo., May 21.—Declaring that "delegations of discontented people will keep on coming to the churches to disturb worship until after a while they will be arrested by the message they hear instead of by the police," Rev. J. S. Lyons of Louisville, Ky., in the moderator's sermon before the Presbyterian general assembly here today, made a strong plea for higher vision. He spoke from the text, "Where There is no Vision the People Perish."

"If the church," he said, "is equal to the opportunity of today, many who make malicious assaults upon it will find themselves breaking into the Kingdom of Heaven."

Rev. Mr. Lyons said the church can well afford to invest its energy in a mighty campaign for an effective evangelistic forward movement.

Uphold, Mexican Policy.

The report of the executive committee of foreign missions, presented to the assembly, upheld the policy of the national government at Washington in the Mexican situation and made an appeal that intervention in Mexico take the form of Christian instruction rather than the force of arms. The committee asked an appropriation of $570,615 to carry on another year's work on the present basis.

The report of the executive committee of publication and Sunday school work, also presented, declared the publishing business of the church is in flourishing condition.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR DULUTHIAN'S FATHER.

The funeral services for the late F. X. Gravel of St. Paul, aged 82, a pioneer resident of the state and father of Frank Gravel of Duluth, were held yesterday in St. Paul at the St. Louis Catholic church. Mr. Gravel came to St. Paul in 1856, and spent several years in the grocery business.

Surviving Mr. Gravel are his widow and six children. Frank Gravel of Duluth and Mrs. E. W. Bazille, Mrs. Emilie Davis, Irving Gravel, Mrs. J. W. Boerner, wife of the newly elected municipal judge of St. Paul, and Mrs. George C. Lambert of St. Paul.

PLANTS EXPLOSIVE UNDER VIADUCT.

Minot, N. D., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—His curiosity aroused by the peculiar act of a man, engaged in burying some object, at a point near the Great Northern viaduct in this city, Officer Reed found a brass cartridge shell filled with high power nitroglycerin.

The explosion was sufficient in quantity to wreck the viaduct. The police have a poor description of the man who "planted" the nitro.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Love of Children Should Increase Love for Husband.

Did you ever know a woman who you thought cared more about her husband than her children? You may have known one or two, but you will admit that they are not conspicuous by way of numbers. But two or three women in the whole course of my lifetime have ever given me the disagreeable impression that the husband was vastly more important than the children.

One was a woman who neglected her only child, a son, as a baby, youth and man, to follow her husband. Ultimately her husband wearied of her for the very apparent reason that she had never concerned herself with home making or with mothering either son or husband.

I could never determine quite whether it was a lack of the maternal instinct in her case or the requirements of the man. I do not know that of all the marriages of which I have had an intimate knowledge for twenty years or more none turned out as miserably for the woman as this one.

I always mistrusted that the second woman was naturally lacking in the proper mother spirit. She had three children, two of whom were girls. Her baby was a boy and because he was a boy, I suspect, received more attention from his mother all the days of his life than his sisters did, though she was never prodigal with love or attention toward any of them. The girls, as children and young women, were objects of pity and comment because of their mother's lack of pride and interest in them.

I remember them in ugly gingham dresses and draggled hair ribbons that made their mother's neglect seem the more pitiable. They might have been such pretty girls, but they were always dowdy and self-effacing, as though their mother had nipped their budding charms out of fear that they might eclipse her maturer ones. This mother lived her life through adoring her husband and being adored by him, never realizing that she had been remiss in her sacred duty all her married life.

I have often thought that a man might legitimately object to the neglect that he endures from his wife oftentimes in order that the children shall be cared for. More women carry their devotion to this extreme than can be accused in the other direction. Some women would and have sacrificed everything in life for their children only to have home, offspring and husband ruined. However, the most successful type of wife and mother includes her husband in the maternal love she feels for her children.

A RULE THAT NEEDS ENFORCING.

Commissioner Hicken is considering an amendment to the traffic code that will reach the evil of automobiles that go swiftly by the point where a street car has stopped to take on or let off passengers.

If he can do it, he wants a provision inserted requiring motor vehicles to slow up or stop ten feet away from this danger point; and the only stumbling block, apparently, is the provision of the state automobile law that cities can't regulate automobiles except those for hire.

However it is done, this is a wholesome rule, and it ought to be rigidly enforced. It is the greatest wonder in the world that fatal injuries have not come of its neglect, for automobile drivers, in the absence of any regulation, have grown shockingly careless in this regard.

If the point can't be covered by a local ordinance, the state law now covers it fully, and the law should be enforced, even while the city is considering whether it can make a law of its own. The state law says: "In approaching or passing a car of a street railway which has been stopped to allow passengers to alight or embark, the operator of every motor-vehicle shall slow down, and if it is necessary for the safety of the public he shall bring said vehicle to a full stop not less than ten feet from said street car. * * * Any person violating any of the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

Surely the police have authority to enforce the laws of this state, and while Commissioner Hicken is finding out whether or not the city can cover this point by an ordinance, he should issue orders to the police department that this law be enforced rigidly, and its violators arrested.

Tokio's population, according to the new census, is 2,033,321, an increase of nearly 410,000 over 1909. Which no doubt will give Hobson just about 410,000 fresh scares.

TAFT IS FRANK—AND LONESOME.

Ex-President Taft has had few enough words of praise from us, and we are going to give him one.

He deserves praise for being the only advocate of exempting American coastwise vessels from paying canal tolls who is frank enough to say that he favors it because it is a ship subsidy.

Not a defender of exemption in congress has been so frank. Every man of them, on the contrary, has declared up and down that it is no subsidy at all—that he is against subsidies—that nobody is less likely to favor subsidies than he is, but that the exemption is no subsidy at all.

But Mr. Taft is honest, whatever other faults he may have. He has said that congress passed the exemption provision because it was a ship subsidy, and that he signed it because it was a ship subsidy.

Incidentally, it can be small encouragement to believers in ship subsidies that in all the arena of public life there is but one lonely individual who dares to stand up and defend them.

Canadian foundries are decreasing their output. Will the howlers about "Democratic industrial depression" find any comfort in this?

A BLOW AT EUTHANASIA.

A pretty good case has been made out from time to time for the practice—or proposed practice—of euthanasia. That means, in cold blood, to give physicians license to kill the hopelessly sick to "put them out of their suffering."

The trouble lies in that old true saying, "while there's life there's hope." It would be a daring doctor who would take the responsibility of euthanasia, no matter how hopeless a case appeared to be.

A year ago last Christmas a thrill of pity went over the land when Mrs. William Squier of Ateo, New Jersey, from a sickbed where she was doomed to certain death from an incurable intestinal tumor, sent out a pathetic appeal for euthanasia.

Her story was published in newspapers throughout the country on Christmas eve in 1912. It told of a woman suffering untold tortures from disease, under sentence of death pronounced by physicians and surgeons, and who from her deathbed sent a Christmas message to humanity asking for scientific kindness for those who suffer from incurable diseases.

"When an animal suffers hopelessly we put it out of misery," she said, "but we allow human beings to remain in agony when there is no hope for them."

This stirring appeal made a profound impression. No more poignant argument for euthanasia could possibly be made. No doubt it advanced the cause a great deal.

Well, Mrs. Squier is cured.

One of the most prominent surgeons of New York heard her story, and took an interest in her case because of her unusual appeal. Today that surgeon pronounces her cured beyond the possibility of doubt.

The New York Sun interviewed this fortunate woman.

"I am convinced now," she said, "that I have been kept alive for a purpose. Perhaps it was to prove to humanity that it should not give up hope. I am awed by the things that have happened to me, impressed more than ever by the mystery of the universal laws. I am singing in my heart today the old jubilate, 'Praise be for all on earth and in heaven."

So perhaps we had better not be in a hurry about legalizing euthanasia. "While there's life there's hope."

In 1883 the United States produced eighty-three pounds of aluminum. Last year the country's output was 72,333,000 pounds. If the mathematically inclined don't have a set-to with those figures, then the old practice of figuring the size of cubes of given weight has gone out of style.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

5.—State Loans on Improved Farm Lands.

This amendment, which was submitted also two years ago but failed to get enough votes for ratification, authorizes the state to loan its permanent funds on improved farm lands. Loans are to be limited to thirty per cent of the actual cash value of the security, and are to be for not less than five years nor more than thirty years. The interest is to be not less than three per cent.

If there is need of a better system of rural credits, as many believe, this amendment will open the way to a solution of this problem in Minnesota.

Properly handled, the security is splendid. The state has a fund of about twenty-five million dollars seeking investment, and in a generation it will have two hundred millions. Under the Constitution, only the income from this fund can be used, and as the fund grows the need of desirable fields for investments will increase.

The amendment merely authorizes these loans. Providing for them, if the amendment is ratified, will be up to the legislature.

Whether or not the state uses it immediately, the authorization seems wise.

The amendment should be adopted.

There are twenty-six hundred and forty daily newspapers in the United States. How would you like the job of compiling everything that is printed about Roosevelt's return?

SUBSIDIES AND THE PUBLIC.

The Baltimore Sun having attacked Senator O'Gorman's speech against the repeal of canal exemptions, a correspondent wrote in to challenge the viewpoint of the Sun, and declared that exemption is a wise economic policy because it would inure to the benefit of the consumer.

To which the Sun makes this reply, the only reply possible, and the exact truth:

> This is an assumption for which there is no foundation. We were told practically the same thing for many years with regard to the tariff—that if American manufacturers were encouraged by a tax on the people, which was virtually a subsidy in favor of the manufacturers, the consumer would get the benefit of it after awhile. The consumer waited very patiently, but in vain, for his dividends, and finally determined to get his dividends by reducing the tax on himself.

If there is anybody left who seriously believes that subsidies in any form will inure to the public benefit in cheaper prices, let him go back in the history of the tariff and read the arguments of those who first proposed protection.

"Tax the people for awhile to build up manufactures," they said, "and when manufacturing gets profitable competition will reduce prices so that the public will benefit."

That was the argument by which this country was induced to adopt the policy of protection.

How did it work out? Everybody knows. There was no competition, no lower prices. Instead, there were trusts and prices mounting ever higher.

The argument that brought the protective policy upon this country has not been advanced for half a century by the friends of protection. They would prefer that it be forgotten.

And yet there are people silly enough to believe that if the coastwise shipping trust were given the subsidy of tolls exemption, it would return it to the people in the form of lower freight rates!

To give such people credit for common sense, it is necessary to believe that they are not sincere in their arguments.

If the mediators at Niagara Falls find it impossible to pour oil on any other troubled waters, they can go down and empty a can of kerosene in the whirlpool rapids.

A Thinker in the White House

Ray Stannard Baker in the American Magazine.

I have just been spending a week in Washington — the most interesting place, at the present time, in America. Not before in years has the legislative pot boiled and bubbled as it is now boiling and bubbling, and never, certainly, was there a cook who could wield the big ladle as efficiently and skilfully as the present incumbent of the White House. With what consummate art, also, has he seasoned the pottage to the taste of the country! Even those statesmen who have no relish for it are swallowing it without a word, though it makes their eyes water.

What is the secret of Mr. Wilson's extraordinary success?

Six years ago, when Mr. Roosevelt was about to finish his second cup of coffee and was considering the choice of his successor in the presidency, he was confronted with this problem: What type of man will best give legal definition to the moral impulse which is now sweeping the country?

The answer seemed clear enough: A great lawyer. Taft is a great lawyer; therefore he shall be the next president.

This was a grave mistake on Mr. Roosevelt's part. What the country needed at that moment was not a great lawyer but a great thinker. For lawyers look backward, and thinkers look forward. The guiding star of Mr. Roosevelt's administration was action; Mr. Roosevelt did not think, he acted. And Mr. Taft wasted his administration.

Wandering between two worlds, one dead.

The other powerless to be born.

In Mr. Wilson the country has at last given birth to a thinker. Most men are half-minded, most congressmen are half-minded; they believe that a problem has only one end. But a thinker knows that a problem is like a magnet, equally charged at both ends.

Where there is a centrifugal force at work he knows that there is a centripetal force equally at work. He knows that new forms of decentralization in government must always be held in check by new forms of centralization. Only a democracy can be trusted with an autocrat.

This attitude of mind is what is so infinitely puzzling to congress. A heated southern senator, with a vision of Jeffersonianism slain on the marble steps of the White House, rushes up to see Mr. Wilson.

"See here, Mr. Wilson," says he, "don't you see that this bill with its provision for a Federal reserve board to control the national currency means a dangerous centralization of power at Washington!"

"But, Mr. Senator," says the president quietly, "don't you see that the regional banks for the West and South, which are also provided for in the bill, will tend to decentralize financial power, reduce the supremacy of Wall street and the East?"

Mr. Senator goes away scratching his head, and votes for the bill.

A similar situation has developed in the discussion of the trust question. Loud cries of "trust-busters" for more competition in industry and for decentralization of commercial power; loud cries also by the monopoly regulators for the co-operative view of industry and the centralization of the control of commerce. Both sides appear with gatling guns shotted with deadly arguments, and bombard the White House. Mr. Wilson, unlike either of his predecessors, retires to the wilderness to think—in this instance to a place bearing the symbolical name of Pass Christian. He comes back with suggestions for five trust bills, the purpose of which is two-fold: To secure more competition in industry, but more governmental supervision. He thus recognizes the new forces of decentralization and the new forces of centralization.

Our government has only occasionally been governed by thought. Mostly our progress in America has been the result of the crude impact of events. Few of our leaders have had any historical or economic background; few have had any power of constructive thinking. Again and again we have drifted until impaled upon the event; and have had our education by a process of explosion. Sixty years ago, in spite of the noblest efforts of the noblest thinker of his time, the country exploded in a civil war, and by this bloody means came to a solution of the slavery question. We explode periodically in financial panics; we explode industrially in strikes—and learn little. All of these destructive explosions might be avoided if, instead of plunging ahead and acting breathlessly all the time, we should stop for a moment and think—really think. "The inability to stay quiet, the irritable desire to act directly," writes Walter Bagehot, "is one of the most conspicuous failings of mankind." It hurts to think; it is immeasurably less painful to act. Try it and see!

For the moment, then, the government is being guided by thought. Mr. Wilson is a thinker.

Now, a thinker is so rare, either in the White House or outside of it, that it is difficult to know just how to take him. Washington has not been so puzzled over anyone in years as it is over Mr. Wilson.

I chanced to come across two men who had recently been up to the White House to call on the president. The first one told me he thought Wilson extremely difficult of approach—not so much physically as intellectually—that he was distant, uncommunicative, likely to parry inquiries with pleasing ironies. I should say that this was the dominant view at Washington of those who go rather frequently to see Mr. Wilson. While he meets his visitors with a smile he rarely volunteers anything. He stands and waits patiently, as though reserving both his physical and mental strength. Some visitors, remembering the vital impact of that tremendous energizer of a Roosevelt, or the robust good humor of Taft, come away from the quiet thinker of the White House puzzled and disappointed.

The other visitor I talked with is himself a thinker, and personally rather shy. He saw something in the currency bill that he thought was wrong. He worked it out carefully. It preyed upon him. He felt that the country must be saved. (I love to meet a man who feels he must save the country!) Well, he went up to see Mr. Wilson, and from the rather incoherent report he gives—for he came away much delighted—Wilson appears one of the most affable, enthusiastic and appreciative of men.

What happened was this: My friend had a real and important idea, and he and it were received by the president with that joy and enthusiasm with which a true thinker ever welcomes an idea. Here was a man who could help him, and help the country!

Most men who go to the White House and claim a share of the president's priceless time have no business whatever there. They want to see the president; they want to touch his hand, or hear his voice; so that afterward they may exhale faintly something of the "aroma of great place." They go to get something, not to give something, and Mr. Wilson, conserving every ounce of his none too robust energy for the work before him, appears reserved, distant.

Books That Boys Like

Harper's Weekly: Never without its interest is the question of what books different individuals would choose as favorites. Recently we have examined the choices recorded for reading in a boys' school. The ten most popular among the masters were: The Bible, Shakespeare, Tennyson's poems, "Les Miserables," Plutarch's Lives, life of Napoleon, Emerson's essays, Kipling's poems, "Middlemarch" and Gibbon's Rome.

The Sixth form liked: The Bible, "The Count of Monte Cristo," "The Three Musketeers," "Lorna Doone," "A Tale of Two Cities," "Ivanhoe," "Treasure Island," World's Almanac, "The Arabian Nights" and "History of the World."

The choice of the youngsters in the Second form: The Bible, "Treasure Island," "The Last of the Mohicans," "Ivanhoe," "Tom Sawyer," "Huckleberry Finn," "Kidnapped," "Robinson Crusoe," "Oliver Twist" and David Copperfield."

The influence of prescribed reading is, of course, tremendous, and there can be traced also some of the influence of general tradition, but there remains some light on the taste of persons so situated. The list of one of the individual masters includes: The Bible, Shakespeare, Tennyson's poems, Chaucer, "Middlemarch," "Great Expectations," Burton's "Anatomy of Melancholy," Emerson's essays, life of Napoleon and "Treasure Island."

We do not really think much of any of these lists, but, then, the boys and their masters very likely would think little of ours. It would prefer Wordsworth to Tennyson or Kipling, Don Quixote or Wilhelm Meister to the novels mentioned, and if the island were very barren, we should not improbably include "Alice of Wonderland."

A Gladiolus Farm.

Troy, N. Y., Times: Arthur Cowee of Berlin several years ago began the cultivation of gladioli for his own amusement. Today what started as a fad is a commercial proposition in which large sums of money are invested and a large force of employes are engaged twelve months each year. Gladioli are raised for the bulbs and the cut flowers, and this year Mr. Cowee will grow 140 acres of product. He has acquired ten acres on one of the mountains, 1,400 feet above sea level, and the experiment of growing bulbs at this high altitude will be watched with interest. When the reporter visited the Cowee establishment, men were cleaning and sorting the cormels of young bulblets, which were laid on canvas in the sun to dry. Grouped in a space not more than 15 by 40 feet were between 400,000 and 500,000 cormels or bulbs awaiting planting.

Eighteen thousand bushels of bulbs are handled every year. Some of the choicer bulbs are valued at $3 each. A gang of thirty men is now engaged in planting.

One of the most fascinating features of the gladioli business is the work of crossing the varieties to obtain new species, and in this line Mr. Cowee has been very successful.

The gladiolus farm will take on special beauty this season if all goes well for the proprietor has arranged a color scheme. One part of the grounds will be devoted to the growth of bulbs that have a harmony of colors and another section will show contrasting shades, and in the blooming season visitors will be charmed with the new arrangement.

The Indispensable Man.

Leslie's: In the onward march of efficient business methods the indispensable man is being eliminated as one of the weakest links in the chain. E. C. Church, head of the bureau of supplies of the department of water supply, gas and electricity of New York city, in reporting upon the savings of thousands of dollars in the last two years through efficient methods in his department, says: "It is necessary that there be no 'indispensable' men. Such ones are most dangerous units in any organization, for sooner or later they are taken sick or die, get better positions elsewhere, and the work suffers since they were 'indispensable,' and there is no one prepared to take their places." The brilliant and indispensable people are, after all, not the most wonderful. Sir Frederick Treves is one of the greatest of living surgeons, and it is interesting to hear him say that if he were compelled to undergo an operation he would be very careful to select a surgeon who was not brilliant. "Hard work," says he, "produces better results than brilliancy." Brilliant and indispensable people have a work to do, but every effort toward efficiency aims to train up the average, hard-working man to carry on the work they have begun.

Advertising Expense.

Williamsport Sun: The obsolete notion still persists, in some merchants' minds, that to incur a large advertising expenditure would necessitate an increased selling price for their goods.

The patrons of stores know that this is not true—and all merchants should know it.

Advertising makes the "machinery of distribution" in a store run—keeps it busy—with the result that the merchant benfits by the fullest possible distribution of his goods in the shortest possible space of time.

The wise merchant would rather make a dollar of net profit from three sales; made in the same space of time and with the same "running expense," than to make 50 cents profit on one sale. And in making a larger volume of sales and dividing his per-sale profits with the customers, he is adding largely to his store's prestige and to the "good will" which it enjoys.

Prosperity.

Life: "I hear there is going to be a congressional inquiry into Packmay's business."

"I had no idea he was so prosperous as that."

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the return of T. Roosevelt to these parts and the consequent revival of various forms of political speculation, one is reminded of the story about the Nearest That Bryan Ever Came to Being Elected.

According to this story, which goes the rounds in Washington every so often, William Jennings Bryan might have been elected president when he ran against William Howard Taft, except for one man, and that man was James J. Hill.

It will be remembered that along about Labor day of that year the strength of the Taft candidacy was at its lowest ebb, and those persons who make a business of figuring out political forecasts were certain that Bryan had at least an even chance. On top of that it was whispered that certain interests that were vexed with Mr. Roosevelt for naming his own successor were determined to get even. In order to chastise Mr. Roosevelt they were going to see to it that his candidate, Mr. Taft, was thoroughly defeated. The interest that planned to do all this is said to have been Standard Oil.

They, of course, cared less than the irreducible minimum about Mr. Bryan, but they at least had no personal grudge against him, as they did against Roosevelt, and they thought it would be a highly amusing little trick to pour a lot of money into the Bryan campaign fund and completely gum up Roosevelt's plans.

It is conceded that with the two candidates having about equal chances of election, a flood of money behind either nominee would have turned the tide in his favor.

Things were at that stage, if one accepts the story, when James J. Hill, away out in the Northwest some place, heard of the state of affairs. He no sooner heard about it than he leaped aboard a train and set out for New York to head off the Standard Oil company from its course. He felt that it was up to some cool head to dissuade them from doing anything foolish—for Hill was certain that if Bryan were elected there would be no telling what awful thing might happen.

Now it may be that there is no proper foundation for this story that goes the rounds, but it is at least known that Hill did make a flying trip to New York and spent some time in a conference with the heads of a big corporation. And very shortly after his departure there was a sudden increase in the visible signs of prosperity about the Republican national headquarters.

And Taft was elected.

Bill Du Puy, Washington writer, was obtaining information about certain army matters from a young lieutenant who had been requested by his chief to give out the information. As Bill asked him questions, the young lieutenant wrote down names and other data on a piece of paper. After a while he discovered that he had filled an entire sheet of foolscap with notes. It occurred to him that clerical work was not his regular province and that his dignity might suffer.

"See here!" he exclaimed suddenly. "I'm being a clerk for you!"

"Well, that's all right," said Du Puy, soothingly; "you're doing very nicely."

Representative Dan Anthony of Kansas, tallest member of the house, is enthusiastically automobilious. He likes to get into a large tooting car and ride about from one place to another.

One day he went on a little tour to a remote nook of Kansas and stopped briefly in a little town where autos with self-starters were comparatively unknown.

However, they had emulated the city folk by having a lot of ordinances about the way a car should stand near the curb.

Dan Anthony was sitting in his car waiting for a friend when a constable walked up.

"You'll have to back up a little," said he.

"All right," agreed Dan.

"Crank 'er up and move back half a length," directed the constable.

"All right," repeated Dan, without making any move to get out.

The constable thought, inasmuch as Anthony wasn't out in front of the car cranking up, that he didn't intend to move. He began to get mad.

"Are you goin' t' back up or not?" he asked.

"Certainly," said Anthony, and he turned the little jigger that operated the self-starter. As the car then began to belch forth its chuffly-chuffs, the constable looked astonished.

"See here, mister," he exclaimed, "don't you get too blamed smart around here—understand!"

Shortly after the first rumors were circulated that Secretary McAdoo might wed the president's daughter, a friend of McAdoo remarked to him that it must be extremely annoying to both parties to have such rumors floating about when there was, of course, not a word of truth in the report.

"Well, there is just one thing that reconciles me to having such a rumor going around," observed McAdoo.

"And what is that?" the friend inquired, naturally.

"The fact that it is true."

Cooking and Happiness.

Harper's Weekly: The conclusion of the Kansas Agricultural college that domestic science makes against divorce is based on figures that are not wide enough to be conclusive, but it is nevertheless in accord with reason. The figures are that 829 girls have been graduated in twenty years and all have taken the course in domestic science. Four hundred and twenty-seven have married and only four have been divorced, two of the four remarrying their former husbands. There is now in many places a movement to make the domestic science course a part of the public school course. A woman is more likely to be interested in running her home if she knows how to run it. All of us are interested in doing those things which in early life we learn to do well. Practical usefulness makes us happy. Education ought not to be based on the needs of a small class. It should meet the fundamental needs of everybody. The girl born in ordinary circumstances who can take care of herself and her whole family when necessary has a feeling of confidence, self-respect and vigor that makes for mental and physical health and therefore for happiness.

Didn't Bother Her.

Lippincott's: The mother of a family that had just moved to a small Oklahoma town was being sympathized with by a visitor because of the distance of the house from the creek which furnished the water for household purposes.

"It must be quite a tax upon your strength to carry water for the Saturday night bath for your large family?" the visitor suggested.

"Oh, no, I don't mind," was the cheerful reply. "Besides, I giv 'em all a good wash before we left Texas."

Frankness Is Always Wiser.

Northfield News: Governor Eberhart announces that he seeks indorsement in the present primary campaign "upon the record of MY administration." Apparently a slip of the pen. He meant, of course, "our" administration. Why not be frank and give credit where credit is due? The governor has visited the executive offices occasionally the last two years, of course, but not long enough to make a record—unless it be a talking machine record.

And After That, Salt Creek.

Princeton Union: Even if Governor Eberhart should be successful at the primary on the 16th of June, he has another river to cross on the 3rd of November, and it is a rather dangerous river, too.

It Seems to Lack the Punch, Though.

Morris Sun: Governor Eberhart has announced himself a candidate for re-election, stating that he will rely upon his past record to re-elect him to the governor's chair. The record alone will never carry the worthy governor very far toward victory, but the force that is back of that record may be able to whip enough votes into line to re-elect him.

Probe the Wounds.

Grand Rapids Independent: Governor Eberhart says that the anti-machine Republicans have "besmirched" the state's name by advertising the fact of the control of the state government by the big interests. We presume that the governor thinks that, likewise, a leper who would keep his ugly sores covered up would be clean.

Change Badly Needed.

Albert Lea Tribune: An increase in the taxes of the state of $8,000,000 in one year is enough to set the people of Minnesota to thinking that a change in the mangement of state affairs would be a good thing. Small wonder Governor Eberhart was taken with an acute economic grip. But it came rather late. The people would have appreciated it more had it come earlier in his administration and saved the extra taxation.

Sizing Up the Governor.

Virginia Enterprise: We see by the papers that the remarkable influx of settlers to Northern Minnesota which is this year evidenced is distinctly a reason why Governor Eberhart should be re-elected.

You've got to give it to him.

Bring forth the royal diadem.

Great is the governor, considerable is his fame, mediocre his ability, and not to be despised the craft of his numerous press agents and henchmen.

Let us give to the governor those things which are the governor's. Let us leave undimmed his lustrous splendor as a singer of sweet songs, a mimicker of oratory, a student of statesmanship and an artful dodger—where issues of consequence are concerned—who would easily lay it over the itinerant African at the county fair.

But let us refrain from taking him seriously. That would be a mistake. He has been sufficiently honored for a person of his caliber. He has been governor long enough, not such a bad one, but one who has reached the point where almost anybody would be an improvement.

That is the crux of the present situation.

Let us not misjudge it.

The Mother of Life

Toledo Blade: For national wealth a nation can draw upon only four resources, says James J. Hill.

"From the sea, the mine, the forest and the soil must be gathered everything that can sustain the life of man." The sea, says Mr. Hill, furnishes less than 5 per cent of the supply of food. The forests are being fast eaten up by the ever-hungry sawmills. "Within twenty years, perhaps, we shall have nowhere east of the Rocky mountains a timber product worth recording, and shall then be compelled to begin in earnest the slow process of reforesting." Coal and iron, "the two great resources of the under earth that are indispensable to human comfort and growth," are within measurable distance of exhaustion in this country. Somewhere about the middle of this century, Mr. Hill predicts, "our best and most convenient coal will have been so far consumed that the remainder can only be applied to present uses at an enhanced cost, which would probably compel the entire rearrangement of industries and revolutionize the common lot and common life. As for the iron supply, Mr. Hill declares that the "existing production cannot be maintained for fifty years, assuming that all the available iron ore known to us is mined."

There remains, then, the soil as the only national resource which we can consider as a permanent asset, the true mother of life and the one certain creator of civilization. The soil, says Mr. Hill, is the only resource that does not perish, "because it contains within itself, if not abused, the possibilities of infinite renewal."

Once we were a nation almost wholly agricultural. Not until recent years did we reach the point where we could speak of ourselves as a manufacturing nation. But if Mr. Hill is right—and the evidence is all on his side—it will not be long, as the life of a nation is considered, before we again look upon the production of food as the dominating national industry.

The Bigotry of Ulster.

Harper's Weekly: It is not in Belfast, but in Portadown, a small township in the County Armagh, that the Orange or Unionist sentiment is to be really probed or sounded.

In the "pub" are grouped a number of loyal Orangemen. Over their drinks are voiced enthusiastic toasts to the "damnation of the harlot of the seven hills" and "bad luck to the Papists." Anathema against Redmond and the Irish party follow as a matter of course. A stranger enters.

"To hell with the Pope!" is the succeeding toast.

When the newcomer shows no sign of provocation to wrath, he is approached cautiously. The abomination of your average Unionist or Orangeman is an American.

"Be ye from the States?"

"Nay, Glasgow," is an open sesame, notwithstanding the fact that practically all of the population of Portadown is pure Irish Gael. Glasgow represents a city of Dissenters—who, however, are four fifths Home Rulers; but, first fact is enough of your North of Ireland Protestant.

"Glasgow, aye lad! Ye'll join us! To hell with the Pope."

"But," protests the stranger, "I have no grievance against the Pope."

"Neither have we," is the unanimous response, "but he has the devil of a hard name in Portadown!"

Diminishing Dialogue.

The Sketch: Have you noticed the diminishing quality of bucolic dialogue? It begins almost fluently, but gradually fades away to a mere nothing. For example:

Beware of the Sea of Doubt.

New York Sun: Dr. Charles W. Eliot may or may not be right in his theory that our creeds need remodeling, but, at least, they are the best we have and they serve passably well as an anchorage to which the tossed and troubled spirits of a vast majority of us are glad to hold on amid the tempestuous uncertainties of time and eternity. It would be a sad sort of beneficence to deprive us of our only reliance without providing some equivalent if not improvement. But where is a satisfactory substitute to come from? Dr. Eliot talks of revision; but who is to do the revising? Where is the saint or sage in sight to whom the world can turn for surcease from its weariness, its fears, its cravings? If he is on the earth today he certainly has not revealed himself. There are plenty of iconoclasts from Bernard Shaw to Dr. Eliot, but no Messiah. On the whole it would seem better to cling to our imperfect hopes and ideals than to sail out vagrantly into the sea of doubt.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

ANOTHER IS PLEASED.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I, too, am glad to hear something at least is being done to get that ordinance in operation relative to proper distribution of the cost of installation of water and gas. This is one of the best things that can be done to assist in betterment of building conditions in our city. I know of three locations right in my neighborhood that depend on this ordinance, and are waiting somewhat impatiently for developments. Thanking you for this space,

WEST ENDER.

Duluth, May 20.

WATER EXTENSIONS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I read with pleasure the letter sent you by an "Inquirer," and was also pleased to note that the ordinance was ready to pass to the council for action—and which action I sincerely trust will be right. It surely means much for many of our residence districts, especially where whole blocks are sometimes held by non-residents who care no more for improvements than a man who lives on the other side of the globe and who never saw or heard of Duluth. They place their property in the hands of one of our real estate men here and instruct him to hold out for a certain price. While even the real estate dealer would be glad to assist in developing the community, he is powerless, and the property stands until prices reach the height desired by the owner. Meantime there are desirable lots bounding those owned by these non-residents (perhaps were bought before by some man of only small means with the intention of building a home later) and these lots also stand idle, as their owners cannot afford to stand the 8 per cent guarantee necessary to obtain water and gas and the non-residents will not come in with him. Investigation will show hundreds of these cases in our city, and this ordinance should be boosted by every property owner. Thanking you for this space,

ONE WHO KNOWS.

Duluth, May 19.

SETTING THE EDITOR RIGHT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I note your comment upon the proposed amendment to the Constitution that will require a 5 to 2 vote to declare a law unconstitutional. Now, I generally find you on the right side of public questions. I explained the question to you two years ago, but perhaps the fact that I then lived in another state and signed my article "Farmer" was the cause of your paying little attention to what I said. Now, the object of a constitution is to check hasty and ill-advised legislation. It is the foundation upon which our laws are built. And it is declared supreme. If the Constitution is in the way of progressive legislation, amend the objectionable points. If the process of amending is cumbersome and long drawn out, amend the process. Or, if the Constitution is a cumbersome weight of the dead past, abolish it altogether. But as long as we have a Constitution and declare it the supreme law of the land you can't stop judges from saying that laws do not conform to it. Nor does it help matters much to provide that it shall take five judges to say that the Constitution has been violated and only two to say that it hasn't. The question must be decided upon principle, not numbers. In the growth of our common law, differences of opinion will arise, but, fought out upon the lines of principle, the great bulk of our judicial decisions butt in pretty well together.

Roosevelt was going to amend the Constitution piecemeal down in the lumber yard, and every time we had a change in the political atmosphere we would have a different construction upon the Constitution. One old fellow used to say when arguing a point of law in justice court—"I'll leave it to the crowd." Now, if T. R. had been honest enough to say just what he believed about the Constitution he would have held a great deal of respect that he certainly lost, but he banked too strongly upon humbug and he didn't like to tackle so big a problem as the Constitution itself.

A good politician doesn't tackle those hard ones anyway.

He laid the blame upon the courts and gave the people a jolly. There are more people than there are judges anyway.

ANSWERS "N. A. G."

To the Editor of The Herald:

In reply to "N. A. G.'s" letter regarding the killing of the little girl by the fire auto.

"N. A. G." complains of the fire auto exceeding speed limits. He requests that they be required to run slowly enough to make the street as safe as the sidewalks. Would "N. A. G." feel the same if his family was in the burning building? Would he then be heard complaining that the fire department responded too quickly to alarms? I think not, unless, as one might suppose from his remarks, he was planning on the insurance. As to his remarks about the carelessness of drivers: The driver in question deliberately drove the machine into the ditch in the effort to save the child, and in so doing risked his own life and that of his chief. Would "N. A. G." be willing to do the same under the same circumstances? I think not, as we do not look for bravery from a man who is afraid to sign his name to such statements.

G. O. BLACK,
Driver.

Duluth, May 20.

"NAGGING" THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Public departments and public officials are always open to criticism; and the criticism is generally welcome because betterment is bound to result. But "N. A. G." is guilty of nagging the fire department for a very ill considered reason.

I am not aware of the exact circumstances surrounding the death of the little 4-year-old girl who was run over by the fire auto while the auto was on its way to extinguish a slight fire at Hermantown; but if I interpret his letter correctly, neither is "N. A. G." The question is one of principle, and he himself states it as follows:

"If it is wrong for a private vehicle to exceed the speed limit, why should it not be wrong for any public vehicle to do so?"

"N. A. G." makes his mistake in failing to discriminate between the various "public vehicles." It is not only the privilege but the decided duty of the fire department vehicles to travel at the utmost rate of speed. One minute's delay in waiting for a child to get out of the way might many times mean the loss of ten other lives. It might even have been the case here that a minute's delay in putting out the brush fire at Hermantown would have resulted in a terribly destructive forest fire.

"N. A. G." is especially wroth because he might "have to stay at home and not venture on the streets for fear some fire auto might come along." But how would "N. A. G." like to have his house on fire and his family in imminent danger while a well equipped fire department was set at naught by idle loiterers on the streets?

In the particular instance no blame can be attached to the child. She was not old enough to quickly "get into clear." It was simply a sad accident which everyone regrets.

The few reflections which "N. A. G." casts on Mr. Hicken I shall not comment upon. Mr. Hicken has been so much in the limelight of adverse and favorable criticism that any new remarks can help but little to increase the illumination.

WHAT OF THE HARVEST?

By SAVOYARD

Washington, May 21.—(Special to The Herald)—

"Hope springs eternal in the human breast;
Man never is, but always to be blest."

And so our Republican friends are going about with a broad grin on their faces declaring that the next election is a "formality," that the country will overwhelmingly and indignantly rebuke the Wilson administration. There was a little election in New Jersey that they carried a day or so ago and they feel that the thing is settled.

I do not believe it. For its achievement the Wilson administration never had a match. The tariff was plucked to pieces and patched together in something like decent order, and the prophets of evil were confounded by the result. Worse than a fellow in Texas ever needed a pistol this country for more than half a century needed a banking system. Without a flourish Mr. Wilson, as leader of the Democratic party, set about that reform and he accomplished it without a balk. There followed a banking law that meets universal approval.

Then the president insisted that the smirched national honor as appears in free tolls to that monopoly, coastwise American shipping, be made unspotted by repeal of the subsidy. The popular branch of congress responded to him with enthusiasm and a magnificent majority, and so the senate as soon as the filibuster is put an end to. To follow will be some measures to regulate and discipline the monopolies that are the creation of the G. O. P. and that have fatted off the people so long.

As for the Mexican situation, it appears to be well in hand, though the jingoes in congress and out of congress have sought by all sorts of taunts and lies to force the president into a war that would shed the blood of tens of thousands of our young men and cost posterity thousands of millions of treasure. Can you imagine one of these trumpeters, from William R. Hearst and John R. McLean down to and including the vainest and faintest echo in congress, venturing his precious carcass on the gory field of glory? Hardly. There are limits to the human imagination. I believe it was Philip of Macedon who executed a fifer who would not fight himself but urged others to fight. A few days of Philip would be good for this country right now.

The office of president of this republic is the most tremendous civic job the world has ever known. Detraction loves a shining mark and the tribe that congregates at Adullam is numerous in the land. Though a radiant angel from Heaven were president he would be slandered and vilified—fair mark of knaves who lie about him and victim of their dupes who believe the knaves.

If the Republicans should prevail in the election next November it would be one of the most startling surprises of all history, but history would only repeat itself if the majority in the national house of representatives were reduced. For more than sixty years that fate has overtaken every president of every party—Pierce, Buchanan, Lincoln, Grant, Hayes, Arthur, Cleveland (twice), Harrison, McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft, and in the case of many of them the mid-election discovered an adverse majority in the house of representatives. It was so with Pierce, Buchanan, Grant, second term, Hayes, Arthur, Cleveland, second term, Harrison and Taft.

The present American electorate is the most intelligent the world ever saw. The vulgar demagogue without principle and without shame has less show in our country than demagogue ever had before. The statesman who would hold people cheap and depend on ignorance and prejudice to bear him into place and power is building his house on the sand. He may triumph for the moment, but the people will not believe a lie for long.

* * *

It would be marvelous if the Democratic majority in the house of representatives, now so overwhelming, were not reduced at the approaching elections, but to say that it will be extinguished is absurd.

Mr. Roosevelt is back and now politics will begin to get busy. Penrose, La Follette, Hearst, Tammany and Bristow will have to stand around and take notice when Teddy cracks his whip.

Meanwhile the Democratic administration approaches the conflict conscious of rectitude and confident of success.

The Peruvian mining industry is still in its infancy. Its backwardness is largely due to the lack of transportation facilities and to the necessarily expensive freight rates.

The DOCTOR'S HELPS
By Donald McCaskey, M. D.
Member of Staff, General Hospital, Lancaster, Pa.; Fellow of the New York Academy of Medicine

FOR AN ITCHING OF THE LIMBS FROM THE THIGHS DOWN.

D. L. N. asks:

"Will you please tell me what to do. For the last three winters I have been troubled with an itching of my limbs from the thighs down. I am not troubled during the summer time or at any other time of the year except during the cold winter. I have tried a number of medicines but they have all failed me."

Answer.

Your case appears to be one of undue amount of poison circulating through your blood and tissues. This might be likened to a mild form of biliousness. The best counsel I could give to you from your brief note would be to adopt a periodic weekly cleansing of your system for the next ten weeks. Say, every Friday take a five-grain dose of powdered calomel and follow within four hours with a half tumblerful of castor oil. Adopt this treatment once a week and for the first week or so live chiefly upon fruit and vegetables until your system gets a thorough cleaning and a new start. If there is no organic disease troubling you, your itching should promptly disappear.

THIS PATIENT'S MIND HAS BROKEN.

I have a pathetic inquiry from Tennessee. The lady says: "About the middle of last September my husband got so that he could not sleep. Then he developed night sweats. He would worry over everything that happened. We had much sickness and a death in our family and that upset him completely. He would not talk, but when any one would say anything to him he would answer with perfectly good sense. He would sit as though his mind was in a stupor, still he knew everything that was going on around him. At times he would have a burning sensation in his back and a feeling as though something was crawling up his limbs. When that feeling would come upon him he could not hold himself still. He would get up and walk about the floor. Our family doctor said his health was all right and gave him some medicine to make him sleep, but nothing would bring about his rest. Finally he became so bad that he imagined things and wanted to run away. We wanted to take him to a sanitarium and have him treated but we could not persuade him to go. At last our doctor took him to the county asylum for the insane. He has been there three weeks now, but we do not think that is the right place for him because he is not really crazy and I think that if he could sleep and not worry so much, his mind would obtain the rest it needs. Then he would get all right, is my feeling. He is a farmer, 52 years old and has always enjoyed good health. What treatment would you advise for him?"

Answer.

It is impossible to take a short four-page letter, such as yours, and make an accurate diagnosis of a mental disease such as the one your husband is suffering from. However, from the very meager details, your husband's mind has quite evidently broken, and it looks to me as though your husband is suffering from hallucinations, the nature of which are that he is being persecuted. If this is the case, he is suffering from a disease known as paranoia. This means that the patient thinks everybody is conspiring to either kill him or to make him suffer in some way. If the disease does not go to too advanced a stage, it can be cured and if your husband's mind and also the physical condition of his body is sufficiently strong to thrive upon the proper sort of rest and food and general care, he should within the next few months be greatly restored. A great deal of the success, however, must depend upon the tact and diplomacy and absolute kindly sincerity which is shown towards your husband by those about him. The paranoia patient believes in absolutely no one. He distrusts everything and everybody, even his very best friends. I had a patient suffering from paranoia some time ago who thought a crowd of his best friends were coming to mob him one night and throw him on a pile of brush and burn him alive. His poor mind became so excited and the fear became so realistic to him that he trembled like a leaf as he described to me in great terror the fear which had overcome him. By all means have your husband treated by some skillful doctor who has a good nurse under him—a nurse who has a real tender and honest heart as well as a scientific and skillful method of handling her patients. The great secret must depend almost entirely upon the individual who is constantly around your husband, for if the latter does nothing but always suspects—no cure can ever be obtained. Guard against suicidal attempts. They are common.

TRADE FAIR IN ALL LINES

Jobbers Optimistic Over Crop Outlook But Await Developments.

Market for Most Staple Goods Is Firmer With Sales Steady.

Though the present is designated as the off season in some branches of the wholesale trade, current business is said to be in fairly liberal volume. Houses are pursuing a waiting attitude just now in regard to selling operations through the agricultural districts of the northwest. The crop outlook is generally regarded as encouraging, but in the meantime, pending further developments, merchants are pursuing a policy of buying only to cover immediate requirements.

It is conceded in all quarters that the merchandising situation is in a healthy condition, and that a heavy trade is certain to develop when the usual fall buying period starts in, provided that crop yields are up to the average.

Grocery Trade Satisfactory.

Grocery trade is satisfactory all around, according to the Rust-Parker-Martin company of Duluth, and the Twohy-Elmon Mercantile company of Superior. Orders in staples are being placed in greater volume as a result largely of the firmer market in many price advances in the near future.

Sugars are up another ten points this week in line with strength in the raw markets. Refiners are said to be heavily oversold, so that any easing up in the situation is regarded as out of the question, especially in view of the period of the heaviest consumption now approaching.

Coffees are slightly higher with a good demand reported. Jobbers are at present disposed to hold their orders down in view of their inability to obtain any definite estimate as to the proportions of the new crop.

Dried fruits are firm, especially in futures. Prunes have been again advanced on the soft supplies available. There are liberal stocks of raisins and peaches, but quotations in them are steady.

In cereals, Japanese rice is firm and the Carolina product is scaled very high. Rolled oats are also up slightly. A good call is being met with in salt and dried fish, in which quotations are regarded as exceptionally reasonable.

Harness Shipments Heavy.

"We have had heavier shipments in all departments this month than at any time since we began business," said E. A. Schulze of the Schulze Brothers company. "Increases are being shown in all lines, harness, leather findings and shoemakers' supplies."

The house's salesmen were reported to be booking substantial orders in harness for next spring's delivery.

A similar situation in leather lines was advised by the Northwestern Leather company. A steady expansion in the scope of its operations is commented upon by the house. Business in shoe leathers is being rapidly developed over the Northern Minnesota ground.

Drygoods Situation Healthy.

Future business in drygoods staples and features, is commented upon as fair by F. A. Patrick & Co. Current trade is steady for the period. Merchants in Southern and Western Minnesota are feeling optimistic at present, according to V. R. Waldo, assistant sales manager of the house who has just returned from a trip over the ground. He found that large acreages are being placed in potatoes and other roots, and that farmers are showing an increasing disposition to take up dairying and mixed farming.

Hardware Market Steady.

Sales managers of the Marshall-Wells Hardware company, and the Kelley-How-Thompson company, averred that shipments of shelf hardware and staples are going out over the territory in heavier volume than a year ago. A feature noted at present is the remarkable sale of woven wire field fencing. It is being found impossible to bring that material up to the Head of the Lakes in sufficient volume to fill all the orders coming to hand from over the West. With the exception that sheets are off slightly, the market is steady in general iron and steel products.

Fair Orders in Shoes.

"We have no cause for complaint on the score of business," said L. D. Stickles, manager of the Northern Shoe company. Current business is coming to hand in fair volume for the season, he averred. Future bookings have been sufficiently large to assure the steady operation of the company's factory in all departments during the next few months. With the exception of the Pacific coast, trade is being maintained fully up to the average over the territory being worked.

Furniture House Busy.

Orders in furniture lines are advised by the De Witt-Seitz company to be keeping up remarkably well. The force in the company's mattress factory was increased again this week, and the output is said to be running substantially larger than a year ago. Business originating from over Northern Wisconsin and Western and Northern Minnesota has been especially gratifying of late.

INTERNATIONAL DEAL APPROVED

Proposition for Purchase Favored By Stockholders of Anaconda.

Butte, Mont., May 21.—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Anaconda Copper Mining company, held here yesterday, the retiring board of directors was re-elected as follows: John D. Ryan, B. B. Thayer, C. F. Kelley, H. H. Rogers, William Rockefeller, A. H. Melin and George H. Church. All of the directors except Mr. Kelley reside in New York.

The proposition made by the officers and directors of the Anaconda company to the International Smelting company for the purchase of the latter's property and assets was approved. In the event of its acceptance by the International company, the officers of the Anaconda company were authorized to close the deal.

A disinterested commission of eminent engineers recently appraised the property of the International company located at Tooele, Utah, East Chicago and Perth Amboy. In round figures the committee found the property and assets to approximate $19,000,000, while the company's indebtedness was about $9,000,000.

The Anaconda company is to pay $10,392,709 cash for the property and to assume the indebtedness. International shareholders who choose to do so may exchange their share of the proceeds for Anaconda stock on an equitable basis. This basis is 3.3 shares of Anaconda for each share of International.

SENATE RATIFIES DECENCY TREATY

Also Three Arbitration Agreements; Colombia Pact Goes Over.

Washington, May 21.—A convention between the United States and practically all the nations of Europe for the purpose of suppressing traffic in obscene publications, particularly postcards, was ratified last night by the senate. Penalties for infractions of its terms must be provided for by subsequent legislation. Punishment is authorized for distribution or sending out of obscene publications or for advertising such a trade.

This convention was drawn by representatives of the nations concerned in April, 1910, and was sent to the senate by Former President Taft early in 1912. It was only a few weeks ago that it was reported out of the foreign relations committee.

Arbitration Treaties.

The senate also ratified without debate agreements extending for five years the general arbitration treaties with Austria-Hungary, the Netherlands and Salvador. The treaties all had expired. They are similar to those with other European powers recently ratified by the senate after long debate.

Secretary Bryan announced that he would not send to the senate the treaty through which the United States hopes to adjust the claims of Colombia, growing out of the separation of Panama, until the senate had acted on the proposed repeal of the toll exemption clause of the Panama canal law.

Mr. Bryan added that he would not offer the new treaty to the senate for ratification until it had finally been approved by the Colombian congress. His latest information from Bogota is that the congressional committee to which the treaty was referred had approved it unanimously.

When the tolls question is out of the way, Mr. Bryan purposes submitting various conventions to the senate, including fifteen or more new peace treaties which he has signed with nations great and small.

Take Hold-Up Suspects.

Kalispell, Mont., May 21.—Two men suspected of being the bandits that held up a Great Northern train last Friday night at Rondo, Mont., are in custody at Belton, a hamlet, ninety miles east of the scene of the hold-up. The prisoners will be brought here early today.

Are Your Children Learning Lessons of Thrift?

Thrift in the home is a splendid heritage for either a boy or a girl. Your daughter will be a more attractive young person and a better wife and mother if she early acquires the right attitude toward money by having a savings account of her own. Your son will be a better business man if he thus learns the value of money when he is a boy.

Does Tango Make Wrinkles?

Now comes the calamity howler who claims that dancing the tango is conducive to wrinkles and a drawn expression—this claim made in the face of the fact that in Argentina, home of the Tango, the youthful appearance of the women is proverbial and the professional dancers have especially smooth skins. In Spain, where athletic dances are even more common, we have the most refined type of beauty in the world. The wrinkles of American women are due more to improper care of the skin, neglect, and too strenuous mental activity. They may be avoided or cured by using a simple protective and stimulative vegetable cream jelly before retiring at night. Just get one ounce of almozoin from your druggist—dissolve it in ½ pint of water and, before retiring, cover the wrinkled surface with this cream, which dries quickly, does not soil the linen, both protects against the night air and draws the skin smooth, will not grow hair and immediately forces the blood to build out the flesh so wrinkles disappear. CONTRACTOR IS SUING THE CITY

In Judge Dancer's division of the district court this morning trial of the damage suit of George R. King, contractor, against the city of Duluth was begun.

The action is one in which the contractor is seeking to recover $2,098.76 which he claims is due him on his contract with the municipality for the grading, paving and otherwise improving Twenty-seventh avenue west between Michigan and Fifth streets. The plaintiff alleges that the city engineer has refused to submit his final estimate so that he may secure the balance due him under his contract. In answer, the city claims that the contractor failed to comply with the specifications, and that to go over the work again and make necessary repairs will cost about $3,340. The city denies any liability.

Quickest Relief Known For All Sore Feet

The following is absolutely the surest and quickest cure known to science for all foot ailments. "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of warm water. Soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, gently rubbing the sore parts." The effect is really wonderful. All soreness goes instantly and the feet feel so good you could sing for joy. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off. It gives immediate relief for sore bunions, sweaty, smelly and aching feet. A twenty-five cent box of Calocide is said to be sufficient to cure the worst feet. It works through the pores and removes the cause of the trouble. Don't waste time on uncertain remedies. Any druggist has Calocide compound in stock or he can get it in a few hours from his wholesale house. It is not a patent medicine. Calocide prepared only by Medical Formula Co., of Dayton, Ohio.

CITY NOT LIABLE UNDER OLD CASE

Madison, Wis., May 21.—A municipality, upon taking over by purchase a public utility, is not liable on a lease entered into by such public utility with a third party prior to the time such utility was purchased by the municipality, according to a decision of the supreme court today. In other words, the court held that a lease is not to be considered as property. The decree was in connection with the case of the Green Bay & Mississippi Canal company vs. Kaukauna Gas, Electric Light & Power company.

MICHIGAN FIRES LESS DANGEROUS.

Lansing, Mich., May 21.—Conditions in Michigan's forest fire belt are somewhat improved, according to reports received at the office of the state forestry warden. Fires are still dangerous in Cheboygan, Presque Isle and Otsego counties, but the situation is hopeful unless high winds should prevail. No loss of life has been reported.

ENJOYING IDLE HOURS

Quoit Games Occupy Men Who Are Waiting for Work.

Duluth's unemployed men are doing their best to enjoy themselves while waiting for work.

The smoke of the "jungle" camp fires, and the savory odor of frying bacon and hot coffee are luring all the unemployed to the water front. Some of the real sport fans have started quoit pitching contests on the patch of ground below the union station. Sometimes there may be seen 300 to 400 quoit fans perched on the railing above the tracks and on the Sixtn avenue bridge. With the bright sun over them, a pipe to cheer the long hours, and "home cooking" at the jungle camps, the pitching of horse shoes is taken up with zest during idle moments. Some of the most zealous players are becoming quite expert in the throwing of horseshoes and high scores are being run up. In some cases contests are held in which the price of a piece of bacon, crackers and cheese and other necessities is staked.

A few of the men are seeking work on the farms or turning gardeners for a few days, but most of them are waiting for railroad work to pick up. Employment agents say that the majority of migratory laborers will refuse to work alone at odd jobs unless forced to do it, and they prefer to wait for the opening of the railroad camps.

The number of orders for men is now on the increase with the coming of fair weather, but the conditions are still slow. It is expected, however, that if the advance in freight rates is given the Eastern railroads that many improvements will be launched at once, giving work to thousands.

Through Private Property.
Through a mistake in the survey, the western extension of the boulevard runs through private property for a distance of 667 feet, in the vicinity of Oneota cemetery. No change in the route will be necessary, as the owners are willing to deed the ground to the city in return for the city's right-of-way, which is sixty-six feet wide.

Would Adopt Child.
Joseph A. Scherer and wife, Mary Scherer, have petitioned the district court for permission to adopt as their own, the infant child of Anna McInnis. The mother has signed her consent to the proceeding. The case will be heard Saturday.

Keep Gasoline Out of Sewers.
Recent sewer explosions at Pittsburg, which caused heavy damages, were found by engineers to be due to gasoline which was allowed to run into sewers from garages, according to a local plumbing company. An official states that this can be avoided by the installation of proper pump covers. He says that this would afford protection to the public sewer and adds that for the owner's own protection the cover should be vented to carry the dangerous gases outside the building.

Federal Banker Here.
S. S. Titus, president of the First National bank of Grand Forks and a member of the directorate of the Minneapolis Federal reserve bank, is in the city today on business. He was in Minneapolis Monday, when the articles of incorporation for the new reserve bank were signed by Mr. Titus and the other members of the directorate. He expects to leave for Grand Forks this evening.

Dr. Edward T. Martin has opened offices at rooms 411-412 Fidelity building.

Widow Gets $2,743.
Approval of a settlement of a claim for wrongful death under the terms of the workingmen's compensation act was obtained in district court yesterday in the case of Karl Wilhelm Isaakson, who was accidentally killed while in the employment of the Oliver Iron Mining company at the Hull-Rust mine, Hibbing, Jan. 2. The company will pay a widow and four children residing in Sweden the sum of $2,743.59.

Case Is Dismissed.
Following the acquittal yesterday afternoon of Elias Kickalo on a charge of robbery in the first degree, Mason M. Forbes, first assistant county attorney, asked for the dismissal of the case of the state against John Quisto, who was jointly indicted with Kickalo for the same offense. The two men were accused by the May grand jury of having on March 3 last at Cedar Valley held up and robbed one Mike Alapero of $120. The case against Quisto was dismissed because of the lack of evidence which would warrant a conviction.

Duluth School Wins.
An attendance contest, lasting fourteen Sundays, between the Sunday schools of the First Methodist church of Duluth and the Hennepin Avenue M. E. church of Minneapolis, has just ended and the Duluth Sunday school won. The Duluth average attendance was 756 and that of the Minneapolis Sunday school was 742. Duluth gained seventy-seven pupils and Minneapolis seventeen. In celebration of the victory the Duluth school will give a supper Monday evening at the Auditorium, at which 800 people can be accommodated.

County Settles For $150.
The lawsuit which has been pending between Robert C. McKinley and the county of St. Louis in which McKinley is seeking to recover $600 for gravel alleged to have been taken by those engaged in county road work for use on public highways from his land on the northwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 19, 50-14, has been settled out of court. A notice of dismissal and stipulation for settlement was filed today with the clerk of the district court. McKinley settled the case with the county for $150.

Wife Asks Divorce.
Marie Meyers, 38, alleging desertion, has started suit for divorce in district court against her husband, William H. Meyers, 38, to whom she was married at Iron River, Wis., May 17, 1906. Shortly after their marriage they moved to Duluth, where they lived together until May 28, 1912, when, she claims, Meyers deserted her. A summons was served on Meyers, March 19, at St. Thomas, Ont., and the court has limited the time in which he may answer to May 22, tomorrow.

Prisoners Discharged.
James Mantheos, 33, who was arrested early this morning on a charge of larceny, and Steve Alexander, 23, who was taken into custody on a charge of assault in the third degree, were both released this noon for want of evidence. They were arrested by Lieut. Barber on the complaint of George Morris, who claimed that Mantheos and Alexander came into his room at 121 West First street and struck him and then took his money. Morris was unable to prove his claim and the two men were given their liberty.

New Laundry Company.
Articles of incorporation were filed today with Register of Deeds Calligan by the Excelsior Laundry company, which is organized to engage in a laundry business in this city. The capital stock of the company is $25,000 divided into 250 shares at $100 each. The incorporators are David Flero, Harold P. Curren and Ellen Hudson, all of Duluth.

Temple Services.
Rabbi Maurice Lefkovits will preach on "Spreading Sunshine" at the regular Temple Emanuel services tomorrow evening. The services will begin at 8 o'clock and are open to the public.

Shop-Visiting Excursion.
The publicity committee of the Commercial club held a brief meeting this noon and decided to make plans for the annual shop-visiting excursion for the first week in June. Details of this will be arranged later. It is proposed that the factories of the F. A. Patrick company and the Zinsmaster-Smith Bread company will be visited. The repairing and painting of the information booth to be placed at the corner of Fifth avenue west and Superior street was authorized, and the booth will be placed in position in a very short time.

Incinerator Repaired.
The health department has completed the incinerator repairs and the furnaces are once more running full blast. The department is insisting that only combustible materials shall be allowed in the furnaces, as the repairs were necessitated to a considerable extent by the fact that tin cans, bottles and other non-combustible substances were dumped with the garbage.

Thank Acting Prelate.
At a recent meeting of Duluth commandery, No. 18, Knights Templar, the following resolution was adopted: "Resolved, That Duluth commandery, No. 18, K. T., extends to Rev. Thomas W. MacLean, LL. D., a vote of thanks for his very efficient services as acting prelate at our Easter day service."

Doctoring Trees.
Henry Cleveland, manager of the park department, is "doctoring" the trees under his care. The ground about the roots is being cultivated and those which are weak are being given a dose of fertilizer to strengthen them. The pruning will not start until midsummer.

Work Farm for Drunks.
Joseph Jeffery, 42, and Paul Boyen, 60, will have to spend the next sixty days on the work farm, for being drunk a fourth time. They were both arrested last evening and pleading guilty in police court this morning, were given straight sentences on the farm.

Gets Stiff Sentence.
William Andaburak, who was arrested Tuesday evening on a charge of selling liquor to Elma Ruud, an Indian woman, and who pleaded guilty in police court yesterday morning, was later in the day fined $100 or sixty days on the work farm. Being unable to pay his fine, Andaburak was committed to the farm for two months.

Services at Second Presbyterian.
Norman D. McLeod, secretary of the boys' department at the Y. M. C. A., will conduct the services next Sunday morning at the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street, and Dr. William F. Hovis, pastor of the Endion M. E. church, will preach in the evening.

Roommate and Money Fade.
Charles Anderson reported to the police early this morning that his roommate, Carl Bevans, 23 years old, has disappeared and taken with him $30 belonging to Anderson. The latter gave a description of Bevans to the police and a city-wide search is being made for the fugitive. Bevans is described as being 5 feet, 6 inches tall and weighing 145 pounds. They both roomed at the Saratoga hotel.

Public Too Inquisitive.
Robert Donaldson, telephone operator, complains that the public usually call headquarters whenever the police ambulance is sent out on a special run and that as a result the officers are unable to make telephonic connections either with the hospitals, Police Surgeon Murphy or policemen on the respective beats. This happened last evening, when Edward Walsh was injured in falling from the Sixth avenue viaduct and greatly hampered the work of the police officers.

Prisoner Discharged.
Leo Allen, 22 years old, who was arrested Monday evening in the West end on a charge of swearing on the street, was discharged in police court this morning. His case was dismissed by Judge Cutting, who declared that not enough evidence had been introduced to prove Allen's guilt.

Will Arrange Jury Cases.
A setting of jury cases for the ensuing two weeks will be made by Judge Bert Fesler in district court at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Attorneys having cases coming on for trial at this term are expected to be on hand and arrange for the trial.

DON'T TRUST CALOMEL

Thousands Experience Bad After Effects From This Dangerous Drug.

A Safe Vegetable Substitute Is Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets for the Liver.

Dr. F. M. Edwards, a prominent physician of Ohio, has discovered a laxative and liver toner in a combination of vegetable materials mixed with olive oil, which is in effect almost exactly like calomel, except that there are none of the bad after effects.

Dr. Edwards has long been a foe of calomel, though he recognized its value along with its dangers.

His distrust of the uncertain drug eventually started him years ago, towards experiments with the view of discovering a substitute, and he has been for several years in possession of the long-sought-for combination, which is in the shape of a little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablet.

The results of 17 years' experience and practice are embodied in these marvelous little tablets.

They are called Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. And their effect on the liver has been the means of relief to many of Dr. Edwards' regular patients as well as to thousands of others who have suffered and were afraid of calomel.

There is no necessity, when you take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, by following them up with nasty, sickening, griping salts, or castor oil, as you do after taking calomel. Try them, 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet company, Columbus, Ohio. All druggists.

DIRECTORY OF PICTURE SHOWS

Are you wondering which moving picture show you'll go to tonight?

If so, turn to the first column on the back page of The Herald. There you'll find a complete schedule of the films being shown by the progressive motion picture theaters in Duluth.

You may want a love tale, or a sad story, or something exciting, or a pastoral scene, or a war picture, or a portrayal of Indian life, or you may hanker for a ship wreck, or a hold-up, or a train robbery, or a domestic recital, or any of the scores of other subjects which the motion picture machine provides. If you don't know where to go to get what you wish, consult "Picture Shows." You'll find it in the first column of the back page of The Herald. Beginning tonight, it will be one of the features of the classified section. The feature films of the various theaters and the nights on which they will be shown can be ascertained in a minute by reference to "Picture Shows" in the classified section, in the first column of the back page.

HAVE YOU A CHILD?

Many women long for children, but because of some curable physical derangement are deprived of this greatest of all happiness.

The women whose names follow were restored to normal health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Write and ask them about it.

"I took your Compound and have a fine, strong baby." — Mrs. JOHN MITCHELL, Massena, N. Y.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a wonderful medicine for expectant mothers." — Mrs. A. M. MYERS, Gordonville, Mo.

"I highly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before child-birth, it has done so much for me."—Mrs. E. M. DOERR, R. R. 1, Conshohocken, Pa.

"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to build up my system and have the dearest baby girl in the world." — Mrs. MOSE BLAKELEY, Imperial, Pa.

"I praise the Compound whenever I have a chance. It did so much for me before my little girl was born." — Mrs. E. W. SANDERS, Rowlesburg, W. Va.

"I took your Compound before baby was born and feel I owe my life to it."—Mrs. WINNIE TILLIS, Winter Haven, Florida.

HIS WINNINGS "PHONY."

White Bear Man Loses on Con Game in St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., May 21.—E. A. Doesch of White Bear parted with $400 to a "confidence man" at the St. Paul hotel Tuesday night. He got into a conversation with a "stranger from out West." They offered to bet over a disputed point. Doesch drove home in his automobile for the money, and the stakes were placed with a man who said he was manager of the hotel. Doesch won the bet, but when he looked the winnings over he found the yellowbacks were "phony."

HOPE For Sick Men

Hope, it is said, springs eternal in the human breast, but how many afflicted men there are who are disappointed and discouraged either because they have not investigated until they have found the right treatment to take or because they have had unsatisfactory medical service elsewhere.

We expect and do hear daily from patients, long stories of unsuccessful treatments. But in almost every case the fault lies with the man himself in failing to discriminate between the ordinary practitioner and the skilled men's doctor. In the treatment of Blood Poison, Skin Diseases, Ulcers, Varicocele, Hydrocele, Nervous Debility and such troubles you will find us past the experimental stage.

Come to SEE US and note the difference in the way an experienced men's doctor will handle your case.

You will be amply repaid by the progress which will be made in your case. We have cured many hundreds of men; we can do the same for you.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

Written for The Herald By Rev. J. S. Kirtley, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: MAY 24.

Luke xvii, 1-10: Unprofitable Servants.

CONNECTION.

These words seem to be a part of the discourse over in Perea along in January, A. D. 30, from which the last lesson was taken, or it is possible that these are teachings brought together from various talks on different occasions. His enemies were there trying to throw stumbling blocks in the way of the conversion of the many people who thronged Him. It was to them He directed His words as well as to His disciples who needed protection against their insidious and poisoning influence. We can never understand the meaning of what He taught unless we know something of the conditions in which He spoke.

THE LESSON.

I.

Causing and Forgiving Sins, 1-6.

"And He said unto His disciples, It is impossible but that occasions of stumbling should come; but woe unto him, through whom they come! It were well for him if a millstone were hanged about his neck, and he were thrown into the sea, rather than that he should cause one of these little ones to stumble. Take heed to yourselves; if thy brother sin, rebuke him; and if he repent, forgive him. And if he sin against thee seven times in the day, and seven times turn again to thee, saying, I repent; thou shalt forgive him.

"And the apostles said unto the Lord, Increase our faith. And the Lord said, If ye had faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye would say unto this sycamine tree, Be thou rooted up, and be thou planted in the sea; and it would obey you."

1. SNARES.—Occasions of stumbling means the snares which the trapper uses to spring the trap and catch his game. Two things make it certain that there will be sins. One is that there are snares set and the other that men have desire to do those very things; the inclination and the appeal, the two constituting the temptation. Sin is inevitable; that's what Jesus means, not that sin is right or excusable but because we are what we are and traps are set for us we are sure to do some sinning.

2. GUILT.—The chief crime of Jeroboam was not that he himself did wrong, but that he "made others to sin." The Master was speaking "to the disciples," not to the apostles alone nor to the Pharisees who were hounding His steps, though He had them all in mind, but to the disciples who were made up of publicans and sinners who accepted Him. Those enemies were setting snares to secure their defection from Jesus. The guilt of making them sin would be greater than sinning themselves. To arouse the thirst for drink and start the habit, to teach another to swear and lie and deceive, to impose on the weakness of another for his injury—it would be better for the one who does it to have sinkers put on him and be thrown into the deepest water; better for him because it is better to lose the physical life than to degrade the soul or lead another to sin.

3. FORGIVING.—What shall be done for the one who wrongs you? Depends on what you want to do with him. If you want to make him a greater wrongdoer, then resent it and he will grow worse; if you want to keep him an enemy, quarrel with him. But if you want to destroy the enmity out of which the wrong grew and make him your friend, then forgive him. There's no other way to destroy enmity. That's the way God did with you. To forgive a sin means to send it away from the heart, and that's the end of it; send it away from your mind and it's all over but the growing away from it. This is not a matter of times, it's a matter of spirit. If you have the desire to win him back and destroy the enmity and save him from the sin he's committed against you, then you will keep on forgiving him as long as he lives. Seven is a symbol of completeness. When seven days pass the week is complete.

4. IMPOSSIBILITY ACCOMPLISHED.—To drive the sin and the enmity out of another's heart is impossible, yet it is to be done. It is too great to be done by any mechanical power; it must be accomplished by a vital, dynamic force, by life itself. A mountain might be removed by physical force as the hills of Seattle were washed down by waters trained on them, could be digged down by patent shovels, but a heart must be transformed by heart power. What is that vital principle? It is faith. It is the very kind of power that can do that sort of thing. The phrase "remove mountains" was an old saying and we use it now, not meaning it literally, but meaning the doing of a difficult thing. To pluck a sycamine tree and plant it where no sycamine or any other kind of tree can be planted is to say the impossible can be done. So it can. It is impossible for the human heart to forgive, because it is against its nature, as it is against the nature of the sycamine tree to grow in the sea, but God transforms the nature and it is through our faith in Him. He is constantly bidding us do the impossible, as when Jesus told the man to stretch forth his withered hand and confidence in Christ led him to try. Faith is a vital working principle. Even as small a bit as a grain of mustard seed has life in it and the life is the essential thing and not the quantity. Given the living germ and the amount will increase. Well did the disciples, when he told them of their immense task of forgiving, say, "Increase our faith." They surely needed it.

II.

The Margin of Profit, 7-10.

"But who is there of you, having a servant plowing or keeping sheep, that will say unto him, when he is come in from the field, Come straightway and sit down to meat; and will not rather say unto him, Make ready wherewith I may sup, and gird thyself, and serve me, till I have eaten and drunken; and afterward thou shalt eat and drink? Doth he thank the servant because he did the things that were commanded? Even so ye also, when ye shall have done all the things that are commanded you, say, we are unprofitable servants; we have done that which it was our duty to do."

1. PERILS.—There are perils before the servants of Christ. One is in the cherishing of a vindictive spirit, which will prevent the grace of forgiveness. Another is in the faith itself which is required in order to forgive. One who cultivates it has another thing to look out for. It is the natural disposition to become conceited and require recognition and rewards. Looking at it from His own point of view Christ may give any reward He may wish for any thing we do, but looking at it from the standpoint of the disciple there is nothing he can expect. Here are the reasons—Christ owns the servant even as a master owns his slaves whether that ownership be right or wrong; Christ owns their time and the tools they work with. Therefore He owns every thing they produce or accomplish. A slave could never do any thing more than his duty and therefore there was never a margin of clear profit, couldn't be. Even, so when you have done your duty, you have done what was due, for that's what the word duty means, therefore you have nothing to your credit. If you could do more than your duty there might be profit, but you have no time nor power but what He owns, nothing to do more than your duty with, no power, no time.

2. REWARDS.—But the one who does his duty in a right spirit will get the special reward of His approval and a greater ability to do and therefore more work to do, greater duties.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

People talk of the sacrifices I have made in spending so much of my life in Africa. Can that be called a sacrifice which is simply paid back as a small part of a great debt owing to God, which we can never repay? Is that a sacrifice which brings its own blest reward in healthful activity, the consciousness of doing good, peace of mind, and a bright hope of a glorious destiny hereafter? Away with the word in such a view and with such a thought! It is emphatically no sacrifice. Say, rather, it is a privilege. Anxiety, sickness, suffering, or danger, now and then, with a foregoing of the common conveniences and charities of this life, may make us pause, and cause the spirit to waver, and the soul to sink; but let this be only for a moment. All these are nothing when compared with the glory which shall hereafter be revealed in and for us. I never made a sacrifice.—Livingstone.

Christ teaches plainly, elsewhere, that there are, and are to be, ample rewards for fidelity in his service, only as a pure gift of grace, and most ample where there is least thought of merit, or claim for any benefits as earned.—Hovey.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1. If there is going to be evil any how, what is your duty toward it.
2. How far is the principle of self-denial necessary in worldly success?
3. What does one lose who cannot, or will not forgive another?
4. Does the relation of son suggest more than that of servant? What?

A New Method of Baking Cakes

Mrs. Nevada Briggs, the baking expert, says:

"There is just one way to make your cakes rise high and evenly—give them time to rise before a crust is formed and the batter is stiffened by cooking."

"If using a gas, gasoline or oil stove, light your oven when you put the cake in and keep the flame low until the cake has doubled in bulk; then increase the heat until it is evenly browned and will respond to the pressure of the finger. If using a coal or wood range, leave the oven door open until the cake is in; then turn on the drafts and by the time the oven is at baking temperature, the cake will have raised sufficiently."

For rich, moist, feathery cakes Mrs. Briggs always recommends

KC BAKING POWDER

It is double acting and sustains the raise. You can open and close the oven door, turn the tin around in the oven or do anything else necessary, without any danger of making the cake fall.

Try your favorite cake next time with K C Baking Powder and see how much higher it will rise. Make it just as you always do, with the same quantity of baking powder. While K C is less expensive than the old fashioned baking powders, it has even greater leavening strength and it is guaranteed pure and healthful.

BUMPER CROPS ARE PREDICTED

Business men in all sections of the country are optimistic in their views of the general crop prospects.

The wheat plant is said to be making good headway in the Northwest in sections that were seeded early and in other districts it is admitted that the soil is in excellent condition to promote germination. Reports being received by railroads from their agents regarding the situation in the various districts are almost universally favorable.

J. H. Foster, general manager of the Milwaukee road, who has returned to St. Paul after a trip through Minnesota and North and South Dakota, averred that the prospects are the best that he has ever seen, both as regards acreage under crop and growth.

D. D. Cutler, livestock agent of the Northwestern road, says that the outlook is superb all through that system's territory. Pastures never looked better and the clamor for livestock is unappensable. The whole country is long on grass but short on cattle. Realizing that, farmers are putting forth every effort to restock their farms.

Preparations for moving the prospective heavy crop are being made by railroads operating in the Middle West and in the Southwest. A rush order for 900 cars has just been placed by the Union Pacific and orders from other systems are said to be likely to materialize within the next few days. Four railroads are providing for an increase of 2,500,000 bushels in their elevator facilities at Kansas City. Members of the Kansas City board of trade, who recently returned from a trip through the state, say that unless the railroads make special arrangements to handle the grain that is likely to offer they will be swamped.

The Kansas harvest, which is usually in full blast by July 4, is expected to be ten days earlier this season.

A bumper crop of wheat and oats is also predicted on the Pacific coast, a larger acreage than usual having been seeded. Harvesting out there is expected to begin two weeks earlier than last year.

LEGISLATURE AT ALBANY ADJOURNS.

Albany, N. Y., May 21.—The extraordinary session of the legislature adjourned last night after having cleared its calendar of all financial legislation. The appropriation bills totaled approximately $34,445,000. The extra session was called when the regular session adjourned without passing these measures.

In addition to the appropriation bills, a measure authorizing a loan of $100,000 for putting the militia on a war footing in case of necessity, was passed.

CHICAGOAN PRESIDENT.

Dr. Farrington Elected Head of American Association of Museums.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 21.—Dr. Oliver C. Farrington, Chicago, was elected president of the American Association of Museums at the close of a meeting here.

The place for holding the next convention was left to the executive council, Oakland, Cal., apparently being favored.

Harry R. Howland, Buffalo, N. Y., was elected vice president. The secretary, assistant secretary and treasurer, were re-elected. Dr. Edwin A. Barber and F. C. Baker were elected to the council.

A final session will be held today at the art institute, Chicago.

ROCKEFELLER PARTLY SURRENDERS TO OHIO.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 21.—John D. Rockefeller has partly surrendered to the demands of the deputy state tax commissioners. Attorney Bush, one of his counsel, appeared at the office of the commissioners yesterday and requested them to send assessors to Forest Hill to value the personal property there.

Attorney Bush notified the commissioners that no return would be made for taxation of Mr. Rockefeller's intangible property. The commissioners declared that Mr. Rockefeller's property will be valued by them at something like $300,000,000 and placed on the duplicate at that amount.

Attorney Bush said that Mr. Rockefeller is prepared to fight the question of his residence in this county through the highest courts.

HEADS PENNSYLVANIA DEMOCRATIC TICKET

VANCE McCORMICK.

Philadelphia, May 21.—Returns from the state-wide primary show that Vance McCormick of Harrisburg received the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, defeating Michael J. Ryan, city solicitor of Philadelphia by about 20,000 majority.

Returns from about two-thirds of the counties in the state indicate that Boies Penrose's majority over J. Benjamin Dimmick for the Republican senatorial nomination will be about 160,000. A. Mitchell Palmer's vote for United States senator over his rival, Henry Budd, will be larger than that of McCormick.

Martin G. Brumbaugh, Republican, for governor; Gifford Pinchot for senator, and William Draper Lewis for governor on the Washington (Progressive) ticket were easy winners.

Complete returns from the Eighth congressional district show that Congressman Robert F. Difenderfer was renominated by the Democrats by about 100 majority. Earlier returns had indicated his defeat.

FISHING A CURE FOR SPRING FEVER

Bill Vogt, Champion Caster, Suggests Methods of Getting Rid of Languid Feeling.

W. C. Vogt, known throughout fishing circles of the United States as "Smiling Bill Vogt," has submitted the following poem through the columns of The Herald to fishermen, and all those afflicted with the spring fever, as one of the suggested solutions of the languid feeling, though the caster wants it understood that the poem was not written by him:

"Ain't felt right pert fer a week or two;
Been sorter cranky an' restless an' blue;
No p'tickler reason, es I ken see;
Can't find enything 'specially wrong wi' me;
Jes' don't feel frisky and don't wanter do;
A darn thing that I don't hev to;
Food don't taste jes' 'xactly right;
Sleep is kinder broken up at night;
Don't wanter set still, an' don't wanter walk;
Don't wanter keep quiet, and don't wanter talk;
Nothin' t' hinder me from doin' jes
Th' very thing that'll suit me bes';
Yet when I'm doin' jes' what I wanter to
I find it's jes' what I don't wanter do.

Now I wonder
What's the matter
Wi' me, by thunder.

"'Tain't fever, sure—fer my heat ain' riz;
'Tain't billousness, nor rheumatiz;
'Tain't my head, fer I think right smart;
'Tain't my liver, ner yet my heart;
'Tain't my stomach, ner gout—then darn me
'Tain't nothin' at all, as I kin see,
En yet it's somethin'—guess I'll go
An' see th' doctor; he'll sure know.

"Seems t' me I remember this very same thing
Come on about this time las' spring;
An' th' doctor doped me with nasty stuff
By th' gallon, an' I bought drugs enuff
T' start a store; but Lordy, they Couldn't drive that gnawin' inside away;
Somethin' jes' a gnawin' at my innards
—th' same
Symptoms that I hed when th' last spring came.

"Gosh, what's th' use of seein' th 'doc,
He ain't got nothin' et all that'll knock
This here trouble that allus comes
When the birds sing an' the honey bee hums;
When th' ice breaks up, and' th' streams all roar;
An' the soft air blows through th' open door;
When the vi'lets come an' th' grass blades sprout,
An' the sun gits warm, an' th' buds break out;
Lemme tell you this: when the world gits green
An' a feller gets cranky, restless, an' mean
Thar ain't no doctor in any place
Es kin properly diagnose his case.
"The on'l cure fer a man I know
Is t' get right out o' th' town an' go
Where th' wil' ducks swim an' th' geese go by,
An' th' trout an' bass are a-jumping high;
Th' on'l thing thet'll cure him then
Is t' get away from his feller men,
An' loaf all day by some laffin' stream
An' fish an' whistle, an' sing an' dream."

ADOPT REPORT ON VANDERBILT "U."

Oklahoma City, Okla., May 21.—A supplemental report of the majority of the committee of fifteen in the Vanderbilt university case, presented to the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, was unanimously adopted after a motion to substitute the minority report had been defeated.

The majority report provided for the co-operation of the general board of education with the board of trustees until the commission created by the conference shall have made a "complete transfer" to the patronizing conferences, of all the rights of control over Vanderbilt which may remain to the church under the recent decision of the Tennessee supreme court.

IDA VON CLAUSSEN IN TROUBLE AGAIN.

New York, May 21.—Mrs. Ida Von Claussen, who once brought suit against Theodore Roosevelt when president, charging that he prevented her from being introduced to the king of Sweden, was found guilty late last night of sending a threatening letter to her former counsel, Charles Strauss.

The letter Mrs. Claussen was accused of sending was written in Florence, Italy, and contained a statement that, as a result of Mr. Strauss' manner of handling a divorce case in which she was interested, she had been prevented from marrying a multi-millionaire in London. The prosecution introduced the testimony of a celebrated expert on chirography to show that the letter was in the defendant's handwriting. Mrs. Von Claussen denied she wrote the letter.

$700 in Ten Years

A young man who made it a fixed rule when he was 18 to deposit $5 in his Savings Account the first week of every month, found he had saved $700 in ten years.

He used this for a first payment on a home of his own. Ten dollars a month saved in the same manner will pay for a modest home in ten years—$1,400.

From 18 years of age to 28 is a short stretch. It pays to begin saving while young.

"CORPSE" IS ALIVE.

But Man Subsequently Dies After Giving Undertaker Scare.

La Crosse, Wis., May 21.—The body of Inguald Berge of Whalen, Minn., killed by a Burlington train, was brought into a morgue here yesterday and an undertaker started to prepare it for burial. The supposed corpse stirred, groaned and rolled off the bier to the floor. The attendant, his teeth chattering, fled from the room. A physician found Berge living, but was unable to save the man's life, as he died of his injuries several hours later. This time the doctors pronounced him officially dead and the undertaker resumed his ministrations. Berge had gone to sleep on the track where a train struck him.

MINNEAPOLIS WOMAN ESCAPES DANGEROUS SURGICAL OPERATION

Mrs. Sinclair Finds Wonderful Stomach Remedy in Time to Avoid Knife.

Mrs. Sadie E. Sinclair of 418 East Lake St., Minneapolis, suffered from stomach derangements for more than six years. She became despondent and hopeless. She feared she would have to undergo an operation. Her complexion suffered along with her general health.

Then she discovered Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy and took a course of treatment. The first dose brought results. She wrote:

"Only one dose and I slept like a log. And I felt relieved right away. If I should need any more medicine you may be sure I will send for it. It is a wonder one can be rid of such conditions without pain. And my complexion is clearing; they all speak of it—I was so yellow and brown before."

Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy works quickly and safely. It clears the digestive tract of mucoid accretions and removes poisonous matters. It brings swift relief to sufferers from ailments of the stomach, liver and digestive tract. Many declare is has saved them from dangerous operations; many are sure it has saved their lives.

The remarkable success of this remedy has caused many imitators, so be cautious. Be sure it's MAYR'S. Probably it is known among your own neighbors. Ask them. Go to your nearest drug store and ask them about the wonderful results it has accomplished—or send to Geo. H. Mayr, Mfg. Chemist, 154-156 Whiting St., Chicago, Ill., for free book on stomach ailments and many grateful letters from people who have been restored. Any druggist can tell you its remarkable effects.

ON THE IRON RANGES

THRIVING EMBARRASS IS VISITED BY SPECIALISTS

Successful Soil Tillers of Prosperous Section Flock to Train.

Most Thriving Community in St. Louis County Willing to Learn.

Embarrass, Minn., May 21.—(From a Staff Correspondent.)—This is a gala day at Embarrass. From many miles around settlers and their families have come for the full day's instruction at the Agricultural Special of the Iron Range railroad.

There is no work in the farming community, this being a religious holiday. In addition eight schools scattered over a territory within a radius of about eight miles from the station have been closed and the pupils have come en masse for the instruction. The instructors confidently expected that this community would turn out one of the largest crowds of the trip and they have not been disappointed.

This has been known for years as one of the most progressive communities in St. Louis county. The land is well adapted to agriculture, and the county has been fortunate through the fact that an unusually high class of settlers have come into the district. The first definite movement of settlers occurred only ten or twelve years ago, but there are scores of farms within a few miles of the station, to which the experts on the train point with pride as models of what may be done on St. Louis county land.

Embarrass Prize Winner.

Hundreds of dollars in state and county fair premiums come to Embarrass every year. The district is a veritable reserve for organizers of exhibits of St. Louis county products. The agricultural instructors have always found the Embarrass settlers among the easiest in the county to approach and among the most eager to learn. They are the class of men upon whom Duluth depends for its future greatness through the development of the territory immediately around the city.

Perhaps "settler" is a misnomer when applied to the men in the vicinity of this station. When one speaks of a "settler" one thinks of a man on a wild claim with only a few acres cleared and what appear to be almost insurmountable difficulties before him. The Embarrass farmers do not fall into that class. For the most part they have large areas cleared, as large clearings are understood locally, and they are prosperous beyond the wildest dreams of the majority of the settlers in St. Louis county.

Men like Alex Palo, Alfred Lax, Albert Linman, Henry Mattson and Henry Poivenen, who have seriously taken up the business of farming—and what is more, the business of marketing as well—have made a success that is a shining example to other men who would subdue the cut-over land in the vicinity of Duluth. They each have from forty-five to seventy acres cleared; they raise a wide variety of crops and intelligently market them, and they are right up in the front row when there is a short course or when the Agricultural Special comes through with its corps of expert instructors.

The soil is a light sandy loam, practically identical with the soil in the Cook and Angora district, also one of the most advanced agricultural districts in the county. It is most satisfactory potato soil and is also adapted to the raising of vegetable crops generally. Grain experiments have been successful and it may be taken for granted that anything that can be grown in St. Louis county can be grown in the Embarrass district.

The soil in all this territory differs from that south of the range. Below the range in the immediate vicinity of Duluth the soil is heavier and of a different texture, though of practically the same elements of composition. The clay is more predominant than it is in this region, and the Embarrass soil is consequently easier to work, although possibly not more productive than the heavier soil when properly worked.

Embarrass Is Egg Shipper.

"Uncle Nathan" Chapman, the man who has doubled the egg production of Minnesota, has a warm spot in his heart for Embarrass. It is one of the few stations in the northern part of St. Louis county from which eggs are shipped, and that fact is a sufficient indication of its progressiveness, its aggressiveness, its prosperity and its general usefulness to the commonwealth for Mr. Chapman. Any community that ships strictly fresh eggs is aiding his propaganda, "a fresh egg for every man's breakfast every day in the year," and he is not so ungrateful as to refuse to boost in return.

This far the progress of the agricultural train has been eminently satisfactory to the D. & I. R. officials and the state agricultural workers responsible for it. Good crowds have been turned out and keen interest is being shown. Not only the men, but the women and children, throng the train at every station and take to themselves such part of the instruction as may be helpful to them.

R. Giffin of Hibbing, secretary of the St. Louis County Agricultural association, is on board boosting for the fair, which is to be held Sept. 3, 4, 5, and 6 this year at Hibbing. He is finding fertile ground on which to sow his seed. Keen interest is being taken particularly in the corn, alfalfa and potato contests being conducted for children under the auspices of the association. Mr. Giffin firmly believes that corn can be brought to maturity on a commercial basis in this latitude and under the soil and climatic conditions existing. Seeds for the contests are being furnished, and the corn seed is Northwestern Dent, which was matured at Floodwood last year. Mr. Giffin says the home-grown seed will mature eight to ten days earlier than Northwestern Dent grown in other parts of the state. For this year the corn entered in the contests will not be matured by the time of the county fair, but the children will be allowed to bring three stalks to the fair even though they are not matured. The following year they will show the corn matured this year. This is the system employed at the state fair also.

Interest in Potato Contest.

Keen interest also is being taken by the people in the potato contest being conducted by the Duluth & Iron Range railroad in connection with the Agricultural Special. Some unusually fine potatoes have been brought to the train for entrance into competition for the prizes of $15, $10, $5 and $2.50 being offered.

K. D. Van Wagenen, county agricultural agent, is also boosting the boys' and girls' potato contest, for which the bankers of the county have furnished prizes. In fact, there is ample opportunity for every farm boy and girl in the county to get in some sort of a contest, and most of them are taking advantage of it. It needs no unusual foresight for one to be able to see what the effect on the future of the county will be. The farming community that can keep its boys and girls interested in the business of farming is economically independent.

At Fairbanks yesterday, the Agricultural special had only fair success, due principally to the poor condition of the roads. People came from miles around, over muskeg swamp almost unmarked by trails. Most of the people came with teams and farm wagons, but others came on stone boats, and nobody questions that those who rode on the stone boats had more comfort able riding than the travelers in the go-to-town wagons. A good many walked—in fact, two women especially anxious to see the women's exhibit on the train walked seven miles through swamp and forest to attend the day's sessions.

Fairbanks is not in the same class as Embarrass as a farming community. It has a different soil, different topographical conditions and a different class of farmers. Most of the settlers in the vicinity of the station came in several years ago and homesteaded for the timber. They have taken the heavy timber off in most cases and are working now on ties, post poles and other by-products of the timber country. They have not yet given serious attention to agriculture, and perhaps they are justified in the fact for the stony character of the land is a discouraging element. However, they are staying on their claims and evidently intend to work out their homes there.

HIBBING PLANNING DUAL CELEBRATION

Hibbing, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Residents of Hibbing will have a double cause for celebrating June 14, and it is not at all unlikely that the day will be proclaimed a holiday by the mayor. June 14 has already been declared as Flag day. June 14, however, will be declared as opening day of the new baseball park in the village and Hibbing and Chisholm will play before the largest baseball crowd that has ever turned out on the range. Preparations are already being made for special cars from range towns and Chisholm is to send over a large delegation.

Next Sunday Hibbing will meet the Woodlands of Duluth.

International Falls Game.

Memorial day and the Sunday following the local sluggers will try conclusions with International Falls nine. No game has as yet been secured for June 7, which will be the last game away from home before the opening of the local park. According to present plans the park will seat close to 2,000 people in the grandstand and there will be a commodious bleacher. A fence is to be built along artistic lines and will be stained with a preservative preparation similar to that used on the market place. There will be cubby holes for the two teams, shower baths under the grandstand and a sure enough press box for the local press representatives.

MAKING STUDENTS SELECT CALLING

Eveleth, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Efforts are being made in the high school to make the work more practical and more of a preparation for life than high schools have been in the past. Students are being urged to decide on whatever trade or profession they desire to follow in life and to select their studies accordingly instead of choosing a course aimlessly.

Courses of study for next year are being handed out to the pupils now that they may consult with their parents and instructors and decide what they wish to follow. Students are requested to give information as to whether they intend to continue studies after graduating, whether they can finish their high school course and what profession or trade they feel best adapted to.

Eveleth's new trade school building will be completed this summer and will have more room and better facilities a more complete course will be offered.

MINING MAN QUITS.

Engineer Quinn Leaves Interstate and Jones & Laughlin.

Virginia, Minn., May 21.—Clement K. Quinn, who for the past seven years has been chief engineer for the Interstate Iron company on the Mesaba range and for the past five years chief engineer for the Jones & Laughlin mining interests in the Lake Superior district, has resigned, effective June 1.

It is stated that Mr. Quinn wishes to give more attention to his personal mining interests on the various ranges and to manage the operations of a syndicate composed of eastern capitalists which will engage in the mining business in the Lake Superior district. Mr. Quinn and his associates have several properties under consideration at present and offices are being fitted up on the second floor of the First National bank building and will be occupied by Mr. Quinn after June 1.

CANOEIST IN STORM.

Virginian Has Thrilling Time on Pelican Lake.

Virginia, Minn., May 21.—F. W. Torvinen of Virginia, in a small canoe, which wind and waves threatened every minute to capsize, made a hazardous voyage seven miles across Pelican lake Tuesday that he wished a thousand times he had never undertaken before it was finished. Several times, by the narrowest margin possible, the frail boat maintained its equilibrium and prevented Mr. Torvinen from being precipitated into the lake far distant from land or aid. White caps buffeted the boat, contrary winds assailed it and for several hours Mr. Torvinen engaged in a struggle that left him fagged and limp when it was all over. Monday he went to Orr with a prospective investor in realty which he owns near there. Tuesday he decided to paddle down the lake seven miles in a canoe. The weather conditions were not bad when he started out, but before he had gotten well on his way a wind raised, the lake roughened and the rest of the journey he had some hair-raising experiences. Mr. Torvinen returned to the city yesterday.

CANDIDATE BRINGS CORPSE TO HOSPITAL

Virginia, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Deputy Sheriff Frank Magie, who is on the range looking after public business and votes in his candidacy for sheriff, brought a corpse to a local hospital and he did not know it.

As he was motoring along the road from Eveleth yesterday afternoon he passed a gang of men working for Missabe township on the highway and was told that one of the men had taken sick. He was asked to take the man to a local hospital.

Corpse Gets Between Two.

The man, in an unconscious condition, was lifted into the car and rode between two other passengers. He was taken up into the operating room of the hospital, where surgeons worked on him for some time and decided he had died in the auto of heart failure.

He was Nels Polla, aged 67. He has two sons also working on the road, but as he appears to be in indigent circumstances, will be buried here tomorrow afternoon by the county.

EVELETH RATS ARE WORTH NICKEL EACH

Eveleth, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council has instructed the city attorney to pay a bounty of 5 cents each for all rats delivered to him at the city hall.

The Lawrence-McCann company was given a contract for the laying of concrete walks, curbs and gutters for $680.55. Otto Nelson made a bid of $704.65 for the work.

The Northern Plumbing & Heating company got the contract for hauling the boilers to the new pump station at St. Mary's lake and placing them for $453.

An ordinance providing for the licensing of billiard halls was passed after being amended so as to provide for closing at 11 p. m.

A petition was received from residents of Summit street asking for water, sewer, sidewalk, curb, gutter and street grading and surfacing. It was referred to the commissioner of streets and alleys.

How You May Throw Away Your Glasses

The statement is made that thousands wear eyeglasses who do not really need them. If you are one of these unfortunates, then these glasses may be ruining your eyes instead of helping them. Thousands who wear these "windows" may prove for themselves that they can dispense with glasses if they will get the following prescription filled at once: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Optona; fill a two-ounce bottle with water and drop in one Optona tablet. With this harmless liquid solution bathe the eyes two to four times daily and you are likely to be astonished at the results right from the start. Many who have been told that they have astigmatism, eye-strain, cataract, sore eyelids, weak eyes, conjunctivitis and other eye disorders report wonderful benefits from the use of this free prescription. Get this prescription filled and use it; you may so strengthen your eyes that glasses will not be necessary. Thousands who are blind or nearly so, or who wear glasses, would never have required them if they had cared for their eyes in time. Save your eyes before it is too late! Do not become one of these victims of neglect. Eyeglasses are only like crutches and every few years they must be changed to fit the ever-increasing weakened condition, so better see if you can, like many others, get clear, healthy, strong, magnetic eyes through the prescription here given.

If you don't feel "up to the mark," if you lack vim and vigor, try drinking a really fine mineral water.

Standing alone in its class, the high regard in which WHITE ROCK WATER is held by the doctors of today is attested by its enormous sale.

Arrows fly with the wind. First figures, temperature; second, precipitation of .01 inch or more for past 24 hours; third, maximum wind velocity.

FAIR

Last night's electrical storm cleared the atmosphere, and the rain completed the work of quenching the brush fires and laying the dust.

Today, while cloudy, was fresh and mild.

A year ago today it was cold and rainy.

The sun rose this morning at 4:25 and will set at 7:43, making fifteen hours and eighteen minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Further showers fell throughout the Northwest, Middle West and Southwest during the last twenty-four hours. Heavy rain occurred at Huron, S. D. Slightly cooler weather prevails over the Northwest, but in general the temperature continues rather warm to the eastward of the Rocky Mountains."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, May 20.—Forecasts for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Friday:

Wisconsin—Generally fair in northwest, unsettled in south and east portions tonight and Friday, with probably thunder showers; cooler tonight and in east portion Friday.

Minnesota—Showers in southeast portion this afternoon; generally fair tonight and Friday; cooler tonight.

Iowa—Showers and probably thunderstorms this afternoon or tonight; cooler tonight; Friday cloudy with cooler in east portion.

North Dakota—Fair tonight and Friday; cooler in east and south portions tonight; rising temperature Friday.

South Dakota—Cloudy and cooler tonight; Friday fair with rising temperature.

Montana—Fair tonight and Friday; rising temperature in north and west portions.

Lower Michigan—Cloudy tonight and Friday, with probably thunderstorms; cooler Friday and in northeast portion tonight.

Upper Michigan—Showers and thunderstorms this afternoon and tonight; cooler in north portion tonight; Friday cloudy and cooler.

MAYOR POWER'S VIEWS.

Blames Eveleth Trouble to Effort at Wage Reduction.

Hibbing, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—"The outbreak at Eveleth was due, in my opinion, to the effort on the part of an outside contractor to secure men at $1.75 a day," said Mayor Power, in discussing the question. "A man cannot live on that sum and what use is there to work all day and then go hungry at night. A man might as well stay idle. I am in favor of keeping the wages at the point they are now. When men are out of work is just the time the wages should be kept up and if we have not work enough we can alternate crews."

The local Oliver police, who were sent to Eveleth to assist in quieting the near riot have returned and report all serene. It is believed that labor agitators are on the range and officials are watching for the first sign of trouble here.

BUILDING WAS FIRED

Is Conclusion of Fire Marshal Who Visited Two Harbors.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—I. C. Heimbach, deputy state fire marshal, yesterday investigated the fire of last Saturday evening at the Glen building and decided it was a case of arson. The fire was discovered beneath the building by members of a party which was going on upstairs and before it could get a start it was extinguished by the fire department. Where the fire originated matches and half burned excelsior was found, which strengthened the theory that some one started the blaze. The guilty one went even further to accomplish his purpose as the fire hose, which the department uses, was cut in several places, making it almost useless for immediate use.

The building is a large two-story affair, the ground floor is occupied by a notion store and the upstairs is occupied by the Socialist press and local meeting place. There is also a large hall which is used for general public purposes.

"TOM THUMB WEDDING."

Will Be Given at Chisholm Friday for Catholic Church.

Chisholm, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The "Tom Thumb Wedding" arranged by the Ladies' Aid of the Catholic church, will be given Friday evening in the Finnish Opera house. Miss Harriet Jones of Cincinnati trained the people.

The following is the cast: Mrs. Butinsky, Miss Margaret Jones; train caller, Frank McShane; ticket seller, George Blasing; news boys, Wilbur Hayes, Claude La Londe and Sharlesworth Sullivan; Mrs. Chatterbox, Mrs. J. A. Rippert; Maria, Miss Gorman; Willie, O. J. Backman; auntie, Miss Irma Krell; Uncle Josh, Dan Harrington; Aunt Sarah, Miss Alta Reynolds; deacon, Andrew Hudy; college girls, Nell Sullivan, Nell Harrington, Louise Archambeau; Mrs. Henpeck, Mary Sullivan; Mr. Henpeck, O. J. Backman; Prof. Learned, Russel McDougal; Mrs. Needy, Mrs. C. J. Shannon; Madam Patty, Miss Winnifred Hayes; Miss Fishwell, Miss Alecia Madden; the widower, Mr. Smith, Dr. J. A. Rippert; widower's children, Julia Cummings, Grace Gandsey, Francis Bradfield, Chauncey La Londe, Arthur Bergeron, Fred Rubloff, Johnny Printy and Clement Martin; county bride, Frances Gandsey; groom, John Hiratio; Miss Beacon street, Miss Alta Reynolds.

ACCUSE VIRGINIAN OF GAMBLING STUNT

Virginia, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles Roberts who runs the U. & I. saloon will have to answer in municipal court next Tuesday before Judge Carey to charges of permitting gambling in his establishment.

Two people made the complaint. Frank Zalinski alleges he lost money at cards in the establishment May 13. Mrs. Dan Marchina is the other complainant. She claims her husband lost $80 in the place May 12, and sets up that her spouse was so mortified by his loss that he went to Brainerd, and she has been unable to induce him to return.

These charges, following upon the decision of the police commission to put the lid on saloons and resorts have caused no little stir.

CHECKING UP STORE.

Credit Association Looking Into Grand Rapids Concern.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Robert J. Martin, deputy state fire marshal, accompanied by two drygoods men from Duluth, arrived yesterday to take inventory of the Allen Drygoods company stock, an attempt to burn which was apparently made, and for which alleged offense J. G. Allen and wife, and Herman Deavers, were bound over to the grand jury. Mr. Martin found F. W. Sturtevant, representing John P. Galbraith of the Northwestern Credit Men's association in charge of the Allen store, that association having taken the stock as trustees for the creditors of the drygoods company. The credit men's association representative is taking an inventory of the stock which will be satisfactory to the fire marshal's office, and Mr. Martin returned to Minneapolis last night, well pleased with the turn the matter has taken.

TELLS OF INJURY.

Finn Who Lost Leg Boarding Train Talks Through Interpreter.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Through an interpreter it is learned that the man injured by an Iron Range train near Waldo Tuesday morning, was Mike Hilder. He had walked from Duluth, hoping to secure employment. At Waldo he was overtaken by the train and as it was moving rather slowly he decided to board one of the ore cars. He claimed that his hand was jerked from the hand-hold on the side of the car and he was thrown under, resulting in one leg taken off between the knee and ankle and the other badly crushed. He was found about an hour later by the section crew who rushed him to the Budd hospital, where his left leg was amputated. The other leg can be saved. According to Dr. Christensen he is getting along fairly well.

The man has no relatives and few friends in this country. He arrived from Finland a short time ago.

MAY DEPORT SOME OF EVELETH RIOTERS

Eveleth, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—When Municipal Judge Moylan fixed appeal bonds at $300 each for the men who were given jail sentences for their parts in the rioting Monday, plans for an appeal of the cases to the district court were altered and four were taken to Duluth to begin serving their time.

May Deport Them.

While the prisoners are in jail steps will be taken for deporting them from the country. It was the intention of the officers to prefer other charges against the prisoners if an appeal was made and bonds furnished for the men.

Porfiri Porfiric, Peter Rossi, Momerezzi Nazzareno and Vincent Biciarlo each to serve thirty days. Frank Valenta, the only one given the option of a fine, paid and the case against Tony Bronka was dismissed.

EVELETH LITERARY SOCIETY ELECTS.

Eveleth, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Crescent Literary society of the high school has elected the following officers: President, Willard Shea; vice president, Myrtle Mitchell; secretary, Sara Rabinowitz; treasurer, Ernest Lampi; program committee, Florence Robb, Herbert Andrews, Francis Forristel.

The high school baseball team will play the Chisholm high school nine Saturday at Chisholm.

The class standings for the last month were as follows: Juniors, 89; seniors, 87½; sophomores, 87; freshmen, 86¾. Failures—Seniors, 3; juniors, 0; sophomores, 2; freshmen, 14.

BOVEY DRUGGIST HAS POISONED HAND.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. H. Bluntach, the Bovey druggist, is in St. Benedict's hospital nursing a badly blood-poisoned hand. The poisoning came from a little scratch in the hand which he got while working around his store at Bovey.

Afternoon Program.

Hibbing, Minn., May 21.—The Memorial day program that was originally scheduled for the evening of May 30 will be held in the afternoon, according to the latest plans of the committee.

The merchants have filed objections with the men in charge to the evening meeting, claiming that as Memorial day falls on Saturday they can hardly afford to close their stores. They have, however, expressed a willingness to close up during the morning and afternoon exercises.

Hibbing Building Collapses.

Hibbing, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—While workmen were reinforcing the basement wall of the Markell furniture building yesterday it collapsed and lurched off to one side, barely missing seven men working underneath.

Mrs. F. H. Laurie, living upstairs in the building, narrowly escaped, with her infant child, from being crushed when a piano was thrown across the room as the building fell.

Eveleth High Exhibit.

Eveleth, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual exhibit will be held at the high school Friday afternoon and evening. The grades will give programs in the afternoon and regular high school classes will be conducted in the evening for the benefit of visitors. Work from the grades and from all departments of the high school will be exhibited. Frappe will be served by the domestic science class. The high school chorus, orchestra and band will play.

Itasca Land Sale.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The sale of lands forfeited to the state for non-payment of taxes took place at the office of County Auditor Spang and pretty much all the pieces offered for sale were taken up. At the same time the "fifteen-year" sale was held of lands which have been delinquent for the past fifteen years and which were sold at one-half of their assessed valuation at the current year's assessment. There was quite a quantity of this, being mostly town lots of abandoned plats and much of the lands offered for sale was taken up.

Grand Rapids Affair.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wardall on Tuesday evening entertained a number of friends at their home southeast of town at cards with a fine lunch at the close of the evening. Those present were: Mrs. Elvira Partridge, Mrs. H. Crawford, Mrs. Harry Wheaton, Miss Margaret Aiton, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Niles, Miss Anita Niles and Sim Wheaton.

Eveleth Contest Argued.

Eveleth, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The election contest case brought by John Saari against J. J. Gleason for the mayorship, was argued in the supreme court at St. Paul Tuesday. Mr. Saari claims that his opponent violated the corrupt practice act and that the election was fraudulent. Judge S. F. White of this city appeared for Mr. Gleason and Attorneys O. J. Larson and Neil S. Beaton of Duluth represented Mr. Saari.

FALL LAKE NO MORE.

Hereafter Village Will Go By the Name of Winton.

Ely, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village of Fall Lake is no more and henceforth it will be known as Winton. The village council decided upon the change of name at the last session. Three distinct places center within a half mile. In Lake county there is the town of Fall Lake, while on the St. Louis county side there is the township of Morse, and the village of Fall Lake, while the postoffice is called Winton, and the station is known as Winton. The action of the council, it is understood, does not alter the local situation in any way except the name.

The second degree will be conferred upon a class of candidates at the session of the I. O. O. F. tonight.

Many Men Leave Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many laborers are leaving this city for their native countries. A large part of these who are leaving are young Italians, many of whom have been in the country only a few months. Some Austrians and Finns are also leaving. Their return to the old country at this time is due to a lack of work.

Quartermaster at Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. James C. Hartness has appointed Paul Archibald as quartermaster of Company F, Third infantry, succeeding James Trezona, who has resigned.

Grand Rapids Wedding.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald)—Thomas Erskine, eldest son of C. M. Erskine of the C. M. Erskine Timber company of this place, last night was married to Miss Beulah Claus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Claus, a prominent young society woman of this city.

Eveleth to Hear Preus.

Eveleth, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. A. O. Preus, state insurance commissioner, will speak at the auditorium tonight on insurance questions. He was sent on insurance matters by the efforts of the Commercial club officers and will doubtless draw a good crowd.

Eveleth Man Fined.

Eveleth, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Maciech paid a fine of $25 and costs in municipal court yesterday for assault and battery on the person of John Palkovich. Joseph Sapan and George Sapan were dismissed on similar charges.

Duluthian to Lecture.

Eveleth, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. John M. Robinson of Duluth will give a lecture at the high school auditorium Monday, illustrated with lantern slides.

Chisholm Kindergarten Festival.

Chisholm, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—On June 6 the kindergarten teachers will give a festival at the Lincoln school grounds. A number of circles requiring the service of some 200 children will be formed and a unique program will be given.

The grounds and lawn will be specially prepared.

Fixing Chisholm Playground.

Chisholm, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The playgrounds of the new high school, one block north of the new addition, have been graded and the planting of trees begun. An expert tree planter sent here by the nursery selling the stock, has arrived and is superintending the work.

Chisholm vs. Eveleth.

Chisholm, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Next Sunday, Chisholm and Eveleth ball teams will play here. The line-up for Chisholm will be practically the same as last Sunday.

A game with International Falls at the Falls for Memorial day was planned, but the date has been given to Hibbing.

Hibbing Keeps Up Wages.

Hibbing, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Though the question of reduction in wages paid to village employes has been broached the council has emphatically shown that it will not countenance such a move, but will continue to pay $2.50 for common labor. Township officials recently reduced wages to $2 a day.

Fight Fire Near Ely.

Ely, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The worst fire of the season prevailed in the woods along the Tamarack river. It is thought to have started from a burning brush pile. The fire is working toward the Crane lake, and unless checked will burn through a fine forest, and may also take the camp located at Crane Lake. A number of men went from Burntside Lake to fight the fire.

Peck at Two Harbors.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Edward W. Peck, state secretary of the Y. M. C. A., gave a very interesting talk at the Y. M. C. A. last evening before about 200 people. Mr. Peck showed slides taken from various parts of the United States.

FIGHTING DISEASE GERMS

There is a popular idea that most sickness is caused by a germ of the disease finding entrance to our bodies through the food we eat, the water or milk we drink or the air we breathe. This is true as far as it goes but it is also true that disease germs are entering our bodies every day without causing disease.

The reason for this is that there are forces within the body that are constantly fighting these disease germs and it is only when this defence is weakened that the germs get the upper hand and we become ill. One of the most powerful of these forces that work for health is rich, red blood. Good, healthy blood increases the resistance of the body to the diseases that are always threatening. It is easier to keep up this resistance by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, eating proper food, avoiding articles of food that do not agree with us and getting plenty of fresh air day and night, than it is to cure disease after it gets a foothold. Keep up the resistance of your body to disease by these tonic pills, which you can get at any drug store, and you will avoid much sickness.

Two booklets, "Building Up the Blood" and "What to Eat and How to Eat," will be sent free by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

LOCAL DRUGGIST MAKES MANY FRIENDS

W. A. Abbett, druggist, 205 West Superior street, reports they are making many friends through the QUICK benefit which Duluth people receive from the simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-i-ka. This remedy became famous by curing appendicitis and it is the most thorough bowel cleanser known, acting on BOTH the lower and upper bowel. JUST ONE DOSE of Adler-i-ka relieves constipation and gas on the stomach almost IMMEDIATELY.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

GRAND FORKS CHURCH MEET

United Lutherans of Northeastern North Dakota to Gather.

Sessions Will Continue Until Sunday With Many Speakers.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—About 400 United Lutherans of Northeastern North Dakota will attend the annual convention of the Grand Forks and Park River district of the Young People's league of the United Lutheran church of America, which will begin here this evening, and continues till Sunday.

A feature will be the joint chorus of 200 voices, including the singing societies and choirs of many of the Lutheran churches in the district. A grand concert will be given Sunday by the big chorus.

Will Welcome Visitors.

At the opening session this evening, Rev. Martin Hegland of Grand Forks will deliver the address of welcome, and Rev. H. J. Glenn of Grafton will respond. The principal address will be by Prof. T. A. Mason, Concordia college, Moorhead.

Friday's speakers include Miss Eillie Sagen of Northwood, Anna Bridston of Grand Forks, Rev. H. O. Shurson of Hoople, Miss Eveline Kloster of Buxton, Gunnar Peterson of Grand Forks, Rev. G. Kluxdal of Adams. Among Saturday's speakers will be Eunice Jacobson of Grand Forks, Rev. J. Aarthun of Milton, Rev. William Trygstad, Rev. J. C. Roseland of Crookston, Prof. L. B. Ness of Adams and Prof. Carl M. Weswig of St. Paul.

State Dental Meet, Too.

The annual meeting of the North Dakota Dental society also opens here tomorrow and will continue till Saturday evening. Arrangements for that convention are in the hands of a local committee, which will provide elaborate entertainment for the visitors.

DENY MINIMUM WAGE DEMANDS.

Marquette, Mich., May 21.—At a special meeting of the board of education, the Marquette grade teachers were granted a raise of $2.50 a month in their salaries.

The salary question was the only business considered. All the grade teachers who served in the public schools last year were retained.

The demand for a minimum salary of $90 a month, agitated by the teachers' association, was not given consideration.

A. D. T. LICENSE CASE IS STARTED.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Action to determine whether the American District Telegraph company, in the handling of a messenger service, is amenable to city ordinances which provide that licenses must be paid for each messenger employed, has been commenced in the local courts. While local messenger companies have been compelled to comply with the law, the A. D. T. has refused to pay the license fee and the contest case is the outcome.

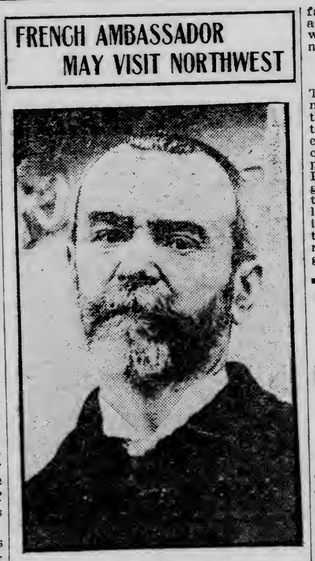
FACE COVERED WITH PIMPLES—RESINOL CURED

Atlanta, Ga., April 24.—"My face was covered with pimples which defied creams, soaps and cosmetics. They were a source of constant humiliation to me. By the time I had finished a cake of Resinol Soap and half a jar of Resinol Ointment, my skin was soft as velvet, and as smooth. My friends were stunned, and everyone asked me what I had done. When I told them, I think they hardly believed is, for the transformation was simply wonderful.

"Since then I have been using Resinol Soap, and shall never be without it again, for I have learned the delights of a clear, soft, beautiful complexion that may be attained by its constant use." (Signed) Miss E. P. Gaddis, 284 South Pryor street.

Resinol Ointment (50c and $1.00), and Resinol Soap (25c) stop itching instantly and speedily heals eczema and other skin humors, dandruff, sores, burns and piles. Sold by every druggist. For free trial write to Dept. 16-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md. Don't be fooled by "substitutes" for Resinol offered by a few unscrupulous dealers.

FRENCH AMBASSADOR MAY VISIT NORTHWEST



J. J. JUSSERAND.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Presidents Hannaford of the Northern Pacific and Pennington of the Soo have accepted invitations to speak at the banquet to be held here next Wednesday evening as a feature of the annual meeting of the Mississippi Valley Historical society.

It is possible that the French government will be represented officially, an invitation having been extended to Ambassador J. J. Jusserand of Washington. The fact that the French government once owned this territory, the early history of which will be portrayed in a pageant on two evenings of the historical society meeting, is the basis for the invitation to the French ambassador.

NORTH DAKOTA GRAIN CONDITIONS ARE O. K.

Early Seeded Wheat Now Well Above Surface.

Fargo, N. D., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Wheat seeding is nearly finished in North Dakota. There will be some farmers who will seed that cereal as late as June 1, but their number will not be large. Unseeded lands from this date on will, in most instances, be put in barley, oats, flax and corn. Some people will seed flax as late as June 10, though the majority will want barley, oats and flax in the ground this month.

Corn growers feel they are just as well off to plant during the last week of May and the first week of June, though a considerable acreage has already been put in, especially in the southern tier of counties.

Early Seeded Grain Well Up.

Splendid reports are being received from all sections of North Dakota on crop conditions. Earlier seeded grains have a fine start and the favorable conditions recently are making the plants grow with great rapidity. Later seeded grain, owing to the combination of warm weather and perfect soil conditions, sprang up almost immediately after it was seeded and is making a fine showing. The earlier seeded grain is better rooted and better able to withstand any adverse conditions that may arise.

UPPER MICHIGAN FIRES QUENCHED

No Loss of Life Known and Property Damage Was Normal.

Marquette, Mich., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rains the last two days have ended the forest fire danger in Upper Michigan. Reports to State Forestry Warden Oates indicate that the flames have been quenched in all but a few localities. These fires are not menacing. The losses in the peninsula are small. For the most part the fires were confined to slashings and cut-over lands.

Those Who Lost.

The big timber has not been harmed. The most serious losses are those of the I. Stephenson Lumber company at Alfred and the Diamond Match company near Ontonagon. Logs owned by these concerns and awaiting shipment to the mills were consumed. Only one farm has been swept of its buildings according to advices received here. This was near Chassell. There have been no fatalities.

Fire Crisis Well Passed.

Calumet, Mich., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—More rain through the night effectually checked flames in all the Northern Michigan forest fire districts, even the bad fires in Chippewa county, where the situation was most critical. Not a vestige of fire is reported from any part of the Upper Peninsula and no more forest fire danger is anticiuated until the dry part of the fall season. It is estimated the losses in the Upper Peninsula, mainly in timber, both cut and standing, and to farm property, lumbering equipment and railroad prouperty, will aggregate nearly $1,000,000.

TOWNER LAWYER TO OPPOSE SPALDING

Enters Race Against North Dakota Supreme Court Justice.

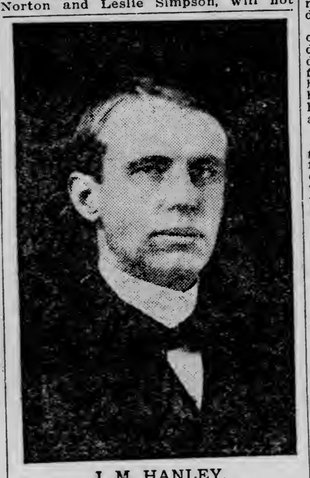
Minot, N. D., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. M. Christianson of Towner, who declined to make the race for United States senator as a Bull Mooser, will be a candidate for the state supreme court against Chief Justice Spalding.

Recently Justice Spalding was indorsed by the State Bar association as a candidate for re-election.

A. M. Thompson of Minot, who has been regarded as a possible candidate for congress in opposition to P. D. Norton and Leslie Simpson, will not make the race, as he is a candidate for re-election to the house of representatives.

J. M. Hanley of Morton county, who also was regarded as a prospective candidate for congressman in the Third district, will not make the race, having definitely announced himself out of the fight. Neither will Mr. Hanley be a candidate to succeed himself in the state senate.

These withdrawals apparently leave the field clear to Messrs. Norton and Simpson.



J. M. HANLEY, Who Quits Political Game.

SENATORSHIP OPEN.

North Dakota Insurgents Did Not Favor Any One Candidate.

Fargo, N. D., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The meeting of the insurgent Republicans here this week resulted not only in the indorsement of a number of Republican candidates but the announcement of a four-plank platform upon which it hoped to nominate U. L. Burdick for governor.

These are: A single tax, reduction of interest rates, a system of rural credits and the continuation of the state tax commission.

The indorsements of candidates were generally anticipated, except in the cases of Justice Spalding of the supreme court and Heyward for superintendent of public instruction. There have been efforts to remove the judiciary and the school officials from partisanship and factionalism.

On the senatorship Gronna, Worst and Miller all had friends and it was the consensus of opinion that it would cause some ill-feeling to indorse either. As a result it was left a free-for-all with each voter exercising his personal wishes in the matter.

Helgesen, Young and Norton were given the official O. K. for the congressional positions.

Burdick was unanimously boosted for the governorship.

BEMIDJI NEWS NOTES.

Candidate Maxfield Held There Because of Smallpox on Car.

Bemidji, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—H. J. Maxfield of Wadena, candidate for congressman from this Sixth district, was forced to remain in Bemidji this week. He was en route through Bemidji, when the train on which he was a passenger was stopped that a smallpox suspect might be examined. During the forced delay he visited friends here.

Feathered chickens have been the cause for William Grecian being ordered out of the county. William was discovered in the possession of several fowls, and when his neighbors declared he had not come into their possession honestly, he was arrested. This week he was found guilty of petit larceny and ordered out of the county.

U. S. A. Deserter Surrenders.

Declaring that he is tired of evading government detectives, Roy Carro, confessed escaped soldier of the 108th coast artillery at Fort Warden, came to Bemidji police this week and asked to be returned to the ranks. George Donely, deputy sheriff, took him to St. Paul.

ST. PAUL IS TO HAVE 85-CENT GAS.

St. Paul, Minn., May 21.—An 85-cent gas ordinance was passed last night by the city council and signed by Mayor Keller. The action followed a hearing of several days at which several gas experts appeared. The ordinance, which cuts the price of gas 15 cents per thousand feet, will be attacked in the courts by the St. Paul Gas Light company, it was announced.

Lightning Kills Four Horses.

Red Lake Falls, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—During the heavy electrical storm Tuesday evening, J. A. Nicholson, a farmer residing west of the city, had four horses killed by lightning.

Swell Corns? Try Wonderful "GETS-IT"

Greatest Corn-Cure World Has Ever Known. "Gets" Corns Sure as Fate.

Thousands say "GETS-IT" is simply magic. If you've tried nearly everything under the sun to get rid of those corns, so much the better for "GETS-IT." Corn freedom is yours at last, not next week or next month, but right now! "GETS-IT" goes after corns as a crow does corn. There are no more thick plasters and greasy salves that don't remove, no more files, razors and jabbers that make corns grow. Put a few drops of "GETS-IT" on and see every corn and callus shrivel and vanish. That's the new way, the painless, sure, safe, quick way. Only "GETS-IT" can do it. Apply it in 3 seconds.

Every druggist in the land sells "GETS-IT," 25 cents a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Grand Forks, N. D.—The annual early summer reunion of the Scottish Rite bodies of Grand Forks will take place next week, plans for the week's work being well under way. The Shriners also will hold a ceremonial session. The Scottish Rite work will take up the first four days of the week, and the Shriners will hold forth on Friday, about fifty novices being initiated at that time.

New England, N. D.—Steps for the establishment of a city water system are being established by the city council. It is probable that a standpipe system will be used, being the best suited to local conditions. Another plan calls for the establishment of a reservoir on a hill overlooking the city.

Bismarck, N. D.—Richard Fogarty, aged 10, was seriously bitten by a horse in the right arm, inflicting a deep wound, the results of which are not yet certain.

Powers Lake, N. D.—Over 3,000,000 perch spawn were released in Powers lake by F. Frank and D. C. Moore, representing the state fish hatchery. A shipment of young pike is expected from the hatchery within a few days. Ideal conditions prevail for the stocking of the waters.

Just Between You and Me

By BRUCE

YESTERDAY it unkindly rained, and therefore yesterday we did not play. Today the White Sox are gayly mingling with the Red Sox on the Hislop platted park addition. For three consecutive days do we thus oppose the brave lads and true of Handsome Jack Landry's railroad aggregation. After the series with our ancient and at times bitter rivals the Dooks hit the road and complete the swing around the Burmeister route.

On Decoration day, the day we decorate the graves of the soldiers who fought and bled for the nation, the Sox return from the rigors of hotel and Pullman life and again resume the task of defeating all comers at the home stand.

The Ten Eyck Pupils.

JAMES E. TEN EYCK hit this hospitable habitation in the spring of 1911. James discovered muscle and sinew variously distributed over the frames of various youths of home breeding—and a lot of free-spending and willing officials of the Duluth Boat club.

"Welcome to our city!" cried the officials: "here are the men and the boats and we have lost so long and so consistently that if you win, the contrast will be wonderful to behold."

In his first season with the club Jimmy won with his bantam four and finished second in the two eight races.

The next season at Winnipeg Duluth traversed the glory route to a greater extent. The Duluth bantams won under wraps and also prove the only competitors against the junior four. The junior eight also won.

Last season at St. Paul the blue-shirted oarsmen literally and magnificently swept the Mississippi and then turned their heads toward the East and demonstrated upon the broad and glistening Charles river that the pick of the land was not sufficient to hand defeat to the sweep men coached under the watchful eye and skillful hand of the son of one of the veterans of the American rowing game.

This year—at this point the greatest author of the ages, Time, poises his pen aloft and hesitates.

What this year will bring, is problematical. We for one string along with Ten Eyck. We have watched the work of James junior for several seasons and have come to believe in the methods of the man. He is a disciplinarian; he rules absolutely and alone He stands or falls by his own judgment, and while it has always been the case since the day of Adam that man will have those who disagree with him, success is the greatest criterion of all, the shining mark aimed at by the multitude who struggle and sweat in this world of strife.

Ten Eyck has put Duluth in the front row of achievement. The crews of this city won honors never before accomplished by one club. He is training a crew that promises rosily to win the championship of the world on the historic waters of Henley. The eyes of followers of rowing have been turned westward and ears strain expectingly to catch the first whisper of the progress of Duluth crews. Ten Eyck has changed local rowing conditions as if by a magic hand; from the joke crews of the past, beaten before they left the stake boats, he has blossomed forth oarsmen who have set new marks in the national halls of sport achievement.

In the light of this achievement, not alone Ten Eyck's, it is true, for he found the lads of gameness and brain and sinew, it is true and justly true that the crews of this city should be looked upon as an asset and that Jimmy Ten Eyck should be credited with accomplishing a task that is prodigious when the final analysis has been made.

Willie Had Big Ideas.

WILLIE RITCHIE is one of the leading lightweights of the world and one of the rising young financiers. He is negotiating for a battle with Freddy Welsh for the lightweight championship of the world. Willie realizes that this will be a large fight. He asks for his end of the fracas just $50,800 and no less.

Will Willie get it? In the past he has possessed the method of getting what he asked for in the way of purses. When he works he gets more than any plumber who ever sent in itemized bill—or nearly as much as Mr. Rockefeller. Willie considers it not in the least preposterous to ask for and receive in the neighborhood of $15,000 for half an hour of effort.

Like most of the successful young men of this age, the lightweight champion is a specialist. His specialty is in demanding large guarantees. Before entering the boxing game Willie was a chauffeur, and herhaps here was ingrained the ability to grab the money—ever ride for very long in a taxi cab?

Not only is Mr. Ritchie avaricious, he is also frugal. Frugality is often barking at the heels of avariciousness. The champion makes money and saves it. He looks like an actor and acts like a business man. Kid Lavigne, for instance, was an amazingly peculiar young man. He fought for the sheer love of the game. Mr. Ritchie can't understand those uncouth sentiments. He is frank in admitting that he is in the game for the money, and those who have followed the meteoric career of the champion are likewise frank in admitting that he is successful in the course he has hewed out for himself.

Hans Wagner Is Safe.

BOB RALEY and Elmer Whyte attempted to fling a golf ball from the seventh tee to the ninth hole. The pair took all bets that they could fling the little ball that distance, something over 300 feet. Hans Wagner's record with the baseball is still safe, for the golfers, after nearly casting an arm, found to their chagrin and financial loss that the distance covered was—well, it would be a shabby trick to tell.

BRAMMEL WILL PLAY WITH SOX

Former Virginia Player Secured—Mark Freer Is Released.

Darby O'Brien announced yesterday that Brammel, last year with the Virginia team, will join the White Sox within the next few days and will possibly be used in the outfield.

With the announcement of the securing of Brammel came the announcement of the release of Mark Freer. The outfielder who was with the Peggers last season has failed to make good with the White Sox because of lack of hittting ability.

Brammel is a catcher and outfielder. Last season he played in ninety-seven games for the Ore Diggers and hit at the somewhat lowly figure of .232. The Brammel boy cracked out seventeen two-baggers and pilfered seven hassocks.

According to the announcement of the Dook, it is his intention to give the newcomer a trial in the garden and perhaps use him for general utility roles.

Change Old Custom.

Cambridge, Mass., May 21.—An eight-oared race between the Harvard and Yale second crews at New London, Conn., will take the place of the four-oared race which has been a part of the Harvard-Yale regattas for the last fifteen years. The decision to develop a second eight to compete in the Henley regatta led the Harvard authorities to accede to Yale's wishes in this matter.

POLO TEAM NAMED.

London, May 21.—Baron Wimborne has announced that Maj. J. Y. D. Bingham will not go to the United States with the English polo team which will play at Meadowbrook for the international polo trophy.

The English team will consist of Maj. F. W. Barrett, Capt. Leslie St. C. Cheape, Capt. H. A. Tomkinson, Capt. Vivian Lockette and Capt. John Trail, who is a native of Ireland, but who is playing here with the Argentine polo team.

NORTHERN LEAGUE

FARGO DOWNS CHAMPIONS; BOWERY COLLINS CHASED.

Fargo, N. D., May 21.—Sherrin pitched steady baseball yesterday and held the hittern of the champion Winona team safe in the pinches, the locals winning the final of the series by the count of 5 to 3. Schinzel, a new recruit, was on the mound for the visitors and was hit hard. Some sensational fielding. Schneider was ordered out of the game and Bowery Collins was sent from the grounds for kicking on the decisions of Umpire Tim Flood.

The score:			R.	H.	E.
Fargo	10200200x		5	10	2
Winona	00000100	2	3	6	0

Batteries—Sherrin, McLaughlin and Murphy; Schinzel and Schneider.

VIRGINIA WINS FINAL GAME FROM THE TWINS.

Virginia, Minn., May 21.—Wright was steady and effective today and Virginia won the final game of the series with Fort William by the score of 5 to 0. The locals bunched hits off of Furcher in the fourth and sixth innings. Only in these two rounds did the Ore Diggers find the curves of the visiting twirler to their liking. Nine of the visitors were whiffed by Wright. President John Burmeister of the Northern league was a spectator at the game.

The score:			R.	H.	E.
Virginia	00030200	0	5	8	1
Fort William	00000000	0	0	7	2

Batteries—Wright and Hargrove; Furcher, Rogge and Chapman.

FLICKERS WIN ERRATIC GAME FROM PEGGERS.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 21.—Winnipeg lost the closing game of the series to the locals yesterday by the score of 6 to 7. Dougan and Boley of the Peggers' staff were hit hard. Bud Moe being called to the mound to relieve the pair. Morse was on the hill for the Flickers and pitched fine ball, but received wretched support from his team mates.

The score:			R.	H.	E.
Winnipeg	02010021	000	6	6	1
G. Forks	02121	000001	7	14	7

Batteries—Dougan, Boley, Moe and Kurke; Morse and Peters.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Cubs 10; Phillies 5.

Chicago, May 21.—Chicago won the final game of the series yesterday 10 to 5. With the score tied in the eighth inning Zimmerman singled. Williams was hit by a pitched ball. Both advanced on Sweeney's sacrifice and Manager O'Day sent Schulte to bat for Corridon. Schulte grounded to Luderus, and on his wild throw to the plate, Zimmerman scored the winning run. Williams followed Zimmerman across and Chicago clinched the contest when Bresnahan singled and Leach got a home run.

Manager Dooin was ordered out of the game by Umpire Quigley because of an argument on balls and strikes in the second inning. Killifer, who replaced him, erred three times and each error figured in the scoring. Magee injured his ankle in Tuesday's game and was unable to play yesterday.

Score:			R.	H.	E.
Philadelphia	01002200	0	5	8	5
Chicago	20102005	x	10	8	4

Batteries—Oeschger and Dooin, Killifer; Pierce, Zabel and Bresnahan. Umpires—Quigley and Eason.

Dodgers 5; Cardinals 4.

St. Louis, Mo., May 21.—By bunching hits and through Dolan's error Brooklyn scored five runs in the eighth inning yesterday, enough to beat St. Louis 5 to 4.

Score:			R.	H.	E.
Brooklyn	00000005	0	5	7	1
St. Louis	03001000	0	4	10	2

Batteries—Allen, Pfeffer and McCarty, O. Miller; Robinson, Griner and Snyder. Umpires—Klem and Hart.

Giants 5; Reds 0.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 21.—Tesreau had the Cincinnati players at his mercy yesterday and New York won easily, 5 to 0. The hitting of Doyle, Merkle and Tesreau, and the fielding of Herzog enlivened the contest.

Score:			R.	H.	E.
New York	20001002	0	5	12	0
Cincinnati	00000000	0	0	5	1

Batteries—Tesreau and Meyers; Benton, Douglass, Leary and Clark, Gonzales. Umpires—Rigler and Emslie.

Pirates 4; Beans 1.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 21.—Boston errors and three long hits by Gibson, Carey and Leonard, won the game for Pittsburg yesterday 4 to 1. Luque, a Cuban, pitched a good game, but was accorded poor support. Cooper was effective at all stages. Carey was put out of the game for disputing a decision with Umpire Byron in the sixth.

Score:			R.	H.	E.

BIG JESS TO TRAIN HERE

Des Moines Swede Coming to Duluth to Complete Training.

Jess Reimer Westergaard, the gigantic Des Moines Swede who will endeavor to wrest the world's heavyweight title from Stanislaus Zbyszko at the Auditorium arena one week from tomorrow evening, is expected in the city within the next two days.

Promotor Tilton Lewis wired the Des Moines man to come on and finish up his training here. Manager Thorson stated that Jess would come on and would bring his wife to the Head of the Lakes and complete his work here.

In a letter that Lewis received yesterday, Thorson declares that never was the big Swede in better condition than at the present time.

"Before the match with Cutler," writes Thorson, "Westergaard trained as he never prepared for any contest in his life. We knew that Cutler was one of the greatest men in the world and that endurance and stamina would alone make Jess the winner. Zbyszko is the most enduring athlete in the world. Notice how quickly he has beaten most of the men he has wrestled, after the first fall. The Pole generally takes all of the fight out of his opponent in the first bout.

"It is this condition that we are preparing for. The Pole is so large that he tires out an opponent. The only way to beat Zbyszko is to mix with him and match endurance. I think the fans up there will see one of the best trained wrestlers in the world when Jess walks on to the mat."

The Match is for Title.

The coming contest is for the legitimate title left vacant by the retirement of Frank Gotch from the wrestling field. Zbyszko is the legitimate successor to the marvel of Humboldt, and the match to be fought out here is therefore for the title that was won by Gotch from George Hackenschmidt at the Drexel Park pavilion at Chicago.

Zbyszko will outweigh Westergaard as he has outweighed all of the men he has wrestled on this side of the pond, with the exception of Joe Rogers, the American, who wrestles at 270 pounds.

Westergaard's greatest chance, his only chance, it would seem, consists in outclassing the Pole in science. There is no man in the world stronger than Zbyszko, and there is no wrestler who possesses his marvelous powers of endurance.

Promotor Lewis has a number of men under consideration for referee. Frank E. Force of the Minneapolis Tribune, and Ed L. Shave of the St. Paul Daily News are being considered.

TY COBB INJURED.

Great Player Out of Game With Broken Rib.

Detroit, Mich., May 21.—A dispatch received last night from Boston says Ty Cobb, the Detroit outfielder, has a broken rib and will be out of the game for a week or ten days at least. The injury was received on Monday in the game with Boston when Foster hit Cobb with a pitched ball.

An X-ray examination disclosed the fracture. Although Cobb is in considerable pain, the break is said to be not serious and is expected to heal rapidly.

This is the first time in the Georgian's major league career that he has been out of the lineup because of an injury.

AMERICANS OUT OF GAME

Evans and Weber Last to Meet Defeat in England.

Present British Title Holder Beaten By Scots Golfer.

Sandwich, Eng., May 21.—Charles W. Evans, Jr., of Chicago, and Harold Weber of Toledo, the only American survivors in the fourth round of the British amateur golf championship, met defeat today at the hands of two Scotsmen, C. B. MacFarlane and Capt. Cecil K. Hutchison.

Harold H. Hilton, the holder of the title, shared their fate, being beaten by Edward Blackwell, another Scottish player.

Neither of the American looked like a winner at any period of today's match. Evans made a splendid effort in the last third of his round, but he had already handicapped himself too heavily. MacFarlane had virtually won at the turn, where he had secured a commanding lead of five up with a wonderful card of 31 for the nine holes. His play was uncannily perfect throughout.

Except for occasional hooked drives Evans played good enough golf, but few players could have lived against the machine-like precision of MacFarlane, who drove well, kept a good line and sent down ten, fifteen and twenty-yard putts without apparent effort.

Evans Makes Good Gain.

On the homeward journey, Evans started by winning the tenth, but he lost the next two. Then the American pulled himself together and scored hole after hole until he brought MacFarlane's lead down to three with three to go. The Chicagoan, however, lost the sixteenth and the match.

The defeat of Weber was equally conclusive Hutchison made the turn three up and the match ended at the fourteenth hole with the American player six down.

The fall of Hilton added immensely to Edward Blackwell's reputation. They were all square at the eleventh and again at the fifteenth. Blackwell took the sixteenth and seventeenth, winning the match.

Ouimet's defeat by the youthful player Tubbs of Littlestone yesterday was unexpected, and proved more of a surprise than Palmer's recent victory over Jerome D. Travers, for Tubbs is little known outside of Littlestone, which, however, is a first-class course. Tubbs was "scratch" there when he was 17 years old. He has won all the local competitions, but played in a championship match only once before, in 1910, when he was just beaten in the fourth round by John Graham, who last week won the St. George's grand challenge cup. Ouimet was off in his second and third shots today. His chief weakness lay in his failure to get distance in his approach, in which he was often short.

All the American players are planning to enter the French championship and except Travers, they will compete in the British open championship.

"Chick" Evans' mother was a most interested spectator of her son's playing yesterday. She followed him about the course.

AUTOISTS TO PLAN WORK

Secretary Mullin Calls First Meeting of Duluth Club.

A call has been issued by H. J. Mullin, secretary of the Duluth Auto club, for the first 1914 meeting, to be held at 8 o'clock this evening at the Commercial club. Plans for the year, including road improvements, signs for autoists, a membership campaign, the adopting of an official emblem, and the proposed publication of a monthly automobile journal will be taken up at the meeting.

Mr. Mullin said this morning that a committee will be appointed this evening to start a membership campaign among all the automobile owners of the city. It is hoped, he said, to secure about fifty more members and to then make preparations for endurance and reliability runs in and about Duluth the coming summer.

It is the desire of the club to have the roads surrounding Duluth placed in good shape for motoring and this question will also be taken up during the evening. Roderick Murchison, commissioner of public works, will be present at the meeting and he will be asked to take action in improving certain streets.

The adopting of a club emblem and the proposed publication of a monthly automobile paper for the members of the club will be discussed during the evening. Other matters to be taken up are the purchasing of a road drag to be used in conjunction with the work of the county commissioners and the purchasing of signs for the country surrounding Duluth as an aid for the members.

HIBBING IS VERY STRONG

Woodlands to Meet a Team of Star Baseball Players.

One of the fastest semi-professional baseball games played here in years is expected to result in the meeting between the crack Woodland team of this city and the Hibbing aggregation. The two teams will meet at Athletic park on Sunday.

Manager Mitchell of the Woodlands has had his team together for the last two years. On the suburban aggregation are some of the crack players of the city. Followers of the team believe that several of the Mitchell stars will be called to professional company within a year.

Young "Muggs" McGraw, brother of Frank McGraw of last year's White Sox, is one of the youngest players on the Woodland team and also one of the best. It was only a season or two ago that this kid was bat boy for the Dooks. Now he is one of the stars of the local field and there is the chance that he will get a trial with the Sox at the latter part of the season.

Big Sam Menlece is with the Woodlands and the terrific hitting of the onion grower of Woodland is expected to prove a factor in the downfall of the range team.

One of the most consistent hitters that ever played with a Duluth team, the lanky first baseman will make his debut before the fans for this season when he lines up against the team that is made up of some of the stars of the iron ore district.

While Hibbing is bringing a fast team here, according to all reports, local followers of the game are confident that the Woodlands will win.

With Menlece, Summers, McGraw, and with others of the stars of Duluth, the local team is believed to be strong enough to compete against stars of the class of Brookins, Booth, Williams, Carroll and Gelselman.

As most of the range boys have played in professional company, the game is expected to be one of the best semi-professional contests of the season.

AL PALZER TO FIGHT FULTON

Big Heavyweight Boxers to Clash Before Hudson Club.

Hudson, Wis., May 21.—On Friday night, May 22, Al Palzer and Fred Fulton, heavyweights, will clash in a 10-round mill at Hudson, Wis. All over the Northwest interest has been aroused over the contest.

Palzer is well known from his knockout of Bombardier Wells and his bout with the late Luther McCarty, a year ago New Year's day, when the two met in the finals of the white heavyweight championship out on the fair Pacific coast, in a battle which was finally stopped after eighteen rounds of milling.

Palzer has had numerous bouts all over the United States. He was matched to again meet Bombardier Wells in London, but the bout fell through. He was also matched to meet Jack Johnson in Paris, but the affair did not materialize.

Palzer and his manager, O'Rourke, went over to Europe, but after failing to get either match, returned to America. Palzer then contracted malaria, which kept him out of the ring for a year.

He has been conditioning himself in Minnesota for the last ten months, and declares he is fit and ready for another climb towards the top of the pugilistic ladder.

Jess Williard, Carl Morris and Gunboat Smith have challenged the winner, and one of the two who fight Friday may become the heavyweight champion.

Tommy Gibbons vs. Buck Crouse, the latter a classy middleweight from Pittsburg; Jack Doyle, New York featherweight, who recently beat Billy Defoe at Eau Claire, Wis., and Harry Coffey, St. Paulite, featherweights, will meet in an eight-round session.

THIRTY-TWO SURVIVE.

Play Resumes in the Metropolitan Golf Championship.

Englewood, N. J., May 21.—Play in the annual Metropolitan amateur golf championship tournament was resumed early today on the links of the Englewood Country club with thirty-two surviving aspirants for the title now held by Jerome D. Travers. The veteran Walter J. Travis of Garden City and Oswald Kirby of the local club, who led the field with scores of 148 and 150, respectively, in yesterday's medal play, were separated in the upper and lower brackets of the draw for the championship match play rounds today, and so were Max R. Marston, last year's interscholastic champion, and the former Yale player, Dwight Partridge, both of whom had cards of 73 in their first round yesterday.

With two rounds of 18-hole match play decided today the field will be reduced to eight men for the third round tomorrow.

WOMEN IN THE HUERTA ARMY

Take Prominent Part in the Fighting at Zartuche.

Several of the Captives Taken There Executed By Villa.

Estanchion, Amargos, Mexico, May 19.—Via El Paso, May 21.—The women who follow every Mexican army took a prominent part in the fight at Zartuche. As the Federal soldiers swarmed from the cars, some of the women dragged out and broke open boxes of ammunition, carrying the cartridges to the Federal soldiers in the face of the Constitutionalist fire. Others crouched on the iron roofs of the car, took up the rifles of the wounded and loaded and fired with all the coolness and determination of veterans.

A half dozen women made a desperate effort to bring a machine gun on one of the flatcars to bear on the Constitutionalist troops, but before they could swing the muzzle to bear and place the cartridge clips in position, the male soldiers had surrendered and the Constitutionalists had swarmed over the sides of the car.

Villa Is Cautious.

The announcement that no general advance of the Constitutionalist army under Gen. Francisco Villa will be made until the railroad between Paredon and Saltillo is repaired, is regarded here as a certain indication of the respect Villa holds for the fighting ability of the Federal garrison.

Despite the decisive advantage gained by the Constitutionalist troops in the engagement in the outskirts of Paredon and at Zartuche on Sunday, Gen. Villa has decided not to press forward to the main attack at once. He is unwilling that the Federals shall have as allies fatigue, thirst, heat and dust which must be encountered on a desert march of forty-five miles from Paredon and Fraustro to Saltillo.

Will Gain by Waiting.

By his determination to await the repair of the railroad to Saltillo he will be enabled to bring his troops into action fresh, well fed, with horses in good condition and with reserve supplies of ammunition available near the firing line.

The shortness of the battle with the Federals at Paredon and the small number of casualties are regarded here more as an evidence of the thoroughness of the surprise occasioned by Villa's attack and of the complete success of his plans of battle, than as an indication of faint-heartedness on the part of the Federals, and bad marksmanship. But forty-five men were killed on both sides, and about 110 wounded, although nearly 9,500 men were engaged, but no artillery or machine guns were in action, and the engagement lasted only forty-five minutes before the Federals' positions became untenable, and they took flight.

Some Captives Executed.

Juarez, Mexico, May 21.—The Federal Generals Miguel Alvarez and Ignacio Munoz were killed in the battle of Paredon, and two other generals and many of the former Federal officers were executed by the Constitutionalists after the battle, according to a copy of an official telegram from Gen. Villa to Gen Carranza, received here. The official report says:

"It is known the Generals Miguel Alvarez and Ignacio Munoz fell in the combat. Gen. Osorno and a good number of Federal officials were executed."

Regarding the fight at Zartuche the report says in part:

"There was captured also a general and thirty-two officials who composed his staff. All were executed immediately."

Seven prominent attorneys from Torreon, Saltillo and Monterey have been confined in jail there by Constitutionalist officers on charges of pernicious political activity, according to word which reached here. The names of the seven men, said to be well known throughout Northern Mexico, could not be learned.

The execution of Gen. Osorno and another general whose name was not given, together with thirty-two members of the unknown general's staff, and other Federal officers, indicates the bitterness with which the campaign is being waged about Saltillo. Gen. Osorno's advance in rank in the Federal army has been rapid.

Diaz's Nephew Killed.

Gen. Ignacio Munoz, who was killed in the battle at Paredon, was a nephew of Porfirio Diaz, former president of Mexico, and widely known in the official life of Mexico City.

Gen. Miguel Alvarez, also killed in the battle, began his military career as a second lieutenant in the army of Francisco Madero, with whom he is said to have been a favorite before the president met his death.

Gen. Guardiola, who was in command of the Federals, had been commandant at Piedras Negras, which he had been forced to evacuate after the occupation of Vera Cruz by American troops.

WANT EMBARGO ON ARMS RAISED.

Phoenix, Ariz., May 21.—Eight Mexicans who assert they are prominent Constitutionalists of Sonora, arrived here yesterday to ask Governor Hunt to use his influence with the president to have the embargo raised on arms. All say they have no connection with a company of local Mexicans who are said to be aiming to go to Mexico and fight with the Constitutionalists. Rumors are afloat here that a filibustering expedition to the border is being equipped in this locality.

REBELS SHELL FEDERAL BOATS.

Casa Blanca, Mexico, May 21.—Word has been received here that lighters attempting to land provisions at Mazatlan for the Federals, were effectively shelled by the rebels outside the city. As soon as the lighters turned shoreward the rebel guns began to blaze. Their aim was good and the shell fire continued to destruction. There was no report of the loss of lives.

PRIVATE PARKS IS FROM WABASH, IND.

Wabash, Ind., May 21.—Samuel Parks, the orderly believed to have been captured and executed by the Mexicans near Vera Cruz, was born on a farm seven miles from Wabash and lived there and in Wabash until he first enlisted in the army, when he was 18 years old.

CHANGE METHODS IN FOREIGN SERVICE.

Washington, May 21. — Sweeping changes in the methods of making appointments to the diplomatic service below the grades of ambassador and minister, and in the entire consular service, are proposed in a bill introduced by Senator Stone, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee. The bill, drawn by state department officials, is designed to put appointments in both services on much the basis of those to the army and navy.

MAYOR ISSUES ULTIMATUM.

Mill City Head Orders Ice Deliveries or Prosecution.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 21.—Mayor Wallace G. Nye yesterday issued an ultimatum to the only ice company, whose drivers are still on strike, that it must begin delivering ice to its customers at once, or drastic measures would be taken to prevent further suffering. The company is the largest in the city, and covers a large territory not reached by the other concerns.

Mayor Nye, before issuing the ultimatum had received an opinion from the city attorney's office that, while no law covered the case, there was at least precedent at Cincinnati, where the city seized the ice houses and made deliveries itself.

The company announced deliveries would begin today or the following day; that if the striking employes did not return to work, their places would be filled by new men.

Commissioner Murchison submitted a resolution declaring the necessity of and directing the condemnation of an alley through blocks 41, Duluth proper, Third division and blocks 135, 134 and 133, Duluth proper, Second division, from Eleventh to Fourteenth avenues east, which resolution was on motion referred to the city attorney for a report as to whether

MARKET HAS A REACTION

Wheat Breaks Sharply Under Pressure of Liberal Realizing Sales.

Flaxseed Closes Lower After Showing Strength at Opening.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 21.—The market was easy up to the close. May wheat closed 1⅛c off; July 1⅜c off, and September 1c off. May durum closed ¾c off and July ⅝c off.

Oats closed 1⅝c off at 38⅜c for on the track. Rye closed unchanged at 59½@61½c, and barley unchanged at 55@59c for choice stuff.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed at 38¾c bid, and July at 38½@38⅝c bid. Puts on Minneapolis July wheat closed at 92⅜@92½c asked, and calls at 93⅜@93½c bid.

Wheat reacted in today's market, substantially lower prices being recorded during the first three hours' trading. Bearish influences were furnished in reports of rains through Kansas and some other sections of the winter wheat territory, and it was felt that the Hessian fly damage reports had been overworked. Traders were also of the opinion that yesterday's advance at the close at Chicago had been engineered with the object of driving the shorts to cover.

It was intimated that Armour and other interests were heavy sellers there, and there was good selling on the part of the commission houses.

In support of the holders' position, however, there came reports of the appearance of the Hessian fly in sections of Ohio and Indiana.

Liverpool was firm on reports of continued unfavorable weather in Russia and light Argentine offers. Advices from New York were to the effect that foreigners were offering to resell Manitobas and No. 2 hard wheat. That situation, however, changed somewhat later, a Duluth house reporting the working of a fair volume of export business on the decline.

With a spread of 9c between May and July wheat at Chicago, the congested condition of the market in the early option is emphasized. Dealers down there are said to be scouring the country for grain to make delliveries. That is evidenced in the liberality of their receipts during the last few days. Arrivals at that point today were 234 cars as compared with a year ago. While this is going on at Chicago, Minneapolis receipts are being cut down. They amounted to 74 cars today against 178 a year ago. Stocks at that point show a decrease of 1,100,000 bu in the last five days.

May wheat opened ¼c off at 96¼c and declined ⅝c more up to the final hour. July opened unchanged at 96¾c and broke 1½c, and the September option opened unchanged at 91⅜c and declined ⅞c. Trading in durum was limited, and was confined to the July option. It opened unchanged at 91c and weakened ¾c.

Flaxseed Turns Easy.

Strength in flaxseed developed at the start on estimates that the area seeded to the crop in Montana would show a decrease, whereas an increase had been predicted up to the present. The market eased up later with liberal offerings, and closing prices showed moderate declines in the day.

Business was largely monopolized by the July option.

It being Ascension day, the foreign markets were closed with the exception of London. The close there was ⅝c up.

May flaxseed closed ¼c off at $1.55¾ asked. The July option opened unchanged at $1.57⅞, and closed ¼c off at $1.57⅞ asked. September opened at $1.59¾ asked, and closed ¼c unchanged at $1.59¾ and closed ¼c off at $1.59½ bid. October opened ½c up at $1.58 and closed ¼c off at $1.57½ asked.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed at $1.36⅝ bid and July at $1.39¼ bid.

MARKET GOSSIP.

A cargo of 300,000 bu. of oats, recently bought at Winnipeg for shipment to Chicago is reported to have been sold back to an operator in the Canadian city at a good profit. The oats will remain at Winnipeg. This transaction is taken to illustrate the present strong situation in coarse grains.

Parker Paine had the following from Chicago: "Wheat—On the whole the advices on Hessian fly damage to the winter wheat crop were about the same as yesterday as for two days previous, but the general trade and the country begin to take more stock in the damage already done and the possibility of further lowering of the harvest promise. Cash wheat prices are keeping pace with futures. Brokers are of the opinion that certain interests supply the trade with liberal quantities of long wheat on the swells, but the offerings were well absorbed yesterday and the top prices made later. The conditions suggest a conservative buyer's position on natural reactions."

At Minneapolis the cash demand was quiet and prices easier compared with futures. Choice wheat was steady and the demand firm. One hard wheat sold at 5 cents over July; blue stem No. 1 northern, 2c to 4c over, and velvet chaff 1½c to 2c over. There was no flour business to speak of. Cash one northern wheat sold there at from 94⅜c to 94¾c; and No. 2 northern at from 92¾c to 95¼c.

B. W. Snow wired from Ellsworth, Kan.: "Drove 150 miles today through five counties. Saline and Ottawa, with an acreage of 250,000 acres have the fly attack, with probably 25 per cent damage already shown. In Mitchell, Ellsworth and Lincoln with 416,000 acres I could see no serious fly presence.

"Wheat on high land is badly overpastured, and is heading low with short heads, not vigorous and needing rain. Warm weather now would quickly hurt. The general prospect of the whole district covered is distinctly going backward, but will still make a crop above the average if the weather continues good. On May 1 Kansas promised a perfect crop."

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat was influenced by strong American cables and unfavorable crop advices. Shorts covered and opening values were ¼d higher. An additional gain of ⅛d was registered on reading American and Canadian offers, strength in spots and less favorable weather reports from Russia. Holidays in the Continental markets restricted business somewhat. At 1:30 p. m. the undertone was firm and the market ¼d to ⅜d higher.

"Corn opened ½d to ½d higher on the reports of general rains in Argentina and firmness of spot. Following the opening, July gained an additional ½d on short covering, but profit-taking developed and prices declined ¼d on freer and cheaper European offers, and the closing easiness in Buenos Aires. At 1:30 p. m. the market was irregular and unchanged to ½d higher."

General rains continued in Argentina last night and grain is being unfavorably affected. Stocks continue to decrease.

* * *

Good rains were reported in the Azov district, Russia. There have been continuous general rains since Saturday.

* * *

Liverpool cabled: "Spot wheat unchanged to ½d higher; corn unchanged. Plate offers are still very light and are dearly held, but European offers are larger, with the Danube selling more freely."

* * *

Argentine shipments this week are estimated at: Wheat, 1,400,000 bu; corn, 2,125,000 bu.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Is Bearish Owing to Rain and Cool Weather.

Chicago, May 21.—Rain at various points with a chance of further moisture and coolness had a bearish effect today on the wheat market. The conditions promised some relief from the spread of Hessian fly damage. Greatly increased selling pressure caught the pit almost bare of orders to buy. After opening ⅞c off to ⅛c up quotations sagged all around.

Favorable crop reports which came from the western half of Kansas made the weakness more pronounced. The close was heavy 1¼ to 1⅞c under last night.

Corn receded with wheat and because demand lacked volume. Prices started ⅜@½c down to ½c advance and then suffered a general decline.

The fact that country offerings were less generous than of late acted as a check on the bears. The close was weak, ½c to ⅞c net lower.

Prospect of ending dry weather complaints tended to ease the oats market. Buying, however, was active whenever prices showed decided weakness.

Relative scarcity of hogs gave steadiness to provisions. First sales were unchanged to 5c higher and the market seemed disposed to hold within that range.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Is Bearish on Crop Damage Stories and Low Demand.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 21.—What was lower here today. Denials of Hessian fly damage in the Southwest and a decreased cash demand had a bearish effect on the market all morning. There was also considerable selling by shorts. Excellent weather conditions in the Northwest was reported from all over the district.

Wheat—May, opened 93½c; high, 93½c; low, 92¾c; closed, 92¾c. July opened 94c; high, 94c; low, 93c; closed 93c. No. 1 hard, 98c. No. 1 northern, 94½c to 97c; to arrive, 94½c to 95½c; choice to arrive, 96½c; No. 2 northern, 93½c to 95c; to arrive, 93c to 94c; No. 3 wheat, 91c to 92½c.

Corn—No. 3 yellow, 67½c to 68c. No. 3 white oats, 38¾c to 38¾c. Flax, $1.53¾ to $1.55¾.

While shipping directions on old contracts were fairly good, millers reported flour sales quiet today. Prices unchanged. Shipments, 44,200 barrels.

Barley, 43 to 56c. Rye, 59½ to 62c. Bran, unchanged.

London Stocks.

London, May 21.—American securities were quiet and steady during the early trading. Later the list declined on Wall street selling. The close was lifeless.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Market Becomes Distinctly Reactionary in the Final Hour.

Pressure Upon Leaders, Particularly Steel and Amalgamated.

New York, May 21.—Recurrent dullness accompanied by general heaviness was the feature of today's early stock market. Most of the representative issues registered material fractional declines on light offerings, thus following the lead of London, where our securities again manifested a dropping tendency. In fact, the foreign situation has once more assumed serious proportions, particularly in Paris, private advices from that center suggesting general over-extension in Russian and South American shares.

Little or no change from the opening occurred during the morning session. Some stock made slight recovery while others fell back from sheer inertia. Many of the semi-active issues were not quoted at all. Missouri-Pacific lost almost a point and receivership rumors were revived. United States Steel, Reading, Lehigh Valley, New Haven and Amalgamated were under pressure, but Reading soon regained its loss. A sale of Western Maryland preferred at 35, a decline of 15 points from its previous price was recorded. Express stocks were fairly active and higher except Adams, which lost 2 points. Bonds were irregular.

The apathy of the morning was followed by complete stagnation in the afternoon. The extent of the dullness may be judged by the fact that there was absolutely no trading in such stocks as Atchison, Louisville & Nashville, Norfolk and St. Paul for the first two-thirds of the session. London sold a few thousand shares here, but the holidays in Paris and Berlin naturally restricted foreign operations. Further transfers of currency to the Pacific coast were reported and still higher rates for foreign exchange pointed quite clearly to Europe's insistent demand for our gold.

The market closed heavy. After a protracted period of dullness today's market became distinctly reactionary in the final hour when lowest prices were made. Pressure upon the leaders, particularly Steel and Amalgamated, caused general sympathetic declines.

MINING STOCKS UNDER PRESSURE

The market in mining stocks at Boston was dull today and small declines were general through the list under pressure of liquidation in some issues.

Butte & Superior again absorbed a considerable proportion of the trading. The stock met with fair support, and it closed with a decline of just 50 cents.

Alaska Gold closed 63 cents down at $27.75; Calumet & Arizona 50 cents up at $67; Granby unchanged at $82; North Butte 38 cents off at $26.62; Shattuck unchanged at $24.50; and Amalgamated Copper 62 cents off at $72.12.

In the Duluth curb list, Calumet & Sonora sold at 71 cents and Calumet & Corbin at 30 cents.

East Butte produced in April 1,178,080 pounds of copper 30,125 ounces of silver and 191 ounces of gold.

On April 30, East Butte paid off $100,000 on its indebtedness, leaving a balance of $500,000.

* * *

According to a report from Boston Butte & Superior interests are in negotiation for the control of the Success company owning the largest zinc producer in the Couer d'Alene district in Idaho. All examinations of the property have been made.

* * *

At St. Louis: Spelter closed easy at $4.97½, and lead at $3.82½@3.85.

Calumet & Hecla has declared a quarterly dividend of $5, payable June 20, to stock of record May 22. This is the same rate as at the last quarter.

* * *

Paine, Webber & Co., had the following from New York: "It seems to be the general understanding that the decision of the Eastern rate cases will be handed down next Monday and growing out of same there is an incentive for a renewal of constructive operations in the stock market especially if crop prospects are not blighted to a much greater extent, and if Washington occurrences do not again become disturbing."

* * *

Copper metal reported is firm, at 14¼ cents a pound. First hand sellers report a good business for foreign and domestic accounts at that figure, and several agencies who have sold ahead for sixty days have withdrawn their 14½ cents quotation. European and American consumers are in the market, and if the buying continues, it is considered likely that the price for electrolytic will be advanced to a 14⅜-cent basis.

D. H., April 23, 30. May 7, 14, 21, 1914.

Default has been made in the conditions of a mortgage containing a power of sale, executed and delivered by Charles Evans Holt and Rebecca E. Holt, his wife, mortgagors, to William M. Hubbard, mortgagee, bearing date the 6th day of July, 1912, duly filed in the office of the Registrar of Titles in and for the County of St. Louis and State of Minnesota, on the 9th day of July, 1912, at 2:30 o'clock P. M. and registered as Document Number nine thousand and six hundred sixty-one (9661), and said mortgage was then in fact so registered and a memorial thereof was then duly entered upon the certificate of title to the land affected by said mortgage, which land, upon the date of said mortgage, was, and is now, registered and said certificate of title thereto appears in Volume 4 at page 209 in said office and is numbered 944. Said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one principal note for $4,500.00 and six interest coupons representing the several installments of interest on said principal note. Said mortgage contains a provision that should default be made in any of the provisions of said mortgage, or in the payment of interest thereon, or the taxes on the premises therein described, the holder of said note may declare the principal due and may sell said premises agreeably to the statute in such case made and provided, and whereas default has been made in the payment of the sum of eighty-two dollars and forty-one cents $(82.41) interest, evidenced by the interest coupon which became due January 6th, 1914, and the same remains unpaid at the date of this notice, and default has been made in the payment of the taxes for the year 1912, and the same remains unpaid at the date of this notice, the holder of said mortgage hereby declares the principal note due. The amount claimed to be due and which is actually due at the date of this notice is the sum of $4,710.41. No action at law or otherwise has been commenced for the recovery of the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof. Notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz.:

Lots one hundred one (101), one hundred three (103), one hundred five (105), one hundred seven (107) and one hundred nine (109), in Block thirty-four (34), Duluth Proper, Third Division, according to the recorded plat thereof on file and of record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said County and State, in St. Louis County, in the State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said St. Louis County, at his office in the Court House, in the City of Duluth, in said County and State, on the 26th day of June, 1914, at 10 o'clock A. M. on that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of $4,710.41 and interest and taxes, if any, on said premises, and $75.00 attorneys' fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

Dated, May 14th, 1914.

FARM AND FRUIT LANDS

SUMMER RESORT PROPERTY.

We have one of the finest and prettiest natural summer resort properties to be had in this Northern country. Four men engaged for the summer beautifying it by cutting roads and graveling them; it will have roads just like your city parks. A caretaker engaged for the year taking care of boats and buildings for the property owners. We will build you your cabin at a nominal fee, pay for the whole on the monthly plan. Lots cost from $75 to $195 each. The North Star Gun club has its clubhouse across the lake from us, and several cottages belonging to Eastern people in the neighborhood. We can arrange to take buyers up any day, 51 miles from Duluth, 7 miles from Tamarack, Minn. Located on the shore of Lake Minnewawa, Sheshebe Point. Sundays, the 17th, 24th and 31st, we leave on the N. P. at 7:50 a. m. Make the trip if interested; you will never regret the expenditure. It will be a pleasant trip, anyway. Bring along your fishing tackle.
